45. So, from the group and their small groups, the Earth humans will be served up deliberately false and fear-influencing stories in regard to extraterrestrial UFOs and foreigners to Earth and their alleged horrifying machinations like, for example, painful examination contacts and animal massacres along with falsified encounters with alleged extraterrestrials.

46. Along with profit, the whole matter also serves deeply-based psychological propaganda in order to insult forms of life who are foreign to Earth and to brand them as malicious beings and to create angst, hate, revenge and hysteria because great financial means will be thereby freed up which serve research for the production of innovative and futuristic weapons of all kinds.

47. Therefore, in these Earth humans, in regard to the extraterrestrial, an enemy will be psychologically, deliberately created which does not exist and which will, in a manner, be made into a malicious being such that the Earth humans, in their angst, will be driven to freeing up horrendous sums in order to therewith manufacture weapons against the alleged malicious invaders.

48. Also, with these acts, various groups play off against each other, which, however, is part of a well-thought-out plan which is carried out and implemented by secret services, psycho-terrorists, espionage groups and treacherous disinformation agents and which is underpinned by false information regarding UFOs and alleged extraterrestrials.

49. Additionally belonging to this plan is the invention of an imaginary extraterrestrial enemy, as well as a danger emerging from this – an enemy and a danger which, naturally, will have to be fought.

50. The infamy is thereby that, first of all, everything is made ridiculous because the concerned "abductees", "examinees", "chance contactees" and UFO-observers can provide no evidence for their experiences which would withstand a real examination.

51. Then comes the second fact, which exists in the fact that angst, terror, hate and feelings of revenge is produced in the Earth humans whereby then the weapons industry can be built up and indeed especially in regard to futuristic weapons, of which the normal Earth humans have no idea, and of which they do not ever dare to dream.

52. The entirety is thereby a well-thought-out psychological network on which the progress of the entire weapons industry and the power of the military, of the federal leadership, the finance sharks and the industry businesses as well as the secret services can be built up ever further.

53. To this end angst, terror, hysteria, hate and revenge is sown in regard to all foreigners from outer space.

54. So the Earth humans become duped and financially exploited by the responsible ones of this dangerous group and their small groups and are deliberately driven to abhor and to hate the extraterrestrial foreigners.

55. Corresponding cinema and television films serve as especially suitable means for that.

56. The foreigner-angst, respectively, alien-angst, which is thereby produced surpasses all normal angst and the responsible ones of the group know that precisely, for which reason they can also thereby calculate that all necessary finances flow to them, which they require for their weapon research, their weapon manufacture, their leading of wars, and desires for power, as well as for unrealistic cinema and TV films which demonize the Earth-strangers.

57. The creation of an supposed threat from extraterrestrials as well as the alien-angst is, for them, a profitable matter which is operated under the shabby cloak of a federal, respectively, country security and of world peace.

58. For the entire machinations of the group, the meanest machinations are quite good enough which, as said, were already operating since the 1920s and to that also belong highly developed electronic weapons systems, futuristic flying discs, Earth humans who are hypnotically and surgically converted, as well as converted in their consciousness, to robots*, whereby some have an appearance like the being which is called the "Little Grey".

59. On one hand there is the dim-witted paradox that the extraterrestrial flying devices are denied and the strangers to Earth are made ridiculous or made out to be monsters by means of psychological propaganda, while, on the other hand, a financial exploitation of the peoples results through the inciting of angst, terror, hate and revenge and indeed thereby in that a simulation results in regard to a supposed threat from extraterrestrials.

60. A paradox without compare, to which the question must be put, how far are the Earth humans imbued with reason and understanding that they do not recognise this paradox.

61. The entire pre-arranged game of the group and their small groups, as already said elsewhere, also includes faked encounters with alleged extraterrestrials, whereby these are truly nothing other than normal Earth humans or those who have been transformed into "aliens".

62. In order then to affirm the improvised "encounters with those foreign to Earth" psychologists and other experts are pulled in into whom the wildest stories are hammered for so long until they believe the entire swindle and nonsense and employ "verifiable" and "genuine" analyses which are recorded and published in books and documentation as well as in cinema and TV films.

63. And since, as a rule, the supposed extraterrestrials are described as horrible villains, just according to the plan of the group and their small groups, the picture of the extraterrestrial threat is powerfully incited.

64. Thereby, not only is the slandering in regard to the real strangers to Earth always more exaggerated, as also more and more finances flow into the cash box of those who stupidly and dimwittedly earn as a result of the entire tissue of lies and slander and thereby come by the means to reach their criminal goals.

65. A certain part of the group has also fallen to a Christian sectarianism and to the supposed "End Times" in such a way that hope is directed at a malicious invasion of extraterrestrials resulting on Earth, and thereby the prophesied Armageddon will become reality in which Jesus Christ celebrates his official return and God the father will exercise his judgment.

66. Their delusion is therefore bound with a biblical end of the world, which, as they believe, rests on the terrible badness of the Earth humans.

67. And in order to accelerate this divine judgement as well as the return of Christ they do everything in order to make the way free for that.

68. The monstrous power of the worldwide group and their small groups as well as the religious fanaticism, together with the cultic maintaining of the secret of the entire underhanded, degenerated and deceptive as well as criminal and felonious machinations, lead to malignant effects which could not be worse.

69. These are the facts which I have to name in regard to your question.

https://www.futureofmankind.co.uk/Billy_Meier/Contact_Report_443

Billy:

... On the 17th of February 2005, Quetzal and I talked privately about the conspiracy books of various scribblers, such as Zacharia Sitchin, David Icke, Jan van Holey alias Jan van Helsing as well as Andreas von R tyi and others. ...

Ptaah:

5. All in all, these kinds of nonsensical writings are commercially oriented to make the ruble roll, as you say, so that the scribblers – if I want to use your expression – can fill their pockets with money.

6. The whole of all the conspiracy theories described in all the countless books are based on sheer nonsense, as are the writings in books containing supernaturalism and assertions about the alleged infiltration of earthly governments by extraterrestrials.

7. Conspiracy theories of all kinds, as well as supernatural, occult and esoteric nonsense, are in great demand among the believers in these drivel.

8. In fact, all the many books of this kind are based on silliness, senselessness, folly, as well as blooming and higher nonsense, as you always say so aptly.

Billy:

If you will allow me to interrupt, I have a few other terms for the whole thing, such as noble baloney, bullshit, hooey, stupidity and folly, torchlight, ridiculousness, simple-mindedness, gibberish, folly and folly, etc. I would also like to say that, with regard to all this nonsense, there are special bookstores which, for good money, bring the rubbish books among the people, from whom the roaring rubbish is eaten like hot cakes. With very many people on earth the unreal, untrue, fantastic, occult, esoteric, religious, sectarian, supposedly supernatural and supernatural is not only considered to be more than truth and reality, but effectively everything.

Ptaah:

9. These are all good terms I will remember.
10. And your explanation hits the truth.
11. Furthermore, these humans are sectarian and esoteric, as well as occult and supernatural, and move in their thoughts and feelings, as well as in their delusional beliefs, in illusory worlds and other unreal imaginings.
12. The entirety of this matter of faith and fantasies has developed into a delusion in them which already moves in schizophrenic forms, whereby they no longer perceive the truth and reality and consequently also can no longer recognise it.
13. And in this delusional form they infiltrate the humans with their absurdities which they imagine and also adopt them from other scribblers which you call 'abkupfern'. [copying?]
14. Thereby the readers of the entire nonsense are seduced to believably accept the lies, slanders, the swindle and the fantasies of these irresponsible scribblers as truth while they assess the reality and the real truth as unrealistic, unreal and as untruth.
15. Belief is just very much simpler than investigating the effective truth through one's own seeking and one's own cognitive work.
16. Furthermore the fantastic and illusory will sooner be accepted by the Earth-humans than even the truth and reality which appears banal compared to the fantastic and illusory.
17. Therefore it is so that standing on the firm ground of the facts, truth and reality is proscribed while the untruthful, fantastic, and illusory and all the swindling, lies, deceit and slander which is bound with it – which, since time immemorial, have always been booming business – effect the Earth-humans like sweet balm which stills the delight and demand for that which is fantastic and illusory.
18. So lying, swindle, falsehoods, deceit and slander are means through which the human allows himself to be very easily beguiled, because everything is only swallowed and does not have to truthfully be contemplated, while the search for the effective truth and its processing is bound with very much effort and cognitive work as well as with a sense for the recognition of reality.
19. However the irresponsible scribblers – who invent the crazy and unreal as well as unrealistic conspiracy theories, copy the entire nonsense from each other and throw everything to their believers as fodder, and therewith earn much money – know exactly that.
20. That is also the case with the books of the hacks named by you who, without conscience, spread their horrendous nonsense of their dim-witted conspiracy theories and thereby lead their faithful readers into error, convey to them a completely wrong picture of the world and hound them into angst and terror.
21. The books named by you by David Icke, as well as, however, also the books of Zacharias Sitchin, van Helsing and of Rëtyi belong just as much in the realm of the nonsense and feeble-mindedness of illusory and fantasy-rich conspiracy theories as also do other similar kinds of works which, if I may use your words, must be labelled as sheer idiocy and schizophrenic delusional imaginings.
22. Truthfully, from the complete contents there are no things at all to name which could be designated facts of truth and reality because basically it deals with nothing other than freely invented fantasies and illusions which are irresponsibly given a coating of truth in order to thereby take those Earth-humans into their power who believe the dim-witted nonsense and allow themselves to be taken prisoner by it.
23. From the entire exposition of all books of such a kind no letter may be considered as true because everything is only built on deception, lies, deceit, slander, fantasies and illusions which also applies to the supposed reptoid beings or reptilian humans.
24. Such kinds of beings are pure inventions of the scribblers because they thereby connect the evil and want to thereby transmit the impression of the evil and diabolical, whereby the Earth-humans are driven to angst and terror which naturally again has its effect on the numbers of sales of the books and brings in great profit.

25. Reptoid, respectively, reptilian beings, as these are described in the nonsensical books, exist even less in the entire universe than they do in other dimensions of this universe, so however, also not on the Earth – also not in forms of transmuted humans.

26. It also corresponds to a lie that such extraterrestrial beings, or other kinds, have lived on the Earth since time immemorial or since more recent times and are even active in the governments, because assertions which claim that it is true, indeed, correspond to the crazy fantasies, illusions, angsts or conscious lies and slandering of the book-scribblers.

27. Yet in every regard believers do not, as a rule, let themselves be impressed by the truth, rather they faithfully remain in the prison which they themselves delusionally imagine because that is simpler than having to grapple with the real truth.

28. The truth is just simply and somehow banal, as you tend to say, for which reason it only addresses humans who consciously use their reason and understanding, while the others, who depend on the fantastic and illusory as well as that which pertains to belief, are not willing to free themselves from the nonsensical and the unreal as well as from their not making use of reason and understanding.

Ptaah:

104. 3) Reptiloids are life-forms of mixed human and reptilian form, their bodies being covered with scales.

...

Billy:

The reptiloids, are they metamorphoses, beings that can change shape, like, to pure humanoids?

Ptaah:

131. No, they do not have that ability.

132. But why do you ask?

Billy:

The question refers to a nonsense, namely to a nonsense of a conspiracy theory that circulates in certain esoteric and other crazy conspiracy circles, about which crazy authors also write crazy books, namely that – especially in the USA – the government cliques and other powerful people are supposed to be vicious alien reptiloids in earth-humanoid form. Of course I know that this is absolute nonsense, as well as other morbid conspiracy theories that the various governments of the Earth are supposed to be contaminated with aliens. But a lot of money is made with such nonsense, because the stupid believers of such lies and conspiracy theories buy the rubbish and believe in it, and very many of them with fear and shudder, because they see only evil in everything. And with fear and evil a lot of money can be earned on our Earth with the stupid believers.

Ptaah:

133. These nonsense is as familiar to me as all the criminal and fraudulent practices of fear-mongering by the writers of such books and reports with nonsensical conspiracy theories.

Billy:

The stupid and the faithful want to be deceived and duped because they cannot exist in the light of the truth, because the truth is too banal, not sensational enough, not exciting enough and does not cause the fearful shudder that many human beings are addicted to.

Ptaah:

134. A true word.

https://www.futureofmankind.co.uk/Billy_Meier/Contact_Report_476

Billy:

... rubbishy conspiracy theories, that corresponds to the reality and has nothing to do with alleged "reptilians" and "baby-eaters", which allegedly – as extraterrestrials transformed into human beings, or as cannibals – are supposed to sit in the governments and carry out their mischief, and so forth.

20th Century

44. Reptiloids: Reptiloids are human-like intelligent beings derived from reptiles or reptilian-like extraterrestrials. They had infiltrated the Earth and were part of a secret pyramid-like organizational structure.

144. FALSE

https://www.futureofmankind.co.uk/Billy_Meier/Contact_Report_698

Billy:

... But I would still be interested to know what you think of these people who always claim, lie and fantasise as busybodies and alleged UFO contactors and 'knowers' etc. that extraterrestrials, also so-called reptiloids etc., would participate in governments on Earth without being recognised, which Ptaah, Semjase and Quetzal as well as Asket denied?

Florena:

8. Concerning your question about lying or confused claims that alleged Earth-foreigners or extraterrestrials and reptiloids etc., as you say, are active in earthly governments, our assessment corresponds to the fact that all these persons in their consciousness reality are addicted to disorders of mind and reason, as well as to the need for self-portrayal, but they also have delusions and also show strong tendencies to lie.

9. Many are also pathologically out of touch with reality and therefore do not orient themselves to reality and truth, but to hallucinations, fantasies, illusions, self-deceptions, sensory illusions and mirages that are out of touch with reality.

10. Many simply allow themselves to be influenced and guided by lies and deceptions, and as a result of their own ignorance, weakness of intelligence and inability to cultivate their own clear thoughts and reflections, fall prey to a stupid faith, as is also the case with any belief in God.

Billy:

... I am now still further interested in a matter related to the so-called appearances of Saints. I mean those phenomena, that are in a religious fashion dressed up in a holiness like for example the alleged appearance of a so-called Saint, after which the dear humans at the location of appearance are then creating places of pilgrimage out of it. ...

Semjase:

195. You know very well that these phenomena are only personally generated visions or machinations of those power groups and those Earth humans who want to cast their spell over the Earth humans through the religious forms of appearance, and in others are caused by Earth humans through their exuberant religious imagination.

196. This means, on the one hand, that the evil-minded extraterrestrial Giza intelligences, who want to bring the Earth into their power, cause such phenomena by projections or play such a role themselves, and, on the other hand, that Earth-humans afflicted by the religious delusion send out their horrendous fantasy by their consciousness-based powers and cause such phenomena by projection or visually-semi-materially.

197. You have experienced it yourself several times and also produced such projections yourself several times.

199. Also in the past you witnessed such events when Asket brought you together with your friend into the past.

200. You have experienced and recognised that the appearance of Lourdes was a projection as well as the fantasy figure of Satan, which you projected into your field of vision as a child by your own powers.

201. And you also know very well that as another example the appearance of Fatima was nothing else but the evil play of the Giza intelligences, who let one of their ships appear in radiant light and then one of their female life forms appeared as the Mother of God, although they made the mistake that the woman remained in her space suit and this was registered by critical observers.

Semjase:

107. The events of Fatima actually trace back to these intelligences, as do many similar events.

108. All we knew so far was that the Giza intelligences were responsible for all these events and that everything was done by Ashtar Sheran or by his command.

Billy:

Whereby the so-called supernatural of course does not exist in any way, because everything and everything is always naturally explainable and also naturally given. The supernatural exists only in the ignorance and the incomprehension of man, because he has no knowledge about all those things which he cannot understand and cannot explain himself. Truthfully everything so-called supernatural is absolutely natural and thus also classified according to the corresponding laws of spirit or matter, which are able to give an explanation for everything and everyone, whereby something supernatural becomes a fact of non-existence. Everything that can be grasped and perceived, everything that can be seen and heard and everything that can be felt, recognized, experienced and experienced, etc., is always real, real and natural in every case, regardless of whether it takes place on a spiritual or material level or on a medium level between spirit and matter, which is so often called the level of the supernatural or the supernatural by parapsychologists and esoterics who do not understand it.

181. A true word.

Billy:

... statements are not actual prophecies, as it is generally so gladly seen, because often they are so to speak prophylactic warnings, if I may say so. ...

This fact also applies to statements of other visionaries etc., which appear in large numbers. Also religious-fanatic and abysmal-sectarian are among them, whereby particularly these are given in extremely threatening form, like e.g. also the three prophecies of Fatima, with which the third tells as it were of an end of the world with all worst horrors and atrocities and of unspeakable infernal agonies, which are to break in in the second half of the 20th or in the course of the 21st century over Earth and the entire mankind.

Billy:

So it was said that the Fatima incident was something arranged by the Giza Intelligences, but this did not correspond to effective correctness, for it was fundamentally only an evasive truth, the meaning of which was explained to me but concealed from the public. The explanation was that the whole truth could only be told when at a certain time in the new millennium all or part of the whole connections could be revealed and would no longer cause any problems. The disclosure could be today, if we can talk about it now, as you recently said and explained that it could be in the month of September. So I think that now with regard to the presence of the Earth-foreigners on Earth, it should be explained that through them really abductions and so on and also other occurrences have taken place. If you yourself would say some clarifying words about this, there would then also be clarity in this respect.

Ptaah:

43. I can do that, but there is not much to explain, because for various reasons connected with the Earth-foreigners and the 'Black Men', as well as with the US and other secret services, we had to behave in such a way that we pretended to be uninformed and our contacts appeared unreal from the point of view of the Earth-foreigners, the 'Black Men', and all the various secret services.

44. This could only be done by distancing ourselves from calling the Earth-foreigners the originators of the Fatima phenomenon, for if we had done so, the insidious efforts of the dark men and secret services against you would have continued.

47. But the threat of the secret agents and dark figures had to be prevented, which could only be done by deliberate misleading, and this also with regard to the Fatima event, which we misleadingly called the machination of the Giza Intelligences instead of the Earth-foreigners, when it came up in our conversations.

48. In fact, the Giza Intelligences were also Earth-foreigners, whom we actually deported, but who were just as unknown to the Earth-foreigners as we were to them. ...

Billy:

... the Earth-foreigners, who are generally simply called extraterrestrials or aliens by the Earthlings, have in fact been around for a long time. They stayed here and worked in many ways, as did their distant descendants, but they have also been active on Earth for centuries and millennia up to the present day, flying around and in and out of the Earth, and are observed again and again around the world by the Earthlings, whereby the American continent is of particular importance in this respect. Their early ancestors worked in many different ways on Earth, and also in various countries in Asia, North Africa and partly in Europe, but mainly in the early days in the North African country, which in later times was called 'Kemet' and then finally in later times Egypt, after which this name has been preserved until today. Your father Sfath taught me during a leap in time into the past to the land there, where the Earth-foreigners ruled at that time, whom he called 'long-skulls' and whom I have seen myself, that they had been on Earth for thousands of years. Because, in contrast to the round skulls of the human beings of Earth, they had skulls that were long and thickly protruding towards the back, they stood out unmistakably from the human beings of Earth just as other Earth-foreigners did around the world, such as giants up to about 3 metres tall, half-small people with large and somewhat v-shaped heads and excessively large eyes. Various such long skulls have also been found in modern times by archaeologists, etc., although to this day people still puzzle over what secret is connected with these skulls, which were not from human beings of the Earth, but belonged to Earth aliens. ...

Quetzal:

9. Primarily, the keeping of house pets must be criticised, and in particular, the cats play the leading role.

10. The Earth-human has already been keeping domestic animals since thousands of years ago, but at the beginning, they were sensible enough to accommodate them in suitable premises.

11. In the time of the progression of civilisation, however, the Earth-human cared less and less about separating their domestic animals from the human living spaces, and thus, ultimately, they even let the animals find shelter directly in the human living spaces.

12. In a quite special measure, the Earth-human has changed the pets, cats, and dogs into residential animals, which means that they accustomed these animals to not living in residential buildings specifically arranged as animal facilities anymore but directly in the living spaces of human beings.

13. This is not only extremely unsanitary but also extremely stupid and irresponsible, for just cats and dogs are the dirtiest and most illness-causing house pets that are kept by human beings.

14. Cats and dogs never belong in the living spaces of human beings because these premises must be left to humans alone.

15. Cats are even much worse than dogs because cats are the largest receivers and carriers of disease.

16. In contrast to dogs, these animals roam around even more in areas that are extremely toxic for human beings and sometimes even in contaminated areas and come into contact with many more sick animals of all kinds, which carry bacilli, viruses, microbes, and bacteria, etc. that are dangerous for human beings.

17. But at the same time, this does not mean that also the dog is not dangerous for human beings in this regard, for in truth, this animal also roams around in areas that are health-hazardous for human beings and comes into contact with other animals that carry dangers for human beings.

18. Just with the dog, it is about 17 per cent less the case than with the cat, but which actually makes no big difference.

19. The largest carrier of illnesses and diseases among the non-domestic animals is the rat, which has already brought millions of deaths over the Earth, like, for example, the plague, to which the populations of entire regions have fallen victim.

20. But among the house pets, the cat takes first place and the dog takes second place, playing the same role, and as we know through our research, the plague, for example, could have never raged in such a deadly manner if the Earth-humans had not kept cats and dogs as house pets.

21. About 59 per cent of all plague victims of all times came to their end only because they had been infected by cats and dogs.

22. Nevertheless, the Earth human has not become wiser, even though well-known scientists of the Earth warn over and over again against having dogs and cats as house pets inside the living spaces of human beings because these unclean animals are responsible for many illnesses in human beings.

23. A wide range of influenza illnesses, for example, which newly appear over and over again each year in different variations, are introduced to human beings to a very large percentage by cats and dogs, among the rest, because these animals are the best carriers of the pathogen agents of these illnesses and are, as a rule, immune to them.

24. These are, however, those illnesses which often bring death to the Earth-humans.

25. But on the other hand, illnesses that have not yet been recognised up to now as infectious illnesses, such as Rheumatism, are also rife among human beings.

26. This illness, which is more widespread on the Earth than any other illness, is due not only to colds and overexertion, etc., but it often originates from cats and dogs, through which vast amounts are transferred to human beings – namely through rheumatic pathogens in the form of hair and dirt as well as vermin, etc. – who then begin to suffer from this very painful illness and waste away.

27. According to our findings, about 16 per cent of all rheumatic diseases appear solely through contracting them from cats and dogs.

28. This is just an example because still many other and often very malicious illnesses will transfer to human beings via cats and dogs as well as other animals.

29. And the keeping of these animals in the living spaces of human beings is also extremely dangerous for this when the humans holding these animals are of the stupid and erroneous view that their animals are clean in every respect.

30. This does not correspond to the truth because just these two house pets can never be kept so pure and clean that they would no longer pose a threat to human beings.

31. We are very well aware of the Earth-human saying: "our animal is clean and disinfected", but this saying only testifies of the true stupidity and lack of understanding of the humans concerned in reference to these animals, which can already carry pathogens on themselves that are harmful to human beings after about 24 minutes after a chemical disinfecting.

32. This is also the reason why our own keeping of animals on Earth is uniformly handled in such a manner that dogs and cats may only live in the wild or in special and very large enclosures, to which the human beings have no direct access.

33. Already very early on, our scientists of the past recognised what pathogens these animals carry on themselves, which are dangerous for human beings, which is why they arranged appropriate measures for their keeping.

34. Even on the Earth, these measures should have been taken because a lot of disasters with illnesses could have been avoided by this.

35. Our previous research showed that a lot of illnesses could only appear on the Earth among human beings because they settled different animals directly into their own living spaces through their unreasonableness and completely misunderstood love for animals and were then infected by these.

36. Thus, a total of 43 per cent of all illnesses that have appeared among Earth-humans trace back to the fact that human beings came into too close contact with animals, which are completely different kinds of life-forms than human beings and which need other areas of life as well as other nutrients.

37. But the most evil thing that a human being can still do, in addition to the wrong love for animals and the wrong keeping of animals, is that the animals are very often treated like human beings, whereby also wrong, death-promoting and illness-promoting physical contacts take place.

38. On this occasion, animals are touched by the hands, without these hands being cleaned afterward as soon as possible with water, etc., before they become moved to the face, nose, mouth, ears, eyes, or food, etc.

39. But furthermore, we have found out that with the Earth-humans, forms of animal touching appear, which are already nauseating, like when a human being leads an animal to his mouth and even kisses it, whereby toxic factors and especially infectious illnesses may appear.

40. Allergic illnesses of a rather bad form are also frequent consequences, and in another place, also tuberculosis and nervous disorders, which may occur along with other evils.

Billy:

So in accordance with your words, do you want to say that no pets at all should be kept in the human living spaces?

...

Quetzal:

...

44. Yes, pets should never be kept in human living spaces and also must never be treated, touched, or caressed like human life-forms.

45. This applies first and foremost to cats and dogs, which are the most malignant carriers of illness, but this also applies to birds that are classified as house pets, which are kept in cages in residential premises and are the third most dangerous.

46. And this also applies to rabbits, turtles, weasels, and all other animals that are kept by human beings as pets in human living spaces.

56. Still, in reference to the keeping of pets in human living spaces, reason and intellect should still actually be predominant.

57. And since I am already talking about this, I would also like to address the other evil, which refers to the keeping and breeding of rabbits:

58. You strive to create a larger breeding of rabbits, which should be adapted to nature and its circumstances.

59. But in the process, mistakes are made which are inexcusable and which again trace back to a wrong love for animals.

60. As I have noted, the young animals are properly thrown into burrows by their mothers, as this is quite natural and normal.

61. But after that, the irrationality of those who have held the responsibility for this work up to now already begins.

62. Thus, after the young ones are thrown in, the cave often breaks open and refuse, etc. are removed from it, while also the cave becomes sealed from rain impacts, etc. at its surface with metal plates and plastics, which must necessarily be omitted if the animals are to become suited for nature again.

63. It is just as wrong that shelters are built for the animals with all kinds of materials that also strongly prevent the animals from coming close to their natural lifestyles again.

87. Sentimental moods and wrong love for animals, however, are not only obstructive, destructive, and dangerous in reference to illnesses in humans and animals, but they also thwart the actual breeding and processing.

Quetzal:

335. The plague, for example, could have never claimed so many human lives on the Earth if the Earth-humans would have thought and acted rationally and also would have given sufficient attentiveness to their cleanliness.

336. Just like today, the Earth-humans already kept pets at early times, such as cats, dogs, and birds, etc.

337. This was an incomprehensible, irresponsible, and criminal act against human lives because animals of each kind living in the direct living areas results in disease and downfall.

338. Human beings who keep animals in their direct living areas deserve to be expelled from the human community and banished for so long, until they have reflected upon the truth and the right course of action because as a result of the animals living in the direct residential areas, not only do the owners become sick and susceptible to disease but also all other occupants in the same building.

339. In addition, it goes so far that these emerging diseases are displaced outwardly and, thus, other humans are infected with them.

340. For this reason, no animals ever belong in the living spaces of human beings.

342. The main carrier of the disease was the rat, which was present everywhere in huge herds at the time of the plague.

343. At the same principle position, the housecat and the housedog, as well as the wild animals of these species, served as disease carriers in an indirect manner.

344. The parasites living on these animals, namely the fleas, were and still are responsible for the transmission and the epidemic-like spread of diseases and epidemics.

345. In truth, it is only purely theoretically possible to keep pets without fleas.

346. But theory is of no use because both science, as well as the healthy common sense and practical knowledge of millenniums, prove that having pets without fleas is just a dream, without the possibility of realisation.

347. Nevertheless, very many humans who own pets deny that their animals are infested with fleas.

348. The human beings even believe that fleas in pets could be kept within certain limits and that only morally depraved or unclean humans or pets would have fleas.

349. In truth, however, successful freedom from fleas in animals is not possible at all, even with almost superhuman cleanliness in human beings.

350. The Earth-human being who still believes that only vagabonds can get fleas underestimates both the flea and overestimates the human beings.

...

Quetzal:

382. This is extremely interesting, from what kind of writing have you taken this article?

Billy:

It is just a brochure with the title: 'Time-bomb epidemic and illness'. As author of the article, here is Albert Linden. Here is the year 1968. Any more does not arise from it. There is an introduction written here: "With the permission of the Medical Council." But information on the country of origin, etc. is missing.

...

Of course, but now listen: "Animals are much worse off than humans, for they can never submit themselves to such a self-cleaning, as this is possible for the person. However, a person is not and will never be in a position to clean an animal or keep it pure in such a manner that it would actually be freed from parasites. So that the person may suffer no harm, there is only the precaution of thorough cleanliness, wherein also public employment is included and also the basic implementation of the fact that never and under no circumstances can animals and birds of all kinds find entrance and a place in the direct or indirect residential premises of human beings.”

Quetzal:

386. And it is also fundamentally important to note here that after contact with animals, the person should immediately and thoroughly cleanse the affected areas of their body, as they should also never caress the animals’ mouths, etc., as is morbidly and wrongly done on the Earth very frequently.

387. But if human beings do this anyway, then they must absolutely ensure that, at least, no intimate touching and the like take place, such as kissing, for such people are undoubtedly infected by pathogens that were transmitted by animals and which exhibit periods of outbreak up to 7 or even 50 years, such as with the next upcoming epidemic, 'Bovine Spongiform Encephalopathy', or BSE for short, also called mad cow disease, which will become dangerous for the person in form of the Creutzfeldt-Jakob syndrome, about which you must remain publicly silent, however, until the year 1990.

Billy:

With the periods of outbreak, do you mean the incubation time, during which the body develops the disease or epidemic and breaks out if the pathogens are not completely neutralised or eliminated by the body’s self-defence system?

Quetzal:

388. That is of correctness.

https://www.futureofmankind.co.uk/Billy_Meier/Contact_Report_872

Billy:

No wise thought is given to the fact that animals and other creatures are also living beings. They want to be treated decently and enjoy living as much as human beings do. But when you think about the fact that an enormous number of Earthlings only think about themselves and their own needs, desires and vices and have nothing left for their neighbour, and certainly nothing for animals, wildlife and the entire fauna and flora, then you shudder as a thinking human being. What good is it that some time ago the word 'food instead of feed' was coined, which means 'eating instead of feeding', i.e. planting and harvesting food for human beings instead of planting food for animals and wildlife, etc., in order to then kill and eat them? Every Earthling should really and truly think about this instead of stupidly believing in a 'dear God' or other stupid imbecility and imaginary figures.

{Billy:}

... the current annual extinction of around 60,000 genera and species of animals, creatures and other self-propelled life-forms, as well as the plant world from the lowest mould to moss and grass to the mightiest trees.

Billy:

Although killing is also inherent in those creatures of the wild, they are not conscious of killing in the way that human beings are consciously aware of it, because animals, creatures and other living beings in the wild generally do this instinctively and in a form of adaptation that is somehow peculiar to them, because this is their natural urge to feed. This cannot therefore be equated with human beings, who even have the audacity to force animals and creatures to degenerate, become aggressive and kill by torturing and training them. The fact that this also happens to animals and creatures without any human intervention and occurs as aggression can absolutely and truly be described as a rarity. The natural behaviour of animals and creatures, etc., when they behave aggressively towards human beings or other animals and creatures, has nothing to do with aggression, but is solely a matter of self-defence.

Billy:

I particularly remember seeing lots of giant creatures around the Antarctic, like a giant octopus that Sfath said was about 22 metres long. In other places, we also saw spiders, aquatic spiders, running around deep on the seabed, just as we saw various sharks in the deep sea, but they did not resemble the ones I knew from up in the sea in any wise. What is more, these sharks rummaged around on the seabed, stirred up the seabed and were really completely strange to me. But they really were shark species, at least that is what Sfath said, and he insisted that they really were shark species, although there were also three of them with huge mouths, and one that looked like a meat ram to me. The smallest ones were only about 1 metre in size, while the larger ones measured a good 6 and even up to 8 metres. There were some that Sfath said were 'remnants' from the time of the dinosaurs, such as a strange shark that looked like a kind of snake, but jagged all over its body, with a fanged mouth. This, while various others – we saw 5 species, if I remember correctly – were completely unknown to me, because at that time in the 1940s I did not even know that there were such sharks in the deep sea, other than the ones I had heard about from Bruno Nick, who was interested in sharks and also other marine life. ...

...

Billy:

... The Earthling is still so lowly intelligent and simple-minded that he speaks of all living beings only as 'animals' and is unable to categorise them into their genera and species and to name them according to their genus or species. They apparently do not understand that the term 'animal' only applies to mammalian life-forms (mammals), but that creatures are to be labelled specifically according to their genus or species, e.g. turtles, snakes, asps, chickens, turkeys, birds, eagles or insects according to their genus or species, e.g. gnats, i.e. mosquitoes, tiger mosquitoes, hornets or bees according to their genus and species, etc.

Ptaah:

In this respect, Earth's humanity is unfortunately lacking in education, as a result of which its linguistic adequacy is also extremely poor. ...

Billy:

It should also be explained that 'fanatics of the fight against neophytes' have no wise understanding of nature and its way of life and mode of action, so they only proceed from misguided opinions and a justifiable belief as to how things might have been in earlier times with these and those genera and species of plants – from the smallest to the largest. The same applies to neozoa, i.e. genera and species of animals, creatures and other self-propelled life-forms that have arrived in Europe from foreign lands – independently, introduced and bred or as exotic species – whereby 'experts' such as zoologists have also only made assumptions based on faith as to what it was really like in much earlier times. They are also unable to find their way around ancient times in such a way that they would really know how, what and where everything actually was, so their 'knowledge' – like that of the 'would-be plant experts' – is based only on belief and opinion and their 'evidence' is often just smoke and mirrors, whereby in their megalomania of their 'knowledge' they had no opportunity to go back in time and explore everything on the spot as it actually was back then.

There is generally no danger of an uncontrolled spread of neophytes, just as there is also no danger with neozoa, because such a 'view of the future' is only based on fear-mongering by the idiotically morbidly intelligent, fearful and unrealistic. Without the neophytes, humanity would have no chance of survival in the coming period of anthropogenic climate change, and also not if reason does not finally prevail and overpopulation is drastically and quickly 'reduced' through a global and controlled birth rate freeze.

As is the case with poisonous neophytes, the same applies to neozoa, with poisonous snakes, poisonous fish – such as the invasive Indian lionfish – scorpions, hornets, wasps and bees being particularly worthy of mention and actually completely harmless unless the human being does something abnormal to get bitten or stung.

Poisonous snakes are, for example, the adder, the horned viper, the meadow viper and the asp, and in the Mediterranean the invasive poisonous Indian lionfish and the poisonous jellyfish 'Portuguese galley', although the venom of these poisonous snakes can only be fatal in very rare cases. ...

Basically, it should be said that snakes should be left absolutely alone, just as – where snakes are likely to be encountered – high and good shoes and suitable long trousers should also be worn.

Females

<https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Female>

<https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Woman>

https://www.futureofmankind.co.uk/Billy_Meier/Contact_Report_089

Semjase:

101. Our beamships and spaceships are mostly controlled by female life-forms, which is the truth.

102. This is because female persons are very well suited for these positions, because they do not require very large physical forces, but on the other hand they are much more sensitive and thus more sociable in the communicative field than male life-forms.

103. These are the main reasons why, as a rule, more female persons fill these positions, but this is not the case with all space races, because there are also human races in the wide space, which in their delusion, as with terrestrial humans, grant only the male life-forms the right or all rights, while the female life-forms are pushed aside.

104. The extent to which the culture and overall development of a human race is shaped can therefore be seen very clearly from the manual activities that a female life-form carries out.

105. Physically, a female life-form is less suitable for rigorous manual activity, but is extremely suitable for lighter manual activity, such as the piloting of a flying machine, etc.

106. They are also more sensitive in this respect, which is why it is incomprehensible to me that on Earth your primitive flying machines are not piloted by female persons.

Ptaah:

110. In reference to the female persons, however, the case is quite different, which is due to the age-old suppression and lower valuation of women by the men of Earth.

https://www.futureofmankind.co.uk/Billy_Meier/Contact_Report_112

Billy:

... How is it with you: Do you actually also dance? I mean, like with us, men and women together, etc.?

Semjase:

7. Such rhythmic movements are well-known to us, and the Earth-humans have also taken this over from our ancestors.

8. These rhythmic movements are, to my knowledge, known among all human forms in the Universe, only in very different forms.

9. But the rule is that male life-forms among us do not indulge in such rhythmic movements together with female life-forms but only alone or among their peers.

10. In contrast to the animal world, the sense for rhythmic movements among human life-forms is pronounced with the female life-form, while the male life-form often appropriates this out of pure egoism and out of expediency, even though his movements of this kind are often very unaesthetic and almost foreign to nature.

Billy:

... But then, why is it that a woman can become enthusiastic about it, when a man dances?

Quetzal:

60. That lies in her nature.

61. Explained in other words, this means that due to the rhythmic movement pronouncedness of the female life-form, she lets herself be captivated by the calculating rhythmic movements of the male life-form, while overlooking the overall, often very inharmonious conduct of the male life-form, even though it looks very strange.

Billy:

Of course, but teaching Earth females something is often worse than trying to teach a donkey how to brush its teeth.

Semjase:

86. You are wrong about that.

Billy:

You are very careless.

Semjase:

87. I do not understand?

Billy:

One might interpret your words, like also mine, in such a manner that you are misogynistic, as this has often been said about me.

Semjase:

88. But this is as far from you as it also is from me.

Billy:

Of course, but you forget the role and position of women on the Earth.

Semjase:

89. But only because it sometimes appears to be an insurmountable thing to explain the logic of something to an Earth woman.

Billy:

Of course, but this does not want to be understood. It is then said that one wants to suppress women. Instead of it being accepted that one wants to teach them and give them the same rights as men, it is then, instead, completely misunderstood and one falls under her hostility.

Semjase:

90. That is extremely illogical.

Billy:

It is, however, still the case.

Semjase:

91. I did not say that in regards to your explanation but because it is actually like that.

Billy:

Oh, I see. Now – the women just always think that you want to wipe them out and trample them underfoot – I am sorry, you do not understand; by 'you', I, of course, mean one, thus, that one wants to wipe them out and trample them underfoot.

Semjase:

92. The earthly women were, unfortunately, kept away from all knowledge and all rights for many millennia, which is why they still live in this role today.

https://www.futureofmankind.co.uk/Billy_Meier/Contact_Report_169

Quetzal:

95. It is simply inconceivable that some earthly women, during the early months of pregnancy, behave so inhumanely and even take advantage of their condition in order to neglect their duties and pass themselves off as being sick.

Billy:

How do your wives behave in relation to this?

Quetzal:

96. Such deplorable things are unknown to us because our female partners behave quite right psychologically, in reference to a pregnancy.

97. Nevertheless, degeneration, as in the case of Ingrid and in the case that was complained of earlier, appears with the female Earth-humans very often, especially with the Taurus-born, because they do not adjust themselves psychologically to the pregnancy and to the progeny in the right manner.

98. In addition, these imaginary symptoms are reinforced when inadvertent pregnancies arise, which then create psychological disturbances out of feelings of guilt.

Billy:

What goes on in the governments of certain countries is, in a hidden way, similar to the way bailiwicks caused a furore in the past, but also to the way feudal rule was conducted in the Middle Ages, to which, however, as a result of lies and deceit as well as hatred and revenge by some scribblers, quite evil things were attributed that had neither hand nor foot and therefore did not correspond to the truth. This mainly took the form of the 'jus primae noctis' – I have just looked this up today because I was asked about it and therefore know how it is written – as brides allegedly had to sleep with princes and landlords the night after the wedding and some daughters of the bourgeoisie had to sleep with them first because this was allegedly enshrined in law. This was and is a barefaced lie and a written fraud of an authorship that traced back to an idiotic vindictive historian and 'writer' called Hector Boëthius in 1526, who also invented an imaginary king he called 'Evenus'. Since then, his lie has haunted the world to this day, with which he wanted to pillory the wickedness of feudalism. After all, feudalism was based on an unjust form of society and economy that granted the aristocratic upper class the full and thus all ruling functions, including land ownership and much more besides. It is clear that religious faith also played a major role in this, as the control of religiously devout human beings by the unrighteous upper class made the citizens cower. Even then – as also in earlier times – the masses of the people, because of their religious faith and their ignorance, surrendered without resistance to the subjugation and subordination by the authorities and parried submissively. Consequently, they bowed more and more to their emerging and restrictive laws, rules, regulations and ordinances, as a result of which the freedom of human beings was increasingly curtailed and they lost their sense and sense of self-determination with regard to correctness and incorrectness.

350. The Earth-human being who still believes that only vagabonds can get fleas underestimates both the flea and overestimates the human beings.

Billy:

You speak to me from the heart, and moreover, may I once read to you something that I found in a small booklet?

Quetzal:

351. You make me curious.

Billy:

Good, then listen: Here it is written: "The flea is not only incalculably far superior in number to all existing pets, together with all their owners and co-owners, but it also controls an arsenal of the most extremely refined tools and works only imaginable tricks with all of these. Thus, for at least 40 million years (fossilised fleas have been found in amber deposits from the Oligocene epoch), the flea has spread over the Earth in very numerous species." Ah, how many species actually are there on our Earth, do you know this?

Quetzal:

352. 17,684 are known to us.

353. The earthly scientists, etc. only know of about half.

Billy:

Well, no matter, whatever number might always be true, for here it is written that all fleas of the insect order SIPHONAPTERA belong to the so-called 'sucking-wingless'. The name, as it is written here, describes the common flea quite accurately. The adults live exclusively off of warm blood, which they suck out of their victims, after they have drilled their sharp, flexible proboscis into the skin. Fleas are nearly rectangular in shape, have no neck, and thanks to their smooth sides, they are in a perfect position to slip through a thicket of fur hair, feathers, or warm underwear. At their feet, they have double claws, with which they can cling to the skin if they are in the mood for a meal.

Quetzal:

354. That is of correctness, and because that is so, the Earth-human has another reason to pay extremely close attention to their hygiene and not allow there to be growth of hair in any places where the fleas feel most comfortable, particularly in the pubic area.

355. And because the Earth-human's pubic area is still covered with hair for a lot of evolution-obstructive reasons, it should be artificially depilated, for only in this manner can it truly be kept hygienically clean.

Billy:

That is what you just said. But good, here it is written further: "Fleas are usually up to 5 millimetres long and strongly flattened on the sides. Every dog that has ever crushed a flea between its teeth and every person who has ever tried to 'crack' one between the fingernails knows what pressure this little animal endures. But it is rather difficult to take the life of a flea; if someone has one, it is almost impossible to catch it. It is simply the best jumper in the world. The human flea, for example, jumps 35 cm far and 20 cm high. A person with this leaping power could jump 150 metres far and 85 metres high. A comparatively large group of fleas goes about it completely differently. Chicken fleas and sand fleas, for example, do not jump but rather bore themselves into the particularly inviting and sheltered spots of the skin of the victim and remain stuck there. They are particularly troublesome for beach-goers, who walk along barefoot or who sunbathe in the nude, lying face down in the sand, whereby the fleas press themselves, particularly with great pleasure, into the pubic area. In addition, they are also very troublesome for birds and especially for those people, of whom they penetrate under the toenails." You see, Quetzal, even here, a smart aleck writes about the flea in the pubic area.

Quetzal:

356. A certain degree of wisdom cannot be denied to the writer.

Billy:

Exactly, but listen further: Usually, the fleas mate on the body of a warm-blooded host. In some species, like the human flea (Pulex irritans) for example, the male only mates after an abundant, satisfying blood meal. Only then does he go on the search for a female. When one considers how small such a flea is and how large a Danish mastiff is, it can become rather adventurous. Yet after a long stalking through fur or feathers, the male flea usually meets the object of his affection. But for insect relations, fleas are just not very fertile because a female, throughout the whole time of her reproductive period, only lays about a dozen eggs each time, so only a total of about 500. These white, oval eggs roll away from the body of the host animal and generally remain under carpets, in the cracks of wood, or in clothes, etc. – just everywhere where dust collects. Then, they hatch into small, maggot-shaped larva, which live on plant and animal waste. The larva then spins a cocoon, out of which the adult flea finally emerges. Fleas live relatively long, namely up to two and a half years, and they survive under all possible environmental conditions, except in extreme heat, cold, wetness, or dryness. They thrive best between temperatures of 18 and 37 degrees and with an air humidity of 65–70 percent. One can readily see what place has ideal conditions and, at the same time, offers warm blood in large quantities: namely, the human habitation. Many warm-blooded animals have their own types of flea. In addition to the human flea, there are the cat, dog, chicken, bat, rat, rabbit, bird, fox, and horse flea, etc. (with which the list would still not be fulfilled or be complete for a very long time). Now, these aforementioned flea designations should not lead to wrong optimism, however, because a hungry flea of every kind – whether dog or cat flea, bird or rat flea – jumps on every host that it can reach, thus also on humans – on you and me.

Quetzal:

357. One moment, my friend, because in addition, I have to explain something with regard to the plague, also concerning the AIDS pandemic:

358. In addition to the rats, dogs and cats were and still are indirect culprits in the propagation of these and other epidemics.

359. The reason is that they are inhabited by a large number of fleas, which are, in turn, the best carriers of all diseases and epidemics.

360. Even immune, they jump from host to host, to stab him with their trunk in order to get to the blood and, at the same time, infect the host with diseases and epidemics.

361. If the flea pricks the host, then at the same time, proteins infected with pathogens of diseases and epidemics are injected into the tiny wound, which first causes irritation, itching, and swelling, according to which the pathogens of diseases and epidemics then start to become active.

362. Thus, not only did the rat become a deadly spreader of disease through the folly of the Earth-humans but also cats and dogs, which were disastrously kept by the people as pets and, in spite of everything, are still kept in the same irresponsible manner to this very day.

363. The fleas carried by cats and dogs jumped onto animals, such as the rats, which were the carriers of the bubonic plague at that time.

364. The fleas then pricked the animals infected with the pathogens of diseases or epidemics and sucked up the blood containing the epidemic agents or pathogens.

365. Thus, the plague bacillus was carried over from the rats by cat fleas and dog fleas, which were then transported to domestic animals of the same kind and so were carried by cats and dogs into the immediate area of the person and into his residential premises, where the infected fleas then jumped onto people and infected them with the bubonic plague bacillus, which cost the lives of about 50 million humans during the time of the last plague – as a result of their own insanity and through their own lack of hygiene, for they kept domestic animals in their own residential premises or came into direct contact with such animals and even caressed them – which is still insanely and irresponsibly the case with the Earth-humans today, whereby such events can and actually do appear again.

Billy:

But the pathogens, by which a flea is infected, also ultimately kill the flea, if I am correctly oriented. Bacilli, viruses, and other agents of disease or pathogens are true monsters that destroy everything in final consequence.

Quetzal:

366. That is of correctness because even a flea is killed by the pathogens over time, but usually not through the outbreak of the disease in itself because the rule is that the flea itself is immune to it.

367. Thus, other factors appear with it, which bring it to death.

368. For example, with the infection of the bubonic plague bacillus, it happens that the plague bacilli collect in small bundles in the stomach of the flea and soon block and clog the pylorus.

369. Thus, the flea falls into a regular feeding frenzy, and it just eats and sucks up only as much as what is possible for it, as it jumps from one host to another.

Billy:

And with each pass, a new injection of the plague and, thus, death are dispensed.

Quetzal:

370. An inevitable result.

Billy:

I have also learned that even the flea itself is used as a host, by microscopic parasites and even by certain mites, which can be transported around by it, as the flea lets itself be carried around by hosts, by animals and humans. In addition, the parasites clinging to the fleas are also carriers of diseases and epidemics.

Quetzal:

371. That is also of correctness.

372. Nevertheless, there are not only the fleas and their parasites that displace diseases and epidemics but also the human himself/herself.

373. He/she often continues to displace diseases and epidemics through their irrationality, through their uncleanliness, or through foolishness and ignorance.

379. But the main causes of the transmission of the plague and the epidemics were the rats, dogs, and cats, with which the flea carried the transmitters.

...

Billy:

Good – it is written here: “As a rule, a person has adept fingers and hands, very little hair, and is in the habit of washing himself/herself with soap and water, whereby they can somewhat keep the flea away from the body. However, this is only to some extent because in regards to keeping oneself completely free of fleas (also of lice and other parasites), a person is not capable of this, and animals are all the less capable of do so, which themselves can never be freed from this vermin, even with the most thorough cleaning by chemical means. Nevertheless, a person can extensively protect themselves through extreme cleanliness, largely because their sparse hair growth allows this cleanliness to be possible, whereby it must be ensured that hair growth is removed from all places where cleanliness is naturally impeded and where, as a remnant of early human physical development, hair has not disappeared yet, and in this regard, the pubic hair portion is being addressed. This is a portion of the human body that requires quite special attention and cleanliness and which corresponds to a particular popularity of fleas, lice, and other parasites, as well as direct pathogens of diseases and epidemics, which is why the pubic area should not only be maintained more and be submitted to a thorough cleaning at least twice a day, at least in the morning and in the evening, but also that the pubic hair should be removed most thoroughly, and the pubic area should be kept free of a lot of hair, such as by shaving or depilatories. This ca...

Quetzal:

382. This is extremely interesting, from what kind of writing have you taken this article?

Billy:

It is just a brochure with the title: 'Time-bomb epidemic and illness'. As author of the article, here is Albert Linden. Here is the year 1968. Any more does not arise from it. There is an introduction written here: "With the permission of the Medical Council." But information on the country of origin, etc. is missing.

Quetzal:

383. That really is not important.

384. It would have only interested me as to how the author's power has discovered the truth, also with regard to the pubic hair and the need for its removal.

Billy:

... Can you tell me when the last Great Flood took place, because there were several of them, so I am not talking about the one pertaining to Noah or Noah's Flood?

...

Semjase:

6. As you wish – it is now about 10,080 years since then.

...

... This deluge, was it the only one in those 10,080 years?

Semjase:

11. No, there were not only those which you mistakenly call the Great Biblical Flood, which truly took place about 100,000 years ago, because two other somewhat smaller floods came later, once in 7957 and another time in 6906.

12. However, none of them have anything to do with the Noah's Flood, as you call it, although in this respect it is also falsely claimed that it was the Biblical Flood, especially the one to be dated 7957.

13. Between the time of 7000 and 8000 there were also huge floods in the Near East and Asia, in Turkey and Persia, etc., and these floods, of which there were two, were equal to small floods.

14. There were also great floods about 96,000 and 100,000 years ago.

Billy:

Before Jmmanuel's time?

Semjase:

15. No, counting back from now.

19. I give you the dates and explanations without conversions, so as they were at the time of last year and partially of this year:

20. The biblical flood did not take place 10,080 years ago, but took place much earlier and was triggered by the Destroyer.

21. By extremely coarse inaccuracies and corrections for the bible, etc. these events were distorted and falsified by the old chroniclers and thus, bible researchers and antiquity researchers chronologically set them much later and extremely erroneously.

Semjase:

29. Atlantis was destroyed by Mu scientists, as I explained to you recently.

30. This was 9,498 years ago B.C., as you yourself have just correctly noticed.

31. This was the first major catastrophe of the last 10,000 Earth years BC.

32. 84,283 years before another great catastrophe occurred, which was of cosmic origin.

33. Exactly 10,215 years ago a planetoid of enormous size raced towards the Earth from the world space and smashed down with tremendous force.

34. It divided the waters of the Atlantic exactly there, where 84,000 years before an asteroid fragment crashed and destroyed many things worldwide, but we do not know whether this smallest planet hastened from the wide space or whether it came from the asteroid belt.

35. After these events about 10,000 years ago it took only about 135 years, before the Earth was again afflicted by a catastrophe, bigger and more gigantic than the two before, but in today's eastern area of the Earth ball, which was flooded by enormous masses of water, when the giant comet 'Destroyer' passed the Earth in dangerous proximity, 10,080 years from now calculated back.

36. This led to worldwide catastrophes, which, however, for reasons beyond our understanding, were never recorded by the earthly chroniclers and only found their expression in writings much later, when another flood, again caused by the Destroyer, afflicted the Earth, namely 7,957 years ago.

Foehn Storms

<https://www.planat.ch/en/knowledge-base/storm/foehn>

https://www.futureofmankind.co.uk/Billy_Meier/Contact_Report_087

Billy:

26. What do you think of our weather?

27. It is a real foehn storm [warm winds from the Mediterranean], and I can really enjoy such storms.

Semjase:

37. Sure, but this weather causes many people on Earth very great discomfort, including you, even if you do not let anything show.

38. I know, however, that your arm is very badly afflicting you with phantom pain.

...

Billy:

31. Many will now go crazy because of the foehn, play crazy, kill themselves and provoke countless accidents.
32. Malignant aggressions, fears and depressions are part of the daily routine in such times, which is simply incomprehensible to me because I cannot explain to myself what triggers all these things in humans.
33. Thoughts alone cannot be the same as any physical complaints such as pain, etc.
35. I could imagine, for example, that the adrenaline level is one of these factors, if it decreases due to some unknown processes in the body and external influences, etc., whereby, as far as I know, the resistance sinks and decreases, while in a healthy body structure, etc. aggression is triggered, if the adrenaline level rises enormously and cannot be reduced to a normal level again quickly enough due to lactic acid production.
36. So this would mean that the adrenaline level would have a certain effect when the level is lower than normal as well as when the level is higher than normal.
37. Surely there are other facts that you can explain to me during foehn weather?

Semjase:

41. I do not have enough knowledge of these issues to be able to give you a sufficient answer.
42. But considering your interest, I will get an exhaustive answer and tell you at our next meeting.
43. But according to what I know about these matters, your assumption may be correct.
44. In any case, however, the correct control of the psyche and the wilful mastery in a controlling form of all relevant factors is also important for human beings, which you are able to determine and exercise yourself.

Billy:

27. You promised me recently to give me some information about why the foehn [warm mediteranean wind] makes it so difficult for us humans.

Semjase:

45. Sure, I asked and the following was explained to me:
46. Very strongly warmed air, warmed by friction on mountains and air layers, waters and seas as well as on plants and the Earth's surface etc., especially on mountains, air layers and seas, causes a sudden increase in temperature, which rises above the usual norm.
47. This means that within a very short time the climatic pressure undergoes a rapid change, which is particularly noticeable in humans, because these pressure changes also cause changes in the area of acid, base and mineral salt formation and hormone production.
48. Due to the very rapid climatic pressure changes, the excretion of hormones and electrolytes slows down because they are slowed down in their production.
49. This results in the same efficiency as overproduction of short duration.
50. If, for example, too much adrenalin is excreted in this manner, the person gets into excitement or even anger, restlessness, irritability etc. etc., which also happens when the production of adrenaline decreases.
51. Adrenaline and noradrenaline act as nerve stimulants in their normal form when they are produced and excreted in the right amount.
52. The stimulus exerted on the nerves by these substances ensures preservation of a normal performance capacity, which means that the human being has normal performance capacity.
53. If, however, the normal balance of hormones and electrolytes is disturbed, because during or by the foehn, due to its rapid climatic pressure change, which affects the human body and its organs, it cannot adapt so quickly to the new pressure, this leads to a variety of complaints, which are expressed both in physical and psychological manifestations, such as sudden pain of all kinds, irritability, apathy, depression, anxiety, malaise, limpness and fatigue, insomnia and many other complaints.

54. Depending on how the human being then consciously opposes these complaints and can or cannot neutralise them, he/she then feels them more or less strongly.

55. Unstable, weak-minded humans very often fail in such states; suddenly their heart fails, or they rob themselves of their own lives.

56. However, the more evolved a person is in spiritual and consciousness-based respects, the more they are able to master and control these concerns, which enables them to shape their life to the best, even when negative external influences have an effect on them.

Billy:

... I have heard and read that our scientists are trying to make their own earthly beamships. Is that true and how advanced are these things?

Ptaah:

383. This information is consistent with the truth to the extent that such flying apparatuses are in their infancy being built on Earth.

384. However, they are not beamships, but flying machines similar to our ships, equipped only with explosion engines or, more recently, with jet engines with recoil effect.

385. The construction of such ships on Earth in modern times is not entirely new, however, for the first ships of this kind were completed in planning and construction as early as 1941.

386. In mid-February 1945, the first flights were carried out up to altitudes of around 12500 metres, developing speeds of just over 2000 kilometres per hour.

387. It was all commissioned by the Führer of the Second World War, Adolf Hitler.

388. At the end of the war, however, everything was destroyed so that it would not fall into the hands of the enemy.

389. Various plans and devices and apparatuses, however, were overlooked and fell into other hands.

390. From these, various groups developed the disc-shaped ships of terrestrial origin that exist today.

391. These 'flying discs', as they are called by the designers, naturally require their test flights to test their properties, etc.

392. Many of these objects can therefore be observed by Earth-humans as they are flown about to be flown in or tested.

393. The largest of these terrestrial flying objects of this type already reach nearly 10 metres in diameter and are already quite numerous.

394. Of course, this is quite vigorously denied by the governments of the states possessing them.

395. However, their machines have often crashed, because they are still rather poorly developed in all respects.

396. But the uninitiated human beings of Earth live in the mistaken belief that these 'flying discs' they observe are of the same kind as our beamships and come from extraterrestrial worlds.

Billy:

So that is how it is. Then several of the UFOs observed around the world are not UFOs at all, but simply terrestrial 'flying discs'.

Ptaah:

397. That is so, yes.

398. Often they are also forced to make emergency landings because their constructions, devices and apparatus are still very inadequate.

399. Their explosion engines and jet engines, which they recently also want to operate atomically, but which are still wishes for the future, very often cause combustion damage.

400. Human beings who come into the vicinity of such combustion fires are so often also threatened by dangers of atomic radiation, starting from experimental atomic reactors, which are supposed to serve for propulsion, but which will not succeed for a long time yet.

401. If distressed ships of this kind are approached by observers, by which I mean that they go near them, then they are often frightened by the occupants, or even abducted and deported, in order to ensure their absolute silence.

402. Such occurrences are unfortunately not uncommon on the Earth, but through the ignorance of human beings and various unreal 'enlightenment striving' groups they are invariably attributed to extraterrestrial life-forms.

Ptaah:

916. You may also be sure that no Earth human being has ever gone outside the Earth's moon orbit before you {Billy} in this century which is currently ruling you, apart from those abducted by human robbery and the female and male life-forms who were shot into the moon's orbit by a rocket whose capsule control failed, however, and the capsule with the human beings drifted off into space, which, however, is concealed by those responsible {see Contact Report 62:65-69 entry below}.

Billy:

... another question about the persons you marked as negative {referring to the list of contactees presented in Contact Report 43:13-55}: Is it not possible with them, or at least with one or the other, that they had some kind of contact after all? That this is not known to you or to yours and that these contacts have simply slipped 'through your fingers', so to speak?

Semjase:

75. That is absolutely impossible.

76. The people I have marked as negative are not contact persons.

77. In any case, they never had contact with extraterrestrial intelligences that reached them from outside of the Earth, neither through free space nor through a dimensional gate, because these penetration possibilities are so hermetically controlled that it is completely impossible for even a tiny particle unit to be able to pass through without being registered by us or the other intelligences monitoring the Earth.

78. If, however, an intrusion into the earthly space takes place, then everything is very precisely monitored and registered.

79. And these controls and registrations do not give any evidence that the negative persons mentioned could be positive.

85. But I do not want to exclude the possibility of explaining to you that the persons I have described as negative may have been in connection with the intelligences of Giza or may still be in connection with them, because we do not exercise precise control over them.

Billy:

So this possibility remains open?

Semjase:

86. Sure, but the persons concerned would have been very badly misdirected.

87. The same goes for those who have been deceived by earthly intelligences, namely by those who have the stolen beam ships of the Germans at their disposal and pretend to be extraterrestrials to earthly men.

Semjase:

62. None of the three places mentioned.

Billy:

But it is said that extraterrestrials have a base there, especially under the mountains?

Semjase:

63. That is not so, however.

64. All stations on the Earth are known to us, there is absolutely no doubt about that, so it is a certainty when I explain to you that there are no extraterrestrial bases, etc. underneath the mountain.

...

Billy:

It has always been claimed that something of this form is there.

Semjase:

66. But that is not really the case.

67. On the other hand however, this may be connected with another station hidden there, namely that of a group of earthlings who had secretly built a base there during the Second World War, deep in the cliffs where they could live and work.

68. It was one of those groups that got their hands on plans by which they were able to produce beamship-like flying objects.

Billy:

You are referring to the German 'Flying saucers'?

Semjase:

69. Certainly.

70. However, their ships are still quite primitive and not space capable.

71. So they are still Earthbound, but here they have all kinds of possibilities.

72. These Earth-humans are also one of those groups, that approach Earth-humans and claim that they come from the stars with their saucer-shaped flying objects and are extraterrestrials.

73. But this group is no longer in Europe, but like other groups in the South American region.

Billy:

47. Do you know anything about the Russians in the fifties or sixties shooting a space capsule into free space that was said to have been manned by three men and a woman?

...

49. Is it also true then that the four people with their capsule got off course and shot out into space, presumably to end their lives there?

...

Semjase:

65. ... in the 1950s a disc was shot from a private station into free space, which was occupied by four people.

66. They were a woman and three men of Russian origin.

67. The originators of this enterprise were one of the groups that, after the Second World War, had seized the plans of the Flying Disks in Germany and set up their own organisation.

68. We inexplicably leaked some data about these events, which Karl and Anni Veit in Wiesbaden in particular twisted and falsified, claiming that the disk was a Russian space capsule.

Billy:

50. To my knowledge it was said that two Italian radio amateurs intercepted signals from this spaceship or whatever it was.

Semjase:

69. That is completely impossible, because the total destruction of the voice and radio signal traffic, as well as that of the command functions of the ship, were to blame for the fact that the ship got off course and drifted into free space.

Ptaah:

23. Almost abruptly it came to pass that at various points on Earth there were stations of those elements and private circles of interest that seized the plans of the Flying Disks at the end of the last World War, namely in Germany and Canada.

24. These elements, however, which have built stations in inaccessible places for the Earth-humans and have developed quite airworthy devices there from the stolen plans, now feel extremely endangered by the investigations of certain countries and they fear that you could give exact information about their existence and the coordinates of their stations if you were to be questioned by any secret services involved in these investigations.

25. That would mean that armies could be set in motion to destroy the stations and get hold of all the achievements.

26. But to prevent such a step, a special group in Brazil is trying to shut you out and to push you out of this world.

27. This is a group of fanatics led by a man from Germany called Dünneberg.

{Note: See Men In Black.}

https://www.futureofmankind.co.uk/Billy_Meier/Contact_Report_066

Semjase:

184. The two other attacks were carried out by a Nazi group that had settled in Brazil after the end of the war. {Note: See Men In Black.}

185. They robbed German and Canadian plans for the construction of flying disks with which they are able to fly almost effortlessly into the earthly space today.

186. They also came into the possession of a foreign spacecraft of a human race from a distant galaxy.

187. The interstellar drive, however, was destroyed beyond recognition, so they could only use the antigravity drive for planetary flight.

188. With this ship, which offered them many possibilities, they also tracked you.

189. It was the same ship that you recently tracked down in Winkelriet near Wetzikon, but which had landed there weeks before when you found the mysterious tracks.

190. The crew of the ship that had used the aircraft to fly to the Earth is dead.

191. They all died after their breathing apparatus became empty and could not be refilled.
192. They were poison gas respirators.
193. A gas that is still unknown on the Earth.
194. Over time, their ship, in the hands of the Nazis, could have had dire consequences for the Earth-humans, which is why we were forced to destroy it completely when they left it unattended for a few moments.

Billy:

... Well, there are always questions about the flying discs that were secretly constructed in Germany before the Second World War and also during the war. I could observe flight attempts of such discs together with Sfath during the war still before the middle of the forties over Germany, whereby he explained to me some. Ptaah also spoke of it, it was on the Great Journey {see Contact Report 31} that the flight tests sometimes brought very valuable results and flights were carried out up to altitudes of around 12,500 metres. The engines were first explosion engines and later jet engines. In 1941, Sfath and Ptaah said, the planning had been completed and the construction of the flying discs had been tackled. – Look here, in this contact report the following is written which Ptaah explained:

Ptaah: "The construction of such ships on the Earth in modern times is no longer completely new, however, because the first ships of this kind were already completed in 1941 in the planning stage and beginning to be built. In mid-February 1945, the first flights were carried out to altitudes of around 12,500 metres, at which speeds of slightly more than 2,000 kilometres per hour were developed. Everything was commissioned by the leader of the Second World War, Adolf Hitler. At the end of the war, however, everything was destroyed so as not to fall into the hands of the enemy. But various plans and equipment were overlooked and fell into other hands. From this, different groups developed the presently existing ships of disc-shaped kind and earthly origin. These 'flying discs', as they were called by the constructors, of course needed their test flights in order to test their characteristics, etc. Many of these objects can therefore be observed by terrestrial humans when they are flown around to fly them and test them. The largest of these earthly missiles of this kind already reach nearly 100 metres in diameter and are already quite numerous represented. Of course, this is vigorously denied by the governments of the states owning them. But their machines have often crashed because they are poorly developed. But the uninitiated human beings of the Earth live in the erroneous belief that these 'flying discs' observed by them are the same as our beam ships and come from extraterrestrial worlds."

Now, however, claims are being made again and again which, according to what Sfath and Ptaah have explained, have no basis whatsoever, because most of it is based only on wild fantasies and speculations, which probably serves to make a profit. For example, the crazy story that the Germans flew to Mars with their flying discs. Can you say something more about this?

Quetzal:

280. Some things are known to me, which is why I can say that the disc aircraft of that time, which were already planned very early, i.e. from the twenties onwards, and later constructed, were developments that were considered 'miracle aircraft'.

281. This was because they were so-called single wing aircraft.

282. However, these flying discs or single wing aircraft were nothing more than airplanes, even if they were of a completely different type than the normal wing aircraft.

283. So they were not extraterrestrial or esoteric marvels, in which alleged extraterrestrials or people of other dimensions, etc., participated, as has been claimed to be, for some time, by lying and deceitful profit-obsessed ones, as well as by self-proclaimed false experts, contact persons, esotericists and parapsychologists, by those who want to be great, by self-obsessed people and by patients afflicted with inferiority complexes.

284. The truth concerning the flying discs is simple and lies beyond all delusions, fantasies and all erroneous assertions and stupid ideas.

285. The fact is that not only in Germany since the twenties there have been projects concerning the planning and development of flying discs, but also in Russia, England and America.

286. At the same time, America, Germany, England, and Russia were already planning to conquer the moon and the entire solar system with regard to aircraft suitable for space travel.

287. Everything happened, however, under strictest secrecy, as I already said.

288. When at the end of the war the Americans and Englishmen illegally appropriated large parts of the German flying disc technology, which was already very advanced, the war winners had won.

289. So it became just one year later, when the British and the Americans tested the captured technology together in Canada as well as the Americans also in their own country, and with success.

290. Since then, progress has not stopped, so that many different types of flying discs have been developed, which can be seen again and again when they are on test or spy flights.

291. Ultimately, all this technology should serve to monitor the entire Earth, as should be the case with humans themselves, who should be subjected to total surveillance by implanted control chips.

292. Such plans already exist in secret, whereby in Europe the European Union, which is already on its way, will be the authoritative dictatorship.

293. The flying disc technology, however, when I want to come back to it, is also integrated into space technology, because for a long time there have been efforts to construct the flying discs in such a form that they can be used to travel around space and reach other planets, which are Earth-like in shape and inseminated.

294. These newly developed flying discs have been leading to UFO sightings all over the world for quite some time now, and then it has been deliberately mistakenly claimed by a wide variety of sources that these are aircraft of extraterrestrial origin.

305. So it is a fact, that since 1945, when the plans of the air disk technology fell into the hands of the Americans, Russians and English, with few exceptions the whole earthly humankind is lied to and deceived, and for this every means is justified – also alleged activities of extraterrestrials.

306. And all those fools, irresponsible, criminals, deceivers, liars and swindlers etc. in matters of alleged contacts with extraterrestrials, spirits, dead and higher beings are co-responsible for the fact that the secret machinations can be promoted in relation to the flying discs, because with their lies and deceits they promote everything still.

307. So they help those who have been lying to and cheating on humankind since 1945, who can secretly make enormous technical achievements on the flying-discs and realise their secret projects in order to control and subjugate all of humankind and the planet to totality.

308. And all this is financed with huge sums of money stolen from people with unjust tax money.

309. But back to the flying discs in Nazi Germany:

310. The single-winged flying discs of all kinds of the Nazi era were as purely of earthly origin as they still are today, since they are technically very much further developed and can often be observed.

311. In fact, however, they are nothing more than terrestrial airplanes.

312. In Nazi Germany, too, the planning and construction of flying discs was also a strictly secret military project, but under the leadership of Adolf Hitler.

313. These projects involved many distinguished scientists, such as a certain Belluzzo, a Miethe, an Epp and a Schriever, to name but a few.

314. At that time, the technology of the single-wing flying discs was a completely new technology, which had very futuristic forms and was preserved until today.

315. Nevertheless, this whole development was and is based on the terrestrial-normal aeronautical technology, so that no extraterrestrial or other-dimensioned flying technique or propulsion technology comes into effect.

316. So neither anti-gravitational drives played a role or could be used, nor any converter devices, which allegedly originated from extraterrestrials or other dimensions, because in fact they are all only wild and nonsensical, imaginative or quite consciously lying and fraudulent claims.

317. The same applies to claims that the Germans flew to Mars or even to distant galaxies with their flying discs.

318. Truthfully, first the engines were explosion engines and later radiation and rocket engines, which in turn were improved later by air combustion catalytic converters.

319. The aim was to suck the air from the wing of the flying disc, to liquefy it quickly by cooling it down, after which it was burned catalytically and thus served as propulsion energy, which was ejected by rotating nozzles on the outer ring of the flying disc in a fogging manner, whereby the missile was seen only blurred.

Ptaah:

4. We already worked with those flying devices, which you call the cake-ship, in the twenties, but it was indeed only at the end of the seventies that they were brought to the required status for their use on the Earth.

5. The form of these flying devices was specially thought up for the Earth, for which reason we made the effort to transmit the entire necessary specifications for the design to terrestrial scientists through impulse-telepathy so that, out of that, flying disks could be developed.

6. This impulse-telepathic information went predominantly to aerospace technicians, as I will designate these persons, whereby especially German engineers were included for this, to whom we transmitted exact plans for the external form as well as certain technical particulars which were responsible to transmit.

7. Thereby the German scientists also actually experimented, whereby they could construct halfway suitable flying disks, which according to our thinking at those times should have been used to constitute an air power through which an early-brought-about world peace should have been achieved.

8. However, the political machinations changed very quickly into a bellicose direction, for which reason we brought an end to further impulse-telepathic information to the German scientists and allowed the project to expire, whereby we however initially transmitted false information so that the flying disks could not be created specifically for warlike purposes.

9. However, the plans existed furthermore in isolated copies because we could not obtain them all.

10. Which was, however, no longer bad, because these still-existing papers were extremely incomplete, and disappeared in this form.

11. In practice, these drafts were only available as sketches which only showed the outer ring and the underside of the flying device while the extension underneath and the construction of the top were no longer available; and it is exactly these sketches, of the outer ring as well as its underside, which survived for several decades and reappeared in the middle of the sixties.

12. Though this happened without our knowledge, because, since the disappearance of the sketches which had become useless, we concerned ourselves no further about that until just now, when you called Florena and communicated to her that you discovered that the forms of lids for large containers exist, which, in their configuration and construction, are made exactly the same as the lower ring and its underside, of our flying device and show the same structure more than only approximately.

13. And because you gave one of these kinds of lids to Florena in order to provide clarification, it was easy for us to compare it with the construction of the flying device, which made the astonishing sameness clear to us, which also gave us occasion to dedicate our attention to the matter.

14. Therefore we cleared everything up very precisely, and thereby found out that the sketches which surfaced again were evaluated in industrial firms and found application, and that these same sketches were utilized for the design and manufacture of forms of lids which were completely atypical, because, until then, the designers usually only ever drafted forms of lids which showed simple lines, however never forms which could be called futuristic and complicated.

15. Thus came about the form of the lids for the container named by you, whereby the form of the lids, as I already said, is deceptively similar to the area of the lower ring and its underside, as is shown by our flying devices which relate to this.

Billy:

... But say, dear friend, because of the flying discs of the Germans, one hears strange things again and again. Is it true that flight tests were actually carried out, with the discs reaching Mars and an altitude of 12,000 metres?

Ptaah:

39. Such assertions are absurd, because the flight spinning tops, as they were really called, did not find such perfection in Germany, and the fact that flights into space should have taken place with them corresponds to an imagination.

40. On the other hand, flying discs were later built in other countries, e.g. in South America.

41. In the former Soviet Union and in America, too, efforts were made to build such aircraft, after the occupying forces of Germany had received the corresponding construction plans, which were so incomplete that the new plan owners themselves had to do a great deal of work and contribute so that the flying discs could be built, but which could also only be used for terrestrial airspace, as is still the case with these aircraft today, apart from a certain group in South America, as you know.

Billy:

Can you still tell me whether the construction plans for the flying discs seized by the occupying powers were the same kind that you impulse telepathically transmitted to the Germans, and who was actually responsible for them?

Ptaah:

43. You mean those plans from which the covers were finally made?

Billy:

Exactly.

Ptaah:

44. The transmissions went to two men named Schriever and Miethe, who also dealt with self-constructed plans for flying gyroscopes.

45. It was these plans that fell into the hands of the Americans and the Soviets, who then devoted themselves to their studies and constructions.

46. Also the group in South America came into the possession of copies of the same flying gyroscopes, namely by theft.

Billy:

Surely one may say that this group was higher Nazis, who fled Germany at the end of the war and disappeared to South America.

Ptaah:

47. But you shouldn't say more about it.

Billy:

Of course not. – Because of the Second World War, disc-shaped missiles were observed in Germany and even all over the world.

Ptaah:

48. That corresponds to the circumstances, yes.

49. These missiles, however, were not of earthly origin, but were our companions as well as our federation allies.

Billy:

So the observed flying disks had no reason whatsoever with the flying disks or flying gyroscopes of the Germans. Then other assertions are actually only stupid assertions of liars, phantoms and know-it-alls etc. We actually wanted to know that for a long time.

Ptaah:

50. But that only refers to the flying gyroscopes of Schriever and Miethé.

Billy:

Were there any others?

Ptaah:

51. There were, yes.

52. These, however, were in private research, secretly conducted by power-hungry Nazis, using the plans of Schriever and Miethé.

53. These flying gyroscopes had already been further developed in Germany and were tested flights which yielded good results.

Billy:

Today's South American group?

Ptaah:

54. Your assumption is correct.

Billy:

And all this could happen under the eyes of the Gestapo?

Ptaah:

55. Many of the major Gestapo and SS leaders were involved and secretly working to keep the rest of the world ignorant of the constructions and test flights, etc., and when the end of the war came, they fled to South America with all their material and all their people.

56. This was not a difficult undertaking for them, because the flying gyroscopes were already so airworthy that they could circumnavigate the earth non-stop and transport away all materials and people before the Allied forces could seize them or find out anything about these secrets.

Billy:

So that's how it happened. But how far has the construction of the Schriever and Miethé flight gyro advanced?

Ptaah:

57. On 15.7.1941 the prototype was ready for the first test flight.

58. We monitored this very closely.

59. But the flying gyroscopes were not built after our transmissions, because these had already been made unsuitable by us by false information, because we saw the great danger, which would have resulted from it for the entire earthly mankind.

60. However, we did nothing against the development of the Schriever and Miethé flying gyroscopes until we realized that they suddenly posed a tremendous threat to humanity.

61. Consequently we interfered in the preparations for the first test flight just at the time when it was certain for us that the flight would be a complete success and the mass production of the flying gyroscopes would entail, which would have meant that with the help of these flying machines the entire earthly mankind would have been subjugated and enslaved, which however did not lie in their destiny and also in the future does not lie in their destiny.

62. So we asked the Arahata Athersata plain what to do in this particular case and then followed their advice to damage the project and completely destroy the flying gyroscopes and three other semi-finished specimens by transferring malfunctions into the machinery of the gyroscopes, destroying them in an explosive manner.

Billy:

And why didn't you do that to those who later escaped to South America?

Ptaah:

63. They meant no danger to the world and mankind, and they still don't do that today.

64. They have meanwhile shrunk to a small group that has no more clout and is slowly dying out, because in the pure male world in which they live no offspring are to be expected.

65. Women and children are frowned upon, for they live solely by their technique and their desires for world domination, which, however, they are unable to realize.

66. They live isolated for themselves, even if they often fly around the world with their flying discs, whereby they can also be observed here and there.

67. They do not look for followers in the world outside either, because they are afraid that they might be betrayed by newcomers.

68. As a result, they are completely closed off and have long since given up all attempts to find followers somewhere outside.

69. All of them have also grown old since then, with the youngest now 78 years old.

70. The whole group counts to today only 334 men, of once more than 2,000 men.

71. The rest have all died of illness or accidents, such as mistaken experiments or windshield crashes, or they have died quite normally.

Ptaah:

4. My assumption was correct, that the utilization of the plan, in regard to this flying device, found wider-ranging interest than that merely futuristic forms of container lids were manufactured from them, as I communicated to you at our conversation on 28.11.1995.

5. Our very extensive clarifications have revealed that the flying-device plans were variously divided up and were used for further manufacturing, as, for example, for various forms of decoration and holding devices for various purposes.

6. Also, exposed bolts for furniture shelves were created out of certain parts of the plans, as well as roller bearings from other parts of the plans.

7. A flower pot base came about from another part of the plans, which, in its outer edge part, is very precisely configured in accord with the plan sketch, consequently, therefore, even the surrounding pertinent special elements for the screening of the visibility of the flying body was carried over, and indeed so precisely and correctly that no difference exists between the plan sketches and the terrestrially created product.

8. However these are not the only terrestrially manufactured products from the flying-device plans, because we could determine a total of 17 different objects for different purposes which were worked out from the plans.

Reader's Question {Catalin Morarescu/Germany}

What happens to the knowledge from the research and construction of the successor flight discs of the German South American group, which consists only of men, if one day the group no longer exists due to the death of its members? If these men live so far back and have no contact with other people outside their area, then they have no successors who could continue or end their experiments (technical in nature). Will the Plejaren later eliminate these machines, or what happens to this legacy? (One can only hope that this technology will not fall into the wrong hands.) Can you make a statement about the technological lead compared to today's conventional drives? How great are the successes of this group in researching these alternative drives?

Answer {Billy}:

Today, the South American group exists only as a small and closed community of old men who are decimated from year to year by their death and do not pose any danger to the world – not even with regard to their technology. The leading technical minds died a long time ago – the last of them about 15 years ago. The rest of the workforce was made up of auxiliaries and fanatical leaders who, in terms of technical developments, must be called zero forces. Even workers who were responsible for the maintenance of the technical equipment and aircraft etc. have not existed for quite some time, which of course means that most of the equipment and aircraft have already been destroyed, so that in 1996 there were only two operational aircraft left, which at that time also had serious defects.

Regarding the plans for the flying discs, it has to be said that these were already destroyed in the sixties by certain circumstances, about which I can give no information at all. As far as discarded aircraft are concerned, the following factors must be taken into account: Various flying discs were completely destroyed in crashes, to such an extent that no technical knowledge can be gained from them, should they ever be found. The reason for this total destruction was a self-destruct mechanism that is built into every flying disc – even the two that existed at least in 1996. The self-destruction was so effective that it completely shredded the flying disc and practically tore it apart when the self-ignition was triggered. The self-destruct mechanism has been an integral part of the flying disc since the beginning of its existence, very cleverly constructed and deadly safe. A flying disc could never and should never be left unattended, because otherwise it would automatically destroy itself. In this consequence, a guard always had to remain on board the aircraft in order to prevent the self-destruction of the flying screen, because the self-destruction mechanism was constructed in such a way that no treason could be practiced and no escape could be made. Once the self-destruct mechanism had been activated, it could not and cannot be deactivated in such a way that the self-destruction of the flying disc could have been prevented. A prevention of the self-destruction was and is only possible for 60 minutes at a time, after which the self-destruction automatically starts, if not caused by a complicated sensor, which could only be or can only be influenced in a certain way, another 60 minutes delay. However, this meant and still means today, when the remaining two flying discs still exist, that day and night a guard person remains in the aircraft and has to 'calm down' the self-destruct mechanism every hour and thus influence it. If this does not happen, the mechanism becomes active and can no longer be stopped, completely destroying and tearing apart the aircraft. This also eliminates the danger that is mentioned in the question of what happens to all technology, as a legacy, so to speak, when the last of the South American group blesses the temporal. The technique of self-destruction is certainly not new, but its nature and function are based on a high level of technical and electronic development. And the facilities of the South American Group base are also equipped with such self-destruct mechanisms, so that all facilities are completely destroyed if the delay mechanism is no longer activated. However, hardly anyone will notice this when the time comes, because the group's facilities are well camouflaged in previously unexplored areas of the jungle/rainforest. So there is no reason to fear that the technology of the group will fall into other hands.

Florena:

50. ... Your answer explanation is appropriate.

51. It has to be said, however, that of all flying discs only one is left, which, however, already has flight-inhibiting defects and will probably be destroyed within the next few months.

Billy:

Then, that now is finally clear. The connections with the Gizeh-honchos and other extraterrestrials are therefore much trickier and more extensive, as you told me. But even so, I also have never asked about it, consequently you also have told me nothing about the details. Then, however, I have a problem again, and in fact with the extraterrestrial aircraft, that the Brazilian-group had, from which I was set about in the year 1976 in Winkelriet near Wetzikon. You told me at that time – which unfortunately was not recorded in any contact-report – that it concerned a beamship, which indeed was piloted by people from a distant galaxy, and in fact with poison gas breathers or such, that they, however, were members of your federation, if I am not mistaken. With the 65th Contact on the 23rd of October 1976 you said the following:

Ptaah:

52. Further also, I was able to clarify the events in the Winkelriet near Wetzikon near your domicile, so in addition also the existence of that track of a beamship, which was not from one of our beamships.

53. With the track discovered by you, it concerns a ship of the Brazilian private interest group, who had sent out a command for the most exact probe of your circumstances.

54. In accordance with my investigations, it was about five people, who checked everything very accurately.

55. The ship doesn't even represent a product of the power-group itself, but loot.

56. It was stolen from a crew from a distant galaxy who landed in Brazil years ago, who had to make a forced landing because of some damage.

57. The interstellar drive of the ship was completely destroyed and cannot be repaired again, at least not by the technicians of this power-group.

58. Only the planetary anti-gravity-drive is fully functional, which is suffice for planetary flights.

59. However, you saw the same ship weeks later in the Winkelriet, where you on your very irrational search for this, for you, mysterious object, also discovered this, which put you very much in danger.

60. Two men were in the terrain out there and observed your arrival, which was an easy game for them, because at the time they observed you constantly.

61. In the desire to kill you, they prepared everything and steered you to the place of the planned event.

62. It was your luck, that you drove in your vehicle with caution and without lights on that dark night, because it was only through this, that you were not exactly recognisable in the darkness, that the shot from the gun missed you.

Ptaah:

18. Unfortunately you are mistaken, dear friend, because the strangers were not members of our federation, but they belonged to another group of the Gizeh-Intelligences and were stationed also with these, whereby they had to make an emergency landing in Brazil at that time and were captured by the Brazilian-group.

19. Actually they were poison gas breathers, who all died, when their respiration-equipment failed.

20. They could not leave the Earth anymore, because their interstellar drive was completely destroyed, which was a work of the Gizeh-Intelligences, as we found by experience through the members of the Sirian group.

21. The reason for the destruction of the drive was so that they could not flee, because the Gizeh-Intelligences had a `change` in fundamental attitude.

Billy:

And the Gizeh-twerps didn't undertake anything, as the ship had to make an emergency landing in Brazil, and the respiration-equipment failed, so also nothing, since the old Nazis of the Brazilian-group captured the ship?

Ptaah:

22. Their nature and behaviour was, that they simply gave up lost aircraft, as also they were not concerned about missing people etc. either.

23. Furthermore they were on close terms with the Brazilian group, which, however, that already for a long time does not exist anymore, because everyone of the faction has died by now because of ageing and illness.

Billy:

All members of this group were former officers of the German empire who escaped from Germany to Brazil, they were mainly leading lights and henchmen of the Nazi-empire and therefore escaped war-criminals.

Ptaah:

24. This was actually the case.

Billy:

Something else: Many of the great Nazis fled to Argentina at the end of the Second World War, and they also took secret plans of flying discs with them. Then it happened, as happened at Area 51, that suddenly many different unknown flying objects were sighted over the country, called UFOs. In Argentina it was the German Nazi engineers and Nazi greats who had fled, and at Area 51 it was the German Nazi engineers who had been captured by the USA and enlisted to build flying discs and rockets etc., for which these Nazis had their past simply erased and were granted American citizenship. The question: There are still various reports of UFOs in areas of Mexico and Argentina and elsewhere in South America, as well as in the USA, what is to be thought of? Do old Nazi engineers still work in Argentina, and are strange flying apparatus still being worked on in Area 51, which are then observed as 'UFOs'?

Ptaah:

42. For a number of years now we have not made any special efforts to deal with these things, because they are no longer of any importance to us, so we only deal with them sporadically.

43. Our findings, however, are that there is always something to be found in relation to so-called UFO observations.

44. It is true that with regard to such observations, which are made from time to time all over the world, today not as many unknown objects are observed as in the past from Area 51 and from Argentina etc., and also not with regard to our and our allies' flying apparatus, but they still appear sporadically.

45. The main phase of alien terrestrial missile development is over, for its main period was during the Second World War and then during the so-called 'Cold War'.

Billy:

... The film sequences were black and white shots that looked as if they really came from the forties or fifties. In my opinion, it is very possible that the various flying apparatuses shown are original shots, showing flying apparatuses that really flew through the air and were classified by observers as extraterrestrial UFOs. This is precisely because, due to the nationwide military secrecy, they had no idea that these were secret terrestrial developments of futuristic flying apparatus. The same was the case in Argentina and elsewhere in South America, except that at the end of the Second World War, Nazi engineers who had fled Germany realised their plans for futuristic flying apparatus, which then flew through the air as UFOs and still do so here and there, as in the USA and elsewhere. ...

Ptaah:

7. What I can say is that the black and white film sequences you mentioned really do correspond to original footage and show secret US flying apparatus that was further developed according to Nazi plans.

8. This also involved Nazi engineers who were acquitted of their Nazi past in the USA and became American citizens.

9. These, like the Nazi engineers who had fled to South America, also continued to work on the development of disc, bell and balloon-shaped flying apparatus which were airworthy and with which extensive test flights were carried out.

10. This could be kept secret until today, apart from the fact that the flying apparatuses were seen by many people from the population, who classified the whole thing as extraterrestrial flying apparatuses respectively as UFOs.

11. However, the further development of such secret flying apparatus has not been discontinued, neither in the United States nor in various places in South America, nor in other countries. Consequently, test flights are still being carried out with such apparatus today, not only over the production areas but also in the airspace around the planet.

12. And as it must be, these flying apparatuses are judged by observers around the world to be extraterrestrial UFOs, as has always been the case.

13. This is not least because the US secret services and the US Air Force, as well as those in charge of Area 51, have been secretly fuelling UFO mania among the population through all kinds of machinations in order to conceal the truth of the experimental flying apparatus.

14. The so-called 'Cold War' was a very special factor, which is why everything was handled in great secrecy, and this has remained so to this day, even if the whole thing was interrupted by the end of the {break in text} of cold warfare has diminished, so the great boom in test flights with secret futuristic flying apparatus is over.

15. This does not mean that such flying apparatuses would not continue to be further developed and tested with secret test flights, because this is actually the case in various places, and therefore such objects can still be observed as UFOs, although no longer to the same extent as was the case in the past.

16. Most of these test flights are still carried out in the USA and at various locations in South America.

17. With regard to such flying apparatus, even today a secret further development is still underway, which is why the USA is also still trying to portray the Roswell case as an illusion and as an accident with a balloon apparatus.

18. This in order not to have to admit that they gained important technical knowledge from the crashed object, which they have been evaluating since then, in combination with the plan documents they have from the Nazi flying discs and Nazi flying bells they acquired in Germany at the end of the war.

