BELIEF ADDICTION DISEASE

Spring-Summer 2022

WHAT IS BELIEF? "Belief is not evidence, but simply something that is assumed to be kind, desirable and right, without any provable content of truth; consequently, a belief can never be powerful in evidence, because of the fact that the provable truth is missing" - Billy Meier at 14, Basic Rules of Man

WHAT IS GOD? "Fundamentally, god is an invention of the human being, i.e. of the human brain, wherewith, in the human being, over millions of years, the imaginary divinity has been inherited in a form of schizophrenic, epileptic delusion and has established itself in the temporal lobes as well as in the parietal lobes. Religious experiences which arise therewith constitute forms of schizophrenic delusion and are the result of a genetically inherited religious belief." - Billy Meier, God Delusion and God-Delusion Insanity

KNOWLEDGE AND BELIEF: "And to freedom of belief also belongs freedom of knowledge. Consequently the right must be conceded to all those human beings who distance themselves from any opinion and from any belief, and only lead their lives according to knowledge about the effectively real truth - as those who have knowledge in regard to reality and its truth, and as followers of the Creational-natural laws and recommendations." - Billy Meier, God Delusion and God-Delusion Insanity.

As of 31st December 2021, 9,248,028,002 human beings constitute the Earth's population, and four-fifths profess a belief in one of the six world religions or in one of the sects which have emerged from them; there are some 4,300 religions

PTAAH "The religious and sectarian belief in God is based on a pathological delusion, which corresponds to a very widespread schizophrenic form. This delusion is also known also to be hereditary and is establishes itself in the temporal lobes, from where it drives its delusional based via the brain and consciousness as well as via the world of thoughts, feeling world, and world of the psyche..."

"Whoever does not want to grasp the truth with his intellect, but by faith, cannot harvest the fruit from it", - Billy, OM Kanon 53:26

PTAAH "The religiously schizophrenic belief in God, which without exception corresponds to a delusion, also influences the activity of the heart and all organs in general, thus of course also the blood pressure and the blood flow through the bloodstream, which logically also affects the brain. Thus it also results that the brain is actually less supplied with blood than in human beings who are not subject to a belief in God, idols or any other religious or sectarian belief. In the case of religious or sectarian beliefs, i.e. delusions, the centre of perception is also largely switched off, because the pathological-schizophrenic delusion of faith suppresses orientation with regard to actuality i.e. reality. This means that the orientation centre is also largely switched off and irritated by the power of the delusion. But if the sense of orientation and perception is disturbed or even largely switched off, as in religious belief, then the boundary between the inner and outer world flickers and can no longer be controlled. As a result, the shapes of both sides become so blurred that the boundary between the real and the unreal becomes blurred and thus reality can no longer be perceived. As a result, the believing human being loses himself irrevocably in his delusion, through which false, confused and unreal thoughts and feelings as well as such psyche movements make the delusional person believe that he is in absolute harmony with something completely unreal divine, which is wrongly assumed to be reality. The whole thing becomes especially apparent when religious delusional believers perform prayers, read or study so-called 'holy' scriptures, or when they represent or also discuss their faith and religion in writing or in conversations." - PTAAH, Contact Report 492

YANARARA: "In summary, the ominous fact arises that through the religious and sectarian faith of Earth humanity in a Creator God and all the further holy figures imagined in connection with this faith, a dangerous and powerful energy of faith has arisen to which the entire Earth humanity, addicted to a faith in God, has fallen prey and is helplessly at the mercy of this energy. This dangerous energy of faith, which we have only been able to detect and recognise after about three decades, and which impairs the intellect, reason and intelligence, prevents the Earth human beings from any possibility of a real capacity for thought with regard to the ability to grasp an impulse for a logical train of thought worthy of consideration with regard

