In 1975, Swiss recluse Billy Meier stunned the world when he released an image of what appears to be a UFO zooming past a tree. The image is crystal clear and had UFO enthusiasts convinced it is evidence of extraterrestrials visiting Earth. Mr Meier has subsequently claimed that he has been in constant contact with aliens and is now the subject of new research which states that Mr Meier's claims are indeed true.

Paranormal theorist Michael Horn claims to have conducted hundreds of interviews with employees from the likes of NASA as part of his research and says he has conclusive proof that the Swiss man was being truthful.

As part of the research, Mr Horn spoke to NASA-USGS scientist Ken Herkenhoff, with the latter telling him: "I should say that I have long hoped that we have or will be contacted by advanced civilisations and that we could learn from them, and that the statistics of potentially habitable planets in our galaxy suggests that there are probably many advanced civilisations."

Mr Horn claims to have "found over 250 examples of specific, previously unknown scientific information that Meier published", according to a press release.

The new research states Mr Meier claims to have had information provided to him by aliens "about every planet in the solar system, as well as black holes, the speed of gravity, the impending threat posed by asteroid Apophis, and terrestrial environmental, seismic and volcanic events".

Billy Meier's UFO photo has become iconic among alien enthusiasts

As a result, Mr Horn, who will present his research at the 'Contact in the Desert' UFO festival, says aliens have been warning Mr Meier about the fate of humanity.

He said: "While Meier's evidence is certainly extraordinary, the term itself is prejudicial. Wasn't it once 'extraordinary' to claim that the earth moved around the sun?"

"Testing any claims using scientific methodologies will determine the actual facts. The internet allows anyone to examine Meier's evidence, check copyright dates, etc., and use today's state-of-the-art software - not available until decades after Meier took his UFO photos – to analyse and authenticate his evidence.

"If deemed genuine, we are now confronted with the most important – and unexpected – discovery in science and human history, the confirmed existence of, and ongoing contact with, intelligent extraterrestrial life.

"Should that be the case, we will want to pay particular attention to the warnings they have provided about coming environmental, geopolitical and financial events that may threaten our future survival.

"And I think this may be the underlying reason for the Meier contacts".

Also, this portion of the statement by Sean Martin is incorrect: "Paranormal theorist Michael Horn claims to have conducted hundreds of interviews with employees from the likes of NASA as part of his research...", as I have never made such a claim.