19. And the fact that German Nazi engineers worked with US scientists, engineers and technicians after the end of World War II on all the secret flying disks and bells and on rocket construction, as was also the case in the USSR, should also remain secret.

Billy:

... that group in South America, which emerged from fugitive NAZI engineers, which built flying discs in Germany and then later in the USA and in South Africa? I knew about that, but is there anything special about it, in particular whether such flying discs are still being produced today and whether they still fly around the world?

Ptaah:

47. None of this has changed, not even the fact that certain states continue to work within the same framework and that the NAZI flying apparatus technology captured by the war victors continues to be worked on, as do many descendants of NAZI engineers who have been trained as engineers and who can also work on NAZI techniques relating to flying discs, etc. and show good results.

Billy:

Mainly in South America, but probably not only in one country, right?

Ptaah:

48. That is correct.

https://www.futureofmankind.co.uk/Billy_Meier/Contact_Report_565

Billy:

... But the UFOs, the so-called 'Foo Fighters', which were observed during the Second World War, were they secret earthly flying machines?

Ptaah:

59. No, we were also able to clarify this; all of them were members of the four groups unknown to us, whose flying apparatus we are also unable to penetrate today with our latest analysis apparatus and equipment.

{Note: Here there seems to be the clarification that actual "Foo Fighters", spacecraft originating from the "four groups" (extraterrestrials, "resident extraterrestrials", and "future Earth" humanity) are different from the secret Nazi aircraft technology, also popularly referred to as Foo Fighters.}

https://www.futureofmankind.co.uk/Billy_Meier/Contact_Report_724

Mr. ... {letter with questions}:

10. There was a man in America whose name was James Forrester, etc...

Answer {Billy}:

And as for the 10th question, "There was a man in America named James Forrester who knew something about UFOs, but then he killed himself, but why I do not know, so I want to know why?"

To this it is to be said that this man did not commit suicide - and I know this very well, for at that time the whole incident was observed by Sfath, for which he explained the whole circumstances to me and bound me to silence in such a way that I would never mention publicly the effective and true background and machinations of the far-reaching incidents, but only to that man who would then be the real one, who would take up my contacts with you Plejaren and make them known world- wide, but then persistently keep silent about all the special things I would entrust to him. {Note: "that man..." may be referring to Wendelle Stevens.}

Now the fact is that on the one hand the name of the man was not James Forrester but James Vincent Forrestal, the first Secretary of Defense of the United States of America, and he had such extensive knowledge in matters of UFOs and US defense plans and intelligence operations, etc., etc., that a certain group and their forces, etc., feared in it a great danger as regards the exposure of their devious machinations. This was because Forrestal did not agree with these machinations and was therefore a danger to the group, as a result of which it was decided to liquidate him, which was then done by murdering him at 1:47 hrs on the morning of the 22nd of May 1949, first by strangling him to unconsciousness in the Bethesda Naval Hospital and then by throwing him out of a window on the 16th floor and consequently crushing him on the floor.

77. This is what we call the direct vision of the future.

78. The second possibility is that of calculating combinatorial seeing, as it is also done in part by you and is known under the wrong name or the wrong designation CLAIRVOYANCE.

Whereby the so-called supernatural of course does not exist in any way, because everything and everything is always naturally explainable and also naturally given. The supernatural exists only in the ignorance and the incomprehension of man, because he has no knowledge about all those things which he cannot understand and cannot explain himself. Truthfully everything so-called supernatural is absolutely natural and thus also classified according to the corresponding laws of spirit or matter, which are able to give an explanation for everything and everyone, whereby something supernatural becomes a fact of non-existence. Everything that can be grasped and perceived, everything that can be seen and heard and everything that can be felt, recognized, experienced and experienced, etc., is always real, real and natural in every case, regardless of whether it takes place on a spiritual or material level or on a medium level between spirit and matter, which is so often called the level of the supernatural or the supernatural by parapsychologists and esoterics who do not understand it.

181. Also fortune telling, exorcism, clairvoyance, and spiritual healing in a deceptive manner, together with many other similarly orientated things, will be brought to you, as well as automatic writing and alleged channelising, which will, in the time to come, be called channelling.

182. Their rule is only lying and deceit, delusion, false teaching, illness and profit-making, for which reason you shall also protect yourself from it; as well as from the false teachings and machinations of the religions and the sects which have arisen from them and continue to arise from them, which will be degenerating in such a way in the coming time that, from them, murder and mass-murder will result.

183. Protect yourself from all these things every moment of your life, because lying, deception, slander and untruth will, in the coming time, be rife more than ever before.

184. It will be especially so when the change of the millennium will send the human beings into excitement and confusion.

... But all this has nothing to do with the so-called 'places of power' as they are thought up by people who believe that great mental powers or other vibrations occur and work in a parapsychological or esoteric framework, which is of course pure nonsense. All this is based solely on a profound imagination and on delusions that are the preserve of all those who believe this nonsense. I know from my own experience that the people who cling to the nonsense of this belief are as completely unteachable as those who have a strong religious, sectarian, political, scientific or philosophical belief. For them, truth and reality are something foreign or imaginary, which is why they banish themselves to the realm of illusion and negate everything that has to do with truth and reality. In fact, I know what I am talking about, because I have had enough experience around the world, also with regard to the deceptions of alleged 'ghostly apparitions', 'ghost photos', 'spirit operations', 'spirit healing', alleged telekinesis, telepathy and levitation, clairvoyance etc. Also with regard to UFOs, which are supposed to be of extraterrestrial origin, but which are in fact of earthly origin, I have learned a great deal through your help and have gained knowledge which proves that on earth everything in this respect is usually based on faith and delusion as well as on the machinations of lies, deception, charlatany, tricks, deception and illusion, but also on imagination, deception and self-generated visions etc.

Billy:

Today Silvano drew my attention to the fact that on Swiss television SRG1 at 20:00 hrs to 21:00 hrs a programme was being broadcast which was about clairvoyance. I watched this program of course. It was about a woman in her thirties named A. C., who is supposed to be clairvoyant and to see dead humans, aliens, the aura of humans, etc. She is also in the habit of giving advice and treatment to other humans, and she also works in a hospital under the patronage of a doctor. But as I see it, the woman suffers from a meditative form of schizophrenia, as you once described this disease to me. I cannot remember the correct name you gave to this form of schizophrenia.

Ptaah:

8. But there are a large number of forms of this kind of illness – and that is what it is – among the humans on Earth.

9. And I have to say that your observation and judgement is correct with regard to the fact that the woman suffers from a very rare form of a persistently acute form of schizophrenia, which is unconsciously meditative-delusional due to childhood-related desire circumstances.
10. It is an acute and persistent paranoid-hallucinatory schizophrenia, which, due to an unconscious and likewise acute permanent and thus persistent alpha wave meditative state, causes delusional or paranoid and hallucinatory modes of experience and forms of experience, whereby only a very slight or no impairment of the formal world of thought appears, and the formation of feelings, the emotional world and the emotional responsiveness are fully preserved.
11. This is a permanent condition which is extremely difficult to diagnose and therefore difficult to recognize even by our specialists, psychiatrists and trained psychologists.
12. This is especially true because a person afflicted by this consciousness-related disease appears to be completely normal and does not have any recognizable brain-organic disease or abnormal behaviour, speech, conduct or movement etc.
13. As a rule, this form of consciousness-disease also brings with it the fact that those afflicted with it have an excessive sensitivity or sensitivity, whereby they are able to absorb and define all kinds of impulses with regard to thoughts, feelings and pain of their fellow men, which is also true for this woman.
14. On Earth, the psychological and psychiatric specialists are still completely ignorant of this clinical picture, which is why they classify people suffering from this kind of illness as completely normal and even admit that they are clairvoyant and psychic, etc., which is not the case.
15. It is not uncommon for humans who have fallen prey to the disease of paranoid hallucinatory schizophrenia in the form of alpha wave meditation to have extraordinary psychological abilities, through which they can stimulate suffering fellow humans to unconscious self-healing by suggestive influence.
16. Often fantastic as well as realistic images of the schizophrenia sufferers come into play, which they suggest to the sick and suffering people, who then accept them, take them for granted and work with them, whereby self-suggestion generates self-healing.
17. The process is similar to the one that is practiced and applied by the so-called spiritual healers.
18. In the condition of the woman you mentioned, the origin of her illness can be traced back to her childhood, namely to the fact that she felt extremely alone in childhood and intensely wished to have company around her.
19. In the course of time, this desire became a mania, from which the aforementioned form of paranoid hallucinatory schizophrenia soon developed into the alpha wave meditative form, which already broke out in puberty.
20. The disease developed in such a way that she perceived delusions in the form of apparent auras around people as well as energy points and energy fields on and in their bodies.
21. It also resulted in her visioning to see the supposedly deceased and communicating with them – as well as with imaginary other beings – which has been preserved until today.
22. Eventually, the disease spread to the point where she became delusional in believing that she could communicate with objects, animals, fruits and vegetables etc. and that these would give her valuable answers etc., which is due to the fact that in her schizophrenic state she also has voice hallucinations.
23. Her illness is therefore based on acoustic and optical hallucinations in addition to other things.

... It is the same with those who believe in spiritual healing, in radiesthesia or in swinging, as well as in clairvoyance, card fighting, dowsing, table-turning, ghosts, etc., and in the tricks and machinations of magicians as supernatural powers. It is only a natural consequence that, of course, telepathy and telekinesis as well as teleportation and levitation – which are in the realm of reality – are brought into disrepute by tricksters through tricks and sleight of hand. But also with regard to these tricksters humans believe in supernatural powers, which do not really exist, because everything that is presented or appears as supernatural leads back to the human consciousness energies and their powers. These however are completely normal phenomena, even if they must still be called special abilities in the present time – always provided that humans possess such abilities, which with very few exceptions is however not the case.

... when we talk about the 'Great Oracle', we are referring mainly to the site at Delphi in Greece, where certain seers and priests made mysterious and ambiguous statements and interpretations, and dark hints about things and dreams, and prophesied prophecies. Correctly seen, then, the whole thing was based on fortune-telling and the like, as is still the case today, since countless fortune-tellers and soothsayers, card clubs and dubious media tell nonsense and also pull the wool over their followers and believers who are addicted to them, in order to frighten them with their nonsense and bollocks. Nowadays, everything concerning 'fortune telling' is such that the 'fortune tellers' who beat the cards, read the future from the coffee grounds, make their pendulum play and do all sorts of other 'mysterious' things, have even better psychological knowledge than the 'fortune tellers' of ancient or other ancient times. This way they can 'pull the worms out of the noses' of their believing customers without being noticed by those who are guided by them, who then take everything at face value and believe what they are told 'fortune-telling'.

Ptaah:

45. Unfortunately, this nonsense will continue for a long time, because only when Earth-humans find their way to the real reality and truth and free themselves from any belief, they will be able to free themselves from the whole that is to be called nonsense.

280. Superstition and belief in ghosts and ghosts, sect induced clairvoyance, God's message and religious miraculous activity will lead to new highlights in the future, as will fear of ghosts, mysticism, belief in miracles and delusions.

281. All this will be irresponsibly controlled by the lies and deception of religions and sects and their fanatical and power-obsessed advocates, who gather many believers around them and seduce them to torture, violence, war, murder, rape and destruction in the name of an alleged Creator God, in order to torture and kill innocent people as God's warriors and thereby reach their alleged God in Paradise.

Billy:

Prophecy has absolutely nothing to do with the unnatural or supernatural and in no way with fortune-telling, for fortune-telling, which brings together numerous practices and methods, is supposedly intended – which is of course nonsense – to predict future events, happenings and situations, etc., but also to predict happenings in the future. but also events, occurrences, incidents, happenings, encounters, episodes, incidents, occurrences, phenomena and peculiarities etc. from the present or the past, which are beyond the knowledge of those who ask fortune-tellers about them and commission them to 'ascertain' everything fortune-tellingly.

Fortune-telling and clairvoyance are absolutely nonsensical and have nothing to do with prophecy or effective prediction, for a truthful prediction is fulfilled with 100 per cent certainty, but only comes about through a vision of the future according to a high-percentage probability calculation or through a real vision or technically founded time travel into the future. Fortune-telling and clairvoyance have nothing to do with anything other than a nonsense practice and charlatantry, even if, to the contrary, esotericism and parapsychology claim that both come about through precognition (Latin: before knowledge), whereby future events can supposedly be predicted in this way. Since the 18th century, however, this fact has no longer been open to scientific discussion.

Fortune-telling has nothing to do with prognostication, which is created solely by recognising and understanding normal causal connections that are fundamentally comprehensible to any person with understanding and reason. This is in contrast to fortune-telling, which claims to possess a knowledge of occult connections hidden from the uninformed, which enables the fortune-teller to see into the future, present or past, which of course corresponds to an absolutely imbecilic and fraudulent claim. Certain fortune-tellers claim in the same nonsensical framework that they have immediate intuitive access to knowledge about the past, present and future, just as they have a 'second sight' or precognition. Others, on the other hand, are faking that they can interpret signs that are symbols of the future, whereby this interpretation of signs usually has two different types, one in the form in which the fortune teller interprets events or circumstances etc. that cannot be influenced by him or her as signs that the future is coming. The first is the form in which the fortune-teller interprets events or circumstances, etc., which cannot be influenced by him/her, as signs that future events can be read out of them, whereby the whole thing is effectively caused by the fortune-teller himself/herself, according to his/her own specific rules, whereby an event is supposed to result, the course or result of which is in turn invented solely by the fortune-teller and is then understood and interpreted as coded information about the future.

The first form includes, among other things, the interpretation of astrological constellations, as well as unusual weather phenomena and chiromancy or palmistry, while the second form includes card-reading or the so-called throwing or placing of objects such as dice, bones, etc., and in the case of the egg oracle, of course, eggs, from which an invented fantasy answer to a previously posed future-related question is 'read'. Even in ancient divination theory, a distinction was made between 'natural' or immediate knowledge of the future and 'artificial' knowledge based on the interpretation of signs by 'experts'. A somewhat different distinction is found especially in the shamanic practices cultivated by ethnically oriented religions, which make a special classification with regard to so-called intuitive divination, in which the diviner refers only to his/her supposedly 'intuitive' intuition from his/her 'spirit' and its 'knowledge'. This, whereas in an alleged 'possession divination', gods or other disembodied beings are said to temporarily take possession of the body and transmit messages through it. In such divination, which is supposed to be 'wise', the diviners claim that it is a basis of their knowledge of the future and objective laws known to them, from which they can derive accurate conclusions in individual cases; which is of course absolute nonsense.

Fortune-telling is also used in connection with religious and sectarian prophecies or divinations, although this should not be understood as a real prophecy or divination. In truth, the whole of this kind of religious-sectarian reference comes to the same thing, because it has been a matter of divination since time immemorial. This is precisely because the early 'prophecies' and 'divinations' allegedly brought by prophets and heralds were not revealed and brought by effectively real and true prophets and heralds, but by soothsayers. These alleged and effectively false 'prophecies' or 'divinations' were slanderously put into the mouths of the real and true prophets and heralds, consequently all the lies have been handed down religiously and sectarianly throughout the ages until today as naked lies. These are future-related false and lie-laden assertions for which a direct 'divine' inspiration has been claimed by their obedient and unsophisticated believers since the existence of the religions and sects and is still believed by today's believers. The former true prophets and prophetesses listed by the religions and sects are, on the one hand, being falsely traded and misused as 'God's messengers', and on the other hand, they are being attributed with ancient prophecies of various kinds which they never revealed. And if true prophetic or prophesying unveilings have been handed down, they have usually been so misleadingly falsified that the actual meaning of the revelation can hardly or no longer be defined. On the other hand, a prophet and herald – also of a female nature – was and still is understood and worshipped as a commissioned herald of a divine plan and will by the obedient, thoughtless blind believers who are incapable of making their own decisions. It should also be explained that prophecies or divinations by true prophets are directed towards the fate of a nation or the fate of several nations or even the fate of the whole of humanity. Fortune-telling and clairvoyance cannot be scientifically proven to this day, as even the advanced Pleiadian sciences make it clear that it is not a real human ability and possibility. Consequently, a human being cannot divinely perceive and predict a present, future or past event, occurrence, circumstance or situation, etc., or divinely or clairvoyantly state any facts concerning the present or the past. The fact is that at the time of the alleged foresight, present vision or past vision of a fortune teller, no rational knowledge is available for the recognition of any knowledge or events etc. and no vision, recognition or knowledge can be obtained through precognition. ... Fortune-telling and clairvoyance have nothing to do with prophecy, nor with intuition, which is fundamentally inherent in every rational human being. ... Prophecy must also not be confused with so-called occult or demonic fortune-telling, nor with any religious-sectarian, threatening 'prophecies', which without exception belong to the realm of fantasy. Unfortunately, however, false prophets and prophetesses have appeared time and again since time immemorial – and still appear today – whereby their 'revelations' were and are very often or even without exception of a religious-sectarian nature.

If the human being believes in symbols, is addicted to a religious faith or subscribes to horoscopes or fortune-telling, etc., then at a certain moment he thinks and acts completely unconsciously and carelessly exactly according to the meaning he assigns to the symbol, the horoscope or the fortune-telling, etc., because he believes in it, as a result of which what he imagines will become and prove to be reality inevitably comes to pass and is fulfilled. And then everything actually comes to pass in the imagined way, and it does not matter whether it is in origin an alleged energy or power of a rune, some symbol of some form, a horoscope, a thing or a prophecy, etc., because it is believed in, then it inevitably comes to pass, and exactly in the way that the human being assigns to it meaning and expects from the whole.

... clairvoyance is usually based on fraud and deception, especially in the case of those 'clairvoyant talents' who offer themselves in the newspapers with clairvoyant abilities – usually for money – and then fantasise about things from heaven that are so ashen and stupid that even chickens have to laugh at them. This, while however the psychic believers are so lowly intelligent and simple-minded that they believe these 'psychic' lies and scams. However, this 'clairvoyance' has nothing to do with when an honest human being has a true vision through some energetic circumstances and events and sees what will happen in the future sooner or later. However, this human being will most certainly never allow himself to be paid for revealing what the vision has revealed to him. This is also the case with the warning that this and that will be the result and the goal if people continue to think or act in the same wrong manner. Such a human being also has nothing to do with clairvoyance, but only with clear logic, clear understanding and clear reason. And it is safe to say that a human being who announces something threatening in this wise is also not clairvoyant and will never be paid for his or her advice. Only 'clairvoyants', who are truly liars and deceivers, allow themselves to be paid for their lies and deceptions conjured up from the heavens, and moreover it is people who look for the lowly intelligent and simple-minded in newspapers and magazines or on the Internet who believe their 'clairvoyant' nonsense, their lies, deceptions and fantasies and pay dearly for them.

189. That is well-known to me.

13. Basically, this work of lies and slander, created at the beginning of the 20th century, can be traced back to the Russian secret service.

14. Lying and slanderous, this book claims that a secret world conspiracy has been uncovered, which originated with Judaism and had the aim of achieving world domination.

15. This is to be achieved through capitalism and with the help of Freemasons and communism.

500. But the Earth-humans will discover this for themselves, shortly before that prophecy is fulfilled, which you received from Petale on the 30th of January 1976.

Billy:

At the moment, I cannot remember what prophecy this concerns.

Quetzal:

501. It is that one which speaks of the Scorpion.

Billy:

Ah, now I remember. It says in that prophecy that shortly before the monsoon season, in the country of the Elephant and the Peacock, the reigning Scorpion will die. In addition, if I have understood this prophecy correctly, then the death of the Scorpion should result through force.

Quetzal:

502. That is correct, but talk of a forcible death of the Scorpion only appears in the prophecy in a hidden form.

Billy:

Yes, I remember. Then Indira Gandhi in India will be murdered because she holds the office of Prime Minister at the time.

Quetzal:

503. That is of correctness.

Billy:

Her astrological sign is Scorpio.

Quetzal:

504. And also in the month of Scorpio, she will be murdered, namely on the 31st of October, 1984.

Billy:

And who will commit the crime?

Quetzal:

505. It will be her own people, so namely men of her bodyguard.

Billy:

And who will take over the office of Prime Minister for her? Is that already certain?

Quetzal:

506. That is, likewise, already determined.

507. Indira Gandhi's son, Rajiv, will assume office.

Billy:

And, will one catch the assassin?

Quetzal:

508. There will be several, at least three.

Billy:

Yes, and how will Indira Gandhi be killed, then?

Quetzal:

510. By shots – she will be hit by ten of them.

Billy:

A true slaughter – and one cannot do anything about this again, right?

Quetzal:

511. You should know that such an endeavour would be futile because things that are determined in such a wise are the equivalent of an unchangeable programming, so they are unstoppable.

Billy:

And what is the reason for the murder?

Quetzal:

512. Indira Gandhi will make the Sikhs mortal enemies to herself in the course of the year 1984, and these will then have her be murdered out of revenge.

514. Thus, it could be that three as well as only two bodyguards will be involved in the assassination attempt.

515. What is still to be mentioned in this case is that the death of the prime minister will trigger a campaign of revenge throughout India against the religious members of the bodyguard, who will fall victim to 2,700 people.

Billy:

Then a great deal will happen there in India.

Quetzal:

516. That will be a fact.

Billy:

But this also is not likely to change.

Quetzal:

517. No, but the events will not occupy the world public for too long because the choice of the American president will outplay this event a few days later.

Ghosts / Poltergeists / Apparitions

<https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Poltergeist>

https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Apparitional_experience

https://www.futureofmankind.co.uk/Billy_Meier/Fluidal_Energy

Teleplasty is the conscious generation of shadowy forms and projections by means of the block of mentality's powers.

With this, however, if the human psyche, in cooperation with the entirety of the mental powers, is the actual trigger of the phenomena, then the projections are completely unconsciously evoked.

In this case it then deals with an apparition in the form of psychoteleplasty.

However, this phenomenon has, in no way, anything to do with a "materialisation of ghosts/spirits" as these materialisation phenomena are interpreted and explained by spiritualism.

Actually, with that, it therefore does not deal with so-called ectoplasm apparitions, respectively, teleplasma apparitions, from which the term teleplasty has recently appeared.

[translators' note: teleplasma is a Greek word used in German, but not English]

If these materialisation phenomena are unconsciously evoked as a result of certain damaged states of the psyche, then it is psychoteleplasty.

Therefore, none of that, neither in one form nor the other, has anything to do with the so-called ectoplasm apparitions of spiritualism.

https://www.futureofmankind.co.uk/Billy_Meier/Contact_Report_007

Semjase:

184. A "world of spirits," as you called it, does not exist.
185. There are only the fine-fluidal worlds in this regard.
186. These are worlds that are located in other dimensions and harbour bodiless spirit forms.
187. When a spirit leaves a material body, then it cannot simply settle down anywhere; it must inhabit a body again, i.e. it enters a fine-fluidal world, thus a world of spirit forms, of which there are countless ones.
188. There, the spirit lives as its own form for so long, until it returns again into a newly created host body.

202. The overall consciousness-blocks, which enter fine-fluidal worlds like the spirit forms themselves, are no further along in their knowledge than they were in their material life.
203. Untruth and lies and very deliberate deception are still characteristic of them as well.
204. Therefore the materially living ones should not want to get in touch with them, because they could be lied to on a large scale.
205. It would be better for the living ones to increase their knowledge through their own consciousness-work than to aim to acquire it in this way, because in many cases they would only be led into the unreal.
206. Of course, there are also overall consciousness-blocks that would be able to respond in an honest mentality.
207. However, there are few of them, and they live in higher spheres because they are further developed consciousness-wise.
208. On the whole, however, there are few human beings who can enter into connection with the deceased, as you say.

... an you tell me – since you deal with brain research – whether a human being's belief in God and saints is based on any damage to the brain or not? Somehow, it just seems to me that belief in God and saints as well as in ghosts, dead-talkers, and similar nonsense could be based on brain damage and damage to the consciousness.

Quetzal:

121. One could say that, in a certain sense, but this damage is caused by the world of thoughts and feelings of a person himself/herself.

122. Through religious as well as other delusion-believing thoughts and feelings, electric tensions, which affect certain areas of the brain, arise in the brain.

123. If these areas are hit by the electric swinging waves, then impulses form in the brain, by which a delusional faith is awakened and by which even strong visionary pictures can appear and things can be sensed, which in nowise correspond to the reality.

124. Visions such as the seeing of God, saints, and Jesus Christ as well as Virgin Mary apparitions, etc. are not unusual, as also not the appearance of stigmata, as these were added to Jmmanuel during the crucifixion on the hands and feet, on the loins, etc., or on the head through the crown of thorns.

125. The electrical swinging waves, which are caused by religious beliefs and other delusional beliefs or otherwise, influence the affected brain areas so much that very quickly, a form of addiction and mania arises, from which a person can only escape with difficulty.

126. Fairly often, the whole thing leads to evil fanaticism.

Billy:

Billy:

... The electromagnetic vibrations from electronic devices as well as strong Earth-magnetic vibrations are indeed really not harmless, because hallucinations, aggression, depression, low morale and discord – indeed also the phenomena of "ghostly apparitions" – can even be provoked which have no connection with acute or stored mental vibrations, respectively fluidal powers, rather, are based, as a rule, on fantasies and imaginations which are normally simply caused by states of angst. The basis for this can really be very strong electromagnetism, for example, by way of electronic devices, and so forth, or it can simply arise as a result of a strong magnetic field of the Earth. Extremely low-pitched sounds from electronic devices and other things as well as from nature, which cannot be perceived by the human ear – so-called infrasound – can cause strong vibrations, in the case of objects and with the human body and all its organs, such as, for instance, also in the eyes. The consequences of that are hallucinations and panic attacks as well as depression, discord and negative moral states, because the thoughts and feelings as well as the consciousness succumb to confusion as a result of the vibrations. In the said form, there is a connection among infra-sound, electromagnetism, and ghostly apparitions. Infrasound and electromagnetism can trigger the internal attack-and-escape mechanism of the human being as well as panic attacks and hallucinations, and so forth, and it is especially the case if one is in a spooky or weird-looking place, in a depressed mood or in a mystical situation, and so forth. That which is decisive in this regard is that the sense of the human beings is under great tension, whereby he perceives the environment and his situation, and so forth, as a threat. In this state, then "ghostly apparitions" can be seen or strange, ghostly sounds can be heard, or unreal touches can be felt, and so forth. Strong electromagnetic fields have effects on the human body and its organs, which therefore also includes the brain and consciousness as well as the thoughts, emotions and the psyche, which lead to hallucinations, whereby the human being sees, hears and feels things which are not real. Electromagnetism and infrasound produce an effect on the human brain in such a way, that, for example, the feeling is created that someone strange is present – a ghost, and so forth, because he cannot be seen, or can be dimly seen as a result of the imagination. Faces and figures can also be seen and sounds as well as unreal breathing, and so forth can be heard, or, in the same way, unreal touches can be felt. Thereby the human being can become increasingly insecure and anxious, because the activity of fantasy and the imagination increases and everything is considered absolutely real, as for example in a similar manner to the way human beings appear who believe that they have been abducted and examined or impregnated by extraterrestrials and later have their foetuses stolen, which, in regard to pregnancy, naturally, only applies to women. With all of these human beings, fantasy and the imagination – so to speak – go mad, whereby everything is of such a strong nature that the fantasy images and the imagination appear absolutely real – all caused by infrasound, or by strong electromagnetic fields. And human beings who succumb to this, consider everything to be real, and believe that it is truthful reality, in such a way that, consequently, even polygraphs and interviews under hypnosis can be withstood.

... The great bulk of Earthlings, as a result of their delusion of faith, is only oriented towards illusory thinking, but not towards the only correct and independent, reality-true and thus true self-determined thinking, without the influence of a faith. Thus the majority of Earthlings believe in 'God', 'higher beings', 'gods', 'angels', 'saints' and other fantasy figures, imaginary ghosts and other nonsense, which does not correspond to reality and its truth. Because of this delusion, the human beings' senses are directed to perceive ghostly things, voices, apparitions, touches, etc., which are not real but self-generated and imagined, but which are then believed to be real.

{Billy:}

evolution. From the previous existence as life energy and the evolution in a personality, the creation life energy stored up new energy in order to 'process' it in the plane of 'rest' one day. And when all is processed – at its indefinite time resp. duration – it will again animate a new personality, which, however, has nothing to do with the one that was formerly animated by this creation life energy, which existed on Earth or elsewhere. Thus there is no 'rebirth' in the sense that the human being on Earth imagines and is also misinstructed and deceived by lies. This also applies to 'ghostly apparitions', which truly have nothing to do with apparitions of the deceased in the sense that they would manifest themselves from the 'beyond'. Basically, such apparitions are energies that are bound to a specific place and that have been personally deposited by human beings during their lives. These are and also remain, so they remain effective even if the human being is deceased, but they continue to have an effect in the way the human being lived and deposited his energies. It is very rare that such deposits occur, because normally they have certain causes for their deposition. And since these deposits correspond to human energies, which are determined by the nature of the being – as is the case with every human being – and also exist for an immensely long time, they can remain in existence for a very long time. This is why especially visible phenomena are untruthfully called 'spirits' – just like earth gases, moor gases and swamp gases – but also inaudible noises or speech sounds etc. are thought by many spirit-believing human beings to be 'ghostly happenings' of deceased people.

In general, such 'ghostly phenomena', as well as faith energies, remain and accumulate for many years, even centuries and millennia, in certain places, often in houses and other buildings, etc., as they can also work and manifest themselves for good or evil. Depending on the character and nature of the person who has deposited everything, these energies and forces can be evil or benign and even energetically 'violent', but they can also somehow even speak and move material objects etc. – precisely through the energy and its power. Such phenomena, however, are by no means from an 'otherworldly realm of the dead', but are very strong and distinct energies and forces deposited by human beings once they have lived or are alive, that can manifest themselves visibly, audibly and also in some wise in the form of appearances, sounds or material movements.

Semjase:

120. The celestial sons or starfarers, as we want to call our forebears, were at home on many different planets of stars, in a different space-time configuration or far away from the SOL-system, whereby the planets were fundamentally different in climatic terms, hence they also produced other races which were able to adapt to the climate from the ur-beginning.

121. Due to the climate conditions, also a corresponding skin colour developed, of which there are innumerable in the universe.

122. Their body sizes were also different because, depending on the gravity of the planet in question, they ranged from only 50 centimetres tall up to several metres.

123. There were and are even beings, which you call gigantic ones, giants or titans, and such beings too once endued the Earth with life.

124. They too produced offspring here, but they were gradually exterminated because they were usually very malicious and exercised tyranny.

125. The different colour races of today are, thus, descendants of our variously coloured forebears, who came from different planets of foreign stars.

129. Well, you are right with your view that the human beings of the Earth are not descendants of the apes.

130. They were partially begotten by our forebears, who also mixed themselves with Earth beings, who were simply called "Eves" at that time.

135. But the Earth beings at that time were of the most diverse forms and kinds.

136. Some of them were completely wild creatures of human-like forms, some of which had been marooned on the Earth in earlier millennia by our forebears, that is, their descendants.

137. These descendants of the marooned were abused by foreign spacefarers ...

147. The Eves were besides Earth-created hominid living creatures nothing more than very wild descendants of those marooned thousands of years ago, from whom at that time any tools were taken away.

...

154. But since our forebears were mixed races of different colours and sizes, they of course also produced different colours and races of different sizes completely according to their characteristics.

155. The smallest ones were 50 cm tall, while the largest and most vicious ones reached some twelve metres.

156. Their appearance was also varying, and some type of them were only remotely reminiscent to human forms.

157. They were left to die out or were killed if they were too vicious.

158. In many cases, they hid themselves in far remote areas and survived for thousands of years, as their average age was about 1,500 years.

159. But little by little, they also became victims of the time or of the human beings.

160. The last of the vicious ones, whose life was ended with Gewaltsamkeit, died a little more than 230,000 years ago.

161. Today, according to our knowledge, only seven such beings of the old human life-forms still live on the Earth; where they remain so well hidden that they will certainly never be found and will one day die a peaceful death, and that without descendants, because they have become too old and passive for propagation.

162. More common than these gigantic ones, titanic, and cyclops, as you call them, were the simple giants.

163. They often served great and power-greedy rulers.

164. They were called "Goliaths" and were especially used for purposes of war.

11. Easter Island and Tiahuanaco are more than 5,000 kilometres apart, and yet they are directly related to each other

12. However, the history of the connection goes back to very early times and ended only 2,548 years ago, calculated back from today [1976 = 572 before Jmmanuel].

13. As I once explained to you, the last decisive settlement of the Earth by extraterrestrial intelligences took place about 13,500 Earth years ago.

14. As you know, several of the immigrant horde became renegades, including a man in the rank of a half-Ischwish called Viracocoha, who was already very old and extremely power-hungry.

16. Under his patronage and his cruel leadership, the highlands of Tiahuanaco at an altitude of about 4,000 metres were conquered, as was the Delta Island, which you call Easter Island.

17. After this conquest Viracocoha settled with a special bodyguard of cherubim on the small island Mot, which is situated in front of Easter Island and which you call Motunui or similar to my knowledge today.

21. He and his followers, escaped Lyrans like many others, who came to the Earth, were of gigantic physique, by earthly measure about eleven meters tall {36 feet}.

...

25. Similar events took place in the areas you call Pisco, Nazca and Sacsayhuaman, because the same giants had settled there.

...

28. Finding no cure for the epidemic, they fled Earth in their spaceships, set off into space and have since disappeared.

42. In general, many concerns about these giants and their activities on Earth at that time are mysterious to us, and we cannot find a solution for it.

...

Billy:

22. Okay, but these giants, were they only in the places you mentioned, or were they, or others, in other places on the Earth?

Semjase:

56. This race stayed exclusively in the areas I mentioned.

57. Further other races of gigantic proportions populated all continents.

58. Also cyclopes and titans as well as dwarfs settled on all continents.

59. They came and went, or they passed away for whatever reason.

Billy:

23. Aha, were the gods and demigods of Greek mythology such settlers from space?

Semjase:

60. Sure, they were a splinter group of descendants of the Hyperboreans.

Billy:

24. Oh well, now I understand to some extent the connections, good old Heracles said some very wondrous things, which just refer to it.

25. But now I wonder how big these Hyperborean descendants must have been, because with Asket I once had the opportunity to see something that will probably remain closed to the Earth-human forever.

26. And exactly according to what I saw, these Greek mythology gods or demigods must have been several meters tall.

27. Heracles alone must have measured about three metres {9.8 feet}, right?

Semjase:

61. Sure.

Billy:

28. Well, then is it also correct that Noah was around 3.10 metres tall {10.2 feet}, while Adam actually measured around 5 metres?

Semjase:

62. Sure, only Adam was less than 5 metres tall, he was still a little more than a metre shorter than that measure {@12.5 feet}.

...

Billy:

43. But how is it that Earth-humans are so small today despite their giant ancestors?

Semjase:

72. It is primarily the mixing factors with the Earth-originating human forms that are to blame for this, the crossbreeding genuses, as well as all the influences of the Earth itself, which is only able to carry smaller human beings.

73. Through these influences of the Earth all of our own ancestors also changed in their size, because they were also giants in former times.

74. In the course of the millennia, however, since they lived on Earth and became accustomed to it, they were subject to the alterational influences, so they became noticeably smaller in shape, thus we, as late direct descendants of them, show the same average size as their terrestrial humans.

76. This is in addition to those breeds that have kept their original size since primeval times as dwarf or giant breeds.

...

Billy:

102. But now I have another question about the giants in former times:

103. In different places of our Earth have been found petrified footprints of humans, of believe it or not 90 cm length.

104. How big were these people?

Semjase:

130. On average about 6 (six) meters to 6.50 meters. {19.7 to 21.3 feet}

Billy:

105. Aha, that is how I reckoned it.

106. I just multiplied the foot length by the average size of today's human being and came to 5.95 metres.

107. So I did not miss much.

108. Can I usually use this calculation for such comparisons, is it approximately correct?

Semjase:

131. Sure, it is even pretty accurate.

132. That you came to the lower result is only because the petrified footprints of those giants came from people who had not yet grown up.

133. So they are a bit smaller.

Billy:

On Earth, besides dinosaur traces, there are also human footprints that are millions of years old. These are both impressions that are still of normal size today, as it were, and those that are gigantic and thus originate from giants or giants, etc., and are much older in origin than the oldest traces of hominids found or their bone finds, which can only be traced back to about 4.5 million years, although earthborn humanoids lived nine to twelve million years ago. However, there are also ancient impressions and human footprints in small and large form next to dinosaur traces or elsewhere, which are between 65 and 140 million years old. How do you explain this when the first primeval human, hominid life-forms on earth lived at the earliest nine to twelve million years ago? I really mean prehistoric man.

Ptaah:

94. This is neither a secret nor a riddle, because all footprints of people of all sizes, from the dwarf-like beings to the giants, etc., are not traces of terrestrial human life-forms.

95. The impressions truthfully come from humans of planets not from Sol who visited Earth many millions of years ago or came here to live here.

96. Many of them also died here, whereby petrified traces, footprints and bones can still be found in many places on earth today and bear witness to this fact.

97. Earth-humans only existed nine to twelve million years ago.

Billy:

... With this I can say that the Earth-foreigners, who are generally simply called extraterrestrials or aliens by the Earthlings, have in fact been around for a long time. They stayed here and worked in many ways, as did their distant descendants, but they have also been active on Earth for centuries and millennia up to the present day, flying around and in and out of the Earth, and are observed again and again around the world by the Earthlings, whereby the American continent is of particular importance in this respect. Their early ancestors worked in many different ways on Earth, and also in various countries in Asia, North Africa and partly in Europe, but mainly in the early days in the North African country, which in later times was called 'Kemet' and then finally in later times Egypt, after which this name has been preserved until today. Your father Sfath taught me during a leap in time into the past to the land there, where the Earth-foreigners ruled at that time, whom he called 'long-skulls' and whom I have seen myself, that they had been on Earth for thousands of years. Because, in contrast to the round skulls of the human beings of Earth, they had skulls that were long and thickly protruding towards the back, they stood out unmistakably from the human beings of Earth just as other Earth-foreigners did around the world, such as giants up to about 3 metres tall, half-small people with large and somewhat v-shaped heads and excessively large eyes. Various such long skulls have also been found in modern times by archaeologists, etc., although to this day people still puzzle over what secret is connected with these skulls, which were not from human beings of the Earth, but belonged to Earth aliens. ...

Billy:

So also, for example, with regard to extraterrestrials who really came here, such as the long-skull ones who came from outer space and ... to Earth, as Sfath said, but which I should not say and keep silent about.

However, they were human beings who were also able to mix with the human beings and did so, such as the long skulls and the giants and dwarves, of whom there is talk in fairy tales, who had instilled and taught the early earthlings many things.

Billy:

Some of them were real giants of different sizes, but there were also human beings of normal sizes, and then also dwarfs of normal size, thus not microsomic human beings. [microsomia refers to humans with abnormally small bodies]

Billy:

But at that time there were also giants that were 3 metres and even taller, some up to 4 metres or so.

...

But despite their size, the giants were somehow able to mate with earthling women, so that even today the most distant offspring are still born, now as actual earthlings who are 2 metres or 2.30 metres tall or more.

Billy:

30. But now I am surprised how big Gilgamesh was, actually, king and demigod?

31. According to Sumerian tradition, he would have measured more than 7 metres if I used the big old cubit [ancient unit of measure = to length of forearm/ulna].

32. But according to the small cubit it would have been only a little more than three meters.

33. Which measurement is correct now, can you tell me that?

Semjase:

63. Sure, it is the big ulna with which you have to measure.

Billy:

34. Well, then Gilgamesh was about 7.50 metres tall {24½ feet}, was that right?

Semjase:

64. That is correct – except for a few centimetres.

Billy:

... Gilgamesh was descended from a race that came from a galaxy that is still unknown on Earth. Moreover, he was about 3 metres tall. How can it be, that he still lives on Earth today unrecognized? Relatively seen to the Earth-humans, he also does not age, for he, as you have explained, is 50,000 years old or more. And since you know him so well and also have the possibility of taking him back to his world, why don't you do this?

Quetzal:

24. You are mistaken in reference to the fact that the home galaxy of Gilgamesh is unknown on Earth because it was already discovered in the year 1781 by an astronomer named Méchain.

25. This is a somewhat oval spiral galaxy, which is simply called M94 – NGC 4736 by the earthly astro-scientists and which is seen about 20 million light-years away from the Earth.

Billy:

In our space-time configuration?

Quetzal:

26. That is of correctness.

27. But listen further:

28. With Gilgamesh's people, it concerned a race of morphogenetic ones, whose special ability was to change their shape and size.

29. A process that took several months for each occurrence, however.

Billy:

First of all: why do you speak of "concerned" and "was?" And secondly: does your explanation with regard to the morphogenetic ones mean that it concerns a morphogenesis, precisely in terms of biological morphology? Morphogenesis, nevertheless, refers to the formation of an organism or life form during his or her development, whereby everything depends on the hereditary predisposition and on the environment. Do you mean this?

Quetzal:

30. No, that is not the meaning of my words; rather, I speak of a shapeshifting that can be carried out arbitrarily during normal existence.

Billy:

Do you mean, for example, when the development of the physical body has already been completed? By this, I mean that a shapeshifting can be accomplished when...

Quetzal:

31. That is the meaning of my words, yes.

Billy:

Shapeshifting – then one could very well call these humans “shapeshifters.” Can they change, then, also their external and internal features, apart from their shapes?

Quetzal:

32. That is of correctness.

Billy:

You have not yet answered my question, however, as to why you said “concerned” and “was.”

Quetzal:

33. Gilgamesh’s people no longer exists because a sudden and unpredictable planetary catastrophe caused the whole race to become extinct within a few minutes.

34. There were no survivors because no human beings of this people also stayed outside of the planet.

35. Gilgamesh is, thus, the sole survivor, who has adapted his shape, however, to that of the earthly human and has morphogenetically transformed and found a new home in this world, which he no longer wants to leave.

Ptaah:

43. Some of the Earth-foreigners who came to Earth, due to errors in coordination, strayed directly to Earth instead of reaching the Lyra system, others were looking for the planet Malona/Phaeton, which they did not find, but came to Earth in their search.

44. Others were looking for Mars, but found it inanimate and finally came to Earth.

45. But there were also those who suffered an accident, including the Gilgamesh spacecraft of the very early days, as well as the spacecraft that caused the Tunguska catastrophe. ...

Billy:

Then there is a question about Gilgamesh, which you mentioned: In 1976, at the 69th contact, I spoke to your daughter Semjase about the fact that Gilgamesh was about 7.5 metres tall. But in 1988, at the 222nd contact, I talked to Quetzal about the fact that Gilgamesh was only three meters tall. This was based on the fact that Gilgamesh was a morphogenesis and therefore had the ability to change his height and appearance. In these conversations with Semjase and Quetzal, it was unfortunately forgotten to mention that Gilgamesh was 7.5 metres tall at the time his spaceship was damaged, after which he changed his height and by the time he was in Uruk Gart, he was only three meters tall. In the course of time he reduced his height by about 120 centimetres, so that he was then only about 1.8 metres tall. I think this should be made clear, before another hooligan thinks that there is a contradiction.

Ptaah:

60. But they also taught far eastward to Mesopotamia, where King Gilgamesh formerly ruled in Uruk Gart, as well as to the Aryan country.

In Billy's Book the Rose-Pink Crystal on page 70 it is written. Gilgamesh and 52 crewmembers crashed in the Himalayas approx 20,000 years ago. Gilgamesh survived with two other crewmembers a man by the name of Atlan and a woman named Atlanta. Atlan died as a gladiator during the times of the Romans, and it is not known what happened to Atlanta. They came from a planet named Arkon, and were able to extend their life spans up to 350,000 years by drinking heavy water. Gilgamesh's lifespan and size have been reduced because of the lack of heavy water available on this planet. According to the information Gilgamesh is still alive and the Plejarens have offered to take him back to his home world, but he prefers to stay on earth. This is how I understand the story.

Dear Billy, Why is Gilgamesh still on Earth & what is he doing?

[Billy] Answer:

Probably he is working as a scientist where he has access to „heavy water“ which he is needing.

Gilgamesh, whose original lifespan was 120.000 years (but is now reduced to about 50.000 years), will live here for the rest of his life. He cannot go back to his people even if he had a beamship to fly to his native planet. His home planet (in the spiral galaxy known as M94 – NGC 4736, 20 million light years away from us) has been destroyed by a catastrophe and all of his inhabitants have died.

Gilgamesh belongs to a race of morphologists and is capable to change the shape of his body and size within several months. (Source: 226th contact of February 3, 1988)

The gases released may cause human beings to develop incurable cancer, as the Plejaren have clearly discovered in their investigations into the whole thing. The climate activists of the 'Last Generation' thus promote air pollution and environmental pollution all the more, just as the dangerous gases emitted by the glue – which are obviously once again unknown to earthly science or cannot be detected – can cause many human beings to develop cancer, who may then die miserably. ...

Billy:

If the word democracy is understood in its value of origin, then it does not simply go back as a language to the ancient Greek compound word 'demos', meaning people, and 'kratos', meaning might, power, rule, which emerged around 450 BC. The truth is that this term originated and was coined thousands of years earlier, around 11,000 years ago, in the area now known as south-east Turkey, by human beings who were basically hunter-gatherers and who settled and began to farm. I remember this because I was there with Sfath with a large group of human beings who were labouring together to build stone structures. They did all the work and decisions together, everything and anything, which they called – I do not remember exactly – 'Orlakta' or something like that, which Sfath translated for me from their language as 'together'. The meaning was that everyone worked together, everyone decided something together and did everything together and carried it out together and so on. When Sfath spoke to these human beings, he was told that everything would only be achieved with the absolute agreement of all those involved, with not even one human being against it. It was said that if this turned out to be the case, that a resolution could not be passed on something that had been proposed, planned or requested by just one human being, then the matter would be shelved. ... Well, anyway, he {“a ... man from Germany”, possibly? archaeologist Klaus Schmidt} said that, according to my information, he had actually found old walls somewhere in south-east Turkey, a place called Görlük or something, but I do not remember the name exactly, and that was probably the place where Sfath and I were. ...

Billy:

... Berke is a friend from Turkey who is in regular contact with us, mainly with Bernadette. He now writes the following regarding the conversation we recently had with each other, where he also sent some pictures that were taken and show the ruins that were excavated at the place that I still half-remember when I was there with Sfath and saw how human beings lived and worked back then, got along very well and ran a democracy that was really a democracy that bore no resemblance whatsoever to the fraudulent which today is widespread worldwide as an alleged democracy and is based on the fact that a majority system is valid in elections, which does not correspond in any wise to a democracy, but rather, if you look at it somewhat favourably, to a 'partial democracy', i.e. half and half, but which has nothing whatsoever to do with a true democracy. However, as far as the following email is concerned, Berke has written the following interesting thing, which relates to my memories of earlier times with Sfath, when I was with him a long time ago among a people in eastern Turkey and experienced and learnt a lot: ...

And there are the pictures he emailed along showing some of the ancient ruins of what is left to this day of what I now somehow remember it looking like back then: ... {see the full Contact Report for 6 photographs}

So that was what Berke emailed, and to his questions I can only say what I remember from back then, such as that there was no talk of 'aliens' somehow, at least Sfath did not translate anything like that to me from what he talked to people. Also the language translator that Sfath gave me, just in case, did not translate a word as 'extraterrestrial', 'stars', 'sky' or anything that would have indicated outer space or anything like that. But instead, and I remember this well, there was talk of commonality, hunting, bird life, worship and common labour, personal property, common property, regulation and management of all things, and so on. I remember that really well, because Sfath explained a lot of what he had learnt in conversation. And I also remember that these human beings were an extensive community of many thousands, which they called 'Denes' or something like that, I do not remember the exact name, but they had a sign that has stayed with me to this day, which I can also record for you here. ...

It looks like this, and Sfath explained to me that this community used signs for certain things, like this one for 'community', which had already been used by their earliest ancestors, who, as Sfath explained, are said to have 'invented' it well over 6,000 years earlier. He further explained at that time that this sign would be used and spread far into the future and even preserved until the time of Jmmanuel. Although I have never seen it anywhere since then, when Sfath and I were with these people, I think that it has been preserved, as Sfath said. ...

Billy:

... so I would like to show you these letters here, which are from Berke. He has followed up the sign that I saw in ancient times, about 10 or 11,000 years ago or so, when I was travelling back with Sfath with a group of human beings in eastern Turkey and never forgot it. Berke has found all sorts of things about the sign ...

Billy:

137. It comes from the tremendous energy-richness of the ur-life and the Creation which are responsible for the life of the entire universe.

138. This undefinable and mysterious ur-life embodies the actual breath of life, which universally enlivens all and everything.

139. The ur-life, however, also embodies that secret which indeed a human being will never be able to fathom:

140. The Ur-Creation itself.

141. It would, however, be false, arrogant and irresponsible to call this Ur-Creation or the Creation GOD, for neither the Ur-Creation nor the Creation are god or anything similar.

142. The word god is only an ancient term of an equally ancient language of a foreign people, a foreign extraterrestrial human race who were the actual ancestors of a part of the Earth human beings.

143. Up to the present time, their language still could not be proven, but it ought to be the one which is known as ancient Hebrew.

144. It is for sure, however, with absolute certainty (even if the theologians and scientists, etc. deny it), that the word GOD stems from this ancient language and has not the slightest to do with the Creation.

145. The expression god was from time immemorial used as a designation for human beings who, on account of their consciousness-based powers and their abilities resulting from them, were able to master and accomplish things which were denied to kings and emperors.

146. In most cases, these god-human beings were great scientists.

147. Because of their abilities, these human beings were consequently called GODS or GODDESSES, which meant nothing other than 'standing above the kings and emperors' (in a consciousness-based sense).

148. The exact translation of the designation god into the German language is:

149. King of wisdom.

150. Standing higher in esteem and honour than the rulers of the land themselves, those who were called god were consulted by the rulers of the peoples themselves and as well were revered by the people as human beings with tremendous knowledge and ability.

151. Catastrophes, megalomania, mishappening and wars, etc. as well as slow degeneration, however, have in the course of the thousands of years also taken their toll on these gods, consequently they slowly died out or developed into tyrants.
152. With time, they only still exist in the memories of a few human beings, while some other of these gods fled and began to tyrannise different worlds.
153. Memories of the tyrannical rule of the gods were to blame for the fact that the ones called god lived on in myths and legends and began to influence the Earth human beings.
154. Some resourceful leaders of people let their godliness get very badly out of control of the goad human nature and called themselves the Creation itself.
155. Through tyranny and barbarism, they forced the human beings to be subservient to them and to worship them.
156. But it happened that sub-leaders of these gods likewise wanted to exercise their might and therefore, in the name of the respective god, raised themselves as leaders above a human race.
157. If the respective gods themselves were not already tyrannical and domineering, then the leaders of the human race most certainly were.
158. As domineering leaders over great masses of peoples, they took up the old legends and myths in which the gods lived on, and developed them into an irrational teaching of a single and all-dominating God.
159. As rather clever and resourceful leaders, they formed formulas, laws, recommendations and prohibitions from this and attributed them to the gods.
160. And already the religion was born.
161. This in turn gave rise to a single God who was made responsible for all Creation and all happenings - and who should embody the love and salvation.

Jmmanuel:

26. My teaching, which I spread in these lands, is not new and it is well known to the scribes.
27. But they falsify the old teaching of the prophets which was handed down to them and is very learned.
28. But they distain and falsify it and interpret it to their own advantage, therefore, they accuse me of lying because I preach against their lies.
29. From the old teaching of the laws of Creation and the spirit, they have set up erroneous cults which take freedom of consciousness from the human and drive him into servitude, whereby they can enrich themselves with his possessions.
30. From the spiritual teaching, they have made a false teaching, and they have abased Creation to a human entity which they call God.
31. But God is a ruler over humankinds and over worlds, and he can never be put on a level with Creation, because its BEING is the highest, and outside of it, truly, nothing exists.
- ...
47. They have transformed the teaching of the spirit, and the laws and recommendations of Creation, into a very evil cult and frighten the humans with death, with the vengeance of their bloodthirsty god and with sword-bearing angels.
48. They teach the humans to be afraid of the splendour and all-ness of Creation because they deny its existence and replace it with their god and their saints.

Jmmanuel:

218. As I therefore speak and teach of Creation the texts are being falsely modified in such a way that mendacious words are put into my mouth, and I am supposed to have spoken of a father in heaven, the gathering of a host of angels and many other false things.
219. But I have never done that because these forms do not correspond to the truth.

220. I have always faithfully spoken of the truth of Creation as being of Creation, and of God as being of God.

221. God was never put on a level with Creation by me, because God is a creature of Creation as are you and I and every other human.

222. In his form, he is a King of Wisdom and a ruler over human races, in the same way that a king or emperor also is a ruler over human races on Earth.

223. But Creation is the immeasurable secret and the Creation of every creation.

224. It is omnipotence, knowledge, wisdom, love, omniscience and BEING.

225. And my teachings speak of it alone, when I talk of it and its laws and recommendations and of the power of eternity.

227. Truly, this alone is the truth and nothing else.

Semjase:

46. The human being may realise that a god can never assume the role of the Creation or determine the destiny of the human being.

47. A god is only a ruler and moreover a human being, who mightily exercises rule or tyranny over his fellow human beings.

48. God is not the Creation, but only a creature of her, like all creatures dependent on the Creation.

49. However, the human being chases after his/her religious irrational belief and claims that God is the Creation herself.

Billy:

And since these human beings never want to bear the responsibility for anything and everything themselves because they are perhaps too unknowing or too cowardly, they simply pass it on to something that is supposed to stand above them and direct their destinies. They then call this something God and religion. A simple buffer and ram block, into which one can pound everything; a fantasy picture, onto which one rolls all one's own responsibility.

Semjase:

...

8. It is really as you say:

9. The Earth-humans are not able to bear and recognise their responsibility themselves, although they should do so.

10. So they roll everything off and onto something that they put above themselves in their imagination; things that they simply call religion or God, that are supposed to relieve them of the responsibility.

25. There is no interest in showing ourselves to the general public.

26. Their consciousness is still short and small and confined in religious enslavement.

27. On the one hand, the Earth-humans would worship us as gods in their short-reflection, as they did already in earlier times; and on the other hand, there would be many among them who as criminals and greedy for might ones would seize our beamships.

https://www.futureofmankind.co.uk/Billy_Meier/Contact_Report_005

Semjase:

140. The humankind of the distant solar system, two thirds of which were destroyed at that time, found a new beginning which was hard and full of privation.

141. Nevertheless, in less than 9 centuries the human beings built up a new civilisation and culture; created and driven out of the hardship arising from cosmic forces.

145. Their spirit and their consciousness and their knowledge refined themselves rapidly, and soon the succeeding generations had reached a technology which, without any imagination, defied all possibilities.

146. And there came the time when the descendants flew out into the unending expanses of the universe in round, plate-like flying ships with beam drives.

147. Other solar systems and planets were flown to and expeditioned.

148. New worlds and possibilities opened up in order to transplant the peoples of the home planet, which had meanwhile become too small for the new humankind.

149. The scientists with their spacecrafts and abundantly provided means of all kinds and fantastic application possibilities used the dimension gate known to them, to (in another space-time configuration of the DERN universe) reach the Milky Way area and explored the space for ever newer things.

150. They found many new habitable worlds and solar systems, which they often made subservient to themselves using their beam weapons in short one-sided fights, in order to conquer them for the settlement of their race.

151. However, apart from their horrendous material and gene-based technology they also perfected their consciousness and their spirit, so that nothing which they wanted to experience remained foreign to them any more.

152. The use of their powers of consciousness became implicitness to them, and so they gradually raised themselves to rulers vis-à-vis their peoples.

153. They called themselves kings of wisdom with the word JHWH, which is on the Earth translated as God.

154. Far superior spiritually, and in terms of knowledge as well as consciousness to the normal people, they soon dominated it in evil dictatorial form.

Semjase:

99. Very many human beings fear to live in the sense of the Creation, and they think and assume that they would only have to remain with the one which is to take away their anxiety about the death; with a God of a religion, who has promised them in conscious irrational teaching and for his entirely own benefit, to take away their anxiety about the death, if they would in irrational belief and submissively believe his lies, whereby they get into his enslavement and become consciousness-based unfree.

Billy:

... So I start from the assumption that certain forms of life which are strange to you are trying to wander around from the vastness of the universe on our Earth and in the space of the world and to influence other forms of life in various forms. On the other hand, I also suspect that one or more groups of descendants of your old race have not yet returned to you, and that they are still living according to the forms of a deity. Since they still have to live according to the old forms, it can practically only be that they influence many life forms and also the Earth-humans according to this and appear as emissaries of a god. ...

Semjase:

...

41. With your speculations you are very right, because there are other forms of life in the earthly space than just ours.

42. There are also still some splinter groups of our own former races here, but also on other worlds where they still live according to their old forms.
43. They constantly try to influence the life forms, especially the Earth-humans, according to their forms.
44. Already the ancestors had appeared as gods, and they still do.
45. They are anxious not to release the Earth-humans in particular from this form and to continue to make them dependent on themselves through stoic references to religious heresies, etc. and to cast them under their spell.

Ptaah:

342. In particular, the heresies of earthly cultic religions rest in cursing and blaspheming and denying the Creation.
343. It as omnipotence is questioned and replaced by blasphemous heresies by a God who is supposed to be the Creator and who is also called Lord of all things.
344. But the Creation is in truth the Gewalt, the Almighty, and the glory itself.
345. Through various circumstances, and not least through the megalomania of human creatures, IHWHS, wisdom kings, people's leaders and human race leaders, who are called GOD in Earth human terms, have been pressed into the conceptual form of a Creator and declared mendaciously to be the highest in the universe, namely Creation itself.
346. This is still evident today in the form of address of Earth-humans when they speak of their GOD as the CREATOR.
347. The concept of the masculine, of HE and HIM and THE GOD could not be erased even over many millennia by the representatives of religion, consequently this concept still bears witness to the humanity of the God and Creator and the Gods on Earth today.
348. Earth-humans, however, in their thoughtless stupidity and in their unwillingness to surrender to the truth, have been incapable of thinking about these things for a very long time.
349. Stupidly he/she continues to defend the cultic religions, which are without exception attuned to some Earth human being and to a heavenly deity.
350. And practically every religion refers to a founder of a religion who, with one exception, is worshipped and glorified as the Chosen One of Creation, whereby the believers then practise a cult of man, which, however, is ultimately inherent in all earthly cultic religions.
351. Creation itself is completely disregarded and condemned to nothingness, because through the cultic religions it is replaced by the madness of a human substitute and by a God-Creator.
352. Creation itself, as the absolute omnipotence and glory of all BEING and being, is viciously denied and condemned.
353. Whether this is done knowingly or in compliance with cultic-religious heresies or as a result of other world views, it remains the same.
354. In any case it means the most monstrous blasphemy of the Creation that can be thought or uttered by any life-form.
355. Apart from the Creation itself, nothing is venerable, universal-loving, omnipotent, eternal and awesome.
356. It is the beginning and the end of all being and BEING itself.
357. Apart from her, nothing is existent.

https://www.futureofmankind.co.uk/Billy_Meier/Contact_Report_039

Billy:

... I would be interested to know what the "dear God" actually looks like or looked like.

Semjase:

62. Of which one are you thinking?

Billy:

Of the great JHWH, who still wanders like a ghost today through the Christian religion.

Semjase:

63. There are two of those.

...

Billy:

... I mean the old "dear God": JHWH the Barbarian, as I have christened him, or the Lord Jehovah, as he was commonly called.

Semjase:

67. Thus, the one of the old time or Moses' time.

Billy:

Exactly, I mean the superhero, that ambivalent subject who, on the one hand, proclaimed himself as the Creation and boastfully spoke of universal love, mercy, and justice, but who, on the other hand, heedlessly demanded innocent human blood and allowed millions of Earth-humans to be brutally slaughtered at his command.

Semjase:

68. That is a very accurate statement.

69. His image is known to me very well.

70. You call him the Biblical God, but with us, he is called "The Unjust and Cruel One."

71. He came to his end approximately 2,150 years ago.

72. He was a very malicious and power-hungry life form, who led his regime together with another and good JHWH and drove countless Earth-humans to death and destruction ...

Billy:

... and to whom today's Christianity still pays hellish tribute.

Semjase:

73. Sure, unfortunately, that is so, for his malignant influence was enormous.

Billy:

That is well-known to me. But how would it be, now, if you would draw this super tweet for me – do you still have my paper and pencils?

Semjase:

74. Sure, but you speak very disparagingly of Jehovah.

Billy:

Should I still pay homage to him, then? After all, he is the most to blame for the fact that we on the Earth live in the insanity of his cultic religion and that millions of innocent Earth-humans were murdered on his account. Should I heap praise, then, on this tweet just for this?

Semjase:

75. You should not do that, for he was evil and unjust.

...

Billy:

It was probably the best solution, that he was deposed by force.

https://www.futureofmankind.co.uk/Billy_Meier/Contact_Report_070

Semjase:

42. In particular, the scientists recognised, in the course of time, the unlimited possibilities of their consciousness-based powers, so they pushed and expanded them by immense accumulations of knowledge until they became a matter of course for them and they swung themselves even higher up, whereby they soon became absolutely dominant over their peoples.

43. According to their great knowledge, they were called Jschwisch (JHWH), which is synonymous with the name God, which is familiar to you and which means King of Wisdom.

44. The Jschwisch, far superior to all people in terms of knowledge and ability, subjugated all life-forms, cast a spell over them and ruled them in a dictatorial form.

65. He was succeeded by his daughter Plejara, an Jschrish [=female 'Queen of knowledge'/goddess], and consequently the home system, the Asael system, was also renamed the Plejara system, because for the human beings of that time, who were Titans, symbolisation was still very much in force, as it still is today with the human beings of the Earth, which corresponds to a perverse illogicity.

https://www.futureofmankind.co.uk/Billy_Meier/Contact_Report_099

Billy:

33. You really cannot do a short cut just because everything is not going as you envisioned it would.

34. Remember that we cursed earth moles are as ignorant and barbaric as the last monkeys from the jungle.

35. Consider, for once, that the truth has not been fed to us off of spoons and that your fair ancestors were involved in this damned mess.

36. Just remember that you cannot turn an Earth-human into a pig and then give him/her only one short chance to develop into a human being again.

37. Remember, damn it, that your ancestors stole and ruined all our knowledge, raised themselves up before us as gods and God creations, and that they were the ones who rejoiced in our ruination and exploited us through it, absolutely knowing that we had to turn into the most miserable mess in the entire universe.

38. It is therefore damn unfair, if for once, you take a close look at everything from our side, if you just want to leave us lying in the dirt.

39. We are barbarians, unknowing, poor and damned pigs, yes, but we became that through your ancestors, my son, consider that.

40. And if you already know that, and you know that damn well, because otherwise you would not have come to us to help us and to bring back to us what your heroic, damned ancestors have ruined for us, why do you not feel obliged to help us to the very end, even if we are still quite stupid and primitive in our cursed ignorance, because all our knowledge has been stolen or ruined.

Billy:

... But now I have a question, which respectively your answer is interesting for some human beings. It concerns the terms 'God' and 'Goddess', which are not only used by us human beings of the Earth, but also by you, but in a completely different form than with us. So you use these terms e.g. in relation to the meaning of names, but also in fairy tales etc., as I know.

Ptaah:

31. That is correct.

32. For us Plejaren, the terms 'God' and 'Goddess' have always had the meaning of an imaginary, fantastic fable creature who rules, exercises power or protects human beings, animals and plants or any other things.

33. These are instructive fairy tales, respectively invented and fantastic stories.

34. However, imaginary mythical creatures like a 'God' or a 'Goddess' are not real in any way and therefore cannot be equated with a religious 'god' or a religious 'goddess', because there are no such religious or other religious fantasy figures like a 'God' or a 'Goddess', only Creation.

35. The terms 'God' and 'Goddess' already lead back to the ancient history of our ancestors, to the Lyrians, who also brought these terms 'God' and 'Goddess' together with fables respectively fairy tales to Earth.

36. Thus many such fables or fairy tales lead back to our ancestors as well as to us Plejaren, whereby the Earth-humans have partly transformed and changed the story contents to earthly things and conditions.

37. But back to the terms 'God' and 'Goddess', which have been used equally in our languages since time immemorial, as is also the case in the German and Swiss-German languages.

38. In the German language, the term has found its original form back to 'God', while Earth-humans in all languages known to us have transformed the term 'God' into all kinds of other terms and it still exists today in other modified forms.

39. In the course of time, these transformed terms gave rise to the names of God as they are used today in all earthly languages.

40. With regard to our traditional terms 'God' and 'Goddess', however, the terms 'God' and 'Goddess' have developed again in the course of modern times, especially from the Germanic term 'Guda', which was to be understood as a bi-sexual, i.e. in the form of a male and a female god.

41. Before the Germanic term 'Guda' the terms 'Gotu' and 'Godan' were common for 'God', whereby the term 'Woodan' developed from 'Godan'.

42. The two terms were also used by our Lyrian ancestors as 'God' and 'Goddess' in the same way, as it is also the case with us, i.e. as a term for mythical creatures respectively fantasy creatures, which as an imaginary power stand above all things, but which are not in any way equated with Creation.

43. From time immemorial, the peoples whose origins can be traced back to Nokodemion, have consciously recognized and regarded universal consciousness as the highest form of energy and power and as the origin of all existence.

44. As a consequence, it never appeared that a 'God' or a 'Goddess' would have been recognized or appreciated as universal creative force respectively as 'Creator' or 'Creatress'.

45. A 'God' or a 'Goddess' has always appeared as a pronounced mythical creature or as a fantasy figure of higher power in our fables respectively in fairy tales, which are offered in tearful or satirical or joyful forms, mainly for children, although adults also take pleasure in such stories.

46. Basically, these fairy-tale narratives are connected with doctrinal factors, but also with legends and true events, which are embellished in the fairy-tale narratives, whereby often a male or female mythical creature is interwoven, a 'God' or a 'Goddess'.

47. This, however, never leads us to the false doctrine of a 'God-creator' or a 'creator of all things', because our children are basically taught at an early age that fairy tales and their characters etc. are only mythical creatures and that a God or Goddess also only correspond to freely invented characters.

48. This is why it is possible that even small children, as well as older children, can learn in a way appropriate to their thirst for knowledge through such fairy tales in which, for example, animals and creatures speak and to which human behaviour is attributed.

49. Our fairy tale narratives in this regard are designed to contain generally accepted truths regarding the way of life and behaviour of human beings, which are illustrated as practical wisdom, etc.

Billy:

That probably also explains why you and your Lyrian ancestors, who also come from your space-time structure, have 'Gods' and 'Goddesses' in your male and female names, which are certainly also considered mythical creatures, right?

Ptaah:

50. That is indeed so. ...

Billy:

Then again, something about 'God'. This term has consisted of four letters since ancient times, at least since the time of the Lyrians, your ancestors. Was it also like that before in other languages of your ancestors respectively primeval peoples?

Ptaah:

54. I can tell you that this was indeed the case, because the two terms 'God' and 'Goddess' go back very far, but without exception the terms were only used in relation to imaginary mythical creatures, and that for millions of years and before our distant ancestors came to Earth.

55. That is what we have been told.

Billy:

So these terms were used by your primordial people when there were no humans on Earth, not even early humans?

Ptaah:

56. I have expressed this in my words, yes.

Billy:

Which I also understood. But what is interesting about 'God' is that in most earthly languages the terms for 'God' also have only four letters, as I have listed in OM as follows

What is of even more interesting value with regard to the name God is that in all the existing languages of the Earth it is always written with only four letters, and that the relevant cabbalistic calculations of these languages always evaluate the name God as death, destruction and damnation, etc. And in order to demonstrate that the name of God, the name of death and destruction, is indeed written with only four letters in all languages – since time immemorial – let the following brief list clarify this:

Billy:

The logical, sensible and reasonable thinking of the earthlings has unfortunately long since gone by the wayside and been replaced by an illusory thinking, which has been replaced by the belief in a 'dear God'.

As a result, logic, understanding and reason are only words in the linguistic repertoire, but their value is neither used nor understood.

The delusional belief in a 'dear God', who is not truthful and corresponds only to an imaginary fantasy, keeps the human beings from their own real thinking and makes them tractable and in bondage according to what the preachers of lies and autocratic rulers want from them.

Thus, peoples can be dominated and seduced into developing hatred against each other, smashing each other's skulls, advocating the wars that rulers unleash in order to then unilaterally take sides against the alleged 'enemies' and help to murder them.

Bermunda:

... What we were able to ascertain was that already at the time when foreigners came from the seven star regions and did many things – which pose many riddles for today's Earth-humans – already at a very early time confused forms of belief developed from this and the Earth-humans regarded the foreigners as higher beings and accordingly worshipped them as gods. These were already the first forms of belief, from which, as a result of false ideas and inevitably resulting fantasies, in the course of time, what came into being as religion arose and has survived until today. The false meaning of the whole was then misunderstood under the name of religion, which was understood as 'regression', which was namely to lead back to the true origin of that, that from it a belief, as well as a worship of those who had travelled far arose and came into being, in the manner that they were considered to be gods.

... But with regard to the far-travelled and their worship and belief in them as gods, it was in time no longer avoidable that they were very quickly regarded as all-creating deities, and from this arose forms of belief that steadily deviated more and more from the effective reality and truth. Fantasy ideas were given a place, which were completely separated from all that really was. From this developed just as quickly a primal belief in a divine power attributed to the distant travellers, because the distant travellers were able to do all kinds of things – such as technically conditioned 'miracles' of buildings etc., which were considered as such at that time – because they appeared as such to the Earth-humans, because they themselves were not capable of doing so, just as they also did not have the necessary abilities, knowledge, techniques and apparatus and devices etc. ...

Billy:

The further question about the 'dear God', why the delusional believers are addicted to such a one, this delusional belief is nothing but sheer idiocy, for if the religionists and the philosophers of both sexes, etc. claim that a super-intelligent, unknown, creational force in the form of a God is the only good explanation of the origin of life and the intricacies of nature, then it can only be said that a human being who claims such a thing must be sick and completely stupid in the head. Where is this God supposed to have come from, how is he supposed to have come into being, and that he is supposed to have been eternal, this is answered so flimsily that the stupidity and idiocy of the answer shouts high to heaven. No God is the Creator of Heaven and Earth, not the Almighty and not the Comforter, as He is also not the Eternal, not the Immoveable, Unchangeable, and not the Ruler of the Universe. There is also no indescribable, uncreated and eternally dwelling one in heaven who observes his creatures, with whom human beings cannot make contact because he is supposedly too exalted, etc., but who is to be worshipped. In truth, the imaginary God is not a higher being that stands above nature, life and the universe, for no living being is capable of this, not even the human being who, in his/her delusions of grandeur, believe that they can do this and destroys everything with their imbecilic thinking and actions. Those lunatics who claim such nonsense about an existing God should think about this, but since they cannot really think, but only indulge in illusory thinking, it is probably impossible for logic, reason and rationality to break through and make the truth clear to them. How miserable a human being must be that he/she humbles themselves in such a manner and does not trust themselves, does not know how to direct their life well and correctly, does not determine everything connected with it himself/herself, takes it in hand and lives it. This, however, is to be discarded by the human being if he/she wants to live correctly, to lead and do everything himself/herself, so that they do not have to place an imaginary, fantasised God above themselves and are not delusionally addicted to a faith, but is himself/herself.

But the fact that the foreigners who came to Earth from the far reaches of space were then idolised as gods by the Earthlings in their ignorance and are still idolised today, albeit modified in terms of religion to a 'dear God' in the main religions, such as in Catholicism, Protestantism and all the thousand-fold Christian sects, is truly only a delusion, but one that has brought disaster upon Earth's humanity to this day.

Truly it is urgently necessary that the human beings of the Earth themselves begin to cultivate sensible thoughts and finally understand that no 'Dear God' already regulates everything and brings the hoped-for peace to the human being, as well as finally ends all war and that it will never come again. It is for the human beings of Earth to finally grasp and understand that it is they alone who think up and direct everything and anything, and that they themselves are what they call God and worship senselessly, because there really is no God and this imaginary figure is only a humanly fanciful invention. ...

Safaar:

Also in this DERN-universe and on this world, the Earth, 'foreigners' came very early, who created influences, whereby in time the natural of evolution constantly diminished and what led the human beings of this world to degeneracy ... whereby invaders of such inhabitants into other planetary systems, and thus when appearing on other worlds, have acted and continue to act as gods and the like to their halfway intelligent inhabitants, if they are not met with logic, understanding and reason, and consequently – because they are highly developed in their knowledge and skill and in their technology, etc. – are seen and worshipped as gods.

... for more and more influence is exerted by the religions, just as for some time now the foreigners have also been making themselves more and more felt, acting as gods, which is why the killing of human beings began, who were intended as offerings to the gods. This was because the foreigners did not intervene and did not stop the horrors in this regard, although they came here and demanded that human beings should not be sacrificed or killed in any other way. This, however, gave rise to new strife among the human beings in this world, for the views developed that under all circumstances the statements of the foreigners had to be given 'conscientious consideration', which ultimately led to delusional ideas that these statements corresponded to a commandment and law and were classified accordingly, with the meaning that severe punishments were to be meted out if they were violated. On the one hand, this was a misunderstanding of the whole, and on the other hand, only the killing of those who violated it was appropriate. So it was not far off that human sacrifices were quickly demanded and offered in order to win the 'conscientious attention' of the foreigners resp. gods and to reassure them when what they claimed to do correctly was violated. But how they taught and demanded not to kill was misunderstood by human beings and, moreover, disregarded, so that people did not think and act according to the true meaning. Killing thus became a case of quick revenge and retribution from time immemorial, and this in turn gave rise to hatred, hence also wars, terror, degeneracy, destruction, extermination and murder, etc. Faith-wise, everything in this regard was spread and practised very quickly. Thus, through the appearance and the misleading teaching of the foreigners to the Earth-humans, exactly the wrong thing was done, which has been preserved until today, namely that which should never become with the human beings, namely a faith in place of thinking for oneself and grasping reality and truth. ...

Billy:

... Time and again I am asked about the terms God, gods and angels because, for example, these terms are used in the name books, as they are also significant as certain evaluations and I use them when writing any texts. This is precisely because they are synonymous with certain forms of feeling and emotions and make them 'resonate'. This is because human beings on Earth have used God, gods and angels in their language since time immemorial for their feelings, explanations and many other emotional impressions in order to express or reinforce what moves them in terms of feelings, explanations or emotional impressions. ...

... it just so happens that, for example, it is often said in the form such as "my God" when something is just like this or like that and not otherwise. Or e.g. "oh God" when something happens, or e.g. "if God wills it" when something is about to happen that cannot be counteracted. But there are also meanings such as the forms "this is divine" or 'divine', 'godlike', or she/he is like 'a goddess/god', or 'godlike', 'demigod' or 'demigoddess'. However, 'gottbefohlen' ['commanded by god'] or 'sei gottbehütet' ['be protected by god'] are also commonly used as a farewell greeting by human beings, although only rarely do human beings – with the exception of the strictly religious – believe in an imaginary 'dear God'. This is simply because the expressions are used out of habit and therefore as a result of automatism, without any thought being given to them. It has nothing to do with stupendous ignorance either, but really only with habit, automatism and the fact that the word absorbed in the course of life in the use of language, as well as also usually in written reproduction in the form, has something to do with the fact that the human being automatically associates and understands something specific in connection with hearing the respective word term. This is due to the unconscious thought reaction, which expresses itself automatically and practically in a flash in corresponding feelings and these trigger corresponding actions and emotions, which in turn give rise to feelings that are based on what the words God, gods or angels are supposed to do, although these have nothing to do with a religious belief in any form. So this only arises in the sense of a corresponding idea of something pleasant, happy, loving, protected and joyful, etc.

The words God, gods and angels are used in this manner purely out of habit and automatism or in such a manner – such as angelic, angel-like, etc. – in order to convey or explain something to fellow human beings for which the correspondingly suitable word terms are suitable. Every normal human being 'handles' this in this manner without believing in God, gods or angels, in contrast to religious believers, who can very well associate the use of the words God, gods and angels with their faith.

The term angel – which should also be explained – comes from the ancient Greek language and is derived from the term 'angelos', which translates into German as 'messenger'. However, this has been reinterpreted by religionists to mean that angels are 'messengers of God' and 'inspired', and that they are constantly gathered around 'God's throne'. The angels are regarded by religious believers as 'guardians of good', also as 'protectors' – 'guardian angels' – and even 'princes'.

Now, human beings who do not believe in this nonsense habitually use the words God, gods and angels without a thought in a religious sense, because they generally use the words in speech – as well as in writing – as if automatically, because they have learnt to do so in their dealings with fellow human beings. On the other hand, religious believers do this because they are used to it through their religious faith. However, it is also the case that the terms God, gods or angels are used linguistically or in writing by religiously unbelieving human beings because human beings understand something specific by them, such as an energy and power, a certain attitude, a certain behaviour, a certain habitus, an emotion, etc., as I have already explicitly explained. But can you please explain from your point of view and your understanding why we use these terms, which do not exist in this manner in the Plejaren language, because you have other terms for them.

Ptaah:

What you say is correct and we do not have the terms God, gods and angels in this German form in our languages of course, but of course they have been given since we came here to Earth. Consequently, our early ancestors created word concepts that we have used in our language ever since, in all our languages equally. Thus the earthly term 'God' is familiar to us as 'Geha' and 'gods' as 'Geharu', and 'angels' as 'Ange'. However, since time immemorial these terms have been accompanied by the explanation that they are artificial words that refer to fantasised, non-existent resp. imaginary entities, which are erroneously and incorrectly referred to as the 'creation of all existence'. E...

Billy:

...'creation of all existence', surely this is referring to the Creation, I assume?

Ptaah:

Through my research I found very old stone carving figures with strange signs that were recognised by our experts to be 320,000 years old, and these figures testified to the fact that quite obviously there were human beings on Earth worshipping things even then. I found the earliest names of higher beings during returns to ancient times, when I heard the word 'Olann' invoked by a Nordic ethnic group at a meeting of a group. Since ancient times, I have not found anything that has been said or described in such a manner that would have indicated that the terms 'God', 'gods' and 'angels' were to be understood in a manner as the Creation or, in the case of alleged 'angels' etc., as Creation-related beings. Equally, you also only use these terms in a form to make Earth's humanity understand what is to be explained and understood. The terms God, gods and angels are above all faith-based words of particular unworthiness, which I describe as 'stale' and which are based on the fact that they refer to earlier human beings who were presumed to be the 'creators' of all things and thus also of heaven and earth. According to my research, it was a long time ago that human beings who claimed to be so-called gods apparently rose up, indoctrinating and lying in such a form as to mislead the Earth-humans.

Consequently, the terms 'God', 'gods' and 'angels' were probably created in this manner in very ancient times, but in the old language as 'Olann', which in my opinion was conceived as 'all-beings' or something similar and meant the same as 'gods' in multiplication, i.e. according to today's understanding, the terms 'God' and 'gods' came into being. But I cannot say that this was really the case, because it is only one possibility of how it could have been, but to verify this exactly would take a lot of time, which I do not have at my disposal.

Billy:

That should actually clear up the whole of this.

Ptaah:

That is correct, but if I now use the word terms God, gods and angels, it is only because we are talking about them in context, just as you yourself only use these terms when you are explaining something. The reason why we also use these terms God, gods or angels in our conversations is because Earth's humanity imagines these words to mean what human beings mistakenly imagine to be higher values of love, blessing, loyalty, mentality and happiness. However, since time immemorial this has only corresponded to unvalues indoctrinated into Earth-humans, which were deliberately invented in order to create a delusion of dependence and fear, whereby a slavish domination and control has emerged and dominates human beings, who do not perceive this in the delusion of faith and consequently do not realise that they are being lied to and deceived with irregularities. As a result, delusional fantasies and illusions are commonplace among the majority of Earth's humanity, as are conscious and deceitful and purposeful lies and deceptions – but also conscious deception. As I have learnt from the history of earthly religions, 'God', 'gods' and 'angels' are word concepts that were created early on through an assumption and a resulting belief. Basically, the terms were created through misinterpretation – which fundamentally corresponds to falsification, as is also the case with all religious books – based on the fact that certain human beings were highly revered because they ...

Billy:

... could eat more than bread, as we say. This says that human beings can do more than the usual things that human beings are capable of doing, and are therefore not only highly valued, but also regarded and revered as something special. Even in early times, early human beings observed and saw things, animals or other things that they could not explain and therefore wrongly evaluated them as higher beings. These were then labelled much later with the word terms 'god', 'gods' and 'angels', although the origin of this was very early and it is probably not possible to fathom which terms or word concepts were used for this.

Ptaah:

That is right again.

... Your father Sfath took me to the Grand Canyon in the USA in his pear ship once – it was in the summer of 1947, if I remember correctly, just in the hot summer where 47 degrees of heat were measured – and explained to me that this canyon was about 5.7 million years old and had been created by the Colorado River. The Colorado River is said to have originated from the Rocky Mountains or somewhere from a huge lake in the Rocky Mountains, which had overflowed and run out after a long time and finally disappeared. And why I bring this up is based on the fact that still today researches are carried out and always new statements are made regarding the age of the Grand Canyon, which amount to up to over 70 million years. Regarding Sfath's explanation, I think you've done some research and found out when and how the Grand Canyon was formed, based on the layering, etc. of the canyon, and perhaps also by traveling through the past.

Ptaah:

84. That was indeed the case, because even in the early days we carried out such research on objects on Earth that were of interest to us, which we still do today, because there are always significant geological changes.

85. These are often not noticed by Earthly scientists, as this also refers to all biological, fauna and flora-conditioned as well as geological things, which destroy all existence on earth ever more by the machinations of the overpopulation.

86. So already at early times of the 16th century our scientists determined the age of the Grand Canyon, and then what my father explained to you is true and correct, but the claims of Earthly scientists are wrong with their statements of the high age of the Grand Canyon.

Billy:

... I would have another question, however, concerning gravity. Is the electromagnetic nature, one- or two-pole, or does it happen through the mediation of gravitons?

...

Semjase:

...

70. Gravity is electromagnetic in nature with two uniform but opposite forces.

71. Gravity is therefore both attractive and repulsive.

72. But this is connected with the mass itself, with the Earth, thus by the planet, whereby the mass exerts the coherent, however the second factor itself, namely the production and application of what you call gravitons.

Billy:

The term graviton does not come from me. But it seems to me now that you explain that these gravitons and electromagnetism are present at the same time and would act as attraction and repulsion?

Semjase:

73. Sure, that is all I am allowed to tell you officially until I have consulted with the others.

Billy:

It is all right, I do not want to rush you. But can you still tell me how gravity is created, I mean gravitons and electromagnetism?

...

I mean only in broad terms, like e.g. by warmth and cold.

Semjase:

...

76. But good; on the one hand, the causes can also be found quite correctly in the heat and cold, in the self-heating of the planet and in the cold of the space.

77. On the other hand, the solid core of the planet in its density as well as the atmosphere, etc. are also important factors in the formation of gravity and antigravity.

https://www.futureofmankind.co.uk/Billy_Meier/Contact_Report_066

Semjase:

81. The natural cosmic laws require a uniform and consistent development within the framework of all evolutionary concerns of all levels.

82. This means that the spiritual as well as the material-consciousness-based development constantly progress in harmony with each other and must always be in harmony with each other in accordance with the consistency of all things.

83. In the case of the control of gravity, the rules of the laws are ordered in such manner that primarily the consciousness-based evolution is of decisive importance for the development of technological aids for the control of gravitational forces.

84. Thus, as a rule, the application of the power of consciousness to paralyse the gravitational forces first leads to technological coping, and only at a much later point in time, with the corresponding development of the power of consciousness, does the possibility occur through which a human being can move weightlessly through space.

85. You call this state produced by the power of consciousness a levitative moment, which means nothing else than that a levitation process takes place, in other words a levitation.

86. At the ur-beginning point this state is evoked in an unconscious form to the human being, and only gradually does he/she learn to master it consciously and to purposefully steer it.

87. If the human being has learned to master these powers, only then will he/she be able to devise and construct highly technological aids.

88. Thus the control of gravity at its ur-primary and primary point is based first and foremost on the evolution of consciousness, which means that physically the above-mentioned powers can only be mastered when the human life-form has freed itself from the 'heaviness' of unknowledge and non-consciousness-based matters.

89. According to your linguistic usage, however, I must now explain:

90. Exceptions confirm the rule, even if this exception is not easily recognisable and precedes in a form that does not appear very frequently.

91. Such an exception is the Earth-human:

92. He/she is not yet capable of mastering consciousness with all its consequences, and yet they are already capable of finding their way in the field of gravitational-force research to a great extent.

93. This exception rests in the confusing fact of a very rare erroneous development, which has fundamentally shifted the potential of the rectification of consciousness and the material realm overall, whereby the material realm has become overpowering and dominates in relation to the evolution.

94. This explains why the material realm has come to the fore and has become dominant in terrestrial human beings, whereby evolution takes place primarily in this direction, while the purely consciousness-based evolution lags behind at a disadvantage, as you yourself once said.

95. This is why technology on Earth is far more developed than the evolution of the consciousness.

96. It should be noted, however, that especially since 1937, the strong influences of the new age have led this mismatch of the material realm throughout the world into much lighter and more moderate paths, whereby the difference between the prosperity of consciousness and pure materialness is no longer as great as is generally assumed.

Billy:

Then still another question about gravity: Like each and every thing that exists, gravitational power surely also has a speed. In addition, at least, so I have understood Ptaah's explanation relating to this, gravitational power is incorporated into the same speed limit as light.

Gravitational power is not just given with suns and galaxies, planets or meteors, asteroids, comets, as well as with universal nebulous formations and neutrino clouds, but rather, it also exists in universal space itself. At least, that's how I understood Ptaah's explanations. And since I have now been asked about this by Professor Brenner and I want to give him the answer correctly, I would again like to ask if what I have said is right?

Quetzal:

114. As usual, everything is of correctness.

https://www.futureofmankind.co.uk/Billy_Meier/Contact_Report_228

Quetzal:

86. Moreover, our universe – like any other, of course – consists not only of gross matter, but also of pure energies, one of which is black energy, as we call it, which is responsible for a certain form of antigravity in the material universe and is estimated to account for $\frac{3}{5}$ of all universal energies.

https://www.futureofmankind.co.uk/Billy_Meier/Contact_Report_260

Billy:

... But now, I have here another question: Anti-gravity – Semjase once told me that both heat and cold are connected with it.

Ptaah:

37. That is quite right, but not to be regarded as general.

38. Heat and cold play a role only in the way that through these, electric energy, i.e. electromagnetic energy, is produced, from which then, among other things, anti-gravity arises through certain processes.

Billy:

Can or may you explain that in more detail?

Ptaah:

39. No, for the time still isn't ripe for that.

40. It would be too dangerous for the people and their applications of technology if they already fully mastered anti-gravity.

41. Already, the researches relating to this of the Earth-humans and their resulting applications of anti-gravity are heading towards them seizing world power for themselves.

42. There are already extensive experiments in this regard, whereby the scientists in the USA can report authoritative successes.

Billy:

Here is my question: On the one hand you say that 'Dark Matter' is an expanding substance or matter, but on the other hand you also once said that only through 'Dark Matter' is gravity possible and can function. Isn't that a contradiction? Somehow I just do not understand the whole thing, it confuses me.

Ptaah:

103. As far as I am allowed to make a statement, I will explain the following:

104. Dark matter is an interactive mass, which means that it is massive particles which – measured in the atomic range – have an enormous weight.

105. These massive particles have an interaction that is related to both gravity and expansion force, which is why I explained that dark matter is expansion matter, although I did not mention that it is also gravity matter.

106. So without the dark matter there would be neither centrifugal force nor gravity.

107. So without gravity no expansion substance can exist, and without expansion matter no gravity.

108. Both factors, centrifugal force and gravity, are everywhere, but they are only perceptible and therefore also measurable, but not visible, because they radiate neither light nor darkness visible to the eye.