...to a recognition, grasp and understanding of the fundamental reality and truth of all existential values given by Creation. This means that every Earth human being who is addicted to a religious or sectarian belief is dominated by a conceit and a delusion from which he can no longer free himself as a result of a blockage triggered by the delusion. Consequently, as a will-less slave to his delusional belief in God, he is forced by it to engage in thoughtful searching and research neither with effective reality, reality, nor with the only truth of reality given in it. Every kind of faith corresponds to a thoughtlessly adopted assumption of a speech act with regard to a statement, assertion and affirmation, etc., which demands a compelling assurance with the claim to an agreement, which claims a contradictionless, unhesitating and compellingly demanding validity with regard to the content of the uttered statement, assertion and affirmation, etc., and which, moreover, permits neither a questioning and examination, nor a diverse exchange of opinion or doubt. But this means nothing other than that the human being is forced to conform to an imagination and thus to a delusion or delusion of faith, whereby he has to bow to a forced faith and deal with it. This faith then stirs him up in consciousness to such an extent that an urge develops in him from it, which compulsorily and permanently drives him steadily to deeper faith and demands that he go on and on with his delusion of faith, against which he can no longer defend himself, because his faith has already become an irretrievable delusion, from which he can no longer free himself, but sinks deeper and deeper into it until he is without salvation, and detachment from the delusion of faith is no longer possible, and he even goes to his death for it, because he is driven to it by the delusion of faith, which makes him believe that his faith is the truth. YANARARA - Contact Report 765

But it is frightening how people turn away from bearing their responsibility and rely more and more on religious or semi-religious prayers and hope that a God or a heavenly Father actually exists, who hears prayers and helps people in their need. In their faith, they hope for help that will never come. People who have fallen into a religious or sectarian faith - which corresponds to a hereditary disease and is at work in the temporal lobes and in the posterior parietal lobe - cannot and do not want to recognize and do not want to understand that they are in truth themselves God and consequently responsible for everything and anything that comes near to them and affects them.- Billy Contact Report 420

PTAAH "...with regard to a religious or even religious-sectarian belief, that this affects the genes and, from this side, acts so strongly on the decisive temporal lobe that the belief cannot be acted against. The once established belief exerts such a compelling power over intellect and rationality that these are simply immobilized and rendered inoperable. This means that the human being, if he or she has fallen prey to a religious belief, is no longer master of his or her senses with regard to decision-making ability concerning the belief and all its connections. Thus, no thoughts based on intellect or rationality can be maintained anymore because of the belief, with regard to this itself as well as regarding all of that which is connected with it, because the religious belief makes the human being extensively biased and it's slave. Consequently, he or she moves unconsciously at every moment in his or her belief, namely with underlying anxiety in case he or she thinks or does something against his or her belief. And if corresponding feelings also arise from the unconscious thoughts of anxiety, then the human being gets bogged down even more in his or her belief and finds no way to free him or herself from it. Thus, he or she is not able to act in accordance with the given truth, because belief can hold his or her thoughts and feelings by force." - PTAAH, Talmud Jmmanuel page LXXII

What can be done consciously against the effects of beliefs of all kinds?

"A religious, sectarian or other belief with regard to anything that can very well be reduced and ended if it is approached in such a way that the belief contents are considered and this means that if the human being considers and analyzes his or her belief contents consciously and neutrally then he/she does nothing to impair his or her belief. He/she only looks at it and analyzes it, without a thought in mind that he/ she wants to free him or herself from it. Through the conscious and neutral looking at and analyzing of the belief content, however, many things and facts will be recognized which does not agree with reality and it's truth; consequently, on the other hand, the reason for it will be sought, which is consciously analyzed consciously and neutrally recognized as not consistent with the reality and its truth. If this is done consciously and neutrally, then more facts of the reality and its truth will be steadily gathered, which leads to the fact that more and more fallibilities in the belief become recognized, resulting in a preponderance of the facts with regard to reality and it's truth. Thereby these come more and more to the forefront of the thought-world and feeling-world as well as of the intellect and rationality, while the belief and it's false content get more and more into the background and slowly ebb away. Thereby the belief ultimately vanishes completely, and the human being consciously begins to live in the world of the reality and it's truth and in complete freedom from belief-enslavement." - Billy, Talmud Jmmanuel page LXXIV

"The person ruined by a religious or sectarian belief does not rely on himself, not on his own energy and strength, and not on his own ability; rather, he cowardly searches for all of these values in a God and in his faith because he has no confidence in himself and in his abilities and possibilities, for he only expects these of his God. - Billy, thefutureofmankind.co.uk, Faith (Belief) and God

"The joy of the human being who is turned to the Creation consists in attesting his/her veneration to the creational and to the Creational; this by accepting the all-mighty will in the Creational laws and by making the absolute distinctness of these laws one's own destiny and by beneficially evaluating them.

He/she expresses his/her dedication to the laws through the learning and utilisation of all spiritual and subconscious-based facts, but never through belief, assumptions, serving, and submissiveness"