109. I am not allowed to explain more about this.

Billy:

Thanks, then once again I have a question about dark matter, which you call expansion matter. I was asked a question about what is meant by this. So I answered what you explained to me, that expansion substance is the universal gravitational force, which runs through the whole universe like a net and forms knots in groups, in constant change. And if I myself have understood correctly what you have explained to me, then the entire network corresponds to an invisible gravitational energy, which attracts or forms and collects every form of fine matter, and at the same time expands or contracts, from which material formations and even galaxies are formed, whereby in this respect the very energetic nodes play a particularly important role. So this invisible universal gravity net, especially its nodes, forms all kinds of fine-matter, whereby this fine-matter matter is not yet known to earthly scientists. The nodes are constantly widening and expanding, which ultimately results in visible matter that develops into galaxies. And because the dark matter expands in this way, you call it expansion substance, whereby the invisible matter develops and expands into nodes or visible matter, from which planets, suns and whole galaxies develop over billions of years. Dark matter is not to be confused with the factor called dark energy, which corresponds to the universal centrifugal force.

https://www.futureofmankind.co.uk/Billy_Meier/Contact_Report_605

Billy:

First I want to say that I am glad that you are still in the area and that you could still come here this night, and secondly our correction work on Guido's book has shown that I cannot cope with certain formulations, namely the terms mass and weight as well as weightlessness and zero gravity. My logic tells me that a mass can probably change in terms of its consistency, density and volume, both on earth and in world space, thus it can condense or expand, through whatever circumstances, but it remains in its entirety as a mass and thus becomes 'more' or 'less' only in the way that it expands or contracts. As a result, the mass as such always remains the same and only changes physically or in volume. But every mass now also has a weight, and this is in and of itself unchangeable, and that regardless of whether on earth or in space and thus also in so-called weightlessness. But now it is asserted by earthly scientists that through the increase of weightlessness and through the fact that gravity no longer exists, a weightlessness arises, just as in the space of the world, where there is no perceptible force of gravity and therefore no one can be measured. I find this assertion illogical and contradict my reason, because no matter whether gravity or gravitation is given or not, the given weight remains the same, thus according to earthly measure 100 kilograms are exactly the same weight on earth as on the moon, on an asteroid or comet, consequently the weight does not become lighter, but remains in its weight measure. What changes is only the gravitational attraction ratio, which is followed by the fact that the 100 kilograms appear to be lighter on the moon than on earth due to the lower gravitational attraction, although they remain constant at 100 kilograms. This apparent lightness of weight in the world dream, in free fall or on the moon is explained by Earthly scientists as weightlessness or weight reduction, which however contradicts my understanding of logic, because by a reduced or cancelled attraction a weight cannot be reduced, but it remains the same, if nothing of it is taken away. So I think that scientists start from false assumptions and do not stick to reality and try to explain something they don't understand. It is also possible, however, that they simply have no idea what it is really about, when a reduction in attraction seems to reduce a weight – our dear Uèli has 'apparently' led into the field. Also I do not know of any such term that could be used for the apparent lightening of the weight and explain the matter.

Ptaah:

6. I am familiar with this problem of the lack of concepts in relation to what you are referring to, although we do have a corresponding name for it if a weight is apparently reduced or even eliminated by a reduction or complete suspension of the gravitational force.
7. We call this state, when I translate our term into the German language, 'Anti-Gravitation-Status', which in the sense of your question expresses that it is a matter of an annulment of the gravitational pull of the body in question or of a material in which the outer gravitation becomes ineffective.
8. Every matter on earth, e.g. a human body, has its own weight and thus also its own gravity, although this is extremely small in relation to Earth's gravity and cannot be consciously felt by Earth's inhabitants.
9. The fact is, however, that only this dead weight together with the dead gravitation makes it possible for the body to be attracted by Earth's gravitation.
10. This means that only if something has an own weight and thus only a minimal own gravitation in the nanoscale, can it be attracted by an external gravitational force.
11. However, if something is given that has neither a dead weight nor a dead gravitation, then it cannot be attracted by an external gravitation.
12. It must therefore be understood that every matter, however small it may be, has its own gravity and thus attracts other material, even the tiniest bacteria.
13. Also Earth naturally has its own large force of attraction, which is also called gravitation, gravity or even force of attraction.
14. This gravitation causes bodies to attract each other, with the corresponding force depending on their mass and the distance between them.
15. The closer they are to each other, the more they attract each other.
16. If one body is much heavier than the other, it also pulls much harder on the one that has a lower weight.

17. On Earth this can of course only be determined by extremely sensitive measuring instruments, but in comparison also by the use of magnets.
18. If, however, the outer gravitational force is weakened or even eliminated, as in the case of the outer planetary layers, up to nearby space, then any outer matter loses its own attraction according to its own weight, which results in an 'anti-gravitational status' for it, which is erroneously called 'weightlessness' by earthly scientists.
19. But this does not correspond to the correctness, because every matter, thus also the human body, does not become weightless, but only an 'anti-gravity-status' takes place, which means that it escapes from the planetary gravity.
20. The body thus escapes the external gravitational force and influence of Earth.
21. And the further the body moves away from earth gravity, the smaller it becomes and gives it the possibility that it attracts some material by its own gravitational pull, even if these may only be very small quantities.
22. If, for example, the International Space Station (ISS) is taken as a comparison in this respect, then it is still in a gravitational orbit of Earth, but due to its size it already has a low inherent gravity, through which it can draw materials from space.
23. So there is no weightlessness, as it refers to your question, because it is a weight deception that appears as fact and reality, but in reality is not really given and contradicts the effective fact, because it is only apparently existing, given and present.
24. In any case, a weight always remains of the same weight, regardless of whether there is a light or large gravitational force; this only determines whether a weight is more or less attractive than a stronger or weaker gravitational force.

Billy:

... But another thing: When we talk about weight, it only refers to the units of weight that we use here on earth, such as the units milligram, microgram, gram, nanogram, pound, kilogram, hundredweight and tonne in the large part of the European area, whereby the whole thing also depends on the gravitational force. So inevitably on other worlds as well as on our moon, on asteroids and comets completely different amounts of the same materials are necessary, depending on the gravitational strength, in order to obtain the same weight as with us on earth. So materials can be much lighter and thus planet etc. can show less gravitational force, or materials can be much heavier because planet etc. shows much greater gravitational force, as a result of denser resp. more compact matter, resulting in much greater gravitational force. The gravitational force is also dependent on the speed of rotation of Earth as well as the temperature, respectively cold and heat in such a way that these have an influence on the density and consistency of the matter, as your father Sfath already explained to me in my youth, as well as your daughter Semjase, after our contacts began in 1975.

Billy:

What I've wanted to ask you for a long time refers to what your father Sfath explained to me, that earthquakes and volcanic eruptions influence the gravitational waves of Earth or change them in a certain way, whereby the gravitational vibrations can be measured and registered. Such and other gravitational oscillations, Sfath explained, would arise on the one hand on all active planets, but also when planets or two or even three black holes, but also suns or galaxies collide. He also explained that such events produce very strong gravitational oscillations which propagate at very high speed throughout the universe. However, as I have searched in vain for relevant explanations in specialist journals and books so far, I want to ...

Ptaah:

119. Up to this day, you can not find any descriptions concerning this phenomenon in earthly-scientific publications, because as far as I know, there are no findings and experiences corresponding to the matter, no findings or experimentally successful attempts of specific efforts concerning findings and recordings of gravitational oscillations.

...

Billy:

Then must I understand by what you say that Earthlings cannot yet measure and record Earth gravity vibrations, nor the other gravity vibrations as I have called them according to your Father Sfath's explanations?

Ptaah:

123. That is the point of my words ...

https://www.futureofmankind.co.uk/Billy_Meier/Contact_Report_645

10. So time only exists where there are gravitational forces.

11. Where however no gravity exists, there is also no time, but only endless duration and thus timelessness.

Billy:

This is what I learned to say from Sfath, and what I learned from him is all just a little different from what earthly science claims. As far as I know, the earthlings still have no idea that everything is also dependent on swinging waves, namely on the swinging waves of the Earth itself, that it is precisely the Earth's gravitational swinging wave that makes it possible for something to grow and flourish. However, it is not only the gravitational swinging waves that play a very decisive role, which emanates from the Earth, but also other aspects that are just as unknown to earthly scientists as the gravitational swinging waves, which, as far as I know, they do not yet know. ...

Billy:

Well, I got you some names like here: Lord Meru/Ber Meru {probably Aramu Muru} in the Andes in Peru, then Lord Kenich-Ahan/Uxmal, Berg {this German word translates as "Mount" or "Hill"} near Merida/Yucatan, Royal Teton in Wyoming {this may be referring to Grand Teton, and possibly a place name/chapter in the book Unveiled Mysteries by "Godfré Ray King" (Guy Warren Ballard)} and Banff in Canada {possibly the Banff Formation}. Do these names mean anything to you?

Semjase:

101. Of course, these are the names of the places of the great White Brotherhood, which fraudulently designates these places as 'spiritual' centres, the first three being physical centres and the last being an ethereal centre.

102. But they are not the only ones, because there are several others.

Billy:

Fine, but what's it all about? You're saying these places are fraudulently referred to as centres?

Semjase:

103. Such centres do not exist anywhere, neither in physical nor in etheric form.

104. These are just fraudulent allegations by power-hungry sectarians.

106. These places are not known to me, but it is absolutely impossible for centres to exist in this form.

...

Billy:

Okay, but I was told that good thoughts directed there would be echoed there; how can that be explained?

Semjase:

108. Very simple:

109. When many people concentrate their streams of thoughts on one point, they meet at the target point, form a block, and thus give a perceptible echo to each further force calling that point.

110. So it's just fraud and self-deception through conceit.

Billy:

But Sfath once told me that there were natural centres like this.

Semjase:

111. Sure, namely wherever certain minerals are stored in large quantities and have a concentrating effect.

63. But so also did various others of the current group members become a talking point in other times as other personalities, for they actuated themselves organisationally in the matter of the spiritual teaching and even established organisations that have remained existent up to the current time.

64. In particular, I would like to mention in this connection the now very distinct organisation of the "Great White Brotherhood," which was established and called into life by the former personality {possibly referring to Karl von Eckartshausen} of someone who performs very valuable services today as a group member in your group.

65. But so also are those of others, even if their relevant services are not as great as in the aforementioned case.

66. But the fact that the "Great White Brotherhood" and its sects which have sprung from it contain so very much of the truthfully truth, this is not surprising, for the true knowledge was, indeed, processed into the teachings of these organisations.

67. But unfortunately, it is true that a lot of nonsense and falsehoods found entrance into the teachings of these organisations, but on the other hand, this was inevitable because the Earth-human, after such a long time, could no longer be confronted with the full truth.

68. Thus, strictly religious and also delusion-believing facts became processed into the teachings, for only because of these did the Earth-human become involved with the new teachings, but these must now be slowly and steadily worked back out and corrected by the spreading and teaching of the pure and truthfully truth, which you have taken over the obligation to bring and to spread.

5. We cannot help in this because, on the one hand, it would be wrong, and on the other hand, in the coming time, we will be busy with monitoring functions relating to serious future earthly affairs.

Billy:

Do you mean the rising military conflicts in the Middle East?

Ptaah:

6. That is correct, we will be very taken up by the imminent outbreak of war between the countries of Iran and Iraq, which will produce bad consequences and will not be the end of the wars in the Persian Gulf because at the beginning of the 90s, another war will follow, a multinational war provided by the U.S. Army and Iraq.

https://www.futureofmankind.co.uk/Billy_Meier/Contact_Report_135

Billy:

And how does it stand with Iraq and Iran, which bloodily fight each other?

Semjase:

13. This war between brothers will continue even further with unabated violence and will throw the whole world into a very bad crisis.

14. And as I already told you before, there will be no real winner upon completion of the war, and in later years, more murderous and destructive wars will take place in Iraq by the fault of the Americans and the Iraqi dictator.

https://www.futureofmankind.co.uk/Billy_Meier/Contact_Report_182

Quetzal:

554. ... and she {Semjase} also told you nothing about the war that will go down in the annals of world history, starting from 1991, as the Gulf War.

555. Saddam Hussein – the dictator of Iraq, whom you personally know so well and of whom you always said that he would be the worst butcher of humans if he would only find the opportunity to carry out his murderous plans – will have a military invasion of Kuwait on the 2nd of August 1990 and will, thus, trigger a multinational punitive action, which will be headed by the Americans.

556. From this, a battle will develop, which will be unequalled until now.

557. For about a month, multinational troops will bomb Iraq in unprecedented consequence, before the real battle begins on the ground.

558. The criminal, unscrupulous, malicious, uncompromising, murderous Saddam Hussein will avenge himself and will allow billions of litres of earth petroleum to be pumped into the waters of the Gulf, whereby he will very soon receive the infamous title 'Criminal against Humanity'.

Billy:

Thus, a military alliance will emerge, which will take up arms against the creep. Man, this can become cheerful, for Saddam Hussein will not be the one to give way. I know him well enough from my stay there, when I was in Iraq. At that time, about 25 years ago, he was still young, about the same age as me. His views, which he explained to me, were so extreme, as he himself is in his whole character. A serious criminal from an early age, he ran into conflict again and again with the police, also because of extreme political machinations at around the age of 15 or 16 years. Even murder was a part of his daily existence, but he was never caught. When he came to power around the turning point of the eighties, he even murdered his opponents and enemies by his own hand. The guy told me at that time that he would also 'shit' on all of Islam. He literally said that to me because he thought of the Islamic faith just as little as he thought of any other faith. Religion, so he told me at that time, was only useful for him, in any case, in order to make the idiotic people docile and subservient to a political or military leader. With a shit-faith, one can always get the humans of low intelligence to make him a master and a leader, and then, these would be subservient in order for him safely to shed blood. If he would take to the helm and, thus, would come to power, so he told me, then he would know how to take the idiotic people and make them be enslaved to himself. He would simply play the part of a good Muslim and, if necessary, would fall on his knees towards Mecca in public and would hypocritically pray; thus, the stupid people would certainly run after him and would congratulate him, cheer, and make him the absolute ruler. Thus, he would become master and emperor over all Arab countries, and soon, it would then also be attainable to him to take over the world and become a world-dominating great emperor. He strives to achieve this goal, and every means is good enough for him, even if hundreds of millions of people would die as a result. The guy is not just a megalomaniac and a limitless fanatic of the most bloodthirsty violence and destruction, but he is crazy and insane and is a danger to the entire Earth. He would subjugate the entire Earth to himself with blood and would subdue it, if only he could. The only way to stop his power-hungry plans is a multinational logical act of force against him. But certainly, idiotic peace-criers all over the world will try to prevent this through demonstrations and the like, and also in various crazy Arab camps, there will be a pro-Hussein cry. But these poor lunatics will not know what they try to arrange through this because if Saddam Hussein would win, should it actually come to this conflict mentioned by you, then this would not only mean the subjugation and possibly the death of the pro-criers or peace-criers but also the ever bloodiest enslavement and torment of all of Earth humanity. Man oh man, I know this guy Saddam Hussein and I know what he is capable of. If everything actually arrives as you say, and I do not doubt your words, then one should send all the idiotic peace-criers and pro-Hussein criers into the desert.

Quetzal:

559. Your statements correspond to all correctness.

560. But unfortunately, there will be other culprits to be named when the war breaks out in the Gulf in January of 1991 because Saddam Hussein will react to any attempts toward peace just as negatively as to an ultimatum, after which the allied bombardment against Iraq will begin in the first hours of the morning on about the 16th of January.

561. Also to be named as culpable in this war will be all those who build bunkers and chemical factories, as well as many other war-technical plants, for Saddam Hussein.

562. Even weapons suppliers and weapons system-improving engineers, etc. are also included.

563. Last but not least to be mentioned is Ronald Reagan, who laid the foundation-stone for his war policy in general, so that these machinations of a serious and world-threatening nature could and can appear.

564. But to explain the individual points would take too long.

Billy:

That is understood, but tell me, will many businesses and companies not fall into trouble and even bankruptcy as a result of this Gulf War?

Quetzal:

565. Unfortunately, that will be the case, also in Switzerland.

Billy:

He is a merciless killer and destroyer of global proportions. He disregards everything the world holds in honour. He will also not shy away from calling up fanatical terrorists all over the world to carry out their murderous attacks of all kinds and everywhere, causing immense damage and destroying human lives. Thus, this war will have worldwide consequences and cause worldwide damage and criminal terrorist attacks that could make one afraid. It is fortunate that this is not the Third World War, which may still be preventable, as Semjase said.

Quetzal:

566. Nevertheless, this coming war in the Gulf will be waged worldwide, even though it actually is not the Third World War, which is mentioned in the prophecies and which can, perhaps, be averted after all.

Billy:

Good, let's leave this. We should not get too deeply involved in these war interests with ifs and buts.

Quetzal:

567. That is correct, but it should, perhaps, still be mentioned that this upcoming Gulf War shall be more of a punitive action than an actual war, even though the whole thing will have serious and global consequences.

...

Billy:

Thus, the usual. – But now, I have yet another question regarding what you said about Saddam Hussein and Kuwait, etc. You have not revealed how the Gulf crisis or even the punitive action against Iraq will turn out; and what specific things are thereby yet to be expected?

Quetzal:

579. As I told you, there will be an enormous bombardment of multinational troops on Iraq and Kuwait, which will last for about a month and which has no parallels on Earth to date and will not have any up to that time.

580. More precisely, this bombardment will last a month and a week and will decimate and demoralise the Iraqi army units to such an extent that, after the ground offensive begins, they will surrender by the tens of thousands, starved, wounded, sick, demoralised and, in some cases, psychologically at the end of their tether.

581. After the ground attack, a hundred-hour battle will take place, during which the entire Iraqi army and also Saddam Hussein's elite units, the Republican Guards, will be beaten, after which the U.S. President Bush will then order a ceasefire, namely for the time around 8 or 9 o'clock, Iraqi time, on the 28th of February, 1991.

Billy:

Then at this time, Kuwait might also become free again.

Quetzal:

582. That will already be the case on the 27th of February.

583. Nevertheless, Kuwait will be destroyed to a very great extent, and before the ceasefire, the fleeing Iraqis will still kidnap many Kuwaitis as hostages, taking them before, but even at the beginning of, the cruel massacre of the population under occupation, to which women, children, adolescents, and men of every age will fall victim.

584. Women and children will be raped and abused, in order to violate them after that, so that intimate body parts can be cut from their bodies, which will then be swung by the assassins' hands in triumph and be hung up as trophies everywhere.

585. Nevertheless, for a long time, this still will not be enough with the atrocities of the inhuman Iraqi soldiers, for before they flee or surrender to the Allies, they will still set on fire Kuwait's sources of oil and will make the ecological disaster, which was caused by the earth petroleum that was led into the Gulf, even larger.

586. From the oil fires, thick black soot clouds of smoke will arise, which will not only cause wide-area black rain precipitation in several countries, but they will also be very toxic and will destroy much biological life.

587. For a long time, the Sun will also be darkened by the black smoke, and all kinds of life will be destroyed.

Billy:

If immature and ones of low intelligentum achieve power and weapons, then they will cause incredible destruction with them and release worldwide catastrophes. In addition to immaturity and low intelligentum, still religious fanaticism and subservience come together for the degenerated, overbearing jerks, who are so clever, however, that they are able to beat the people into bondage. But how will things continue, then, after the ceasefire?

Quetzal:

588. Subsequently there will be a genocidal attempt on the Kurds, which Saddam Husain will pursue after a civil war is murderously put down by his troops.

589. But in everything, the Americans will not bear the least guilt because the American President Bush will request the Iraqi army to direct opposition against the dictator Hussein and to his overthrow, whereby he will indirectly animate the Kurds to this as well.

590. However, if the Iraqi people actually rise up against their dictator, then Bush will simply withdraw himself and then leave the Iraqi people to their misery and to the clutches of their murderous tormentor and murderer, as is customary with many Americans in their attitude and conduct.

591. Nevertheless, America is not only controlled by such inhumane and false elements, since truthfully also human beings living there, and just these will be the ones who will compel the Bush administration to take action, while still giving support to the Kurds, who make use of the army stationed in Iraq to help and benefit them, but this cannot prevent the fact that during the worst time, more than 1,000 Kurdish refugees will die daily in the inhospitable and wintry mountains of Kurdistan, which you know from your own experience, and you know how life-hostile they are.

592. Deprivation, hardships, exhaustion, and diseases will be the causes of death of the refugees, just as also the military and inhumane acts of violence of the Iraqi army, which will also carry over there into the third millennium, which will lead to the second Iraqi war via the Americans, under the patronage of Bush's son, George Walker, who will then be U.S. President, who will lie to the people about alleged weapons of mass destruction in Iraq and will fail miserably in Iraq with the army.

593. In addition, terrorism will act further, whereby a complete conflagration will be released from Arabia, at least in the Middle East.

Billy:

And Saddam Hussein, what happens to him?

Quetzal:

594. His end will come much later, but about this, I will report to you some other time if it will still be permitted to me, for I should not deal with these things any further.

Billy:

Well, will other things and events still arise that are connected to the murder of Saddam Hussein?

Quetzal:

595. Certainly:

596. The chief event of the Iraqi troops in Kuwait will be a time from which a wide-raging cholera epidemic must be counted on, which will demand thousands of lives, particularly in Latin America but also in several other countries around the world.

Billy:

So once again, a time of a large cholera epidemic. But what happens if Saddam Hussein is not knocked off of his throne?

Quetzal:

597. Then over the course of the next decades, it would have to be counted on that the Middle East and even the entire world could be threatened by a new war.

598. He is power-hungry, autocratic, and dangerous, like a pit full of irritated, venomous snakes.

599. However, the overthrow of the dictator should not occur by foreign powers but only by his own people, otherwise, more harm than good will result and a wildfire could arise, as I already explained.

304. His name is Mister BATES, Charles Bates, and he is an official of the American FBI under his own name.

305. Here – this is a city map of San Francisco, and here is the Municipality called Mission District.

306. Only Mexican-Americans live here with small exceptions and here, here in this house, the gang of criminals has settled down and is hiding.

Semjase:

3. You shall once again interfere in earthly events and exercise your powers, for things are happening which are of decisive importance with regard to the standing of the reality of all extraterrestrial life-forms.
4. The world domination-addicted intelligences of Giza are preparing a very malicious crime to harm various other intelligences they dislike and question their credibility.
5. In recent times they have made great efforts to influence terrestrial humans in sectarian form in order to commit, in this form, an unusually malicious crime against human life, whereby the existence of extraterrestrials is to be made impossible and ridiculous, but whereby on the other hand their madness of religion for the purpose of their world domination addiction is to find new breeding ground for them.
6. Here's the thing now:
7. For some time now, a couple of earthlings in particular have been under the evil influence of the Giza intelligences in order to initiate criminal and degrading things in their evil sense.
8. The purpose of these machinations is to mislead earthlings in larger masses with the lying instruction that the Earth will no longer be habitable in about a decade.
9. According to this assertion of lies the Earth-humans would therefore die en masse and everything would fall prey to death.
10. However, it is not given that all terrestrial humans must die, why a rescue by extraterrestrials is intended.
11. Willing persons would therefore be picked up by extraterrestrial intelligences by a spaceship and brought to another, better and more beautiful world, where they would have a free and better life.
12. This has already been announced through billboards and other advertising.
13. Also, a meeting serving this evil cause was already held last Sunday (14th September 1975; Declaration of 16th September 1975) to get hold of the willing.
14. That is what happened in America in a place called WALDPORST.
15. The interested people were told at this meeting that from now on they could go to a camp where they would be prepared for the alleged flight into space in order to cope with the complaints of space flight, but also to gather the necessary knowledge of the new life on the pretended other and better world and to adapt to the new life.
16. The only condition for this resettlement undertaking was that all earthly goods be sold or otherwise disposed of and that no children be taken along.
17. Unfortunately, there was more willingness for this evil enterprise than could be calculated.
18. In haste many of the interested followed and chased after the lures of the advertisers to await in said camp for the things which were supposed to come.
19. The further consequences of this well-considered criminal enterprise are absolutely clear to us, and there are various prospects for the misguided:
20. 1) The whole enterprise is to be disguised in a religious form, in the form of a new sectarianism, whereby all the willing are to be deceived and misled in order not to grasp the real background.
21. 2) Weak and otherwise unfit persons shall be gradually separated and murdered.

22. 3) Several of those found to be fit are to be slavishly forced, as 'work robots' on Earth, to perform frontline duties for the benefit of the Gizeh intelligences, who need many earthly things, but which they do not want to acquire through their own work.
23. 4) Several of those found to be fit are to be abducted and enslaved away from Earth.
24. 5) Several should found a new sectarian organisation and thus work on Earth in a religious form for the plans of the Gizeh intelligences.
25. These 5 points were elaborated by the Gizeh intelligences and will be applied.
26. However, the earthlings advocating this plan are not aware of these facts, because they live in an implanted delusion.
27. Now, however, the Gizeh intelligences have ascertained that we are concerned about the matter, so they are looking for new ways in order to not let their undertaking fail.
28. But there is the danger that the misguided ones will all be murdered, because for those addicted to world domination the life of an Earth-human is of absolute insignificance.
29. We now instruct you to try to do things in your form and to try to avert the worst.
30. We ourselves endeavour to disrupt the Gizeh intelligence themselves in their actions.

Billy:

You surely know what all happened on the Earth in connection with this comet, with which I mean the sectarian machinations, through which mass suicides occurred in bulk, like with the suicide cult of the American guru Applewhite.

Ptaah:

242. Yes, these sad events are familiar to me.

243. On the one hand, they are connected with the appearance of the comet and, on the other hand, with the end of the world fantasies and delusional ideas that allow many confused people to forget all reason.

244. And the many sectarian preachers of salvation will also contribute to this in this deadly form in the future because the Christian turn of the millennium, which is supposed to come but which has truly already been exceeded, incites all those who are confused to continue to believe in the saviors of extraterrestrial origin, who will allegedly fetch the chosen ones among the faithful sectarians of the Earth into spaceships, in order to save them before the end of the world.

245. And since these allegedly extraterrestrial saviors should be of a "spiritual" nature and should be beings of light, etc., whom one should only be able to approach as a "spiritual" form, the slogan applies that the human must rid himself of his material body through suicide, so that his spirit form or soul can be taken up by the alleged luminous saviors into their spaceships.

246. This is actually the basic, sick thought of the cult leaders and their followers.

{Billy:}

... One only has to think of all the other UFO sects of the same orientation, which in the same way carry out their sick machinations and make their believers docile with all the nonsense, exploit them and drive them into mental distress and misery or even suicide. A bad example of this was the religious sectarian 'Heaven's Gate' UFO sect founded in the early 1970s in the USA by Marshall Herff Applewhite, which he then led together with the nurse Bonnie Lu Nettles until her death.

The members of the cult were under the delusion of being extraterrestrials themselves, and the collective suicide of most of them took place in 1997, during the appearance of comet Hale-Bopp. In preparation for their suicide, they drank lemon juice to ritually cleanse their bodies, believing that their suicide would also contribute to the growth of the Internet because the members of the sect were web designers. Death was ultimately brought about by taking phenobarbital mixed with apple juice and vodka.

The 39 dead bodies of cult members were found in March 1997 in a rented villa in Rancho Santa Fe community (north of San Diego, California). The dead bodies lay in bunk beds, neatly covered with purple blankets and shoes with the same new Nike trainers. All of them also had luggage and money for the journey in the UFO or space ship with them. The whole thing caused a big sensation worldwide. Applewhite convinced 38 of his followers to commit mass suicide, because this was the way to send their souls on a journey in a UFO or spaceship. The spaceship was supposed to be located behind the comet and fly after it. Marshall Herff Applewhite (1931–1997) worked as a church musician and was the son of a Presbyterian preacher. However, due to health problems of a psychological nature, he was released in 1970. A year later, because he was homosexual, he tried to be 'cured' of his 'illness' in a hospital. There he met the nurse Bonnie Lu Nettles, who was born in 1927 and died in 1985. The two stayed together after they met until Nettles' death. Both were interested in astrology, and also believed to have known each other in previous lives. In their religious delusion, they saw themselves surrounded by various spirits and guardian angels. And according to their delusion, which also referred unrealistically to UFOs, they founded their fanatical UFO sect and called themselves 'The Two', later also 'Bo and Peep', as well as 'Winnieh and Pooh' etc. In the following years they gathered a small following around them and became widely known. First they called their UFO sect 'Guinea Pig', then HIM (Human Individual Metamorphosis), then TOA (Total Overcomers Anonymous). Finally, they named their sect 'Heaven's Gate'. The sect structure of 'Heaven's Gate' was similar to a medieval monastic order, where the members of the sect abandoned all private property and privacy, lived ascetically and did, performed and undertook everything collectively. They lived in a villa which was fully equipped with technical surveillance facilities, so that all members could be closely monitored. Various male members, of course also Applewhite itself, had themselves neutered in order to maintain a better asceticism. Everything in the villa was very precisely labelled, also all light switches, all shelves and containers. When Bonnie Lu Nettles died in 1985, Applewhite continued the UFO sect on his own, which was financed by professional website development under the name of 'Higher Source'.

... tell me, upon which data from earlier times can one most likely rely? Is it the biblical writings or the Sanskrit records?

Semjase:

41. The Sanskrit scriptures are indeed very accurate and extremely precise in certain respects, but not the bible scriptures, for they are the most inaccurate in this respect.

42. They are the ones which have been most falsified and interwoven with fantasy stories.

43. Recommended are the original Henoah ur-writings {this may be referring to the books of Enoch} as well as the calendar records of the old Maya tribes.

44. Especially the last ones are the most valuable.

45. Your data starts where the small planet races in from space and triggered the catastrophe 10,215 years ago, if I am accurately informed about these things and do not make any miscalculations in my data.

46. I am not that precise in my orientation, but I think my statements are at least roughly correct.

47. Unfortunately, I have so far dealt much too little with these concerns, which is probably why I can be subject to a mistake.

48. But my information should be pretty accurate, if I am not mistaken in the dates.

https://www.futureofmankind.co.uk/Billy_Meier/Contact_Report_150

Quetzal:

551. Anything else is not possible for me because we cannot simply falsify data like the Earth-humans do because with them, chronicles are not written down daily but often only after many centuries or even only after two thousand years according to oral tradition, as this was the case with the Jewish and various other national chronicles, by which dates and events have been so distorted that two or even three events that took place at the same time were torn apart into intervals of centuries or millenniums and were placed separately into different times, while two other events, which lay thousands of years apart, were assigned to the same time.

552. A very regrettable fact, which will unfortunately cause a great deal of confusion, irrationality and dispute among Earth-humans.

21. Adolf Hitler was a genius in many respects.

22. His knowledge ranged from various fields of art and technology to various sciences and the use of the powers of suggestion.

23. In his inner form he was an incarnated life-form of very good values.

24. However, he was not a human being with a highly developed spirit, but rather a human being with values of intellect and rationality, destined to lead the entire earthly politics and economy as well as all states in a certain positive direction so as to create a peaceful united world and Earth humankind.

25. For this purpose he was trained and incarnated at his place.

26. He was intended to give the Earth a new appearance and to initiate new forms of development through positive gewaltsame Gewalt[samkeit] [powerful actions using logic and rationality].

27. This was strictly monitored and overseen.

28. But ultimately all efforts were in vain and he was not able to fulfil his task in the form in which it was envisaged.

29. Via the then leaders of the Thule Society and their clairvoyant Hanussen I, the Giza intelligences managed to take possession of the being of Adolf Hitler and to abuse him for their dark and malicious purposes, without him resisting it, because a delusional greed for power had flared up in him himself.

30. In addition to this undertaking, innumerable forces in the form of human beings of Earth who had fallen prey to the Giza intelligences were regarding their consciousness manipulated and placed in his closest vicinity, whose influence he was also unable to withstand.

31. So he was soon forced to act against his own destiny and to do things that did not correspond to his destiny.

Billy:

I imagined something similar. For I could never come to terms with the fact that Hitler was supposed to have been simply a completely normal and not a power-addicted ruler. All his doings and actions, his trains of thought known to me from newspapers and radio speeches, which I followed with interest and often with Sfath's help during the war, cannot be reconciled with the image that was generally made of him during the war. This was also made clear to me by Sfath.

Semjase:

32. Sure, it is as you say.

33. Adolf Hitler had succumbed to a delusion of power and was also maliciously abused by the Giza intelligences, with the old Thule Society playing a not inconsiderable part in this, which, however, cannot be transferred to the society of the same name of the new form.

Billy:

The first question refers to Adolf Hitler, i.e. the Nazi regime and the Vatican. You told me once that the so-called "Holy See," i.e. the Vatican, the Pope, had somehow cooperated with Hitler. Can you tell me anything more about this?

Ptaah:

160. There were two popes who got their hands dirty in the game with the Nazi regime.

161. These were the Popes Pius XI, from 1922 to 1939, and Pius XII, who held his office from 1939 to 1958.

162. Both men have actively and consistently caused immense damage to the Jews through their machinations with Adolf Hitler and his henchmen, and both men completely and consciously accepted the murder, by the Nazi regime, of more than 4.5 million Jews and nearly 3 million criminals and people who were sick in psyche and consciousness.

163. Both popes have criminally cooperated with Adolf Hitler and have, absolutely and indifferently, accepted the Holocaust.

164. Quite deliberately, they have irresponsibly tolerated the persecution and murder of the Jews and the so-called Final Solution, whereby both popes still undertook incredible steps to promote antisemitism.

165. Thus, the 'Holy See' i.e. the Vatican and the two popes, were in common cause with Adolf Hitler and his regime.

166. On the 30th of June 1933, Pope Pius XI and his cardinals and bishops even gave a resolution in writing that the 'Holy See' would not undertake anything against Hitler or the whole Nazi regime, whereby the text of this resolution stated that "as long as Hitler does not declare war against the Holy See and the dignitaries in Germany, the Holy See and the Catholic dignitaries in Germany should refuse to condemn Hitler's party".

Billy:

My question: as Sfath once explained to me, Adolf Hitler was syphilitic and already terminally ill in the third stage, and in consciousness, he was already no longer entirely clear in the head. His consciousness had already been partially impaired, by what means he could no longer think clearly and act, and he also became megalomaniacal and unpredictable. From this disease, syphilis, he would have died sooner or later if he had not shot himself, which he actually did, right? Anyhow, that's what Sfath said.

Quetzal:

13. What you have said corresponds to the truth.

14. But why do you mention these things?

Billy:

Quite simply because there are always people who maintain that Hitler is still alive and, thus, did not commit suicide.

Quetzal:

15. That corresponds to erroneous, stupid, and know-it-all claims as well as wishful assertions because Adolf Hitler actually shot himself, and to be sure, in Berlin on the 30th of April, 1945.

16. At that time, he was just 56 years old.

Billy:

He actually was not German but rather Austrian, son of the Austrian customs official Alois Hitler. He really became a German citizen in 1932. As Sfath said, he was also a Jew, but he denied this throughout his life.

Quetzal:

17. That is of correctness.

18. He kept this secret until his suicide.

Billy:

Thus, Hitler, with absolute certainty, has no longer been alive since 1945, as Sfath said.

Billy:

Then I have another question, and indeed, in reference to Adolf Hitler, about whom Semjase, your daughter, once said something before. I have here the 36th Contact Report from Monday, the 20th of October, 1975. From this, I will read aloud to you what Semjase said, to whom the question was asked: at what place had Dolfy been educated and how did the monitoring of him take place?

Then, a further question relates to whether there is a significant destiny for his next incarnation. So now, here's what Semjase said (Pleiadian/Plejaren Contact Reports, Volume 1, page 460):

Semjase

... Adolf Hitler was, in many respects, a genius. His knowledge ranged from a variety of areas of art and technology concerning a variety of sciences up to the use of the power of suggestion. In his internal form, he was an incarnate life form of very good values. Nevertheless, he wasn't a man of highly developed spirit but rather a man of intellect and reason, who was destined to lead the overall earthly politics and economy as well as all nations in a certain positive direction, in order to create a peaceful, united world and Earth humanity. For this purpose, he was educated and incarnated at his place. He was destined to give a new style to the Earth, through a positive and enforced non-violence, and to initiate new forms of development. This was very strictly controlled and monitored. But ultimately, all efforts were in vain, and he was unable to fulfil his task in the way that it was provided. Through the leaders of the Thule society at that time, as well as through their clairvoyant, Hanussen I, the Giza Intelligences succeeded in taking possession of Adolf Hitler's being and in misusing him for their dark and malicious purposes, without him being able to defend himself against them, for a delusion-related lust for power flared up inside of him. In addition to this endeavour, still innumerable forces were manipulated in the form of the Earth-humans who succumbed to the Giza Intelligences in their consciousnesses and who were placed into his closest range, whose influence he also couldn't oppose. Thus, he was soon compelled to act against his own determinations and to do things that didn't correspond to his destiny.

{Billy, continued:} At that time, Semjase wasn't allowed to say more, she explained. But maybe it is different today, such that I might learn something more from you? You once said before that Adolf Hitler also had or just would have had the task of creating a united Earth world.

Ptaah:

108. That was actually so; that is correct.

109. The path that he then took, however, even with terror and war, was absolutely wrong and was neither in his destiny, nor in any guidelines assigned to him, nor even in our interests.

110. The reason for his wrongly chosen path developed quite early on, when he secretly came in contact with the Thule Society of that time, in consequence of which he also came in contact with Hermann Steinschneider, who also belonged to the Thule Society and supported its unfair goals and who called himself the clairvoyant, Eric Jan Hanussen.

111. Steinschneider, i.e. Hanussen, moved in all circles of major Nazi figures, among whom he had many clients, so even also Adolf Hitler, who became enslaved to him, and indeed, even before he seized the leadership for himself.

112. Steinschneider/Hanussen emerged as a middle man between the Thule Society and Hitler, and, so to speak, directed Adolf Hitler according to the Thule Society's leaders' will.

113. The efforts of the leaders at that time of the Thule Society went out for the acquisition of world domination; consequently, already very early on, they allowed Steinschneider to influence and shape Hitler in this direction, by what means this then began, in accordance with their will, with terror and murder, to trigger World War II in the end.

114. At the same time, Steinschneider became ever more powerful in the course of time, with respect to his domination over Adolf Hitler, which didn't appeal to various people who were against Hitler and his machinations.

115. The consequence of this was that they allowed Steinschneider, alias Hanussen, to be murdered in 1933, but this didn't change anything in Hitler's attitude and course; therefore, he became more and more of a monster, as you would say.

116. It's interesting to know that Adolf Hitler was born on 4/20/1889 in Braunau, Upper Austria, and Hermann Steinschneider, alias Eric Jan Hanussen, was born in Vienna, also in the year 1889.

117. Thus, both were Austrians. –

118. What is to be said further in relation to your question is that Adolf Hitler had already been instructed by our forces through telepathic impulses in his earliest youth, in terms of his determinations and guidelines, and indeed, on an ongoing basis and at every place where he always stayed.

119. Thus, he was also under constant control.

120. At the same time, he learned a lot, and everything started off very well, until he went to Vienna to enjoy an artistic education, at which he then failed, however.

121. From that point in time, he rapidly fell more and more toward the negative and evil; consequently, he soon fell outside of our control, and our telepathic impulse attempts remained fruitless.

122. From then on, he not only developed an unhealthy ambition but also an uncontrollable fanaticism as well as a hatred for all life, which he considered from his viewpoint as imperfect.

123. From this, everything that resulted later from his thoughts and actions and that brought million-fold misery across the Earth developed within a short time.

Billy:

And how should it be understood, that he, by force, should give to the Earth a new style and new forms of development? You never told us any more details about it. What must we think of this?

Ptaah:

124. Logical enforced non-violence, which means in this case that he should have taken all humane possibilities into consideration, in order to give weight to his destiny and to fulfill this.

125. However, enforced non-violence, in this sense, means that the necessary changes should be proclaimed and be implemented through weighty decrees, in order to create the goal of world peace and a united Earth world through a truly peaceful mission.

126. Acts of war were never taken into consideration because these are not only unlawful against Creation, inhumane, and destructive but also promoting of hatred and against all reason.

127. Thus, if there was talk of “by force,” then it was only in the sense of the enforced non-violence that should have rested in decrees and regulations that could be implemented peacefully.

128. Nevertheless, Adolf Hitler ignored this and violated this guideline in the worst way; consequently, immeasurable misery and millions of deaths came over the Earth-humans.

Billy:

And that in no way justified all his knowledge in various things.

https://www.futureofmankind.co.uk/Billy_Meier/Contact_Report_385

Billy:

About Adolf Hitler, who started World War II. To this day it is still unclear how this mass murderer killed himself. Do you know about that? It is always claimed that he poisoned himself, while others claim that he fled to Spain or South America.

Urlana:

22. These matters are all part of my knowledge.

23. Adolf Hitler, fearing that his suicide might fail, robbed himself of his life in two ways: first he took a cyanide capsule, which he bit and swallowed, and then he immediately put a handgun in his mouth and shot himself in the brain with it, the bullet then escaping at the side of the back of his head.

24. His remains were secretly buried by the Russians in East Germany, where they were dug up again in 1975 and thrown away so that no neo-Nazi cult site could be established.

25. Parts of the skull and dentures were brought to Russia, where they are still kept today.

Billy:

Once again a question regarding Adolf Hitler: You have clearly explained to me that he committed suicide in Berlin on the 30th of April 1945 and was then burned to death. The Russians then buried his few remains left over from the cremation several times, dug them up again and finally brought them to Moscow. In recent times, when the bone material was released for analysis, it was also possible to prove that these were really the remains of Hitler. Now, however, recently various people, such as a certain Giordan Smith – perhaps an invented name – have been claiming that Dölfi's death was only invented, by the British, who only invented the story of the suicide to damage the reputation of National Socialism. This damage to the reputation, a psychological warfare, so to speak, was intended to break the will of the German people to resist the foreign occupiers.

Ptaah:

51. This assertion is pure nonsense, because Adolf Hitler actually committed suicide, as my father Sfath has told you at the time when the event took place, which he also observed himself, as I know from his notes.

https://www.futureofmankind.co.uk/Billy_Meier/Contact_Report_520

Ptaah:

20. Hitler, who himself was partly of Jewish descent, took the false 'Protocols' and used them to fulfil his lust for power, for his criminal work and to trigger the Second World War.

21. With the help of the falsified 'Protocols of the Wise Men of Zion' he incited himself and the German population against the Jews, finding particularly diligent supporters for his anti-Jewish propaganda among those who glorified him and with whom he was able to build up the Nazi system.
22. And it is a fact that Adolf Hitler's plans for world conquest, which were criminal to humanity, were only discovered through the wrong 'protocols', with the old Thule Society supporting him in his mania for war and world domination.
23. Only through this it was also possible, against false 'chroniclers' and false 'factual experts' in the matter of Adolf Hitler etc., that this fanatical and insane criminal of humanity could lead the world into the Second World War and the Holocaust.
24. But fanatics and lunatics in the matter of Jew-hatred existed and exist in many countries on Earth, whereby nowadays especially the neo-Nazis in Germany, Russia and the USA have to be mentioned.
25. But even before the Second World War, the USA made a big name for itself in terms of hatred of Jews as a result of the book of the 'Protocols of the Wise Men of Zion', whereby the automobile giant Henry Ford stood out in particular, who had malicious and hateful inflammatory writings against Judaism printed in huge editions and spread them everywhere.
26. Hitler of course did not remain unaware of this activity, although it is worth noting that the hatred of Jews did not find such good ground to flourish in the USA as it did in Germany.
27. It was only after the Second World War that the great neo-Nazi movement emerged in the USA, nationwide and in various groups.
28. Hitler took a liking to Henry Ford's anti-Semitism, just as many conspiracy theorists, neo-Nazis and other right-wing extremists of all kinds still have anti-Semitic tendencies today and live them out in an incredibly deep hatred of Jews.

...

Billy:

Again and again there are TV broadcasts about whether it can be proven that Hitler really committed suicide and therefore is really dead. You have already explained earlier that this crime against humanity really did commit suicide together with his wife Eva Braun and is not a fugitive from Berlin to Argentina or the South Pole, as conspiracy theorists have been claiming since the 1940s. So in 1945 the Russians actually found the burnt bodies of Hitler and Eva Braun above the leadership bunker in Berlin, but not the bodies of doppelgangers, as is claimed. That is one thing, while the other question is whether or not children were born out of the relationship between Hitler and Eva Braun. Conspiracy theorists claim that the two of them fathered at least two children who were taken to safety somewhere in Norway.

Ptaah:

38. Adolf Hitler and Eva Braun undoubtedly killed themselves, were then doused with petrol and burned beyond recognition.
39. The Russian military then also found the remains of the two and secured them.
40. But as far as the children are concerned, who according to conspiracy theorists were conceived by Adolf Hitler and Eva Braun and brought to safety in Norway, this is not true.
41. The two of them did not sire any offspring.
42. Hitler himself was severely ill with syphilis, was addicted to pervitin, suffered from Parkinson's syndrome, chronic conjunctivitis as well as intestinal inflammation and very bad teeth, and in addition he was delusionally damaged in consciousness.
43. He was constantly under strong drug influence, as he was constantly using against 100 different drugs, of which various painkillers, nerve poisons and also prohibited substances.
44. Just on the basis of these facts alone, the question is how this man should have fathered offspring.

Billy:

One must indeed ask oneself that. But can you explain to me what the 'pervitin addiction' is all about? What is Pervitin?

Ptaah:

45. It is an amphetamine that many addicts still use today, although the current name is known as the party drug meth.

Billy:

... I can still hear your father's voice in my memory today, when he told me that Hitler was a liar, a criminal of humanity, a psychopath and a perfect actor, who also suffered from megalomania, which he dictatorially implemented from the very beginning of his power through his degenerated destructive instinct, no matter that he had to go over millions of corpses and tremendous destruction. Furthermore, Sfath said, Hitler was extremely cowardly and 'shot himself out of life' when the time came for him to face accountability. That by this he meant Hitler's suicide, I actually understood that, but only realized it later, when he actually shot himself. I remember that your father also said that Hitler had fallen prey to a degenerated mania of annihilation and destruction that had arisen in him at the beginning of his puberty, between the ages of ten and twelve. The reason for this was because his father mistreated him and physically maltreated him, but also demolished him psychologically. His mother was also to blame, for she had been mentally ill and had therefore raised Adolf Hitler wrongly from her side. Hitler simply let himself go, and he did not try to get a good education for himself, said Sfath, because he had truly alienated himself from his parents, and with regard to all the things that had an effect on him he had never sought blame on himself, but always only on others. So, your father said, Adolf Hitler saw himself in his childhood and youth as a victim of others and his environment, by which he also apologized for his constant failure, but swore that he would take revenge on all the human beings if he ever gained power. As a psychopath, Hitler, on the other hand, contrary to the fact that he constantly saw himself as the victim of others, was fully aware that through his suggestive speeches he could seduce his fellow men and bring them to his side, which he also used abundantly to gain advantages and power over others, which ultimately led to him establishing the NAZI system in Germany and being elevated to the status of leader. Truthfully, Hitler also had a death instinct, as Sfath said, which not only related to himself, but also resulted in the death mania of countless other people and the boundless destructive rage. And by this far-reaching madness he could also instil hatred into the German people and all those people who have attached hatred to him and his fanatical and radical speeches, who spoke after his madness and put everything into action in the worst way possible. He was as suggestive in his speeches as many other people are who suggestively rake their fellow men with fanatical and radical utterances, allegations, lies, speeches and slander and make them commit murders, develop hatred against whole groups and peoples as well as races, religions and sects. ...

The consciousness-ill and megalomaniac Adolf Hitler, who was God-fearing and Bible-loyal and also an eighth part Jew, saw himself as a Messiah who wanted to fulfil the prophecies of the 'New Testament' on behalf and in the name of 'God' and thereby also support the Christian churches.

Billy:

... Recently there was once again a visitor here, who unfortunately is unteachably following conspiracy theories and of course does not allow himself to be taught any better, as is so usual. This time it was about that our visitor service was covered with the old nonsense of the adventurous "Schwachsinn-Theorie", which claims that the corpses of Hitler and Eva Braun had been brought after their suicide on the 30th of April, 1945 on a secret submarine with the designation U-977 into a Nazi bunker in Antarctica which was also secret. There clone experiments are said to have been carried out in order to save the genes of the leader and to resurrect him as a clone. So in this respect secret research is said to have been done and to continue to be done, which of course awakens crazy rumours that Hitler and his Eva were alleged to be sleeping deep under Antarctica. Keywords like 'Hitler in Antarctica' or 'Russian researchers have drilled Lake Vostok in Antarctica' can be found everywhere on the internet. The underwater world, untouched for millions of years, not only promises an unknown ecosystem, but also awakens memories of the Nazi leader Hitler – for in Russia there are crazy rumours circulating about a Hitler clone station in the Antarctic, for which the question is asked: "Are Hitler and his beloved buried there? But what has to do with the subglacial Lake Vostok is the fact that a Russian Antarctic research team has reached the surface of Lake Vostok with a special drill at a depth of 3769.30 metres, which corresponds to a great scientific success of Antarctic research. According to the Itar-Tass agency, this was communicated by the Ministry of Natural Resources and disseminated worldwide. But this successful Antarctic research now also leads to the fact that at the same time the rumours are boiling up again regarding Adolf Hitler and Eva Braun – who married this mankind criminal before the suicide – whose corpses were taken after the suicide to a secret Nazi bunker in Antarctica near Lake Vostok, according to idiotic rumours, in order to allegedly carry out clone experiments there. The stupid conspiracy theory claims that the Nazi leader ordered the construction of two underground bases in Antarctica to begin as early as 1940. But the whole conspiracy theatre goes even further, because some time ago it was possible to read, for example, in the British 'Sun' about a 'New Berlin' of the Nazis, because some time ago Russian researchers found remains of a Nazi research station in the Arctic, which was built 600 km away from the North Pole. But why this was not also at the South Pole resp. in the Antarctic or on the backside of the moon, where the Nazis – according to conspiracy theories – are also supposed to have been, that is just as strange, as that once more the mysterious Atlantis, as well as the Illuminati, are used and associated with a Hitler-Nazi bunker cloning station, as any extraterrestrials are associated with an alien Antarctic station or a giant asteroid. To all this I have searched the internet and found something on Wikipedia, which I present to you here, if you want to read it please, because it also has some interesting things. Of course I already know from your father Sfath what happened to Hitler and his wife and that the Nazis were also briefly in Antarctica, as I also know about the misguided conspiracy theory, but I would like to hear briefly what you have to say about it.

Billy:

The death rune, as well as others, has its origin in the Germanic culture, like Odin resp. Wotan and Thor resp. Donar. For centuries, the mysterious inscriptions have inspired the imagination of so-called scientists and laymen, as they also do in modern myths. Nowadays, especially in Europe, but also all over the world, runes are associated with Nazis and neo-Nazis, and partly rightly so, because in the Third Reich, dictator Adolf Hitler ran a cult around the runes. But the fact is that even today, more than 70 years after the Third World War of 1939-1945, the rune of death and other runes are used as a sign of recognition by many mad imitators of the former NAZIS, who stupidly out themselves as young Nazis. The harmful and disastrous false peace sign, which falsely and peace-destroyingly represents an upside-down tree of life, is extremely popular in the left-wing scene and among peace activists. However, these ignorant, uneducated people who are misled with regard to the false peace symbol are not aware, and to this day are not aware, that they are promoting harm, discord, war, murder and manslaughter with this false symbol. The false peace symbol, which is effectively a death sign, became popular through the hippies, who made it a trademark for themselves. The rune symbol is effectively a rune that does not mean peace, but death and destruction. Almost nobody knows that the peace sign, which is used worldwide, is actually a rune and the symbol of death. As a peace sign, the rune should stylise life, so the symbol should represent a tree growing upwards, which effectively symbolises life or the beginning of life. The inverted tree of life, however, as depicted in the false peace symbol, stands for death and the end of life. ...

Billy:

... I just want to say that the idiotic conspiracy theories are absolute nonsense, that Hitler and his Eva fled to Argentina. There must have been a Hitler lookalike and an Eva lookalike who were 'built up' as Hitler and Eva Braun during years of hard training in the 1930s, and consequently both became so perfect in their roles that the uninitiated could not tell the difference between them and the real thing. Only the two closest confidants around Hitler knew the truth, for all those involved in 'building up' and training the two doubles were liquidated. These doubles were also provided with false papers in the names of Hitler and his Eva Braun, just as they were given false papers and fled to Argentina when the Soviets attacked, while Hitler himself and his wife Eva holed up in the Führer bunker in Berlin and really blessed their time. The lie, however, is that the criminal killed himself and his wife, because he was too cowardly to do so, so he and Eva Braun were shot by 2 fanatics who listened to him, which was then presented as suicide and also recorded as such. Hitler himself was really too cowardly to shoot his Eva and commit suicide, after which the two executioners, loyal and completely obedient to Hitler until death, killed him and his Eva Braun on the 30th of April 1945 at 15:33 hrs with two shots to the head. The two Hitler confidants had already held discussions about this days before, during which the two Hitler fanatics swore to draw up false, lying protocols, just as the two Hitler fanatics also vowed to maintain silence about everything until their deaths and to let Hitler continue to exist as an allegedly courageous suicide hero even after his death. This explains from the point of view of reality how it actually happened and what actually happened, completely different from the lying and falsified protocols and the later statements of the two murderers.

...

It should now be clear, even without this matter, that Eva Braun and Hitler were not shot by two of his fanatical followers on his orders, because the scumbag was too cowardly to judge himself, and therefore two of his followers took matters into their own hands in order to save him from capture by the Soviets and from their brutality, etc. It is to be regretted that Eva Braun and Hitler were not shot by the Soviets, because the scumbag was too cowardly to judge himself. Eva

Braun was to be pitied here, who was horrified when the two Hitler confidants appeared and announced to them that the Soviets were approaching and also explained what they were now going to do and then also shot without further ado with their pistols, which they already had in their hands when they entered, so that Hitler and Eva Braun or Hitler could not even say anything back.

Adolf Hitler and Eva Braun had also surrounded themselves with two pairs of doppelgängers, which was largely concealed and thus kept secret, as was the fact that they sometimes came to the fore while Hitler or Eva Braun were elsewhere in safety. One of the two pairs of doppelgängers was so similar to the originals that no differences could be discerned, so to speak, also with regard to the way of speaking, the movements, the behaviour and mannerisms. Therefore, during certain appearances, not even Hitler's direct staff noticed that Hitler pushed his practically perfect doppelgänger forward when an appearance seemed too risky. Also, there were never any suspicions, etc., because only his two fanatics knew about the whole thing, who then shot Hitler and his wife, who was finally married to him, so that they would not fall into Russian captivity, of which Hitler was hellishly afraid. The two fanatics were then practically the executioners who executed Hitler and Eva Braun, because Hitler was too cowardly to do so, although he had been proclaiming for some time that he would kill himself if everything went wrong. But when the time came that his delusion of world domination did not come true, he broke down psychologically and staggered around in the bunker like a sad heap of misery, and then, full of miserable fear and cowardice, he hid in the bunker with his wife, whereupon the two fanatics who had listened to him joined forces and decided to kill their boss and his wife before the Russians could get hold of him, the man obsessed with world domination. So the two conspirators went into the room of Hitler and Eva Braun, where they both sat on a couch and were murdered. First Hitler was shot by his personal aide-de-camp and body servant and then, a few seconds later, Eva Braun, who was Mrs Hitler. But the two executioners concealed this all their lives and, moreover, falsified this fact mendaciously, because they knew very well that they would have been made to pay for it and would also have been shot away from the present by Hitler's SS killer comrades of the bunker crew, etc., even after the war by neo-Nazis and other Hitler fanatics. And since they remained silent, it never became known what really happened at that time, so nothing of these secret events ever reached the public, just as nothing ever reached the ears of the Russians and Americans. And the two executioners were able to keep this secret all their lives.

Well, actually, I wanted to say something more about the Hitler affair, namely that the Hitlerian lookalike couple, who had been cut out of Hitler's and Eva Braun's faces, bodies, language and manner of speaking, as well as their movements, mannerisms and behaviour, fled to Argentina, where more than 18,000 Nazi henchmen had also fled. Sfath explained that, years before the world war, the doppelgänger couple had secretly rehearsed and learned Hitler's movements, speeches, behaviour, etc., so that they could perform in Hitler's manner without being bothered. Thus this Hitler-Eva-Braun lookalike couple also acted as doubles in the Reich for photographs and films, such as private life recordings, which were also distributed as 'real' Hitler-Eva-Braun films and as 'real' Hitler-Eva-Braun photos, thus deceiving the Reich people and the world.

Quetzal:

The state powers and the people who agree to everything have learned nothing from the NAZI methods of the last world war, because they are doing exactly the same as the NAZIs did. They are applying the same and very vicious and freedom-robbing coercive methods to the people as the NAZIs already did, namely that those human beings will be punished who will not submit to the freedom-robbing coercive measures. It is strange, even the NAZI leader at that time, Adolf Hitler, came from Austria. Although he was born in Braunau am Inn on the 20th of April 1889, I know that he actually began his life in Vienna. In Germany, however, he then carried out his degenerate actions and behaviour and led earthly humanity into the catastrophe of the world war. He did this with the help of the people cheering him on, who, believing in him, thoughtlessly went along with the whole disaster, which ultimately claimed millions of human lives. The non-self-thinking of the majority of the people, i.e. stupidity, was unfortunately as widespread as it still is today. And with regard to the announced compulsory vaccination, this equally results in what had led to the world war at that time and had ignored that minority which had actually thought for itself and consequently was against what the majority thoughtlessly and as stupid followers believed this Adolf Hitler as well as followed his henchmen.

Ptaah:

That is indeed the case. He was not only a substance abuser as well as a drug addict, but really a nobody by origin, who was also incestuously conceived, by his father with his own daughter, who was therefore Hitler's sister. Moreover, he was not only mentally ill since childhood, but also suffered from episodic schizophrenia.

Billy:

Although he was not even German, but Austrian, the Germans listened to this guy like well-behaved obedient dogs, as a result of which millions of Jews were murdered and around 60 million human beings perished in general.

Hitler, however, apparently grabbed the word from 'The Protocols of the Elders of Zion' and made use of it, namely:

"The people's awe of might.

Our firmly established might will hold the reins of government tightly in its hand and not run after party leaders and orators who proclaim unrealisable reveries with great verbosity.

It will guarantee complete peace and order, which is the whole happiness of human beings.

The people will fall on their knees before the radiant wreath of our might and look up to it in shy reverence.

true might does not avail itself of a single right, not even the divine; no one will dare to tread too close to it and curtail its fullness of power even by a hair's breadth."

Now, the fact that Adolf Hitler made use of this from 'The Protocols of the Wise Men of Zion', but contrary to this in his book 'Mein Kampf' – you can see it here, e.g. on these pages 211 and 212 – cursed and executed about the Jews, this contradicts itself and proves that this guy was not in his right mind.

Moreover, at the same time he indulged in the delusion that the Aryans were the founders of culture on this Earth, as he notes on page 321 "... true founders of culture on this Earth, the Aryans themselves".

Billy:

... I have something for you to look at in a moment, because a certain Joseph writes that the whole thing is a contradiction because I said that Hitler and Eva Braun committed suicide. Obviously, people do not think enough themselves and therefore do not understand correctly – precisely because they lack their own power of thought, therefore they do not think enough and correctly themselves and therefore do not understand that certain statements have several meanings and must also be understood in a broader sense (Billy's note: It was obviously also explained to Bernadette in this manner in an e-mail, as she later told me in the kitchen). Thus, when the suicide of Hitler and Eva Braun was first discussed, it was only said that they had liquidated themselves, although it was not said how this suicide took place. At that time and for the following decades, much was only assumed and therefore not clear, which meant that on the one hand, various versions were mentioned, but what really happened only emerged later or was corrected. This is precisely how it came about, what constantly happens on Earth, that different versions emerged until finally everything became clear, and that only through a return journey. So the following was said in the beginning (note Billy: question to Christian, who says that Joseph is a man who translates contact reports):

Billy: As Sfath once explained to me, Adolf Hitler was a syphilitic and already incurably ill in the third stage, which meant that his consciousness was already no longer completely clear in his head. His consciousness was already partially impaired, which meant that he was no longer able to think and act clearly and also became megalomaniac and unpredictable. He would have died sooner or later from this disease, syphilis, if he hadn't shot himself, which he actually did, didn't he? At any rate, that is what Sfath said.

Then there was further talk:

Billy: Because of Adolf Hitler, who instigated the Second World War. To this day it is not clear how this mass murderer killed himself. Do you know anything about that? It is always claimed that he poisoned himself, while others claim that he fled to Spain or South America.

Then once Urlana brought a version of an earthly rumour:

Urlana:

22. These concerns belong to my knowledge.

23. Adolf Hitler, fearing that his suicide might fail, deprived himself of his life in two processes, for first he ingested a cyanide capsule, which he bit and swallowed, and then immediately put a handgun in his mouth and shot himself in the brain with it, the bullet then exiting from the side of the back of his head.

24. His remains were secretly buried by the Russians in East Germany, where, however, they were dug up again in 1975 and thrown away so that no neo-Nazi cult site could be created.

25. Parts of the skull and dentition were brought to Russia, where they are still kept today.

26. With this I have said the most important things in a short process.

This 'knowledge' of Urlana was then investigated and it was explored that she had taken this 'knowledge' from a religious writing of a sectarian, which was written by a eugenicist named Schlapphof as a template.

Then finally the following was explained by me, which was based on a review arranged by Sfath before he left Earth forever:

Billy: It's all right, I don't want to talk about that either, I just want to say that the idiotic conspiracy theories are absolute nonsense, that Hitler and his Eva fled to Argentina. There must have been a Hitler lookalike and an Eva lookalike who were 'built up' as Hitler and Eva Braun during years of hard training in the 1930s, and consequently both became so perfect in their roles that the uninitiated could not tell the difference between them and the real thing. The lie, however, is that the criminal killed himself and his wife, because he was too cowardly to do so, so he and Eva Braun were shot by two fanatics who listened to him, which was then presented as suicide and also recorded as such. Hitler himself was really too cowardly to shoot his Eva and commit suicide, after which the two executioners, loyal and completely obedient to Hitler until death, killed him and Eva Braun on the 30th of April 1945 at 15:33 hrs with two shots to the head. The two Hitler fanatics swore to each other that they would draw up false, lying protocols, just as the two Hitler fanatics also swore to each other that they would maintain silence about everything until their deaths and that Hitler would continue to exist as a supposedly courageous suicide hero even after his death. This explains from the point of view of reality how it actually happened and what was actually the case, completely different from what the two murderers lied about in the false and falsified protocols and later statements.

That was what happened with regard to the suicide of Adolf Hitler and Eva Braun. Hitler was a coward and something different from what is generally still claimed today by right-wing extremists and other Hitler fanatics, i.e. NAZIs or NEONAZIs, who glorify him as a 'great man'. He was in fact only a coward, and in such a way that he was in fact only a pitiful figure incapable of life, consequently he could only appear great and strong to the outside world because his fellow men blindly and thoughtlessly believed his fanatical speeches and consequently paid him stupid homage. It is also to be said that in addition to the couple who doubled Adolf Hitler and Eva Braun, there was a second doubled couple, but they were murdered by those who also shot Hitler and Eva Braun, shortly after they were both dead.

... But there is another question: In the USA there are the so-called railroad tramps called 'hobo', but there are impossible stories about what this 'hobo' means and where the term comes from, because the real origin and meaning is unknown. The fact is, however, that certain old railway tramps called themselves 'railway god', as Quetzal once told me, who had studied these 'hobos'.

Ptaah:

57. That is probably correct, because Quetzal was very intensively occupied with the railway history of the USA and therefore also with the railroad tramps and their origin.

Billy:

He also found out that the first railroad tramp was an Ecuadorian who said that as a railroad tramp he felt like a 'hobo', so the term quickly spread throughout the US. And he must have known this term from Ecuador (Ekuador), because there God was called 'Hoba' and 'Hobo'.

Billy:

The first question refers to Adolf Hitler, i.e. the Nazi regime and the Vatican. You told me once that the so-called "Holy See," i.e. the Vatican, the Pope, had somehow cooperated with Hitler. Can you tell me anything more about this?

Ptaah:

160. There were two popes who got their hands dirty in the game with the Nazi regime.

161. These were the Popes Pius XI, from 1922 to 1939, and Pius XII, who held his office from 1939 to 1958.

162. Both men have actively and consistently caused immense damage to the Jews through their machinations with Adolf Hitler and his henchmen, and both men completely and consciously accepted the murder, by the Nazi regime, of more than 4.5 million Jews and nearly 3 million criminals and people who were sick in psyche and consciousness.

163. Both popes have criminally cooperated with Adolf Hitler and have, absolutely and indifferently, accepted the Holocaust.

164. Quite deliberately, they have irresponsibly tolerated the persecution and murder of the Jews and the so-called Final Solution, whereby both popes still undertook incredible steps to promote antisemitism.

165. Thus, the 'Holy See' i.e. the Vatican and the two popes, were in common cause with Adolf Hitler and his regime.

166. On the 30th of June 1933, Pope Pius XI and his cardinals and bishops even gave a resolution in writing that the 'Holy See' would not undertake anything against Hitler or the whole Nazi regime, whereby the text of this resolution stated that "as long as Hitler does not declare war against the Holy See and the dignitaries in Germany, the Holy See and the Catholic dignitaries in Germany should refuse to condemn Hitler's party".

Quetzal:

216. ... the humans of the peoples who still believe in reparations for the sufferings of the Jews during the Second World War.

217. What these believers do not understand is that a reparation for the infamous actions of the Third Reich is impossible, and that such a reparation can never be made to the survivors and descendants of those who were murdered and slaughtered in the Third Reich between 1939 and 1945 by the indirect orders of the Thule Society via Adolf Hitler and his generals and other leading powers, etc.

218. A reparation could only take place with the victims themselves, which, however, is impossible.

219. However, a reparation to the surviving relatives and descendants, etc., is completely misdirected because most of these human beings live in hatred and vindictiveness, as well as with cravings for power and in materialism, for the purposes of seizing the rule of the country to themselves and subjugating, exploiting, and enslaving the rest of the humanity of the country.

220. Thus the great mass of Earth-humans lives under the false delusion for an unwarranted reparation for an evil deed suffered by their ancestors and predecessors, by which the Earth-humans nourish a very vicious, poisonous and life-threatening snake at their bosom.

Ptaah:

254. I have very extensive knowledge of both the First and Second World Wars on the Earth.

255. There is probably no section in this respect to which I could not give you exhaustive information regarding any questions.

Billy:

Thank you, then I would like to ask you the following question: How many people were murdered by the Nazi regime in view of the fact that they were of Jewish faith or otherwise Jewish? In short, the question is actually: How many Jews and Jewish allies were murdered by the Nazi Gentiles, etc.? In this regard, it was explained to me that the figures given by Jewish organisations did not correspond to the truth, that it was indeed much fewer Jews who were killed by the Nazi regime than is claimed. This question and explanation came to me from the American side.

Ptaah:

256. This explanation is also correct.

257. Truthfully not 6 to 8 million Jews were murdered, but only 4.07 million of them, if I may speak of ONLY with regard to murdered human lives.

258. The deceitful figure of 6 to 8 million Jewish deaths is a pure and maliciously purposeful invention, through which things were achieved with the help of the world so that an Israelite state could be established that could not have been accomplished otherwise.

259. The lying assertion that more than 6 or 8 million Jewish believers have been murdered by the Nazi regime is only a purpose- and profit-related work of people, who are still at work today, who terrorise the world with discord and murder, mostly by the secret service minions, who do not want constant peace, but only more power and more land and so on.

260. What is fact, however, with regard to murders in the Third Reich by the Nazi regime, is that not only Jewish believers in the number of 4.07 million, but also Jewish friends, Jewish helpers and other Jews were murdered by gassing, shooting, drowning, burning, killing, hanging, starvation and medical experiments, etc.

262. Gypsies such as Sinti and Roma members were also abducted, put in concentration camps and murdered, along with many others who were not sympathetic to the Nazi regime or who violated its insane rules or simply did not fit into its concept.

263. In this way, in addition to the actual believers in Judaism, there were their further 3.73 million humans who were very often cruelly handed over to death by the Nazi regime.

264. Thus, in the end, there were a total of 7.8 million people who were murdered by racist and cleansing-action machinations of the Nazis, which corresponds to about one-sixth of the total number of all war victims of the Second World War.

... the Nazis resp. National Socialists murdered about 7.1 million – according to Plejaren data – Jews during the World War 1939 to 1945. This is repeatedly disputed by Holocaust deniers, but according to the Plejaren this figure is correct. Of these, over 4 million were murdered in so-called extermination camps resp. concentration camps, such as Auschwitz and Bergen-Belsen. For this, the death transports to the extermination camps were mostly organised by the unscrupulous war criminal and Obersturmbannführer Adolf Eichmann, who then fled to South America after the war, but was investigated by the Israeli secret service in South America and brought to Israel, brought before a court, sentenced to death by the court and executed by hanging on 1 June 1962.

Around 2.2 million more Jews were killed – according to Plejaren data – by massacres by the Wehrmacht in war zones and in the Russian campaign, while around 900,000 more Jewish believers, former Jewish believers or simply those who were friendly to Jews were murdered, who resided in the countries of Europe and also in Eurasia, but were not registered as Jews. They may not have openly professed the Jewish faith, but as a rule were simply of Jewish descent, which is why they were considered Jews according to the erroneous Nazi racial law and were therefore murdered by the National Socialists. At that time, the Jewish people lived scattered and dispersed throughout the countries of Europe and the territories of Eurasia, numbering some 11 to 12 million, who were to be completely exterminated by Hitler's regime. Especially many were in Ukraine, where the Jews were persecuted and murdered at an early age. ...

... But the truth will still remain, and so will the ideology of eradicating the unworthy of life among those human beings who want to eradicate everything, as Darwin had in mind, who had the idiotic view that every life is unworthy if it does not correspond to perfection. The physically handicapped, the sick, homosexuals, lesbians, Jews, Sinti, Roma, criminals, felons and vagrants etc. were also persecuted and eliminated by Heinrich Himmler, the author of the Holocaust, who was influenced by Darwin's anti-human ideas and adopted them and perfected them according to his metier. There are probably still written records of his misanthropic views and his erroneous point of view. In any case, he said at the time that he would do this, that it was 'hirnrissig' – if I may use the word for my own sake – that humanity could be so stupid as to do something that was against nature. ...

The reason is well-known to me, and I have also described that in detail in my writings, thus, at least for those who know, there can be no doubt that homosexuality is naturally against nature as well as genetically conditioned and that it is not unlawful, as also the lesbian uniting of female forms is not unnatural.

2. Your assumption is not correct because the horse was not brought to America from Europe.
3. Precisely the opposite is the case. All horses of this world stem from the continent which you call America.
4. This continent was also inhabited by humans of extraterrestrial origin - from spacefarers and their descendents - around 2,500,000 years ago, by your time reckoning.
5. But, as usual on this world, they got in each others' hair and annihilated themselves.
6. They invented atom bombs and exploded them in a blitzkrieg.
7. Their effect was exceptionally great and they depopulated a large part of the continent whereby also various types of animals, as, for example, also very early types similar to horses, became completely extinct.
8. To my knowledge you call one species of this animal of that time HIPPARION, which, however, was not a direct ancestor of the actual horse.

And how should these look like then?

Quetzal:

100. As erroneous as that sounds with the knowledge of earthly overpopulation:

101. A new nation must be founded.

102. However, it must be a people that lives according to the natural-creational laws, whereby they become a prototype to the great mass of stultified Earth-humans and have a teaching effect on them.

103. However, I will give you more details about this at a later date, in connection with other matters relating to your group.

Billy:

Aha, that is already clear: you are just thinking that our group will be the foundation of this new people, and indeed through the constantly new group members and their descendants.

Quetzal:

104. That is of correctness, and we are, with the approval of the High Council, in the process of allowing this new people to emerge as a foundation stock for some time.

Billy:

I am aware of that. Some things have already happened, while the rest is still to come, with the next year already bringing growth in several forms, if I am not mistaken. But the intended process will take many centuries, if it can be fulfilled at all, for the influx to the group will be small for a long time, so it will grow only slowly.

Unfortunately, however, one is not allowed to do that.

4. The human beings of this world seem to be extremely illogical in a lot of things, thus they also think and act accordingly.

https://www.futureofmankind.co.uk/Billy_Meier/Contact_Report_173

Quetzal:

64. For this, it should also be explained that it is, indeed, right that loving contact is maintained with personal family members, like with parents and siblings and relatives, and also with friends and acquaintances.

65. However, in this regard, the Earth-human exaggerates his/her deeds and actions because he/she is attached too much in this direction, by which means they live too often with the former domestic herd – with parents, siblings, friends, and acquaintances, and through this, he/she retains their lack of independence, which he/she brings with them from childhood.

66. But due to staying in the hearth and home too often, the person does not become independent, and moreover, this close relationship means that with the death of personal family members, relatives, friends, and acquaintances, much unnecessary and illogical sorrow emerges, which could be avoided by a rational stay with these people during their lifetimes.

67. Ties of this kind necessarily must be limited by the Earth-humans, through which the human being becomes more independent.

68. At the latest, if the Earth-human has reached an age that can be considered to be adulthood, then he/she should leave hearth and home in order to become independent and life-stable outside of this domain, and each year, he/she should not visit the former home any more than 2 to 4 times.

69. But if the human being acts contrary to this, then he/she neither loses their dependence nor the search for protection among their own family members.

70. In the same measure, the growing-up of the person is delayed by such a false action, as also self-pity and self-woe are constructed, which only come about because they are constantly looking for external protection, and indeed, as a rule, with their parents, siblings, relatives, friends, and acquaintances – because seeking protection, itself, is dependent and does not detach itself from this dependence.

71. Thus, it is recognised from this that a maudlin and self-pitying person never becomes independent and always has to rely on the assistance of others, and one usually searches for this assistance, though often unconsciously, where the hearth and home once were, thus with the parents, siblings, friends, and acquaintances.

74. But the fact is that the more independent one is and the more one correctly lives, thinks, acts and feels in accordance with the Creation, the more he/she goes their own way, away from their parents, siblings, friends, and acquaintances, who belonged to their direct sphere of life during the first two decades of their lifetime.

75. Everything in accordance with the Creation is so fine and well-organised that all life-forms become completely independent after a certain period after birth, as it can be observed in direct and indicative form in the animals.

76. And in particular, a person should act in accordance with this because as a cogitative life-form, he/she can be and should be more farsighted and more logical than the animals.

...

Billy:

Not really a lot of movement for the purpose of the thinking of the Earth-humans because the many deaths during the catastrophes will be forgotten just as quickly as the events in Moscow. The people of the Earth are short-thinking, and they only get excited just at the moment of an event. Once an event is over, they become forgetful, and they think that it is all over for them.

Quetzal:

546. That is, unfortunately, a fact that cannot be dismissed and which will probably always remain incomprehensible to us.

Billy:

This is also incomprehensible to me.

Quetzal:

547. The Earth-human is very short-lived in his/her memories of things that do not concern them.

548. They are very selfish and care little for their neighbour, which is why they also displace such memories and learn nothing from them.

Billy:

That is also my opinion, but that probably is not to be changed so quickly.

Quetzal:

549. Yes, it will still take a lot of time to complete.

Billy:

Full insight probably will not even be attained when the Earth folk will have brought the greatest catastrophe of all earth-time upon their planet. I just wonder how much it will actually take before the human beings of this world come to their senses and finally begin to live in accordance with the laws of the Creation.

Quetzal:

550. That is correct ...

https://www.futureofmankind.co.uk/Billy_Meier/Contact_Report_184

Taljda:

52. Besides, as I have discovered with many and the most diverse Earth-humans, they are of the opinion that as a result of their Earth humanity, they are entitled to be allowed to commit misdemeanours and offenses because their evolution, their knowledge, and their intelligence do not correspond to ours and only correspond to those of the Earth-humans.

53. But by no means may such an incorrect attitude be acceptable, neither for the Earth-humans, nor for us, nor for other human life-forms of any lower evolutionary stage.

54. In another form, the mistaken notion also inexplicably prevails with many that as a result of their age, because they are already 25 or 32 years old or even older, they would be free from wrong decisions and false actions and that their actions would correspond to that of an adult person, etc., but this truly only corresponds to misconceptions.

55. Although the average age of the Earth-human is about 52 years, and the European person can presently reckon the highest level of a 78-year average, unfortunately, this does not mean though that a person of this age would be mature and knowledgeable.

56. Through all sorts of injustice, mismanagement, and false lifestyles, the average age the Earth-human sank to minimal values, losing round nine hundred years of life, to which they were assigned at the earliest times, after they had been able to bridge large periods of time by faster evolutionary processes.

57. Through this, the Earth-human ages completely physically in much less than a century, whereby they move from life to death while still in the child's developmental stage.

58. Human life, in our and thus, also in the earthly sense, because the Earth-humans found a physical union with our ancestors, has an average age between 964 and 1,089 years, whereby other alien races and our human life-forms exhibit much lower or much higher life expectancies.

59. But in our and in the Earth-humans's case, an average age of around a thousand years must be noted because all our races stand in physical and old-customary solidarity, equipped with the corresponding genetic make-up of the corresponding high life expectancy.

60. If the Earth-human, through old-conventional maltreatment and wrong lifestyles as well as criminal genetic manipulations, etc., already dies at the age of 70 or 80 years and has gone to ruin to the ageing process during this time, then this entirely corresponds to a misdirected life process, which was maliciously established by foreign compulsion and even by the human beings of this world themselves over long periods of time, whereby the Earth-human exchanges life for death while still in his/her childhood.

61. At about 75 years of age, the Earth-human would have to be only so far along naturally that he/she would actually reach adulthood at this time at the earliest and would also first become marriageable at this time, as you say.

62. Compared to us, the Earth-human, at the age of 70 to 80 years, dies during his childhood, whereby he prematurely grows old during this period and is incorporated into a cell-decay.

63. But this age range never suffices, at least not for our races, whose life expectancy should be valued at about a thousand years, in which the Earth-humans are also included, in order actually to become an adult.

64. The time does not suffice, it is simply much too short.

65. An Earth-human, at the age of 50 years, is truly at the age of puberty and, thus, is still an adolescent, and yet, through their wrong thinking, they want to be more developed and more capable of making decisions than we, who are already at least 3 to 4 times older and, thus, have much more experience, which can normally never be given to an Earth-human in a single existence because the normal lifetime of the Earth-human is limited to childhood through many ills, etc.

66. In addition, if we still look at the comparison between us and the Earth-humans, then it follows that also in reference to learning and the collecting of experience, the Earth-human severely disadvantages themselves because out of what is possible for them to learn during about 70 years of life, they only learn an average of 11.6%, which means that they simply ignore 88.4%, overlook this, or consciously resist it.

67. But this has the effect that an Earth-human at the age of 70 years only has a volume of evolutionary progress and an actual knowledge of a child who is a little more than 7 years old.

69. But within seconds, this knowledge could be taken up, be processed, and be accepted in every single Earth-human, after which, accordingly, a change would have to take place towards progress, which would also entail that every Earth-human recognises his/her own little self as being so small, as this is actually the case.

71. And they would pay attention to our advice, without stupidly, primitively, unjustly, and unreasonably criticising us, for then the Earth-human would recognise their true tininess and inadequacy against us, from which the realisation could then mature, that they, the Earth-humans of every age, are actually nothing more than just immature and ignorant children or toddlers, even though during childhood, their bodies already pass through a rapid aging process, accompanied by long-term damage and long-term failures.

Billy:

... The human beings of this world are really very strange and amusing. All progress, love, knowledge, wisdom, logic, and everything worth knowing is served to them on a silver platter, yet the human beings do not reach for it but rather simply push it away and destroy it. And all this, even though they actually want to have it unconditionally. But instead, they push away what they want to have and what they want to call their own, and so, they are dissatisfied in evil forms and can never do what they actually want to do. Thus, their own desires neither find fulfilment nor satisfaction because these desires always remain unfulfilled, as well as the actions, deeds, and businesses that would like to be done by these human beings – and which only remain as wants. So it is with these human beings of the world also with regard to love, knowledge, wisdom, logic, peace, and tranquility, and also regarding the certainty that death holds no fear in itself, as I have described in Life and Death [Billy's book: Leben und Tod]. However, I have brought all knowledge of these things near to these human beings and made this clear through my writings and words, but all was in vain, even though I just know that these damn Earth folk still want to have everything and want to call it all their own. Yet they push everything far away from themselves because they want to be in their megalomania even very much more than they truly are. Instead of only seeing themselves as great as they truly are, they see themselves as much greater and also accordingly act megalomaniacally in that they want to make better decisions than what are given by the laws and recommendations of the Creation. And yet, because the human beings somehow understand that that their wrong decisions, deeds, thoughts, feelings, and actions are wrong and destructive, they search for the truth of love, knowledge, logic and wisdom, peace and rest, etc., and yet they push it all away when it is given to them. All of this, in turn, incites uncontrollable rage, anger, and even hatred in human beings, which then leads to murder and manslaughter. Then, through this, the injustice of their own wrong actions and their own wrong thinking, which originates and blazes within them, so degenerates that they transfer all of their own injustice, anger, hatred, and rage, etc. onto others who then become aggressively attacked and harassed. Thus, they express their own inadequacy and lack of independence as well as their own fallibility and injustice. Through these activities, the human being of the Earth is violent, destructive, and eager to kill in a form that must be described as an addiction. And because this addiction is rooted deep within the person and because he/she lives in accordance with this, they are also happy and delighted in their aggressive actions, behaviour, and thoughts towards their fellow humans and all remaining fellow creatures. Day after day, the person feeds on the misery, death, and destruction of other human beings – of their fellow human, their neighbour – and they likewise feed on the joy of their own aggression that they deliver to their neighbor. And why all this? As I have already said, it automatically arises from the fact that still other reasons are rooted within them, such as the fact that this rotten behaviour must not be painted before him/them and must not be swept in front of their own door, for throughout this entire doing, they studiously overlook their own dirt. The human being very well has their free will, in order to be able to act rightly or wrongly, positively or negatively, but this will not be used positively by the human being of the Earth. As a rule, the person simply makes himself/herself to be the stereotype of another, or he/she degenerates in his/her own negative form. However, this automatically leads to the fact that the positives are always pushed into the background and become destroyed, while the negatives become widespread and begin to dominate the world in their final form. But this means that the Earth human being will never be able to resolve this ill if they do not begin with themselves, in order to change these things. First and foremost, the person has to change in himself/herself, in order, then, to change and bring healing to his/her person-to-person relationships. But this means that the human being of the Earth must finally find the unconditional love and put it to use, for this is the only medicine that can cure the gigantic evil of the Earth human. All too often, I have heard that love can change everything and that love changes human beings. That is probably right but only within the context that also a consistent discipline is exercised, which is why not only unconditional love can and should be preached, but also the necessary teaching must be incorporated therein.

Billy:

... Earth's humanity, however, consistently acts contrary to reality and truth, because it practices the death penalty, for example, wages war and terror, constantly falsifies the truth, just as it unscrupulously falsifies food, as I also saw with my own eyes as a boy in the coffee roasting plant in Bülach, for example, when the ground coffee was heavily mixed with a lot of flour from ground grain and then sold. Many buyers were also cheated by this, of course, just like those who bought tea on a large scale from Eastern countries, which, however, as I saw myself, was coloured to make it appear fraudulently as a certain variety or as 'matured', which – as I have just said – I have seen myself with tea producers. The saying that has been used since time immemorial, "The world wants to be cheated", is probably true.

The fact and truth is that no normal human being – if I may speak of normal at all – advocates, demands or practises revenge, retribution or capital punishment, war and terror, let alone causes, instigates or wages war himself. This, just as a normal human being also does not command or condone terror and destructive demonstrations, the infliction of harm or physical aggression or even harm to life and the destruction of human achievements etc. It is already a monstrous crime that human beings are forced by law, against their own will, to militarily raise a weapon against fellow human beings and kill or murder them. And this is usually done without knowing the person to be murdered, without ever having seen them before and/or without them having done anything to harm them.

...

Billy:

... The truth is simply not perceived, because indifference, pleasure and allotria dominate human beings, as does the desire to be rich without having to work, as does also making oneself important in public, e.g. on television through self-branding or influencing, whereby a lot of money is 'siphoned off' from viewers as a result of stupid influencing, which they pay lowly intelligent and simple-minded. The same happens with sport, especially football, as high entrance fees are paid to watch footballers 'chug' a leather ball around. This is instead of keeping themselves busy and doing something for the health of their own bodies. Many people who do this are then surprised when their health suddenly leaves a lot to be desired.

Ptaah:

All this is described in my father's annals, as is also the fact that Earth's humanity, as a result of its selfishness, tends to dispute everything against the truth and thus also to be unpeaceful and irreconcilable, which consequently very quickly leads to unpeacefulness and quarrelling, which in turn provokes vindictiveness and a desire for retribution, as well as hatred, falsehood, envy, betrayal, slander, thievery and deceit, and so on. This in turn triggers deceitfulness and leads to Gewalt, murder, torture, war and terror.

Billy:

I learnt that this is the case in my earliest adolescence and experienced first-hand and in general that this really is the case. It is very difficult or even impossible to defend oneself against it, especially when it is directed from above, e.g. by superiors, authorities and governments resp. their representatives, but also by sectarians and security forces etc. An ordinary citizen is completely helpless against it. ... Unfortunately, the effectiveness of the Earth-humans is as you say, because most of them are not interested in the truth, but only in an illusory faith, which they defend to the point of murdering those who reveal their honesty and tell the truth.

Billy:

Is unfortunately so, because the believers do not find it necessary to fathom the truth, no matter what it is also about. ...

...

Billy:

Unfortunately, not only has a great deal changed over the course of time with regard to the country {Switzerland} itself, but also the thinking and the attitude and therefore also the behaviour, the loyalty to the country and the conduct of human beings, as a result of which an irresponsibility and a kind of indifference in many relationships and a carelessness and even indifference towards everything and everyone and also with regard to fellow human beings has arisen. This is, unfortunately, the 'zeitgeist' of human beings today, who simply drift along with the masses, accepting and living out everything they do without really thinking for themselves, but instead allowing themselves to be carried away in a kind of trance-like faith and losing themselves. Nothing is as it used to be, just good, right and passable, in contrast to today, as it has become lousy, wrong, dishonest, indecent and evil in every wise. The Earthling eats himself to death with artificial food, degenerates more and more and forgets and destroys everything and anything that guarantees him life. Very few human beings today still think about ecosystems, about nature and its fauna and flora. Only a few human beings still realise that the oceans and all of nature breathe and think, as do all life-forms in nature and its fauna and flora. The human beings are becoming more and more depraved, indifferent and blind to everything that means life. They also fail to see and recognise the pain and grief of animals, creatures and all other life-forms, the pain of trees and other plants, let alone even notice what is happening to their neighbour or to their fellow human beings in general. Murder through crime, war and terror, as well as through revenge, retaliation, hatred and strife is tacitly accepted, and the murderous organisation NATO is praised to the skies, the death penalty is advocated, and the extermination of animals, creatures and countless other life-forms, including plants of all genera and species, is accepted with indifference. ...

556. From this, a battle will develop, which will be unequaled until now.

557. For about a month, multinational troops will bomb Iraq in unprecedented consequence, before the real battle begins on the ground.

558. The criminal, unscrupulous, malicious, uncompromising, murderous Saddam Hussein will avenge himself and will allow billions of litres of earth petroleum to be pumped into the waters of the Gulf, whereby he will very soon receive the infamous title 'Criminal against Humanity'.

Billy:

Thus, a military alliance will emerge, which will take up arms against the creep. Man, this can become cheerful, for Saddam Hussein will not be the one to give way. I know him well enough from my stay there, when I was in Iraq. At that time, about 25 years ago, he was still young, about the same age as me. His views, which he explained to me, were so extreme, as he himself is in his whole character. A serious criminal from an early age, he ran into conflict again and again with the police, also because of extreme political machinations at around the age of 15 or 16 years. Even murder was a part of his daily existence, but he was never caught. When he came to power around the turning point of the eighties, he even murdered his opponents and enemies by his own hand. The guy told me at that time that he would also 'shit' on all of Islam. He literally said that to me because he thought of the Islamic faith just as little as he thought of any other faith. Religion, so he told me at that time, was only useful for him, in any case, in order to make the idiotic people docile and subservient to a political or military leader. With a shit-faith, one can always get the humans of low intelligentum to make him a master and a leader, and then, these would be subservient in order for him safely to shed blood. If he would take to the helm and, thus, would come to power, so he told me, then he would know how to take the idiotic people and make them be enslaved to himself. He would simply play the part of a good Muslim and, if necessary, would fall on his knees towards Mecca in public and would hypocritically pray; thus, the stupid people would certainly run after him and would congratulate him, cheer, and make him the absolute ruler. Thus, he would become master and emperor over all Arab countries, and soon, it would then also be attainable to him to take over the world and become a world-dominating great emperor. He strives to achieve this goal, and every means is good enough for him, even if hundreds of millions of people would die as a result. The guy is not just a megalomaniac and a limitless fanatic of the most bloodthirsty violence and destruction, but he is crazy and insane and is a danger to the entire Earth. He would subjugate the entire Earth to himself with blood and would subdue it, if only he could. The only way to stop his power-hungry plans is a multinational logical act of force against him. But certainly, idiotic peace-criers all over the world will try to prevent this through demonstrations and the like, and also in various crazy Arab camps, there will be a pro-Hussein cry. But these poor lunatics will not know what they try to arrange through this because if Saddam Hussein would win, should it actually come to this conflict mentioned by you, then this would not only mean the subjugation and possibly the death of the pro-criers or peace-criers but also the ever bloodiest enslavement and torment of all of Earth humanity. Man oh man, I know this guy Saddam Hussein and I know what he is capable of. If everything actually arrives as you say, and I do not doubt your words, then one should send all the idiotic peace-criers and pro-Hussein criers into the desert.

Quetzal:

559. Your statements correspond to all correctness.

560. But unfortunately, there will be other culprits to be named when the war breaks out in the Gulf in January of 1991 because Saddam Hussein will react to any attempts toward peace just as negatively as to an ultimatum, after which the allied bombardment against Iraq will begin in the first hours of the morning on about the 16th of January.

561. Also to be named as culpable in this war will be all those who build bunkers and chemical factories, as well as many other war-technical plants, for Saddam Hussein.

562. Even weapons suppliers and weapons system-improving engineers, etc. are also included.

563. Last but not least to be mentioned is Ronald Reagan, who laid the foundation-stone for his war policy in general, so that these machinations of a serious and world-threatening nature could and can appear.

564. But to explain the individual points would take too long.

Billy:

That is understood, but tell me, will many businesses and companies not fall into trouble and even bankruptcy as a result of this Gulf War?

Quetzal:

565. Unfortunately, that will be the case, also in Switzerland.

Billy:

He is a merciless killer and destroyer of global proportions. He disregards everything the world holds in honour. He will also not shy away from calling up fanatical terrorists all over the world to carry out their murderous attacks of all kinds and everywhere, causing immense damage and destroying human lives. Thus, this war will have worldwide consequences and cause worldwide damage and criminal terrorist attacks that could make one afraid. It is fortunate that this is not the Third World War, which may still be preventable, as Semjase said.

Quetzal:

566. Nevertheless, this coming war in the Gulf will be waged worldwide, even though it actually is not the Third World War, which is mentioned in the prophecies and which can, perhaps, be averted after all.

Billy:

Good, let's leave this. We should not get too deeply involved in these war interests with ifs and buts.

Quetzal:

567. That is correct, but it should, perhaps, still be mentioned that this upcoming Gulf War shall be more of a punitive action than an actual war, even though the whole thing will have serious and global consequences.

...

Billy:

If immature and ones of low intelligentum achieve power and weapons, then they will cause incredible destruction with them and release worldwide catastrophes. In addition to immaturity and low intelligentum, still religious fanaticism and subservience come together for the degenerated, overbearing jerks, who are so clever, however, that they are able to beat the people into bondage. But how will things continue, then, after the ceasefire?

...

Billy:

And Saddam Hussein, what happens to him?

Quetzal:

594. His end will come much later, but about this, I will report to you some other time if it will still be permitted to me, for I should not deal with these things any further.

Billy:

Well, will other things and events still arise that are connected to the murder of Saddam Hussein?

Quetzal:

595. Certainly:

596. The chief event of the Iraqi troops in Kuwait will be a time from which a wide-raging cholera epidemic must be counted on, which will demand thousands of lives, particularly in Latin America but also in several other countries around the world.

Billy:

So once again, a time of a large cholera epidemic. But what happens if Saddam Hussein is not knocked off of his throne?

Quetzal:

597. Then over the course of the next decades, it would have to be counted on that the Middle East and even the entire world could be threatened by a new war.

598. He is power-hungry, autocratic, and dangerous, like a pit full of irritated, venomous snakes.

599. However, the overthrow of the dictator should not occur by foreign powers but only by his own people, otherwise, more harm than good will result and a wildfire could arise, as I already explained.

https://www.futureofmankind.co.uk/Billy_Meier/Contact_Report_039

Semjase:

260. Mount Shasta is an old volcanic mountain with a partially still unexplored area in America, or more precisely, in northern California.

261. The mountain is very rocky and extremely difficult to climb.

262. In the interior of the mountain itself is a small city, which is inhabited by descendants of extraterrestrials and which, here and there, also receives a visit from their space brothers from outer space.

263. It is a very majestic race, peaceful and good, but which anxiously strives not to be discovered by Earth-humans.

264. The entrance to their very deeply underground city is well camouflaged under the eastern mountain peak, and it is impossible for Earth-humans to find it.

265. But if Earth-humans are ever found in their proximity, then they are made imperceptibly unable to move or distracted by the beam weapons that most of the city dwellers carry on themselves for security reasons.

266. Their golden spaceships of a spherical form – for they master spaceflight – can sometimes be seen when they do not protect these from view.

267. Human beings of this race are very well-proportioned in their appearance.

268. Their hair is mostly natural blond, long, and curly, which is very fit for their graceful, Hyperborean nature.

269. Sometimes, despite their shyness of Earth-humans, they go into their villages to conduct unrecognised bartering with them, after which they depart and flee in a great hurry, however, if Earth-humans come too close to them.

270. But Mount Shasta is not the only place where this race lives, for already at very early times, they divided themselves into three smaller peoples, with the other two living unrecognised and deep underground on the Aleutian Islands and in Alaska.

271. The whole population amounts to just about 700 human beings.

Billy:

That is fantastically interesting, and now, a few things dawn on me. But you have just said something about their appearance, from which I could infer that with this race living underground, it concerns very distant descendants of the real Hyperboreans.

Semjase:

272. You infer correctly.

Billy:

Man, that is incredible! Then these would, indeed, be the descendants or distant descendants of those who, 180,000 or 190,000 years ago, carried out the actual decolonisation in the form that can be regarded, then, as the early history of the current human race, at least for the white race.

...

Billy:

Okay, then I have another question regarding Mount Shasta. I have already talked about this with Semjase, but something still seems unclear to me. Semjase told me that distant descendants of the Hyperboreans now live in Mount Shasta, on the Aleutian Islands, and in Alaska. Henoah, however, and also Jmmanuel, spoke of “the winds between the East and West” or between the “North and West.” From this, I always thought that the “green land” of the Hyperboreans, so Hyperborea, must have been somewhere far up north, in Greenland or something. But now, this does not make sense any more with Mount Shasta. What should I now think of this?

Ptaah:

187. At the time of Henoah, the North Pole was situated differently than what is the case today.

188. Through cosmic influences and through an upset of the Earth, the North Pole at that time shifted far to the west.

189. The central point of the North Pole at that time is identical to present day Florida in America.

190. The Polar Regions at the time of Henoah were wondrous landscapes, filled with palms and other tropical vegetation.

191. You would say that it was paradise on Earth, for it had the most favourable climate of your world.

192. "Golden apples" flourished and ripened there; these are simply called "oranges" today.

193. In the timelessly young nature of Hyperborea, an uninterrupted summer prevailed, and it was also called "the land of timeless youth."

194. The most delicious fruits thrived there, like nowhere else on the Earth.

195. The average annual temperature in the land of Hyperborea was 26.7 degrees of your measuring values, and the coldest season never sank below the value of 21.9 degrees of your current values.

196. Similar conditions can still be found today in the former Hyperborea, so in Florida.

Billy:

That is fantastic! But can you tell me exactly where at the North Pole this Hyperborea lay?

Ptaah:

197. It lay exactly where the land is still called "Greenland" today, whereby the actual North Pole of that time is not identical with today's North Pole.

Billy:

So Greenland; as far as I know, this means "grassland" in the German language.

Ptaah:

198. That is so.

199. Tir nan Og lay there.

Billy:

What is that?

Ptaah:

200. Green Land and Land of Youth.

201. But at that time, it was today's Florida.

Billy:

So then Heracles, Gilgamesh, Henoah, Jmmanuel, Amitabah, Methusalem and Noah and all others were up there and not in Florida?

Ptaah:

202. In Hyperborea, in Florida, when it was still at the spot where today, the land still means grassland.

203. But Jmmanuel was not there because he was already in Florida, where it is to be found today.

https://www.futureofmankind.co.uk/Billy_Meier/Contact_Report_069

Semjase:

57. Further other races of gigantic proportions populated all continents.

58. Also cyclopes and titans as well as dwarfs settled on all continents.

59. They came and went, or they passed away for whatever reason.

Billy:

23. Aha, were the gods and demigods of Greek mythology such settlers from space?

Semjase:

60. Sure, they were a splinter group of descendants of the Hyperboreans.

Billy:

24. Oh well, now I understand to some extent the connections, good old Heracles said some very wondrous things, which just refer to it.

25. But now I wonder how big these Hyperborean descendants must have been, because with Asket I once had the opportunity to see something that will probably remain closed to the Earth-human forever.

26. And exactly according to what I saw, these Greek mythology gods or demigods must have been several meters tall.

27. Heracles alone must have measured about three metres, right?

Semjase:

61. Sure.

https://www.futureofmankind.co.uk/Billy_Meier/Contact_Report_070

{Note: see also Contact Report 703:23-25 for further clarifications of this section.}

Semjase:

129. ... the distant land in the northern regions, where the climate was moderate and very good.

130. These were those regions, which are traditionally known to you as Hyperborea, and which were far in the north, before an upset of the Earth shifted its axis, so that the then regions exist today where you name Florida.

132. Named after Arus the Second, the India of today was at that time called Arien, which, however, split off from Hyperborea after a few centuries, after 210 years, to be exact, and joined with the inhabitants of Mu and Agharta, while from Hyperborea, Arus the First constantly troubled Mu and Greater Atlantis by wicked war activities, in order to become their ruler.

...

136. So it only remains for me to report that Arus the Eleventh, as a very distant descendent of Arus the First, was murdered in his old age many thousands of years later, and around a hundred-thousand years after the destruction of Mu and Atlantis, by his third-born son Jehavon, after which this one took over command of the hater-people, in order to rule these and three Earthly peoples and the Hyperboreans himself.

Billy:

So then: First, a question about Mount Shasta respectively about the distant descendants of extraterrestrials who lived there, which I talked about several times with your daughter Semjase, but also with you. ...

Quetzal once told me outside of an official conversation that you took all the inhabitants from Mount Shasta and on the Aleutian Islands and in Alaska.

Ptaah:

53. That is correct.

54. We have tried to get all the inhabitants of the three places to return to their peoples, with whom they have always been in contact.

55. We gave them the reasons for our own withdrawal from the Earth, which led to their withdrawal.

56. Their dwellings and all the trappings have returned them to their original earthly state, so that there is no longer anything to indicate their former presence.

57. The process in this regard was the same as in the pyramid of Giza and on Mars.

Billy:

I understand. So then you did not take them away yourselves, but they left of their own accord with those who came from their original homeland, but simply on your advice. I have misunderstood something. But can you tell me where these human beings actually belonged, respectively to which people?

Ptaah:

58. That is not a secret.

59. They were distant descendants of a lineage of the old Lyrians, to which they also returned.

Billy:

Then they are, so to speak, related to you, the Plejaren, because the Plejaren peoples came out of the old Lyrians.

Ptaah:

60. That is correct.

Billy:

Thank you. So there is now nothing in Mount Shasta, Alaska, or the Aleutian Islands that indicates their former presence?

Ptaah:

61. That is also correct.

Billy:

And may we know what you told them that they went away?

Ptaah:

62. That is not a secret.

63. The reason was that we too had abolished our stations on Earth and returned them to their natural original state, but it was important that we had included the inhabitants of all three places in our protection, which was not given after we had left.

64. So a further stay on Earth would have been too dangerous for them.

Ica Stones

https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Ica_stones

<https://museocientificojaviercabrera.com/>

Billy:

Then another question regarding the 'engraved stones of Ica', which should have been 'excavated' since the early sixties, namely in the desert of Ocucaje in Peru, or in the vicinity of the provincial capital, Ica. The figures engraved into the stones, so it is claimed, are supposed to have originated at least 100 million years ago, produced by people of a civilisation of a very high level. Thus, the engravings show, for example, technological devices that, nowadays, find their use in optics and in surgery, etc. Even transplants are illustrated by the engravings, but also extinct prehistoric animals of various kinds. There are even engravings to be found on the stones that show human beings or human-like creatures on flying dinosaurs, etc. These matters became known at the beginning of the seventies. The stones were kept in Lima in the 'Centro Aeronautico', but basically, more than 10,000 strange exhibits like this should be in the so-called 'stone library' of a certain Dr. Javier Cabrera in Ica. Do you know what's going on with these engraved stones?

Quetzal:

72. The whole thing is well-known to me.

73. The engraved stones are forgeries that trace back to a man named Basilio Ochuas, who engraved forms that he took from newspapers, magazines, and professional journals into the ancient stones.

74. Ochuas was a grave robber who earned his living thereby, namely by desecrating old graves and stealing the grave-goods, which he sold to tourists and collectors.

75. Then, over time, also several family members helped the forger to engrave the stones, on the basis of the drawings that Basilio Ochuas had made from the newspapers and journals.

Ice Age

https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Ice_age

see also Earth

https://www.futureofmankind.co.uk/Billy_Meier/Contact_Report_055

Billy:

Well, then I have here a question concerning our Earth, namely concerning the ice ages: How many ice ages has Earth had, and what exactly are they?

...

Semjase:

41. Then I will gladly answer them, at least to the extent that I can do so according to my knowledge:

42. The ice age, as you call it, is usually called the glacial period according to your linguistic usage.

43. It is a term for a time and at the same time for a process and a condition of a planet, namely when a world is completely or partially subject to an icing due to climatic changes, which you very inaccurately call a glaciation, because there are both small ice ages and large ice ages, and of course total ice ages, in which the whole planet is covered with ice.

44. In this natural process, entire worlds or, as in the case of the Earth, only large areas are covered with inland ice masses due to temperature drops caused by the Earth or extraterrestrial conditions, atmospheric changes, etc., which usually form gigantic glaciers.

45. As I said, these processes are completely natural and also necessary for the development of a planet.

46. This occurrence of ice formation is also subject to a certain cycle, which can be determined according to the size and type of the planet with a simple mathematical calculation, which results from the sevenfold nature.

47. With the Earth, for example, or especially since your question refers to this world, the cycle lasts an average of 700,000 years, which means that on average every 700,000 years a transformation appears, which is fundamentally initiated, carried out and completed through a great glacial period.

48. Between the cycles of the glacial period, however, interglacial periods or petite ice ages, which you call interglacial periods, also take place continuously.

49. And since the Earth is already a planet that is evolutionarily very far after the Sun, it is no longer subject to a total glacial period unless special terrestrial and extraterrestrial influences bring about something else, but only very large areas are covered by ice masses, while the remaining areas, such as the Arctic and Antarctic and the glacial regions, become ice-free with a global shift of the climate belts.

50. If the ice mass then disappears in one area, then another area is already preparing for a small or large glacial period.

Billy:

That's quite interesting. According to your interpretation, we would now have to skate into another smaller or larger ice age, which, however, still lies in the distant future?

Semjase:

51. Of course, the Earth has been preparing for this for a long time, but the recent ice advances are no longer called ice ages, but stadial times.

52. And it is true that everything is normal, that a new ice-forming period of extreme cold is still far away.

Billy:

Aha, you now said that this process repeats itself on average every 700,000 years, so we must have had 4 ice ages in the last 3 million years?

Semjase:

53. Sure, but there are still several interglacial periods and ice ages in between.

https://www.futureofmankind.co.uk/Billy_Meier/Contact_Report_057

Semjase:

17. As I have already mentioned, on average and to some extent every 700,000 years a great glacial period takes place on Earth, which corresponds to the value of a great ice age.

18. Between these great ice ages there are different interglacial seasons, i.e. interglacial ice ages or small ice ages.

19. Their cycle is about 350,000 years on average.

20. The glacial periods usually cover $\frac{1}{6}$ to $\frac{1}{4}$ of the Earth's surface, while the interglacial periods cover $\frac{1}{15}$ to $\frac{1}{22}$ of the Earth's surface, although for both ice age types enormous differences can occur both in relation to the area covered and with regard to the timings of the occurrences here and there.

21. It is now easy to calculate from this that this misguided geological person, also with his new assertion that there have been 10 ice ages on Earth in the last 3 (three) million years, again makes a false and misleading assertion without truth, because with 2,800,000 years their 4 Great Ice Ages and their 8 Interglacial Periods have caused new transformations on Earth.

22. In total it can be seen that 12 ice ages covered and changed the Earth alternately during the last 2,800,000 years, while the Earth is now preparing for a new interglacial or stadial period, which will reach its peak in about 160,000 years.

23. The second subsequent ice age, for which the Earth must already prepare itself by terrestrial and extraterrestrial influences, finds its climax in approximately 500,000 years, whereby this will then again be a great ice age.

Billy:

With that you have answered the question exhaustively. One thing, however, is not yet clear to me: I have been told that the so-called interglacial or between-glacial periods are simply a continuation of the glacial masses, which push very far forward and slowly retreat again. Your answer, however, says that the interglacial periods are real ice ages. Something does not seem quite clear to me here.

Semjase:

24. The question might be qualified, because earthly geological science lives in the misconception that a planet has only one real ice age, which always repeats itself, and that the interglacial ice ages are only extensions of the glacials.

25. With the repetition now, namely the ever-reappearing of the glaciers in the cycle of about 700,000 years, they have recognised the truth, but they, the scientists, are unaware of the average 700,000 year cycle.

26. It is, however, completely alien to them that the cyclic interglacial periods, which we also call small ice ages, are also actual glacial periods.

27. They therefore live erroneously in the assumption that the interglacial are only glacial ancestors.

28. But in reality this is not the case, because the interglacial periods are true cyclical ice ages, which have nothing in common with glacier migration, although these actually take place in a cycle of about 70,000 years.

29. However, these are pure glacier advances and glacier migrations, which have an Earth regenerating effect and which also occur due to climate changes.

30. These glacier advances and glacier migrations can be described as small-glacial, i.e. small-glacial periods, but they can also be divided into two different forms, namely larger and smaller, with a period of glacial degradation prevailing at present, which scientists will also establish over the next 20 years.

31. Thus the last large glacier advance of this form took place on the Earth about 60,000 years ago and will be repeated already in 10,000 years, to which the forerunners on the Earth already now make themselves felt, just by the forthcoming rapid dismantling of the world-wide ice masses, also in the Arctic and Antarctic.

32. The small glacier advances or forays have a cycle of about 35,000 years, with the last such event occurring about 18,000 to 25,000 years ago.

33. After the cycle can be calculated, thus with the next large glacier advance also a small advance follows, whereby however the surfaces of the Earth covered by the ice masses will be in different places.

34. That answer should really be enough.

35. On the other hand, I do not know any more about it either.

The Ice Man Ötzi [Urk / Onde]

<https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/%C3%96tzi>

<https://www.iceman.it/en/>

https://www.futureofmankind.co.uk/Billy_Meier/Contact_Report_238

Ptaah:

586. The next thing will happen in the Oetzal Mountains, on the Similaun glacier.

587. There the mummified remains, or more precisely the mummified corpse of a man will be found who has lost his life there 5,105 years ago and was preserved by nature's forces.

588. His death happened at that time in such a way that he fell (Note by CF: not just from standing to the ground, but some distance down) – caused by an epileptic fit – and was severely injured by one of his own arrows when he fell on his back, just at the moment when a primeval ice storm started.

589. As a member of a group of 14 persons who had camped there in the mountains, he was left laying on the ground because of his critical injury. Since the remaining 13 human beings were fully occupied with saving their own lives, they did not care for him.

590. Nevertheless, not all of them survived, as several of them died in the ice needle storm.

591. The storm covered the mountains under (a) thick (layer of) ice, and in it the corpse of the "fallen one" remained mummified and preserved until today; so it (he? the corpse) will be found this year around the 20th of September by a mountain hiker, together with his equipment, like clothes and weapons, etc.

Billy:

Fantastic. Do you also know what the man and his comrades wanted to do on the mountain, and who the man was, and where he came from?

Ptaah:

592. Certainly, I can give you precise information.

593. His name was Urk, and he belonged to the sib of the Suren (plural), to a tribal community which lived on pile-dwellings. This was in Switzerland and before the time when the Vikings were settling in Central Switzerland and the other parts of Switzerland.

594. The pile-dwellings of the tribal community of the Suren were located in the banks of Lake Zurich, from where they took long expeditions which led them to the Mediterranean Sea and to the North Sea, to the Atlantic Ocean and even to the Bosphorus.

595. At his death, Urk was exactly 37 years and 8 months old, and to be exact, 17 days.

596. The reason why he and his group was so far away from home in the Oetzal Mountains, was that he as the chief of his sib and as an influential man was in connection with our forbearers. Through them he gained certain knowledge and lived – just as all members of his entire sib – according to certain rules of our making.

597. Thus, they obeyed the hygienic rules which had been put up by us at much earlier times, which also related to the removal of unhygienic body hair growth.

598. After having been informed by our forbearers about the wideness of the countries in the East, many of the sib of the Suren felt an urge for the East. That's why they set off under the guidance of their tribal chief Urk to discover the far-away countries and to find valuable material, like crystals and ore in accordance with that time, and flints and all kind of other things.

Billy:

You could say then that this Urk was an original Swiss, so-to-say, whereby his mummified body would be brought to Switzerland. Research will surely be done on him, what then would righteously be the task of Swiss scientists, isn't it?

Ptaah:

599. If looked at it from a legal angle, it would have to be that way, that's right.

600. However, neither the Austrians nor the Italians will be drawn into this, and they will mutually claim the right on the mummified body because there will be border disputes regarding the location where the corpse will be found.

601. Of course they wouldn't pay any attention to my words and would call you a charlatan, cheat and liar, who would have purely invented my explanations, if you or someone else would make some claim on the mummy in the name of Switzerland.

Billy:

That's clear to me. – But why, that's my question, were your forbearers in contact with this Urk, and of what kind were they?

Ptaah:

602. The contact resulted from an unwanted stroke of fate, when a flying device of our forbearers had an accident.

603. Urk observed the emergency landing of the device and saved the life of two crew members when they – while exploring the surroundings – were attacked by a big bear and were severely injured, without having any chance to defend themselves in the first place.

604. From this happening resulted a deep friendship between Urk and the two space travellers, and so human beings of a still very primitive kind and very advanced form formed a very uncommon alliance.

605. Urk, who was naturally gifted and contrary to his sib comrades very understanding and knowing to a good extent, learned fast and became the leader of his sib within less than three years. According to the standards of that time he was wealthy and influential to a great degree, whereby it was helpful that it was frequently observed that the flying devices were landing or starting, with whose passengers Urk liked to have long talks, and since he was often taken into the flying devices for trips to somewhere.

Billy:

At what age did he become the chief of the sib? And why didn't your forbearers help him in that blizzard?

Ptaah:

606. He was nearly 21 years old when he became the leader of his sib.

607. My answer to your second question is that our forbearers were not present when death came upon him, because they were occupied elsewhere and were absent for more than 18 years.

608. When they returned, Urk was already buried deep beneath the ice, and they let him lay there.

Billy:

... Urk, as you said, is the name of an ancient dead man who will be found in the Ötztal in the Austrian mountains. Do you know anything about whether the scientists will recognize his age and also whether they will find out how long Urk will have been there? I ask because Quetzal once explained that very precise old analyses with the conventional methods available to terrestrial man are very doubtful.

Ptaah:

822. The man was 37 years, 8 months and 17 days old, and he died 5,105 years ago, I told you already.

823. Your assumption is correct, however, that the time of his death is incorrectly calculated by the inadequate and erroneous methods of age determination of materials of every kind, because atomic changes occur when a certain sum of years is exceeded before which most plants and materials on Earth have changed so much due to cosmic-radioactive influences that by the radiocarbon method false results up to well over a thousand years in the age determination occur when the content of radioactive carbon is measured.

824. Depending on the level of radioactive carbon more or less, depending on whether the substance to be examined is younger or older than a thousand years or older than some more than 2600 years, which will appear in the case of Urk, whereby the earthly scientists will actually obtain a false result in the age determination, which should amount to about 50-70 years.

Billy:

If I understand correctly, then age determinations can be made very precisely with the radiocarbon method up to an age of one thousand years, according to which then for the next 1,600 years a somewhat stable result can be achieved, according to which then however false results of up to 1,000 years can appear, so something more than after an age of 2,600 years upwards, because cosmic radioactive influences changed the atomic and/or radioactive structures of the earthly organic and other materials.

Ptaah:

825. That was the meaning of my explanation.

https://www.futureofmankind.co.uk/Billy_Meier/Contact_Report_240

Billy:

... My first question refers to Urk: According to your explanations he belonged to the family of the Suras. We've been trying for months to find something about these Suras. During our search we found out that there is a surname SURENMANN in Switzerland and also the name Sure or Sur. Also Surenbach and Surenalp etc. are names or designations, which appear quite frequently. As a rule, these names and designations are associated with the Low German and Swiss German term 'Sur' or 'Sauer'. But somehow this doesn't seem logical to me, because I can hardly imagine that Urk's clan, the Suren, were called the Sauren, so to speak. I cannot find a plausible explanation for this. Could you perhaps explain to me what the term SUREN meant in Urk's time and what we have to understand by it today?

Ptaah:

23. The explanation for this is not subject to any secrecy.

24. SUREN is an ancient Celtic term that has also become established in various other languages, including all Germanic-Germanic languages.

25. The original term SURE literally means SUMPF and SUREN were the names of those people who settled in swampy terrain.

26. They built pile dwellings in the swamp area and lived there, which is why they were called SUREN – swamp dwellers.

27. SURE however, the swamp was called because the ground was acidic, according to the old Celtic term 'Sur'.

28. The family name SURENMANN now leads back in the direct lineage to the old SUREN, namely in the form that the inhabitants were called men and women from the Suren, which later resulted in the names Surenmann and Surenfrau, of which, as far as I know, only the masculine name is still in use today.

29. The name Surenalp originated from the fact that the terrain was marshy, according to which SUMPFALP would be said in today's language.

30. It is the same with the name Surenbach, which would be called 'Sumpf- bach' in today's language.

Billy:

Then the designations SUR or SAUER in this context actually only have the meaning or the value that they were word values for the acid swamp soil?

Ptaah:

31. That is correct.

Billy:

Well, then to the second part of the question: SURE, doesn't that have another value as well? During my research I came across the fact that the terms courage and daring must also be connected with this word.

Ptaah:

32. That is also correct.

33. A single member of the Suras was called Sura, but not only because it meant a single member of the Suras, but because it also meant courage and boldness.

34. The languages of those times were still very sparse in many respects and thus also with regard to different terms.

35. The swamp dwellers, the Suren, were regarded as very brave and bold because of their pile dwellings, which is why they were also called SURE SUREN, thus as bold and courageous swamp dwellers.

Billy:

Understood, then the Sura in the Qum-ran has nothing to do with it?

Ptaah:

36. No.

Billy:

Then it's just a word value in Arabic for the term 'chapter'.

Ptaah:

37. Certainly.

Billy:

Can you tell me what the name Urk means? Hans found out that in Holland there is a place by the sea called Urk.

Ptaah:

38. Urk has the meaning of 'the steadfast'.

Billy:

And the island or the place that was an island in Holland? Now the former island has become the mainland.

Ptaah:

39. Also the meaning for this case is the same – steadfastness – an island that stood firm against wind, storm and sea.

https://www.futureofmankind.co.uk/Billy_Meier/Contact_Report_347

Billy:

... You here, this article has been in the newspaper. It is about Urk.

Ptaah: (... Reads the article ...)

4. What these specialists have found out is indeed astonishing, but the assumption does not correspond to the facts that Urk was involved in a battle.

5. The truth is that Urk and 13 companions observed a life-and-death battle on the mountains of the Ötztal valley between six human beings of two rival groups or tribes who were killing each other.

6. When they were dead or dying, Urk and his companions ventured out of their hiding place and tried to save the dying, but they were unsuccessful.

7. And since Urk's weapons were already quite damaged from years of use, he partly took possession of the weapons and clothes of the already dead as well as of those who died under his and his companions' helping hands.

8. Urk himself was indeed not involved in the battle – neither were his companions – and was not murdered, for he was indeed killed by an unfortunate fall during an epileptic seizure in which one of the arrows he had captured penetrated his body and he was left to his fate by his companions – several of whom also lost their lives in the storm.

9. This is the real truth about Urk's death.

Billy:

A question about the so-called Ötzi Urk, which means "the steadfast one". This name seems a bit strange to me, as if it wasn't of earthly origin. Was that really his real name, or was it given to him by your ancestors?

Ptaah:

62. The name Urk is actually derived from the Plejaren name.

63. Urk's real name was Onde, but the meaning of this name is unknown to me.

64. And before you ask, which will be inevitable, let me also say that the female name is Urka.

Billy:

It is strange that scientists now believe that Urk was not alone and that a raid or something went down. It just seems to me that our contact talks play a crucial role in this, since they talk about Urk being on the road with 13 companions, and that everyone witnessed a life-or-death struggle between two other rival groups, with a number of deaths. It seems very suspicious to me that those who are tracking down Urk are now suddenly taking up our discussed facts and talking about the fact that Urk was not alone. Very odd.

Ptaah:

5. Actually, it seems strange to me that people are now talking about Urk not being alone.

Billy:

One more question: Why was only Urk's body found on, in or near the Similano glacier when several humans lost their lives there? How many were there altogether? Do you know that?

Ptaah:

6. The number of the dead, besides Urk, was another six.

7. Although the bodies were slightly covered up in the ice storm, they were taken by their relatives at a later time, before they were dragged away by wild carnivorous mountain animals and could serve them as food.

8. Only Urk's body remained untouched by them, because his companions left him lying there and simply buried him under ice floes, which spared him from the predators.

Billy:

... Now I have a question about Urk, the Lake Zurich pile dweller who was killed in the Austrian Ötztal mountains. It must have been five or six years ago now, when after an official contact conversation, we discussed some special things in private, and then the speech also came to Urk, and you explained that he was actually a descendant of a southerner who left his southern homeland with his son Urk and moved north across the Alps, where he settled with lake dwellers on Lake Zurich, who accepted both into their clan. However, since our conversation was - among other things that were discussed – of a private nature, your statement in this regard is of course not written down. You also did not explain at the time why Urk and his father were actually recognised and accepted as strangers by the lake dwellers' clan. That was certainly not usual. And how did it happen that Urk then became the clan leader? And how did it come about that he undertook long journeys, which also led him to Austria for the last time, to the Ötztal Alps in Similaun, where he died. That would interest me. ...

Ptaah:

59. Urk, whose real name was Onde, and his father left their homeland after Urk's mother died and the father was a human being who constantly crossed over to the mainland and made major journeys that took him as far north as Lake Zurich, where he traded with the pile farmers.
60. So he was well known to them and was taken in by them together with Urk when they asked for admission after the death of Urk's mother.
61. The fact that Urk's father risked his life in an emergency situation for the pile dwellers also contributed to their acceptance.
62. As an original southern island dweller, Urk's father was also familiar with good fishing methods, so he taught these and other skills to the clan members, which led to his being appointed as successor when the clan leader died.
63. Unfortunately, he also died less than two years later, so Urk was appointed the new leader as a result of a new regulation.
64. Like his father, however, he was constantly and often for many months on the road, usually together with other clan members, to trade with other clans.
65. This was also how he came to the Ötztal Alps, where he died.

Immaculate Conception

https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Immaculate_Conception

https://www.futureofmankind.co.uk/Billy_Meier/Contact_Report_200

Quetzal:

4. Thus, Pope Pius IX, among others, absurdly maintained and made the doctrine that Joseph's wife Mary, already from the moment of Jmmanuel's conception, carried a 'rational soul' in herself and that already at conception, the fertilised egg was animated by the 'soul', and so, Jmmanuel's personality and his reason had already existed.
5. But the fact is that there is no soul because in truth, this is identical with the psyche, which could have allowed the fertilised egg to become filled with reason, but that in truth, it exclusively deals with the spirit-form which is capable of rebirth, respectively the spirit, nothing of this was mentioned at all.
6. But this could not have been otherwise since this Pope had no notion of the Teaching of the Spirit [aka Creation-energy Teaching] and of the actual creational laws.
7. Therefore, the inventor of the dogma of 'Mary's Immaculate Conception' made an absurd assertion out of self-craze and arrogance as well as out of unreal thinking, etc., namely with regard to the fact that he would be absolutely immoderate and incorrect in that with the celebration of the 'Immaculate Conception of Mary', something would be worshiped and celebrated that would be without reason, and with this, the fertilised egg was meant.
8. That's what happened in the year 1854.
9. Years later, in 1869, he then changed the Canon Law in order to give validity to his nonsensical assertion.
10. Yet up to that time, it was such that the fetus was "inanimate" up to 80 days after the conception and the value of "animation" was only granted to it starting from the 80th day.

11. In addition to various other things, this 80th day was also important for abortion because after this time, one became punished with an excommunication.

12. As a result of the absurd assertion of Pope Pius IX, from then on, an excommunication inevitably took place with each abortion because the new rule was that through a sperm, the fertilized egg would already be “animated” in the body of the woman and, thus, would be filled with reason and would respectively be an “indivisible” individual, as this term was adopted from the Greek word that is transliterated as “ätomon”.

13. But this acceptance of the individual and of being filled with reason are actually absurd because as you know, the animation of the fetus takes place via the spirit-form on the 21st day after conception, with which also the heart begins its rhythmic activity, and thus begins the existence of the individual because at the same moment, when the rebirth, respectively the reincarnation, of the spirit-form takes place in the fetus, the new personality, along with the entire consciousness block, becomes born into new life.

14. Furthermore, it must be said that prior to this moment – up to around the 14th day after conception, which can vary – still different processes in the fertilised egg take place, as for example the division into twins.

https://www.futureofmankind.co.uk/Billy_Meier/Contact_Report_115

Semjase:

265. Around the turn of the year 1980, fanatical and Khomeini-loyal student elements will overtake the American Embassy in Tehran and will take all of the embassy personnel as hostages.

266. This will lead to serious difficulties in the domestic and foreign policy of America as well as to very inconsiderate and rather childish actions of the American president, who, among other things, will allow an attempt to be carried out to free the hostages, which will be doomed for failure from the very beginning.

267. The victims here will only be the prisoners in the American Embassy, but also around a dozen American families in the USA, because of Carter's insane rescue operation for the hostages, around 12 American soldiers will lose their lives through a misfortune.

268. Due to the irrationality, incompetence, and confusion of the American president, the action with the aircraft unfit for this purpose will be started.

269. The largest part of these machines will be destroyed due to their own unfitness, together with approximately 12 human lives of the volunteer command.

270. These events will still further stir up the crisis already going on for many months until then between the Americans and Iran, and it also will not find an end so soon after this time.

271. This is especially so, because also in the interior of the country of Persia, various power groups provide worries, problems, and acts of war to the revolutionary State and because the Islamic leader Ayatollah Khomeini, who has fallen to insanity, will have beaten the majority of the Iranian people into mad fanaticism that serves him.

272. This will ultimately lead to the fact that the first external acts of terrorism will find their beginning outside of the country, thus, namely, first in England where the Iranian Embassy will likewise be occupied and hostages will be taken another time.

273. But also this doing will bring about its bad consequences.

Billy:

Do you mean with your words from just now, that this Khomeini has, already now, fallen to insanity?

Semjase:

274. Yes, that is the sense of my words.

275. He still is not in the full stage, but this will already soon be the case.

Billy:

Then one could not even talk sensibly with the guy anymore?

Semjase:

276. No.

https://www.futureofmankind.co.uk/Billy_Meier/Contact_Report_136

Semjase:

205. On the same day at 21:30 hrs, the American hostages are to be released, but this will be prevented by the power of the Ayatollah Khomeini because he will want to meet with the departing American President Jimmy Carter and, therefore, will not grant him the victory.

206. For this reason, at the last moment, he will prevent the release of the prisoners so that this release will not occur until the next day, the 20th of January 1981, at around 18:23 hrs.

207. For the time being, this will end the largest criminal extortion on the face of the Earth, which will, however, have very serious consequences for the Iranian people and their government at a later time.

208. The first time, the Iranians will be of the wrong opinion that they have achieved a victory by the criminal extortion and subsequent release of the prisoners, but they will soon recognise all sorts of the inconvenience and ruin that they bargained for.

209. But their remorse and insight into their crazy direction and into their fanaticism will come too late.

210. In particular, the new U.S. president, Ronald Reagan, will emphasise his power in order to retaliate against Iran.

211. And that this will be so, like also many other very senseless and terrible things that lead to murder and war, is ensured by a man who works closely with President Reagan, namely a war and intrigue fanatic, like Reagan himself, a man named Haig {Alexander Haig}, who has already caused much political mischief.

212. In particular, Reagan will become unforgiving towards Iran when he is informed more precisely about the fact that the U.S. hostages in Tehran had to suffer under torture and still have more to suffer.

Quetzal:

... This Netanyahu is no better than Adolf Hitler was, as I have learnt from records of what happened around him during the World War from 1939 to 1945. I also see that in the overall reporting of the war between Israel and Hamas, everything is held in the same manner as it is in the Ukraine war, namely that there is only one-sided and biased reporting. With regard to Ukraine, only the entire actions of the Ukrainian army are publicised by the media, but not what is happening on the Russian side. Similarly, in the Middle East, only Israel is reported on, but not the other side, which means that the media also takes sides here, and only in favour of Israel, which also rages much worse than the attackers. I also saw how Israeli military personnel hid firearms etc. in a hospital, which they then allegedly found and had photographed by war journalists, with the untruthful claim that these weapons had been stored there by the other side. And that atrocities were also committed by the Israeli army, as well as by the attackers, which you have observed together with me, so you know what is really happening. And it continues to happen on a large scale, with the 'great leader' Netanyahu, as a paragon of Adolf Hitler, fuelling the whole thing in full hatred. That is what corresponds to the truth.

Billy:

That is probably the case, besides, we behave neutrally, consequently we do not favour one party or the other, also not when we tell the truth regarding a person, his behaviour and actions etc.. And telling the truth about a human being does not mean that we are therefore biased, but that we are only speaking the effective truth, that which we have established very precisely ourselves and which does not contain any assumptions, but only the pure truth. And it is precisely this truth that does not suit one or the other partisan, which is why this human being then unleashes accusations and insults and invents slander. Especially those who are biased towards Ukraine and Russia, who supply weapons to Zelensky and thus do not put an end to the war, do not want to see this, just as they invite Russia to continue the damned war. And the same is happening in the Middle East, where Israel is exalted to the heavens and Hamas is wished the devil on its neck. These misguided in their partisan thinking do not want to admit the truth and are only on the side of Israel, only see it and defend it with their big mouths. This is despite the fact that the Israeli military is just as atrociously murderous and destructive as Hamas. This happens in exactly the same manner on both sides, while on this side only Hamas is cheered with pro and hurrah and huge demonstrations are organised in a completely fanatical manner. But when these partisans hear what you have just said, it is determined by their low intelligence and unreasonableness and will certainly be interpreted as anti-Semitism again, even though these idiots do not even know what the whole concept is all about. ...

...

Quetzal:

But Netanyahu, this warmonger, is directing the whole war effort in such a manner that the hatred of Jews flares up all the more.

Billy:

Yes, of course, because the anti-Semites find that his murderous actions only confirm everything that is being lied about the Jews. Everything is really just lies and deceit and has absolutely nothing to do with the truth. For my part, I have got to know many believers in the Jews, and they were all human beings like we all are. ...

And if I want to say something else: there may now be a war between Israel and Hamas, but not all the people on both sides are in agreement with this warmonger and murderer Netanyahu and on the side of Hamas, whose leadership wields a sceptre of death and the complete destruction of human achievements. I also think that the part of the people who want him out of office are those who think rationally and do not want war. It will also be the same in Ukraine and Russia, because as I experienced and learnt as a boy in the German Reich together with Sfath, only a fanatical and murder-obsessed section of the population that is enthusiastic about war is ever on the side of the war-mongering rulers, while the others turn away from the war, but as a rule can do nothing about it and must remain silent, otherwise they themselves will be murdered. This is certainly the case in the war in the Middle East, as it certainly also is in Ukraine and also in Russia. That is certainly not to be doubted.

Billy:

... And the fact that, as I have seen together with you, evil war atrocities are being committed on both sides is only attributed to Hamas by partisan idiots.

Quetzal:

And the Israeli war monger Netanyahu is not one iota better than Hitler and Zelensky in Ukraine. And the war crimes that are committed on all sides and not just on one side, which in the Middle East include many rapes of women and girls and then killing them, as you also saw in the Vietnam War, are committed by both warring parties, but this apparently remains hidden from the war reporters. In addition, the atrocities are only reported one-sidedly, while the other party is protected ... And as I have now seen in the Middle East, many civilians of Palestinian origin have been ruthlessly shot or murdered by the Israeli military, but I have not seen the same on the Palestinian side and therefore do not know if it is happening there as well. These are war atrocities that are as incomprehensible as the behaviour of the effectively degenerate and completely unscrupulous war fanatic Netanyahu. And the fact that America is also interfering in this war and deriving great benefit from it is so clear that there is no need to discuss it, because it is a further advance in the American hegemonic delusion.

Ptaah:

... in the Middle East, religions have led the real and millennia-long feud to the current evil and murderous war enterprise. In this, unparalleled atrocities are occurring on both sides of the adversaries, and very badly in the Middle East, where the war leader Netanyahu, whom I can compare with Adolf Hitler and have thoroughly researched in his character and his whole essence of behaviour, is exercising the violence. It was frightening to realise that this man is a hate-filled war fanatic and killing maniac, filled with delusions of faith, who unrestrainedly incites his murderous troops to senseless killing. They not only follow him obediently, but are protected by him, even though they commit unimaginable atrocities, which are, however, covered up, as I have observed myself in several wise cases, where press reporters who observe incidents of atrocities are simply shot on sight. I have observed this on the Israeli side, but I have not seen such behaviour on the hostile Palestinian side. However, according to my findings, this does not mean that only the Israeli fighters commit atrocities and effective war crimes, which are also committed by the Palestinians. So in this respect, both sides of the belligerents are the same, as I call them bestial, because what I have observed corresponds to nothing else. I have observed women and young girls being raped and then killed, and prisoners being tortured and shot, as I also observed in the Ukraine war zone. However, as I was able to fathom Netanyahu's thoughts and actions – as I was able to do with Zelensky in Ukraine, Biden in America, Putin in Russia and other state leaders and was able to gain very frightening findings and insights from all of them – everything about his thoughts and actions is based solely on fanatical belief and boundless hatred. ...

Billy:

... the guy from Israel, Netanyahu, whom I regard as an evil, fanatical and merciless dictator and mass murderer, who is also so afflicted by a religious delusion of faith that makes him blindly rabid against people of other faiths.

Ptaah:

... With regard to Netanyahu, I recognised in him that he is so fanatical about the Palestinians' different beliefs that his striving is characterised by a delusion of extermination, killing, destruction and annihilation, which he wants to realise in such a wise that he ruthlessly wants to effectively exterminate the Palestinian people and thus have the Israeli army carry out a genocide. However, according to his profound mind, this should not only be limited to the Gaza Strip, but also be extended to Lebanon and Syria, and ultimately also be enforced in Jordan, whereby even in this wise for distant Iran, subterranean approaches to this could be found in his confused thinking.

Billy:

He is also accused of genocide, but he denies it and does not think about all the murder etc., as I am sure the Israeli military and all around the Palestinians resp. Hamas do not either. Something that is also the case in the Ukraine with Zelensky and in Russia with Putin and the Huthi rebels, as well as with Kim Jong Un in North Korea, who has South Korea and America on his 'crossbar' and is intent on 'razing them to the ground', as you said months ago when you fathomed his thoughts and desires in his skull. They are all the same, so there is no difference between one and the other, which is why neither the one nor the other can be sided with favour and said to be in the right. They are all guilty of murder and manslaughter, torture, rape, massacres and destruction etc. And all this is and remains inexcusable and an unparalleled crime, and this may be said without taking sides, simply according to the effective reality, which is nothing but the truth, concealed from the world public and falsified and concealed by lies and fraudulent reports. And when you Plejaren and I denounce these things and openly state what is really happening and how, we are not taking sides, but simply stating the facts that correspond to the facts.

Billy:

... In my opinion, the German government is still determined by the Americans – which the Americans vehemently deny – as everything is also partly in the case of Netanyahu and the miscreants in the 'government' of Israel and is managed by the influence of America in such a manner that only hypocritical leniency is practised towards the Palestinians. In reality, Hamas is only playing the role of a reason for Netanyahu to wage war, which is officially declared to be against Hamas, but is actually being waged against the Palestinians. And so that Germany – and especially those in government who are in truth hostile to Jews – are not once again labelled as Jew-haters and Holocaust imitators, they are putting a 'good face on the bad game' and playing Jewish friendliness.

In reality, this anti-Jewish section of those in power – which you described several times last year as neo-NAZIs, and in terms of their attitudes, which you have personally noted several times in various people and then also said so – is completely different and, in terms of their attitudes, also directed against those who believe in Jews. This should also be perceived by parts of the population, which should have the consequence, as you explicitly said, that anti-Jewish, right-wing extremists and otherwise crooked Germans who think differently, and simply quarrelling followers, rebel more and more against the government and riot violently against it. This is because the government handles and runs everything differently than the rebels expect. Rebels are also destroying many human achievements because the neo-Nazi like rulers are biased and, for example, public press coverage of the wars in Ukraine and the Middle East is always one-sided. Here, for example, this letter shows that such rebellious people are complaining that the government and the press – which is probably not only the case in Germany – only ever report on Ukraine and Israel and that they are practically portrayed as disadvantaged, aggrieved and innocent, while what is happening on the side of the Russians and in the Gaza Strip with the Palestinians and Hamas is simply hushed up or condemned. This is despite the fact that both sides carry out dirty deeds, commit war crimes, organise massacres, torture prisoners and then shoot them, rape children and women and then shoot them, as I have seen for myself together with Bermunda. Effectively, only what is done by the other side, by the Russians and Hamas and the Palestinians in terms of war, is commented on, depicted and witnessed. But what the Ukrainian military is doing against Russia and is guilty of evil, how the Israeli military is also raging in the Gaza Strip and committing war crimes, and how Zelensky and Netanyahu are inciting this, all of this is concealed. And as you also said, Zelensky is also taking action against the civilian population in Russia and Netanyahu is taking action against Hezbollah in Lebanon and therefore also against the civilian population, because they are inevitably affected. In other words, there is practically only partisan anti-propaganda against those who are not liked and who do not fit into the partisan concept, so they are simply made to look bad and whose mutual and hostile sides are not a hair or an iota better than those who are cheered and everything is made right for them to stay on top.

Billy:

... Netanyahu, whose delusions of ambition Bermunda has fathomed and ascertained that this man is obsessed with power, delusional and absolutely unscrupulous and willing to walk over dead bodies on a massive scale.

Billy:

And if we now look at the Ukraine war as a whole, then this leads me to say – as I know from Quetzal's source, who has fathomed the reason for the Palestinian attack – that the time of war arose in Israel and Palestine because the hatred of the Jews flared up anew as an imitation process and began to take effect. This is because, as a result of Zelensky's worldwide begging, many insane rulers of various countries and considerable parts of their populations took sides with Ukraine, which is 'led' by the Jew and war fanatic Zelensky. And everything is now happening as I already said at the beginning of the Ukraine war, precisely because Zelensky is known to the Palestinians as a Jew-believer and the rulers of various countries are helping him with weapons, ammunition and money etc. with the agreement of like-minded sections of the population and are playing 'good friend', although various of those 'helping' are anti-Jewish, but are hiding this in a playful way and hoping that the low intelligence of many others will not recognise this, but that they will make quite a big profit of some kind as a result.

The war waged by Israel against the Palestinians, who are really Arabs and who started it all, is being carried out by Netanyahu in such a way that there is practically no great difference to the last world war waged by Adolf Hitler and his SS henchmen. This war can now escalate against Lebanon, Syria and also Jordan, meaning that the attacks will no longer be limited to the West Bank if the war-mongering Netanyahu continues to push his boundaries. Obviously, he is just as much a religious and unpredictable war fanatic in his war-mongering as Zelensky – and as Adolf Hitler also was. In addition, America is undoubtedly behind the whole thing, even though it hypocritically 'intervenes' against this and that on the surface, but in reality only to deceive the world public. ...

Jack the Ripper

https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Jack_the_Ripper

Ptaah:

24. But concerning 'Jack the Ripper' it is without doubt to say that it was a man who had fallen for a degenerated sexuality, which he fulfilled in prostitutes, in order to murder them, for which he used a dagger, but also a small sword and poison.

25. He also took organs from the dead, which he cooked and ate.

26. He was born in Canada, lived for some time in the USA and then in England.

27. The man's name was Thomas Neill Cream and he was a trained physician, but after several murders he came under suspicion, was arrested, charged and sentenced to death, after which he was hanged in 1892.

28. At the same time, however, a second man was making trouble in the same way, who prosecuted the royal house of Queen Victoria, but was never caught because he managed to evade justice and gave up his bloody activities after Thomas Neill Cream was arrested.

Billy:

A copycat. That's what we call copycats.

https://www.futureofmankind.co.uk/Billy_Meier/Contact_Report_524

Billy:

Now I would like to ask you which person was it that prosecuted the Queen Victoria royal family and murdered the prostitute?

Ptaah:

22. It was a grandson of the Queen, Prince Albert Victor, who murdered prostitutes because he secretly courted with them and then feared that they would publicly discredit him.

Billy:

By 'he courted with them' do you mean that he was their suitor and had love affairs with them?

Ptaah:

23. That is the meaning of my words.

https://www.futureofmankind.co.uk/Billy_Meier/Contact_Report_586

Billy:

At the 524th official contact conversation on the 30th of July 2011, we also spoke again about the same thing, but I am still interested in this matter. For example, on the internet his country of birth is mentioned as Scotland, whereas you said he was born in Canada. Recently, however, someone telephoned me and told me that the serial killer Thomas Neill Cream was a Scottish-born man and that he was also considered the first serial killer in modern legal history.

Ptaah:

88. That regarding the birth is not correct, because he was actually born in Canada, where his mother, in a very pregnant condition, was visiting an acquaintance and was looking for a suitable place where her family could settle, because they wanted to move from Scotland to Canada.

89. The whole thing was carried out in a secret operation, so even the neighbourhood of the Cream family knew nothing about it, and they were also not supposed to know.

90. Consequently, it was told that the mother was staying with a relative who was ill and needed nursing care.

91. So, when the time came, the mother gave birth to Thomas Neill in Canada, after which she returned to Scotland and announced the birth of her son and also registered the birth in Glasgow on the 27th of May 1850, hiding the fact that the birth had taken place in Canada.

92. No one was to know that the family wanted to emigrate to Canada.

93. So secret arrangements continued to be made for the emigration, which also took place four years later.

94. Thomas Neill Cream was then hanged as a serial killer in the United Kingdom on the 15th of November 1892, in Newgate Prison in London.

95. In fact, he was not the only serial killer of the time who committed his murders in England, but also in Australia and Brazil, for there was another one who was up to his murderous mischief, namely a grandson of Queen Victoria, Prince Albert Victor, who murdered prostitutes because he was secretly courting them and feared that they would discredit him publicly.

96. But at the same time there was a third man who spread fear and terror as a serial killer, namely a certain Frederick Bailey Deeming, who was born on the 30th of July 1853 and hanged on the 23rd of May 1892.

97. He also murdered his families and did his mischief in Australia, Paris and South America.

98. He also murdered several prostitutes, although it was only revealed that he cruelly killed his four children and two wives.

99. Neither was he 'Jack the Ripper', nor Prince Albert Victor, for Thomas Neill Cream was in fact the man who was given this title.

Billy:

So there was not only one serial killer at work in the same period, but there were three.

Ptaah:

100. That is correct.

101. This is also proven by my father's notes in this regard, which I studied.

Billy:

So then Sfath was following and recording such events.

Ptaah:

102. That is the case.

Billy:

... Then I would like to come another time also on the topic 'Jack the Ripper', because as always there are again and again 'specialists', who put up new theories and assertions, who Jack the Ripper was. For example, there is a certain Dr. Gareth Norris who claims that he can prove that a certain Charles Allen Lechmere (d. 1920) was the killer Jack the Ripper. During various conversations, which you and I had privately and openly (see volume 11, page 373, 'Plejadisch-Plejarische Kontaktberichte'), it was explained, however, that a man named Dr. Thomas Neill Cream (born 27th May, 1850 – executed 15th November, 1892) was the mass murderer Jack the Ripper, who was then captured, sentenced to death and executed.

Ptaah:

65. These assertions are known to me and are based solely on confused speculations based on pseudoforensic assumptions and speculative constructs.

66. This is a construct that does not yield any empirically recognizable facts within the pseudo-scientifically pseudoforensically constructed presumption theory.

67. This presumption theory construct is based on a mental or even theoretical and imaginative nature that is alienated from any reality.

68. This means, then, that the facts in question, as presented by the various know-it-alls and 'specialists', do not exist, but are only thought up from various wrongly assumed and interpreted indicators or facts that are not comprehensible.

69. The false assertion, then, that the man Charles Allen Lechmere was Jack the Ripper – who actually existed and died in 1920 and never murdered, as our investigations at the time, which were carried out by my father because this Lechmere was also suspected at the time, revealed – actually corresponds only to an imaginative latent construct, or subliminal, hidden and concealed exploration of something unknown, or an assumption, following which it is a false operationalization.

70. And in Jack the Ripper's case this is done by the know-it-alls and 'experts' creating false concretisations of theoretical hypotheses and assumptions in connection with misinterpreted observable and measurable local conditions, whereby, however, the effective external influences – such as the presence and action of persons – are completely misinterpreted by the imagination.

Billy:

Wow, that's an explanation I have got to digest, but I can understand. Did you think you were in an auditorium?

Ptaah:

71. You think that I ...

Billy:

I think so, because it would also be easier, namely to simply say that the know-it-alls and 'experts', who try to reconstruct history in a forensic-theoretical way, simply take the existing circumstances, such as street, trees, houses and the place of the victim, into account. They look at everything else all around only in a presumptuous way, like people who are at the victim's place or appear in some other way, who prove them as such with suspicions through false suspicions and also judge their actions completely wrong and award them behaviours etc. which do not apply to them.

Ptaah:

72. You're right, it could be said so in a short way.

19th Century

6. Conspiracy theories regarding Jack the Ripper: The search for the real identity of Jack the Ripper left room for speculations, for instance that he would be a secret child of Queen Victoria.

65. FALSE

66. Jack the Ripper was a man by the name of Thomas Neill Cream, a trained physician who after committing several murders was arrested, charged, sentenced to death and hanged in 1892.

67. During the same time period as him, a second man performed his mischief in the same manner, who originated from the royal house of Queen Victoria, but who was never caught, because he ended his murdering again.

Billy:

... I would better ask about Jack the Ripper one more time, because even today, this murderer still will not leave certain people alone, as a result of which they are still under the delusion, after more than 140 years, that they have to find the 'real' killer, who was, however, caught and executed.

Since the events of that time, it must have been 1888 or so, if I remember correctly, some 80 suspects have been linked to the crimes of Jack the Ripper, who murdered and mutilated 5 prostitutes in London, by 'pundits' and other 'know-it-alls' and 'researchers'. Now, recently, clever British researchers from Liverpool and Leeds again believe that they finally know the true identity of the London serial killer and would actually know his identity, now thanks to a DNA trace they claim to have found.

A certain Dr. Jari Louhelainen, as well as a David Miller, who are said to be scientists, had examined a scarf that is said to have belonged to one of the victims murdered by Jack the Ripper in 1888. At least that is what is written in the research magazine 'Journal of Forensic Sciences'. The two researchers claim this because they attribute the DNA trace to an immigrant from Poland, namely a hairdresser named Aaron Kosminski who was living in London at the time. This person was already considered by Scotland Yard as one of the main suspects about 130 years ago. This suspicion has long been held by amateur detectives, but to this day it has never been effectively proven, either halfway or completely, that he or any of the other suspects was in fact the Ripper, so that the crimes they were accused of have never been proven and no one really guilty has ever been found.

Who really committed the murders, and who Jack the Ripper really was, has been the subject of repeated investigations, fantasy and sham investigations, and many theories since 1888. For example, in the 1940s the last suspect died, while elsewhere now the latest suspect had to be Aaron Kosminski, who is said to have been Jack the Ripper and to have been insane of consciousness, which is why he was admitted to a psychiatric hospital in 1890 and died there 29 years later, in 1919.

Ptaah:

143. As you know, I have dealt with this case out of my own interest, have investigated the truth at that time and have been able to find out the real facts on the spot.

144. In doing so, I have also been confronted with the real culprit, Jack the Ripper, who called himself Dr. Thomas Neill Cream, was born on the 27th of May 1850 and executed on the 15th of November 1892.

145. This man was in fact the murderer Jack the Ripper, who was also caught, sentenced to death and then executed.

146. I am also aware of the latest claims by two new scientists, Dr. Jari Louhelainen and David Miller, as I am also aware of the claim that the scarf in question was found at one of the scenes of a Ripper murder.

147. And because I was already interested in these murders and the Ripper at the time of the events, this was also the case for the scarf, consequently I also went back in time for it and found out that this corpus delicti belonged neither to one of the victims nor to Jack the Ripper, but to a 'Domestic Worker' in an Edgumbe noble family who had lost the scarf, as I was able to establish on the spot.

Billy:

Aha, and that about Jack the Ripper, whose effective name was Dr Thomas Neill Cream, that is absolutely and incontrovertibly certain? While I don't doubt your words, because it is only a rhetorical question.

Ptaah:

148. It is answered.

Semjase:

103. Especially now, it also confirms what has been said since ancient times, that the Israeli people originally never were an actual people, but that this mass of people, in ancient times, singly and alone consisted of a gigantic group of degenerate and partially even criminal elements, who during their existence on Earth at that time only incited discord, falseness and war.

104. Having come forth from the ones who were expelled, because they would not obey any order and were criminal, they assembled together in a mob in ancient times and formed the sham-people of the Hebraons, the gypsies, who in their megalomania and in selfishness and egoism, named themselves a chosen people, who wanted to take up an elevated and ruling position over all terrestrial peoples, as is indeed known to you.

105. But you also know that this sham-people over a very long time always reached its goals, however, always only through murder, arson, the betrayal of friendships, and intrigues, and so forth, whereby they, the original forefathers of today's Israelis, were truly masters.

106. Their distant descendents now, today's Israelis, respectively their responsible ones and their myrmidons can – like the U.S.A. – commit the worst crimes pitilessly and unhindered and with their secret services and military, right before the eyes of the world at large, and even with their approval.

107. Not only that the secret service and military have criminal elements and trustworthy friends in many nations of Earth, who they, as ever, simply brutally and bloodthirstily butcher as needed and to reach their goals, no, they also have – again like the USA – through their intrigues, also understood how to make the appropriate friends in the governments, the economic concerns and banks, and so forth, or even creep into these themselves, so that their power has already grown to the degree that this cannot be grasped and perceived by Earth-humans any more.

108. The last world war, the second, through which millions of Jews were massacred, which was truly unjust as you know, carries the great blame that this could even happen to such a degree, also because the USA with its allies decided the war in their favour.

109. But blinded by that and full of false pity, Earth-humans seek the friendship of the violent ones but who in nowise merit this friendship and only take advantage of it for their criminal purposes.

110. A fact that unfortunately also makes the peace-loving and upright Americans, Israelis and Jews in general victims for the neo-Nazis as well as for the other right-wing extremists and terrorists who should be persecuted and punished.

111. A fact...

Billy:

Man alive, you must be damned cautious about what you say here, because all of this could be interpreted as being neo-fascist and anti-Jewish.

You also know that anti-Semitic machinations and the like constantly lead to legal procedures and even worse.

...

Semjase:

116. That also is correct, and it especially means a very great danger for yourself and for your life, because the fewest Earth-humans will understand and want to understand, that we only speak the truth and only spread the truth regarding these things, and that we ourselves, as well as you, in spite of that, regarding the human beings themselves, do not possess anti-American and anti-Israeli ambitions in any form and in regard to the integrity of these countries.

117. Only few will understand that we only object to the murderous and false machinations of these named groups of Earth-humans, and have to warn the rest of humankind about them: being the criminal state powers and the myrmidons and servants who belong to them, who, for their delusion and fanaticism as well as for their serfdom and profit greed, go, without consideration, over corpses, murdering, destroying and terrorising.

Semjase:

356. Perhaps those responsible ones in Germany, and in the other countries of the Earth, will also finally recognise the truth, that namely the original forefathers of the Israelis pursued this murderous method, to make drunk in pretended friendship those to be exploited, in order to butcher and eliminate them in their drunken stupor.

Billy:

For those quick of hearing and honestly knowing and searching, this was already known for thousands of years. It is also indeed written in the Bible.

Semjase:

357. Sure, but only for the quick of hearing and knowing ones.

358. The know-it-alls and fantasizers never want, however, to see this factual truth.

...

Billy:

... Hebreon. As I know, this designation stems from the ancient Lyran language and means gypsy, but this translation is not correct, because actually, Hebreon, in the ancient language, and therefore in Lyran means Hebraon and not Hebreon. But Hebraon means the 'cast-off, or cast-out, scum'.

Semjase:

369. Sure, that is correct ...

Billy:

... Jmmanuel's name was already in use since ancient times, i.e. at the time of the original Hebrews, who were called 'Ebraya', and of which the distant descendants, today's believers in the Jews, no longer know anything, because there are absolutely no more traditions about it. This people was led at that time by a rather deep black African called 'Avian' in the land of 'Pecht'. The original leader was a very distant Negrud descendant of a very small black-skinned Plejaren group that settled in Africa more than 13,500 years ago as immigrants and mixed with Earth's humanity, but kept away from the foreigners, so that they never noticed that Plejaren were on this world. The foreigners, who had been on Earth for a very long time and whose distant homeland was 8 or 9 light-years away from our world, did not realise the presence of the few Plejaren, whose descendants died out completely in the course of time. The original Hebrews, as already mentioned, lived in the land of 'Pecht', which was east of the Mediterranean, and they were a nomadic tribe who called their African leader 'Avian' 'Avrahm'. This probably gave rise over time to the name Abram in other languages – I don't know, but it seems obvious to me. This name was later changed, but I don't know when, because according to tradition it was first written without an H, i.e. 'Abram', then it became 'Abraham'. As I still know, the name 'Avram' originally meant 'father of many nations'. At least that is what Sfase explained to me. So this was the name used by the ancient resp. the primitive Hebrews ...

Billy:

What you say is absolutely correct, anti-Semitism is once again taking hold worldwide, especially in Germany, but this has nothing to do with the fact that world domination is to be sought in the name of the Jews, because the believers in the Jews are happy, grateful and glad when they are left alone. As far as 'world domination' is concerned, this does not refer to a 'political world domination', but to the fact that this only refers to the Jewish faith resp. the Jewish religion, to Jewish 'theism'. I had already discussed this topic with my first Plejaren contact, Semjase, unfortunately only very superficially, which they did address, but they did not actually explain in more detail what the whole thing was actually about. As a result, it was not made clear that the actual fact of the desire for 'world domination' was actually the one that I want to explain to you now. As I have already mentioned, the 'world domination' we, Semjase and I, are talking about does not refer to political ambitions, but solely to the fact that the Jewish religion should spread worldwide and become dominant worldwide. This was to be achieved through a 'religious war of faith', whereby the 'war of faith' was to be fought with 'weapons of faith', i.e. with 'words of faith', which were to demand blood in such a manner that this would resound in faith. This form of 'war of faith' originated with a devout Jew, namely a Zionist, who in the 1880s founded an anti-socialist group of radical 'Zionists', which gave rise to so-called 'Revisionist Zionism'. Unfortunately, I cannot remember what the man's name was, because my memory is also not the youngest and unfortunately, as a result of my stroke, no longer fully functional. Well, that is one thing, but another is that the Zionists call themselves that because they refer to the name 'Zion', and thus to the 'Temple Mount in Jerusalem', which is considered the 'residence of YHWH', i.e. the God of the Jews, by the believers in the Jews. The 'world domination of the Jewish faith' was to be secretly spread in the name 'Zion' resp. with the designation 'Zionists', against which, however, it was not openly but secretly 'fought' in faith that 'Eretz Israel' should be considered the home of the Jews alone and belong to them alone. This is because the religious Zionists believed and defended, and also still do today, that Israel was granted to the Jews alone by their YHWH and that it always belongs to them. YHWH, this designation of God, was originally brought by 'Abram from Africa' resp. from Ethiopia when he founded the Hebrano community about 4.5 millennia ago. Judaism also goes back to him, but this does not want to be true because the believers only believe in one God and do not want to know the truth. The invented story of YHWH is more important than the actual truth – as with the stories about Jmmanuel, Mohammed and Buddha etc. – because the Zionists only believe in the motto of religious Zionism. Although there was a larger grouping of this form of Zionism in the century before last and also at the beginning of the last century, the whole of this madness was then dissolved, namely 'Revisionist Zionism', and formed into a new 'Zionism' in the 1920s, although freedom of belief was preserved and this was never advocated with war, murder and manslaughter and therefore never had anything to do with such machinations.

That is clear; the Israeli people had absolutely nothing to do with it, they cultivated faith in their YHWH then as now and since time immemorial, and indeed since 'Abram came from Africa' and founded the Hebrew group thousands of years ago, from which the Hebrew people then also emerged. However, this is not known in Hebrew history and is even disputed because there are no written or other records of this origin, which I was also only able to experience and learn about through Sfath.

Regarding the true and real origin of the asocial grouping of the lunatic Zionist movement of the 'Revolutionary Zionists' now, everything is actually public knowledge. However, the fact that a group of these early Zionists secretly wanted to realise the crazy idea of achieving religious Zionist 'world domination' was deliberately kept secret from the majority of Zionist believers, as well as from all Jewish believers. As a result, not a single letter about it was also written down and everything remained secret, while the crazy idea of 'world domination' of Zionism was secretly worked on, which ultimately had serious consequences, long after all the members of this Zionist group had already died. Despite the craziness of the idea of this asocial and practically dangerous original Zionist grouping, paradoxically, the aim was also to relocate all believers in the Jewish religion scattered around the world to 'Eretz Israel'. Much is also known about this elsewhere, but not a single letter has been written about the completely crazy idea of the world domination plans of the 'crazy' Zionist group, of which not even the 'normal' Zionists knew anything.

Everything of the asocial Zionists was conducted in such a wise and secret manner that really only the innermost circle of the early Zionists were able to secretly strive for this 'world domination' without the wider circle knowing about it. The goal of 'world domination' of the Zionist movement was therefore an aspect that was purely religiously orientated, namely that all Jews in the world should settle in the Middle East, whereby the intended area was up to the border of today's Iraq. However, this form of 'world domination' had nothing to do with the 'Protocols of the Elders of Zion', about which I will have more to say.

Zionism is actually nothing more than a sect – just as all religions have many sects – which spread and became noticeable in America and throughout Europe through its secret striving for world domination, not openly proclaimed, but secretly striven for. As a reaction to this, a general hatred of the Jews quickly grew, giving rise to the anti-Semitism that is being rekindled and strengthened today by America, Zelensky and Netanyahu. The secret work of the original Zionists at that time, from which the normal believers in the Jews were absolutely excluded and therefore not involved, led to growing anti-Semitism – which had already existed for thousands of years as simple hatred of the Jews – which also became increasingly stronger, mainly in Germany, but also elsewhere in the world. National Socialism then emerged in Germany, which ultimately gave rise to the Third World War – the first, from 1756 to 1763, is deliberately omitted because America triggered it – through which millions upon millions of Jews were murdered and a virtual Holocaust took place. However, the traditional hatred of Jews contributed to this in a wise way, which has been idiotically fuelled since time immemorial, especially also by the myth of the Jewish world conspiracy, which still exists today.

{Billy:}

That occurred to me now and I wondered about Sfath's words, that everything is only meant to be a deception, that Jesus Christ should never have been called Jesus Christ, rather Jmmanuel, that he was not God's son, and that God is not Creation.

Asket {3rd February 1953}:}

33. In less than twenty Earth years, the time will come for you, when you will write a great work of the truth, that will be transmitted to you from a very, very high spirit form.

34. It will reach to you from the same level from which Jmmanuel, the carpenter's son, who you wrongly name Jesus Christ, also received his knowledge.

191.... the true utensils of Jmmanuel and also the cross are already long rotted away and decayed to dust.

...

259. You will learn the truth about Jmmanuel, who you wrongly call Jesus Christ.

260. You will recognise the truth regarding his prophecies that he pronounced less than two thousand years ago because he spoke of metal machines which would move in water and on land and in the air.

https://www.futureofmankind.co.uk/Billy_Meier/Asket%27s_Explanations_%E2%80%93_Part_4

Jitschi:

Indeed, Jesus said ...

Asket:

20. That is precisely what he did not even say. It is all a deliberately falsified tradition.
21. Besides, the man never bore the name Jesus.
22. He was plainly and simply called Jmmanuel.

{Eduard:}

But the remainder gave him {Illyitch "Jitschi" Ustinov} the truth about the life and work of Jmmanuel when Asket led us back to the year 32 in order to, there and then, examine those events which are described so wrongly and counter to reality in the New Testament of the Christian Bible.

...

... events concerning Jmmanuel, which, during two thousand years, were so malevolently falsified that a mass psychosis arose from it, as did a further religion, Islam, as well as many sects which were able to be constructed from it.

Asket {14th February 1953}:}

3. This is required because you can only fulfil your mission when you know the actual truth in very great detail.
4. But this is truly quite different from the way it is presented in your scriptures.

Eduard:

In no way can he himself {Jmmanuel} do anything about being branded as a son of God and still even greater nonsense.

Because, according to everything that I know today, he was used, without his own will, for the founding and maintenance of a new religion.

Jmmanuel must be a wonderful human and extraordinarily wise and clever as well.

Asket:

9. He speaks the truth, Jitschi.

...

Asket:

22. But now look there at the men who are coming along the path.

Jitschi:

Who are the people then?

Asket:

23. A very wise Earth human with his followers.

...

Eduard:

I think I know which he is – the one there in the middle – the tall one who stands out over everybody.

Asket:

26. You observe very precisely – it is he.

...

Jmmanuel:

26. My teaching, which I spread in these lands, is not new and it is well known to the scribes.

27. But they falsify the old teaching of the prophets which was handed down to them and is very learned.

28. But they distort and falsify it and interpret it to their own advantage, therefore, they accuse me of lying because I preach against their lies.

29. From the old teaching of the laws of Creation and the spirit, they have set up erroneous cults which take freedom of consciousness from the human and drive him into servitude, whereby they can enrich themselves with his possessions.

Jmmanuel:

59. Truly, out of my true humanity, a cult will be set up, which will bring with it very bad and deadly consequences.

60. Seen in me, however, is still only the human, which I truly also am, but soon a form of malevolence will be made out of me and I will be equated with Creation.

61. Truly, I know these events of the future, and, indeed, I cannot change them, not even if I rebel against them.

62. I was born a human, I live as such and, as such, fulfil my appointed mission.

63. But also as a human I will suffer the fate of corporal death in 83 years.

64. By then, my body will be very old, yet my spirit and thinking will remain undiminished.

Eduard:

But I have fully understood your explanations, because I do know the New Testament, which allegedly contains your teaching.

But for a short time now I have known that the allegedly-handed-down teaching is only an evil falsification and only corresponds to the actual truth in very few things.

Not at all to mention, thereby, regarding your own person, who has been pressed into a form of a god and a form of Creation and who is proclaimed as the redeemer of Earth humanity.

You sit before me and I see that you are precisely as much a human as is Asket here, as is Jitschi over there and your brothers and students, who, in our time are called disciples.

Now I wonder how it has come about that no direct documentation of your teaching has been handed down, because, to my knowledge, the first words of the New Testament which exists in my time were written only around 200 years after your alleged death on the cross.

Do you not write down any facts at all of your teaching, in such a way that they can be kept for posterity?

Jmmanuel:

80. Truly, your question is very precisely directed.

81. Consider; my time is about two millennia before yours, and in this time only certain forms of society are literate.

82. On account of my mission, I did also learn writing and reading, yet I have insufficient time to write down my teaching.

83. And if I speak of my teaching, truly, then I thereby name the teaching of all great ages - the teaching of the spirit and the teaching of the laws and recommendations of Creation - which are eternally imperishable.

84. I learnt it in a similar way to you and furthermore spent long years in the distant land of Kush (note from Billy: today part of North India), where I was permitted to experience further learning.

85. So the teaching is indeed preached by me, yet it is truly not originally from me.

86. Truly, your question is, however, warranted.

87. I fully know the false and wrong teachings of the future about my true teachings and about my person.

88. But no practical steps are planned to change these coming misleading events, because the mass of erring and falsifying humans is too great to be able to influence them even on a small scale.

89. This will unfortunately lead to a false teaching of much longer than three thousand years, and to very much need, pain, hate, misery and bloodshed.

90. Truly, in spite of that, however, the truth will not be lost, because it will - in a safe place - remain transmitted and also outlast the time, in a written form.

91. Among my followers, I have a literate man named Judas Iscariot, who writes down the most important parts of the teaching and events, which later, well preserved, shall outlast the time in order to hand down the actual truth to posterity.

92. With the help of an ex-priest, these texts will be found by you, in your time, in Jerusalem and you will spread them again, true to their meaning, and make them accessible to the humans.

95. Already the texts are being sought now in order to destroy them and to use them as indictments against me.

96. One scroll has already been stolen from the writer and kept closed by the Pharisees and the scribes.

97. Juda Ihariot, a son of a Pharisee, secretly took it out of Judas Iscariot's bag in order to sell it to my persecutors for 70 pieces of silver, in order, thereby, to be able to charge me with blasphemy against God.

98. But Judas Iscariot has been ordered by me to write the text once again and now to keep it quite safe whereby its purpose will outlast the ages.

Eduard:

You speak of Judas Iscariot, who is supposed to be your betrayer, as the texts of my time still convey, nonetheless falsified!

Jmmanuel:

99. Truly, I speak of him.

100. But he will in no way be the guilty one.

101. He who will hand me over to the persecutors is the same one who stole the texts and sold them.

Eduard:

Therefore Juda Ihariot?

Jmmanuel:

102. So is it.

103. But his father will spread the lie that Judas Iscariot is the betrayer, because the Pharisee name Ihariot must not be soiled.

104. But the reason is also based on the fact that the priests, scribes and Pharisees and their followers can say:

105. "Behold, one from his own ranks has betrayed him and handed him over to a death on the cross.

106. Behold, behold, how can his teaching be truth if his own people betray him and sell him?"

Eduard:

So that is the way it is. Now I understand quite a bit more. But now I ask myself, who then really hanged himself in Potters Field - respectively, who will hang himself there in the coming time?

Jmmanuel:

107. Juda Ihariot.

Jmmanuel:

118. I know, truly, that in your time the people live in the mistaken belief that I am the embodiment of Creation.

119. So then, in your time, they call me "the Anointed One" and they thereby wander far from every truth, through deep darkness engendered by belief.

Eduard:

But how is it now with yourself - I mean with your name?

It is indeed Jmmanuel, but in spite of that, in my time you are called "Jesus Christ". That is the way it is in the New Testament anyway.

Jmmanuel:

127. Truly, that is an evil vituperation, which is foreign to every truth.

128. Up until this point in time, in which I talk with you now, this name has never been uttered.

129. Only in a later time will it become coined by a human whose thinking will be confused.

130. He will also bear the blame for me being designated as Creation and for the lie that I am omnipotent.

131. All this will happen this way through Paul, who currently is still one of my worst enemies and is still named Saul.

Eduard:

You mean that, through the construction of Christianity, he will found his own erroneous religion; a Paulism, so to speak?

Jmmanuel:

132. Truly, you speak the truth.

Eduard:

What is your own position then in regard to the title JESU, CHRISTI or JESUS CHRIST which has been attributed to you?

Jmmanuel:

133. In your time this name is very imprinted.

134. Truly, truly, that aggrieves me greatly.

135. Never do I wish to be so named and it never should have happened.

136. Yet this has become unavoidable for the path of development, because the human of this Earth must first go into error in order to find the truth.

137. As I hear, however, the name which is not appropriate to me, Jesus Christ, truly, this aggrieves me greatly, because it will be, without exception, uttered only by humans who still live in confusion regarding thinking and knowledge and have not yet come to terms with the truth.

138. And they will unfortunately be very many at your time, and that is truly very sad and causes me pain.

Eduard:

You mean, that only a misled human calls you "Jesus Christ"?

Jmmanuel:

139. Truly, that is what I said, because every human who knows the truth will call me by my correct name, because, for him, the truth signifies life and knowledge.

...

Eduard:

... yet now tell me, is it very unwelcome to you if the people call you "Jesus Christ" or similar?

Jmmanuel:

151. Truly, you precisely understand the sense of my thoughts.

152. This name is wrong when applied to me and I am aggrieved to know that it will be used for me in the future.

153. I bring the teaching of the truth of the Great Time, and thereby do not do wrong.

154. If one, however, associates me in any kind of manner with this name then one accuses me of wrong and of lying.

Eduard:

You are very sensitive, Jmmanuel.

Jmmanuel:

155. That is not so.

156. It is only that this name, however, is not consistent with the sense of the truth, and it insults me.

Eduard:

... But now it interests me whether the texts mentioned by you {Talmud Jmmanuel} will really serve the truth in my time.

I mean thereby the records of Judas Iscariot?

Jmmanuel:

158. Truly, it will be they, even if they will initially be greatly doubted.

159. Initially the accusation will be made that they are lies and a falsification, yet with time the truth will be victorious.

164. Truly, very evil things against the text will be brought into play in order to revile it as lies and to destroy it.

165. Very many paths will be trodden to that end.

166. Out of foolishness, even lower spirits and the dead will be called upon - although that is impossible - in order to revile my teachings, newly presented by you, as lies, in the same way as do the scribes, the Pharisees and the priests of my time, who are only able to come into contact with very lowly, ignorant and misled humans and influence them by means of belief.

167. So will it also be in your time, because the humans of your time will have succumbed just as much to delusional beliefs and ignorance as have the humans of my time.

Eduard:

...

What will be asserted then in order to put into question the genuineness of your teaching and the text and to make the accusation that they are lies?

Jmmanuel:

169. Truly, there will be very many paths trodden to that end.

170. A new form of the lie will, however, be this: it will be asserted that the text is indeed very valuable and contains certain truths, yet it does not transmit my teaching, rather it is only the teaching of another who has also borne the name Jmmanuel.

171. It will even be doubted that I am Jmmanuel and I will be forced into another person's identity.

172. This will result in association with the name Jesus Christ, malevolently given to me.

173. It will be asserted that I, Jmmanuel, would not be falsely named Jesus Christ, so it is supposed to appear that I, Jmmanuel, and the person of Jesus Christ, who I am imputed to be, have been two different people.

174. These further lies about me will be invented about me very early in your time.

179. In your time you call the cult around me religion. Truly that is very well known to me.

180. But this religion is interspersed with very many false teachings of manifold forms, as well as with duplicity about the time of my birth.

181. In your time you celebrate the day of my birth on December 24th of any given year.

182. But this is only the day of the festival of a bloodthirsty idol from the lands of the Parsa peoples (note from Billy: later Persia, called Iran since 1934) and does not come near to equating to the day of my birth.

183. Your calculation of time truly does not correspond to reality, and therefore neither do your calculations about the time of my birth.

184. According to your time's calculation of time, the day of my birth is determined as the third day of the second month.

Eduard:

You mean the 3rd of February?

Jmmanuel:

185. This is what you designate this time.

Eduard:

You must indeed know it precisely - but why did this time difference come about?

Jmmanuel:

186. On one hand, it was handed down wrongly, and on the other hand, through erroneous calculations and continual innovations to the manner in which dates were calculated.

Eduard:

That is evident.

But you have a manner of speech which I constantly hear from you – also which was quite obviously correctly handed down to my time – namely the word "Truly" or "Truly, truly".

On what basis do you always weave in this word and what does it signify to you?

Jmmanuel:

187. It is a quirk of mine for the strengthening of my words.

188. Truly only a quirk, such as every human possesses.

189. One can express the sense of the word in different forms.

190. By weaving in this word, however, you can circumvent many other descriptive words which often require long interpretations.

191. Therefore I employ that word for the purpose, or for the strengthening, of, "it is just as I say", "it is the truth", "it is actually so", "it is accurate".

Eduard:

But now please just tell me how things stand with your teachings.

How should they be described and what is still correct within that which has been handed down?

It is indeed said in the New Testament that you are the son of God; and that God himself embodies Creation.

Also, in these testament texts, God is always even spoken of as the Heavenly Father and you are spoken of as the redeemer of mankind, and so forth.

Everything is quite confused and often even absolutely illogical and paradoxical.

Jmmanuel:

213. Truly, you say it.

214. I already told you that Judas Iscariot's text, which contained sections of my teaching, was stolen.

215. This text will be the basis of all falsifications.

216. Presently they are also continued, in a falsified manner, by the Pharisees and scribes and are not completed according to my teachings.

217. The reason that this is happening is truly, however, only in order to falsify them now - and even more at a later time - to the point of being unrecognisable, and also to use them against me in court.

218. As I therefore speak and teach of Creation the texts are being falsely modified in such a way that mendacious words are put into my mouth, and I am supposed to have spoken of a father in heaven, the gathering of a host of angels and many other false things.

219. But I have never done that because these forms do not correspond to the truth.

220. I have always faithfully spoken of the truth of Creation as being of Creation, and of God as being of God.

221. God was never put on a level with Creation by me, because God is a creature of Creation as are you and I and every other human.

222. In his form, he is a King of Wisdom and a ruler over human races, in the same way that a king or emperor also is a ruler over human races on Earth.

223. But Creation is the immeasurable secret and the Creation of every creation.

224. It is omnipotence, knowledge, wisdom, love, omniscience and BEING.

225. And my teachings speak of it alone, when I talk of it and its laws and recommendations and of the power of eternity.

227. Truly, this alone is the truth and nothing else.

228. But, in your time, when everything is handed down differently, then that corresponds to an evil deception and abominable falsification on the part of the twisters of the texts and false teachers.

229. Truly, the point of the falsifications lies just in the slander against me from the side of the scribes, Pharisees and priests in order to have me die on the cross.

230. But the further reason also lies in the fact that, through these false and twisted teachings, the humans of Earth are to be beaten into serfdom so that they are caused to succumb to poverty in regard to knowledge and reason, whereby they will be able to be shamefully enslaved through belief so they can be exploited in evil ways.

https://www.futureofmankind.co.uk/Billy_Meier/Contact_Report_001

Semjase:

41. Above all there is only one thing that possesses the power over life and death of every creature.

42. This is the Creation alone, who has laid out her laws over everything – laws that are irrefutable and that have eternal validity.

46. The human being may realise that a god can never assume the role of the Creation or determine the destiny of the human being.

47. A god is only a ruler and moreover a human being, who mightily exercises rule or tyranny over his fellow human beings.

48. God is not the Creation, but only a creature of her, like all creatures dependent on the Creation.

49. However, the human being chases after his/her religious irrational belief and claims that God is the Creation herself.

50. But he/she goes even further and claims that an ordinary Earth-human named Jmmanuel, who through deliberate error is also called Jesus Christ, would be the son of God and would be the Creation herself.

Billy:

... We have already spoken several times about the Talmud Jmmanuel. Jmmanuel himself has over the course of the last 2000 years fundamentally been used again and again as main religious figure. Is the intention of once again using this already long dead human being to make a new belief-direction and an idol out of him? Is the Talmud Jmmanuel supposed to serve this purpose?

Semjase:

204. No.

205. Jmmanuel himself was just a human being like any other human being, which you know better than I do.

206. He was just endowed with very great knowledge.

207. He represents neither a symbol nor an idol nor anything else.

208. He was certainly a teacher; a prophet of the spiritual and conscious-based knowledge and the essence of wisdom, but however nothing beyond that.

209. Any life-forms should also never be idolised or even worshiped, such as the human being is accustomed to do.

...

213. A mistake of insanity shall not be made another time, with Jmmanuel being regarded and idolized as the embodiment of the teaching that he brought.

214. The truth of the Talmud shall be taught and recognised as such, without a calling into play the name of Jmmanuel and his glorification.

215. Important are only the truth and the laws, but not the person who brought this teaching, laws, and the truth.

216. Hence, if a cult would be established around Jmmanuel another time, then the purpose would not be fulfilled.

217. The human being, Jmmanuel, should not continue to be glorified, as solely the truth and the laws are of absolute importance.

https://www.futureofmankind.co.uk/Billy_Meier/Contact_Report_010

Semjase:

287. ... the date of birth of Jmmanuel; the 3rd of February, calculated according to your Christian calendar.

https://www.futureofmankind.co.uk/Billy_Meier/Contact_Report_023

Billy:

It is repeatedly claimed that procreation can also be done in spiritual form. Furthermore, the Christian religion also claims that Mary was impregnated by the power of the Spirit or by the 'Holy Spirit'.

Semjase:

67. This is nonsense of malignant human imagination, created by morbidly thinking terrestrial men who press the truth of the spirit into impossible paths in their morbidly exuberant imagination.

...

80. Also Mary, the mother of Jmmanuel, was not impregnated by any spiritual powers or by the 'Holy Spirit'.

81. She interceded with the Son of Heaven Gabriel and was impregnated by him at the higher command of the leader of the sons of Heaven, who at that time ruled some earthly human races and bore the name JHWH, i.e. God.

Billy:

... It is said on the Earth, especially among the Christians, that Jmmanuel, whom they call Jesus Christ, is so to speak, the actual master of the world and the Universe. He is supposed to be God incarnate, where this God is regarded as the Creation. What do you say about this?

Ptaah:

229. We know about these human delusions on your world.

230. Alone the idea of a Christ being and a Christ consciousness corresponds to a very evil and degenerate delusion of the Earth-humans, and a very ill-natured presumption, because if these things would have happened or would still happen in the future, which is absolutely impossible, because it truly is only a fantasy of delusional Earth-humans, then with absolute probability the race which would be given the task of disseminating a religion would not be the Earth-humans.

231. As since many millenia on many worlds in the Universe, the Earth-human stands in the entire Universe as a purely materialistically developed life-form, which solely represents a life-form so deeply addicted to materialism, that every consciousness-based evolution over millennia has been detrimental to this degree.

232. On many of our own as well as on other foreign worlds, it is known that the Earth-human condemns any reasonable consciousness-based evolution and develops himself/herself only in malicious materialism and diverse religious delusions, and so it would be a paradox of the first order if, from all possible choices, a race so manifoldly incompetent in all consciousness-based areas would be chosen for a task of universal significance.

233. But that the Earth-human despite this fact presents this allegation, represents on the one hand an immense arrogance, and on the other hand, it bears witness to his/her autocratic megalomania, which in both these forms cannot easily, or not at all, find an equal anywhere else in this or in another Universe.

...

240. Especially those religions and sects, who in their heretical book name the prophet Jmmanuel as Jesus Christ and worship him, are the strongest opponents of the real truth.

241. These are the Christian religions and sects.

242. But also Islam and Hinduism, as well as Judaism must be named as dangerous religions, and the same with certain parts of Buddhism, in which serious heresies come to light.

...

Ptaah:

627. Jmmanuel was already aware of the coming of this time of terror, and so he refused to be called God, Jesus or Christ, which was nevertheless officially done in 189. ...

630. The designations God, Jesus and Christ alone contain dangerous values, for each of these designations embodies death, ruin and destruction.

631. In particular, however, all three contain the triple value 666, the number of the extinction of truth.

...

Semjase:

522. In former times visible proofs were necessary for the human beings of the Earth in order to impart certain forms of thought to them.

523. But by these visible proofs they began to believe in miracles, and at other times they went astray.

524. The present time of the Earth has progressed beyond visible evidence, and the path of clear and logical reason and equally clear and logical understanding alone must be followed.

525. Only these values count for the present time, and they are the better evidence than all those which are visible.

526. Today, the power of consciousness, knowledge and wisdom and love are of utmost importance to be able to walk the path of evolution.

527. In Jmmanuel's time, however, it was different, for at that time the knowledge of Earth-humans was in every respect still very much imprisoned in those things which can be recognised by the eye and heard by the ears.

528. At that time this ensured that the human being who saw and heard visible evidence became aware of his power of thought and thereby progressed evolutionarily.

529. Today, however, Earth-humans have emerged from this stage, have acquired greater reason and intellect and have become very conscious of their power of thought.

...

Ptaah:

870. At the time of Jmmanuel there was also the factor to be considered that at that time no Earth human being except Jmmanuel himself was very highly developed in spirit and consciousness, which is why he had to demonstrate various happenings demonstratively.

871. At that time, in Earth-humans, according to their lower state of consciousness, seeing led to clarification and the development of consciousness.

872. Therefore Jmmanuel did all those things which today are so readily called miracles in your Christian religions.

https://www.futureofmankind.co.uk/Billy_Meier/Contact_Report_038

Billy:

Well, you have now mentioned a word several times which is completely unknown to me. I mean this 'realvision'. What's the meaning of this?

Semjase:

141. I understand, of course you cannot know that, because it's our own word composition for a certain form of guided vision.

...

144. A real vision describes a certain form of a guided vision.

145. It is a form of vision that is dominated by many intelligences, including the Giza intelligences.

146. By these arbitrarily provokable and steerable visions, different extraterrestrials – and also we – influence life forms, in order to obtain certain impressions for them in this way, which are instructive to them and which they are to make accessible by spreading also to others, in order to also purposefully affect the surroundings.

147. These steerable visions are so massively realistic that the influenced life form becomes convinced that it has experienced the vision as reality.

148. That's exactly why we call it realvision, because it seems so real.

149. Every experience experienced through this real vision lasts as long as it would take in reality.

150. Such real visions do not only last seconds or minutes, but they last as long, in time, as the real experiences would take.

Billy:

That's fantastic. This means that a human being can have an experience that is in reality not an experience at all, but arises only from a fictitious vision, but that he/she is not able to distinguish this vision from reality and thus regards the illusory experience as the truth of an experience.

...

161. Applied in this form, it is not a deception, for the process serves to expand the truth in the life form in question.

162. If Earth-humans are influenced in this manner, then this happens only for the reason that they are not capable of experiencing the visionary experiences given to them in reality.

Billy:

I accept that. But now you said that these real visions last exactly as long as the real experience takes in time. So a lot of time could flow by and many hours could pass?

Semjase:

163. Sure, even days, weeks or months.

Billy:

Man, poor creatures will starve to death.

Semjase:

164. You forget that the vision seems very massively real.

Billy:

You mean that the affected then feel their natural needs, like hunger and thirst or tiredness, etc.?

Semjase:

165. Certainly.

Billy:

But what do people eat and drink and – if they have long real visions outside the house – where do they sleep?

Semjase:

166. It's very simple:

167. In the state of real vision, they are master of many consciousness-based powers, which also slumber in their subconscious.

168. They then apply these subconsciously in such a form that they condense matter through the thirst and hunger feeling and solidify exactly those edible and drinkable things that they experience in their real visions.

169. That's how they eat.

170. It is the same process as it was demonstrated two thousand years ago by Jmmanuel when he fed 250 people on Earth (tradition of 5000 is wrong, there were only 250) with bread, which he multiplied in this manner.

171. The difference lies only in the fact that people with real visionary influence apply their abilities subconsciously, while Jmmanuel was able to generate them consciously.

Billy:

Okay, then I have another question regarding Mount Shasta. I have already talked about this with Semjase, but something still seems unclear to me. Semjase told me that distant descendants of the Hyperboreans now live in Mount Shasta, on the Aleutian Islands, and in Alaska. Henoah, however, and also Jmmanuel, spoke of "the winds between the East and West" or between the "North and West." From this, I always thought that the "green land" of the Hyperboreans, so Hyperborea, must have been somewhere far up north, in Greenland or something. But now, this does not make sense any more with Mount Shasta. What should I now think of this?

Ptaah:

187. At the time of Henoah, the North Pole was situated differently than what is the case today.

188. Through cosmic influences and through an upset of the Earth, the North Pole at that time shifted far to the west.

189. The central point of the North Pole at that time is identical to present day Florida in America.

190. The Polar Regions at the time of Henoah were wondrous landscapes, filled with palms and other tropical vegetation. ...

196. Similar conditions can still be found today in the former Hyperborea, so in Florida.

Billy:

That is fantastic! But can you tell me exactly where at the North Pole this Hyperborea lay?

Ptaah:

197. It lay exactly where the land is still called "Greenland" today, whereby the actual North Pole of that time is not identical with today's North Pole.

Billy:

So Greenland; as far as I know, this means "grassland" in the German language.

Ptaah:

198. That is so.

199. Tir nan Og lay there.

Billy:

What is that?

Ptaah:

200. Green Land and Land of Youth.

201. But at that time, it was today's Florida.

Billy:

So then Heracles, Gilgamesh, Henoah, Jmmanuel, Amitabah, Methusalem and Noah and all others were up there and not in Florida?

Ptaah:

202. In Hyperborea, in Florida, when it was still at the spot where today, the land still means grassland.

203. But Jmmanuel was not there because he was already in Florida, where it is to be found today.

{Note: This Contact Report contains a drawing of Jmmanuel.}

Billy:

... all the pictures made so far are purely idiotic, because they do not have the slightest resemblance to his real physiognomy. The artists of the two millennia have created a fabulous fantasy picture of him that is devoid of any reality. They probably assumed that their drawings of his face would embody a certain 'spirituality', just as the misguided Earth-human beings imagine a 'spiritualised' man. And to nail the final blow, they then paint a halo around the pictures.

Semjase:

111. Don't the Earth-humans know that the halo is only a fantasy product of some fantasists?

Billy:

They believe so firmly in its authenticity, like that the dear God is eternity itself and Satan is indeed a devil who roasts humans.

Semjase:

112. That is bad and incomprehensible.

Semjase:

146. Jesus is the false name for Jmmanuel, who already in his lifetime refused this name, because he knew the future and knew what would be made of him.

147. Jesus is the value of Antilogos, which however the Christian church falsified into the Antichrist, which is why the true teachings of Jmmanuel were falsified beyond recognition.

Billy:

As you know, I possess from the tomb of Jmmanuel, alias Jesus Christ, a kind of flicker or mica. It looks like a transparent, multi-layered film. This material has now been analytically investigated by microscope at the Max Planck Institute (Institute for Scanning Electron Microscopy) in Munich. The result is just as literal as I wrote it down here: "Apart from sulphur and CO, O₂ and H₂O are also detectable. In my opinion it is a crystalline substance of calcium sulphate (i.e. gypsum). This does not exist here. The remaining sample is still examined organically, then you can get a better picture. The material is flammable. It burns odorlessly to a white powder." – What I am interested in now is this:

Do you know where this calcium sulphate comes from or whatever it may be and which does not occur in this form in our country? Do you have any idea?

Semjase:

104. You are talking about the glass-like natural material that was in Jmmanuel's burial cave?

Billy:

Exactly, that is what I am talking about.

Semjase:

105. It was a gift from Gabriel, Gabriel the guardian-protector, to his son Jmmanuel, whose foster-father was Joseph.

106. The gift was given to Jmmanuel at the age of seven, when his father Gabriel declared that it was a gift for the purpose of constant connection, this material served Jmmanuel as a capacitor.

107. His father Gabriel brought it here from Alkyon.

172. Respecting and following the advice of the 'High Council', he {Plejos} prepared for the long-yearned-for return to the home worlds, which took place 1,994 years ago, by your chronology, after Jmmanuel, at Plejos's direction, begat by the spiritual leader Gabriel, was educated as a prophet and had become right for his mission.

{Note: For this entry, see also Numerology.}

Billy:

... For example, it is well-known to me that the name falsely ascribed to Jmmanuel, JESUS CHRIST, must yield the addition-number 18 in both words, while according to Cheiro's calculations, however, the value 18 arises for JESUS and the number 24 represents CHRIST. I have also noticed such errors in other assessments. In the case of the effective number for the name JESUS CHRIST, Cheiro comes to the threefold value 888, although this would have to be the effective number 666, as this would also have to be the case for the designations Pope, Church, and God, etc. Also, Cheiro writes nothing of the fact that the calculation of this effective number must be calculated in consequence, that the addition-number must be divided by 3, and then the corresponding resultant number must be strung together, in order to yield the effective number. So for example, if 18 is taken and is divided by 3, then the result 6 arises. Now, 6 is located in the addition-result 3 times; consequently, these three sixes have to be strung together as a sequence number, so therefore as 666, which then embodies the effective number. But now, if the same values result in two successive names, words, or designations, then these become the absolute certainty that is fulfilled in effect, which is why this number is then also referred to as the certainty number or as the catastrophe number, if it is in the negative aspect, but which in this form, in the catastrophic, is only the case with the effective number 666, which expresses itself twice, however, because it appears in two different names at the same time and, thus, becomes the certain catastrophe number, the number of death, elimination, and destruction. ...

...

Quetzal:

107. I only spoke in this manner because you have just now spoken, perhaps unconsciously, like Jmmanuel at that time:

108. "Your words in the ear of those who need them."

Billy:

... Then another question: In the New Testament of the Christian religion, there is talk in the Sermon on the Mount that Jmmanuel should have fed 5,000 human beings, namely through the increase of fish and bread. To my knowledge, that is not true because in this connection, the storage-banks only speak of just 250 human beings who participated in the so-called Sermon on the Mount. Also, these were not just men, as it is said in the New Testament, like among other things in John chapter 6 and verse 1, rather, they were mostly women and children who followed Jmmanuel up the mountain, whereby the mountain was truly more of a hill. Thus, the five barley loaves and two fish, which Jmmanuel increased by his powers of consciousness, were not provided for 5,000 human beings but rather only for 250 human beings, respectively women and children, among whom there were only 40 men. Now, my question is this: when was the falsification made in relation to the alleged 5,000 persons?

Quetzal:

28. That happened through John, as well as through the other disciples.

Billy:

So it was still in Jmmanuel's lifetime.

Quetzal:

29. Yes, he lived at that time when the falsifications were made, already in India, where he also married and fathered several children with his wife.

30. The falsifications originated from exaggerations.

Billy:

Then one more question. Initially, it was only Judas Ischarioth who could read and write. But to my knowledge, he also instructed all the other disciples in this art, which was not very popular at that time.

Quetzal:

31. That is of correctness.

32. Besides Judas Ischarioth, all the other disciples were illiterates, who learned partially how to read in a short time by Judas, but not how to write.

Billy:

... Luke was the author of the Gospel which bears the same name, as well as of the Acts of the Apostles, which, to my knowledge, he wrote during the period from A.D. 97 to 106, namely only according to hearsay and in accordance with his own interpretations, which naturally led to falsifications, etc.

Quetzal:

6. Your words correspond to what our scientists and all historians also explain.

https://www.futureofmankind.co.uk/Billy_Meier/Contact_Report_212

Quetzal:

1. I concerned myself in detail around the clarification of your question regarding the authenticity of the Biblical books.

2. In this regard, I also asked our historians and worked through all the historical records that were placed at my disposal.

3. It became entirely perceptible that all the Biblical books were not written in a single instance by those persons to whom they are ascribed.

4. So it is also incorrect that the Gospel of Luke and the Acts of the Apostles come from Luke, and furthermore, the book of Job was not written by this man himself.

5. Both books of the Bible are based on what was written down at a later time, as well as various books of the New Testament.
6. Moreover, the letters that are listed in the New Testament also were not written by those to whom they are assigned.
7. In truth, these were illiterates, who let their scribes write the letters, to whom they had to pay remunerations.
8. Thus, one who was dictating a letter also could not control what the scribe wrote down, whereby it escaped the one dictating that very many things were falsified.
9. This also applies to the fantastic stories that surround Paul, who, in his consciousness confusion, saw himself as a martyr and, thus, also lived and worked accordingly, and following this, he then ultimately died by assassins, as this also happened with Moses, who made many enemies within his own ranks, who then robbed him of his life.

Billy:

So it actually is not like what I said on the 11th of June, when I thought that Luke was the writer of the Gospel of Luke and of the Acts of the Apostles. Yes, Sfath already said that Luke could neither write nor read, as this should have also been true of the others who are praised as Bible and New Testament writers. But what about the Gospel of Matthew, were you also able to clarify this?

Quetzal:

10. I was also able to do that, yes.
11. Matthew was just as ignorant of reading and writing as all the others, to whom the Gospels and the books of the Bible are attributed.
12. The Gospel of Matthew was dictated by Matthew to a scribe named Joshua, who interpreted the whole thing in his free discretion and wrote it down and, consequently, also falsified it.

Billy:

Does one know the reason, then, why all the books and letters are, nevertheless, attributed to the disciples and evangelists and prophets?

Quetzal:

13. It should be noted that out of Jmmanuel's disciples, only Judas Ischarioth was actually acquainted with reading and writing, for he was – which no one knew and, therefore, which also was not handed down – a scribe, who left his profession, however, and became a follower of Jmmanuel.
14. As a result of many years of investigations, which were also carried out by our scientists and historians through time travels, it is to be explained that already during the outset of the origin of Christianity, the disciples and evangelists were anxious to give the impression that they were experts of reading and writing and, thus, more highly educated than the common people.
15. This was because the simple persons among the people were of the erroneous view that those who were more highly educated than others would just know and understand more and, consequently, would also be enabled and authorised to teach the more unknowing and uneducated people.
16. An erroneous evil that has survived on the Earth to the current day among all nations of the Earth, which is also why the humans of today's time are still of this misconception.
17. Through this – like at that time – the humans are title-believing and office-believing, and they let themselves be suppressed, exploited, or just held down by those who have a rank and a reputation and who occupy an office.
18. So even today, it is likewise as in the time of Jmmanuel and of the old prophets.
19. And precisely of these, it remains to be said that not one of them has written down his offered teachings or his history.
20. Indeed, this was done by others, even the scribes, who were instructed to do so.

21. The first Torah originated from this, but it was later destroyed up to the last letter by a major fire, and consequently, there were no more written records, and everything was just handed down by word of mouth over generations.

22. Needless to say, the consequence of this was that enormously many falsifications arose, until one day, twelve self-proclaimed prophets, out of their own grace, gathered a large number of scribes around themselves and went out with these into an outlying area, where they lived for 40 days in austere form and, during this time, wrote down 240 books, from which then, over time, the new Torah emerged, from which then also the Bible of Christianity emerged, to which the New Testament was then simply added.

Billy:

But in addition, it must be said, so that no misunderstandings arise, that on the one hand, every one of the so-called prophets told his scribe those things and stories in the manner he had received them from the various sources. Also, it must be made clear that the so-called books cannot be compared to today's books, which often contain several hundred pages. Most of the books of the self-proclaimed prophets, their writing experts, and, thus, their scribes, only contained a few pages – apart from the books of Moses and some others. But of these books, the majority vanished again, consequently, today, to my knowledge, only 33 of these are available in the Bible. As I have learned: In the Old Testament Scriptures, one will first notice: Moses, Joshua and Judges, Ruth and two of Samuel, two of Kings, Chronicles, Ezra, Nehemiah, with Ester – these as history books. Then, as poetic books, there are: Job, Psalms, then the Proverbs, Ecclesiastes and Song of Solomon. – These are followed by the prophetic books: Isaiah, Jeremiah, Ezekiel, Daniel, then Hosea, Joel, Amos, Obadiah, Jonah, Micah, followed by Nahum, Habakkuk, Zephaniah, along with Haggai, Zechariah and finally Malachi.

Billy:

... And as I could learn from Jmmanuel, when I asked him about it, the story of the 'carpenter's son' is not correct, for his foster father, Joseph, had not been a simple carpenter but rather the owner of a small carpentry business, with various workers who fulfilled his orders for him. Joseph had already learned the craft as a carpenter from the ground up with his father, who had already originally placed a ship-carpentry business on the legs. Thus, Joseph and Mary, as well as Jmmanuel and his brothers and sisters, had not been simple folk from the common people, but according to Jmmanuel, they would have enjoyed a degree of prosperity, which also allowed for it that father Joseph and mother Mary, as well as all children, could learn to read and write. Thus, Joseph was an independent craftsman with his own business, so to speak, and just as independent were also Jmmanuel's brothers, who pursued their own crafts. And as Jmmanuel said, he, too, was very independent and autonomous, was an expert of reading and writing, and earned his living through the spreading of the spiritual teaching [aka Creation energy teaching], for which he received donations, which he did not administer to himself, however; rather, he let these be administered by one of his disciples.

Quetzal:

19. Those are issues that are familiar to me.

Billy:

Aha. Then you should also know that it was in no wise the Jewish people who bore the guilt for the fact that Jmmanuel was sentenced to death by the cross. In fact, it was such that the Roman garrison ruled in Jerusalem at that time, and its laws possessed validity. Only the Jewish scribes and the Jewish leaders were actually guilty of the fact that Jmmanuel was sentenced to death; although, a huge misunderstanding also contributed to this, when Jmmanuel was asked the question as to whether the accusation was correct. When he said, "you said it", he did not mean that the alleged accusation was true, but the meaning of his words was that he meant that the questioner said it. And it was precisely this misunderstanding that was the deciding factor for the guilty sentencing. The scribes and the rulers, however, who fought vehemently against Jmmanuel's teaching, were true Jews, and they were the actual ones who strove to eliminate Jmmanuel, and to be sure, finally and for all time, through an execution. At the same time, the Jewish people themselves had nothing to say here because they were forbidden to interfere in any imponderable court matters, etc. Nevertheless, as spectators, the people, as a rule, were allowed to do so, but as I said, they would not have had any authority for a verdict. But as always, it was also the case with those who were authorised that under them, there was a certain percentage of the mob that was strongly greased with pieces of silver from the Jewish scribes and elders, as well as from the synagogue big shots, etc., in order to cry out for the death penalty when those who were responsible for sentencing – and, thus, not the Jewish people – were asked for the verdict. Thus, it was the paid-up and fired-up mob that cried out for crucifixion; therefore, the Jewish people bore absolutely no guilt for this. In fact, it was also the case that the actual process was carried out by the Jewish elders, priests, scribes, and other public officials, with the chief priests possessing great power. They were, indeed, the main ones who wanted to dissuade Jmmanuel from his mission efforts, and as I said, by all of their available means. But all of these who were responsible cannot be regarded as Jewish people, who, in many respects, were actually and truly more on Jmmanuel's side than on the side of the chief priests, elders, scribes, and other public officials, for under these, very many of the Jews suffered. But the fact that the blame for Jmmanuel's crucifixion is placed upon them is based on deliberately false political, theological and, thus, religious accusations, which should serve the purpose, and which had the intention, of denigrating the Jews and lifting up Christianity high into the sky. And precisely from this arose the hatred of the Jews, to which millions of Jews and Jewish friends fell victim in the Second World War, through the inhumane and degrading madness of the Final Solution. What is still to be said concerning the trial before Pilate probably needs no great explanation, for the whole thing was just a formality, in order to satisfy the Roman justice and law. But what is to be said in relation to the first trial by the Jewish officials – who partly consisted of high priests, scribes, and elders, who influenced the rest – it was, indeed, the case that it was an effective process, even though this has long been challenged by various sides. Sfath taught me all this.

Quetzal:

20. You are very detailed, and everything is completely accurate.

Billy:

Now, in this whole connection, only Jmmanuel's journey to Kashmir in India is missing and his work there, as well as his death at the age of about 115 years and his burial. It is repeatedly asserted that this does not correspond to the truth and that Hazrat Mirza Ghulam Ahmad of Qadian, the founder of the Islamic sect Ahmadiyya, had told fibs with the story that he had discovered Jmmanuel's grave in Srinagar, India. As Sfath already explained to me, this corresponds, at least, to a form of reality because the founder of the sect was not actually the discoverer of the tomb, rather, a man named Kanishka Rashtrakuta found the tomb in the year A.D. 746. All this is vehemently denied, however, by all sorts of scientists and wannabe scientists, as well as by would-be know-it-alls.

Quetzal:

21. That will also continue to remain so, for know-it-alls and wrong scientists, etc. never die out.

22. Nevertheless, what Sfath explained to you undoubtedly corresponds to the truth because we have clarified these issues very precisely, and thus, there is no doubt that Jmmanuel had worked in India, was also married there, and fathered several children, of which a son went to Jerusalem during his older years and hid Judas Ischarioth's scrolls in Jmmanuel's tomb, where you then found them in 1964, when Isa Rashid led you there.

Billy:

... As you know, I have gathered and calculated a lot with regard to the Christian calendar. You have also told me that I had calculated very precisely and that only small errors were contained in my calculations. With respect to these calculations, I have endeavoured again and recently discovered that the actual birth of Jmmanuel must have taken place not four, six, or even seven years before the Christian calendar but rather five years. This means that Jmmanuel effectively must have seen the light of this world five years before the Christian calendar. Through a look into the past, I also discovered that at the time of his birth, not only was a beaming spaceship visible in the sky, but also actually a very large comet, which could be seen all over the world, namely for about several weeks.

Quetzal:

160. Your explanations are correct.

161. And since you alone have now found the true facts, nothing more stands in the way for me to tell you further details.

162. The exact year of Jmmanuel's birth was five years before the Christian calendar known today.

163. At that time, there actually was a very large and unusually strongly radiating comet that was observable from the Earth, which we call the 'Fruitful One', because from very early times, inseminations for the Earth and for the planet Phaeton, respectively Malona, have gone out from it, whereby life could develop on these two SOL satellites.

164. The 'Fruitful One', however, has an extremely long period of revolution on a path that leads far out into the Oort cloud.

165. Accordingly, it will take more than 11,000 years, according to Earth's measure of time, before a return of this comet occurs in the SOL system.

166. Its orbital period is 13,200 years.

167. Together with this event of the appearance of the 'Fruitful One', the birth of Jmmanuel also took place on the 3rd of February, five years before the Christian calendar, whereby the 3rd of February of today's calendar is converted for the time and the day of that time.

168. At that same time, when Jmmanuel was born, in order to monitor and supervise everything, a large Plejaren beamship was stationed high in the atmosphere over Bethlehem.

169. This radiated very brightly, for it was one of those aircraft that collect energy from the atmosphere, which light up, radiating very strongly, when they penetrate into the area of the processing system, through which anti-gravity is produced.

Billy:

... There is still much more to say, namely that by and large, the Earth-humans are not actually interested in the effective truth but only in unreal things and lies of religions, sects, swindlers, liars, and cheats, who lie their heads off, hypocritically preaching doctrines of salvation and plans of salvation and giving just as deceitful promises of salvation, which can never be fulfilled. And the Earth-humans fall for this because to them – in their falsehood and in their ignorance, in which they eke out their existence and search for a better life and for the real truth – there is a real need for salvation. And the rule is that through the deception of the religions and sects, the people rely on the false story of divine salvation and on the divine plan of salvation. Through this, with unintentional Gewalt, they push every responsibility far away from themselves, relying on the message of salvation and, therewith, on the redemption, which will never become a reality, by God or by his hosts of angels, by Jesus Christ, by saints or even by those who are deceased, who should bring help from the beyond, or by extraterrestrials, as this has been preached and has been maintained for quite some time by irresponsible and exploitative UFO-sect gurus, who will support themselves as such in the future, as Sfath explained, through which all of the chiefs of the sects become very rich, for they financially exploit their followers and believers, as well as those who are enslaved to them and other fools, and through this, they live in joy and glory. The Earth-humans do not run to the truth but to lies and deception, to religions and sects, and they believe everything that they are led to believe and everything that is given to them by the sect bosses and religious bigwigs. With this, I in nowise want to attack those religionists, i.e. those parishioners, priests, monks, devotees, and other religious representatives, who are devoted to their faith in honesty and who maintain love, peace, freedom, harmony, humanity, and true brotherly love, etc. in the best form. In fact, I know many such human beings, and their lifestyle leaves nothing to be desired in the aforementioned forms, therefore, I give them all necessary respect and due reverence, even though they are connected to a religious faith. But those whom I attack are all those who cannot be added to these worthy people because they are among the severe or most severe fallible ones who, in their Ausartung [to get very badly out of control of the good human nature], give no honour to the designation of human being, having parasite-like, mendacious, swindler-like, and deceitful thoughts, feelings, emotions, and manners of acting, and through these, they deeply and disgustingly alienate and dissociate themselves from the designation of honourable human being.

22. They were natives of Tiberias, a place located at the Sea of Galilee at that time.

23. Mary was the daughter of a merchant family from Tiberias, and Joseph was the son of a shipbuilder and carpenter's family, which was also located in Tiberias.

Billy:

... we already talked about the fact that the so-called books of the New Testament, which actually only represent articles or the like, were not written in a single instance by all those to whom they are attributed. Among all the disciples, only Judas Ischarioth was knowledgeable of reading and writing – in addition to Jmmanuel himself, who was not a disciple but was, rather, the teacher. All the letters, etc. of the disciples were, in fact, written by women and men, and indeed, on behalf of the disciples, for at that time, it was not the case that many were experts of writing and reading. There were only the scribes and a few others who learned to write and read because there were no special schools, as these are now available everywhere all over the world and children are obligated to attend them in most countries. But while the Bible and the attached New Testament give the impression that a large part of the people in Jmmanuel's time would have been able to read and write, this actually does not correspond to the truth, however, because the vast majority of the human beings at that time – including the disciples, with the exception of Judas Ischarioth and Jmmanuel – was ignorant of reading and writing. Only special prophets, rulers, and their subordinates in special offices were able to read and write. Thus, it was very rare that ordinary citizens could learn to read and write. And while we are at it: the Bible is an invented Jewish chronicle, which very well holds certain truths in itself but, on the whole, is fictitious and was written together by twelve of the book-knowledgeable men who called themselves prophets and who, in 40 days, wrote 240 books or stories that were based on ancient oral acceptances, assertions, and 'traditions' and deliberate distortions, from which arose, then, the second holy book – the Torah number 2, i.e. the Five Books of Moses or the Pentateuch of Judaism. The first Torah had been destroyed in a devastating fire, after which then, more than 400 years later, the second Torah was written by the twelve alleged prophets, as said. Thus, the Bible has nothing to do with true history books or with true textbooks and is in no way connected with a testament. In truth, it mostly concerns fantasised-together fables without any value, which were then stolen in their entirety by Christianity in the last consequence and reshaped for itself. Thus, Christianity itself has also created an alleged chronicle and a past, which are actually designed solely for Judaism and have nothing at all to do with Christianity. Jmmanuel also wanted nothing to do with this chronicle, for he did not teach their nonsense but rather the teaching of the spirit, as he had received it from the lineage of Henoch. And what is still to be said: it really was so, that in Jmmanuel's time, as I said, out of all the disciples, only Judas Ischarioth was knowledgeable of reading and writing, while the others were illiterates. This also applies to the seven disciples who belonged to the group, but of whom no records exist from Judas Ischarioth, as well as not of the various other women and men, who were on the move with Jmmanuel during the time of his spreading of the teaching. At the same time, I also wonder whether it will one day become known that Jmmanuel's disciples only went with him occasionally because they repeatedly had to perform their work and business, etc. at home, about which Judas Ischarioth also wrote nothing, and thus, the impression is given that the disciples had always been with and around Jmmanuel. Furthermore, everything written by Judas is only a brief outline of the entire life, teaching, and work of Jmmanuel, for in fact, this one was not just on the move and spreading the teaching for only three years or so, as is maintained by Christianity; rather, he was already active in this form starting from his sixth year of age, and thus, for a total of almost 29 years when he was beaten to the cross at the age of a little more than 34 years. ...

... Didn't Florena ask you to give me an enlightening answer regarding an old bones urn that was reported in all public media in October 2002, which is supposed to be an urn containing the bones of James, the son of Joseph, brother of Jesus? This is actually nonsense, for Jmmanuel had his brother James brought to Srinagar, where he died and was buried at the age of 93, while Jmmanuel did not die on Golgotha, but also in Srinagar/Kashmir, and that at the age of 115.

Enjana:

41. Florena actually commissioned me with your question, which I passed on to Quetzal, since he is the authoritative luminary on the life and history of Jmmanuel and his siblings.

42. According to his instructions, I am to tell you that an urn with James' bones never existed and therefore could not be found in Jerusalem or anywhere else in Israel or Palestine etc.

43. The bones urn that you mention, as our research has clarified, is a forgery, in the sense that it is declared as James' urn, which has nothing to do with the bones of James, Jmmanuel's brother, for he actually died in Srinagar, as did Jmmanuel, who was buried in Srinagar in 115, according to his correct birth time.

44. According to the so-called Christian calendar, this applies to the year 111.

Billy:

Jmmanuel was never called Jesus, as his disciples accused him after his departure. And besides, in his time the names James, Joseph and Jesus were very common, so that 'James, son of Joseph, brother of Jesus', which should be written on the urn, will apply to another James, Joseph and Jesus. Just like today, there were several ways that the three names could appear in a family at the same time.

Enjana:

45. Your question to Florena in this regard, which I also put to Quetzal, corresponds to the real thing.

46. In Jmmanuel's time, Quetzal explained, the names, as they are called, must have appeared 34 times as son, father and brother.

Billy:

There have been some television shows about Christian relics for which I would like to know what is true about them. The first question relates to the legendary Grail, a vessel Joseph of Arimathea is said to have used to catch Jmmanuel's blood at the crucifixion. This goblet is supposed to work wonders and make one immortal as well as heal all sicknesses and evils, etc.

Quetzal:

10. This is absolute nonsense, for neither does such a Grail exist, nor has Joseph of Arimathea caught the blood of Jmmanuel in a vessel.

11. That however no other human being has done either.

Ptaah:

5. This senseless claim was invented fictitiously centuries after the event of the crucifixion, namely by members of a sect that emerged from Jmmanuel's already early falsified teaching.

6. And the fact that no blood of Jmmanuel was caught in a vessel, rather that the little blood that Jmmanuel lost dripped to the ground and seeped away, is perfectly certain, because this was recorded in our annals by the personality of that time Gabriel, the procreating father of Jmmanuel.

7. He was direct eyewitness of the real event.

Billy:

Interesting. I did not know that. Then the second question: Do you know the story regarding a 'Holy Lance' that was said to have been used to stab Jmmanuel in the loin on the cross?

Ptaah:

8. Also this nonsense is known to us.

It is claimed that whoever possesses this lance i.e. the tip of the lance should be imparted invincibility. The lance is supposed to have supernatural powers. According to the claim, a Roman soldier is said to have stabbed Jmmanuel with this tip of the lance, which is why his blood is supposed to stick to it. This tip of the lance is also said to confer great power on the owner, which is why Hitler was also eager to get hold of the lance, as was the case with other rulers, despots and dictators, among them also kings and emperors.

Quetzal:

12. This tip of the lance is a forgery from the 8th century after Jmmanuel.

13. However, in truth there are still further such forgeries, which were made in the course of the time.

14. In 1354 Pope Innocent VI, who was in place from 1352 to 1362, declared the 8th-century tip of the lance to be the 'Holy Lance', with the claim that it was indeed the lance with which Jmmanuel was stabbed in the loin.

15. Truthly the forgery is a piece made from a lance used in combat actions, which however was not yet hand-forged at the time of Jmmanuel, consequently he could also have never been touched by it.

Billy:

That too was said in the television programme. Okay, then still the question about the shroud, the so-called Shroud of Turin, which is claimed to be a shroud that carries the image of Jmmanuel alias Jesus. However, about this you once told me that it would be an image of an Italian merchant.

Ptaah:

9. That is correct, because the shroud does not show the image of Jmmanuel, but that of a merchant from Turin/Italy, called Caesar Canova.

10. The shroud was made by the brother of the deceased, Luciano Canova, an alchemist.

11. The process took place on 7 June 1324 and lasted until 10 June, i.e. 4 days.

12. During this, the procedure was not such that the shroud was placed on the deceased and the latter was rubbed with chemicals, as is often claimed, but it was a very early form of photography, whereby the corpse was placed vertically in front of a large glass lens, through which the image was then projected for four days through an effect of sunlight onto a large fabric surface soaked in chemicals in a dark room, after which the shroud was then treated with silver nitrate and the image became in that way visible and retained.

... In the Christian world Jmmanuel and the so-called saints are always depicted with a halo hanging over their heads. Do you know where this naughtiness comes from, because neither Jmmanuel nor any other prophet had such a gloriole over his head. Even an aureole, with which the whole figure is surrounded in a circle, as well as the almond-shaped mandorla, I cannot associate with Jmmanuel, Mary and various 'saints'. I only know the whole thing from India and the Far East, where the gods and 'saints' have been represented with such garlands of rays since ancient times.

Ptaah:

27. From there, Christianity has also taken over the essence of the glorious beings in order to give their religious figures a supernatural appearance and to make the believers self-conscious.

28. The garland of lights around a religious figure is to testify to its 'holiness' and 'spiritual greatness' as well as its 'heavenly origin' and its 'sublimity above all earthly things'.

Billy:

... Fundamental to the anti-Semitism that emanates from the Christian world and relates to the Jews, many Christians hold them responsible for the crucifixion of Jmmanuel (alias Jesus Christ). For this reason alone, they have been stirring up hatred against Judaism since time immemorial, but this is absolutely nonsensical. In truth, Jmmanuel was not crucified by the Jews, but through the fault of the chief priests and the Romans, who stirred up the people, after which the crucifixion was carried out by the Roman henchmen. Thus, the actual Jewish people did not contribute anything to the crucifixion, for the pro- and hurricane cries of the people, which were under the suggestive influence of the high priests, were only their few, who, moreover, in no way embodied the people. So, in principle, the whole Jewish people cannot be discriminated against and pronounced guilty of the crucifixion of Jmmanuel, as has been done since time immemorial, the Catholic Church bearing the main blame for this lie, for it was the Catholic Church that brought this slander of the alleged guilt of the Jews into the world. The truth is also that the Romans saw Jmmanuel's teaching as revolutionary and for this reason alone they intended to condemn him and hand him over to crucifixion, which they did with the help of the Jewish high priests.

Well, the history of the origin of the people of Israel leads far back to the Hebraons and the ancient Hebrews who came out of them, who were not exactly saints as a whole, and who conquered Palestine out of it with evil acts of war and murder. But this is already thousands of years ago and has nothing to do with the crucifixion of Jmmanuel, which was unjust in one way or another, and which, as I said, was not to be attributed to the Jewish people, but to their high priests and the Romans. Like all true prophets, who brought the teaching of the spirit, or the teaching of truth, or the teaching of life to the respective people, Jmmanuel was also a revolutionary, who of course was not appreciated either by the Romans or by the chief priests. Jmmanuel's teaching was the teaching of peace, freedom, love and harmony, as well as the carrying of one's own responsibility, leaving out religion. This, of course, did not suit either the chief priests or the Romans in their dirty business, so that the revoluter and 'blasphemer' they hated had to disappear from the scene, which was to happen by crucifixion – at least that was what they hoped, but they did not expect that Jmmanuel was only in deep faint when he was taken down from the cross, so that he could flee to Syria and later to India. Many Jewish believers who had taken pleasure in his teaching helped him in this, and there were many of them.

Billy:

... The Christian religion in particular plays the most decisive role, in which the hatred of Jews was fundamentally born, and that from the crucifixion of Christ, which was taken as a reason for hatred against the Jews and for their persecution at an early stage. But the fact that the henchmen who arrested Jmmanuel (alias Jesus Christ) in his time were just as much Romans and so-called idolaters (see Roman mythology) as the author of the death sentence, Pontius Pilate, is deliberately overlooked as is the fact that the executioners were also of Roman blood. At that time the Jews were under Roman thumb and had to do and let do what they were told. This also applied to the Jewish scribes and to the Pharisees etc., for they all had to dance to the Roman violin, which was played by the occupiers and rulers of the country and the people. Although at that time the scribes and priests of the Jewish faith deliberately had their fingers in the crucifixion of Jmmanuel, because he raged against their erroneous teachings, that is, the Romans came to them just in time to accuse Jmmanuel of revolt, but basically the Romans were the real culprits, because through them Jmmanuel was crucified, after the scribes and priests had incited the rabble to demand the death sentence by incitement. Consequently, it should be clear that it was not the Jews who were really responsible for the crucifixion of Jmmanuel alias 'Christ', but the Romans. ...

17. ... I would like to tell you what I have found out about the family tree of the 'Meier von Bülach' and also about you.

18. As we have both already suspected, the line goes back to Jmmanuel and finally to the son of heaven Semjasa.

19. For my research I have to admit, however, that these are only to be understood in very rough outlines and in the main and decisive points concerning the family tree, because to research and list the complete family tree would be much too costly.

20. But what has emerged from my further research into the family tree is that before the 'Mejr' of Amalfi, by whom the Hospitaller Brotherhood was founded in Jerusalem in 1048, the family tree line goes back to a man named 'Dison', who was active in Israel as a 'Maggid' respectively as a wandering herald about 180 years after Jmmanuel.

21. His male descendant Jeschua moved to Syria, after whose death his two male descendants moved to Medina and founded a family there.

22. In one family four daughters were born, in the other two sons and one daughter.

23. One of the sons died very young, however, while the other emigrated to Mecca in Saudi Arabia, married there and, due to the harassment of the population, took the name of his Arab wife.

24. This marriage produced three daughters, but also a son who emigrated back to Israel.

25. There he gave up the name he had taken in Mecca and called himself Mejr, from whose line the merchant Mejr from Amalfi finally emerged.

26. Dison was a descendant of Jmmanuel's son Joseph, who was born in India, but after his father's death went to Jerusalem and founded a family there, from which two daughters and Dison as the only son emerged.

27. His pedigree, in turn, logically led back to Jmmanuel and to Joseph, Jmmanuel's foster father and his ancestral family tree, whereby, as is well known, Jmmanuel's procreation father was the son of heaven, Gabriel, whose genetic structure was naturally transferred to Jmmanuel and passed on.

28. Jmmanuel's spirit-form, which originated from the Nokodemion line, naturally revived all the old prophets of the same line in their time, but also Semjasa, the father of Adam, who was a cousin of the ringleader Semjasa, the leader of the sons of heaven.

As a result, the bonds and connections that had been formed over a long period of time were also lost, but only on the basis of the new sectarian Christian faith, which was first combined with the cult of Natalis Solis, the god of the sun, whose feast day was celebrated on the 25th of December and which Christians secretly adopted as the feast of Christ, respectively as the feast of the birth of Christ.

38. From the year 339 onwards, Christians officially began to celebrate the alleged birth of Christ more and more officially at the same time as the Natalis Solis festival – because this cult continued to exist for a long time – although this festival of Christ had been secretly practised for around 30 years.

Constantine also belonged to these Christ-festivities, for he had already fallen prey to the Christian faith in 309, although he was at the same time a follower of the Natalis Solis cult and believed that he would be able to consolidate his power more easily if he was dependent on the gods of both cults.

So he had no choice but to use the term 'spirit' to explain the values of the 'teaching of the prophets' or the 'teaching of the truth, teaching of the spirit, teaching of the life' and the meaning and value of the prayers. And since the term 'spirit' was understood by people at that time as that and is still understood today, what happens and is done through consciousness, that thoughts are cultivated, actions and ideas are conceived and carried out, inventions are made, poems are rhymed and written works are conceived and created, etc., so it resulted with the word 'spirit' that it was understood what just had to be understood. ...

... The effective beginnings of racism were already set in Galilee and Judea, by the very first Christians respectively the followers and disciples of 'Jmmanuel of Nazareth', who is falsely insulted by the Christian world as 'Jesus Christ' and thus with a name, which he neither received at his birth nor later carried, because he was simply ascribed to him by his followers and disciples for 'having to be Messiah'. ...

... The hatred against the Jews began very early with the beginnings of Christianity, namely through the followers and disciples of the alleged 'Jesus Christ', who was never so thought of and called by his parents Mary and Joseph, but with the name Jmmanuel, as the prophet Isaiah predicted in chapter 7, 10-17 in a prophecy. But in the Bible, in the so-called 'Old Testament' – which in truth does not correspond to a testament but to a chronicle that was drawn up and falsified centuries later – it is claimed to be a lie that Jmmanuel was not called Jmmanuel by his parents, but Jesus. So already in the early days through the 'Jesus' followers and 'Jesus' disciples and their lies the falsification of the name from Jmmanuel to 'Jesus' arose. ...

... And because Jmmanuel, through his 'teaching of the prophets' or 'teaching of the spirit' or 'teaching of the truth, teaching of the spirit, teaching of the life', revealed true beings to the offending elders, chief priests, Pharisees and scribes, they put their henchmen on him and persecuted him. In principle, however, the Jewish people were not indifferent to the fact that those through whom they were to be taught the right laws and commandments lived contrary to their teachings and rejected the way of life of the people as wrong. And this happened because Jmmanuel described the way of life of the elders, Pharisees and scribes as degenerate, excessive and misleading, who also called the 'teaching of the prophets' a lie, which was declared by Jmmanuel to be the truth of creation. The latter found many followers among the Jewish people, contrary to the false lives of the elders, chief priests, Pharisees and scribes, who called together a number of like-minded people and testified by lies and slander against Jmmanuel, when he was arrested by the evil-doers, brought to trial and sentenced to death on the cross. So according to Plejaren records it was not the Jewish people, but only the actual ringleaders or elders, high priests, Pharisees and scribes and the 42 like-minded who were responsible for the imprisonment, the false testimony, condemnation and the crucifixion of Jmmanuel. The rest of the Jewish people had nothing at all to do with it, but what the 'Jesus Christ' inventors or 'Jesus' followers and 'Jesus' disciples, full of hatred, deliberately and completely misrepresented, and it was subsequently slanderously passed down by the so-called Christian 'New Testament'. ...

... To this hatred against the Jews also contributed the allegedly 'unadulterated' 1st Letter of Paul to the Thessalonians, which is reproduced by Martin Luther under Thessalonians 2, 14-16 (Luther Bible 1912). It is said to be one of the earliest preserved written documents of Christianity, although it is not mentioned that this letter was not written by Paul alias Saul, but by a scribe of the time. This precisely because Paul himself was just as ignorant of reading and writing as all the others who went with Jmmanuel – except for the disciple Judas Ischkerioth, who made written records and to whom the 'Talmud Jmmanuel' leads back (available at FIGU, Hinterschmidrüti 1225, 8495 Schmidrüti). Well, the first. Letter of Paul – which was written by a scribe according to Paul's instructions and interpreted by the letter writer at his own discretion ...

... the effective truth according to the Plejaren states that the Jewish people themselves had nothing whatsoever to do with the persecution, condemnation and crucifixion of Jmmanuel (wrongly Jesus Christ), but only the elders, chief priests, Pharisees and scribes of that time, as well as the 42 who were in bondage to them. ...

... The hilltop of Masada is formed by a plateau, and the plateau was originally accessible only by 3 narrow mule tracks, as it was protected on all sides by rocky escarpments. Essentially, the fortress was built on the site of a smaller fortress several decades older in 3 phases, within 10 years between 42 B.C. and 32 B.C. The whole thing was commissioned by King Herod I the Great, who was a Roman client-king in Judea, Galilee, Samaria and the neighbouring areas. This Herod is best known for the infanticide in Bethlehem attributed to him in the Bible according to Matthew. He was born in Edom in 73 BC, after which he died in Jericho in 4 BC and was buried in Judea. His wife was Mariamne, to whom he was married from 37 BC to 29 BC. His children Herod Antipas, Herod Archelaos, Herod Philippos, Herod Boethos were also his successors. Herod I the Great was one of the most brutal and cruel regents of antiquity and at the same time one of the greatest builders of his time in the area of tension between Palestine and Rome. When he died, his funeral bier was made of pure gold, decorated with precious gems and covered with fabrics embroidered in different colours, on which the corpse lay wrapped in a purple robe. On his head he wore a diadem and a golden crown, while his sceptre was placed beside his right hand. The whole thing was a funeral of immense and rare pomp and pageantry. However, it was not until nearly 4 decades later that this event was reported by a born Jewish historian named Joseph Ben Jathitjahu. This man came from a Jewish priestly family, but after the destruction of Jerusalem by the Romans in 70 AD, he had assumed a Roman identity and henceforth called himself Flavius Josephus. He had made it his task to present Jewish life to the Romans as authentically as possible, although he had not been an eyewitness to the burial of Herod I the Great. His records led back to the fact that, as was usual with him, he had meticulously researched everything and described the funeral procession, the line-up of the procession, the length of the route and the place of burial down to the last detail. There was only one thing that the historian, known for the reliability of his reports, had described very vaguely, namely the grave itself. Consequently, for about 2 millennia, no one knew where the tomb of Herod I the Great was located, until on the 8th of May 2007, the Israeli archaeologist Ehud Netzer finally announced that he had discovered the tomb. For 35 years he had been digging around at the mountain fortress of Herodium, but then the renowned archaeologist of the Hebrew University in Jerusalem found the tomb, namely in the eastern flank of the approximately 60-metre-high Herodium Hill, where Herod I the Great, the violent, brutal, cruel and dazzling ruler and biblical fiend had found his final resting place.

... But now I would like to talk a little bit in detail and openly about how basically the so-called 'holy' books came into being with regard to Christianity and Islam, because the truth is that neither Jmmanuel alias Jesus, nor Muhammad themselves made any written records of the 'teachings of the prophets'. Only Jmmanuel's disciple Judas Ischkerioth – not Judas Iskarioth or Ischarioth or Isharioth – knew the Scriptures, while all the other disciples, contrary to all the conventional lies and claims, were just as ignorant of the Scriptures as the followers around Mohammed. The records of Judas Ishkerioth, from which the book 'Talmud Jmmanuel' was made, were finally translated into German by those who knew the Scriptures, after Isa Rashid had falsified everything according to his priesthood. The Christian 'New Testament', however, has no connection whatsoever with the actual records of Judas Ischkerioth, for this corresponds to a work of lies whose origin lay long years after the time of Jmmanuel and Judas Ischkerioth in 'letters' of the disciples, etc., which began to circulate and from which the so-called 'New Testament' was also finally made. These 'disciples' letters', however, were not written by the disciples themselves, who knew how to write and write, but were written works of scribes, to whom various disciples etc. dictated their statements according to the time of Jmmanuel, which, however, were interpreted by the scribblers according to their own discretion and sense and were formulated and written accordingly. In the process, fanciful or misinterpreting things and events were added that lacked any truth content. This also happened with the Hebrews and their descendants when the first Torah and then the second Torah were written, from which the Christian Bible ultimately emerged. These 'holy' works were also not written according to the real truth, but according to ancient stories, fables and legends, etc., which – as with all peoples of the Earth – were based on assumptions, beliefs, hallucinations, fantasies, delusions, fairy tales, hopes, dreams and wishes, etc., which were nurtured by human beings over decades and centuries or even millennia. ...

... So it is also not accepted that the 'teaching of the prophets' or the 'teaching of truth, teaching of the spirit, teaching of life' – as it was already brought by Jmmanuel and all 4 other prophets or heralds Enoch, Elijah, Isaiah and Jeremiah – which is now also taught today for the last time and spread by the FIGU, is a teaching of the creative-natural laws. A teaching that teaches the human being to live with all fellow human beings and all peoples in peace, freedom and justice, in humanity and love. And this ancient teaching, whose origins can be traced back to Nokodemion, the universal herald who existed 9 billion years ago, also teaches that self-knowledge, consciousness-self-development, good self-esteem, empathy and healthy self-respect, etc. are of the greatest importance for the individual human being, as well as connectedness with the existence of the entire environment. ...

... Muhammad and Jmmanuel, however, were in reality humble human beings of love, peace, freedom, justice, equality and humanity, as were also the other, earlier and predetermined prophets Enoch, Elijah, Isaiah, Jeremiah from the same prophetic line before them. And, as I said, the old 4 prophets were predestined from time immemorial, as were Jmmanuel and Mohammed, because they were prophets born of earth mothers from the nations and therefore not 'sons of God', not 'chosen' by a God and not 'servants of God' or such nonsense as was attributed to them in the course of time by crazy and delusional people. Enoch, Elia, Isaiah, Jeremiah, Jmmanuel and Mohammed were pre-determined prophets or heralds of the 'Doctrine of the Prophets' or the 'Doctrine of Truth, Doctrine of the Spirit, Doctrine of Life', which was created ages ago by the ever first prophet or herald Nokodemion according to the creative-natural laws and carried on in his spiritual lineage reincarnating over all times. But in addition to the prophets or heralds of the Nokodemion lineage, wise human beings – female and male – also always arise in all peoples, who acquire much creative-natural knowledge by their own efforts and instruct the peoples, guide them and teach them the true ways of creative-natural conduct of life.

25. ... the 'teaching of truth, teaching of the spirit, teaching of life', which was brought by the ancient prophets and which you also teach, was completely falsified by Earth-humans and became confused religions, from which also many sects emerged.

26. And that this true teaching was not written down by the old prophets themselves was because they had no means to do so, which was also the case with the last two prophets.

27. Also these two taught only orally, and their disciples were ignorant of reading and writing, with one exception, for with the messenger Jmmanuel there was a scribe named Judas Ischkerioth, who however recorded more incidents than values of the teaching.

28. Since the prophets could not record or write down the teachings themselves, it was not until many decades after their deaths that the possibility arose for scribes to create written records through extremely poor memories and false interpretations as well as badly falsified oral traditions and stories.

29. In the process, these also fell prey to new falsifications through their own interpretations, which were introduced by the scribes into their writings.

30. Thus it could happen that the old prophets, against their will, were unintentionally elevated to the status of founders of religions after their death, although this was in fact absolutely not in their sense.

... And that the nonsensical nonsense of the immaculate conception by the 'Holy Spirit of God' should have led to the birth of a Son of God, should then be believed unthinkingly by the Christian believers and become a rock-solid delusion of faith, that is unavoidable. This already ancient, senseless, lying Christian fairy tale story – as it was also told to the faithful in a similar way in various other old religious lies and from which Christianity has taken over the whole fairy tale jumble – was not spread by the prophet or herald Jmmanuel (alias Jesus Christ, who never bore this name), but was invented by some of his disciples only after his flight from the cross, when he was already on his way to India. He was also accompanied there by his twin brother James, his companion and disciple Mary Magdalene, who was devoted to him in deep platonic friendship. Mary Magdalene was never really his lover, but his stepsister, who held him in deep brotherly love, and was fathered by Joseph with his first wife, who came from Magdala on the Sea of Galilee and died giving birth to their daughter Miriam (Mary) Magdalene. Miriam (the mother of Jmmanuel) was also on her way to India with him, but she did not survive the hardships of the journey and died in the north of Pakistan and was also buried there.

108. At that time, Emperor Nero persecuted the Christians in Rome and had them brutally executed. The Apostle Peter is also said to have been crucified upside down, as forged apostolic writings are supposed to prove.

109. This lie, however, served to sanctify Peter and to stamp the supposedly inverted 'Christ' cross as a symbol of blasphemy and persecution of Christians for the ruler of the time.

110. In Christian circles, the allegedly inverted or upside-down 'cross' was then called the 'Nero Cross'.

111. In truth, the 'cross' was also not one in the sense of a Christ cross, but a natural thick tree branch with a ypsilon-shaped branch fork, as many Roman crucifixion 'crosses' were.

112. Peter was also crucified on such a tree branch ypsilon, erected vertically, like every tree branch ypsilon or hand carved cross on which Earth-humans were crucified.

113. And the sign for Paul's crucifixion was shaped like the Germanic death rune, consequently it looked no different from today's insane and false death rune peace symbol.

And if the Bible is considered further, then also the herald Jmmanuel – who is slanderously called Jesus, Christ and Son of God by the delusionists – taught other than a crazy prohibition of eating meat. He was neither the Son of God nor a vegetarian or vegan. This, however, in addition to monstrous lies, is also rightly stated in the Bible that he ate fish according to Luke 24:42–43 and also lamb according to Luke 22:8–15. Jmmanuel also distributed fish and bread at the feeding of the alleged '5,000' – where in reality and truth a group of only a few dozen human beings was present and thus not 5,000 earthlings. In fact, only about 250 persons were present at this Sermon on the Mount and the multiplication of fish and bread, and only a few men were present, contrary to the claim of lies in John chapter 6, verse 10 in the New Testament. Mainly there were only women and children who listened to Jmmanuel's explanations and also followed him up the 'mountain', which in reality was only a small hill. So the 5 barley loaves and the 2 fishes, which Jmmanuel had multiplied by his powers of consciousness, were needed for only about 250 human beings resp. women and children as well as for 40 men, but not for their 5,000. Effectively it would have been extremely strange if Jmmanuel had been a vegetarian or vegan. Also in a vision of the apostle Peter, it is explained in the New Testament that Jmmanuel had declared all food to be pure, including the flesh of animals, as can be looked up in Acts 10:10–15. ...

51. According to the information given by Asket, who recorded your conversation with Jmmanuel, he replied to you, after you had explained celibacy to him, that such a request was not only contrary to nature, absolutely nonsensical, despicable, but also such that sexual excesses and misdeeds would inevitably arise from it.

57. Jmmanuel born 3rd February -2 {B.C.} – 111, 9th May

231. After Jmmanuel's flight from Jerusalem, his entire life history from birth up to his death was spread and later also written down with monstrous falsifications, lies, assertions and calumnies, thus the same happened with Mohammed, whose real name indeed was Abdul Kasim Muhammad Ibn Abdallah.

232. In Jmmanuel's case, only Judas Ischkerioth was well versed in writing, however neither any female nor male member of his discipleship, which included more persons than just the twelve listed in the New Testament, which is full of inventions, falsifications, wrong commemorative-claims, interpretations, and lies.

233. In addition, the individual chapters, assertions/claims and 'recollections', etc. of this work of lies were not written until many years after his flight, by scribes, and moreover were written in a further falsifying wise through their own additional interpretations and partly also attributed to former disciples, who, however, never took part in such writings and thus did not provide any information whatsoever, out of which the work of lies called New Testament then arose.

253. Ancient Palestine was occupied by the Romans at the time of Jmmanuel and had experienced some increase in prosperity under them, even though the native population was directed by a harsh Jewish and religious-oriented rule, which is why it was opportune for the emerging Christians to devise a story of lies of a resurrection of the crucified Jmmanuel and to call him Jesus.

254. This, while southern Arabia was a very backward area at the time of Mohammed, far away from all the cultural and economic centres of the world at that time, where the human beings who were poor, suffered great hardship and were only too happy to believe in and fall prey to a new religion of salvation.

255. If the old scrolls/writings are examined, which are supposed to come from disciples, direct followers and the like as well as from direct or indirect descendants, relatives or from family members of the two proclaimers, then all such alleged written proofs correspond altogether to only sneaky and disingenuous falsifications, wrong memories (only partly true) and wrong renditions as well as very fallible interpretations by the scribes.

256. Truthly, there is not a single such ancient document which would be directly or semi-directly related to a person who had been in direct or indirect contact with Jmmanuel or Mohammed.

257. Claims to the contrary and so-called 'written documentary evidence/proofs' correspond to nothing other than falsifications and lies, because in the case of both Jmmanuel as well as Mohammed, the first written records were made only years later, after their departure, i.e. after their death.

258. And this happened according to very inadequate or erroneous memories, but also through conscious false claims and lies, etc., as a result of which glorifications and fairy tales regarding Jmmanuel and Mohammed also came about.

259. In addition, various direct and indirect followers were fraudulently/lyingly attributed to the two proclaimers, who in truth, however, had nothing to do with them.

260. Even disciples, followers and relatives as well as friends, etc., versed in writing, were attributed to the two proclaimers Jmmanuel and Mohammed at all times, but out of all those mentioned, not a single one was knowledgeable of the script and writing.

261. Judas Ischkerioth was the only one amongst all, who correctly and truthly mastered the script and who was well versed in writing and a disciple close to Jmmanuel.

262. Later he was slandered by falsifiers of writings and by hangers-on, just as the name of Jesus was then also imputed to Jmmanuel.

263. So it must repeatedly be made clear, that everything was the same with Mohammed and Jmmanuel, although concerning Jmmanuel, it was Judas Ischkerioth who was well versed in script/writing and written language and who made the chronicles, from which the Talmud then arose through your and the group members efforts, which in the end had to be correctly translated and revised by our script and language experts/specialists, because the priest Isa Rashid had translated it wrongly according to his Christian deluded belief. 264. This, while all other records concerning the teaching of Jmmanuel and Mohammed were in no way made by any of their disciples or direct or indirect descendants, etc., but by strangers, namely even only a long time after their death.

264. This, while all other records concerning the teaching of Jmmanuel and Mohammed were in no way made by any of their disciples or direct or indirect descendants, etc., but by strangers, namely even only a long time after their death.

265. Truthly, however, in relation to the two of them and their teaching, which on both sides was the 'teaching of the truth, teaching of the spirit, teaching of the life', everything was abysmally misunderstood and boundlessly falsified beyond recognition.

266. This also applies to various other ancient and newly discovered old writings, which likewise do not lead back to any disciples during the lifetime of Jmmanuel or to direct followers or relatives and so forth of Mohammed.

... The original reason was that a hatred arose that became more and more widespread, which was based on the fact that Jmmanuel – Jesus, as he is wrongly called, although he never bore this name – was crucified, or rather that the Jews caused the crucifixion of Christ. This led to the Jews being called 'God-killers', persecuted and murdered, which led to the mass murder of them in the 3rd World War and cost the lives of millions of believers in the Jews. The hatred has maddeningly persisted to this day, even though not a single Jewish-believing human being was involved in the crucifixion of Jmmanuel. Jmmanuel was not crucified by any Jewish believers, but solely by Romans who truthfully executed him because he railed against their religion, the faith of 'polytheistic universalism'. Jmmanuel taught the 'Teaching of the Truth, Teaching of the Creation-energy, Teaching of the Life' which was destructive to the Romans and therefore Jmmanuel was considered an enemy of the state. This is the real truth that must now be told after all, for truthfully, polytheistic universalism was the reason that the Romans were able to spread their empire over the whole of the then known world. Jmmanuel was a danger to the continued existence of the Roman religion and the expansion of the Roman Empire, which is why he was sought out, hunted down and ultimately crucified, consequently the Jews had nothing at all to do with anything. Everything from the very beginning was nothing but an evil invention of the early Christians, who freely invented everything and attributed it to the Jews, whose foremost, the high priests etc., were of course also against the teaching of Jmmanuel and hated him, complained to the supreme Roman and found a hearing, because he could blame the Jews for everything. The real reason for the persecution and crucifixion, however, was the Roman religion, which attacked Jmmanuel and rebelled against it with the teaching of truth.

... However, we don't need to talk about that any further, but something else, namely especially with regard to the term 'spirit', which is why I am often called or asked. Jmmanuel neither knew nor ever used this term, for he always and exclusively spoke of 'creative power'. The term resp. the word 'spirit' was only invented later and falsely adopted in the works of religion etc. The word 'spirit' is falsified. The word 'spirit' is falsely derived from the Indo-Germanic language and has been spread all over the world, namely from the term 'gheis', whereby this word means something completely different than 'Creation-energy' resp. 'Creation-power', as Jmmanuel – as allegedly 'Jesus Christ' – truly used it. He never used the word 'spirit', which in its original Indo-Germanic meaning has no connection with 'creative power', but 'gheis' resp. the 'spirit' fabricated from it has the meaning of 'seized, excited, horrified, shuddering, frightened and upset'.

Billy:

Now as for Jmmanuel, his name was really Jmmanuel, but not Jesus as was imputed to him and is still imputed to him today. He was crucified through the fault of 3 high priests as well as that of a small fanatical group of believers. There were about 10 or 12 people, fanatical followers of the high priests. He was accused by them as an alleged 'blasphemer of the truth' and 'blasphemer of the doctrine' of the Jewish religion to the chief of the Roman occupiers, to Pilate. The 3 high priests and the few fanatical followers from the people succeeded in persuading Pilate that Jmmanuel was a criminal against the teaching of 'Adonai' resp. Jod. He. Waw. He. and should therefore be sentenced to death. Pilate did not want this, because he saw no guilt in Jmmanuel, but after the efforts of the 3 priests and their fanatical followers, he finally gave in and shifted the blame for the execution onto the Jewish high priests and their fanatical followers, because the Jewish religious law of that time supposedly demanded this punishment, which however corresponded to a lie of the high priests.

The fact that the majority of the Jewish people actually saw Jmmanuel as a prophesied prophet, that they had been expecting him and waiting for his teaching, corresponded to the facts. The teaching that Jmmanuel taught, however, which was completely different from the one that had been handed down infinitely distorted since ancient times, endangered them and consequently also the high priesthood, because the teaching that Jmmanuel brought threatened to dissolve the faith. Therefore, Jmmanuel was accused with lies of being a 'traitor to doctrine' and sentenced to death. However, in reality and truth, he was not nailed to a cross, but to a long Y-shaped execution stake, on which he fainted deeply after hours and was considered dead, which is why his followers were allowed to take him down and 'lay him to rest' in a cave outside the city walls of Jerusalem. There, however, he was secretly nursed, and when he regained enough strength to walk, he fled from Jerusalem to Damascus, then northwards to the Greek city of Myrrha, and then further eastwards until he reached Kashmir, where he was called Yuz Asaf and where he continued to spread the teaching, which, however, was distorted ad infinitum.

Actually, no one knows today why anti-Judaism, I mean, why hatred of Jews arose. The consequence of Jmmanuel's execution was – what started early on – that the later followers of Jmmanuel accused the whole nation of Jews of murdering him, although only their 2 hands full of fanatics managed to condemn Jmmanuel to death by lies etc. and have him executed. In fact, this is the reason for the hatred against Jewish believers, the people of the Jews, consequently anti-Judaism as an origin is based on a few guilty people who were so fanatically indoctrinated that they themselves were willing to wish death on an innocent person. In this respect, however, this and that is fancifully claimed as the origin of hatred of the Jews. In truth, however, this only arose because there were 3 originators and a few fanatics – i.e. not the people of Israel – who wanted to have Jmmanuel murdered.

But the fact that Jesus of Nazareth was made out of the real name Jmmanuel by crazy people who did not understand him and that they made him the founder of Christianity, actually came only afterwards, when he was already in Kashmir. The fact that many separated themselves from Judaism and turned to the emerging Christianity dragged on for long centuries. The devaluation of the Jewish faith took a long time, as did Christianity, which was able to openly break through to a faith after a very long time.

That Jmmanuel died for all human beings and should have borne their sins to death, this erroneous idea was still Jewish at that time, and indeed by those apostate Jewish believers who misunderstood and misinterpreted all that Jmmanuel brought as a teaching. The believers who misunderstood everything, namely that the teaching that Jmmanuel had taught had been dictated by God Himself, had thus been completely misunderstood by the followers. This was not unusual, however, because the long-established belief in Adonai and his greatness and omnipotence did not allow for anything else. Moreover, Jmmanuel's parents were Jewish, and consequently Jmmanuel was also regarded and judged as a Jew, even though he did not represent the Jewish faith. He was probably understood by a large following as an itinerant rabbi, but his teaching was not, and not even what he actually taught. It was not understood that he wanted to teach the good and the correct throughout his life, that he wanted to break down the old faith structures, and that he did so by gently working towards teaching the human beings about the truth, without openly touching their erroneous belief in God. This was more than necessary at that time, because it was life-threatening to say something against God and, in addition, to think for oneself and not simply to think religiously. Nevertheless, 3 high priests recognised what Jmmanuel was aiming at and what value his teaching contained, which is why they complained to Pilate against him with insults of lies and demanded death.

Jmmanuel was never a believer, so he was not a Jew, but only an Israelite. For over 2000 years Christianity has concealed and distorted this truth, while the Jews have remained with their old conventional faith, because they could not be taught the truth by Jmmanuel and his teachings. It was Jewish believers at that time who were Jmmanuel's followers and who misunderstood and misinterpreted his teaching, consequently they spread the teaching according to their wrong understanding, out of which the Gospel finally arose. The whole thing was misunderstood by Jmmanuel's followers from northern Galilee and spread throughout the world without anyone ever asking about the actual truth, but everything was simply believed without hesitation. This is also why there are so few traces of the religion of Judaism in Christianity. When the followers of Jmmanuel separated from Judaism, it was already at the time when Jmmanuel was brought to the Y-pole. That was fully enough for Jmmanuel's followers to separate from Judaism and curse those who were guilty of Jmmanuel being executed. Unfortunately, the result was that many people incited by the guilty – as was customary at the time, as incitement is still customary today, which quickly creates a mob of roaring fanatics – gawked at the execution, consequently the followers, who were also present in large numbers, insulted the gapers and equated them with the guilty, which was also maintained from then on and generally the believers in the Jews were held innocently liable for Jmmanuel's execution. This was quickly spread everywhere, which also led to the devaluation of the Jewish faith and which resulted in the emerging false faith of Jmmanuel's followers. And it was not long before Jmmanuel was ascribed a sonship with God and his teaching, which was misunderstood, was declared to be the Word of God, whereby the false belief was formed into the Gospel. With this, everything became a faith with such an authoritative character of false correctness that the delusion arose to unconditionally recognise God as the highest authority and one's own actions as His will. This, together with the false letters that were written over a very long period of time again and again by followers of Jmmanuel who knew the Scriptures and by the followers' successors and their descendants, ultimately resulted in the Jesus faith and then the Christian faith and Christianity. ...

... Now, once again, the process of the separation of the followers of Jmmanuel from Judaism and the emergence of Christianity is to be mentioned, which was a really creeping process that already began when Jmmanuel was saved not as a dead man but as a fainter. His continued life was interpreted as a 'divine resurrection' and spread among the followers of Jmmanuel, which quickly spread far and wide like wildfire. This was also brought to the notice of the culprits, who sent out henchmen to kill Jmmanuel, but they failed and he escaped to Kashmir. Nevertheless, the followers formed a so-called early church, which dealt with the misunderstood teachings of Jmmanuel and found more followers resp. believers, namely many of those who saw in Jmmanuel the prophet who had been promised to them.

They held on to this idea, while the other believers considered everything to be completely absurd and distanced themselves from it. Jmmanuel himself never gave a confirming answer to the question whether he was this prophet, but this led to the followers seeing in him all the more the prophet they wanted to see, which has remained so until today and he is traded as the 'Son of God'.

Billy:

... This also applies to the more recent past, of which there are partly written 'traditions' which, however, correspond from the first to the last letter to pure fantasies or deliberate falsifications, as for example with regard to religions, since, for example, Jmmanuel is dubbed 'Jesus', and who is supposed to have drunk from a bowl of wine at the 'Last Supper', although he never drank even a drop of wine in his life. It is the same with the alleged lance with which he is said to have been stabbed and his death ascertained. It is true that a Roman lance was used for this purpose, but it corresponds to a lie that it was kept and later seized by the early Christians. The so-called 'Holy Lance' corresponds to a forgery and a fraud beyond compare, just like the so-called 'Grail' and the 'crucifixion nail' and the alleged 'shroud'. In truth, the followers of Jmmanuel, who are called disciples in the Bible – which is anyway a forgery and a work of fantasy, since the whole teaching of Jmmanuel was misunderstood and, moreover, interpreted in a lying way – each had a small bowl for the wine, just as everyone has his own glass today when he sits together with others and drinks something. It was already the case in Jmmanuel's circle that each of his faithful had his own small drinking bowl and carried it with him, because Jmmanuel insisted on it for hygienic reasons and wanted to prevent the contagion of the diseases Oriental smallpox and a lung disease – which became a plague much later, but about which nothing has ever been handed down – and the 'Zaraat' resp. leprosy in his circle. Leprosy was widespread at that time, and Jmmanuel knew very well that it was an infectious disease that was spread by droplet infection and that the pathogen could also be transmitted via a common drinking vessel. Although leprosy required a longer incubation period, which he was well aware of, the safety and health of his followers was important to him, which is why he decreed that each person had their own personal drinking vessel. ...

Billy:

But what I wanted to say was: Now the Christmas season is coming up again, when Christians are especially beaten about the ears, because at this time the lies and deceptions are greatly conjured up again.

This is especially true with regard to the fictitious story of the alleged 3 saints from the Orient. Who actually invented this story, and when, could never be found out, but it is still circulating today, although everything is as phoney as the alleged wood of the cross attributed to 'Saint Helen', which was supposedly to be found on her behalf.

Helena was the mother of the Emperor Constantine, who in the years 320 after Jmmanuel or so had objects searched for in Jerusalem that were supposed to have come from the crucifixion. In the course of time, 3 different legends arose, namely that a rabbi – named Judas Cyriacus or something like that – or Helena herself found Jmmanuel's burial cave or tomb again, and that the crucifixion nails were also there.

But part of the cross is also said to have been there – which was never really a cross, but a Y-shaped execution post – which caused the 'Church of the Holy Sepulchre' to be built in Jerusalem, in which part of the alleged 'cross' was then also stored.

Another part was brought to Rome, as well as to the palace chapel of Helena, to the chapel which, if I remember correctly, was called 'Santa Croce Gerusalemme', i.e. 'Holy Cross of Jerusalem'. This was while her son, Emperor Constantine, was in Constantinople, where Helena also had a piece of the alleged cross brought to him.

In this regard, I saw a gilded box in Jerusalem in which a small piece of the 'wood of the cross' was supposedly kept, but Semjase, your daughter, was able to clarify in a laborious effort of almost 3 years that it was probably a piece of a Y execution stake, which, however, had nothing whatsoever to do with the attempt to execute Jmmanuel.

This was also the case with the nails, as well as the alleged death shroud and spearhead, which are still revered and devoutly adored as 'holy' today, but are all based on fraud and deceit, as Semjase has clearly, yet very laboriously, clarified over the 3 years.

Billy:

Jmmanuel's (alias Jesus, which was never his name) teaching was falsified in a lying manner, as the lies are also put into his mouth in Matthew 10:34 to 37 and it is written: "You shall not think that I have come to bring peace to the Earth. I have not come to bring peace, but the sword. 35, = For I am come to provoke the human being against his father, and the daughter against her mother, and the daughter-in-law against her mother-in-law. 36, = And the enemies of the human beings will be his own household." Further, Romans 12:19 mendaciously claims that Jmmanuel said, "Do not avenge yourselves, beloved, but give place to the wrath of God; for it is written: Vengeance is mine; I will repay ..." The truth is that Jmmanuel never said this, but it all corresponds to a Christian religious lie ...

Billy:

... So this was the name used by the ancient resp. the primitive Hebrews, as later also the name Jmmanuel, although it was not written with a 'J' but with an 'I', as it was also wrongly defined as 'God is' or so, but correctly had and has the meaning 'teacher' in the deepest sense. This, as the prophet Isaiah already taught, who prophesied Jmmanuel and also called him 'Immanuel', but never 'Son of God' or 'Jesus Christ' etc., which, however, happened thoroughly later by delusional liars and deceivers, consequently the name Jmmanuel was falsified by religious fanatics to 'Jesus Christ'. This name has been preserved ever since, because it has always been used as a result of the lies and deception, and no one has ever asked whether the name is correct or not. The brazen lie of the falsification of the name 'Jesus Christ' could not be proven by the people, because at that time the people in all countries on Earth were not yet knowledgeable of the Scriptures and very uneducated – which is also often the case today with many human beings who are simply called illiterate and stupid – consequently they did not think for themselves, but only believed. So these human beings were only 'illusory thinkers' and could not fathom what the real truth was. So 'Jesus Christ' was never Jmmanuel's name, but this was truthfully attributed to him only about 200 or 300 years after his death by fanatical believers and with this new naming stamped the 'Son of God' and made into a 'saint', which he never was.

... Jmmanuel, who in Christianity is lyingly and falsely called Jesus Christ against all truth, although his name was never such, and who was born approx. around 2,028 years ago (Note: According to today's Gregorian calendar, the year of Jmmanuel's birth is 5 years before our

... This is probably in addition to other things that falsely crept into the false religious doctrine and that Mohammed never ordered, just as many other false and fabricated things came about in Christianity. Not to mention the fact that Jmmanuel was falsely called Jesus, something he would never have also dared to dream of. Both were only absolutely upright in their attitude and orientated towards reality and truth, honesty, goodness, humanity, peace, freedom and honesty etc., but never in any altered wise towards what was falsely attributed to them and made out of their 'teaching of truth' in terms of religion and blatant belief. Jmmanuel's and Muhammad's teaching – which already brought all the bringers of truth back to the time of Nokodemion – neither demanded nor demanded worship of the heralds of truth, nor any prostrate worship of them, an imaginary god or saints, as well as no 'holy acts', rites, things, movements, crucifixions, ablutions or incense etc.. The preachers also never demanded any nonsensical frippery in the form of crosses, prayer stones, rosaries and places of prayer, houses of prayer and the like, nor did they demand a 'religious blessing' or 'religious baptism', etc. Their 'teaching of truth' was solely focussed on the fact that human beings must be free in their very own thinking, and must decide and act according to their own ability and right about right and wrong. Their teaching therefore included that human beings should recognise the positive and the negative, and that they should also think for themselves in logic, understanding and reason, independently of any belief, and therefore make correct and just decisions and act in accordance with them. ...

Ptaah:

... As a result of various other researches, I am aware that there were forgeries of books in ancient times, and this continues, again and again, right up to the present day. As a result of the falsification of oral traditions, works of falsification have been produced since time immemorial, which today form the basis of religions, for example.

Billy:

I know that; mainly and indeed in the Christian religion it is the Bible and in Islam the Koran, as Mrs ... writes. However, these forgeries do not in any wise constitute an education or a formation of consciousness, but rather an effective stultification of consciousness and a delusion of faith that suppresses and stifles all normal, healthy and logical thinking. I would like to say a few more things about this, namely that neither specialised education, school education, vocational training, higher education, mathematics education nor religious education, nor any other kind of education in the sciences or other fields of knowledge etc. contributes to the formation of true logic, understanding and reason and to the development of a true ability to think. A human being is only able to create an effectively original, correct and also irreproachable faculty of thought in his/her consciousness by building up a real, good and righteous life experience in himself/herself through his/her direct, living work and experience. Fantasy writings, forged books and other forgeries cannot contribute to this, especially not the Bible and the Koran.

Ptaah:

These are based on fanciful, truth-twisted oral traditions that were first written down in small parts well over 160 years after Jmmanuel had died long before in Srinagar. We explored this last year by travelling back, whereby we were able to find out in detail and establish that the Koran was also initially based on oral poetic traditions, which were conceived and composed and recorded in writing 116 years after his normal demise in Mecca. The truth is that neither Jmmanuel's nor Muhammad's work and teachings were recorded in writing during their time of work and life, which you are well aware of.

Billy:

... Firstly, the correct name of Jmmanuel is not mentioned but falsified with 'Jesus', for which lies and assertions are also let loose which are so far removed from reality and truth that it is actually hilarious. It starts with the name 'Jesus', which is attributed to Jmmanuel, but which he never had. In addition, the so-called 'Lord's Supper' was not such a thing at the time, but effectively simply a loose gathering of people interested in the teaching. These gathered in a circle around Jmmanuel, with a small number of his closest friends sitting at the same table with him. They were also the faithful who often – but not always – accompanied him, both men and women. In addition to this, not only Jmmanuel's companions or closer friends were present at this evening meeting, but also numerous other persons, because Jmmanuel did not hold a 'supper', but rather devoted himself to teaching the teachings. The audience consisted of about 60 or 70 people in total. Jmmanuel's closest friends, as I have said before, sat with him at a table and drank wine imported from Italy by the Roman occupation. The faithful drank from their own stone bowls, while Jmmanuel made do with normal drinking water, which he drank from a small clay jug, because he detested wine. Firstly, the wine was not drunk from a supposed 'cup', but from his own stone bowls, while Jmmanuel did not have his own stone bowl, but only an approx. 15 cm large clay jug with normal water, which he always carried with him.

The whole discipleship of Jmmanuel is just a lie, because all of his followers were never and ever his 'disciples'. In truth, they were all human beings who were only interested in the teaching which Jmmanuel spread far and wide and which found an abundant audience, approval and interest. This was because human beings learnt to think freely through Jmmanuel's teaching and their new thinking freed them from the all-round prevailing Jewish belief in the polytheism of the Romans.

But what needs to be fundamentally explained is based on the fact that the entire hatred of Jews or Anti-Semitism is based on an unparalleled work of lies by the sectarian authors of the lying Christianity that was brought into being. The truth is that it was by no means the Jewish people who had Jmmanuel crucified, just as they did not shout pro and hurrah when he was nailed to the cross, but only a few murderous spectators and mainly only superiors of the Sadducees, the radical Zealots and the Essene sect, as well as the Pharisees. All of them were hostile to Jmmanuel's teaching and wanted to see him dead, just as they also insulted him as a rebel of the equally hated Pharisees, although he had nothing to do with them. And it was really only the leaders of these religious groups and not the Jewish people, who are mendaciously portrayed in the Bible as a 'rejoicing people' and who are said to have cheered at the crucifixion of Jmmanuel with cheers and hurrahs and other shouts. In total – together with the military of the Romans who crucified Jmmanuel – there were not even 70 persons present. ...

Well, it can therefore be said that everything about Jmmanuel and the so-called Last Supper is a lie, because there never was such a thing, especially not when Jmmanuel was arrested shortly after the meetings and the last teaching of his teachings and was actually crucified, which he survived without the knowledge of the Romans and fled to Srinagar, where he founded a family and died at an old age. It should be said again: Jmmanuel never drank wine throughout his life, only water, just as there was also no cup from which he is said to have drunk wine. His followers themselves only used small personal stone bowls resp. drinking bowls made of patterned stone. These measured exactly 10 cm in diameter, were 'bäsch' or beige-coloured and speckled, I would say, as I have to describe them. Also, no relics were ever kept that were connected to Jmmanuel, so neither an imagined 'cup' from which he is said to have drunk, nor a 'sword tip' with which he was allegedly stabbed in his loin to see if Jmmanuel was dead; this, although it never took place and his alleged death was not 'tested' in this way and so there was also no such lance. The alleged shroud of death is also an unparalleled hoax, because it was only made in later centuries ... and this happened several times at different times and in different places and the very first 'shroud of death' fell apart over time due to the poor quality of the fabric. This, along with other things that are also passed around and invented, tinkered with and lied about by believers, fanatics and, above all, fraudsters and forgers, such as that it is connected to Jmmanuel. This is actually the most important thing to say, but this alone is actually too much to do justice to the truth, because everything is dragged into the mud anyway and is not accepted, understood or recognised as such according to the truth by the unteachable and by those who have fallen hopelessly into delusional belief. This is because every form of faith is precisely the awareness of the blindness of faith ...

Would you have any information about the prophet Jonah (Yonah, Yunus)? What was the correct spelling of his name? When was he born and when did he die? Was he in contact with extraterrestrials? If there is any truth in the biblical story, I wonder if the “huge fish” spoken of was perhaps an extraterrestrial vehicle in which he found refuge after being tossed into the sea.

This is only a fable (and no legend).

Jonestown Massacre

https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Jim_Jones#Mass_murder-suicide_in_Jonestown

https://www.futureofmankind.co.uk/Billy_Meier/Contact_Report_115

Semjase:

36. As the first sign of the advanced fulfilment of the determined turning point, a sect massacre will take place, for which many political personalities will bear great guilt.

37. Through murder and forced mass suicide, some 200 children and about 1,023 adult human beings will meet death, but out of all these, only a number of approximately 1,000 will yet be discovered.

38. This tragedy will occur in Jonestown, a settlement site in Guyana, named after the megalomaniacal and consciousness-impaired sect leader Jim Jones, who, with a large part of his fanatical followers, influenced under hypnosis, has immigrated to Guyana and created a settlement site there, where he holds his believers like slaves.

39. Through recommendation letters of many political personalities of America, he has succeeded in the immigration with his followers into Guyana, where he leads a barbaric regiment.

40. By the time after the middle of November, it will have come so far that he evokes a massacre through compulsion, hypnosis, and fanaticism, to which well over one thousand human beings will fall victim.

41. Very many will voluntarily take a poison offered to them and will also kill their children with this, while others will be forced to do so and the remainder will fall by bullets of murderous hands.

42. The extremely degenerate sect, called "Peoples Temple" or "Peoples Church Union," is very active politically and is supported by American politicians who bear very great guilt for the fact that it can come to this horrible massacre, as these were the ones who paved and opened all ways for the insane Jim Jones' doings.

To the Government of the United States of America - Proclamation

6) ...

Well-known politicians and many other ones have opened all ways for a new cult-sect-leader with name Jim Jones, to get able to indulge to his delusion under the fanaticism of his adherers. The end of it was thousandfold, coerced murder and suicide among the sect members. Found were of the dead ones less than 1/9, as the other murdered or suicided bodies of the sect members are farly diffused over very far regions. But as well sect members became murdered in order of this man Jones during his time of action. Such victims are not few ones, and all got hidden in the ground by their slaughterers, in what cause they cannot get found. Near to 211 human beings have lost their life by suicide, having got ordered hypnotically by the insane Jim Jones. And still many more than 140 human beings should die now by hand of murderers, as Jim Jones ordered it long before his death.

This is the result of the delusion, for which government officers and other politicians of the United States have offered the hand, because they, as 90% of their nation, too, are captured in deadly, cultic religion belief and this ways tread under feet the real truth and tear her into dirt. The mass delusion, eventing in the border regions of jungle in the land of Guayana, consists on a very typical American illness of consciousness, namely in a confusion of consciousness. They all were American civilians and members of the insane Jim-Jones-Popular-Temple. Sponsored in America, they went out into the jungle of Guyana, towards their sure death; sponsored by prominent white politicians. In the mad belief, a god being sith them, who in truth not does exist, they followed the pretentive and sponsored by American politicians wrong prophet, to end their lives one year later under shots from murderers' weapons and by potassium cyanide in suicide.

... So in America also no religion wars were done, which would have stopped the continuous spreading sect being and so far would have fastened the motherly religion, that greater sect transgressions would have got prevented, which inevoidable once a day had to lead to mass-murders, as is the case since decades continuous progressing and now by the mad fanatic Jim Jones and his follower has found a bloody top for the first, although Jim Jones did not believe a single jot of his cultic-religious tissue of lies, that one time more shows, the cultreligion's leaders and sect leaders personally do not believe their heresies, which they urge upon their believers for observance, to bring them by such under their ban.

Judas [Judas Ishariot (Pharisee's son) vs. Judas Ischkerioth (Jmmanuel's follower)]

see also Talmud Jmmanuel

Note: The spellings of the names of both men vary slightly in the German-language Contact Reports. Judas Ishariot is sometimes spelled Judas (or Juda) Iharioth or Ischarioth; the correct spelling is indicated in the Talmud Jmmanuel. In the earlier Contact Reports (up through 238), Judas Ischkerioth is spelled Judas Ischarioth; Billy clarifies the correct spelling in Contact Report 703.

Jmmanuel:

91. Among my followers, I have a literate man named Judas Ischarioth {image 1, image 2, image 3, image 4}, who writes down the most important parts of the teaching and events...

...

95. Already the texts are being sought now in order to destroy them and to use them as indictments against me.

96. One scroll has already been stolen from the writer and kept closed by the Pharisees and the scribes.

97. Juda Iharioth, a son of a Pharisee, secretly took it out of Judas Ischarioth's bag in order to sell it to my persecutors for 70 pieces of silver, in order, thereby, to be able to charge me with blasphemy against God.

98. But Judas Ischarioth has been ordered by me to write the text once again and now to keep it quite safe whereby its purpose will outlast the ages.

Eduard:

You speak of Judas Ischarioth, who is supposed to be your betrayer, as the texts of my time still convey, nonetheless falsified!

Jmmanuel:

99. Truly, I speak of him.

100. But he will in no way be the guilty one.

101. He who will hand me over to the persecutors is the same one who stole the texts and sold them.

Eduard:

Therefore Juda Ihariot?

Jmmanuel:

102. So is it.

103. But his father will spread the lie that Judas Ischarioth is the betrayer, because the Pharisee name Ihariot must not be soiled.

104. But the reason is also based on the fact that the priests, scribes and Pharisees and their followers can say:

105. "Behold, one from his own ranks has betrayed him and handed him over to a death on the cross.

106. Behold, behold, how can his teaching be truth if his own people betray him and sell him?"

Eduard:

So that is the way it is. Now I understand quite a bit more.

But now I ask myself, who then really hanged himself in Potters Field – respectively, who will hang himself there in the coming time?

Jmmanuel:

107. Juda Iharioth.

... as it was with the treacherous criminal acts of Jmmanuel's traitor, namely of Juda Ihariot. ... https://www.futureofmankind.co.uk/Billy_Meier/Contact_Report_207

Billy:

... Initially, it was only Judas Ischarioth who could read and write. But to my knowledge, he also instructed all the other disciples in this art, which was not very popular at that time.

Quetzal:

13. It should be noted that out of Jmmanuel's disciples, only Judas Ischarioth was actually acquainted with reading and writing, for he was – which no one knew and, therefore, which also was not handed down – a scribe, who left his profession, however, and became a follower of Jmmanuel.

Billy:

... Could you perhaps tell me something else...why Judas Ischariot is still regarded worldwide as a traitor to Jmmanuel, although you actually said that Judas would be redeemed around the year 1976.

Ptaah:

...

294. With the first spreading of the Talmud Jmmanuel by you, the redemption of Judas Ischarioth has already begun, worldwide.

295. It will not fail, however, that other human beings will also be seized by this fact, whereby the truth that Judas Ischarioth was not the traitor, but another, namely a Pharisee's son with the similar name Juda Ihariot, will also be spread elsewhere.

Billy:

... He {Isa Rashid} also omitted the fact that the father of the traitor Judas Iharioth, the Pharisee Simeon Iharioth, had written a diatribe in the name of Judas Ishkerioth, accusing him and Jmmanuel that they themselves had caused the betrayal. And he equally concealed the fact that the same Pharisee Simeon Iharioth, together with a scribe, had also written a false gospel in the name of Judas Ishkerioth.

https://www.futureofmankind.co.uk/Billy_Meier/Contact_Report_506

Billy:

What I think is amazing is that Isa Rashid has also given the wrong name to the Talmud writer. He simply used the name Judas Ischarioth from the 'New Testament' instead of the correct name 'Judas Ischkerioth'.

https://www.futureofmankind.co.uk/Billy_Meier/Contact_Report_610

Billy:

... Judas Ischkerioth, who recorded everything faithfully and unadulterated ...

https://www.futureofmankind.co.uk/Billy_Meier/Contact_Report_662

Billy:

... Paul himself was just as ignorant of reading and writing as all the others who went with Jmmanuel – except for the disciple Judas Ischkerioth, who made written records and to whom the 'Talmud Jmmanuel' leads back ...

https://www.futureofmankind.co.uk/Billy_Meier/Contact_Report_703

Billy:

... But now I would like to talk a little bit in detail and openly about how basically the so-called 'holy' books came into being with regard to Christianity and Islam, because the truth is that neither Jmmanuel alias Jesus, nor Muhammad themselves made any written records of the 'teachings of the prophets'. Only Jmmanuel's disciple Judas Ischkerioth – not Judas Iskarioth or Ischarioth or Isharioth – knew the Scriptures, while all the other disciples, contrary to all the conventional lies and claims, were just as ignorant of the Scriptures as the followers around Mohammed. ...

https://www.futureofmankind.co.uk/Billy_Meier/Contact_Report_706

Quinto:

27. Also these two taught only orally, and their disciples were ignorant of reading and writing, with one exception, for with the messenger Jmmanuel there was a scribe named Judas Ischkerioth, who however recorded more incidents than values of the teaching.

https://www.futureofmankind.co.uk/Billy_Meier/Contact_Report_710

Billy:

Then another thing: In the 'Talmud', 30th chapter, sentence 96, it is written:
"And it came to pass that a soldier took his lance, and thrust it into Jmmanuel's loins, that he might see that he was dead."
... there was also a clerical error made by Judas Ischkerioth – who had made the records – because he used the term 'loin', although it was actually on the right side of the abdomen or belly between the rib cage and pelvis.

Quetzal ('Pleiadian-Plejaren Contact Reports', Volume 5, page 185, 212th Contact, Thursday, 6th November 1986):

13. It is to be noted that of Jmmanuel's disciples only Judas Iscarioth (corr. correct: = Ischkerioth) really knew how to read and write, for he was – what nobody knew and therefore was not handed down – a scribe who, however, reneged on his profession and became a follower of Jmmanuel.

Ptaah:

232. In Jmmanuel's case, only Judas Ischkerioth was well versed in writing, however neither any female nor male member of his discipleship, which included more persons than just the twelve listed in the New Testament, which is full of inventions, falsifications, wrong commemorative-claims, interpretations, and lies.

...

261. Judas Ischkerioth was the only one amongst all, who correctly and truthfully mastered the script and who was well versed in writing and a disciple close to Jmmanuel.

262. Later he was slandered by falsifiers of writings and by hangers-on, just as the name of Jesus was then also imputed to Jmmanuel.

263. So it must repeatedly be made clear, that everything was the same with Mohammed and Jmmanuel, although concerning Jmmanuel, it was Judas Ischkerioth who was well versed in script/writing and written language and who made the chronicles, from which the Talmud then arose through your and the group members efforts, which in the end had to be correctly translated and revised by our script and language experts/specialists, because the priest Isa Rashid had translated it wrongly according to his Christian deluded belief.

Billy:

... I also wonder whether the adept Voyager 1 sent out by the USA will obtain good results at Jupiter?

Semjase:

55. According to our calculations of the flight path of the probe, this has to pass very close to the star and to several moons of Jupiter, which means that good results have to be obtained, if the apparatuses of the observation equipment work flawlessly.

Billy:

Does that mean, therefore, that the time comes when the scientists will discover that the so-called Red Spot of Jupiter is, in truth, a self-rotating, funnel-shaped storm hole in the wildly surging high surface of this unfinished sun and that this funnel hole forms the centre of a gigantic and many thousand year-old storm? And does this also mean that it will now be found out that not only do Saturn and Uranus have a ring system but also even Jupiter, only that it is, indeed, of a very different kind than the other two at Saturn and Uranus?

Semjase:

56. Surely, that should actually be ascertained, for the probe will be steered so close to the celestial body that it should record these things, but that will hardly be the case because Jupiter's rings consist of nearly invisible particles that are so minutely small and transparent that they can only be registered as clouds with special apparatuses.

57. Jupiter's spot, however, will be recognised as a mighty storm.

Billy:

Aha, and so, will it also not be found out that the ring clouds around Jupiter, to a large extent, consist of tiny particles ejected from large volcanoes of the moon Io, which are, in part, captured by Jupiter, while the greatest part of all the ejected material, however, falls back to Io and, in turn, almost covers up practically all volcanic openings and also falls on the plains and mountains, so that this moon, in contrast to the other Jupiter moons, does not have too large a crater landscape, but rather a fantastic flatness, despite the many craters?

Semjase:

...

60. These facts will, by the way, be ascertained with certainty by the observation equipment.

Billy:

Well, I naturally still know some things because I have not forgotten everything that you and Ptaah explained to me. I can still remember well that the various large moons of Jupiter bore various colours, such as red, yellow, brown and white, as well as orange. I also remember that you told me that Jupiter should have actually become a sun, but the mass was too small for this star to really be able to develop into a sun; nevertheless, the whole formation essentially consists of liquid helium and hydrogen. Also, I still know that you or Ptaah explained to me that, primarily, potassium salts and sulfur compounds would form the surfaces until deep down inside and that everything had been deposited as a very thick crust after the enormous masses of water had given way on this satellite. In particular, I think I remember that you said that specifically the moon Io was once completely covered by water. If I remember correctly, you told me – I no longer know whether it was you or Ptaah – that the moon Europa is the complete opposite of Io, that the masses of water there did not evaporate and did not change; rather, they froze into a gigantic sheet of ice. In addition, you told me many other things and gave me explanations, of which I still know a great deal. Thus, you also told me that the moon, which I designated as an enormous chicken egg, is only about 200 kilometres in length. I think it was the next moon of Jupiter, whose name I no longer remember.

Semjase:

...

62. The moon, which you have just mentioned, is called "Amalthea" among you.

63. The moon Io, of which you said something, is, by the way, the most volcanically active planetary body in the Jupiter system.

64. But that was already explained to you at that time, if you can still remember?

Billy:

Of course, I do not forget such things so quickly. At that time, you said that this moon is much more volcanically active than the Earth. Incidentally, I also still remember very well that you explained that the kilometer-wide cloud formations in the storm funnel of Jupiter move at a very high speed and rotate counterclockwise.

...

I now just wonder whether I still remember correctly about the volcanism on the moon Io. If I am right, you explained that the volcanic eruptions there occurred by elemental power and resembled enormous explosions that hurl out their ejection material like atomic bomb mushrooms, whereby some would reach heights of up to 180 kilometers. Primarily, these should concern dust particles, gases, ash and a little magma, which reach centrifuge speeds of up to 2,300 kilometers per hour or higher, because through the missing atmosphere of the moon, only a slight opposing force is present. In addition, you said that the greatest part of all ejection material falls back to the moon, as I already mentioned just now. The rest, so you explained, becomes pushed out into space, where a portion is then attracted by Jupiter and very slowly condenses itself in its ring system into a heavy formation of sulfur ions. Is that right?

Semjase:

66. Your recollections are very accurate.

...

Billy:

... your official details about the number of Jupiter's moons are not right because they only correspond to a part of the truth. To my knowledge, this giant planet has 17 larger moons and several smaller ones, as I learned from Ptaah during the Great Journey {see Contact Report 31}.

Semjase:

77. That is right, but for certain reasons, that may not become known on the Earth before the month of September, 1979; after that, this fact will then no longer play a role.

78. By the way, at least two other moons of the planet will be discovered by the American scientists in the course of their evaluations of Jupiter's images.

Billy:

Then it will not be only one?

Semjase:

79. I told you that they will discover at least two, after which then only three of the larger ones and several of the smaller ones still will not be known to them.

Billy:

Just one last question, also about Jupiter, which does have many dozens of moons but only a few large ones and more smaller structures, which actually are not really moons and which have not been discovered yet, precisely because they are so small. There are, indeed, about a hundred of these, if I am not mistaken, or even more, and these are actually debris and other smaller objects captured by Jupiter. Will these also be discovered soon and may I speak of that?

Semjase:

182. You should be silent about that at least for another 20 years.

183. But in any event, these satellites of Jupiter will be discovered by the earthly astronomers.

Year B.C.	Orbital Period Years	Special Event
- 13,384	714	Destroyer flies on collision course with Jupiter and disrupts its rotation, passing so close to the outer layers that a violent storm is created within, rotating and reaching into the innermost layers. Jupiter's mass tears at the Destroyer's matter and gathers a particle and moon ring around it that will continue for millions of years, along with the original particle and moon ring system that has already existed for about four billion (4,000,000,000) years, into which the new ring will be integrated. The gigantic whirlwind on the giant planet, already developed in primaeval times, has nothing to do with the Destroyer. – At the same time as the Destroyer passes through the Jupiter system, it tears an old small moon of about four kilometres in diameter out of its orbit, which flies out at tremendous speed on an unknown path into the SOL-system space, accompanied by some smaller asteroids. First, this moon loses itself in a very wide orbit, after which it reappears after a long time and moves through the SOL-system – again and again, until one day it will be recaptured by Jupiter and will almost certainly crash down on it, which according to our calculations will be close to the time of the turn of the twentieth and twenty-first centuries AD. (Compare 248th Contact, Thursday 3rd February 1994, 17:04 hrs:

Conversation between Ptaah and Billy:

Billy: ... But now to another question: In the 150th contact report of Saturday 10th October 1981, 3:15 hrs, Quetzal spoke of a small moon of about four kilometres in diameter having been torn loose from Jupiter by the Destroyer in 13,384 B.C. and set in motion, which was also followed by several smaller asteroids. The talk was then that this small moon would one day return to its place of origin, namely Jupiter, and then crash down on it. Now the following: Earthly scientists have discovered that a small planetoid about four kilometres in diameter is currently approaching Jupiter on a collision course, accompanied by several asteroids following it. According to scientific calculations, this small planetoid, called Shoemaker-Levy 9, should crash into Jupiter in mid-1994, just beyond the horizon visible from Earth. Now is this small planetoid the small moon mentioned by Quetzal, which set sail from Jupiter in 13,384 B.C. and which is now 'celebrating' its return to its place of origin, or is it another space projectile? Ptaah: It is indeed the small moon mentioned by Quetzal, which will almost certainly return to Jupiter's gravitational pull).

Kathein (planet)

Billy:

The two of them {Ptaah and Semjase} only let me see one other planet, but this always only remains on the far side of the Sun and cannot be seen from the Earth. Do you know why such claims about other moons are continuously made? This also applies to other planets that should be located behind Pluto or so, whereby the planet behind the Sun is not meant.

Quetzal:

53. You speak of the planet Kathein, which will drift away from the SOL-system in the near future and hurry away into space.

https://www.futureofmankind.co.uk/Billy_Meier/Contact_Report_228

Quetzal:

118. All that remains to be said is that beyond the Sun a large planet orbits the star at great speed and can therefore never be seen from Earth.

119. This is an uninhabited planet to which we have given the name Kathein, but which will drift out of the SOL-system in the coming time.

...

Billy:

Excuse me, but what is it about the tenth planet that's supposed to be floating around out there? You guys have always talked about such a tenth and further planet.

Quetzal:

129. Apart from smaller planets far outside Pluto's orbit, this is the earth-sized planet Kathein, which orbits the sun at great speed and at a great distance, but which will drift away more and more in the coming years and escape into space.

130. Its orbital period around the Sun is so great that, seen from Earth, it remains steadily hidden behind the Sun.

Ptaah:

25. The planet KATHEIN, as it is called in our records, hidden behind the Sun, was touched by the SOL-system at the tenth to last passage of the Destroyer through the SOL-system and torn into its gravitational force field, but then broke out of the force field again and maintained its almost normal orbit around the Sun, but at an enormously increased speed, while the destroyer continued its pre-drawn orbit and broke into the solar system, causing destruction or changes in many places.

26. Since then, the planet Kathein itself has been orbiting the Sun in the form and at abnormally high speed mentioned above, but slowly moving away from the Solar System and entering the attraction area of a wandering spiral arm of a black hole that will sweep the planet with it later this year.

27. It is the same spiral arm that also took the sand and dust accumulations of the planet Venus.

Billy:

When will the rip-off happen?

Ptaah:

28. According to our calculations, this event will take place on the 16th of June.

Billy:

Is Kathein one of those two planets that we have not discovered yet and that we call UNI and Transpluto?

Ptaah:

29. No, the planet Kathein has nothing to do with it.

30. It is also without any life of any form.

Billy:

And the spiral arm of the black hole, will it be even more effective in our solar system?

Ptaah:

31. No, because if there are not unpredictable changes, then the spiral arm collapses with the torn path of the planet Kathein and again becomes one with the hollow funnel of the dark hole or even the black hole, as the Earth-humans call these structures.

...

Billy:

Well, then it would be interesting and perhaps even important to know where the black hole is or how far away it is from our SOL-system. They once gave me approximate information about it, but I do not know if it really applies. From an exact specification it would then be possible to calculate the length of the spiral arm that has afflicted Venus and that will take the planet Kathein with it.

Ptaah:

185. This black hole is located in the direction of the structure that you call M 87 and that is about 5.4 light-years away from the planet Kathein.

Grace Kelly death

https://www.futureofmankind.co.uk/Billy_Meier/Contact_Report_150

Quetzal:

362. Unfortunately, this will not be the case, also not for the car drivers themselves, who usually, like the driver of the Autocar, travel the roads at excessive speed without being in control of their vehicle.

363. If this circumstance were not also decisive on the 12th of September 1982, then the accident could be avoided just like the one in Monaco, in which, however, only a passenger car holding a few persons is thrown out of the lane in a hairpin bend, in which the Princess of Monaco then finds herself, namely the former film actress Grace Kelly, who suffers serious injuries as a result of the accident, so that she has to be taken to a clinic for care etc., where she then dies, however.

389. Her death occurs in the evening hours of the 14th of September 1982, although the accident will have happened the day before.

390. The reason for her death will be that there is damage to the brain which leads to a haemorrhage which is recognised too late.

391. This will become the main factor in her death, although two other life-threatening factors will come into play as a result of the accident.

Billy:

So it is a failure of the doctors, so to speak.

Quetzal:

392. Not directly, but only indirectly.

Billy:

What am I supposed to understand by that?

Quetzal:

393. The Princess will be hooked up to a life support machine, but it will soon be put out of action because the doctors come to the realisation after some time that Grace Grimaldi's life functions will be purely mechanical.

Billy:

You mean that she will be dead but that the life support machine will still continue to keep the motor life mechanism going?

Quetzal:

394. That is of correctness ...

...

Billy:

I have another question about this: You said the name Grace Grimaldi. Is that the family name of Prince Rainier of Monaco?

Quetzal:

397. That is of correctness ...

162. At the time of Khrushchev, a new president will be nominated in America, by the name of John Fitzgerald Kennedy, however, to be murdered in the year 1963, according to secret orders of different groups, and with the American security service, the CIA, having warning information.

163. The day of his death will be on the 22nd of November 1963 in Dallas, Texas.

https://www.futureofmankind.co.uk/Billy_Meier/Contact_Report_256

Billy:

Is it possible to ask officially today, how things unfolded in relation to John F. Kennedy, the 35th President of the USA, who was murdered in Dallas/Texas on the 22nd of November 1963?

Ptaah:

30. It was a plot of various interest groups, consisting of CIA, FBI, Mafia, pro-Cubans, oil barons and the military-industrial complex.

31. Lee Harvey Oswald and three other men collaborated with the alliance of conspirators, resulting in them insidiously shooting the US President dead.

32. It is true that Oswald the same as the other participants were firing on John Fitzgerald Kennedy, but the actually lethal shot did not originate from Oswald's weapon.

Billy:

The one who was for his part shot by Jack Ruby and in truth called Rubinstein.

Ptaah:

33. That's right.

34. He was a Jewish extremist and also a hired murderer, with the task to shoot Oswald, because the responsible persons of the plot did not trust him and rated him as an element of uncertainty.

https://www.futureofmankind.co.uk/Billy_Meier/Contact_Report_459

Billy:

... And about Fidel Castro: The matter of the assassination of US President Kennedy in 1963 still leads to speculation, also with regard to the fact that Castro was the initiator of the assassination.

Ptaah:

63. And with regard to the assassination of John F. Kennedy, it is to be said that Fidel Castro had nothing whatsoever to do with it.

64. At the time of the assassination, Castro was busy writing a letter to Kennedy and asking him to meet with him to discuss and resolve certain conflicts.

Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini

see also Iran-Iraq War

https://www.futureofmankind.co.uk/Billy_Meier/Contact_Report_136

Semjase:

243. That will be the case, and his {Ronald Reagan's} very inglorious end is already certain, as also that of the murderous Ayatollah Khomeini, whose end begins to be at hand in the first days of February 1981, when he is struck with an illness that he cannot be healed from, which will also happen to Reagan in a later time when he is struck by Alzheimer's disease and will have a tragic end.

...

247. Ayatollah Khomeini and his allies will, in the first months of 1981, play around with the idea that the Ayatollah should allow himself to be treated by notable physicians in Switzerland.

248. The realisation of this attempt, however, is still presently questionable because no clear picture can be determined yet.

249. The Khomeini's brain functions are damaged, which is why with him, arbitrary actions and resolutions often go into action, which cannot be predicted in their final form very often.

250. For this reason, this occurrence in Switzerland cannot be predicted with any certainty ...

...

Semjase:

379. Only a few days after these incidents will the government again turn to the country of Iran, in order to excite the interest of the world public again.

Billy:

Aha, it will probably start again as a result of this Khomeini?

Semjase:

380. It will be something like that because some other time, he will incite the Iranian people against the leadership, this time against the president Bani Sadr, who will take over this role as a politically moderate person in Iran.

381. This means that he will not pursue the murderous lines of the insane Ayatollah and will, thus, slowly fall into disgrace with this and with the people.

382. His fall will take place in the time between the 10th and the 15th of June 1981, whereby he will then be forced to flee.

383. The Iranian people and a Blood judgement will rise up against him and demand his death.

...

Billy:

Then all sorts of things will occur in this time alone. There is probably also the madman of Ghom, Khomeini, who will begin his mass executions again, after all that you said in reference to Iran.

Semjase:

402. That will, unfortunately, be the case because many hundreds will soon fall victim to the insanity of this man.

Billy:

It cannot be otherwise with one such who has gotten very badly out of control of the good human nature.

Semjase:

403. Unfortunately, that is correct.

...

418. Concerning Iran, the end of Khomeini is well-known to you, which begins to be at hand with the fall of Bani Sadr.

419. The arising bomb assassination attempts, which I already explained to you and which will cause many close friends of the insane dictator to depart from this life, will actually constitute only the beginning of the irrevocable downfall.

420. After the first attack in Tehran, in which the blood judge of Persia and many governing bodies will find death, there will soon follow a second, in which the lives of the president and one of his ministers will be taken away.

Billy:

Ah, I have calculated once before that this man will be called President Ratsaj or something similar. Is that right?

Semjase:

421. Your calculation was inaccurate, though not completely.

422. Anyhow, he {Mohammad-Ali Rajai} will find death through another bomb attack.

423. The political forms will change again through this, and new mass executions will reveal Persia's bloody way that will be dictated by the insane dictator Khomeini.

424. The ensuing mass executions in Iran will no longer move into the first part of a thousand; rather, they will move into the thousands, and children will no longer be spared but will be shot on the open roads by the captors, who call themselves revolutionary guards.

425. But this, in turn, will mean that already at this time, an underlying civil and fratricidal war will be broken out, which will find its origin and stirring up with Bani Sadr, who will call into being a resistance movement in France against Khomeini.

Billy:

Crazy, because Bani Sadr, as you said, is designated by Khomeini himself as an ally and, with this, has also been in exile in France for the past few years.

Semjase:

426. That is correct, only this time, Bani Sadr will no longer be for Khomeini but against him, whereby he will initiate everything in order to have him be murdered.

https://www.futureofmankind.co.uk/Billy_Meier/Contact_Report_150

Quetzal:

224. Good then, yes, in the month of July {1982} the Iranians, under the high command of the mad Ayatollah Khomeini, will again drive the war forward, which by then has been going on for some two years, towards a high point, with many thousands of human beings dying again on both sides, among the Iranians as well as the Iraqis.

...

Billy:

And in Iran – how are things going on there at this point? There are atrocities going on there that defy all humaneness and being human in the real and true sense. As I calculated years ago, not only are pregnant women and children executed, but also the rape of women will take place, before they are shot.

Quetzal:

304. That will also become known in about the month of July 1982, or else in the month of August 1982.

305. What is concealed for the time being, however, is that these women and girls are not only raped and then murdered, but they are subjected to excruciating torture before, during and after the rapes, with their signs of womanhood also slashed or hacked and cut away with knives.

Billy:

Cruel pigs – with knives they still maltreat the breasts and genitals of these doomed women. Bastards.

Quetzal:

306. This kind of special torture, as the Iranian revolutionary guards and Khomeiny's henchmen call it, and which is legalised in such a form that the condemned women and girls, who are even children, are massacred alive, will not only take place in 1982, because it is already being used today, along with many other tortures.

307. But we have already spoken of this in detail, at least with regard to the executions of women and girls in pregnant states, etc.

308. In truth, however, the world should know which kind of horror is actually going on in Iran.

309. As one example among thousands, I can report on events that I myself have observed on my monitors and which have driven up naked horror in me.

310. In a dimly lit dwelling I saw how a girl of less than 11 years of age put to death in the cruellest wise.

311. Already physically developed as a woman, the child was stretched out on her hands and feet and tied to a hard couch, on which nine men raped her in the most brutal form.

312. While the last of the criminal and dehumanised creatures was still having his way with the girl, another suddenly drew a knife and hacked the child's young breasts to pieces, while the rapist cried out lustfully and bathed lustfully in the spurting blood.

313. This, however, was only the prelude to the even more terrible end, for now the rest of the beastly creatures fell upon the child, with another knife penetrating the child's vagina and slashing it open, jerking it up to the abdomen so that the intestines spilled out.

314. Another cut off the child's ears, and yet another went on a rampage of murder and bloodlust with a knife against the girl's thighs.

315. The hell of a truly gruesome bloodlust played itself out before finally one of the beastly men put his gun to the child's temple and carried out the final execution.

316. From this you see that things are truly going on in Iran under the dirty alias of religion through which the rest of the unknowledgeable world could learn the horror.

317. But still, for a long time, Earth humanity will have no knowledge of these horrific operations, and when it should someday be the case, nevertheless, the Earth-humans, on the one hand, are so far removed from the places of these events, and on the other hand, it does not concern them, while their senses are already so jaded against murder, rape, death, cruelty, and bestial killings of human beings that they simply cannot be deeply affected by these facts and events but simply superficially take note of them, not worrying about it further, and they indulge cheerfully living high on the hog and in the blinking of an eye of their daily lives, because what the heck, so they think, it does not concern them - and the dead suffer no more pain.

Billy:

Damn it once more, because the living persons who are brought to death, they lived before that, and before their death they had to suffer these inhumane atrocities.

Quetzal:

318. That is of correctness.

Billy:

I find that in this regard, it also does not change anything that those, those who have been killed and will still be killed in Iran, that before that they exulted this mass killer Khomeini up to heaven and considering him as God and saviour.

Quetzal:

319. That is correct because it does not alter the fact that these murders, rapes, cruelties and inhumanities should have never been committed.

Billy:

And those who do it anyway, they are a thousand times worse than ordinary murderers. For such creatures there is not even a name in any language. Nor also for those murderous henchmen who simply carry out death sentences passed by judges. These on command killers are also much worse than any killer executed by them.

There have been some television shows about Christian relics for which I would like to know what is true about them. The first question relates to the legendary Grail, a vessel Joseph of Arimathea is said to have used to catch Jmmanuel's blood at the crucifixion. This goblet is supposed to work wonders and make one immortal as well as heal all sicknesses and evils, etc.

Quetzal:

10. This is absolute nonsense, for neither does such a Grail exist, nor has Joseph of Arimathea caught the blood of Jmmanuel in a vessel.

11. That however no other human being has done either.

Ptaah:

5. This senseless claim was invented fictitiously centuries after the event of the crucifixion, namely by members of a sect that emerged from Jmmanuel's already early falsified teaching.

6. And the fact that no blood of Jmmanuel was caught in a vessel, rather that the little blood that Jmmanuel lost dripped to the ground and seeped away, is perfectly certain, because this was recorded in our annals by the personality of that time Gabriel, the procreating father of Jmmanuel.

7. He was direct eyewitness of the real event.

... And all the catastrophes that have occurred worldwide and that have been triggered and brought about by humanity on earth have only happened because the principle of truth, and thus also the creative laws and commandments, have been violated instead of following the truly wise path of effective truth and the teaching of the true prophets, which has been handed down from primeval times as the spiritual teaching, or rather as the 'teaching of truth', 'teaching of the spirit', 'teaching of life'. And therefore this truth is also given in the book 'Goblet of the Truth', of which a first part, namely the teaching of Enoch, was also called 'Cauldron of Life' by the druid prince Myrddin alias Merlin and has nothing to do with the alleged 'Grail' of Christianity, which is based only on lies and deceit, never existed and in which therefore also the blood of Jmmanuel (Jesus) was not caught by Joseph of Arimathaia at his crucifixion. The real Grail existed only as a holy place, and in the 'Cauldron of Life' was locked up the document, a document of the teaching of the true prophet Enoch from the seven-row of the Nokodemion. The document was given as a copy of the Plejarin Kerikwena (The Triple Goddess) to the druid Myrddin (The Laughing One), later commonly called 'Merlin'. Myrddin poured the copy into the chalice that became known as the 'Cauldron of Life', and Christian adulteration was used to make the 'Grail', but this is not in any way connected to it, because the 'Grail' was a place with a spring, surrounded by trees and plants, where the druids used to do their meditations. And this Christian Grail adulteration has been handed down from its origin to the present day, but again in another monstrous adulteration which claims that it is the cup or 'Grail' of Jmmanuel (Jesus) from which Jmmanuel and his disciples drank at Holy Communion and in which Jmmanuel's blood was collected at the crucifixion by Joseph of Arimathaia. This monstrous lie and falsification of the truth also applies to the so-called 'Holy Lance' with which Jmmanuel (Jesus) was stabbed in the loins by a Roman mercenary on the cross to ascertain his death. And since this lance has been holy ever since, and since it also contains immense power, which is supposed to make rulers out of the greedy for power, it is highly honoured. In truth, however, this lance never touched Jmmanuel's loin, for it is a Christian forgery that was not discovered until the eighth century AD. It is also the so-called 'Turin Shroud', which is supposed to show Jmmanuel's (Jesus') image, but is in fact the death image of an Italian merchant named Caesar Canova, and was made by his brother Luciano Canova, who studied alchemy. Myrddin resp. Merlin tried to teach the teachings of Enoch through his influence with King Arthur resp. Arthur, who was his protégé and pupil, and with the pagan knights of the 'Round Table' (Knights of the Round Table), but failed miserably, because the fierce clan leader Arthur and his pagan knights could not get along with the teaching. So Arthur took possession of the sealed 'Cauldron of Life' and sank it into the sea by himself.

Ptaah:

34. You have also asked Florena to clarify certain things concerning King Arthur and the Druid Prince Merlin.

35. In my father's Sfath records, which he kept about my grandfather Ezekeel ('The Mediator' note Billy), I found something that might interest you, and it is this:

36. King Arthur, or Artus, king of the Celts, contrary to today's depiction of having been a hero or the like, was absolutely not a courtly king in shining armour, nor a good-hearted and noble hero. King Artus was a fierce sixth-century clan leader, a 'war king', who led his pagan warriors in bloody battles and raids. He was a slaughterer and kept the name the 'Boar of Cornwall'.

37. His 'knights' truly were bloodthirsty murderous thugs as you say.

38. Artus himself was Merlin's protégé, a pupil of Merlin the druid, for seven years.

39. Arthur, born 4.1.469, died 11.8.509 at the Battle of the Camlann (crooked valley) in a duel with his nephew, the cunning prince Medraut, was a brutal and stubborn person, for whom a human life meant very little or nothing.

40. Arthur's wife was Gwynhwyfara, Guanhamara, or Guinevere. ('White spirit' – 'Shining spirit' Note: Billy).

41. His father was Uther Tudur, carrying the surname Pendragon, who was already married and impregnated another woman in a most insidious manner and thus procreated Arthur. Arthur's mother was Ygerna, who was also married and was the wife of Prince Gorlois. (Actually the liberal Celtic marriage laws did not overvalue lifelong physical fidelity. Thus, while Gorlois, the Cornic duke was deceived and cheated by the fraud, King Uther and Queen Ygerna could engage in a sexual act.)

42. The story goes like this:

43. Arthur's father, Uther Tudur Pendragon, fell in love with Queen Ygerna of Cornwall, the young and beautiful wife of Gorlois, Duke and Prince of Cornwall.

44. Ygerna, however, was faithful to her husband, so Uther Pendragon sought the support of Merlin and devised an intrigue to abduct the Queen of Cornwall and seduce her.

45. Merlin lured Gorlois away from his castle on a pretext in order for Uther Pendragon to secretly snatch Ygerna at night and bring her to Tintagel. A confidante of Merlin who was also a servant to the Queen Ygerna of Cornwall then administered a drug to her, and she reached a hallucinogenic and will-less state.
46. Ygerna was kidnapped from the castle and taken to a certain place where Uther Tudur Pendragon and several male and female druids were already assembled under Merlin's leadership.
47. Inside the circle they formed, Uther and the drugged (will-less) Ygerna performed the procreation. From their union, Arthur/Artus/Arthus was born on the 4th of January 469.
48. Uther Tudur did not leave that matter to rest for long – the very same night he let Ygerna's prince consort Gorlois be killed by his own bloodthirsty knights. The plan he devised with Merlin thus ended with complete success, Ygerna's husband now out of the way.
49. When Gorlois's dead body was returned to Tintagel, Ygerna was already back home, but was now made pregnant by Uther Tudur and was still highly intoxicated by the drug and did not realize what had really happened, since she only later learned everything.
50. The sword 'Caladwllch', spoken 'Caladfluch' (in German) = 'sparkling sword', because it was emitting sparkling or lightning-like blazes/radiance = later "Cliburn" and falsified to 'Excalibur' in ecclesiastical Latin = was a light (lightweight) beamweapon in the form of a sword; it was forged and finished on the island of Avalon under the surveillance and the involvement of the Plejarin Keridwena, a sister of my grandfather Ezekeel.
51. Keridwena gave it as a gift to Merlin, who later handed it to Arthur, who then fought many bloody battles with it.
52. All of Keridwena's efforts to regain possession of the sword failed because it had been abused.
53. Hence, she was very angry with Merlin but could not persuade him to demand Arthur's sword back and return it to her.
54. It was only after Arthur's death that the sword was reclaimed by Merlin and returned to the Plejarin Keridwena, after which she left Earth.
55. She had already angrily ceased contact with Merlin at the time when Arthur committed his first murderous deeds with the sword.
56. At Dinas Bran = 'Castle of Bran' Merlin personally stayed.
57. Dinas Bran Valley was located in the Cymru region where Merlin (the one with great knowledge) was also working.
58. Merlin's real name was Myrddin ('the laughing one').
59. Merlin, the druid of Camelot received his initiation when he was just nine years old.
60. However, he was not a sorcerer respectively a magician, as Christianity had attributed to him, but a druid widely taught in various fields of knowledge.
61. He was also a bard, a doctor, a teacher, a prophet, a historian and ultimately the king and prince of druids of the Demetier tribe from South Wales.
62. He taught in the West/Occident on Plejarin Keridwena's (the triple goddess, Billy's note) instructions and had great visionary skills based on his practiced meditations.
63. Merlin's father was King Morvryn, and his mother was a daughter of the King of the Demetier.
64. Merlin's father was also a visionary, and these visionary capabilities led to the evil legend within the Christian world that Merlin was a 'scion of the devil', a magician, a sorcerer.
65. The naïveté and simplicity of the Christian interpretation held that Merlin and his father's paranormal abilities meant that they were satanical, and that father and son were allied with the devil and fathered by him.
66. Merlin was born on the 1st May, 449; he also picked up the sword and fought with it, and he used his skills in military operations and as Arthur's military advisor, contrary to the instruction and wishes of the Plejaren Keridwena, however without becoming morally bankrupt.

67. Merlin also fought with his sword against the warlike Christian intruders who stole into the country through murder and arson, killing off or suppressing the population, to spread the Christian faith, conquer the land and destroy Celtic philosophy and beliefs.

68. After his last fight, when he was 66 years old in year 515, at the lost battle at Arfderryd, Merlin fled and settled down in a remote area in the wilderness of Caledonia in the Cheviot Hills, where he lived as Myrddin Wyllt (Merlin in the wilderness).

69. He lived there for some time and then returned to his hometown, where an old female druid named Niniane (also known as Nimue) joined him and was a good friend to him. When he felt his death approaching, she finally accompanied Merlin on Ynys Enlli (Bardsey Island), which he had chosen as his death place.

70. He died there in the arms of the old druid, on the 14th of June 542 at the age of 93, and he was buried by the wise woman in a rocky cave according to his wishes.

71. The Knights of the Round Table were malignant, bloody knights and not heroes, as they are presented today.

72. Merlin, being a seer, made prophetic and foresighted statements of which his dragon prophecy made at Dinas Emrys (Fortress of Emrys or Ambrosius respectively) is very well known, besides those which he made in the wilderness of Caledonia.

73. Merlin was already contacted in the year 466 by the Plejarin Keridwena, a sister of my grandfather Ezekeel ('The Mediator'), as I said before.

74. This took place after the High Council decided to convey Henoah's teachings to Merlin, which he was to disseminate in order to contain the barbarism of the Celts so that they would refrain from barbarity and their bloody battles.

75. Merlin, being a Celtic druid, was chosen because the High Council hoped that with his help, King Arthur, who, according to a foresight was to be born on 4th January 469, would transform Henoah's teachings of love, peace, harmony and the freedom and equality for all human beings into reality.

76. The real reason for this undertaking was the Celtic philosophy, which in many ways parallels the teachings of Henoah, whose wise, effective and widespread approach should be implemented to make the Celts give up their degenerated behaviour of barbaric killings and fighting battles.

77. Merlin received a copy of Henoah's teachings, being the first part of the "Goblet of Truth" written on Earth, memorized it and then locked and sealed it in a cauldron.

78. This cauldron was no vessel made of gold but of bronze and decorated with a ruby the size of a cherry, and three small semi-precious stones – rose quartz – were placed in the shape of a triangle, and in its centre the ruby was attached.

79. The 33-centimeter wide cauldron was meant to collect water from a spring at the grail.

80. The grail itself was a sacred place of a spring, usually located on a mountain that the Celts considered a nature sanctuary, and where also a druid's grove was erected that was surrounded by trees and other plants, where the druids meditated in deep consciousness-related interconnection with water, the earth and plants as well as with inexhaustibility of life.

81. These holy places, which have been called the grail, were intended as places of meditation for the druids, and they existed in many places, wherever druids lived and fulfilled their duties.

82. But at the place with the water source, where also Merlin meditated, a vessel was linked to the well, known as the "Cauldron of Abundance", which captured the water located at the divine Ceridwen Spring.

83. Merlin, the druid from Camelot, removed the "Cauldron of Abundance" from its place and replaced it with another vessel, because he put a copy of Henoah's teaching into the cauldron which he and all druids then called the "Cauldron of Life."

84. Merlin presented this cauldron to his protégé and pupil Arthur when he was 16 years old in year 485, after Merlin had thoroughly instructed Arthur and his "knighthood" in Henoah's teaching, and after Arthur had fought his first battle against Germanic invaders led by the chief Aelle.

85. But Arthur and his bloody knights thirsted for blood and vengeance, and they strictly rejected the teachings because they did not want to give up killing and conquest, whereby Arthur thus became very upset and angry at Merlin and cast the gift of the "Cauldron of Life" into the sea with his own hands, although he later reconciled with Merlin again.

Billy:

... I was asked some questions, especially about Keridwena, the sister of your grandfather Ezekeel. Why was she chosen for the task of teaching Merlin the teachings of Enoch? Was she an Ischrisch, and why did she make a radiant sword for Merlin, the Excalibur respectively Caladwylch, which he gave to his disciple King Arthur, who then killed with it in bloody battles? And what role did Merlin play in the murder of King Gorlis of Tintangel?

Ptaah:

131. Keridwena was not an Ischrisch, but a teacher with regard to some activities, and also a teacher with regard to Enoch's teaching.

132. This teaching activity was decisive in that she was chosen for the task of teaching Merlin in the teaching of Enoch, who, however, did not know that Keridwena was not an Earth woman but a Plejarin.

133. She fell in love with Merlin and granted him various wishes, because he saw on various occasions that she had abilities far beyond anything he could explain as a druid.

134. One such wish was also the making of the Excalibur.

135. Furthermore, Keridwena was very fond of Merlin because he did a lot of good for the human beings and was wise to a great extent.

136. Keridwena also told him many things of the future, which she had fathomed through foresight.

137. But Merlin then used these to ascribe them to himself and to mention them as prophecies.

138. Unfortunately, however, Merlin was often fickle, which is why he also did things that went against good, which saddened and even enraged Keridwena, so that she finally ended the secret relationship with Merlin – which nobody really knew anything about.

139. When Keridwena was able to wield the Excalibur again after the death of King Arthur, she destroyed it and returned to Erra.

Billy:

And the murder of King Gorlis, what role did Merlin play in that?

Ptaah:

140. The assassination was not in his mind.

141. The kidnappers murdered the king of their own accord, because he threatened them with the death penalty and also stood up to them.

Billy:

... Time and again it is said on television - just recently again - that Jmmanuel alias Jesus drank wine from a chalice together with the disciples during the so-called 'Last Supper', whereby this must have been very valuable. This chalice is said to have been preserved, but has disappeared to this day. It is assumed to have been found in various places in Jerusalem, but also in Greece, France, Spain and England, where it is said to have been taken. The house where the Last Supper was held, which consisted only of bread, fruit and wine, as I know, belonged to a wealthy Jew, which is why it is also assumed that the 'chalice' was very valuable. For my part, however, I know that Jmmanuel did not think much of ostentation and therefore also avoided ostentatious drinking vessels, jewelery and anything of value, for he was very modest in every respect. I also know that he and his disciples always carried their own small drinking pouches made of animal skins to quench their thirst on the way, while - when they were invited to a house - they took their libations from simple drinking bowls. As your father Sfath once explained to me, it was also like this at the evening meal, where small drinking bowls made of alabaster were used, which were about 10–12 centimeters in diameter and about 4 centimeters deep. Sfath once showed me one such drinking bowl that he received from his great-grandfather and cherished because it came from Jmmanuel's group, he assured me.

Ptaah:

64. This small bowl is now in my possession, and indeed only such small drinking bowls made of alabaster were used at the Lord's Supper.

65. That a chalice was used does not even correspond to a legend, but to an effective lie, which was already thought up and spread by early Christians.

66. The truth is that the drinking bowls were alabaster bowls made in Italy in 'Volaterrae' and brought by the Roman occupiers to Jerusalem and also to all Roman-occupied territories.

67. This already happened when Jerusalem was conquered by the Romans in 63 BC.

68. At that time the alabaster drinking bowls were very popular with the Romans - although they were not of great value - and were also popularly used in small groups and circles in the occupied regions, so also by Jmmanuel and his disciples.

Billy:

And how then did the lie that a cup was used in the Lord's Supper come about?

Ptaah:

69. About the lie that when Jmmanuel was hanging on the cross, a cup was used to catch his blood, which never really happened.

70. This tall tale led to the Grail legend, which is still circulating all over the world, also because in the course of time various valuable chalices were fraudulently produced, which were given the nimbus 'chalice of the Last Supper and chalice of the Blood ', whereby two of these fraudulent chalices were produced in Europe.

Billy:

Sfath already explained this to me, as well as another Grail story, though the actual Grail is a place with a source. ...

Billy:

Good, then my question about 'Volaterrae', was that a town?

Ptaah:

72. It was a town in Italy called 'Volaterrae' in Latin, which is now in the province of Pisa, region of Tuscany, and is called 'Volterra' and corresponds to a town of about 10,000 inhabitants.

73. It is located about 50 kilometers south of Pisa and about 50 kilometers from the Mediterranean Sea. ...

77. Volterra is also still a center for alabaster processing, as it was in the 4th century BC, when the town was formed by the union of several small Etruscan settlements dating back to the 7th century BC.

https://www.futureofmankind.co.uk/Billy_Meier/Contact_Report_794

Billy:

... You have now, after all, dealt intensively with the Christian religion and with the extent to which it is about truth or a fraud, concerning the alleged Grail and the Spear, which are supposedly connected with Jmmanuel alias Jesus Christ and which are today regarded and adored as sacred paraphernalia.

Bermunda:

Research, which has also involved time travel, clearly proved that the two objects have no connection whatsoever with what is claimed regarding what they are said to have served.

Neither of the objects is therefore in any way connected with Jmmanuel alias Jesus Christ. The claims are based on fraud, lies and deceit, that is clear.

https://www.futureofmankind.co.uk/Billy_Meier/Contact_Report_802

Billy:

... But there are other things, such as that various places are mentioned where the so-called 'grail' or the 'chalice' is supposed to exist and be kept, from which Jmmanuel drank wine at the so-called Last Supper. But as it is, mainly with Christians, they are lied to and deceived, especially with alleged relics that are attributed to Jmmanuel – alias Jesus, as he was never actually called. So it is with the alleged grail or chalice, which he never had in his hand, just as he also never drank wine, because he did not like this drink. The 'grail' or 'cup' used in the circle of his disciples at that time was a simple stone bowl, but the disciple Philip, who was somewhat clumsily inclined, dropped it while taking his meal and broke it into 3 pieces, consequently the broken drinking bowl was discarded. So, since Jmmanuel did not drink wine because he did not like it and did not drink any throughout his life, he never had the drinking bowl in his hand, so the lie about the 'grail' or 'chalice' already begins there, which was followed by the deception and is maintained until today that the 'grail' or 'chalice' is kept there or thereabouts. The stupid believers are eager to take the nonsense of lies and fraud at face value and swear that they have seen the 'real' 'grail' or 'chalice' there and then. This is because they have just been shown an object of deception – which will also continue to be so – because it is precisely the delusional belief in the earthlings that displaces all logic, reason and understanding, that he is so caught up in his delusion of belief that he remains stupid and thus cannot think for himself.

Ptaah:

What you are saying is what my daughter Semjase told me, for she was anxious to connect you with Jmmanuel ...

Billy:

... yes she was, and thanks to her I know that there never was a 'grail' or 'chalice' that Jmmanuel held in his hand or drank from. Leonardo da Vinci then also understood this after some explanations, when he created the painting 'Last Supper' on behalf of Duke Sforza and just left out the alleged 'grail' or 'chalice'.

Ptaah:

47. Tutanchamun did not die a natural death because, on the one hand, at the age of 18 years, three months and two days, he suffered a malignantly inflicted severe fracture of his leg, which led to a fatal inflammation called blood poisoning.

48. The father of the child king was Akhenaten or Amenophis IV, who was also his father-in-law, since Tutankhamun married a daughter of Akhenaten, who in turn was his sister.

49. Tutankhamun's mother was Nefertiti, Akhenaten's or Amenophis IV's wife.

50. Nefertiti was the second mother.

Billy:

Why was Tutankhamun murdered? Second mother probably means stepmother.

Ptaah:

51. Yes.

52. The author of the murder was Haremhab, who was Tutankhamun's supreme lord leader and leading minister.

53. His mind and aspirations were to become the ruler of Egypt himself, which he actually succeeded in doing after Tutankhamun's assassination, so that he inherited the murdered man and, as the last ruler of the 18th dynasty, laid the foundations for Egypt's rebirth.

54. He attained the throne by marrying a sister of Nefertiti.

Ptaah:

42. Tut-anch-Amon did not die of malaria, but of a severe leg fracture that was maliciously inflicted on him, causing a protracted inflammation of the blood, which you call blood poisoning.

43. But this was only the indirect cause of his death, because it was caused by a 27 centimetre long metal needle being driven through his left eye into his brain, killing him respectively murdering him.

44. That he suffered from malaria, that is certainly correct, but he also had various other ailments, such as a bone disease, etc.

... Tell me, what do you think of the German super magician Köhnlechner? About an hour ago, I read a long article in the magazine 'STAR' about this crazy, wannabe-great man, who pretends to be a healer and a super physician. Are you at all familiar with this man?

Quetzal:

3. We have already observed him for a long time, and it is unfortunate that we had to find out that hundreds of Earth-humans are enslaved to this meddler.
4. In truth, he has been the most unscrupulous and most unprincipled man in this area for a long time, who, without adequate or even existing knowledge of remedies and medicine, etc., drives hundreds of Earth-humans into delusion and illness or even into mutilation and death.
5. Exactly said, he is the largest meddling operator and profiteer in this area since Master Edward Alexander Crowley, who not only pretended to be a mystical teacher and the greatest magician, but who was also on the rampage as a common remedial doctor, just like this 'healer' Köhnlechner, who undeservedly adorns himself with a Ph.D. and pretends to be a healing practitioner because he attended a brief crash course on this art; however, he learned nothing, so to this very day, he is still missing any reasonable or authoritative knowledge in the area of remedies, those based on a medical nature and on a natural basis.
6. But he is not just an unscrupulous and unprincipled man in these and all related matters, but he is also a crazy visionary who is addicted to and greedy for success, who even passes over corpses if he can win a penny through it.
7. All his words of helpfulness and brotherly love are only empty phrases built on meddling and profit, which have no iota of truth.
8. He is a man of complete life unfitness and imbalance, and another like him among Earth-humans cannot be found so quickly.
9. On top of all these evils, he still suffers from paranoid schizophrenia and from so large a stupidity and incomprehension towards any logic, such that he constantly revokes his own false diagnoses and therapeutic orders, which unfortunately goes unnoticed by those who are enslaved to him, which is why he is not prosecuted by the injured parties.
10. Also, all his assertions are built on rough falsehoods which purport that he has learned medicine as a healer, because in relation to this, he has truly acquired no significant knowledge in this crash course.
11. Neither has he learned the art of acupuncture in China, as he claims, nor does he actually know how to cure any diseases.
12. But wherever healings have appeared, these were the self-healings of the misguided and stupefied believers who are enslaved to him.

13. In truth, his whole mind is only greedily aimed towards personal profit, having a great name, and success, without even the slightest mind towards helping others.

14. In truth, he is a profiteer who belongs to those who are separated and banished by society because his actions and his often degenerated thoughts toward fulfilling his greedy and wishful illusions bring vast and incalculable grief, misery, and hardship for hundreds of humans.

15. And in addition, what still appears as a special form of evil is that many newspapers and magazines, in their own profiteering, cooperate criminally with him, as well as the radio and television, by supporting his criminal machinations through articles and speeches, etc. that are helpful to him, because through this, they themselves earn many millions.

16. The right place for this man would be a secured lunatic asylum, where he, restricted in a straitjacket, would even be separated from true lunatics because he could even seek after his greedy addictions toward success and profit with those – not to mention all those idiots who are still, more or less, strong of mind.

Billy:

Man, you just are not one to speak well of this guy. Nevertheless, he operates in the so-called better circles – with public figures, with actors, singers, politicians, and television stars, etc.

Quetzal:

17. But that changes nothing with regard to the effective truth: that he is a ruthless profiteer with a certain part of the humans.

18. The ones enslaved to him, however, still seem to be more stupid than he is because in his stupidity and primitiveness, he is still rather clever in terms of making others fall to ruin and become enslaved to him.

Billy:

There, you could be right. By the way, I also cannot stand this guy because what I had noticed on the television, when he was subsequently questioned throughout the program, was enough for me. The boundless stupidity and primitiveness of this demon-like creature goes so far that it made me sick, and I had to turn off the TV.

146. These firecrackers from parapsychologists, esoterics, and linguists can quite often get you in a fix with their claims.

Quetzal:

154. Unfortunately, you speak a true word, because terms of old languages are often distorted and falsified beyond recognition on the Earth.

Billy:

147. You are right, but this does not only happen with languages.

https://www.futureofmankind.co.uk/Billy_Meier/Contact_Report_150

Billy:

You say that so dramatically and unscientifically. ...

Quetzal:

504. It is our way to remain human also in scientific explanations, without scientific language.

505. A scientific language predominates only among Earth-humans who believe that they have to distinguish themselves with this language.

506. This is a degeneration of callous megalomania, which also leads to the trivialisation of all dangers.

507. This is one of the reasons why we, and also any other intelligent and truthful thinking life-form, never enter into scientific language, but only use a human wise of speaking, which has to sound somewhat dramatic, because the drama of the monstrous actually exists.

508. A purely scientific form of expression is always wrong, because of the trivialisation and misjudgement of the dangers.

https://www.futureofmankind.co.uk/Billy_Meier/Contact_Report_159

Billy:

I have also noticed that various names are still common on the Earth today, sometimes in well-preserved or partially preserved form.

Quetzal:

72. That corresponds to the actual occurrences.

73. Many of the names are still common on the Earth today, some in exact, some in modified forms.

74. Thus, on the one hand, the names were received in their entire value, whereby usually only the emphasis changed, but on the other hand, names were changed by newly-developed languages or simply by arbitrary willfulness.

75. When these names were introduced on the Earth, these were given in eight different languages, which were, nevertheless, all of Lyran origin.

76. From this, new languages developed on the Earth over the course of millennia, from which then, primarily, the oldest languages known on Earth arose, but these strongly flowed through from the original languages introduced.

77. The best-known languages that arose from it are Sumerian, Aramaic, Hebrew, Minoan, Celtic, etc.

78. From the Celtic, for example, there arose many other languages, from which, ultimately, today's German language, the Flemish, and also other languages arose.

79. From the Minoans, Ancient Greek arose and so on and so forth.

80. And in all these languages, of course, the anciently introduced names were common, which have been received or modified in the course of time.

81. What is still most commonly available today in names is found in those areas of languages that run in the Minoan direction and which have been incorporated into the later Ancient Greek, by which means they have been preserved to a large part up to this day, though often modified.

82. Then, to all this, there still came names that were invented by the Earth-humans themselves, whereby any objects, actions, and work areas, etc. were used for the formation of names.

83. But there were also names that came from the so-called original languages, which means that even then, names arose for human beings on the Earth when the human beings of the Earth first learned to speak.

84. As a rule, these were very simple terms, from which, in the course of time, additional terms arose, which then ultimately led to a language.

85. But this was only so in a few cases, because the main part of the introduction of language on the Earth happened when the first cosmonauts resided on this world, who mixed themselves with the earthly human life-forms, who still were not strong in their own language.

86. Nevertheless, this goes back a few million years.

Billy:

Yes, Sfath even said this, explaining that language serves only for communication, and the communication contains only everything that is of a harmonious nature, which is why there are human races that only communicate with each other in song/musical form.

Quetzal:

79. That is of correctness.

80. Language is actually harmonious in itself, and so, such a thing should also be expressed.

81. In your ranks, you should at least consider being active at times in this form, namely with singing.

Languages of Natural Life-forms

https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Animal_communication

see also Animal Thinking

{Billy (1949):}

... all animals, creatures and all other forms of natural life also have languages, only that these are of a completely different nature than the language of human beings. It is given that every animal genus and every separate species, as well as every animal genus and every separate species, and therefore also every other genus of natural life-forms and their species, each has its own language. In this, each genus and each species of natural life-forms has its own language, which can simply be louder, whistling, chirping, hissing, roaring, snorting, cooing, barking, meowing, growling or otherwise, depending on the genus or species of the life-form in question. Thus, language is simply certain sounds, movements, and motions, etc., as well as the most diverse behaviours, which actually function as a normal means of communication, in order to communicate with each other or with other and different life-forms. Depending on what it is or is supposed to be, the corresponding language resp. the communication appears appreciative, friendly and good, or as dangerous, attacking, fear-inducing or rejecting etc. Thus, in the case of natural life-forms, such as oxen, cows, horses and pigs, or goats, sheep, chickens or geese, as well as, of course, lions, zebras, crocodiles or elephants, tigers, camels and dromedaries, etc., each has its own language resp. means of communication, which corresponds to the life-form.

All natural life-forms, like the human beings, also have their own innate language resp. possibility of communication, which also includes the so-called domestic animals. And depending on the type of life-form, it is natural to expand this possibility of communication by means of a specific learning possibility. It is a fact that all living beings also have a certain Intelligentum, with which they can train and thus learn through some circumstances or through imitation etc.. Through their language and their behaviour and through any other means of communication, very many of all the life-forms of nature can also somehow communicate with other life-forms and even make friends with them, as is also the case, for example, with dogs and cats, etc., which are normally enemies of each other from the ground up, but which can get on very well with the human beings and peacefully associate with them, but can also develop feelings and thus also attachment and good togetherness. Contrary to the erroneous opinion of the human beings, so-called higher natural beings not only have a certain degree of Intelligentum, but also have the ability of instinctive thinking and thus of forming feelings, as well as of feeling and sensing, which is – not alone – a reason why animals, creatures and also completely all other genera and species of natural life-forms are not to be harassed and not to be tortured.

Every higher species and every kind of natural life-form – so called because they differ from the human being as a conscious thinking being – is, as mentioned, capable of instinct thinking, while lower and lowest life-forms are capable of impulse thinking, sensation thinking or only reaction thinking and reaction acting. Nevertheless, all forms of life, and indeed all forms of nature as a whole, have the ability to speak a language by which they can communicate with each other, at least within their own genus or species. As mentioned, this is specific to one's own genus or species, which can also be absolutely different in terms of groups and habitats, which means that, for example, cattle use and practice a completely different language or dialect than the same genus or species that lives, for example, only 250 metres away. So it is the same as with human beings who, for example, live in Switzerland and speak Swiss German in a certain dialect, but in various dialects in other areas probably also speak Swiss German, but a completely different dialect. Nevertheless, it is possible for natural beings that are completely foreign to each other – i.e. animals, creatures and other living beings, as well as plants of all kinds and species – to communicate with each other. This is despite the fact that they speak a foreign language, so to speak, as is also the case with human beings who speak, for example, Swiss German, German, French, Italian, English, Chinese or Arabic, Urdu or Hindi, etc., but who can communicate with each other despite the language barriers, and without the need for an actual interpreter. On Earth there are many thousands of actual languages and dialects among human beings alone, there may be 10,000 or more or less, but among natural beings there are many millions. This is precisely because their immense diversity of genera and species is in the millions, but in humanity it is only small and there is actually only one genus, the human being, from which, however, various species are given. ...

82. This means that the spiritual as well as the material-consciousness-based development constantly progress in harmony with each other and must always be in harmony with each other in accordance with the consistency of all things.

83. In the case of the control of gravity, the rules of the laws are ordered in such manner that primarily the consciousness-based evolution is of decisive importance for the development of technological aids for the control of gravitational forces.

87. If the human being has learned to master these powers, only then will he/she be able to devise and construct highly technological aids.

Library of Alexandria

https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Library_of_Alexandria

https://www.futureofmankind.co.uk/Billy_Meier/Contact_Report_498

Billy:

Time and again, especially recently, I am asked about the library of Alexandria, which was destroyed by a major fire and in which about 800,000 valuable scrolls with scientific records were burnt. Many of the writings were snatched by the Vatican before the library was maliciously set on fire. What can you say about it?

Ptaah:

7. As you know, Alexandria's library was the largest with the most handwritten records at that time.

8. In fact, it housed around 800,000 very valuable scientific scrolls.

9. The scientific handwritings, however, fell victim to an unprecedented wave of destruction during antiquity.

10. Everything was destroyed in the 4th century by the delusion of the Christianity.

11. This, when the aim was to destroy everything that did not fit into the Christian belief.

12. These Christian belief-delusion-based destructions took not only place regarding the library of Alexandria in ancient Egypt, but also everywhere in Asia Minor, in the direct Roman Empire and in Greece etc., where as a whole all libraries were destroyed and burnt down.

13. In Rome alone there were about 30 public bibliothecas and a very large number of private libraries and collections of writings which fell victim to Christian delusion.

14. That which altogether was completely destroyed in wide sections of Rome, Asia Minor and Greece, and so forth, according to our annals, amounts to about 1,341,700 natural science scrolls.

15. Many of these hand-written texts described very valuable medical cognitions and techniques, besides actual technical inventions, which, if these records and plans had been preserved, would have led to the human beings of Earth conquering the outer space and settling on other planets already more than 200 years ago.

16. Furthermore, by the Christian destroyers 2,828,300 scrolls with political, literary and poetic written works were eliminated or stolen and incorporated into the new Christian Church.

17. All the works of antique academics and masters thus disappeared from public knowledge and fell into oblivion.

18. Everything disappeared as if it had never existed and just as if the Earth-humans no longer knew how to use their thoughts, no longer gained cognitions, and no longer made inventions.

19. And all this only because the mighty of the new Christian Church let destroy, burn and eliminate everything that could not be reconciled with their Christian belief-delusion.

20. Thus not only were all bibliothecas, collections and libraries of non-Christian culture radically made to disappear, but also all non-Christian temples, synagogues, houses of God and houses of prayer were declared blasphemous and were just as completely destroyed as all the valuable old handwritings with all the very important notes for the progress and the development of the Earth-humans.

21. The scrolls were not only berated as godless and blasphemous, but it was also forbidden under severe punishments to read the recorded texts.

22. Even the private homes were searched by the Christian henchmen, and if any scrolls were found during the search, they were burned publicly, and their owners held to account in an evil way.

23. This also happened in the year 367 AD in Alexandria, when the local bishop Athanasius ordered such raids on houses, whereby bloody punishments were also carried out for non-Christian owners of writings, which partly also cost human lives.

24. In the year 391 A.D. in Alexandria even a deadly hunt against owners of non-Christian writings was brought into being, to which a larger number of human beings fell victim.

25. In the year 409 A.D. Emperor Constantine issued a decree by which mathematical scientists were also punished with the death of incineration if they did not themselves publicly burn their mathematical notes and they did not renounce mathematics.

26. Ultimately, only a few writings were preserved that were well hidden at the risk of the owners' lives.

27. It was not until the 15th century that they were rediscovered, and it was not even half a percent of what originally existed of what was destroyed by the Christian belief-delusion and belief-fanaticism.

28. But also the remaining writings suffered a defeat, because the Christian fanatics were of course still concerned about destroying the ancient, important knowledge they regarded as contrary to the Christian belief-delusion.

Billy:

The mighty ones of the new Christian Church feared the knowledge recorded in the scrolls, like the plague and the devil, because they knew very well that their entire web of lies of their new religion would collapse like a house of cards, as a result of the public disclosure of all the important notes. All the cognitions captured in the writings, etc., were effective explosives for the elite of the new Church, which would have blown up their entire web of lies. Therefore, the old writings of antiquity found back again were then also further destroyed, however no longer burned, because at that time the parchment was still expensive. Thus, the scrolls were abusively overwritten by monks in monasteries and painted with images of saints etc., so that the old handwritings became unrecognizable. But I wonder why the antique writings reappeared at that time in the 15th century and why the antique knowledge could not be completely destroyed by the Christian fanatics and henchmen and by the power-hungry of the new Church? I think it can only be because the Islam emerged as a new and powerful religion. Due to its belief, the writings that could still be found in relation to the antique knowledge must have been secured like a golden treasure, namely at that time when Alexandria was conquered by the Orientals.

Ptaah:

29. The reason for this was indeed because of Islam, which appeared as another strong religion.

30. When Alexandria was conquered, it was in the year 642 AD. Chr., then all still findable writings of the antique knowledge were safeguarded.

31. The knowledge still found, however, was studied and evaluated throughout the Orient, consequently a tremendous developmental boost emerged, through which the knowledge for centuries exceeded that of Europe and thus the knowledge of Europeans by far.

32. It was no earlier than the Crusaders who were able to get hold of the antique knowledge again and unstoppably brought it to Europe as knowledge forbidden by the Church, partly together with what had already been common in Rome and Greece but was destroyed by the Christian belief-delusion of the Church-mighty.

Light

<https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Light>

https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Speed_of_light

Billy:

Then just not. But is it right, now, if I have calculated that the Creation's expansion rate, for the initial period, was 44,069,497.5 kilometres per second, with a steadily constant half-life rate of almost exactly 6,347,755,102,040 years, from which the results arise that the expansion rate of the Creation at its universal beginning was 147 times the speed of today's speed of light constant, but this speed decreased with a half-life of 6,347,755,102,040 years and continues to decrease, so the starting point of today's light constant lay at a speed of 344,292.9 kilometres per second, but through the already elapsed portion of half-time, it has already dropped by 44,500.4 kilometres per second, whereby the present and current light constant of 299,792.5 kilometres per second arises, according to which an original light-year, from the starting point of the current light constant, of around 1.390×10^{15} km has amounted. This means, according to my calculations, that the constant of one second of the initial period of the expansion rate must have been 147 times faster than the constant of one second today, because at that time, around 46 trillion years ago, the speed of light was even 44,069,497.5 kilometres per second. From this, it also arose in my calculations that one second has, in each case, exactly that number of chronons that the light constant of one septillionth of a millimeter contains in itself because a chronon has a length of 105 septillionths of 140 mm and because exactly that number of chronons is able to pass a certain point, from the source to the fade-out of a beam of light, as the speed of light contains in itself – so in the present case, around 20.394×10^{30} chronons per second. This was even easier to calculate since I knew that space and time are dependent on each other; therefore, both time holds space in itself as also space holds time. From these results, however, my acceptance has arisen that through the transformation and lowering of the speed of light by the half-life, also space and the chronons change themselves, according to which, then, normal space would have to change itself to hyperspace and the chronons would have to change themselves to tachyons, which continue to exist in hyperspace as the smallest units of time at their own, old speed, according to which the oldest tachyons would, therefore, have to have a speed of 44,069,497.5 kilometres per second in their own hyperspace. It also became clear to me that each dwindling away of a half-life creates its own hyperspace; thus, already seven different hyperspaces ($7 \text{ half-lives} = 7 \times 6,347,755,102,040 = 44.434 \times 10^{12}$ years) would have to exist in our universe. Furthermore, it also became clear to me that time travels into the past or future can only be associated with this fact, because somehow, the travelling object must be manipulated in such a way that the flow of chronons is steered. So for example, if tachyons with a speed of light higher than ours and present in hyperspace or normal space would be stored around a travelling object, then it would be hurled into the past, while a flow of chronons below our current speed of light must have a journey into the future as a consequence. This has become clear to me, but the HOW, that has remained a riddle to me. It is now also clear to me that the chronons can only stay and move in normal space, while the tachyons only move in hyperspace. This, then, along with many other things that have become perceptible to me, about which I would still like to say nothing today, however, because I am not yet sure of the results. Ah yes, what could still be said: According to my calculations, after the end of the next half-life, our light constant would have to be 172,146.45 kilometres per second.

...

Billy:

I would still have a few more questions: Is it right that the absolute hyper-light-constant lies at a value of 10^{7000} , as Sfath once explained this to me?

Quetzal:

40. That is of correctness.

41. At the same time, it concerns the constant in the space of the Absolutum of Creation, so the highest speed of Creation and the Creation's expansion rate at the origin.

Billy:

... A long time ago, I once asked you for the total number of all elements in the universe. At that time, you told me that you would not be allowed to give any information about that, unless the exact number would be found out by the human beings of the Earth themselves. Now, again to the question about the number of elements and whether there is a star in the universe, where all these elements are found together?

Semjase:

57. There is no such star, because that would be contrary to the laws of Creation.

Billy:

Ah, good. Is it right that the total number of elements is 280?

Semjase:

58. How did you come across this result?

Billy:

It was not me, my child, but Guido. For my part, I have only calculated that this number must, indeed, correspond to the correctness because it has been found that this number, multiplied in a sevenfold form with the original height of the Giza Pyramid, results in the current speed of light to the tenths place exactly.

Semjase:

59. You are simply unbelievable.

60. The number of the elements is just as correct as also your calculation with the sevenfold multiplying of the original pyramid height.

61. The end result actually yields the exact number of the present light constant.

Billy:

How Guido actually came across the number 280, that I do not know exactly. He only wrote me a calculation formula. It is important there, however, that the base number 280 is right, with which I could calculate further and do some checks. So I simply applied the pyramid height number to this 280 and then multiplied the result in a unique sevenfold form, from which then the result of the speed of light arose.

https://www.futureofmankind.co.uk/Billy_Meier/Contact_Report_165

Billy:

A question in between: by "zero temperature," you probably mean the zero point of space, which we designate as absolute zero, so therefore 273 degrees below zero or something. There could be misunderstandings in this regard because with us, it is maintained and determined by science that the zero point is where the forces divide, so where plus and minus begin, so thus the zero from where values begin to increase with plus 1 degree up to infinity and from where values begin to decrease with minus 1 degree down to minus 273.5 degrees Celsius.

Quetzal:

70. That is very right; my explanation regarding the zero temperature refers to the totality of the negative value, which is not uniform throughout the whole Universe, however, and neither are the appearances of light or of the colours in their respective positive or negative values.

Billy:

Right, but that probably goes too far because we can hardly make it understandable to the human beings of Earth that the colours and light, known to them, also exist in negative values, that there are still many other colours than what the human being knows, just as there is also black light, which, unfortunately, seems crazy to the human beings of the Earth. ...

https://www.futureofmankind.co.uk/Billy_Meier/Contact_Report_876

Billy:

... The whole undignified and sleazy, anti-Semitic pamphlet of lies is nothing other than a conspiracy directed against the believers in the Jews, which was already organised in 1862 by a Jew-hating 11-member American group of drama artists and 'legal scholars', an effective Jew-hating group, who wrote a rude 'World Enlightenment Pamphlet' called 'Coming Jewish World Order'. However, this pamphlet was then shelved and therefore not discussed further after the then American President Abraham Lincoln was confronted with it by one of the 'legal scholars' – a friend of Lincoln's – with the request that the 'pack of Jews' should be expelled from America. However, as a believer in God, Lincoln did not agree to this and threatened to have the showmen and 'legal scholars' 'wiped out' if they spread their pamphlet, which his friend was anxious to have shelved. But that was not the end of it, because some of the showmen and 'legal scholars' of the Jew-haters were bent on revenge, so it was decided to get rid of President Lincoln, which was also put into practice three years later and he was shot. The hatefully cobbled together 'Coming Jewish World Order' was not taken up again until the 1880s, but it was not until the 1890s that it was reworked by other Jew-haters and the pamphlet was given the title 'The Protocols of the Elders of Zion'.

Lindbergh Baby kidnapping

https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Lindbergh_kidnapping

<https://www.fbi.gov/history/famous-cases/lindbergh-kidnapping>

https://www.futureofmankind.co.uk/Billy_Meier/Contact_Report_247

Billy:

... What I want to know is whether the German American immigrant Bruno Richard Hauptmann was actually the murderer of the Lindbergh child and whether he actually kidnapped it, as has been claimed since that event. Hauptmann denied until his death on the electric chair on the 3rd of April 1936, that he was guilty and that he had never seen Lindbergh, his child or his house, etc. ...

Ptaah:

8. Bruno Richard Hauptmann, the American immigrant from Germany, rightly asserted his innocence until his execution.

9. He was indeed innocent, although a large part of the blackmailed ransom was found with him.

10. His assertion that he had the money in custody only for an acquaintance, who had given it to him in faithful hands, was true in every detail.

11. This acquaintance of Hauptmann was in cahoots with Lindbergh and received a lot of money from him to give the alleged blackmail money to Bruno Richard Hauptmann for the reason that it could later be found with him.

12. This ensured that Bruno Richard Hauptmann could be arrested and charged as a child abductor and child murderer as a result of the falsified charge material, which actually happened after Hauptmann had been denounced.

13. Thus, everything contributed to his being sentenced to death and executed, in deliberate guilt of the American hero Lindbergh, who had the actual or actual death sentence. the real murderess of his child, and he consciously saved her from arrest and from the electric chair by inventing a deceitful and infamous intrigue against Bruno Richard Hauptmann, with the lie that his child had been kidnapped while in reality it had already been murdered and hidden in the vicinity of the Lindbergh House.

14. The murderess was Lindbergh's former fiancée Elisabeth Morrow, whom he suddenly spurned one day because he liked her sister Ann Morrow better, with whom he subsequently became engaged and married her.

15. Elisabeth Morrow, Lindbergh's former fiancée, could not cope with this, as a result of which she increasingly terrorized the entire Lindbergh House and its inhabitants with terrible jealousy scenes; and when the Lindbergh baby was born of her sister Ann, she tried to kill her sister by all means.

16. Lindbergh and his wife Ann knew this, so they never left the child unattended with Elisabeth Morrow.

17. One day, however, Lindbergh and his wife Ann were forced to leave without being able to take their child with them or give it to someone else's care, leaving it with Elisabeth Morrow.

18. When Lindbergh and his wife Ann returned home, they were received by a distraught Elisabeth Morrow, who sobbed and confessed that she had murdered the child in a fit of jealousy by hitting her head on the tiles, shattering his skull.

19. As a result of Lindbergh's earlier relationship with Elisabeth and the fact that his feelings for her had still not gone out and that she was also his sister-in-law, who was also loved by Sister Ann, Lindbergh's wife, the three made a joint decision to cover up the murder.
20. It was decided, in common understanding, that Lindbergh, in addition to his lawfully wedded wife Ann, would in future recognise and treat Elisabeth as his wife, as requested by Elisabeth – secretly, of course – after which the police would be alerted and the lie spread that the child had been abducted, but had already been hidden by his own father in the vicinity of her home.
21. The next consequence was Lindbergh's own intrigue, which for the time being was directed against someone unknown.
22. Only through the acquaintance of Bruno Richard Hauptmann did Lindbergh then fall for the German-born immigrant, who was a welcome victim for Lindbergh in order not to bring his Elisabeth into suspicion.
23. So he devised a blackmail story together with his friend who was in bondage to him and to whom he gave a lot of money, handed over the alleged blackmail money to the friend and ensured that Bruno Richard Hauptmann got into disrepute and suspicion, while the friend handed over the false blackmail money to Hauptmann for faithful storage, the end of which took place on the electric chair.

Billy:

... Therefore, I think we should turn to the other matter, namely that of the child Charly, who was murdered in the 1930s. This is what is often talked about on television and what really happened back then. I know from Sfath, who clarified everything in detail at the time, that Richard Hauptmann, who was sentenced to death and executed in the electric chair, was innocent of the alleged child abduction and the murder of Charly Lindbergh. But Sfath forbade me – I do not know why – to speak openly about what really concerned the connections of the whole murder story until 60 years after the event. However, I once discussed the whole thing with one of you, but I do not remember with whom. What had actually happened, however, still concerns many people today who still do not know that it was a matter based on a far-reaching conspiracy which Lindbergh deliberately brought into the world and which he financed with very horrendous sums of money. Now I want to say what Sfath found out at that time, and since we are now in the year 2022, i.e. about 90 years have passed since the event, it should be made clear what Sfath had to say about the Charly Lindbergh murder and what he found out, namely because he personally 'heckled' Lindbergh and put him under the 'magnifying glass', so that the facts could be learned from the best source. It turned out that the truth of the 'child abduction' was actually quite different from what the conspiracy had invented and that an innocent man had to lose his life because Lindbergh had lied to make it appear that everything had happened as he himself had lied. So it is perfectly certain – because Sfath has clarified everything down to the last detail with his infallible possibilities – that it was Lindbergh himself who had Charly murdered, consequently he himself is to be called the murderer of his own son.

That Lindbergh himself wanted to have his little son out of the world, consequently he animated his mistress Elisabeth Morrow as a murderess, who then smashed the skull of little Charly, who was not even 2 years old, but who lived for minutes before he became dead – this, however, was unintentionally observed by the nanny Betty Gow when she entered the room, with whom, by the way, Lindbergh also had a close intimate relationship, as with various other women. What happened at that time shook practically the whole of America, although Lindbergh was well calculated to blame the crime on an innocent man. The whole murder of the boy was based on the fact that Lindbergh did not want a son who was considered a eugenicist or 'noble born', but who was then handicapped, which was not 'noble', as Lindbergh thought. This was reason enough for him to kill his son or have him killed by his mistress.

He was particularly uncomfortable with the whole thing of his disabled son because he was world-famous as a circumnavigator and father, consequently a disabled son would have damaged his reputation, or so he thought. So Lindbergh did not want Charly, his son, to become a care case, because that would have been a disgrace for Lindbergh, in his opinion. However, he mentally dealt with the 'disgrace' of his disabled child shortly after his birth, when it was clear that the child would become a hopeless foster child. He confessed this to Sfath personally when Lindbergh was cornered by him and no evasion of his lies could help him. So he confessed that he was the actual perpetrator of the murder, which took place in the nursery in front of the eyes of the nursemaid Betty Gow, although this young woman was silenced by money, which later nevertheless ended in a poison murder, because Lindbergh was constantly afraid that Betty Gow might speak after all.

To prevent this from happening, Lindbergh hired an assassin who pursued the nanny and finally murdered her with poisoned cake.

Charles Lindbergh's son, who was barely 2 years old, suffered from rickets, which caused the 'English disease' as a result of vitamin D deficiency disorders or a disorder of the bone metabolism, which led to various complaints. In addition, it was largely concealed that the boy also suffered from frequent epileptic seizures, which also did not suit his father. Lindbergh, by the way, was an unscrupulous man who – contrary to false justifications by book writers, other followers etc. who wanted to 'clear' him with lies and deceit and idolised him, which still happens today – on the one hand carried out espionage in Germany from the US embassy, but was also a genuine NAZI and anti-Semite. Lindbergh was indeed an unscrupulous man, who on the one hand worked for the USA, but at the same time was a NAZI and anti-Semite and profited from the fact that he was playing a double game and was heavily remunerated for it. But as far as his son was concerned, who was really ill and suffered not only from rickets but also from epilepsy, as he was also slightly limited in his consciousness, which was usually concealed, this caused Lindbergh to have Elisabeth Morrow smash Charly's skull in – which this woman actually did because she was in bondage to Lindbergh. Then, finally, to make sure that the young woman Betty Gow kept quiet about what she had seen, he had an assassin murder her in the course of time by sending her – I do not know how and where – pastries soaked in a poisonous detergent or something.

Lindbergh also arranged everything himself, such as arranging a ladder big enough to reach the nursery window, thus faking a kidnapping even though Charly was already dead and taken out of the house.

Lindbergh managed this with the help of two criminals, but he had to pay them a lot of money. He then used this to tell a lie that he had to pay this as a ransom for the kidnapping of the child, precisely in order to get his child back. However, the fact that he paid a fictitious ransom, which was ultimately played into the hands of Richard Hauptmann, was Lindbergh's full calculation in order to be able to accuse him of being the child kidnapper and Charly's murderer. Hauptmann was chosen for this in revenge because he refused to take part in this crime, for which a request to him for his assistance had failed.

However, Lindbergh also succeeded excellently in getting possession of the alleged 'ransom money', which gave him further 'proof' that he himself was not to blame for the whole alleged kidnapping and later the death of the child. He even steered the investigation of the partially 'bought' police in certain directions, so that he got out of the murder of his son, although some people still suspected him of being Charly's murderer. Something that actually corresponded to reality, since his child was murdered on his behalf. In the end, however, an innocent man was murdered in the electric chair for his deed, the German-born Richard Hauptmann. That is what really happened according to Sfath at that time and what he found out.

Loch Ness Monster

https://www.futureofmankind.co.uk/Billy_Meier/Contact_Report_230

Billy:

We once talked about the lake Ness, that is Loch Ness in Scotland, in connection with the so-called Nessi, which is supposed to be a dinosaur, but for which no proof of existence could be provided until today. However, it was said by you that such an animal actually existed in Loch Ness and that it would therefore not be a fairytale. I would like to see the beast. Can you take me there sometime?

Quetzal:

109. In fact, there are two parent animals and one young animal.

110. We are talking about predatory dinosaurs living in water, i.e. Plesiosaurus, which have prevailed for many generations.

111. However, it will be very difficult to prove their existence because the animals rarely move to upper parts of water or even to the water surface in such a way that they can be sighted.

112. We have been observing these distant dinosaur descendants for many years and in the course of our research we have also found petrified fossils of their most distant ancestors, which we, however, left at the sites where we found them, where they may one day be found by earthly palaeontologists or other Earth-humans.

113. Of course I'll take you there, so you can see the animals, but you'll have to keep quiet about that to the public for the next 12 years.

https://www.futureofmankind.co.uk/Billy_Meier/Contact_Report_618

Billy:

Well, Quetzal showed me one of the aforementioned animals in its element... Now, however, stories have been circulating on the internet and television for a long time that some people have seen the so-called 'Nessi' and have also been tested with the latest lie detectors for their statements of truth and have been found to be genuine in this respect. By this I mean that the statements of these persons are said to be true according to the lie detector, i.e. that they are said to have actually seen 'Nessi' or the or a plesiosaur. In addition, a plesiosaur carcass is said to have been fished out of the sea about 50 kilometres east of New Zealand in 1977 and then thrown back again, as Japanese sailors report, as this observation report says, which I copied from the Internet using the search term 'New Zealand monster 1977'. There is also a picture of the carcass, which is also referred to as the 'New Zealand Monster'. Can you say something about this, because about 25 years ago Quetzal and I last talked about plesiosaurs... So here is the observation report and a picture from Wikipedia: ...

Ptaah:

43. I am as familiar with the various writings on the internet as I am with what you have here as an observation report.

44. And may I say that since your conversation with Quetzal, we have continued to research these sea creatures and have finally been able to find a total of 6 younger and 23 older specimens in the Atlantic Ocean as well as in the Pacific Ocean, in Loch Ness and in the South Seas.

45. And as far as the Yano internet report is concerned, it is to be said that all descriptions and representations as well as claims of earthly 'experts' concerning the carcass absolutely do not correspond to the correctness, because the carcass hoisted onto the Japanese ship 'Zuiyomaru' was in fact a deceased Plesiosaurus.

46. I investigated this myself out of my own interest by looking back and found that it was undoubtedly the mortal remains of such a sea creature, a male plesiosaur, that is.

Billy:

So it was not a basking shark, as is claimed. ...

Semjase:

9. The Earth-human is misguided if he/she wants to make the concerns of Easter Island an isolated concern.
10. The events of earlier times on this island are in direct connection with the country, which you still call Tiahuanaco today, as it was called already at earliest time, in spite of past repeated changes.
11. Easter Island and Tiahuanaco are more than 5,000 kilometres apart, and yet they are directly related to each other.
12. However, the history of the connection goes back to very early times and ended only 2,548 years ago, calculated back from today [1976 = 572 before Jmmanuel].
13. As I once explained to you, the last decisive settlement of the Earth by extraterrestrial intelligences took place about 13,500 Earth years ago.
14. As you know, several of the immigrant horde became renegades, including a man in the rank of a half-Ischwish called Viracocoha, who was already very old and extremely power-hungry.
15. His name is still handed down on the Earth today, but with a small change, because for a long time now he has only been called Viracocha and also as Jschwisch, although he was only in half the rank of such a person.
16. Under his patronage and his cruel leadership, the highlands of Tiahuanaco at an altitude of about 4,000 metres were conquered, as was the Delta Island, which you call Easter Island.
17. After this conquest Viracocoha settled with a special bodyguard of cherubim on the small island Mot, which is situated in front of Easter Island and which you call Motunui or similar to my knowledge today.
18. At that time it was called Mot because the cherubim were animal-human life forms, in this case they were all birdlike.
19. Mot means bird in our original language, so the island was called the Mot island, or also the island of the bird people, as it is still called today.
20. So Viracocoha or Viracocha resided there.
21. He and his followers, escaped Lyrans like many others, who came to the Earth, were of gigantic physique, by earthly measure about eleven meters tall.
22. They were the ones who taught the dwarfish, normal-growing inhabitants of Tiahuanaco and Easter Island – who were procreations between earthlings and previously immigrated intelligences from the vastness of the universe – in many things, providing them with their own highly developed technology and teaching them how to operate the devices and machines.
23. Thus they also taught the natives of Tiahuanaco and Easter Island the work of stonemasonry, and they let themselves be celebrated as gods.
24. With the help of the giants and their machines and other equipment, the natives worked many meters large head formations out of the lava stone, placed these, also with the help of machines, randomly around the island.
25. Similar events took place in the areas you call Pisco, Nazca and Sacsayhuaman, because the same giants had settled there.

26. Thus many statues and other structures were created, whereby also the shape of the spaceships on Easter Island were reproduced from rocks of the lava walls, which have survived to this day, namely oval-shaped stones, because the spaceships had this shape.

27. After several centuries, the exact time is also veiled to us, the giants were attacked by a sudden epidemic that was unknown to them and cost the lives of many of them.

28. Finding no cure for the epidemic, they fled Earth in their spaceships, set off into space and have since disappeared.

29. Despite the most eager investigations of our scientists, no trace of them has been found to this day.

30. There is therefore the possibility that, despite their flight from Earth, they were attacked and killed by the mysterious plague in their space ships, while their ships shot aimlessly through space, were attracted by some star and smashed to pieces.

31. Our probability calculations very much favour this.

https://www.futureofmankind.co.uk/Billy_Meier/Contact_Report_229

Quetzal:

15. As a rule, the Nazcans were people with high skulls, which means that their skulls showed an exceptional long skull form, which was not of original origin.

16. This skull-form was artificially produced; as long as the skull was still formable, it was restricted and bound with grinded metallic, stony and wooden plates, forcibly leading to a skull of long form and resulting in an oblong deformation.

17. This procedure was even started with newborns when they were one week old.

18. Everything was not an ideal of beauty, but a tribute to the gods, to give them obsequious reverence.

19. Only those Nazcans were permitted to have and wear the oblong-skull-form who were of higher class, i.e. about 85 percent of the population.

20. The remaining 15 percent were "lower people" who had to perform slave duty and similar tasks, and who were looked upon as social misfits etc., and whose well-being or non-well-being and, therefore, their life was laying in the hands and will of the "higher ones" and especially of the priests.

Billy:

... With this I can say that the Earth-foreigners, who are generally simply called extraterrestrials or aliens by the Earthlings, have in fact been around for a long time. They stayed here and worked in many ways, as did their distant descendants, but they have also been active on Earth for centuries and millennia up to the present day, flying around and in and out of the Earth, and are observed again and again around the world by the Earthlings, whereby the American continent is of particular importance in this respect. Their early ancestors worked in many different ways on Earth, and also in various countries in Asia, North Africa and partly in Europe, but mainly in the early days in the North African country, which in later times was called 'Kemet' and then finally in later times Egypt, after which this name has been preserved until today. Your father Sfath taught me during a leap in time into the past to the land there, where the Earth-foreigners ruled at that time, whom he called 'long-skulls' and whom I have seen myself, that they had been on Earth for thousands of years. Because, in contrast to the round skulls of the human beings of Earth, they had skulls that were long and thickly protruding towards the back, they stood out unmistakably from the human beings of Earth just as other Earth-foreigners did around the world, such as giants up to about 3 metres tall, half-small people with large and somewhat v-shaped heads and excessively large eyes. Various such long skulls have also been found in modern times by archaeologists, etc., although to this day people still puzzle over what secret is connected with these skulls, which were not from human beings of the Earth, but belonged to Earth aliens. ...

... But what I still have to say with regard to the land of Egypt in early times and thus long before antiquity and the time of the Pharaohs, is the following: At that time the country looked completely different from what it does today, for on the one hand I can remember that the Nile had another large river branch to the left of its course, which flowed through a very large and long valley, whereby the Nile itself also ran much more westwards than is the case today. There was also a large city in the great valley, where I also saw 'long skulls'. ...

... Now, in another large city than the one in the great valley of the Nile tributary, I could observe other 'long-headed' as well as 'normal-headed' people who were the actual rulers of the land of 'Kemet', to which Sfath explained to me that their early ancestors had been coming to Earth for millennia, probably for more than 75,000 years, when they also built the first great pyramids, which were then repeatedly dismantled and rebuilt in the course of time, which I could observe for myself through another journey into the past with Sfath. The last time this happened was around 5,000 years ago, but before that it was also 6,000 years ago and more than 12,500 years ago. This also happened with the peoples in South America and Asia, where the 'long-skulled', the Earth-foreigners and the other Earth-foreigners, who were physically 'Earth-foreign', 'normal-skulled' or small and 'big-headed' and 'big-eyed', but also giants, as for example in South America, were also involved and had a culturally completely different influence on the Earth-peoples on all continents. As a result, different buildings, villages, cities, cult objects and pyramids as well as sites with large menhirs were also created all over the world, such as Stonehenge in England, near Avesbury in Wiltshire, about 13 kilometres north of Salisbury, and in Armenia the Stonehenge or megalithic fields in Zorakarer, near the mighty mountain ranges of the Caucasus, whereby the techniques of the Earth-foreigners were used in transporting and erecting the megaliths, which weighed many tonnes. ...

... Under the direction of the 'long-skulled', villages, cities and pyramids were also built in early Egypt, as were also a few areas in Europe, where there were still huge forests at that time, although the northern regions of the Earth were for the 'long-skulled' and the other Earth-foreigners, such as the small 'big-headed' and 'big-eyed' as well as for the 'normal-headed', because, on the one hand, they preferred warmer climates and were therefore dependent on fertile land in warmer areas, as well as on many human beings whose help they needed as labourers and whom they could also dominate and rule. ...

Ptaah:

124. Regarding what you said about the 'long-skulls', it should be mentioned that Earth-humans have made various efforts to imitate these long skull forms, namely by constricting and shaping the still soft and growing skulls with the open fontanelles of babies and growing children for years shortly after birth.

125. This resulted in proportionally the same long-skull effect as in the 'elongated skulls', but with certain differences, whereby the artificial long-skull formation was recognisable.

Ptaah:

39. When then about 13,500 years ago the up to then last Plejaren community of immigrants came to Earth, then this happened in a completely secret form, namely because since the time of 389,000 years earlier other extraterrestrials had come to the Earth in the meantime and had settled down far and wide on all continents, above all the long-skulled ones.

40. In ancient Egypt in particular, they rose to positions of power, waged wars and subjugated tribes of peoples, such as those who called themselves 'Ebraya'. ...

Billy:

... the Earth-foreigners who ruled in various pre-ancient countries on Earth, such as the Long Skulls, who exercised their might especially in the areas around the Nile and in the southland of the American continent. ...

https://www.futureofmankind.co.uk/Billy_Meier/Contact_Report_743

Billy:

... The huge area of Huetap alone and the great city of the same name, Huetap, which existed 3,500 years ago in what is now Honduras, was monstrous as far as I was concerned, whereby the long-skulled also worked there and had a pyramid built, just as the long-skulled did in Egypt, in the Balkans and in Asia, and so on.

https://www.futureofmankind.co.uk/Billy_Meier/Contact_Report_795

Billy:

Sfath also experienced this, so his real age was to be calculated with more years. But with him I not only learned a lot through journeys into the past and the future, which prove to me today that many things are not true what the scientists assume and spread as truth. Many things were really quite different from what they claim, for example, what actually happened with the Maya, or with other ancient peoples, and that foreigners really did come to Earth from other worlds, from far away and outside the SOL sphere of influence, from the distant expanses of the DERN universe – also the Long Skulls. What I wrote at that time, when it was, I do not remember, in response to a request to ... after which ... began. The Long-skulled were also in Babel, in Egypt, in South America and in Asia, where they ruled, whereby Sfath gave me the opportunity to check everything.

https://www.futureofmankind.co.uk/Billy_Meier/Contact_Report_826

Billy:

So also, for example, with regard to extraterrestrials who really came here, such as the long-skull ones who came from outer space and ... to Earth, as Sfath said, but which I should not say and keep silent about.

However, they were human beings who were also able to mix with the human beings and did so, such as the long skulls and the giants and dwarves, of whom there is talk in fairy tales, who had instilled and taught the early earthlings many things.

...

Billy:

But also the journeys to Egypt at that time are to be mentioned, especially the long-skulled people, who were strongly represented there, as they also established themselves as a people in South America, as well as somewhere in Asia, from which many Huns later emerged as descendants.

...

The long-distance travellers from the cosmos were 'compatible' with the human beings and also mingled with the human beings' women, whereby their tendency for long skulls spread in such a manner that the humans of various regions imitated their long-skulls, namely by binding their newborns' heads so that they deformed and the skulls became longer, so that over the years long-skulls also became common among certain human beings.

In rare cases, this long skull has been preserved from ancient times until today, so that it can sporadically happen that a very distant descendant of the long skulls is born again, but as a pure earthling, whereby the long skull breaks through again in a genetically visible way.

https://www.futureofmankind.co.uk/Billy_Meier/Contact_Report_829

Billy:

So, I think I may now speak openly and say that beings from the depths of the space of this universe visited the Earth before there were Earthlings.

Since then, however, their descendants have come here again and again, creating many things for the human beings of the Earth in the last 390,000 years or so, which were often only achieved with hovering techniques.

...

Whether the people who travelled far and wide were always persons of the same people, and also whether it was later their descendants who came here and who ..., I do not know.

But it is to be assumed that the various groups were somehow connected.

Some of them were real giants of different sizes, but there were also human beings of normal sizes, and then also dwarfs of normal size, thus not microsomic human beings. [microsomia refers to humans with abnormally small bodies]

And there were also long-skulled and tall-skulled people – which was then imitated by the earthlings by integrating the skulls of infants.

Sfath explained that most of these long-distance travellers had mixed with the earthlings all over the world, so that it would also be the case in the distant future that tall stature, long-skulledness and tall-skulledness would be preserved and that earthlings of this kind would be born again and again if they traced back to the lineages of the mixing at that time.

This means, on the one hand, that the evil-minded extraterrestrial Giza intelligences, who want to bring the Earth into their power, cause such phenomena by projections or play such a role themselves, and, on the other hand, that Earth-humans afflicted by the religious delusion send out their horrendous fantasy by their consciousness-based powers and cause such phenomena by projection or visually-semi-materially.

Whereby the so-called supernatural of course does not exist in any way, because everything and everything is always naturally explainable and also naturally given. The supernatural exists only in the ignorance and the incomprehension of man, because he has no knowledge about all those things which he cannot understand and cannot explain himself. Truthfully everything so-called supernatural is absolutely natural and thus also classified according to the corresponding laws of spirit or matter, which are able to give an explanation for everything and everyone, whereby something supernatural becomes a fact of non-existence. Everything that can be grasped and perceived, everything that can be seen and heard and everything that can be felt, recognized, experienced and experienced, etc., is always real, real and natural in every case, regardless of whether it takes place on a spiritual or material level or on a medium level between spirit and matter, which is so often called the level of the supernatural or the supernatural by parapsychologists and esoterics who do not understand it.

59. They have again 'hijacked' a vehicle and also murdered a man in it.

60. Do you have any idea how these things will develop?

Semjase:

89. Sure, because we follow these terrible concerns very closely, only I am not allowed to give information about them, neither about this case nor about all the many future ones.

...

91. I can probably tell you about the end of the present event if you keep silent until the early hours of the morning, because until then things have been decided for the better.

...

93. Germany's government has not remained idle all this time, as was generally assumed all over the world.

94. Serious plans were worked out in secret, but they can only be realised if silence is kept in the strictest form, which is why a strict news embargo was imposed, which will continue into the early hours of the following night.

95. The fact is that the government of Germany has drawn up liberation plans for the hijacked aircraft and is implementing them the following night at midnight.

96. The German government trained a special unit over a long period of time, soldiers of the so-called border guards, who are supposed to intervene in terrorist acts and break the terror.

97. A large part of this special unit is already on the scene of the coming events, namely in Mogadishu, Somalia, where they will carry out a surprise attack on the hijacked aircraft at midnight local time and bring the aircraft into their possession.
98. With new weapons, these special unit soldiers will take the criminals in the aircraft out of action for seconds, in order to open the aircraft doors in a flash action in order to enter.
99. There will be a short fight in which the criminal kidnappers will be killed.
100. To my knowledge, only one criminal has a chance of survival.
101. Of course, injuries to air passengers and members of the Special Forces cannot be avoided, but they are unlikely to be killed.
102. These are the events that will take place this night in Mogadishu, in Somalia, and it will be the end of this kidnapping.

Billy:

64. That is very good news, but how will things go with the murdering bunch in Germany, where it they are in prisons and are pressing to be released?

Semjase:

103. The decision will also be made for them this night.
104. Several of them will not experience tomorrow's day anymore, because the main ringleaders will fall victim to a liquidation, which will be controlled from outside the prison.
105. Prison internal forces will carry out the liquidation and present everything as suicide, while in reality only two of these criminal elements will carry out such an attempt, the outcome of which we do not yet have a precise analysis of.
106. Three main ringleaders, however, will certainly be killed.

Billy:

65. And who are these?

Semjase:

107. A woman named Gudrun Ensslin, then a man named Andreas Baader and another named Raps.
108. It is these three who are liquidated.

Magnetic Poles [North Pole / South Pole]

https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/South_magnetic_pole

--see also North Pole discovery

https://www.futureofmankind.co.uk/Billy_Meier/Contact_Report_031

Billy:

... I have a few other questions, if there is time. One question concerns our Earth or the magnetic poles of our Earth. I often worry about this because the weather and the climate seem to go crazy for me. I experienced the last correct spring, summer, autumn and winter in 1947. Since then, however, everything has changed almost abruptly. I combined this with the atomic bomb explosions, namely that these could be to blame, but this is denied by dear science. On the 6th of August 1945, the first atomic bomb exploded over Hiroshima and a few days later the second over Nagasaki. I calculated that the atomic radiation needed a full two years to encircle the globe of the Earth, despite the claims of atomic scientists etc. to the contrary. When this happened, the climate was fundamentally affected. I can only imagine, however, that this enclosure must have happened at very high altitudes and acted on the Earth like a mantle. On the one hand, this is true; on the other hand, however, the explosions must also have caused a polar movement, which led to some kind of far-reaching things. Am I correct in this, or am I on the wrong track with my assumptions?

Ptaah:

...

922. The Earth's magnetism has been and will continue to be disturbed by other similar bombs and also by the atomic bomb explosions.

923. That means; a very weak recoil effect was and is exerted on the Earth by the explosions, whereby this is influenced in hardly measurable values among other things in the rotation.

924. This means that the Earth is forced out of its normal rotation and then slowly seeks a new self-rotation orbit.

925. However, the Earth's orbit around the Sun was also affected in very small values and the planet was pushed slightly out of its normal orbit.

926. Thus, from the 1940s until now, Earth scientists have committed a vicious crime against their own planet and against all mankind, and they will continue to do so, for all the explosions carried out to date have forced changes that are of very far-reaching significance and these can have very catastrophic effects.

927. The magnetic poles of North and South have already shifted considerably in recent years.

928. Today, for example, the magnetic pole in the north is already offset in the Canadian Arctic Ocean, while the south pole has also shifted and is moving towards South America, which cannot be attributed solely to the Earth's periodic shift.

929. Around the turning point of the fifth millennium, i.e. in a little more than 3,000 years, the changes in the Earth's magnetic poles will have progressed to such an extent that the South Pole will be located in South America, while the North Pole will have moved towards Saudi Arabia.

930. The point of the North Pole in the year 5000 that can be calculated so far resulted in a location between Jeddah on the Red Sea and the Islamic pilgrimage city of Mecca.

931. This means that you have hit the nail on the head with your calculations, namely that the Earth's magnetic poles were indeed influenced.

https://www.futureofmankind.co.uk/Billy_Meier/Contact_Report_039

Billy:

Okay, then I have another question regarding Mount Shasta. I have already talked about this with Semjase, but something still seems unclear to me. Semjase told me that distant descendants of the Hyperboreans now live in Mount Shasta, on the Aleutian Islands, and in Alaska. Henoah, however, and also Jmmanuel, spoke of "the winds between the East and West" or between the "North and West." From this, I always thought that the "green land" of the Hyperboreans, so Hyperborea, must have been somewhere far up north, in Greenland or something. But now, this does not make sense any more with Mount Shasta. What should I now think of this?

Ptaah:

187. At the time of Henoah, the North Pole was situated differently than what is the case today.

188. Through cosmic influences and through an upset of the Earth, the North Pole at that time shifted far to the west.

189. The central point of the North Pole at that time is identical to present day Florida in America.

190. The Polar Regions at the time of Henoah were wondrous landscapes, filled with palms and other tropical vegetation.

...

196. Similar conditions can still be found today in the former Hyperborea, so in Florida.

Billy:

172. I actually found out some things, for example why everything down here in the Sohar-Center {meditation center} becomes and is much more pronounced than it usually is.

173. Somehow, however, it is incomprehensible to many that the compass needle shows two different north directions within one meter of horizontal displacement.

Semjase:

259. You should not officially spread these concerns yet, because so-called experts would accuse you of fraud and deception again, although a very strong north deviation actually exists and the compass needle in reality shows the old and the new location of the magnetic positive pole of the Earth, at least at present, but this will correct itself in two decades.

260. The pole of the Sohar-Centre points very precisely to the old magnetic pole, which is also valid at present, while the compass needle at the house points to the new positive pole of the Earth, namely in the direction of Greenland, where this magnetic pole is now located.

Asket {3rd February 1953}:

97. The Earth human has become capable of destroying his world in an atomic explosion, which would bring very dangerous consequences for the entire system.

98. Already once, millennia ago, a similar catastrophe was released in this solar system, namely, as the planet, which was the second human-inhabited one of this system, was destroyed.

99. Through the irrationality of the humanity who lived there at that time the planet was blown up into thousands of smaller and larger pieces, and thereby a flourishing world was destroyed.

100. As the Earth's sister planet, it orbited the Sun in the position where now the planet Mars goes its way.

101. But, through the mighty first explosion, a gigantic repulsion effect was produced and the planet was catapulted away to finally explode in the orbit where it now circles as the asteroid belt.

102. The name of the planet was Malon, which then later, because of its destruction, was changed and underwent a slight alteration.

103. At that time Mars circled in the present day's asteroid course, and was driven into a closer solar orbit through the violent destruction-explosion of the planet Malon.

104. Malon's solar orbit was, therefore, at that time, there, where Mars now circles, whereas this situation was, however, altered through the destruction. (The planet of that time is today named Malona or Phaeton, etc.)

https://www.futureofmankind.co.uk/Billy_Meier/Contact_Report_004

Semjase:

109. The Earth-human must become familiar with the thought that her/his ancestors had brought the whole humankind and the Earth itself to the brink of ruin and had to partially evacuate the planet in a wild escape.

110. But it should also serve her/him as a warning that greed for might and barbarism are deadly attributes.

111. That this is the case has also been experienced by a second race in your solar system.

112. In their boundless hatred and in their uncontrollable greed for might, they destroyed themselves right down to the last, and hardly any being survived the fight.

113. They annihilated and destroyed their own planet in a tremendous explosion, and nothing remained of it but many thousands of asteroids that still orbit your sun today – as a memorial to the deadly irrationality of human beings.

114. Remnants of the once splendidly blooming planet Malona, which its inhabitants destroyed in their barbaric greed for might and irrationality.

https://www.futureofmankind.co.uk/Billy_Meier/Contact_Report_005

Semjase:

167. In doing so they came across the system of the earthly Sun.

168. They settled here on three different planets, namely on the Earth, on Malona and on Mars, and began with the building of a new culture.

169. But the planets were still rather inhospitable and often hostile.

170. So they left the planets again and paid them visits only now and then.

https://www.futureofmankind.co.uk/Billy_Meier/Contact_Report_070

Semjase:

69. So the expedition ships set off again and after many years reached the SOL-system, where they forced three different planets under their rule and began to build a new culture.

70. However, these planets, Earth, Malona and Mars, were still extremely inhospitable and hostile to life, so the majority of the expedition fleet left the worlds again after a few years, leaving only a few behind, who slowly faded away and joined the animal-looking feral descendants of those earlier abandoned ones millions of years ago, as well as the pure Earth-born ones.

71. The scientists of the Plejara system, like their earliest ancestors, left the Earth to its natural development, making expeditions and monitoring visits only here and there, and then leaving the human beings who had become completely wild and were now left there to their hard fate.

72. This lasted many thousands of years.

73. Then, when the idolism had been abolished in the Plejara systems and the leader Plejara had died, a new intelligence developed on the Earth through the descendants of the feral abandoned ones, which led to the fact that the Plejara system inhabitants, who were constantly observing the Earth, came forward with new expeditions to Earth and once again built up a culture in the same manner as they built up a culture on the fourth planet, namely on the world of Malona.

74. Still very barbarically inclined, however, power struggles broke out again among the new settlers after less than 300 years, which led to the fact that the Earth had to be vacated by an order under force from the home systems.

75. Malona, on the other hand, remained inhabited because the population there remained peaceful.

76. But this only lasted for barely forty years, and then the greed for power among the two different peoples also took hold there, and before any orders could be made from the home systems, the Malonians destroyed each other and destroyed the whole planet.

77. Since then the debris of the once beautiful planet between Mars and Jupiter has been orbiting the SOL, the system's sun, as a long-lasting memorial to human madness.

https://www.futureofmankind.co.uk/Billy_Meier/Contact_Report_150

Quetzal:

162. After the discovery of the moons around Jupiter, scientists now reckon that they will also still find some undiscovered satellites around Saturn, but nevertheless, there will still be a surprise for them.

Billy:

You think because of the Adonis some of which orbit millions of kilometres outside Saturn?

Quetzal:

163. That is of correctness.

164. These small planets, called Adonis, as you correctly say, are so small that they cannot be detected and seen from Earth, at least not at present, because the necessary instruments do not yet exist.

165. A large part of these small planets will certainly be detected by various probes and Earth-orbiting telescopes, which will cause some confusion among scientists.

Billy:

I can imagine that, because there is quite a large number of them orbiting Saturn – besides the few small wandering Adonis that only pass by this SOL satellite from time to time. But I can understand why they are not visible from the Earth, because on average they only have a diameter of between 10 and 50 kilometres, if I remember correctly what Ptaah and Semjase explained to me back then in the year 1975. In addition, there are supposed to be some smaller ones as well as larger ones at a huge distance from Saturn.

Quetzal:

166. That is of correctness, but you should also know where these Adonis came to Saturn from.

Billy:

Of course. Semjase said at the time that these small satellites were in part larger fragments of the planet Malona, which had its orbit between Mars and Jupiter before it was destroyed and torn into thousands of pieces by an explosion unreasonably produced by the human beings there. While the greatest part of the destroyed planet orbited the Sun as an asteroid belt between Mars and Jupiter, some small groups of Adonis separated and flew out into space by the expansion forces of the planetary explosion, a larger group of which then came into the gravitational pull of Saturn, which has since held them as tiny satellites, which at the same time means that they are not actual moons of the unfinished solar planet, but just immigrant foreign bodies the size of Adonis, while the number of Saturn's actual moons is only 29.

Quetzal:

167. That is of correctness ...

https://www.futureofmankind.co.uk/Billy_Meier/Contact_Report_155

Quetzal:

73. ... the destruction of the planet Malon, over which you are oriented and have also received information about it.

74. The Earth was also slightly affected at that time, when this inhabited planet exploded, having been destroyed by human hands.

Billy:

When was that anyway?

Quetzal:

75. At the time of the building of the pyramids, so about 73,000 years ago.

https://www.futureofmankind.co.uk/Billy_Meier/Contact_Report_213

Quetzal:

162. The exact year of Jmmanuel's birth was five years before the Christian calendar known today.

163. At that time, there actually was a very large and unusually strongly radiating comet that was observable from the Earth, which we call the 'Fruitful One', because from very early times, inseminations for the Earth and for the planet Phaeton, respectively Malona, have gone out from it, whereby life could develop on these two SOL satellites.

164. The 'Fruitful One', however, has an extremely long period of revolution on a path that leads far out into the Oort cloud.

165. Accordingly, it will take more than 11,000 years, according to Earth's measure of time, before a return of this comet occurs in the SOL-system.

166. Its orbital period is 13,200 years.

https://www.futureofmankind.co.uk/Billy_Meier/Contact_Report_228

Quetzal:

115. Moreover, it must be said that the name Phaeton is completely misused, for Phaeton was the planet that was destroyed by its inhabitants, namely Malona, which broke into thousands of pieces and today forms the asteroid belt.

116. With regard to the planet Malona resp. Phaeton, it is also falsely claimed that it was the planet from which the Earth and its moon sprang.

117. Tiamat is an old Earth-language term for the planet Phaeton resp. Malona, which was destroyed by human irrationality.

https://www.futureofmankind.co.uk/Billy_Meier/Contact_Report_238

Billy:

A further question would therefore be of that relating to that asteroid, which is to penetrate next year into the area of the Earth ...

...

... Maybe it would be interesting to know if you know where the meteor and its companions come from?

Ptaah:

...

848. We could not clarify their origin very precisely, because it is possible that they come from the system of Uranus, as they are remnants of the planet Malona, but also from the two outermost ring systems.

849. The latter seems to be much more probable, because the age of most of the meteorites of this cluster coincides with the structures there, and their materials are also of the same kind.

850. But if these wandering meteors came from the surroundings of Uranus, then the materials would have to be younger.

851. But one thing I can say for sure is that this meteor group did not go on its journey through the destruction of the planet Malona, but that the wandering planet destroyer was the triggering factor.

852. From now on it was eight Destroyer passes ago, when this travelling planet got into the area of the asteroid belt and catapulted several small asteroids out of it.

853. These, however, gradually got further and further away from the Destroyer until, after almost 1,600 years, they finally became independent and took their own path, which they have followed ever since and which leads them again and again to the Sun and into the vicinity of Earth.

Billy:

The rest of the peoples who were genetically-manipulated found their way from the Sirius areas to the SOL-system, where several thousand rebellious genetically-manipulated peoples were punitively abandoned in many diverse places on the Earth, while the masses of the numerous different races of peoples found a new home on the planets Mars and Malona/Phaeton, where they built cities, pyramids and stations, etc. ... Malona resp. Phaeton, on the other hand, was destroyed by its genetically-manipulated, and former Sirius area, inhabitants in fratricidal wars and caused to explode by leading a river or sea into the subterranean resp. submarine magma chambers of a gigantic volcano. The asteroid belt contains the remnants of the former planet, which at that time did not orbit where the asteroid belt is today, but at the place where Mars orbits the Sun today, while Mars was where the asteroid belt is today. This change of position was caused by gigantic upheavals, in which the destroyer was also involved. The places resp. the planets and solar systems, where the two yellow races settled beyond the galaxy, the Milky Way, as well as Mars, Earth and Malona/Phaeton had been chosen as effective hiding places by the well-meaning ones, by the escape helpers of the genetically-manipulated ones, and had been kept secret from the creator-rulers for all past time, because if they had found out the whereabouts of the ones who had fled, then they would have sent out punitive expeditions to have the refugees eliminated. ...

... So one party fought with the other in fierce verbal battles and accusations until other intelligent beings of the Sirius territories interfered, to which the party of those who were in favour of killing the genetically-manipulated ones joined. The really well-intentioned ones, the killing opponents, succeeded, however, in spite of many countermeasures of the ones who wanted to kill, to save large parts of the gene-manipulated ones in several groups through escape, whereby, as already explained, two peoples were settled beyond the Sun [central galactic Sun] on the other side of the galaxy, while the remaining peoples found a new homeworld in the Sol-system, on Mars and on Malona each, while several thousand degenerating gene-manipulated ones were abandoned on the Earth. ...

...

As has already been explained, in the Sol-system two planets were suitable for the refugees, the genetically-manipulated ones: Mars and Malona/Phaeton. The Earth was still quite inhospitable and the atmosphere was such that, at that time, it was quite detrimental to the human life-forms from the Sirius regions, which is why only those fallible genetically manipulated ones, who became aggressive and malicious against their own allies were abandoned on this planet. At that time, five races, or the remnants, that continued to be persecuted had fled from the Sirius regions to Mars, while two other races fled beyond the sun to the other side of the galaxy, as has already been explained. In addition to the five races that fled to Mars and Malona/Phaeton, there were also two different races from the creator-rulers, which of course were not genetically engineered and therefore had no changes in genetic information. These two races were the benevolent ones who were well-disposed towards the genetically-manipulated ones and helped them escape. They themselves came from two different planets in the Sirius regions, which were completely overpopulated, which is why there was a ban on procreation, as a result of which all children were killed if any were born despite the ban, while the parents who contravened the ban were sterilised and sent into exile.

The gene-manipulated ones who finally settled on Mars and Malona and their well-meaning 'traitor' creator-rulers developed a technologically superior culture over time, but this did not prevent them from one day having to flee the planet again. This happened as a result of the scientists one day realising that the Sol-system was much more unsafe from a purely cosmic point of view than was originally assumed, because many comets and wandering planets as well as meteors, etc. endangered the two newly settled planets Mars and Malona/Phaeton over and over again, whereby such rushing space rocks also crashed down on the planets several times and caused immense damage as well as destroying countless human lives. ...

... In the elaboration of the new possibilities of emigration, there was again dispute among the distant descendants of the genetically-manipulated ones, into whom the genetic manipulation by inheritance was also transferred. The decisive factor for the outbreak of the quarrels was, to a not inconsiderable extent, a new doctrine, which was created by the well-meaning ones, who said that they, the well-meaning ones, were the creators of the gene-manipulated ones or their distant descendants, to whom absolute obedience and worship had to be paid, for they were the highest existing ones, namely the creators and producers. This, however, was not the opinion and demand of all well-disposed people, which resulted in two different camps, one being the camp of the alleged creators, and the other the camp of those who remained well-disposed in every respect and distanced themselves from a creatorship. So there was a dispute between these two camps on the one hand, and between the followers or believers of the two parties on the other. In the end, the disputants agreed that all those who were willing to do so should simply leave the planet Mars for the Earth and Malona. So it happened that many human beings from both camps finally joined forces to emigrate together, one to the planet Malona/Phaeton and the other to the Earth. The emigration leader to Malona was a certain Zentekan (= The Strong Leader), who was assisted by his wife Amalaka (= She goes her way). The emigration leader to the Earth was also two, namely a certain Semos (= who looks at things) and his brother Passas (= keeper of freedom). While the atmosphere on Malona was breathable and healthy for the emigrants and for the peoples already living there and corresponded roughly to that of Mars, which was as much as that which the descendants of the genetically-manipulated ones were used to in their spaceships over many millennia, this did not apply to the Earth. ...

Then everything came to be as the scientists had predicted: The Destroyer invaded the Mars orbit and tore it away with it into another SOL orbit, whereby it was from now on in the same orbit as the planet Malona, which migrated then, however, later, likewise by the forces of violence of the Destroyer, in order to live its existence there, where it was then destroyed many thousands of years later by his inhabitants, in order to become the asteroid belt. The inhabitants of Malona were decimated by the emigration catastrophe at that time from about 470 million people to about 14 million, after which they recovered again and had a population of about 52 million people again with their planet destruction.

Those who emigrated to the Earth lost contact with Malona and Mars, which had become completely desolate and on which all those left behind had perished. ...

...

... Thus the Old-Lyrans were not the actual inventors and founders of the original religions with their God creators and creator gods, but they were only the unscrupulous beneficiaries of the equally unscrupulous creator-ruler descendants, through the religious legends and fables of religion as well as fables of gods and fables of world origin, etc. which were brought into being, on the one hand, to cover up the real origin of the SOL-system humans from Mars, Malona and the Earth and to let them fall into oblivion so that they would not one day find their way back to the Sirius regions, and on the other hand, so that quarrels and wars would arise among the genetically-manipulated precisely through the religions, whereby they should exterminate themselves, so that they could never come up again and start their way back to their original homeland.

Ptaah:

43. Some of the Earth-foreigners who came to Earth, due to errors in coordination, strayed directly to Earth instead of reaching the Lyra system, others were looking for the planet Malona/Phaeton, which they did not find, but came to Earth in their search.

https://www.futureofmankind.co.uk/Billy_Meier/Contact_Report_533

Billy:

... The size of the planet Malona/Phaeton was about the same as that of Earth. But the asteroids created by the explosion only correspond to a part of the destroyed planet, as your daughter Semjase and also Quetzal once told me. The total mass of all asteroids together should be less than the total mass of our moon. So where is the rest of it?

Ptaah:

50. What has been explained to you is correct, and the small mass of all asteroids together consists in the fact that the majority of the planet was blown away with enormous force as a single piece during the explosion, this was hurled in the direction of the gas planet Jupiter and was finally attracted and swallowed up by it.

https://www.futureofmankind.co.uk/Billy_Meier/Contact_Report_662

Ptaah:

141. Evil in terrestrial humans arose because a very long time ago by a distant Plejar descendant humanity beyond the DERN universe-space-time structure many still later immigrated very distant Plejaren descendants were turned by manipulation into merciless warrior slaves who had to fight against foreign aggressors.

142. Later, some genetically manipulated peoples fled and penetrated into the space-time continuum of the DERN universe and into the space-time continuum of this present, i.e. into the area of the Milky Way galaxy, where they settled on the planets Phaeton/Malona and Mars.

143. In total, they were around 78 million people, of whom around 280,000 also emigrated to Earth.

Mammoth

<https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Mammoth>

https://www.futureofmankind.co.uk/Billy_Meier/Contact_Report_055

Semjase:

66. To serve as another example, an Earth-animal which is known to you as a mammoth through the finding of remains, etc.:

67. This animal as well, like all others, has also slowly changed to a higher form through the Earth's evolution, through the period of glaciation, in appearance as well as in its animal instinct-spirit form, as it has also happened with all other animal life-forms, e.g. also with the dinosaurs.

68. The mammoth, as it is called by you and us, lived in very early times, mainly in colder regions, which is why it was also very shaggy and, in its earliest primeval development, also had two differently attached large teeth, with one bent upwards and the other bent downwards, which was very useful for defence and the procurement of food.

69. Through the evolution of the Earth, thus also through the Ice Ages, each species of these animal forms changed to a higher species, received a different external and animal appearance and instinctual intelligence capability.

70. Due to these new evolutive circumstances, it migrated to warmer areas to further evolve, but where it no longer lives on the Earth today, not even in a changed, higher form.

71. The last specimens of the other species, i.e. the mammoth, died out about 8,000 years ago.

Billy:

You mean the elephant?

Semjase:

72. No, it is not the most distant descendant of an earliest species of mammoth.

Billy:

Gigantic, plants and animals change through Earth's evolution to new, different looking life-forms. That was actually clear to me in the main features. How do you think biologists and zoologists would react if they were told that? They would dismiss us as insane.

Semjase:

73. They are still very unfamiliar with the truth.

Billy:

Okay, you are right about that, they just want to know everything better and do not want to be lectured.

https://www.futureofmankind.co.uk/Billy_Meier/Contact_Report_215

Quetzal:

66. Only a few thousand years ago, this giant sloth {Megatherium} lived in North and South America, but it was hunted by humans for its great-tasting meat until it was wiped out, as this also happened with the mammoth, which was also largely eliminated by the humans at that time, while the remaining animals found their end through climatic upheavals and natural disasters.

67. And since I speak now of the mammoth, you will surely ask about the elephants, respectively for their actual original-original forefathers:

68. This was the Neureterium, which also lived millions of years ago and which developed, over a very long evolutionary process, into what you now know as the elephant.

...

Billy:

You said that along with the fact that humans have contributed to the disappearance of the mammoths from the Earth, in the end, also climate changes were responsible for this.

Quetzal:

126. That's right.

127. Humans very well eradicated the mammoth as far as possible, but the final extinction was caused by climate changes.

Billy:

The mammoth disappeared, yes, about 10,000 years ago.

Quetzal:

128. That only partially represents the truth because the last of these animals still lived 3,500 years ago, on an island to the far north of today's Soviet Union.

129. However, it is true that about 10,000 years ago, mammoths were very strongly reduced by humans, who hunted them very much for their meat, hides, and bones.

130. The meat was used as tasty food, while the hides and the bones found use for the building of huts.

Billy:

... At the beginning of my contact with Semjase I once asked her about the mammoth, which lived on the Earth until about eight thousand years ago, whereby North America, in particular, is to be mentioned in this respect, where it finally appeared in smaller herds. Semjase said at that time that the mammoth was the only form of life that had teeth that were directed in different directions, one large curved tooth pointing upwards and the other downwards. Subsequently, which unfortunately was not mentioned in that contact report, she explained to me that these teeth did not carry the actual mammoth, which is generally known, but a so-called early mammoth, which, if I remember correctly, was called Pangara or Pangira and which belongs to the genus Deinotherium resp. Dinotherium, which are also known as mastodons and which populated Earth for about 25 million years and were the first precursors of the proboscideans and especially of mammoths and elephants. But it was also only one species of the genus Dinotherium, which had the curiosity of a tooth bent upwards and downwards, both of which were attached to the upper jaw. Is this true? I was asked a question that answered this question, which I answered in this form, trusting that Semjase had actually explained things to me correctly, which I have no doubt about.

Ptaah:

121. There is also no reason to doubt my daughter's statement, because in fact the facts are given as you just called them, only that they are not known or only partly known by Earthly palaeontologists

https://www.futureofmankind.co.uk/Billy_Meier/Contact_Report_795

Billy:

... Also, when I was a young boy, Sfath taught me a great deal concerning nature and natural creatures, such as that the mammoth and the elephant can sense impending earthquakes and move to safety by pressing the trunk fingers, that is, the extensions of the trunk, to the ground, thus sensing the Earth's seismic swinging waves. ...

Man in the Iron Mask

https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Man_in_the_Iron_Mask

https://www.futureofmankind.co.uk/Billy_Meier/Contact_Report_526

Billy:

... Recently there was another programme on television about the 'Man with the Iron Mask'. Is this story familiar to you?

Ptaah:

32. Yes.

Billy:

Then my questions about it: Is the story true or not, and if so, who was the man who was imprisoned in France in various prisons and ultimately in the Bastille, wearing an iron mask?

Ptaah:

33. A somewhat detailed explanation is necessary:

34. First of all, it must be said that since the time when the man was incarcerated, various rumour theories and conjectures about his identity have been circulating.

35. All the rumours were not true, but one of the assumptions was correct, namely that the prisoner was a triple brother of the 'Sun King' Louis XIV, who was born in 1643 and died in 1715.

36. Until 1661 he was under the guardianship of his mother, Anne of Austria, who was said to have ruled France until then, but was in fact a dependent of Cardinal Mazarin, who commanded the French state.

37. But only then, that same year after the death of Cardinal Mazarin, could he take over the regency of the State and also complete absolutism, in accordance with the motto:

38. "L'État c'est moi!" ...

Billy:

... That means something like: "I am the state", right?

Ptaah:

40. That is correct.

42. Louis XIV had two triplet brothers named Louis and Marcel, but they were unknown to the 'Sun King' because their existence was kept from him by his mother.

43. By an unfortunate remark, however, he learned of her in 1661, after all, from his triplet brothers who, due to birth difficulties, were born secretly with the help of the midwife only a few hours later, after Louis XIV had been born under great witness.

44. Both survived despite the high mortality of newborns at that time.

45. According to the law of the time in France, the triplet brothers Louis and Marcel, one after the other, depending on their age of birth, would have been rightful heirs to the throne after the death of Louis XIV.

46. However, in order to prevent alleged confusion, Louis and Marcel were placed in foster families where they grew up, under false pretences by Cardinal Richelieu.

47. Louis looked so strikingly like his first-born brother Louis XIV that he could become a danger to him, although he succumbed to error because Louis had no ambitions of succeeding to the throne.

48. This in contrast to Marcel, who was nicknamed Pagnol and who, together with various other intriguing machinations, tried to overthrow the 'Sun King' and take over the regency himself.

49. He was also arrested and imprisoned, together with his triplet brother Louis, who was the same in appearance as Louis XIV.

50. It was Louis, therefore, who was given a mask to wear for the rest of his life, some 34 years until his death on the 19th of November 1703.

51. However, it is a fairy tale that it is said to have been an iron mask that was forged around the man's head, because it is true that a mask made to measure from black plush was made for him.

52. He had to wear it throughout in the face of other prisoners, the guards and every other person.

53. Apart from being a strictly guarded prisoner, he was treated with courtesy and could also enjoy exquisite food and drink as he wished.

Manual Labor

https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Manual_labour

https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Work_\(human_activity\))

https://www.futureofmankind.co.uk/Billy_Meier/Contact_Report_156

Quetzal:

33. If you or we or the Earth-humans want to develop 'spiritually' and in a knowledge-based manner, then we can only do this if we also exercise our manual activity in the best form.

34. This is, in fact, not only necessary for livelihood but also for the right shaping of the teaching and its processing and effects.

35. If a human being and also we want to live and learn in accordance with the teaching, then we also have to perform sufficient manual activity; otherwise, things will get confused and the teaching will become a failure.

Billy:

That is known to me, and I myself know well enough that I can never learn properly if I am not manually active enough. I need hard work quite often, and that in a not-too-scarce form.

Quetzal:

36. That is of correctness because the greater the quantity and the difficulty levels of the learning material are, the greater is the need for physical activity.

...

Billy:

You make me wonder, since before, I know that I worked a lot more than I learned.

Quetzal:

42. That is of correctness, and that also has its reasons:

43. Learning activity is enhanced by a prior learning of manual activity.

44. In order to bring your learning capacity and your learning activity to the necessary state, it was only necessary for you to promote and train this through persistent and prolonged manual activity, which you have done, nevertheless, to an unusually large extent.

...

Billy:

... But tell me, whether it is possible to calculate how many hours a human being has to work?

Quetzal:

47. It really can be calculated, but for this, the evolutionary state of the human beings concerned must be known, which you are, indeed, able to calculate.

48. But now, with the Earth-humans, the rule is still given that they do not have to engage in any compensatory manual activity in order to maintain a uniformity with their consciousnesses; rather, it is given that they must work manually in order to promote their material consciousness-related learning capacity and learning activity.

Billy:

Thus, the same is also given when we, by and from ourselves, trouble ourselves around these things.

Quetzal:

50. After the consideration of all factors, it arises that the Earth human being, at the minimum, must perform two hours of intensive manual activity, in order to produce the norm of the consciousness-based stability.

51. Nevertheless, this minimum case still does not appear on the Earth with anyone because the lowest rate is five hours.

52. This rate, however, can only be found with people who have already attained a high norm in consciousness.

53. The maximum performance, on the other hand, is 12 hours of daily manual activity.

54. But the large average is six to nine hours a day.

Billy:

Aha, and how, then, is the time calculated in each case, which is regarded as effective study time?

Quetzal:

55. This is determined in each case from the manual activity time, from which it is always calculated as $\frac{1}{6}$, which must be performed as additional learning time, and indeed, each day.

Billy:

And how is it, then, with those who work more than 12 hours in the maximum case or in general, when just the necessary time is exceeded and such?

Quetzal:

56. In general, this only occurs among the Earth-humans for the sake of material values or to indulge in a passion, both of which are wrong.

...

Billy:

But now, if I, for example, work for 70 hours, then in turn, I cannot just study for 70 hours.

Quetzal:

60. That is of correctness:

61. On the one hand, you, like every other human being, pursue an ongoing study during the exercise of manual activity, but on the other hand, you know very well that learning activity does not rest during sleep, if the human being prepares for it.

62. But furthermore, and you also know this, the speed of learning capacity and learning activity multiplies according to the evolutionary state of a human being.

https://www.futureofmankind.co.uk/Billy_Meier/Contact_Report_157

Billy:

That is quite clear, but I would still like to know some data, if you will give me information, please.

Quetzal:

...

31. By this, you are thinking of the forms of manual activity, in connection with learning activity and learning capacity.

Billy:

Exactly – I would like to know how everything is when these things are unravelled a little more: according to your explanations, the necessary manual labour average of the human beings of the Earth is a daily output of six to nine hours, which I can well imagine. This, nevertheless, can only really be an overall average, according to which the values must be different if only certain people are taken into account, right?

Quetzal:

32. That is of correctness.

Billy:

Then tell me: what values, for example, apply to the white race?

Quetzal:

33. You cannot look at it like that because among the white Earth-humans, various forms are already divisible.

Billy:

Then tell me the average for Central Europeans, perhaps even for Russia and for real America.

Quetzal:

34. That question is precise:

35. The average for Central Europeans is 7 hours and 6 minutes, which equally applies to domestic Russia and domestic America, in which are also included all other races that have lived in these areas for centuries, such as the brown races in America, which were previously deported there as slaves.

36. The same is also true, however, for the red races of real America.

Billy:

So it is different with the Australian Aborigines than with the whites living there?

Quetzal:

37. That is of correctness because the average for the white human beings in Australia is 8 hours and 14 minutes, while the Aborigines are still classified into the 12-hour workday.

Billy:

Aha, so there are very stark differences, but how is it in our group? That would be something else that I would like to know.

Quetzal:

38. I should only give you an average value for the group members.

...

40. However, the overall average of the group members has been greatly reduced during the time at the Centre, so it is no longer at the normal 7 hours and 6 minutes of the Europeans.

41. The current state is 6 hours and 43 minutes, which is the lowest average state of the Earth in general, if I disregard your person – whom we cannot even count in this and whose value is equal to ours of the Pleiades – who has an average of 1 hour and 58 minutes – seen by earthly time calculation.

...

45. The lowest value of 7 hours and 4½ minutes belongs to a long-standing female group member who, nevertheless, is not permanently present in the Centre but only intermittently over longer periods.

...

48. The highest value of 9 hours and 38 minutes, however, might repair this damage, which this time belongs to a male group member, if one disregards Ferdinand, who also is not among the residents.

Manure

<https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Manure>

see also Agriculture

https://www.futureofmankind.co.uk/Billy_Meier/Contact_Report_872

Billy:

In agricultural areas with meadows, fields and arable land where intensive farming and pig fattening is practised, the smell of the chemical slurry additives is often foul – often blasphemously stinking, which we notice when we drive past farms. The phosphorus is also very worrying, however, as it dissolves in the soil as a slurry nutrient through the rain and ends up in the water of streams, lakes, rivers and ultimately in the oceans, causing an unparalleled growth of algae in all bodies of water. However, the algae die quickly and are broken down by bacteria. This process requires a lot of oxygen. Many fish and other large parts of various aquatic organisms lose their habitat as a result or fall victim to extinction.

The phosphorus in manure from farms and pig fattening farms has largely disappeared, as laws have been passed that prohibit wild spreading, but there are still 'black sheep' who circumvent official regulations. In addition, the problem of air pollution has not been solved, as the ammonia from manure is not only an atmospheric pollutant, but also produces almost 50 per cent particulate matter. The ammonia emitted from the slurry, which comes from the soil, causes widespread pollution because it all goes into the air from the fields, meadows and pastures, but that is not all. This is not because ammonia also escapes from the stables into the air and impregnates the atmosphere with it, in addition to the fact that the manure stinks miserably due to the chemical additives and the stench spreads far and wide. The ammonia that escapes into the air reacts with CO₂ exhaust gases from traffic and also from private businesses and industry. This creates a mixture of particulate matter, which is harmful to human health and even causes cancer in many cases, as the Plejaren have discovered. Particulate matter consists of tiny particles which, when inhaled, lead to illness and many deaths. In particular, it also causes cancer, as the Plejaren have discovered.

The ammonia emissions from manure also acidify the soil and over-acidify the flora, mainly causing great damage to the forests because the ammonia is spread through the air and rain across meadows, floodplains, fields, moors, reeds, swamps, etc. and also into the forests. Trees in particular show how they become ill. They lose their soil support because the root system atrophies as a result of the acidification of the soil, causing the trees to lose their root support and fall over during strong storms and winds. The serious consequences of the excessive spreading of manure in the open countryside, when the flora resp. the plants can no longer absorb and cope with it, result from nitrogen entering the soil, which leads to a change that produces nitrates. These are salts that can be absorbed by the plants but seep into the groundwater, which in turn is harmful to the health of human beings on Earth if they drink this water. And this is exactly the case, because in many cases human beings are dependent on groundwater. In areas where there is a lot of arable farming, agriculture and large-scale horticulture, the nitrate content for human beings is far exceeded, which leads to many diseases in human beings. For this reason, many drinking water wells cannot be used, or the groundwater has to be extremely diluted for consumption by human beings, on the one hand to make it drinkable, and on the other to make it less pathogenic, because nitrate in drinking water in particular is demonstrably very carcinogenic.

... it should also be noted that much more ammonia escapes into the surrounding meadows, pastures and fields when slurry is spread, in addition to nitrogen and other substances that are harmful to the soil and air and which nature cannot cope with. Ammonia emissions are a catastrophic killer of nature and, as Ptaah explained to me, an unparalleled health hazard. The resulting mixture of ammonia and CO₂ exhaust gases creates particulate matter, as I said, which is inhaled by human beings, animals, wildlife and all other self-propelled life-forms and is also absorbed by all flora. This has a particularly catastrophic effect on human beings – but also on animals and fauna, etc., but also on all flora, which the Earthling obviously does not care about because he does not care at all or only cares about it. In the case of human beings, the inhalation of particulate matter increasingly impairs their breathing because various respiratory diseases occur, both internal and external. ...

But now I have something to say again about manure, because it is still the case that the spreading of manure is based on the principle of voluntariness, but this should really be exercised in a responsible manner, so that farmers, livestock breeders and large livestock producers as well as pig fatteners etc. have to set themselves responsible limits with regard to the spreading of manure in the open air. Nobody, including farmers, pig farmers and large-scale livestock producers, but also no poor or rich human beings, are above the laws of nature, so every human being must obey them.

https://www.futureofmankind.co.uk/Billy_Meier/Contact_Report_873

Billy:

... Particulate matter is produced by the ammonia in manure that is spread and combines with the CO₂ formed by exhaust gases of all kinds, with the main sources of particulate matter also being private individuals, trade and industry. In the private sector, it is wood fires, but mainly road traffic.

... I do remember, for example, various creatures that exist even in the depths of the Mariana Trench and that I have seen, such as a small, white, strange fish measuring about 20 to 30 centimetres, as well as various smaller and smaller creatures that I can no longer classify by the names Sfath gave them. He called one creature Meerkukumer (sea cucumber), which I remember because I could not understand what a Kukumer (cucumber) had to do with a sea creature. And if I should now tell Mrs ... a few more things, we saw large amphipods that measured about 30 centimetres, as well as giant jellyfish whose heads were a good 170 centimetres in size and whose long arms were about 15 metres long. The longest thing we saw was a giant creature of the same kind with arms about 120 metres long. We also saw giant squid, as well as giant shrimps that were around 40 centimetres long.

Marriage

<https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Marriage>

https://www.futureofmankind.co.uk/Billy_Meier/Contact_Report_151

Billy:

But then, I have a question: How do you handle such cases on Erra?

Quetzal:

28. We know of no such problems because every human being on our world abides by the unwritten laws and recommendations.

Billy:

And how do they look, or in other words, what do they state when two humans are good for each other, as they say?

Quetzal:

29. They state that two humans who come together and suppose that they can develop deeper feelings for each other, have to determine during the time of three years, whether these feelings are actually existent or not.

30. After this time, they are examined by authoritative experts of the matter, after which then, in the case of a mutual, logical consistency of feelings, love, etc., the two can be joined together in marriage.

31. The period of three years is divided in such a manner that every 7 days, the two see each other once for several hours – depending on time availability – personally and alone, and spend this time at their sole discretion, but it is absolutely excluded that they spend this time sleeping together or even having sexual relations.

32. Such activity is only acceptable when the examination gives the assurance that they will seal the bond of marriage ...

33. If two such people perform an activity that always or occasionally brings them together during the weekly seven days, then nothing is to be objected against it, but at the same time, a personal togetherness is not allowed.

34. The reason for this lies therein that each of the two should always have time during six days to thoroughly process and consider all of the undergone insights and experiences on the seventh day.

35. Then, in addition to this, after two years, there comes a 12-month separation period, during which the two may not see each other.

36. Typically they work on different planets during this time, in order to maintain sufficient distance and to have time to think.

37. Then, only after this, there follows the aforementioned examination.

38. Other harmless physical contacts, as well as communicative forms, are, of course, allowed at any time.

Billy:

I think that this regulation has a lot of value in itself. This might also work on the Earth, when the human being of the Earth thinks a bit rationally.

Quetzal:

39. That is of correctness; it is just that the Earth-humans, unfortunately, very often let themselves be guided by wrongly-produced and wrongly-imagined feelings, by which they just as often become of the confused and incomprehensible view that they could not live anymore without that person whom they have chosen as a partner.

40. And that is where the crucial point begins:

41. The Earth human being chooses his/her partner incorrectly, which leads to divorces in more than 50% of all cases.

42. The law of the love, however, says that always those partners should come together, who are vibrationally determined for each other by true Empfindungen [fine-spiritual-perceptions] in life.

Billy:

That is clear to me and also to most of our group. But with the majority of humanity, a lack of clarity still prevails.

Quetzal:

43. That is known to me, but not only in this respect, because also in reference to sexual interests, confused views sometimes prevail.
44. It is even supposed that through sexual relations it can only then be properly determined if the chosen partners are suitable for each other.
45. This, however, is a very terrible and misleading deception of wrong thinking and wrong understanding.
46. Of all things, it is sexual relations that call forth malignantly deceptive feelings in human beings, which they generate themselves by lustful, pleasurable thoughts.
47. Particularly with female life-forms, this very often leads to dependence on the respective partners because they draw false conclusions through their falsely generated feelings and become of the faith that their sexual partner is the right one.
48. In truth, sexual relations are only of correctness when clarity prevails in every form regarding love, feelings, and Empfindungen [fine-spiritual-perceptions], etc. and when a lifelong partnership in the form of a marital union is certain.
49. If the sexual relationship is only then taken up and exercised, then it forms the crown of love – in the form of bonding fulfilment.

https://www.futureofmankind.co.uk/Billy_Meier/Contact_Report_154

{Note: Please see the full Contact Report for the context of this entry.}

Billy:

... But the danger of the disturbance or even the destruction of destiny-swinging waves is presently very large, due to the wrong lifestyles and the wrong environmental influences associated with them and so on, but above all, due to the fact that the lack of knowledge of the human beings – in relation to the teaching and its impact, as well as to the causes and effects of thinking, of material consciousness, as well as of the workings of the subconscious and the determinations and the power of the psyche – usually lets the human beings act wrongfully, whereby they ignore their determinations and even destroy them in many cases. This usually leads to the fact that descendants who were not determined are produced, who must grow up in one case without a father or in another case with a wrong father and a wrong mother, when an already false and not determined marriage is entered, or when, through another false and not determined marriage, they are brought up by a just as wrong foster father. This, then, is often the reason why such children are abused by their forced parents and are even killed, but in the very least cases, they simply find disdain or expulsion. The human beings of the Earth then simply call such parents cruel parents. But through the overall disregard of the provision for marriage, it also happens that many wrong and not determined marriages are entered, from which also many descendants originate who also are not determined. These descendants then largely find no connection in their families, as well as not in the environment and in the society of their civilisation. As I know, you designate these non-determined descendants as descendants of overpopulation. These are human beings who are produced thoughtlessly and through falsehood and who become placed into the world and who, therefore, cannot find their way in the world within a natural framework. These, then, are those who operate illegally, who become terrorists and anarchists and who want to turn the world and the social order upside down with murder, mayhem and violence, or with sectarianism and fanaticism. And the more the human beings of the Earth produce such not determined or unconsidered offspring and bring them into the world, the greater the number of human beings of overpopulation and, with it, the number of those who cry for murder, war, mayhem, revenge, hatred, sectarianism, fanaticism, terrorism, and anarchism and who also manage it all. From this, it follows that with the number of the overpopulation – containing not determined as well as irresponsibly produced descendants – murder, mayhem, crime, and sectarianism, etc. continue to grow steadily and tremendously and cannot be contained. But these non-determined, as well as irresponsibly produced descendants, also include those flipped-out ones who are abnormal or have fallen to euphoria, etc.

...

Quetzal:

21. We will do this, but at another time, for after what you have stated, it is necessary that I declare a guideline for this, according to which the Earth-human will be able to align himself/herself with respect to his/her destiny for their life partner.

22. It...

Billy:

If I may interrupt you: I have been troubled with this problem for two days. But unfortunately, I only had as a guide the data on K., which you mentioned to me. Thus, I have calculated my head off and have achieved all sorts of results. I just hope that my calculations are correct.

Quetzal:

23. You have probably made miscalculations because the calculation of these data is extremely difficult, and moreover, the values are variable, depending on the total population of the planet.

24. In addition, it is also true that the values are not uniform for all races.

...

Billy:

... My results are as follows: first of all, I realised that all values must be built on certain basic values and that these, in turn, are associated with very specific star signs. Is that right?

Quetzal:

28. It surprises me no more.

Billy:

So then that is right. Okay, then it is also probably right that for males and females, two different basic values are given, but these values are also valid for hybrids of the respective race?

Quetzal:

29. I have nothing more to add ...

...

Billy:

... For the white human beings of the Earth and their hybrids, the following values are valid:

Aries	24	21
Taurus	29	26
Gemini	30	27
Cancer	26	23
Leo	23	20
Virgo	25	22
Libra	22	19
Scorpio	32	29
Sagittarius	21	18
Capricorn	27	24
Aquarius	28	25
Pisces	31	28

These are the basic values that stand as age years. In addition to these, in each case, there still comes the basic numerical value of a cabalistic form, between 1 and 9, which arises from the birthday and the natal month in added-up form to the base number. Thus, my list states that, for example, if a human being of the Earth is born on 16th of March and is female, at the age of 29 years, she will be at the determined age to find the right life partner; although, this may still take a shorter or longer time because the destiny-swinging waves first become fully effective at this age. Thus, it can take one or two or even several more years before the effect of the cause is sufficient. I come to this aforementioned result because 16 & 3 results in 10; therefore, the

... These calculations only have their correctness for the present number of humanity of 4.3 billion (4,300,000,000). For each additional increase of 500 million in the human beings of overpopulation, the basic value number increases by another 2 points, i.e. 2 years. But for every decrease of 500 million in the overpopulation, seen from today's 4.3 billion (4,300,000,000) figure, the value decreases in each case by 0.5, so by half a year in each case. If only the normal planet-conditioned population of 500 million, or more precisely 529 million, was on the Earth, then all of the basic values would be about four points, i.e. 4 years, lower. ...

...

Very well: for the yellow human beings, the following applies, and by this, I mean the Japanese and Chinese as well as all other yellow-skinned human beings; it is also true for their hybrids:

Aries	26	23
Taurus	31	28
Gemini	32	29
Cancer	28	25
Leo	25	22
Virgo	27	24
Libra	24	21
Scorpio	34	31
Sagittarius	23	20
Capricorn	29	26
Aquarius	30	27
Pisces	33	30

Next follow the brown human beings, to whom I also count Africans, Brazilians, Indians, and Islanders, etc. of all kinds:

Aries	25	22
Taurus	30	27
Gemini	31	28
Cancer	27	24
Leo	24	21
Virgo	26	23
Libra	23	20
Scorpio	33	30
Sagittarius	22	19
Capricorn	28	25
Aquarius	29	26
Pisces	32	29

Then follow the red human beings, so the pure Indians and their hybrids, but to whom the so-called wild Indians and jungle Indians are not counted, who fall among primitive peoples:

Aries	20	17
Taurus	25	22
Gemini	26	23
Cancer	22	19
Leo	19	16
Virgo	21	18
Libra	18	15

Scorpio	28	25
Sagittarius	17	14
Capricorn	23	20
Aquarius	24	21
Pisces	27	24

Besides those previously mentioned, however, there are still many various other kinds of human beings on the Earth, who also have different skin colours, but within the context of the aforementioned.

But these kinds of human beings are mostly primitive peoples, like Pygmies, jungle Indians – so-called indigenous people, like in Australia, New Guinea, and so on and so forth.

If I had to calculate all their data, then I still would not be finished with it today, which is why I was content to deal with the highest-standing primitive peoples, whose data are as follows:

Aries	15	12
Taurus	20	17
Gemini	21	18
Cancer	19	14
Leo	14	11
Virgo	16	13
Libra	13	10
Scorpio	23	20
Sagittarius	12	9
Capricorn	18	15
Aquarius	19	16
Pisces	23	19

Especially among the primitive peoples, it is striking that the basic values are sometimes very low, which I have thought about. Thus, I have come to the conclusion that, indeed, the average life expectancy of a type of human being must play an important role in this determination, but I have not tested or calculated this. But maybe you can give me information about this?

Quetzal:

49. That is actually so.

50. The lower the life expectancy of a race to be calculated, the lower the basic values.

51. That is, therefore, of correctness.

Billy:

... You once explained to me that there is no life on Mars. If I understood correctly, you meant planetary human life, did you not?

Semjase:

115. Certainly.

Billy:

Good. – So your answer at that time does not exclude that any other life in fauna or floristic form can exist or even exists there. At that time you said explicitly that all life there did not exist, and logically you only addressed human planetary life. What do you think now, will the Americans discover lower life-forms with their probe sent to Mars?

Semjase:

116. In the coming decades and especially in the third millennium you will experience surprises in every respect, both with regard to the atmospheric composition of the planet and also with the fact that Mars has the lowest life and much more water than earthly science has assumed so far, which, incidentally, will also apply to the Earth's moon.

117. Surprises, however, also lie in the composition of the soil and, as already mentioned, in the nature of the micro-world.

118. A very small world of flora and microorganisms can be found on Mars if the geoscientific instruments of the probes are good enough to be able to record the corresponding results.

Billy:

So 'Life on Mars' could be confirmed for our science?

Semjase:

119. It is within the bounds of possibility that the analyses can confirm this if the scientific equipment is good enough, because micro-organic and primitive floral life-forms exist on Mars, even if otherwise this planet destroys all other life with its hostile nature.

https://www.futureofmankind.co.uk/Billy_Meier/Contact_Report_066

Billy:

137. It means that a process of life takes place there that is completely alien to earthly scientists.

138. Asket and Sfath once explained to me that a special kind of bacterial life ate up certain micro-organic life, is that true?

Semjase:

201. Certainly, that is so.

202. Biological life in your sense does not exist on Mars because it would be consumed by negative influences.

203. But on this planet, as I said before, there are micro-organic life-forms, which, however, earthly science is not yet able to prove.

41. The Sanskrit scriptures are indeed very accurate and extremely precise in certain respects, but not the bible scriptures, for they are the most inaccurate in this respect.
42. They are the ones which have been most falsified and interwoven with fantasy stories.

Billy:

... Guido asked me whether I knew the reason for the disappearance of the Mayan culture. Do you know anything about that?

Quetzal:

57. One reason was very strong climatic changes, which extended approximately over 230 years.
58. A time during which the Yucatan Peninsula, where the actual Mayan culture was settled, was hit by many droughts, which cost many people's lives or forced them into migration.
59. Another reason was tribal wars and acts of war with foreign Indian tribes.
60. Also, many people were carried off by epidemics, not only in the actual central area of the Maya but also in all the other areas where the Maya resided, such as in the areas of Belize, Honduras, and Guatemala, etc.
61. The total population of all the Mayan tribes added together was about 17 million people.
62. During those approximately 230 years of natural and environmental disasters, the epidemics and wars to which the Maya were exposed resulted in the fact that these indigenous peoples and families of languages disappeared in southern Mesoamerica, southern Mexico and northern Mexico, Guatemala, Belize, and Honduras.

Billy:

Ah, that is how it was. Unfortunately, I do not know much about the Maya, just a few things that belong to the general standard of education, like, for example, in regards to religion. There were numerous gods in all tribes, which were divided by the Maya into good and bad classes. The chief of all gods was Itzamná, the so-called 'god of heaven' or 'sky god'. In the Yucatan, the rain god Chac played an extremely important role. The gods could change their shapes at will in each case and, thus, take on any form. In their ever-new combinations, the gods of the Maya were of great importance with respect to their prophetic calendar. There were prophesying priests who were in the habit of inquiring about the influence of the gods on the fate of individuals with the help of oracles. These priests were also responsible for astrology and for the observation of the stars and, logically, also for the calculations of the calendars because time and its activity played a very important and central role in the thinking and life of the Maya. Today's distant descendants of the Maya have been integrated for a long time into the developments of their respective countries. When the Mayan cultures disappeared and the Spaniards conquered Mexico, etc., there naturally arose troubles with the descendants of the natives, who were Christianised by the Spaniards. Thus, there were also the so-called social rebellions, such as the 'Guerra de Castas' [Caste War] in 1847, as well as the messianic salvation movements, such as the 'Tzotil Uprising' from 1867 to 1870. This is part of the history of the distant descendants of the Maya and of their recent history, like the extremely bloody conflict between the indigenous small farmers and the military regime, when the civil war in Guatemala and the uprising of the Zapatistas in Chiapas, Mexico took place. By the way, this uprising was filmed under the title 'Viva Zapata' [Live Zapata], a film which I already viewed many years ago. Now, in the 19th Century, insurgent Mayan descendants, Macehuals, established in Quintana Roo and in the Yucatan the so-called free small states, in which the traditional forms of Indian life were maintained, which found its realisation as the so-called 'Concrete Utopia'. This arose in the middle of the 19th Century, which could then assert and maintain itself against the Mexican army into the 20th Century. However, 1915 brought an end to all of this, when Emiliano Zapata, as he was then called, on April 10, 1919, was murdered in Cuernavaca. From 1906 he played a very important role as a revolutionary leader and farmer with the base in the Mexican state of Morelos. He then, of course, helped during the Mexican revolution that broke out in 1910. Emiliano Zapata was not very old because when he was murdered (Cuernavaca 4/10/1919), he was only 36 years old. He was born in 1883 (Note: according to Sfath's information, not as adopted in 1979) in Anenecuilco in the State of Morelos. Since his death, it permanently ferments with the Indians in the underground, so it can be expected that there will ultimately arise one more liberation movement from it. That is what I know, so not very much.

Billy:

... Then here is another question regarding the advanced culture of the Mayans and their extinction or downfall, respectively. Can you report about this? I suppose that you have knowledge about the history of the Mayans, yes?

Quetzal:

21. I have, in fact, occupied myself with it and know some things about these concerns, at least the things that are known to us in general.

22. The Mayas are Indian peoples and language families in southern Mesoamerica.

23. I have provided you with information about it before, but obviously you want to know more about it.

24. Thus it is:

25. Maya as a language exists in Southern and North-east Mexico, in Guatemala, Honduras and Belize with more than 2 million people who are speaking that language.

26. If spatial-cultural criteria are taken into account, there must be a differentiation between those people who live in scattered settlements in the woodland of the tropical lowland, and those people in the colonial-Spanish oriented village communities of the cool-temperate highlands.

27. The Yucatec belong to the first category and are living in the Mexican states Yucatán, Quintana Roo and Campeche as well as Lakandons and Chorti, etc.

28. Cackquels, Quiché and Tzutuhils are belonging to the second category.

29. Regarding the hierarchy of political offices it can be said that in the high regions there is a cult-brotherhood, while in the lowlands the organisational form is that of groups of relatives.

30. Some pursue very intensive clearing through fire, whereby beans, pumpkins and maize are the principal crops that are cultivated.

31. Those who are living in the forests are oriented towards extensive agriculture.

32. The significantly advanced culture of the Mayas developed since the year 2321 before Jmmanuel's birth, and it formed the actual traditional Maya religion into the state religion.

33. Today's Maya-Indian Catholicism is riddled with elements of their old-customary, traditional religion.
34. The Mayas' descendants of today are still venerating the old gods of their ancient religion, which they elevate into a position of Christian saints.
35. Nevertheless, the doings of the distant descendents are still determined by 'spirit powers.
36. Shamanistic rituals regarding the healing of the sick, the sowing and oracle calendars still belong to the given order.
37. But if we view the time before Columbus, the following can be said:
38. In those times, the Maya were the holders of very highly advanced culture whose heyday began about 300 years after Jmmanuel's birth and lasted for about 460 years, before drought catastrophes broke over the land due to climatic changes, caused bad disaster and claimed 14,392,108 human lives in the course of only about 150 years.
39. 1,550 years after Jmmanuel's birth, the Maya culture found its total end through the Spanish conquests, whereby the conquerors committed terrible inhumaneness, murder, crimes of all kinds and cruelties without an end.
40. And all of this was done in the name of the Spanish royal house as well as in the name of God and, therefore, in the name of the Christian religion.
41. Well, at that time there happened a spatial relocation of the cultural heyday from the South to the North, which lead to the last end of the classical Maya culture.
42. That actual relocation and the actual reason for the downfall of the Maya culture can be traced back to earlier causes that were not within the power of the Spaniards.
43. Actually, forces of nature were responsible for the final fall, i.e. gigantic natural catastrophes through droughts, but also through epidemics, famine and wars.
44. The most powerful causes were three drought periods, back in the year 754 after Jmmanuel's birth the first one began, slowly developed and later – after about 50 years – became the first drought catastrophe that lasted about 10 years.
45. Because of the severity of that drought, famines spread over wide areas, which claimed many deaths.
46. No longer in control because of hunger, children and old people were killed to serve as food, as had also been the case in the land of Egypt, when droughts and famines ruled.
47. There were only about 40 years after the great drought, when the land and the people could recover somewhat, until another heavy drought covered the land and when the same evil became the order of the day again, as had been the case during the first drought.
48. This period of drought did not last as long as the first one, because after a little bit more than four years it ended.
49. But also during this drought many human beings died, and again human beings were killed and eaten, mainly children and old persons, as had been the case during the first drought.
50. As the land was recovering very slowly after the first drought and did not become fully usable for the cultivation of food, everything became even worse after the second drought.
51. That part of the soil that was still usable brought forth even less food, and so the people were living in want and had to live frugally during the following years and decades, until a third drought period broke over the land that lasted for another nearly seven years.
52. And once again, as a last solution for the hungry people, they killed and ate their children and old people.
53. Finally this last great catastrophe led to the break-down of the advanced Maya culture and brought its final ruin.

Billy:

... In particular, the human sacrifices among the Aztecs as well as the Mayas and Incas are denied again and again. It is amazing that this assertion holds so persistently – that they shouldn't have offered human sacrifices.

Ptaah:

285. These kinds of assertions contradict every reality because all these peoples carried out human sacrifices, and indeed, both in a religious as well as punishment-exercising sense.

Billy:

The Mayas were an advanced Indian cultural people in Central America; however, they also weren't assessed very humanely. ...

...

Ptaah, how does it happen, however, that these human sacrifices are denied over and over again – is there a plausible explanation for it?

Ptaah:

287. The reason is probably to be found in the fact that so far, there still isn't any concrete evidence of human sacrifices among these people, that is, such has not yet been found, but this will still arise in the foreseeable future with certainty.

288. The present lack of evidence says nothing at all, for human sacrifices did, in fact, take place.

289. Findings and signs that suggest that human sacrifices took place are, so far, only unsatisfactory, but they are actually there.

290. Connections also exist that arose by intruders who invaded the peoples mentioned and carried out human sacrifices, but this in no way excludes the self-conducted human sacrifices of the peoples mentioned.

Billy:

... But the human beings of Earth would be interested in what the Mayan calendar has to do regarding the 21st of December 2012.

Ptaah:

...

106. Regarding the Mayan calendar, the 21st of December 2012 represents the culmination of a star constellation that occurs only every 26,000 years.

107. The Mayan calculations are assuming that the Earth – on the 21st of December 2012 – shall lie on an imaginary line that fits together the star over the left side of the constellation Orion with the central sun, i.e. the centre of the Milky Way.

108. The Sun meets the Milky Way at a location that is built by interstellar dust clouds, and is called "dark cleft of the Milky Way" by the human beings of Earth.

109. On the 21st of December 2012, at nightfall of winter solstice, the Sun is directly in that cleft, and it is in such a position that the Milky Way covers the horizon in all positions all around.

110. From this is resulting the optical impression that the Milky Way would touch Earth all around and that the galaxy would lie directly on the Earth.

111. On the whole that's the end product of the Mayan calendar recording.

https://www.futureofmankind.co.uk/Billy_Meier/Contact_Report_479

Billy:

... And what else is to be said about the 21st of December 2012, which is being traded as the end of the world, world change or the 'New Age' by prophets of doom, esoterics, panic-makers and Mayan calendar believers etc., is the following: The system of the Mayan calendar is based on Mayan astrological calculations, which are incorporated into a circular, triple gear system. The large gear wheel, which has two small outer gears, has a fixed starting point, the same as the larger of the two small outer gears. When these fixed points meet again, which will be the case on the 21st of December 2012, the old calendar is finished, and a new calendar begins by turning the calendar respectively the calendar gears. The Mayan calendar respectively the Mayan chronology comprises a very long period of several thousand years, not as long as the modern calendars, which are usually designed for only one year, starting with the 1st of January and ending with the 31st of December. The Mayan calendar is based on advanced mathematical and astronomical knowledge.

https://www.futureofmankind.co.uk/Billy_Meier/Contact_Report_728

Billy:

... As Sfath explained, the conquistadors alone stole more than 250 tonnes of gold from the Aztecs, Incas and Maya, on the one hand enriching themselves immensely and on the other hand also bringing enormous wealth to the Spanish crown.

According to your father Sfath, the great empires of the Aztecs, Mayas and Incas conquered by the Spanish conquistadors had a combined population of around 38 million human beings, and of these, the conquistadors or the Spanish adventurers and conquerors, who only had ship crews, were usually confronted with a large majority of 5,000 to 12,000 Aztec, Maya and Inca Indians. However, all these Indian peoples underestimated the superiority in weaponry of the Spanish, murderous invaders, who were trained above all in tactical-strategic conquest battles and in modern combat tactics, which they had also used against the occupiers from North Africa or the Moors. As a result, the conquerors had a great superiority over the weakly armed Indians, despite small ship crews. The Indians had practically no chance against the modern weapons of the conquistadors, so it was no disadvantage for them that they were often outnumbered by the thousands of natives.

The war experience and superiority in weaponry of the Spanish conquistadors at that time made the Aztecs, Mayas and Incas practically helpless against the conquerors, so their superior numbers were of no use to them, because their warriors were only equipped with primitive weapons. Also their large mass of available warriors made resistance simply impossible. On the one hand, this was due to their total inexperience with the modern weapons and equipment of the foreign Spanish invaders, who were actually tiny troops compared to the many thousands of Indians. On the other hand, however, the natives were unable to correctly assess their great danger and war experience as well as their deadly firearms. The lack of knowledge and understanding of the cultural background of the Spanish conquistadors and their effective intentions, aspirations, thoughts, plans, intentions and wills, as well as their being bound to their religious-sectarian-Christian delusion of God, made it virtually impossible for the Indian tribes and their rulers to react correctly against the battle-hardened foreign conquerors. Their belief in seeing terrible portents of their gods in every natural phenomenon often paralysed them and also meant that, despite their many thousands of fighters, they stood no chance in terms of their defence against the unscrupulous conquistadors, who were actually royally commissioned killers.

The empires of the Incas, Mayas and the Aztecs had been built up by wars of conquest, but their weapons and art of warfare were practically a laughing stock against the battle-hardened and modernly equipped Spanish conquistadors. The peoples conquered by the Aztecs, Mayas and Incas had to pay tribute to the Indian conquerors, although they were still not integrated into the empires of their conquerors. Nevertheless, many different peoples lived in the great empires, and consequently many different languages and religions prevailed, although, with the exception of the Inca empire, the Aztec and Mayan empires did not have a unified government administration, as Sfath explained. These great empires were relatively unstable, for they had no uniform jurisdiction, nor did they have the same legislation. They also lacked standing armies to control and permanently occupy subjugated peoples and their territories. The conquistadors took advantage of the resulting dissatisfaction of the subjugated peoples and were able to influence them in such a way that they allied themselves with the conquerors and set out against the rulers and populations of the great empires, which ultimately led to a collapse of the native populations, Spain claimed total domination and called the conquered territories New Spain.

Between 1400 and 1600, the Spanish conquerors also brought various diseases from Europe into the great empires of the Aztecs, Incas and Mayas, especially venereal diseases such as syphilis, gonorrhoea, etc., but also smallpox and tuberculosis, which quickly proved fatal for the natives, decimating the peoples in this way as well as through famine. According to Sfath, who visited those great empires at the time, the Aztecs, Mayas and Incas lost more than $\frac{2}{3}$ of their populations through the direct and indirect fault of the conquistadors. Sfath said that at that time, as a result of the missionary zeal for Christ of the Spanish conquistadors, whole peoples were robbed of their cultural identity, their honour and dignity, their existence and their possessions, goods and cohesion within a few weeks by murdering and brutally robbing, raping women and children and by other dirty machinations.

Billy:

... It also happened in South America about 800 or 900 years before Jmmanuel's birth that a drought of many years passed over the land, affecting the areas of today's rainforests, which were then populated by large Mayan cities. Despite the terraced buildings for growing plant food, however, the population of around 27,000,000 scattered to the four winds after massacring their god-kings, who used to shower them with jade but then held them responsible for everything caused by the drought. The Mayans, who had otherwise already made mass human sacrifices because that was what their faith demanded, simply disappeared from the scene, so to speak, scattering and disappearing all over the world, simply leaving their great city buildings to nature, which soon overgrew everything and gave rise to primeval forests. This happened in large parts of the rainforest far into South America, not only in Yucatán, which is usually mentioned when talking about the 'land of the Maya'.

https://www.futureofmankind.co.uk/Billy_Meier/Contact_Report_797

Billy:

... The first human beings to reach the continent of America by sea were very early sea conquerors. They sailed over from Africa and China on fins about 17,500 years ago, while the first human beings reached America over a land bridge from Europe 14,500 years ago. These immigrants, together with the indigenous peoples, formed whole nations that developed into advanced civilisations in much later times, such as the Inca and the Maya, etc., whose early ancestors settled in the south of the continent, whose distant descendants were then robbed and partly also murdered by the Spaniards because of the gold – which was often mixed with copper and therefore not pure.

58. For this, unfortunately, still nothing can be explained so far, because her efforts concerning all matters to be developed in relation to the meditation and concerning the powers coming

Quetzal:

92. A close study of the psyche of the individual group members has let me recognise that for the promotion of the meditation, and also in daily life and at meetings, a melodious background music would be of much value.

https://www.futureofmankind.co.uk/Billy_Meier/Contact_Report_157

Billy:

Thanks, but now, it would be even more important for me to know how effective the meditation actually is on the daily study, which must be pursued together with work.

Quetzal:

56. For the average stage of development of the Earth-humans, a daily meditation time of 20 minutes applies, but this was increased with the group members in the Centre for quicker advancement.

57. Now, if a human being daily carries out his/her necessary 20-minute meditation, then he/she reduces their effective study time by this, or they perform, through the meditation, more in study than what would be necessary, which is only an advantage, nevertheless.

58. The calculation of the effect of the meditation on the study results when a true meditation effort takes place, such that 4.7 minutes of study time result per 1 minute of meditation, as the meditation replaces this study time completely.

59. 20 minutes of meditation in a pure form, therefore, saves 94 minutes of effective study time.

60. But moreover, I would just like to explain that, once again, it is necessary to appeal to all group members that they participate in the daily meditation of 20 minutes, when they lie down to rest.

https://www.futureofmankind.co.uk/Billy_Meier/Contact_Report_191

Semjase:

31. This becomes necessary because attempts in a meditative form by the entire group strength must be made to change some very dangerous un-values in the earthly international situation, otherwise, dangerous changes will occur, which will lead to greater destruction than what the Earth and the Earth-humans would be able to bear.

32. Furthermore, you must start calling in your circle of friends, so that as many people as possible participate in this undertaking, but in their own places of residence, for each strength is of utmost necessity.

Hi Billy, One of the first well known uses of the term Men in Black was in the 1962 book Flying Saucers & the Three Men by Albert Bender. In that book, the author describes the Men in Black as "Men dressed in Black with glowing eyes, they changed their form to what they really looked like, a hideous creature".

Are these the same Men in Black that were altering your pictures? If not then why do you use this term, as it is thoroughly discredited today & could cause confusion?

[Billy] Answer:

Yes. However, their eyes are not glowing, but fluorescent. --- There are only a few of them left (a group of old Sirians).

The other MiB are "Regierungslümmel" (governmental etc. agents).

So far I have found three definitions for your usage of the Men in Black term.

Government Agents

Old Sirians

Are all of these groups working together? If not, Men in Black is too vague of a term. Could you please explain what is going on here?

Ptaah:

6. I was called by my daughter to clarify various incidents.

7. In particular, these are quite bad machinations of recent times, based on elements that endanger your life.

Billy:

You speak of the odd tracks and the incident in Winkelriet near Wetzikon, where this light body from a ship unknown to me sailed down on me?

Ptaah:

8. That is so, that is what we are talking about. ...

...

Ptaah:

17. Some evil elements are prepared to kill you because you have made them very uncomfortable.

18. This is a reaction to the fulfillment of your task, which you unswervingly carry out despite all counter-actions against you.

19. But these endangers certain elements that want to spread with their world-shattering intentions.

20. Through the many publications in publication bodies around the world, an extraordinary number of people have become aware of our existence and above all of you, and even governments, that even until now, or recently were still negating have changed their previous negative efforts into the opposite.

21. As a result, various states have made great efforts to clarify matters and have come across things that they had previously dismissed out of hand.
22. They also learned that in some countries there are earthly interest groups at work that can boast of higher technological development than is generally the case in the rest of the countries of the Earth.
23. Almost abruptly it came to pass that at various points on Earth there were stations of those elements and private circles of interest that seized the plans of the Flying Disks at the end of the last World War, namely in Germany and Canada.
24. These elements, however, which have built stations in inaccessible places for the Earth-humans and have developed quite airworthy devices there from the stolen plans, now feel extremely endangered by the investigations of certain countries and they fear that you could give exact information about their existence and the coordinates of their stations if you were to be questioned by any secret services involved in these investigations.
25. That would mean that armies could be set in motion to destroy the stations and get hold of all the achievements.
26. But to prevent such a step, a special group in Brazil is trying to shut you out and to push you out of this world.
27. This is a group of fanatics led by a man from Germany called Dünneberg.
28. His far-reaching relationships also guarantee him many followers in the mentioned country, where a large number of people are constantly influenced in negative form by technological equipment and who, not knowing why, turn against you and your task and constantly try to destroy our mission.
29. Bertossi and {Michael} Arends belong to these influenced elements, as well as various other people you know very well, who are constantly receiving the latest information through very unethical channels.
30. In particular, the source lies with Margreth Rufer, who may not be deliberately treacherous, but in a thoughtless and extremely autocratic manner spreads all knowledge and every message from your group and lets it reach channels that work against you all.
31. These then strive to falsify all material, to clothe it in lies and to spread it in a very wide form.

...

Ptaah:

52. Furthermore, I was also able to clarify the events in Winkelriet near Wetzikon near your place of residence, but also the presence of the tracks of a beamship that did not originate from one of our beamships.
53. The tracks you discovered were of a ship belonging to the Brazilian private interest group, which had sent out a command to investigate your circumstances as closely as possible.
54. According to my research, there were five people who checked over everything very carefully.
55. The ship itself is not a product of the power group itself, but is stolen.
56. Years ago, it was stolen from a crew who had landed in Brazil from a distant galaxy and had to make an emergency landing as a result of damage.
57. The interstellar propulsion of the ship was completely destroyed and cannot be repaired, at least not by the technicians of this power group.
58. Only the planetary anti-gravity drive is still functional fully, which is sufficient for planetary flights.
59. But you saw the same ship weeks later in Winkelriet, where you came across this object on your very unreasonable search for this mysterious object, which put you in great danger.
60. There were two men out in the field watching your approach, which was easy game for them, because at that time they were watching you all the time.
61. Wanting to kill you, they prepared everything and guided you to the place of the planned event.

62. It was your luck that in that dark night you cautiously drove your vehicle without light, for only because you were not exactly visible in the darkness, the shot from a rifle missed you.

63. The fact, however, that after this dangerous incident you still drove unperturbed further under the slowly gliding beamship was already illogical and irresponsible, because after the shot you had to expect that further attempts would be made.

64. When a primitive light device was let loose on you from the beamship, whereby you had to be seen in the brightest light and could have been shot at again, only then did you recognize the real danger and threw yourself into a hollow, after which, when the bright light went out, you drove away. ...

Semjase:

184. The two other attacks were carried out by a Nazi group that had settled in Brazil after the end of the war.

185. They robbed German and Canadian plans for the construction of flying disks with which they are able to fly almost effortlessly into the earthly space today.

186. They also came into the possession of a foreign spacecraft of a human race from a distant galaxy.

187. The interstellar drive, however, was destroyed beyond recognition, so they could only use the antigravity drive for planetary flight.

188. With this ship, which offered them many possibilities, they also tracked you.

189. It was the same ship that you recently tracked down in Winkelriet near Wetzikon, but which had landed there weeks before when you found the mysterious tracks.

190. The crew of the ship that had used the aircraft to fly to the Earth is dead.

191. They all died after their breathing apparatus became empty and could not be refilled.

192. They were poison gas respirators.

193. A gas that is still unknown on the Earth.

194. Over time, their ship, in the hands of the Nazis, could have had dire consequences for the Earth-humans, which is why we were forced to destroy it completely when they left it unattended for a few moments.

195. These, dear friend, are the facts that have emerged from our research.

196. Beware of these Nazis or neo-Nazis, as you call them, because they fear too much for their existence through you.

Menara:

24. The main thing is that the intelligences of Giza have made themselves noticeable again and are trying by all means to disrupt the construction of the Centre.

25. But not only that, because they try to destroy everything in all possible ways, because in their evilness they fear and have to fear the truth.

26. This is also the reason why all sorts of evil has befallen you in recent times and that you have had various accidents and other nuisances.

27. Some of your group were and are particularly at risk, which is why Semjase warned you some time ago at night when you could prepare the persons concerned to exercise special caution.

28. These are all the persons in the group who are particularly sensitive to the forces of the negatively controlled Giza intelligences, who have agreed in alliance with the Brazilian group to use even malicious means to destroy the Centre.

29. Be careful, therefore, for you may be threatened by danger in a material form even from Brazil.

30. The consciousness-based influences of the intelligences of Giza should not be taken lightly either, as you are used to saying, because they are particularly dangerous.

Ptaah:

18. The negative intelligences and the South Brazilian group known to you live in vain hatred and the will to destroy, whereby they may even try the last, which is why you, and quite especially you, should be careful, because our protective measures for you and the group, on the other hand, are also limited in certain forms. ...

26. Not only the treacherous elements in the group and the negative intelligences of Giza and the group in Brazil drive a malicious play of forces, but also the constellations of the stars and planets assert their influence in the strongest form.

Quetzal:

13. As far as my observation of the past is concerned regarding the gas pedal and the flow of gas, a regrettable fact was established.

14. From what I was able to see, three dark figures worked on it and carried out this dangerous manipulation for the sole purpose of destroying your life.

15. These people cold-bloodedly accepted the fact that the lives of other persons would also be endangered. ...

Billy:

... what's the deal with the three dark figures, of which you have spoken?

Quetzal:

22. It concerns three men of the group of Brazilians, known under the name "Men in Black."

23. One of the three, who were with you all, monitored your Centre from last Friday night to the early morning hours of Saturday, while the two others carried out the manipulation on the vehicle, in which you and your wife had the accident.

24. Afterwards, they drove away in a large, black vehicle.

Billy:

Aha, and where are the birds now? I would like to get them into my hands.

Quetzal:

25. They are already back in their base in security.

https://www.futureofmankind.co.uk/Billy_Meier/Contact_Report_219

Billy:

... In the old history of Henok and the travelers from afar from the depths of space and, with these, the refugees of Henok's line from the Sirius region, there is talk of the fact that these chose a system with an already-dying sun, in order to escape from the captors. This was so because the pursuers did not expect it and, even today, do not expect that the refugees chose for themselves a dying or passing sun, which will only exist for a few billion years and which only had three habitable planets in its system, one of which could only be transitionally inhabited for a short time, namely Mars, while another, thus Malona or Phaeton, was destroyed by its inhabitants, which resulted in the asteroid belt. Moreover, there was still the fact that the Sirius regions, from where the refugees broke out, were in a different space-time configuration, and the refugees settled in another space-time plane, simply in our space and our time, which was a foreign area to the Sirians and which could not be found by them up to this day, for on the one hand, there are simply too many of the most diverse space-time configurations in the entire Universe, and on the other hand, the Sirians did not have the Henok-technology of the space-time exchange. But now, two specific questions about this: first of all, do the distant descendants of the Sirians from their other space-time configuration, or from their other space-time plane, still presently search for the refugees of Henok's line, whose most distant descendants are some of today's Earth-humans? And secondly, are the distant descendants of these Sirians in a position today to penetrate into other space-time configurations? And actually, this still gives rise to a third question that is related to this: Why, actually, was a solar system searched for, which only had a few inhabitable planets?

Quetzal:

73. The danger of the pursuit of the refugees, or rather their distant descendants, by the distant descendants of the former inhabitants of Sirius is no longer existent because over many thousands of years, the disposition of the Sirians has changed for the better, and so now, they live in peace and without ambitions for power.

74. Today, their aspirations are more focused on consciousness-related and spiritual progress than just on power, revenge, and retaliation, in consequence of which also everything that had happened at the earliest times with the genetically manipulated ones and their work and escape was ordered into oblivion by a council's decision.

75. But still, they also developed their technology further in every form, consequently, they also became capable of changing from their space-time plane into another.

76. But unfortunately, this was to the advantage of a small group of diehards who had taken over the old hatred and thoughts of revenge as well as the retaliatory desires of the old Sirians from generation to generation and also further maintained them.

77. But today, these are now just 63 of their human beings who continue in the traditional hatred and try to cause harm to the most distant descendant of the Sirius refugees, even in the wise that they try to transport you from life and thereby make your mission and the spiritual teaching [aka Creation energy teaching] impossible.

78. Unfortunately, they also arrived into the possession of the technology that enables them to change into the most diverse space-time planes, so even into this one, in which the SOL-system exists, which they have, indeed, found after centuries of searching.

79. They try to cause harm to you as well as to all those around you and to the teaching and the mission and elsewhere, namely by intimidating and threatening the Earth-humans who have observed our beamships or the ones of other extraterrestrial visitors to the Earth or who have found any proof of their existence.

80. Through these hateful elements that cooperated with the Giza Intelligences, human beings of the Earth were also injured or kidnapped, etc., but this only occurred rarely.

81. Moreover, these renegades and 'Black Men', as we also call them, and these have nothing to do with the so-called 'Men in Black' who are of earthly origin and, thus, who are secret-service driven Earth-humans, who strive to induce real visions and hallucinations through apparatus-driven, suggestive impulses in Earth-humans who are susceptible to these.

82. Their repertoire ranges from fake sightings and observations as well as alleged abductions up to simulated contacts and sexual intercourse with extraterrestrials, from which alleged pregnancies occur that, if they already appear, are caused quite normally with an earthly partner or by artificial manipulation of a medical nature or one's own nature.

83. Also through these extraterrestrial 'Black Men' the illusion is produced in susceptible Earth-humans that somehow, through carelessness, etc., things penetrated into their body unnoticed, such as the incidence of metal fragments or small projectiles, etc., implants of extraterrestrial forces and beings, which is absurd, of course.

84. Since these Sirius renegades are too small in their numbers to inflict really major damage on Earth and its inhabitants, they have invested in their hatred, in order to create confusion in manifold forms all over the Earth among the humans.

85. Moreover, as I already said, they try to destroy the spiritual teaching [aka Creation energy teaching] and your mission, and indeed, even by instigating unstable Earth-humans to kill you or to make it impossible for you through lies, deceit, and slander and to represent you as a liar, swindler, forger, and fraud, which you will still experience, unfortunately, even in your own family, as I have seen through a look into the future.

86. Unfortunately, we are not able to catch these extraterrestrial 'Black men' elements because they always vanish into a space-time plane whose coordinates we cannot detect and cannot register, for quite obviously, these Sirius renegades have a coordinate-distorter or otherwise have a possibility to distort the coordinate data, whereby we cannot capture them and cannot get a hold of the offenders.

87. In addition, the elements are extremely vigilant and clever, so it could take years or decades before we get them on track and dissuade them from their actions.

88. We have to wait until they make a mistake or until our scientists find a possibility to decipher their coordinates upon the disappearance of the renegades into another space-time plane.

{Note: Contact Report 251 contains an extensive history related to the Sirian "Men in Black" and why they sought "revenge on the distant descendants of the genetically manipulated ones".}

(Annotation Ptaah from the 6th of January 2005: This danger has meanwhile demonstrably resolved itself, and there are only about 60 distant descendants of those who had created the genetically manipulated ones and who had them tracked during their flight. These are the group of extraterrestrials called the Men in Black, but they are not identical with the earthly Men in Black, who are state-controlled. The populations of today's Sirius regions, which are located in space-time configuration offset to the earthly dimension, have settled the old feuds against the genetically manipulated ones, have become peaceful and are no longer interested in tracking down and taking revenge on the distant descendants of the genetically manipulated ones.)

(Note Ptaah from 6th January 2005: Regarding this malicious group we are talking about the approximately 60 extraterrestrial Men in Black, who, however, have since the year 2002 no longer had any possibility whatsoever to cause any harm on the Earth, because the Plejaren deprived them of all possibilities for doing so.)

Billy:

... You once explained to me that Alzheimer's disease is also triggered in certain cases by aluminium that gets into the brain. But why does aluminium get into the brain?

Ptaah:

114. Alzheimer's disease is basically genetically controlled and in this form too much aluminium is transported into the brain in certain cases. ...

Billy:

This brings me directly to the idea that this could already be a genetic manipulation that the powers in the Sirius regions had already carried out in ancient times in order to prepare the 'fighting machines' in such a way that sooner or later they would die of it.

Ptaah:

123. Your thought processes are amazing, because it actually behaved that way.

Billy:

Then other diseases, such as cancer, etc., could be equally genetically programmed?

Ptaah:

124. This is indeed the case, because a whole number of serious and most serious diseases that appear in humanity on Earth have been programmed in a genetically manipulated form.

125. In order to free oneself from this, however, the humanity of Earth or its scientists must learn how to deal with genetic manipulation, for which we release impulses in a responsible manner.

126. However, the path of development will be very long, because the research and the successes resulting from it must not overflow, so that damage is not done again.

{Note: See the entry for Contact Report 251 as to why these statements are related to the "Men In Black".}

https://www.futureofmankind.co.uk/Billy_Meier/Contact_Report_264

Billy:

But I think that this is necessary if I have fake Asket and Nera pictures, which have been sold under this name until now. If that's the case, then I'm going to be viciously attacked

Ptaah:

11. It's not your fault, because it has to be assigned to your photographer, who let a group of Black Men force him to do the wrong thing and thereby cheated on you.

Billy:

I know this scum. One of them also pursued my daughter Gilgamesha once when she was on her way home from school. She was followed with a knife in her hand. When she was not caught, the cowardly guys fled in a big black limousine. ...

Ptaah:

16. Since you have not let yourself be intimidated by any of the infamous and dangerous and even life-threatening machinations of the Black Men since the beginning of your contacts with us, and since you even laughed at attempted murders and were always armed – with the appropriate permission of the authorities, I have to say – the Black Men found it necessary to make you look impracticable and unbelievable all over the world.

17. Since they could not get to you themselves, they massively forced people working with you, such as photographer Schmid, to discredit you in the long run.

18. Thus Schmid was forced to produce forgeries of the pictures you had taken with our permission, that is, to forge them from scratch, or to falsify the pictures you had taken.

19. Several times your own films, which you gave to the photographer Schmid during the first time of your contacts to develop and to make pictures, were replaced by completely new and faked films, consequently you already received many false negatives and photos from the very beginning – or even faked pictures.

20. This also happened with the film on which you captured Asket and Nera and which you only got back months later, and which was in fact a product of the Black Men who had found and photographed Asket's and Nera's doubles in America, after which the pictures were edited and handed over to you by Schmid.

21. Of course, you believed that they were the originals, but that they were truthfully fakes and your real photos were deceptively counterfeited.

22. That's why you did not notice the deception, which is equally true for us.

23. We only became aware of this fraud in the autumn of 1984, when we brought the pictures from you to Asket, because she wanted to have them.

24. She noticed the deception immediately, of course, consequently we investigated the matter and found out that the Black Men were responsible for the whole thing and that the photographer was their coerced tool.

(Note Ptaah from 3.3.2005: The pictures of the doppelgangers are so deceptive that even Ptaah let himself be misled and deceived by it. Only Asket noticed the deception nine years later.)

25. Schmid made the false pictures on their behalf and then submitted them to you as originals, so you were always of the opinion that they were your own pictures, also with regard to the pictures of Asket and Nera.

26. It was precisely with regard to these pictures that we found out that Schmid immediately handed over the film handed over to him in this respect to the 'Black Men' or to the 'Men in Black', as they are called in your ufological circles, as the case may be, who within just a few days were able to locate and photograph the Asket-Nera doppelgangers in America several times, so that the two pictures known to you were created and handed over to you.

27. The Giza intelligences also played a certain role in the whole thing, as well as on other occasions, as you know very well.

28. But we were not able to clarify the exact connections.

29. It is clear, however, that they had an impulse telepathic negative influence on a large number of people on Earth to damage, defame or even kill you, as has been attempted several times – unsuccessfully, fortunately.

30. And in the end everything was done to make you and your mission impossible, especially by accusing you of cheating on photo forgeries.

31. And both the 'Men in Black' still work today, as do the decades-long impulse telepathic negative machinations against you and your mission to be destroyed.

32. And affected by these impulses of the Giza intelligences should be all those who work full of intrigues, slander and other negative machinations against you and the mission without having knowledge of the impulses.

Billy:

Not exactly pleasing. – But how long will these Giza impulses continue to be effective on Earth?

Ptaah:

33. This may take another 200 or 300 years. ...

Billy:

... But may I now ask where this photographer Schmid actually came from, because he never told me his address. He always picked up my films and negatives etc. from me and brought them back to me himself. Once asked, he explained that he could not give his address, because his wife was not allowed to know that he went in and out of my house. She was against me and became devilish as hell if she only heard my name. He only always said that he came from the Rhine valley.

Ptaah:

42. The man died years ago.

43. Your question should therefore be superfluous.

44. I just want to say that it was a lie that he lived in the Rhine valley.

45. The reason, however, that he did not give you an address, must have been that he was under the pressure of the 'Men in Black', who really threatened him massively.

Billy:

He always seemed a little anxious. I remember that very well.

Ptaah:

46. With good reason when you think of the 'Black Men'.

Billy:

Actually, I feel sorry for the schemers and slanderers, because if they are blinded by the impulse telepathic machinations of the Giza intelligences, there is hardly any hope for them that they will ever come to reason and truth in this life, consequently they are more and more mistaken. – By the way, you have sent these Giza twerps elsewhere – is it really the case that they cannot get back to Earth from there or cannot make contact with other intelligences to influence them and cause new harm?

Ptaah:

47. The Earth-humans can be sure that they will never again be bothered by these degenerates.

48. Other intelligences are also safe from them. ...

Billy:

But now I remembered a question about the 'Men in Black' and their machinations with the doppelganger pictures and the photographer: How could the 'Men in Black' find the two Americans so easily and quickly and also photograph them in the desired form?

Ptaah:

62. The 'Men in Black', as they are always called because of their black clothes, have always had undreamt-of possibilities for ordinary people and citizens, which made it easy for them to find the two young artists.

63. In fact, nothing remains hidden from these extremely unscrupulous men when they get involved in something.

64. The pictures made of the doppelgangers, of which we actually told you on the 3rd of February 1985, were not made directly with the two young women, however, but were copied from a screening film that the 'Men in Black' got hold of.

65. I think this type of film used is called a revue film.

66. In any case, individual images of it were copied out, whereby the men, together with photographer Schmid, selected those which were most similar to your images of Asket and Nera, which is why you could be deceived in such a way.

67. So the purpose of the whole thing was to create certain situational pictures that were deceptively similar to the pictures you made of Asket and Nera.

68. The point was that you would, of course, distribute these fake or rather doppelganger pictures and sell them to interested parties – as real pictures of Asket and Nera.

69. But it was precisely this that one day would put you in the position of a cheater, because it was calculated that sooner or later someone hostile to you would investigate these images and thus get to the bottom of them, with the inevitable consequence that the aforementioned screening film or revue film would be found and the false Asket-Nera images in it would be recognized as those of the doppelgangers.

70. This should then be taken as proof of being able to expose you as an alleged cheater, thus making yourself and your story impossible and destroying your mission.

71. So already back in 1975 everything was thoroughly pre-programmed by the 'Men in Black'; just that the corresponding image sequences had to be found in the foreseeable future with their help, which should have happened by now and will be exploited by your enemies in the not too distant future.

72. And these enemies against you and your mission, that is beyond doubt for us, are all purely earth-human persons, who are under the influence of the Giza impulses, which are still effective for a long time.

Billy:

So also Korff and B.?

Ptaah:

73. Without any doubt.

Billy:

If you have already talked so much about the Men in Black, I have a question: Quetzal once told me that these men were also responsible for an assassination attempt on me. What attack was that?

Ptaah:

74. It's not just an attack, because of the 15 attempted murders so far, eleven truthfully go back to the 'Men in Black'.

Billy:

I thought it was just one. The second attack was carried out by a fanatical Jehovah witness who tried to shoot me in Hinwil through my office window. Another time, the Giza twerps were involved in an attack when lightning struck me out of the blue, and so on. Once Jacobus Bertschinger and the brothers Hans and Konrad Schutzbach were there when a bullet hit me on the armour plate in front of my chest. Once Silvano Lehmann stood next to me as a bullet hit the ground next to my feet. And also Wendelle Stevens was once there when a shot was fired and the bullet hit only a few centimetres next to my head in the wall etc.

Ptaah:

75. These things are all familiar to me, so you do not have to mention them.

Billy:

Good – The 'Men in Black' – I used to ask Quetzal if he could tell me where they come from and which organization they belong to. He explained things to me that sounded unbelievable and that concern areas that are hardly comprehensible for people who do not have enough imagination to imagine everything.

Ptaah:

76. Quetzal also explained to you that the explanations he gave you were a serious matter of trust that you should not talk about for the time being.

Billy:

I know, and I have always stuck to that. I only came to talk about it because I wanted to ask you whether the matter must continue to be a matter of trust and therefore remain secret.

Ptaah:

77. That is still the case for the time being, yes; and it will not change very quickly. ...

Billy:

... You said, in relation to the 'Men in Black', that the declarations on this were a matter of trust and that this would not change so quickly. Does that mean that perhaps in the future you will be able to make open statements about this? Many people would certainly be interested in this.

Ptaah:

99. This possibility cannot be excluded, but open declarations can only be made by our side if we know the exact how, from where and why of these mysterious beings.

100. For the time being, all this is still unclear to us, even though we have been trying for decades to solve the mystery.

101. So far we are only dependent on our assumptions, as they are known to you.

Billy:

They are to me, yes. But haven't you made any progress yet?

Ptaah:

102. In certain respects, yes.

103. For example, in the matter that today we have clear evidence that it was actually those 'Men in Black' who took so many important things out of your locked rooms and containers.

104. Their many opportunities, which they have at their disposal and which they master, can be easily accomplished by such organisations.

105. There are practically no limits to them, and that fact alone makes them very dangerous

Billy:

The guys don't shy away from murder either, not to mention their intrigues, which have always done them a lot of harm, drove people mad and insane when they became annoying and they didn't just want to kill them, because their mental and conscious instability offered better opportunities to cover up their crimes – not to speak of what they did and still do with forcing people, consciously or unconsciously, to do things that defy all rules of honourability and proper action. And what they have done and continue to do with regard to the leadership of certain governments and the military, etc., is really not a cowhide.

Ptaah:

106. That is all true, but we shouldn't talk about these matters any further now, because it wouldn't be good to expose assumptions before they have been proven.

107. And that would happen if we continued to discuss these issues.

108. But the fact is, and this may be said, that all those who know about the existence of these beings and deal with them, do not know in any way what is behind them and how dangerous these 'Men in Black' really are, whose machinations intimidate every normal human being and let him act according to the will imposed upon them, and who want to prevent by all means that positive extraterrestrial forces establish contacts with the terrestrial human beings and helpfully assist them.

109. But more may and should now really no longer be spoken.

Billy:

End of the flagpole. – Well, let's leave it. Only one thing I would like to address in this matter, and that is no secret: The 'Men in Black' have got the same abilities as the Giza twerps had, namely in the form that they are able to influence the humans of Earth negatively and maliciously by unnoticeable telepathic impulses. And it is precisely in this respect that I would like to ask you whether you know whether these unpleasant impulses still affect our group members today, as they did very often in the past?

Ptaah:

110. That is beyond doubt, but the individual members have consolidated themselves over the years to such an extent that they have already nipped in the bud the majority of the impulses that impair reason and truth in the bud, which is particularly peculiar to those who are consciously and psychologically quite stable.

111. Reason and truth have borne good fruit with them.

112. Nevertheless, it must be said that the dangerous telepathic impulses of the 'Men in Black' as well as the impulses of the deported Giza intelligences that will remain effective for a long time to come must not be regarded as harmless.

Florena:

3. Our observations have shown, that the foreign beings known to you as the 'Men in Black' are again becoming active against you, in connection with the fact that you have publicly denounced their machinations with regard to the photo forgeries.

4. I am not only talking about the photo forgeries in relation to Asket and Nera, but also about all the other photo material that has been falsified and imputed to you.

Billy:

I am very happy that you warned me, but you are a little late with this warning, because I have already been confronted with the new machinations of the rabble on the 8th and 10th of June. You probably have not looked at the control disk yet, otherwise you would know about the incidents.

Florena:

5. What has happened? –

6. No, we do the inspection at the end of this month.

Billy:

Well, I have been shot at once again, but this time it is a hell of a close miss that I got hit. That was three days ago, on the 8th of June. Only 28½ hours later there was another attack, with a throwing knife that was thrown at me. ...

Florena:

19. I know that several witnesses were present when the assassination attempts were made on you.

Billy:

That is right, and they testify to what happened. Nevertheless, they even accuse me of lying and claim that I committed the attacks myself or hired other people to shoot myself down or have myself murdered in any other way.

Florena:

20. You cannot be serious.

Billy:

But it is, because certain enemies do not shy away from slander, nor from assassinations. I think that the attacks are less based on earth-human initiatives than on the machinations of the 'Men in Black', whereby this rabble influences unstable earthlings who then attack me.

Florena:

21. This also corresponds to what we know.

22. The influences and the related possibilities with regard to the post-hypnotic exercise of coercion on unstable Earth-humans are extremely distinctive.

Billy:

Then the assassin earthlings are under post-hypnotic coercion!

Florena:

23. That is the meaning of my words.

24. Those under compulsion cannot act otherwise.

Billy:

But one thing amazes me: How can the people who are forced to do so always disappear so quickly and soundlessly?

Florena:

25. They are programmed by post-hypnosis to carry out the attacks in certain places, from where they can also silently and quickly remove themselves again.

26. One peculiarity is that they never wait for the result of their attack, but leave the place immediately after the attack or hide in such a way that they cannot be found.

27. This also means that they are forced by hypnotic commands to wear light, fine shoes that hardly make any noise.

28. The clothing must also be adapted to the surroundings of the previously scouted out location.

Billy:

Although I know the reasons why the 'Men in Black' do not appear to me themselves, I still find it strange why I have not seen anything of these rascals for years. The last time was when the guys attacked my daughter Gilgamesha and apparently wanted to kidnap her.

Florena:

29. It's not that strange, because at least the group of these foreigners who were up to no good in the first few years are prevented from appearing on the Centre-grounds themselves by a reporting system we installed.

30. However, if they were to try this, which was the case several times before, we would immediately take action against them, which they find extremely unpopular, so they disappear without a trace, without us being able to decipher their flight coordinates for their leap in time, because they are so cleverly coded and torn that we are not able to decipher them even with our best technical means, which is also the reason why we have not yet been able to put their evil handicraft to them, as you like to say.

Billy:

But to my knowledge, Ptaah told me, there is also a group of men who are controlled by the earth authorities, who only dress in black and drive around with black bodies to put pressure on so-called UFO observers and so on.

Florena:

31. That is right, but they have not played a role in your case yet.

Billy:

Did they have anything to do with the secret service agents who were on me?

Florena:

32. No, in no way.

Billy:

But now it makes me wonder whether the earthlings, who are under posthypnotic pressure, cannot defend themselves against it?

Florena:

33. They are all unstable earthlings who are chosen for the purposes of the assassinations, and of course they are not able to defend themselves against them in such a way that they can free themselves from the coercion.

34. Such impulses may well appear in them, which then makes them uncertain about the execution of the deed, which was often your happiness, but they cannot disobey the order.

https://www.futureofmankind.co.uk/Billy_Meier/Contact_Report_266

Ptaah:

9. The whole thing undoubtedly leads back to the 'Men in Black', namely to those who do not have a form of governmental secret service.

Billy:

Then there are those thugs, who can encrypt their coordinates of origin in such a way that you have not been able to crack them yet. That's what Florena said. But what next?

Ptaah:

10. According to the records of the control disk, the assassin was undoubtedly a human being from Earth, who nevertheless is a resident outside the control field, because outside the control field his trail is lost.

11. Of course we could find the man, because he was one of them

12. But that should be useless, because he certainly does not know anything about the tele-hypnotic influence and command by the 'Men in Black'.

13. We are certain that he carried out the two assassinations without being aware of it, as was also the case in the past with all other attacks for which Earth-humans were hypnotically forcibly abused. ...

21. Even though our control sensors can prevent the particular group of 'Men in Black' responsible for the attacks from entering the Centre-grounds, they still have the opportunity to inflict damage on you by unstable Earth-humans with tele-hypnotic influences.

https://www.futureofmankind.co.uk/Billy_Meier/Contact_Report_274

Billy:

... But now a question about the strange occurrences of the vault and the disappearance of the corrections from the original report and the disorder in Engelbert's artwork. Can you try to do something about this and tell me what you ...

Could perhaps the 'Black Men' be behind this?

Florena:

13. Unfortunately, we have no knowledge of this, at least not with regard to the group that is not of earthly origin.

14. There is a possibility, however, because we do not have enough knowledge about their technology and other possibilities, because we have not been able to get hold of them up to now, as you know.

15. However, as far as the terrestrial organization of the Black Men is concerned, we know for sure that they do not have such possibilities to intrude unnoticed into your workroom and locked receptacles.

{Note: See the entry for Contact Report 251 as to why these statements are related to the "Men In Black".}

Billy:

... Regarding the Sirians who at that time presented Sfath with their pear-shaped space ship: did that concern a people who, here on the Earth, is called "Nommo", and did those who provided the gift belong to the genetic manipulators?

Ptaah:

9. A people called "Nommo" is unknown to us, and indeed in our space-time configuration as well as in yours.

10. My father Sfath received his flying device as a gift from a Sirian people who are called Samanet.

Billy:

Did these people have something to do with the genetic manipulators?

Ptaah:

11. No, that is not the case.

12. With the Samanet people it deals with a people who live in a space-time configuration which is not identical with that in which the genetic manipulators live.

Billy:

Does it deal then with our space-time configuration?

Ptaah:

13. No, that is not the case.

Billy:

Then, in 1976 Semjase, your daughter, also did not speak of two solar systems of the planets of Sirius in our space time configuration, rather of a completely different one?

Ptaah:

14. Certainly.

15. We always only speak of the constellations known to you in your space-time configuration in order to show, in terms of direction, approximately what the talk is about in regard to the space-time configuration spoken about by us. ...

Billy:

I assume that those who were genetically manipulated also have nothing to do with the Samanet?

Ptaah:

17. That corresponds to the situation.

18. The Samanet are quite normal humans who have not been genetically manipulated.

Billy:

Those who were genetically manipulated, who came into the solar system together with the refugees from the ranks of the genetic manipulators, and therefore with the sympathisers of the genetically manipulated ones, were the descendants of those who had been genetically manipulated as well as descendants of those who did the genetic manipulations, or?

Ptaah:

19. That is correct.

20. The genetically manipulated descendants were descended from the eighth generation, as were the descendants of the genetic manipulators.

Ptaah:

24. As you know, a large part of your material of our photos of beamships was falsified by the photographer Schmid under the pressure of a certain organization of the MiB and then planted on you again, just as it happened with your film and photo material of the Great Journey {see Contact Report 31}.

25. The films and slides showing our beamships were so meticulously falsified that suddenly threads were visible as if models had been hung up and photographed ...

29. Your ex-wife as well as H.S., M.S., Photographer Schmid and the aforementioned MiB organization were the originators of the fact that the materials first disappeared without a trace, only to reappear later in journals and newspapers worldwide, through which you could buy back negative copies from the slide owners.

...

44. The business with your slides, films and photos was extremely profitable for the four of them, although it is also certain that the aforementioned MiB organization as well as others who were hostile to you and still are today had their hands in it, even with horrendous sums of money, which is why it could also be that your ex-wife suddenly had a bank account in which 35,000 Swiss francs were hoarded.

...

Hans-Georg Lanzendorfer {article}:

The Plejaren investigations of this incident revealed the following: Since the organization 'Men in Black' could not eliminate him after several failed assassinations (in the end, 21 of them in total), which they committed against 'Billy', they forced people working with 'Billy', such as the above-mentioned photographer Schmid, to discredit BEAM in a very massive way. They meticulously planned their intrigues and defamations for the long term, so that the effects of their actions would only begin to be felt in the near future. On several occasions, the 'Men in Black' also tried to achieve their goal in the Semjase Silver Star Centre by attacking the members' vehicles or by intimidating and abducting children etc. In this form, the photographer Schmid was also forced by the 'Men in Black' to make fakes of the photographs that 'Billy' had taken with the permission of the Pleiades/Plejaren. On several occasions, pictures that Schmid had received from 'Billy' were forged from scratch or replaced by fakes, as happened with the Asket Nera photographs and the dinosaur photograph mentioned above. In this way, Eduard A. Meier received unnoticed false slides, negatives or manipulated photos back from Schmid already at the beginning of his contacts with the Pleiades/Plejaren. This photographer has since passed away and is therefore no longer able to provide any information about these manipulations.

For 'Billy' Eduard Albert Meier it was initially not easy to find a trustworthy photographer who developed his UFO pictures in an honest way without altering them. Even after the development his pictures were not safe from desecrating access in early years, because they were abused and passed on for falsification purposes already at the beginning of the contacts by administrative persons like H. S. and 'Billy's' ex-wife and companions. Thus, in addition to the originals, forged pictures are still in the possession of FIGU today, into which unknown persons have subsequently manipulated extremely bungling threads and hanging devices.

It is a fact that at no time any fake dinosaur photos were knowingly published by 'Billy' or the FIGU as real Billy photos. Such pictures are still not offered for sale among the officially available photos in the visitor albums. The so-called dinosaur photos are also not listed in the FIGU photo directory. It is known that BEAM had over 1,500 UFO-photos, of which the photographer Schmid falsified several. In addition in the first years about 1,200 pictures were stolen from partly unknown sides, which never appeared again. Various photos and negatives were published in journals etc. worldwide, which enabled 'Billy' to buy back his own pictures and negatives for expensive money to bring them back into his possession. Of course, not all of his photos can be made available for sale by 'Billy', because it is simply impossible to get hold of all stolen pictures. Therefore only the well-known and often desired pictures are offered to the visitors.

Since the so-called dinosaur photos of Quetzal were recognized as fake and destroyed, they are logically not available for sale today. There is no doubt that without the machinations of former malicious group members and without black-men manipulations the dinosaur photos would be as accessible to the visitors as the rest of the real beam ship photos. If BEAM had actually faked his UFO photos, as his opponents claim, he would probably be unscrupulous enough to bring the faked dinosaur photos among the people. But 'Billy' will be careful not to circulate not only his real pictures, which have been scientifically examined and found to be real, but also the dinosaur pictures faked by someone else. On the one hand he lacks the necessary greed for profit and unscrupulousness, on the other hand such nonsense and nonsense would endanger his true mission to the highest degree and finally make it impossible.

Obviously, in the mid-1970s, it was part of the plan of a sleazy counterfeiting organisation of the 'Black Men' and traitorous FIGU members (who, as a result of their useless efforts of destruction, finally left the FIGU of their own accord) to assign the aforementioned picture to the collection of 'Billy' Meier's photographs, along with various other forgeries. It was their goal to confront him one day with the fact of a fake, as they almost succeeded in doing in the case of the Asket/Nera photos. With wise foresight, Quetzal thwarted the attempt with the fake dinosaur photos as much as possible, but unfortunately some of the original dinosaur photos were confiscated and destroyed by the Plejaren. Thus the pictures were lost, but further abuse was avoided.

Unfortunately, it is no longer exactly comprehensible for the FIGU today who was ultimately responsible for the distribution of the forged picture in question – along with other forgeries. What is certain is that it was deliberately played into the hands of the opposing circles of BEAM. Even for the alien Quetzal, it was extremely difficult during his investigations to find the source of the falsifications and the paths of the fake image. A participation of the 'Black Men' is therefore highly probable, since for many years it was almost impossible even for the Plejaren to get hold of these uncomfortable contemporaries. The secret of the 'Black Men' has now been revealed by the Plejaren, as well as the fact that they had very high technical means at their disposal to cover their tracks and that they let earthlings work for them in a forced hypnotic state.

Quetzal {1982}:

The attack on you three days ago I could unfortunately not clarify, because the vibration of the person who shot at you apparently disappeared without trace immediately after the event from the corner of the house, just as if it had been radiated away. This leaves us with only one assumption, and that is that of the 'Black Men', the hateful little group of Sirians. But you should keep quiet about them until such time as we ourselves will talk about it openly. ...

Ptaah:

29. As to the Gizeh Intelligences and the Sirian Black Men, that is another matter which leads back many thousands of years, whereas the Brazilian Group consisted of former Nazis who were able to take over an object of the Gizeh Intelligences, what we also were able to find out.

30. This group does not exist anymore today, and the Gizeh Intelligences were sent into exile and are becoming extinct.

31. In addition, the Sirian Black Men were rounded up and taken into custody through forces of their home world after their last evil attacks against you.

32. They also do not pose a threat anymore.

https://www.futureofmankind.co.uk/Billy_Meier/Contact_Report_450

Billy:

Then a question regarding the Sirians, with whom you've been in contact for some time now after all. My question is based on the fact that Bernadette is working on the 'Nokodemion Line' into a brochure, in which a statement of mine from the year 1995 is also integrated. At that time, it was still the case that you were not able to maintain contact with the Sirians, but that has changed some time ago, as you explained to me. How was it that you were able to get in contact with the Sirians after all?

Ptaah:

58. It is not the Sirian folks with whom we have come into contact, but our contacts take place only in remote communication form with some groups of consciously higher-evolved scientists.

59. These form our liaisons with the various governments, which are occupied by scientists who are also consciously higher-evolved and who lead the peoples.

60. We do not yet maintain personal or physical contacts, because various prerequisites for this are still missing.

61. The populations of the Sirian peoples themselves are not yet so far advanced in the evolution of consciousness that they would be equal to their scientists, and it is this fact that we cannot yet maintain official contacts with the Sirian peoples.

62. Physical contacts are not yet possible with regard to scientists either, but nothing stands in the way of remote communication contacts, because the evolution of consciousness of scientists allows this, which is why we have opened these contacts.

63. In the remote-communicative way we have also appealed to the Sirians' reason, so that the old persecution mania against those genetically manipulated by their primeval ancestors was abolished, which, however, had already been handed down only in ancient annals, but had long since been forgotten by today's Sirians and was only cultivated by a small group of fanatics who, like the neo-Nazis on Earth, for example, created and practised their hatred from the old writings within themselves.

64. But we only found out about this some time ago, just when we were able to contact various Sirian scientists by remote communication, whereby we did this because we wanted to get hold of those hateful fanatics who threatened your life for so long and called themselves the Men in Black.

{see also Contact Report 65:52-59}

Ptaah:

14. Still you are mistaken respecting the sirian Men in Black, because these also formed links with the Gizeh-Intelligences from the beginning, also like the faction of Ashtar Sheran.

15. The Gizeh-Intelligences controlled all approaches to the earthly airspace for millennia and forced all those, who they could use for themselves, into the alliance through despotism and a forcible change of power of judgment and attitude.

16. Since, however, you have never asked and apparently were also not therein interested regarding these connections, we also have never spoken about it.

Billy:

I understand a brainwashing, that comes about by a forcible change of the power of judgment and attitude of the human being, through strong psychic and physical pressure, in which also drugs and electromagnetic, electric and mechanical torture are often applied.

Ptaah:

17. This corresponds to the meaning of my words.

Billy:

Then, that now is finally clear. The connections with the Gizeh-honchos and other extraterrestrials are therefore much trickier and more extensive, as you told me. But even so, I also have never asked about it, consequently you also have told me nothing about the details. Then, however, I have a problem again, and in fact with the extraterrestrial aircraft, that the Brazilian-group had, from which I was set about in the year 1976 in Winkelriet near Wetzikon. You told me at that time – which unfortunately was not recorded in any contact-report – that it concerned a beamship, which indeed was piloted by people from a distant galaxy, and in fact with poison gas breathers or such, that they, however, were members of your federation, if I am not mistaken. ...

Ptaah:

18. Unfortunately you are mistaken, dear friend, because the strangers were not members of our federation, but they belonged to another group of the Gizeh-Intelligences and were stationed also with these, whereby they had to make an emergency landing in Brazil at that time and were captured by the Brazilian-group.

19. Actually they were poison gas breathers, who all died, when their respiration-equipment failed.

20. They could not leave the Earth anymore, because their interstellar drive was completely destroyed, which was a work of the Gizeh-Intelligences, as we found by experience through the members of the Sirian group.

21. The reason for the destruction of the drive was so that they could not flee, because the Gizeh-Intelligences had a `change` in fundamental attitude.

Billy:

And the Gizeh-twerps didn't undertake anything, as the ship had to make an emergency landing in Brazil, and the respiration-equipment failed, so also nothing, since the old Nazis of the Brazilian-group captured the ship?

Ptaah:

22. Their nature and behaviour was, that they simply gave up lost aircraft, as also they were not concerned about missing people etc. either.

23. Furthermore they were on close terms with the Brazilian group, which, however, that already for a long time does not exist anymore, because everyone of the faction has died by now because of ageing and illness.

Billy:

All members of this group were former officers of the German empire who escaped from Germany to Brazil, they were mainly leading lights and henchmen of the Nazi-empire and therefore escaped war-criminals.

Ptaah:

24. This was actually the case.

https://www.futureofmankind.co.uk/Billy_Meier/Contact_Report_471

Billy:

... During the 424th official conversation of the 17th of June 2006, you told me that the Black Men, those who wanted me to separate from my boots (= to kill), had been captured at last. You said the following: "Since their last evil actions against you, the Sirian Black Men have been seized by forces from their home world and have been taken prisoner." And also during the 452nd official conversation of the 7th of July 2007, this was mentioned. Now I have been asked about how this came about. Can you give me details?

Ptaah:

115. I can explain the following:

116. Through our information about a technical innovation that we had received from the Sonaens, the Sirian scientists were able to register the Men in Black's start, flight and destination coordinates which had been encrypted to such a degree that they could not be decrypted for a very long time.

117. After having obtained the destination coordinates, it was detected that they lead to the planet Mars in the SOL system.

118. Consequently, in the year 2006, Sirian security forces were mobilized who are in possession of space technology that makes it possible to switch between space and time configurations.

119. Those forces secretly started with the aim to catch the Men in Black on planet Mars.

120. On the planet they found very ancient and functioning stations of former occupants/inhabitants, which were used by the Men in Black. From those bases they planned the assassination attempts on you and also pursued other evil machinations on Earth towards groups of Earth-humans.

121. The Men in Black were taken prisoner and all stations were totally eliminated, just as it was the case with all monuments and other things that were erected by the former inhabitants of the planet.

Billy:

Does this mean that now no human-built artefacts can be found on Mars? Why did they do this?

Ptaah:

122. That's the meaning of my words, because all of such artefacts had been removed.

Therefore, only natural artefacts can be found now that were created by nature, as I had once remarked to you during a private talk.

123. You then did not ask why only naturally-created artefacts can be found on Mars, though

124. I do not attribute this to your inattentiveness, but to your bad health situation at that time when I told you this.

125. And regarding the total elimination of everything by the Sirian forces that lead back to the former inhabitants: The reason for this was that it is a Sirian law that everything has to be totally eliminated wherever criminal actions have occurred.

126. This applies to human acquisitions of all kinds on certain locations, as well as on entire planets, if such are not inhabited by a human population, which was also the case with Mars.

Billy:

Maybe you have told me everything, but I only remember that you told me that only natural artefacts can still be found on Mars. Somehow there's a hole in my memory, because I may not remember that we had spoken about that what you have said regarding the finding of the Men in Black on Mars and the removal of all human artefacts. ...

https://www.futureofmankind.co.uk/Billy_Meier/Contact_Report_625

Billy:

Then a question regarding what you once told me, namely that in the United States there is a grouping resp. a secret organisation, that is very well concerned with the things about extraterrestrials and their flying apparatuses etc., but which, in terms of its machinations, knowledge and experiences, is, however, shielding itself not only from the public but also in relation to the US President and the senior rulers, so that they are all left in unknowledgeness and not informed. Is that still the case today?

Ptaah:

103. Yes, and this corresponds to an undisputable but extremely secret fact, whereby the responsible ones of this grouping are also anxious to deny and conceal their machinations, cognitions and experiences about non-terrestrials, the way these are given regarding non-terrestrial existences, activities, relations and incidents etc.

104. This grouping resp. secret organisation also poses a great danger to persons who make certain observations regarding so-called UFOs as well with regard to secret activities that originate from the grouping.

105. Particularly when observing persons want to get to the bottom of the matter and thus create elucidation, they run the risk of getting caught up in the cogwheels of the secret organisation and being gone after or even harmed – should it end with nothing but harming.

Billy:

What do you mean by "great danger", must it be understood as danger to life and "disappearing from the scene"?

Ptaah:

106. That corresponds to what I mean.

Billy:

Aha, then we are, as in the past, back with the dark dressed ones, who also followed Gilgamesha. ...

Ptaah:

11. It is not your fault, because it has to be assigned to your photographer, who was forced to do something wrong by a group of the 'Black Men' and cheated you.

Billy:

This rabble is known to me. One of them also once chased my daughter Gilgamesha when she was on her way home from school. They ran after her with a knife in her hand. When she was not caught, the cowardly guys fled in a big black limousine.

...

Ptaah:

16. Since you have never been intimidated by any kind of infamous and dangerous and even life-threatening machinations of the 'Black Men' since the beginning of your contacts with us and even laughed at attempted assassinations and were always armed – with the appropriate permission of the authorities, I must say – the 'Black Men' found it necessary to make you outrageous and unbelievable all over the world.

...

20. This also happened with the film on which you captured Asket and Nera, which you only got back months later, and which was in fact a product of the 'Black Men' who had located and photographed Asket's and Nera's doubles in America, after which the pictures were edited by Schmid and handed over to you.

...

23. We only became aware of this deception in the autumn of 1984, when we brought the pictures from you to Asket, because she wanted them.

24. She noticed the deception immediately, of course, so we went into it and found out that the Black Men were behind the whole thing and that the photographer was their forced tool.

26. With regard to these images in particular, we found out that Schmid immediately handed over the film he had developed to the 'Black Men', respectively to the 'Black Men', as they are called in your ufological circles, who within a few days had found the Asket and Nera doubles in America and had been able to take several photographs, so that the two images you knew were created and handed over to you.

...

31. And both the 'Black Men' are still working against you and your mission, which is to be destroyed, as well as the decades of continuous impulse-telepathic negative machinations.

...

45. But the reason that he did not give you an address might have been that he was under the constraints of the 'Black Men', who really threatened him severely.

...

Billy:

... But now one question has finally occurred to me which relates to the 'Black Men' and their machinations with the doppelgangers and the photographer: How could the 'Black Men' find the two Americans so easily and quickly and also photograph them in the desired form?

Ptaah:

62. The 'Black Men', as they are called because of their always black clothing, have always had undreamt-of possibilities for normal human beings respectively citizens, which made it easy for them to find the two young artists.

63. In fact, nothing is hidden from these extremely unscrupulous men when they get involved in something.

64. The pictures made in relation to the doppelgangers we actually told you about on the 3rd of February 1985, were however not made directly with the two young women, but were copied from a screening film that the 'Black Men' got hold of.

...

71. So already back in 1975 everything was thoroughly pre-programmed by the 'Black Men'; that the corresponding picture sequences had to be found in the foreseeable future with their help, which has probably happened in the meantime and will be exploited by your enemies in the not too distant future.

...

Billy:

... I think that these excerpts made by Christian in connection with Michelle DellaFave's visit are necessary to bring the matter of the Asket-Nera photos in connection with Michelle and her former colleague Susan 'Suzy' Lund to a close after a long time. The origin of the whole thing – from which a worldwide controversy and an intrigue against me arose, in order to make me out to be a fraud and to call me names, whereby my ex-wife was also diligently involved – is over 40 years ago. As part of this intrigue, I was planted with fake Asket Nera photographs, which in reality showed Michelle DellaFave and her colleague Susan 'Suzy' Lund, taken by the Dingaling Sisters on the famous Dean Martin Show in the USA, which had been misused to make me look like a fraud. They were taken by a photographer named Schmid, together with the help of the so-called 'Black Men' who often crept around our Centre and caused various damages, but also threatened our daughter Gilgamesha with a knife. The photographer Schmid, who died some time ago, was an acquaintance of ..., who was also a hobby photographer and who managed my more than 1,500 slides, photos and eight films, kept them in safekeeping and also sold them worldwide on his own account, but also gave them to photographer Schmid, who forged them on behalf of the 'Black Men'. Ptaah:

24. The insidious actions against you by certain secret services, through which you were also federally registered in Switzerland, should also be mentioned in this regard, as well as the machinations of the so-called 'Black Men' who were integrated into the UFO hysteria at that time, who also had your daughter in their sights and who was only spared an abduction because she luckily ran away from these dark figures and ran home when she was on her way home from school, as you know.

25. As we found out in this regard, this dark group was out to kidnap your daughter in order to coerce you into keeping a low profile regarding our contacts, your photos and interview reports, etc.

26. You should have been prevented from coming out in public, as well as from mentioning the dark organisation in connection with you and our contacts.

27. But when you continued undeterred, but did not mention the fact of the Earth-presence of the Earth-foreigners according to our order, and we spoke generally only of the Giza Intelligences, it came to pass that the dark-organisation became sensible that you and we Plejaren – when we still misleadingly used the false designation 'Pleiades' for lying and fraudulent contact-imitators of all kinds – had nothing to do with the Earth-foreigners.

28. Because of this, the dark ones were active in a threatening manner and harassed UFO observers all around and triggered fear and anxiety, fears and worries through evil threats.

43. I can do that, but there is not much to explain, because for various reasons connected with the Earth-foreigners and the 'Black Men', as well as with the US and other secret services, we had to behave in such a way that we pretended to be uninformed and our contacts appeared unreal from the point of view of the Earth-foreigners, the 'Black Men', and all the various secret services.

44. This could only be done by distancing ourselves from calling the Earth-foreigners the originators of the Fatima phenomenon, for if we had done so, the insidious efforts of the dark men and secret services against you would have continued.

45. Also assassinations could not have been avoided under certain circumstances by the non-human Earth-foreigners, as it would also have been possible under certain circumstances by certain secret agents and the 'Black Men', who had nested in the restaurant Brückenwaage in Dussnang and cooperated with each other.

46. If attacks against your life had also been carried out from these sides, then this would have been done in an absolutely deadly and thus in a completely different way than all those attacks on your life which were carried out unprofessionally by confused people, sect members, misguided people and other antagonists.

47. But the threat of the secret agents and dark figures had to be prevented, which could only be done by deliberate misleading, and this also with regard to the Fatima event, which we misleadingly called the machination of the Giza Intelligences instead of the Earth-foreigners, when it came up in our conversations.

48. In fact, the Giza Intelligences were also Earth-foreigners, whom we actually deported, but who were just as unknown to the Earth-foreigners as we were to them.

49. Like us, the Giza Intelligences also had similar devices for complete shielding, so that they too could not be located by the Earth-foreigners and could also not be perceived in any other way.

50. Consequently, they also knew nothing about their presence on Earth and were therefore simply non-existent for the Earth-foreigners.

51. So, confusing as it all may seem, we had to put the Giza Intelligences in the foreground, which, according to our providential plan and hope, obviously appeared to be a fantasy product of your statements by the Earth-foreigners, the secret services and 'Black Men', as well as our contacts and conversations.

52. This only furthered the controversy, which, however, helped the fulfilment of our plans, because the interest of the Earth-foreigners, secret services and 'Black Men' quickly waned and you were left alone by them, which has since been maintained in your favour. ...

Billy:

... So your explanations, statements and declarations were formulated in such a way for the public and to be kept in writing by me and to be spread in the world, just without your mentioned additions 'as a rule' and 'under reserve', whereby the misunderstanding impression was awakened and it seemed as if you would completely deny all abductions concerning earthlings by extraterrestrials and any contacts with them. But this was not the case in reality, because you spoke of relatively and 'as a rule' and 'with reservations', which I had to conceal for certain reasons and must also do now according to your instructions. In view of the circumstances prevailing at the time and in view of all that could have been expected and all the extremely unpleasant and even malicious things that would have come to light in connection with the US Air Force, the US secret services, the US government, the 'Men in Black' and the US shadow government, if you had freely and openly stated the effective facts, you informed me in detail about this and that is why I was also bound to secrecy. ...

... From various places where I had to take films and photos, various films and slides disappeared without a trace from my office at Wihaldenstrasse 10 in Hinwil during the first few days after work, before I could take them to Mr Bär for development. How and who stole everything and made it disappear, I can only guess. So, over time, more and more films and photos disappeared. In addition, my originals were falsified by the photographer Schmid, as he repeatedly emphasized, in collaboration with and under the control of 'Men in Black', who had been CIA people, and provided with 'hanging threads' and copies were made of them, while these people had taken my originals, as he said when I confronted him. The whole thing was allegedly done to give the impression that I had photographed suspended models. So a lot of my films and photos had been tampered with, but I only discovered this a long time later, after he had given me back some of my material. The CIA people had taken what was missing, just as they had also manipulated and faked the Asket photo. He explained over and over again that these people had forced him to do everything and that he had therefore had to do it. Moreover, he was afraid as he complained again and again.

Methusalem – the Bible claims that he was about 970 years old. A time on Earth that is tremendously long for a human being. Quetzal once told me that this biblical indication of time did not correspond to the truth, for the number 970 – like other high numbers in the Bible or in other works – did not correspond to years, but to lunar months with 28 days, whereby one year is to be reckoned with 13 lunar months. Accordingly, the biblical Methusalem would not have turned 970 years old, but in reality only its 74.6 years, for 970 divided by 13 lunar months of 28 days each, which results in a 364-day year, is calculated on a result of 74.6153846153 – that is, on 74.6 years.

Billy:

That is easily said because again and again crazy extremists of terroristic character appear in the smallest groups, who organise kidnappings, storm and occupy embassies and schools and state buildings, murder human beings, and then collect millions in extorted money for it, so that they can then make a joyful and pleasant life for themselves with it. And the responsible ones of the countries even help this riff-raff in that they, on the one hand, yield to the blackmailing, and on the other hand, even carry out similar actions, whereby it is still given to them that they have and exercise the damned power to provoke wars, whereby, in this regard, they can even engage the damned religions in this, in particular the Christian churches, who themselves really do not want to have peace, but by all means seek and advocate that the countries of the Earth produce war armies and war material, accumulate and stockpile these, in order to be able to wage war, always under the guise of the strange and crazy shouting that, indeed, peace according to God's order, and additionally, love must prevail on Earth. If one then addresses these idiots and power mongers about this fact, then they say as a response that each country needs an army with adequate weapons in order to be able to ward off an invading enemy. This is an idiocy beyond compare, because if all states have uniformly peaceful intentions and act accordingly, then no country needs armies and weapons of war. A regular security army with corresponding weapons would then suffice to be prepared for contingencies, e.g. if inhumane life-forms from outer space were to attempt conquest, etc. Nevertheless, I must say that your idea of a worldwide 'Free Peace Combat Community' would be very good within the framework mentioned and indeed, should also be striven for, but which alone would not be enough in today's world. All the crazy warmongers and terrorists, anarchists and demonstrators, etc. could not, for the time being, be subdued and brought to their senses with words and the spiritual teaching. It would require, in this case, a special armed army that would have to comprise millions of men and which would intervene immediately in every single country and create peace and order where any rebellions, terrorist acts, and wars, etc. begin to threaten or erupt. Also this army would then have to be responsible for immediately and mercilessly segregating for life all participants in such acts of hostility to peace, within the framework of how you have done it for millennia, that the wrongdoers are taken to special guarded and lonely islands, etc., male and female separated, from where they could never return to society.

Quetzal:

340. Regarding the policemen that will be deployed, similar negative characteristics are to be criticised because all parties involved only act because the commands are given to them, while fear blazes within them, combined with a peculiar urge for exercising power and violence.

341. In my observations, their movements and actions also testified to their fear and arrogance at the same time.

Billy:

You want to say that they will behave like small young boys, who play Indianerlis [Swiss children's game] and who defeat their enemy in order then to place their foot into the necks of those defeated, while threatening the underdog with deadly weapons. That they will not beat themselves with their weapons across their proud-swollen chests like gorillas and give a Tarzan scream of victory will be like a miracle. But comfort yourself with this: I have already known these poses and practices with the Swiss police forces for 45 years because they do not differ one iota from all other megalomaniac weapon swingers of all other countries on the Earth. They all are small, megalomaniac, and illogical young boys, who have weapons in their hands to lift themselves up as gods, but they often behave worse than toddlers in their thinking and actions, who are able to think a thought for the first time and who get to play with a piece of wood for the first time. Small young boys with physically adult bodies who think they know who they are and what they can do.

This is evidenced by the militaries, which you rightly call 'murderous organisations', which were very early formed by the Earth-humans in a primitive process, and by which battles were waged with very primitive weapons in ghastly slaughters. As a result, already in ancient times, tremendous killings were committed all over the Earth and in many lands ...

I wanted to end my speech by saying that the military is still doing the murdering and destroying as they have done since time immemorial and as they will continue to do for a long time to come. Never ...

Billy:

... there will be peace in this process if everything continues as before. In fact, on Earth, humanity will continue to hope uselessly for true peace for a very, very long time, because as long as militarism exists, it will continue to murder, destroy, annihilate and exterminate on Earth. In the same way, however, as long as the religious delusion of faith dominates the believers, the delusion will blaze in the consciousness of the Earthlings that only through military, hatred, fighting and war, through murder, revenge, destruction, retribution and killing of all kinds, etc., peace can be created. Peace can be created. That is why an army is kept in almost every country, under the falsehood of an alleged 'national defence', which in reality is nothing but a preparation for legalised murder and destruction if the 'enemy' should approach. Therefore, true peace will never become and be, for unless armies are abolished in every state, as well as any religious delusion, peace will remain only an illusion. It will only ever be a matter of time before the sham peace that exists loosely at present – simply because there is no hatred between countries at the moment – is broken again, and through the state of fear of the 'enemy', a clash of arms or tangible war is waged. So there remains a further extent of murder and destruction, which will continue, as long as there are military and thus armies in the countries, but also as long as the human beings do not break away from their religious delusion of a God and the like. As long as armies exist, there is a constant danger of enmity and war, massacres, evil destruction, extermination and so on. And as long as religions exist, the delusion of a god or gods – of which Hinduism alone has some 330,000 – a helper in distress, saints, angels, other 'higher figures', or the devil, remains, and as long as there is no peace, for the delusion of god, gods and other high allegedly 'holy' figures etc. alone, creates hatred and revenge, inequality, racial hatred, abuse, hatred of faith and religion, etc., which leads to strife, murder and manslaughter, and persecution and destruction. ...

Billy:

The Earthlings, especially the military and those who are in favour of it, are geared towards cowardly solving any problems by force of arms, but this will never succeed, because a 'victory' by force of arms never brings peace, but always only a state of affairs that threatens to force a new armed conflict or use of weapons and is intended to prevent that, if the truce is broken, new armed violence and murder or death penalty laws are used. As a rule, a military occupation by foreign might then prevails, which never leaves the country and remains there forever. This, however, is not a state of true peace, but a state of threat with constantly lurking armed force and the sceptre of foreign Gewalt and rule, as is the case everywhere in all countries where, for example, the Americans have stationed their occupations, as in Germany, whose 'false-feathered' part of the rulers – the devil knows why – has always been war-minded since time immemorial. ...

That 'national security' is to be safeguarded and defended by tracking and shooting at UFOs is absolutely idiotic, because the technology of UFOs is so far ahead of and superior to all known earthly technology that there is no comparison whatsoever. All those idiots who give the corresponding orders for fighter planes to pursue and shoot down UFOs, or for UFOs to be shot at from Earth, should bear this in mind. These idiots with their medals think they are great and powerful, but in reality they are cowardly, beanpole stupid and not only fill their trousers with cowardly fear, but also crawl into the dirtiest holes when things get serious. The lowly intelligent are then those who have to fight on the front line and lose their lives while the loud-mouthed and self-important order bearers take refuge in their holes and squat there, as is the case with all armies and their superiors and with the rulers of every country, without exception, who glorify themselves and live under the delusion that they are greater and more powerful than the energy and power that created everything from the nihilo and brought it to life.

Quetzal:

25. About that, I can explain a few things to you, as it concerns a man who was a musician and, thus, one who falls into our art records. Glenn Miller was inadvertently killed by his own people, that is, by allied forces, on his way from England to France.

26. He was on his way to Paris to attend a Christmas celebration.

27. He flew his aircraft very low over the English Channel, as American Lancaster aircraft dropped their surplus bombs into the English Channel, without the crews noticing that beneath them, a smaller aircraft crossed their flight path.

28. This aircraft, in which Glenn Miller sat, was hit by the dropped bombs, upon which it exploded, was torn into the smallest pieces, and then plunged into the sea.

29. The small pieces of debris were scattered hundreds of metres, while Glenn Miller was completely torn apart into the smallest particles.

30. This is the real truth, which has no relation at all to the false story that Glenn Miller, for indefinable reasons, died in the arms of a prostitute in Paris.

185. Unfortunately, due to all the cataclysms in the course of thousands of years, only very few of these names were preserved or preserved in similarity.

75. When these names were introduced on the Earth, these were given in eight different languages, which were, nevertheless, all of Lyran origin.
76. From this, new languages developed on the Earth over the course of millennia, from which then, primarily, the oldest languages known on Earth arose, but these strongly flowed through from the original languages introduced.
77. The best-known languages that arose from it are Sumerian, Aramaic, Hebrew, Minoan, Celtic, etc.
78. From the Celtic, for example, there arose many other languages, from which, ultimately, today's German language, the Flemish, and also other languages arose.
79. From the Minoans, Ancient Greek arose and so on and so forth.
80. And in all these languages, of course, the anciently introduced names were common, which have been received or modified in the course of time.

81. What is still most commonly available today in names is found in those areas of languages that run in the Minoan direction and which have been incorporated into the later Ancient Greek, by which means they have been preserved to a large part up to this day, though often modified.

145. Two factors were to blame for the fall of the Minoan culture, namely on the one hand, the disorder of the Minoan society, which was very divided in some respects and which created evil hatred in the various social structures, even due to the disagreement that the Minoan empire threatened to fall apart.

146. The cultural structures split apart, and soon, the whole thing threatened to degenerate into a war of the entire citizenry and, thus, of all levels of society.

147. But before this could happen, a tremendous natural disaster occurred, namely as the Santorini Volcano erupted and burst forth lava, gas, steam, and ash, whereby the ashes alone exhibited the large amount of 73.6 cubic kilometres.

148. Also vast sulfur fumes belonged to this, whereby the whole atmosphere was so polluted and shrouded in a veil that the Sun was darkened, and climate changes emerged from this, which lasted for several years.

149. Low temperatures arose from the veil of smoke and dust in the atmosphere, which caused many years of harvest failures.

150. The bad and poor harvests led to the great famine during the following period.

151. In addition, the Santorini volcano did the rest, for as a result of its powerful eruption and the subsequent explosion – which triggered gigantic tsunamis that devastated the large areas of the Minoan island when the waters raged across the island – many buildings and lands were destroyed, while very many people lost their lives.

152. The largest tsunami, however, the huge tidal wave caused by the explosion of the volcano, rolled far across the sea to Egypt, being red with the blood of countless slaughtered aquatic animals, whereby the river Nile then coloured itself red, and many people in Egypt died.

153. But the tsunami found no end in Egypt and rolled back into the sea, where it united with another tsunami, which was generated by the explosion of the Santorini volcano, and rolled eastward, where the country was destroyed once again and people were killed, when the wild waters penetrated into the country.

Minotaur

<https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Minotaur>

https://www.futureofmankind.co.uk/Billy_Meier/Contact_Report_559

Billy:

... But because of the Taurus Man, the Greek mythology comes to my mind, the legend of the Minotaur, the human being of the bull. At the time of Minos, the king on the island of Crete, he asked the sea god Poseidon for a particularly beautiful and powerful bull to sacrifice to him. Poseidon heard the request, created such a bull and let it rise from the sea. King Minos, however, was so blinded by the beauty of the animal that he kept it for himself, but intended to slaughter another for the sea god. Poseidon, however, became angry and punished the king by casting a spell on Mino's wife for breaking the word: Queen Pasiphae. She fell in love with the bull and commissioned the court artist Daidalos to build a wooden cow, which was hollow inside and covered with fur. When this was done, she climbed into the hollow cow to be mounted and mated with Poseidon's bull, because he liked the work of art and felt attracted to it. Then nine months later the queen gave birth to a child, a monster, half human being, half bull, the Minotaur. This animal-human-child grew up and became big and strong, preferring to eat human beings. But to prevent this Minotaur from causing any harm, the king ordered his master builder Daidalos to build a labyrinth in which the monster was locked up and could not escape. To feed the Minotaur, King Minos had seven boys and seven girls kidnapped every nine years from the city of Athens, which he had subjugated, and then had them taken to Crete and thrown to the monster. One of the young men was Theseus, a son of the sea god Poseidon and stepson of the king of Athens. But the daughter of king Minos, Ariadne, fell in love with him and helped him to kill the monster in the labyrinth. To help Theseus find his way out of the labyrinth, she gave him a wooden spool with a long thread wound around it, which he unwound as he entered the labyrinth and marked his path, which he followed and found on his way back out. ...

Then ...

Ptaah:

85. This is familiar to me because you were in Crete together because you were interested in the mythological story about the Minotaur and wanted to know the truth about it.

Billy:

Because at that time I wanted to get to the bottom of various stories from different mythologies in general, so also concerning the Minotaur, who is said to have been a human-eating monster – half human being half bull. The Minotaur was a figure of Greek mythology and a creature with a human body but a bull's head. According to Greek mythology and legend, King Minos ruled Crete at that time and was regarded and worshipped as the son of the god Zeus and the goddess Europa. Minos allegedly asked Poseidon, the sea god who is said to have been his uncle, for a miracle of help to become king of Crete, but also to prevent anyone else from becoming king. In doing so, Minos is said to have promised and sworn that he would sacrifice everything that emerged from the sea to the sea god for the rest of his life, including the mermaids who were already haunting the mythologies at that time, but who were in fact not human sea creatures but seals, which people mistakenly considered to be human beings because these mammals could easily be seen as human-like in the water. Poseidon, the saga goes, performed the 'miracle' and Minos became king.

In return for Minos becoming king, he was supposed to offer a sacrifice to the sea god, namely a magnificent bull which the latter sent to Minos, but which pleased the latter so much that he placed it in his own herd of cattle, only to sacrifice an inferior animal instead. Poseidon, however, is said to have become grim and pissed off and boundlessly furious at this and exacted sea-divine revenge in such a way that he allegedly made Pasiphae, the wife of Minos, fall in love with the magnificent bull he sent to Minos as an offering. Pasiphae, the legend explains, as a result of her infatuation, then desired the sea-divine bull in order to mate with it. And in order to be able to do this, she had Daedalus, a clever architect, inventor and technician, who according to the legend was a descendant of the god Hephaistos, build a wooden mating frame.

Daedalus, alias Daedalus, as he is called in German – I must explain this in between – was, according to the legend, an extremely jealous man who, when his pupil invented the saw, killed him by throwing him to his death from a high roof. Afterwards, according to the legend, he fled to Crete so as not to have to answer to the court in his home town of Athens. He also took his son Icarus with him on his flight.

But now back to Pasiphae, the wife of King Minos, for whom Daedalus, according to the legend, built a wooden mating rack that was covered with a cow skin and in which the woman could hide in such a way that she was mated by the bull, so that she lay down in the cow mating rack and was impregnated by the bull. So, according to the legend, she did it and was copulated by the bull, and then, at the correct time, she gave birth to a son from this union, who was half human being and half bull, or the Minotaur, a monster with the form of a human being and the head of a bull.

When King Minos was confronted with all that had happened to his wife and the bull, Daedalus had to build a labyrinth without an exit, but he secretly considered and built one, of which the king was unaware. When the labyrinth was finished, the king had the monster imprisoned in the labyrinth, also forbidding Daedalus to leave the island.

One day, when King Minos received news that his son Androgeos had been killed by the fault of King Aigeus of Athens, he waged a revenge campaign against Athens and defeated the Athenians, after which he imposed a vicious tribute on them, namely that every nine years they had to bring seven youths and seven virgins to Crete and the Minotaur's labyrinth, where they were sent to the Minotaur's labyrinth and sacrificed to it.

Eventually, however, the saga continues, the matter was brought to an end by Theseus, the son and later successor of Aigeus, taking part in the 3rd tribute himself, killing the monster Minotaur in the process. Ariadne, the daughter of King Minos, fell in love with him and helped him with her Ariadne's thread, which he laid out in the labyrinth and thus, with the help of the thread, found his way through the labyrinth in which the Minotaur lived. There are other versions of this, but I won't talk about them, only that the legend says Theseus defeated and killed the Minotaur and found his way out of the labyrinth with the help of the thread laid out by Ariadne with the young men and maidens. ...

But what prompted me to let myself be taken back to Minoan times was the reason for wanting to find out how, why and from what the Minotaur legend arose. And this I was indeed able to find out, the reality being that the Mino-taurus legend had only arisen almost 3 centuries after the death of King Minos and was based on something that had nothing whatsoever to do with the belief in the sea god Poseidon. The effective fact was that, as your daughter Semjase and I were no doubt able to learn and ascertain at the sites of the events of the time, Pasiphae, the wife of King Minos, was impregnated by him and then gave birth to a son who was physically deformed, similar to the 'Elephant Man' who lived in England in the last century. ...

Like Joseph Carey Merrick, the so-called 'Elephant Man', the second son of King Minos and his wife Pasiphae was also severely physically deformed and had a certain resemblance to a bull's head, as well as a completely disfigured figure and face. And as was the case then, and as is also the case today, the boy was disowned by his parents as a result of his already congenital physical deformity. At that time, disabled children were usually killed at birth, but Minotaur, as he was called, was not. This was because the king and his wife feared that the sea god had brought about the whole of the body deformation as a punishment because they had spread evil insults against him. Therefore, they were afraid that Poseidon would take new and even worse revenge on them if the son who had been deformed by his might were killed. So Minos and Pasiphae decided that a court servant, Aphaia or so her name was, should take care of the son and bring him up, far away in the vast countryside. Minotaur had a good Intelligendum, was of a very peaceful nature and had been astonishingly well educated by the court servant, so that one could converse with him through a translator. When he was grown up and also made aware of his origins by his governess, he tried to get to the court and demand his rights, but this led to the king and his wife reacting viciously and consequently commissioning Daidalos to build a labyrinth, which was actually a huge cave, to imprison the physically deformed son in. However, always fearing the vengeance of Poseidon, they tried to appease the sea god by arranging for human sacrifices to be regularly offered in the labyrinth, but only youths of both sexes, who were first chosen from the population, stolen and killed as sacrifices, but later by Athens after war had been waged there and the Minoans had been victorious.

What must ultimately be mentioned with regard to the whole matter is that, as a result of the sacrifice of young human beings to appease or calm the god Poseidon and out of fear of revenge, the lie arose that the imprisoned man called Minotaur, who had been cast out by his father and mother because of his deformed face, head and body, was a human eater, which is why the human beings sacrificed to Poseidon would also serve him as food.

What I am interested in now, though, and maybe you can explain to me what it was that happened to me when I observed something south of the Sahara yesterday, but it suddenly disappeared and was obviously not real. I have never seen anything like it.

...

There was suddenly a piece of a landscape visible in the distance, but it disappeared again after a short time. That is inexplicable to me.

Billy:

Well, it was probably a mirage.

Quetzal:

What is that?

Billy:

You do not know that?

Quetzal:

No – ?

Billy:

Well then, I also experienced that once with Sfath, when I was zipping through a desert with him. We saw a city for several minutes and then it just disappeared again because it was just a mirage, which is also called a Fata Morgana. As Sfath explained to me, this involves a beam of light being refracted to create it, whereby the light expands in an arc and radiates through the layers of air at different temperatures and manifests itself somewhere visibly as a reflection, a mirage that is reflected like a real object. There are records and claims about this, such as that a large sea vessel was suddenly seen in the middle of the desert, for example, as claimed around 1878 or 1880 by a man named Custer, who allegedly saw a large ship in the Mojave Desert in southern California that was said to be carrying large quantities of gold, which is why he launched several 'expeditions' to find the ship. But it was all a lie, as Sfath explained, because the man was fibbing about the alleged sighting of the mirage, because as a gold prospector he invented the story to find people who had travelled with him several times to find a vein of gold. However, this is said to have never happened.

Marilyn Monroe murder

https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Death_of_Marilyn_Monroe

https://www.futureofmankind.co.uk/Billy_Meier/Contact_Report_625

Billy:

... with regard to Marilyn Monroe, who allegedly committed suicide on the night from the 4th to the 5th of August 1962. Ever since the death of the woman, it has repeatedly been said that she did not commit suicide, but was murdered, which has however to this day by certain persons deliberately been portrayed as a conspiracy theory, because the effective truth is not supposed to be truth. In that regard, I wonder why this happened and still happens today, because at that time Asket explained to me that the assertion about suicide was not true, for Marilyn Monroe did actually not kill herself, because in fact and truth she had been murdered, whereby the murderer was her long-time psychotherapist, whose name was Green or something like that. As Asket also said, this fact was however concealed for political reasons, consequently this man was not brought to justice. But the actual reason for it resp. the details behind the murder, which is today still portrayed as suicide, were unfortunately not commented on by Asket. It is also to be said that on the last TV show in this matter, which I have seen, the presumption was also expressed that it might have been a murder after all, and that this very Green or similar name could have committed it. This rhymes with what Asket explained to me already in 1962 and on what I want to ask you whether you too know something about it, maybe?

Ptaah:

73. At that time Asket clarified everything in a good way, because it was an event of a kind that moved the human beings of the Earth globally.

74. She was able to clearly establish that Marilyn Monroe did not commit suicide, but was murdered, namely by her psychiatrist and therapist, Doctor Ralph Greenson, whose actual birth name was Romeo Greenschpoon.

75. He put the women for years under strong medication by performing drug therapies with her and routinely administering her barbiturates and sedatives, which he obtained from an internist named Hyman Engelberg, who prescribed her many of the medications and which were in reality ordered by Greenson.

76. These medications caused Marilyn Monroe to fall into a deep dependence on her medication and Greenson too, and to become increasingly miserable in terms of health and psyche, and namely the more often she received and took the medications from Greenson, some of which were also forcibly entered into her.

77. On the evening of 4th August 1962, she was forced to take a larger dose of a strong sleep aid, namely pentobarbital, after which she became unconscious.

78. And in fact things happened in the way, that Greenson, who was then summoned to Marilyn Monroe, after her reawakening, murdered her by an injection of the barbiturate chloral hydrate into the anus, as a result of which no injection wound could be found anywhere on the body.

79. However, Greenson was not held accountable for the insidious murder, because his act was covered up, whereby he was protected by the Kennedy clan, resp. by John Fitzgerald and Robert Kennedy, on whose order he committed the murder.

80. The reason for the murder was that Marilyn Monroe had a long, deep and very intimate liaison with the two brothers John and Robert Kennedy, which she wanted to make known to the public, as a result of hefty and serious disagreements with the Kennedy brothers.

81. However, the two Kennedys wanted to and had to prevent this, so they made Greenson carrying out the murder.

82. And that the two were eventually also murdered, namely John Fitzgerald on the 22nd November 1963 in Dallas, Texas, and Robert on the 6th of June 1968 in Los Angeles, California, led to a situation of ultimately them too could not be held accountable anymore, the same as Doctor Greenson, who died on 24th November 1979 in Los Angeles, California, whereby everything was shrugged off for the entire Kennedy clan, since from then on there was no longer any danger that Greenson could have been persuaded to confess if the truth had unexpectedly been found out and the whole thing had been made public.

https://www.futureofmankind.co.uk/Billy_Meier/Contact_Report_182

Billy:

Something completely different, namely with respect to the Moon. Up there, there is a myriad of craters, such as also on Mercury or on other SOL planets and satellites. It makes me wonder now as to when the last big meteor impact took place on Earth's satellite, how big the projectile was, and where this occurred on our moon.

Quetzal:

296. The last great impact was made by a meteorite in the year 1178, during the time of the New Moon, and the impact happened on the upper eastern quarter of the Moon.

297. The origin of the meteorite, as it was held at that time by our ancestors, lay in the asteroid belt that runs its course around the Sun between Mars and Jupiter.

298. The investigations at that time showed that in the year 408 B.C., for reasons that are inexplicable to us, a meteorite measuring 1,728 meters in diameter separated from the asteroid belt, entered into a staggering periphery course around the Sun, and ever more approached the Earth.

299. In the year A.D. 1178, it was then so far along on its direct course with Earth's satellite that it fell on the surface of the Moon, close to the light border that is visible from the Earth.

300. As a result of this, there was an enormous explosion which hurled light waves and rocks so high above the lunar surface that the impact could even be observed from the Earth by the naked eye.

Moon origin

https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Origin_of_the_Moon

see also The Destroyer \(comet\)

https://www.futureofmankind.co.uk/Billy_Meier/Contact_Report_005

Semjase:

39. The Flood 10,079 years ago (related to the year 1975) was caused by a gigantic comet, which has already caused a lot of damage and has been traversing the universe since time immemorial.

40. We call it the "Destroyer", and we know that it has already been racing through outer space for millions of years.

...

64. Sure, but I am not finished yet, because I want to tell you even more primordial things now; the prehistory of this comet so fateful for the Earth, which also brought the satellite, the Moon over here – the fragment of a small planet from a very distant solar system.

65. The Earth's moon, which originates from a small planet 4.5 million years older than the Earth.

66. It was millions of years ago.

67. Deep in the unknown space, in a space-time shifted solar system of the Milky Way, a solitary star floated far away from the normal orbits of the satellites orbiting the Sun.

68. It was a dark star, devoid of any life, very dangerous in its unpredictable path, into which it had been flung by an immense eruption of its original sun.

69. This was when its original sun burst through all-shaking explosions and, in its destruction, partially destroyed the satellites orbiting it or hurled them as dangerous projectiles into the dark space.

70. The sun itself then collapsed into itself and tore a hole in the outer space.

71. Its material pressed itself together with monstrous Gewalt and was compressed into a small mass.

72. While the sun in its normal pulsating state had a diameter of eleven million kilometres, it now shrank down to a concentration of only 4.2 kilometres.

73. As a result, the material was compressed in such a way that a single cubic centimetre weighed several thousand tons.

74. Since then it has hovered in space as a dark, gaping hollow, which tears everything within millions of kilometres of its perimeter into itself, whatever it is capable of seizing and what falls under its spell.

75. The dark star, which got flung away by it at that time, got caught again in a neighbouring solar system and orbited it in an unpredictable path.

76. In the field of the force of the huge sun, it orbited the sun's satellites for many millennia as well as the sun itself, testifying to the fact that it would sometime cause a catastrophe to fall upon the system.

77. Yet still far away from the actual worlds, the dark planet, bare of any life, roamed through space.

78. Powerfully and unapproachably, it drifted through the icy cold of the universe – as an outcast, as a wandering planet, as a stranger in a foreign system; dark, dangerous, and deadly.

79. Within the hold of the far outstretched force-arms of the sun, it came closer and closer over the course of thousands of years to the actual area of the system of satellites, which it had already been orbiting for such a long time at an ever-increasing speed.

80. Imperceptibly, however, its course always became narrower and narrower, and year by year the extent of its danger grew.

81. After the thousands of years, it then rushed suddenly and unexpectedly into the closest sphere of influence of the sun and its planets.

82. Like a greedy monster, it emerged from the blackness of the universe and announced deadly destruction.

83. Initially it was only like a silhouette out of nowhere; but then it was recognised in a hazy and blurred way as a half-dark round disc.

84. Now already illuminated by the reflecting rays of the sun, it approached the orbit of the outermost planet at tremendous speed.

85. But it was still millions of units away from the actual hearth of the peaceful calm, which though, due to its gigantic size, it soon had to transform into a seething hell, once it penetrated into the silence of this harmony.

86. But still some time went by at first, until the giant finally strayed from his path and had moved into the most dangerous proximity.

87. Now already recognisable as a round sphere, the Destroyer reflected the sunlight while dragging a fine veil of luminous particles behind it.

88. Still only a few hundred units away from the next worlds, it evoked hellish storms in these, which destroyed large areas that had been cultivated by the human beings peacefully emerging there.

89. With trembling for their arduously gained goods and their already hard lives, they suddenly found themselves exposed to the immense and uncompassionate forces of the universe.

90. Helpless, doomed to be handed over from life to death, they stared out into the sky, to the gigantic wandering planet which raced towards them as a cosmic mortal projectile.

91. It was no more than a question of time before the forces of the cosmos had to unfold their monstrous powers.

92. On the night of the third day after the incursion of the Destroyer into the planetary pathways, the middle of the night may just have passed, the drifter from outer space entered the elliptical orbit of the sixth planet.

93. Causing immense cosmic storms, it flung the planet belonging to the orbit a few units off its direction and brought it on a dangerous course towards the sun.

94. Monstrous eruptions and storms tore apart the peaceful appearance of the planet thriving in its magnificence.

95. Letting mountains collapse and casting seas out of their beds, it sought a new path around its sun for itself.

96. Full of horror and consternation over the immense forces of nature, the human beings fled into the vast plains that covered the planet in great numbers

97. But the unleashed forces of nature were stronger than the will and the saving idea of the human beings.

98. Two thirds of the humankind that inhabited the planet was killed and destroyed in the unleashed hell of nature.

99. Wild waters tore away large parts of the mainland, while exploding volcanoes buried vast areas beneath glowing lava and turned them to rubble and ashes.

100. The planet's daily rotation time doubled, and it circumnavigated the sun in the opposite direction.

101. Forced by cosmic determinations, the survivors had to find a new beginning – devoid of any culture – set back to a primordial time of the development.

102. The Destroyer, however, continued racing through the system, spreading hell, death and destruction.

103. It crossed the path of the fifth planet; a world that was about to give birth to first life

104. Fortunately, at the time of the event, the latter was too far away from the point of crossing its orbital path to be seriously affected.

105. Apart from mighty storms and minor quakes on land and at sea, there were no notable incidents on it.

106. The fourth satellite of the system, however, would find its destruction in the battle of the worlds.

107. As the smallest of all satellites, it stoically traversed its orbit, and from the perspective of anticipatory calculations, it had to cross the flight path of the wanderer exactly when facing it head-on.

108. And that's exactly what happened:

109. It got into the irresistible destructive power of the giant.

110. Like two wild monsters, the two planets raced towards each other; a giant and a dwarf.

111. But before both of them could collide, immense explosions tore the lifeless dead dwarf planet apart.

112. Its fragments were hurled out into the endless expanses of outer space, where they were captured as shooting stars or meteors by the forces of other stars and, burning up in their atmospheres, found their final end.

113. Further parts of the dwarf were torn into the sun and were atomised.

114. Other parts were torn into the Destroyer and became there a part of itself.

115. As if hurled by a giant's fist, one half of the dwarf planet shot away and through a dimensional gate created by the hands of highly developed human beings into the unending expanses of the Milky Way's space towards a very distant target.

116. Several times on its path it got into the realm of suns and planets, was shaken, was hit by meteors and shooting stars and thereby changed its shape.

117. Already after a few centuries it had reached an angular roundish shape.

118. It was dead and barren, however, covered by many small as well as huge, deep craters, and was incapable of supporting life.

119. By the forces of various systems its speed was gradually slowed down and it changed its course several times, until one day it was attracted by the sun of a system and broke into its sphere of influence.

120. As dark, dead planet it traversed all planetary orbits of the outer rings without causing any damage.

121. It was not until the inner rings that it collided with some fragments of a destroyed planet, which nevertheless only tore deep craters into it.

122. However, this caused its course to change once again slightly, with the result that it was driven parallel to the orbit of the second planet, which was already creating its first primitive life.

123. A planet covered by large seas and dense primeval forests, primordial, deadly and yet gruesomely fantastic.

124. From this point in time, only 34 days were still to pass before the dwarf caught up with the planet, namely the Earth, and was held captive by it.

125. The forces of the planet were sufficient to bind the dwarf to itself and let it circle around itself as a new satellite, on an ever-changing elliptical path.

126. Since then it has orbited the Earth as Moon; 4.5 million years older than its mother celestial body.

https://www.futureofmankind.co.uk/Billy_Meier/Contact_Report_029

Semjase:

74. Millions of years ago a giant dark star in another space-time configuration destroyed half a planetary system in many light-years distance from the earthly system.

75. After the destruction of that distant system, the wanderer rushed out into the vastness of space, entered the space-time structure of the Milky Way of the DERN universe, and set course for Earth.

76. By large and small planets and by the Sun it was forced into a new course, which consequently had to bring it again and again into the SOL system.

77. Known as the Destroyer, it stubbornly followed its new course and over the course of millions of years created a firm path for itself.

78. But this orbit often led the Destroyer uncontrollably to planetary systems or other wandering stars or comets, which were pushed off course by its gigantic size or attracted by its attraction and destroyed or abducted.

https://www.futureofmankind.co.uk/Billy_Meier/Contact_Report_150

Quetzal:

472. The original point of origin of the Destroyer is unknown to us, which is why I can only give details on where it found its way into the SOL-system.

473. Its origin lies in the old Lyra System where, from time immemorial, the dark planet—called 'Wanderer' at that time wreaked system-wide destruction and had brought the earthly Moon on that course which led it to the SOL-system and to the Earth.

474. A fact that may seem incredible, fantastic and an unusual coincidence to many Earth scientists, but which nevertheless corresponds to the truth.

475. The Earth's moon was torn loose by the Destroyer many millions of years ago as a fragment of a planet four million years older than Earth is, and thrown out into space, heading for the SOL-system, where it was then captured by the Earth as a satellite.

476. Meanwhile, the Destroyer, after colliding with the planet, followed the path of the planetary fragment much more slowly.

477. This, for reasons unknown to us and as a result of events, we have never been able to clarify.

478. In this connection, we can therefore only employ speculations with regard to similar events that are well-known to us, but which do not satisfy us regarding the Destroyer and its course to the SOL-system behind the planetary fragment, which is why I would not like to explain our relevant thesis more closely, although for us it seems to be the only possibility why the Destroyer also found its way to the SOL-system, so it cannot be spoken of as a coincidence anymore.

479. The moon, the former planetary fragment, already joined the Earth as a satellite a few million years ago, while the much slower Destroyer that followed it first entered the SOL-system about 970,000 years ago, causing a tremendous Earth catastrophe.

480. A large part of the Earth-humans at that time, however, found protection and survival because they had been warned by our ancestors regarding the coming of the Destroyer and the impending disasters, consequently, they built themselves structures like the Pyramids and also other shelters.

https://www.futureofmankind.co.uk/Billy_Meier/Contact_Report_207

Billy:

Today, I first have a question about your space-time configuration, which is practically another dimension, but which is equally directed to ours and, therefore, is therefore equally material. Our universe is called the DERN universe, how is it with our dimension and your dimension, what do you call these?

Quetzal:

1. We denote your dimension with the term Goran, while we call ours Siras.

Billy:

Aha, and these two dimensions, respectively these two different space-time configurations, are materially identical in their buildup and existence?

Quetzal:

2. That is of correctness.

Billy:

And as it stands with the Destroyer, then, it would also have to consist of matter, as this is also existent in our space-time configuration, right?

Quetzal:

3. That is also of correctness.

Billy:

... Then another question with regard to Earth's moon. For some time, scientists have maintained that the Earth's moon had its origin in or from the Earth. There is the theory that it had been spun off as an entire block of the Earth, while another theory purports that huge dust clouds as well as smaller and larger chunks of rock and earth were spun away from the Earth, and namely by the impact of a massive comet or another planet. The comet or planet involved should have been about as large as the planet Mars, etc. The spun away material should have collected in the course of time and should have developed into the Moon. But in contrast, you explained that the Earth's moon penetrated from your space-time configuration into ours and then into the SOL-system, in which it allowed itself then to be captured by the Earth as a satellite.

Quetzal:

4. The assumptions of the terrestrial scientists do not correspond to the truth because the origin of the Earth's moon does not trace back to the Earth and, thus, also not to a collision or such with a Mars-sized comet or planet.

5. The Moon found its way out of our space-time configuration at an early time and penetrated into yours, after which it was held by the Earth by its force of attraction and orbits around the planet since that time, deviating more and more from the Earth, and it still influences the Earth's rotation today as it did at the very beginning and, thus, creates a braking effect.

Billy:

You have already explained this to me before. But how is it with the matter of the Moon? Of what kind is it?

Quetzal:

6. It is, at least in certain parts, the same as the matter of the Earth, but other forms of matter also appear.

7. Also the isotopic compositions, with respect to oxygen, etc., are largely similar and sometimes even identical with those of earthly matter.

8. Unfortunately, this fact will one day lead to the scientific false diagnosis that the Earth's moon was formed from ejected matter of the Earth.

https://www.futureofmankind.co.uk/Billy_Meier/Contact_Report_220

Billy:

... About the origin of the Moon, which drifted many millions of years ago out of your space-time configuration into ours and was captured by the Earth, the earthly scientists have the craziest ideas, one of which is that a large celestial body from the masses of Mars had already collided with the developing Earth in primeval times, by what means a huge piece of the developing Earth from its early days was torn out or ejected from this, in order to circle around the Earth in the end and firmly settle to form the Moon. At the same time, it isn't considered with this crazy assertion that if such a chunk would have actually been ejected from the Earth, just by the collision with a Mars-sized space projectile, then this chunk would have been shot so far out into space by the unimaginable force that it would have sought its own way as a wandering planet through the SOL system and wouldn't have settled around the Earth. ...

https://www.futureofmankind.co.uk/Billy_Meier/Contact_Report_257

Billy:

Semjase told me pretty much at the beginning of our contacts that the destroyer has been doing his mischief in our solar system since time immemorial and destroyed about 22 million years ago or so old homeworlds of the Lyrans. To my knowledge, however, these lay in a different space-time structure, shifted by a fraction of a second to our space and time. How is it there that the destroyer came after the destruction work with the old Lyranern into our space-time-structure?

Ptaah:

164. The Destroyer then broke through a space-time barrier created by the ancient Syrians, as we still use it today, but in a modernized form, as you would say.

165. At that time, these passage or dimensional gates, as we call them, were constructed in such a way that they opened as soon as any object approached.

166. This also happened as the Destroyer approached, who through unfortunate circumstances came to one of these dimensional gates, shot through and entered this, your space-time continuum, then found his way into this solar system.

167. Today this would no longer be possible, because our passage gates from one dimension to another or to the DAL universe have already been constructed and secured for several million years in such a way that they are probably constant in one place, but only open in response to very specific impulses emitted by our spacecraft.

168. So today it would no longer be possible for a world body to pass unintentionally through one of our many dimensional gates.

Ptaah:

... the Destroyer, which came out of our space-time-structure through a dimensional gate into your space-time-structure and caused a lot of trouble in it, which is why we removed it from the SOL system some years ago and made it harmless.

https://www.futureofmankind.co.uk/Billy_Meier/Contact_Report_528

Billy:

... Then another question, this time about the Earth's moon, which looks very different on the back side than on the side facing the Earth. On the back side everything is covered by plateaus, while on the side facing us there is somehow a rounded plane full of impact craters. There must be a reason for this. The Moon is not from the Earth, as our scientists claim, but from your space-time structure, and it came into our space-time structure as a result of a cosmic catastrophe and through an artificial dimension gate, where it was held by the gravity of the Earth. ...

Ptaah:

23. This is indeed the case, as Quetzal explained, and there is also a reason why the back of the Earth's moon is designed differently from the front visible from Earth.

24. When a cosmic catastrophe occurred in our space-time-structure at an early time, a second, smaller moon collided with the larger one, which then, as Quetzal explained, found its way to Earth as today's Earth-moon.

25. During the collision the smaller moon affected one side of the larger moon in such a way that a huge plateau landscape was formed.

26. When this moon was then held by the force of the Earth, its rotation came to a halt, with the side of the plateaus facing away from the Earth and the crater side towards the Earth coming to a standstill.

Billy:

And how is it possible that the two moons were not shattered in the collision, I do not understand?

Ptaah:

27. They were twin moons rotating around their planet in the same orbit close to each other, the smaller one having a slightly higher speed than the larger one.

28. When the smaller moon was forced into a parallel orbit by the catastrophe caused by a dark planet and thus into the area of the larger moon, a collision was the result.

29. So the smaller moon collided at a slightly higher speed on one side of the larger moon, disintegrated and formed the plateaus, while the other side, which was covered with craters, remained untouched.

Billy:

Simply and clearly stated, I can imagine something underneath. But what about the craters that you see from Earth, are there not some that were formed when the satellite, which was found here, was already orbiting the Earth as an Earth moon?

Ptaah:

30. It would be very strange if this had not happened during all the time of its existence as an earth satellite.

https://www.futureofmankind.co.uk/Billy_Meier/Contact_Report_721

Ptaah:

62. And the fact that we also brought this teaching to Earth at an early time was due to the fact that our ancestors discovered a natural dimensional gate 22 million years ago by chance, which is located here in the DERN universe about 120 light-years beyond the Pleiades stars known to you.

63. The dimensional gateway was discovered because a moon from our ANKAR universe that had drifted from an exploded planet entered the DERN universe through this dimensional gateway, which our ancestors investigated and then found to be Earth's satellite.

https://www.futureofmankind.co.uk/Billy_Meier/Contact_Report_838

Billy:

... I think you mean our Earth moon, which our 'clever' astronomers, etc., still claim emerged from the Earth when a huge space projectile crashed into the Earth and consequently this then created the moon.

Bermunda:

No moon of the planets of this solar system is created in this manner. Universally, I am referring to all 7 universes of the image of the Creation in which we exist in one. According to our knowledge, only in the rarest of cases should such occurrences happen that moons emerge from planets – if at all, because in any case nothing of the kind is known to us. In all seven universes that we know, but in which we Plejaren are only interested in our universe and yours – for the sake of the Earth-humans, because the teaching of Nokodemion was brought here – nothing of this kind is known to us that a moon has split off from a planet and formed a separate entity revolving around it.

Billy:

If I remember correctly, yes, the Earth's moon came here about 25 million years ago and settled around the Earth, but one star was 'nudged' away from the Earth's orbit, which today ...

Bermunda:

... about that, I know you are not supposed to say anything, because it is disputed anyway by the earthly 'experts', as astronomers and the like call themselves. ...

Billy:

... This once, as they probably already know and have also established, that there are moonquakes, but certainly still have to study around why these appear on a 'dead' world body. Sfath already told me in the 1940s that this phenomenon would be a mystery to scientists, but that it was solely due to the fact that the moon was a body with dead life, which meant that the lunar body was shrinking, contracting under its own weight and becoming more and more compressed. The top layer is currently over 100 kilometres thick and 24x to 30x heavier than the top layer of the earth on our planet. Through many lunar quakes, Sfath said, it is evident that the moon is contracting and as a result the lunar mass is becoming more and more compacted.

Ptaah:

That is actually what is happening to the moon.

Year B.C.	Orbital Period Years	Special Event
- 1,453	575.5	Destroyer gets dangerously close to the Earth and causes severe catastrophes. Earthquakes, volcanic eruptions, elemental storms and floods of enormous proportions are the result. Volcanic ash easily eclipses the sun, which lasts for several weeks. The Santorini volcano in the Hellenic Sea explodes, triggering a 180-metre-high tidal wave that rolls across the Mediterranean and far into the Nile country of Egypt, flooding everything. Not only do many human beings die as a result, but also countless animals whose carcasses decompose after the flood rolls back, causing much evil. This event triggers the 'seven biblical plagues' (Moses time/Moses), whereby the waters of the Nile also turn red through the blood of the countless life-forms killed and their torn and battered bodies. The flood that rolls back again pushes back across the Mediterranean and forward to the northeast, where it then floods Syria and causes tremendous terror and devastation.

...

Billy:

... My time travels with Asket have taught me the correctness of the dates and information you have given, but I have recently read in various writings that the time of Moses and the Santorini eruption are calculated in completely different time periods, these calculations and assertions run from the 1500 B.C. empires back to the 5th millennium B.C. Why is that?

Quetzal:

547. It is because of the time falsifications of the chroniclers, whereby the Jewish chroniclers and other chroniclers influenced by them committed the worst evils in this respect, whereby time falsifications in the transmission of data up to several thousand years became apparent.

548. The Santorini erupted and exploded due to the powerful influence of the Destroyer exactly 3453 years ago, calculated back from 2000, whereby Moses lived at the same time and prepared the Exodus for the Hebrew-Jewish people in Egypt at that time.

549. These dates are correct, as you could see for yourself from your travels with Asket into the past.

550. And Moses really lived and carried out the Exodus, even though it is later once claimed that this is not true.

https://www.futureofmankind.co.uk/Billy_Meier/Contact_Report_212

Quetzal:

9. This also applies to the fantastic stories that surround Paul, who, in his consciousness confusion, saw himself as a martyr and, thus, also lived and worked accordingly, and following this, he then ultimately died by assassins, as this also happened with Moses, who made many enemies within his own ranks, who then robbed him of his life.

https://www.futureofmankind.co.uk/Billy_Meier/Contact_Report_213

Quetzal:

151. In addition, the Santorini volcano did the rest, for as a result of its powerful eruption and the subsequent explosion – which triggered gigantic tsunamis that devastated the large areas of the Minoan island when the waters raged across the island – many buildings and lands were destroyed, while very many people lost their lives.

152. The largest tsunami, however, the huge tidal wave caused by the explosion of the volcano, rolled far across the sea to Egypt, being red with the blood of countless slaughtered aquatic animals, whereby the river Nile then coloured itself red, and many people in Egypt died.

https://www.futureofmankind.co.uk/Billy_Meier/Contact_Report_214

Quetzal:

4. Moses was murdered by Joshua and his accomplices.

5. The reason for this was rather manifold.

6. On the one hand, Joshua wanted to gain control over the Hebrews, which is why he later claimed that in this respect, Moses had determined this through God's command, for it was even God's will.

7. And on the other hand, Moses became hated by many, as well as by the murderous accomplices, not in the least because of the fratricides of the unbelievers of God and of Moses, which were mercilessly committed against all those who were not of Moses' view and who did not believe his words and who contributed to strife through this.

Billy:

It has now become apparent that in recent years, research has been carried out into the plagues in Egypt during the time of Moses, and it has actually come to the attention of researchers that these proven plagues were caused by the eruption and destruction of the volcano Santorini. However, they date the events of that time to a completely wrong time, namely about 200 years before the time that Semjase and Quetzal called. Scientists have found out that the enormous ash cloud of the exploded volcano reached Egypt, causing a so-called Fisteria or Phisteria epidemic to break out. Although this is not mentioned in the report of the conversation regarding the ash cloud and therefore not in the quoted, Semjase once mentioned it in a private conversation, as did Quetzal. All aquatic animals and many land animals died, and the water of the Nile turned red because of the blood of the fish, animals and humans, who were affected by rashes all over their bodies. Then there was a huge tsunami, caused by the volcanic explosion, which was about 200 metres high, 180 metres to be precise, and which rolled deep into the land, killing a great deal of life once again and also contributing to the epidemics. ...

https://www.futureofmankind.co.uk/Billy_Meier/Contact_Report_547

Billy:

... Then a biblical question, which refers to the legendary story of Moses respectively about the flight of the ancient Hebrews from Egypt, whereby they are said to have been led by God Jehovah through the desert, by day through a pillar of smoke and by night through a pillar of fire, which are said to have preceded them. Your father Sfath has already told me that this story of the sign of God is a lie, because in truth the whole escape with the pillar of smoke and fire did not take place in Sinai at a mountain Sinai respectively Mount Moses, because Moses and the refugees got lost and drifted far south, following the smoke and fire of a volcano in the area of today's Saudi Arabia.

Ptaah:

48. That is correct, because the column of smoke and fire was the result of a volcanic eruption that emitted clouds of smoke and fire, which was not in Sinai but much further south in what is now Saudi Arabia.

49. So what is described in the Bible in relation to the appearance of the column of smoke and fire, which is said to have moved before the refugees, does not refer to the Sinai, but to the Hala'l Bedr volcano, which has been dormant since the Middle Ages, in the area of Midian, which today corresponds to the province of Medina, in the northwest of Saudi Arabia.

Billy:

Moses first led the fleeing slaves along the Mediterranean coast to what is now Gaza, but then he turned inland and got lost. According to Sfath, Moses led the refugees to what is now the Gulf of Aqaba and then further south to the Red Sea, then back inland.

Ptaah:

50. What my father told you corresponds to what was real.

51. From the territory of present-day Gaza, Moses – because he was unfamiliar with the place and did not know the land – led the slave people astray down to the north end of the Gulf of Aqaba, then much further south to the then territory of Midian and to the volcanic mountain Halal 'l Bedr, which was very active at the time.

52. It was only then that Moses realised that he had lost his way with the refugees, so he sought a new way with the slaves, orienting himself to the stars by means of a foreign astronomer and moving northwards, then after a long time reaching the Dead Sea, and from there back to the Mediterranean Sea and the interior of what would later become Palestine and Israel, first to celebrate friendly feasts with the natives and then, when they were drunk, to murder them and make their land his own.

https://www.futureofmankind.co.uk/Billy_Meier/Contact_Report_551

Billy:

Then there is the question I wanted to raise: In the course of time Semjase, Quetzal, you and I have spoken several times about Santorini, where about 1,453 years ago before Jmmanuel the volcano blew up respectively exploded and which then also caused the great plagues in Egypt. On the one hand, it was explained that the Nile was discoloured by the blood of countless animals, as well as by red algae, but then there was also the fact that so-called 'dead water' was mixed with it, which became red due to lack of oxygen. Where did this red water come from?

Ptaah:

82. We call the 'Dead Water' this way because it no longer contains any life in it due to an absolute lack of oxygen.

83. It can occur in great depths of the sea or in enormously large lakes, when the water streams no longer circulate the water to the bottom and no longer supply it with oxygen.

84. The red colouring of the Nile is due to the enormous amount of animal, creatures and human blood as well as red algae, but also to 'dead water', which was washed out of the depths of the Mediterranean by the gigantic tidal wave after the explosion of the Minoan volcano Thera – as it was called in former times, or Santorini today – into the Nile and into the interior of Egypt.

85. The 'dead water' was washed out of a very deep and extensive volcanic trough by the eruption under the foot of the Santorini in the Mediterranean Sea, carried away by the gigantic tidal wave and driven into Egypt.

https://www.futureofmankind.co.uk/Billy_Meier/Contact_Report_662

Billy:

... Of course, the old Jews themselves were also partly to blame for the hostility towards the Jews in Christianity and Islam, but again not the actual Jewish people themselves, but the elders, chief priests, Pharisees and scribes were the early culprits at the time of Jmmanuel. They taught according to the old chronicles which had been rewritten, which had been run into the tricks of Abraham and Moses and which taught these false chronicles to the people and from it claimed that they were altogether a 'chosen people', which then unfortunately was spread by a number of Jews, which however cannot be blamed on the whole Jewish people in Israel or even worldwide. The so-called 'Chronicles' were truly not such, for truthfully only two or three very meager written records had existed, and on the other hand they had been burned to the last letter out of carelessness. Then it took more than 200 years until some scribes for a period of forty days went into the loneliness of the 'desert' and from memory, after centuries of oral narratives, wrote down individual 'books' as chronicles, which were later put together as Torah (Hebrew = law). From then on, the Torah represented the basic part of the Jewish Bible, which consists of five books. ...

... Well, the reason why the hostility towards the Jews could find its beginning already goes back to the times of Abraham and later to Moses, who in their presumptuousness – but allegedly said by 'God' – called the Jewish people "the people chosen by 'God'". This emphasized the alleged superiority of Jewish religious culture. ...

Billy:

... It is clear that the Greek volcano Santorin, formerly called Thera, was the real reason for everything, but other questions remain unanswered. So it would be interesting to know what caused the three-day eclipse, for example.

Ptaah:

31. In addition I can tell you from our records that the volcano Thera erupted twice in a short time in enormous manner, whereby with the second eruption during hours a gigantic black ash cloud was hurled up, which spread over the whole southern Mediterranean Sea and afterwards also over Egypt and covered during three days the whole Nilland into the so-called 'Egyptian darkness', as this darkness of several days is called since ancient times.

32. After this ash eruption, the Thera volcano collapsed, forming the Santorini ring crater that still exists today.

Billy:

Aha, then the question, what caused the bodily ulcers in the Egyptian population?

Ptaah:

33. This happened by sulphur rain, which rained over Egypt as a result of the Thera eruption.

34. This sulphur rain was so corrosive that it burned itself on the skin of humans and animals of all genera and species, causing ulcers and swelling and open and inflamed wounds.

Billy:

But there is also the story that all first-born human beings are ...

Ptaah:

35. What you want to ask was the religion of the Egyptians at that time, because the priests lied to the population that their God had ordered them to kill all the firstborn for the blasphemous way of life of the Egyptians as atonement offerings, and the priests and their helpers went from house to house and killed many the firstborn of some families.

36. But it also happened that many fathers and mothers, as well as other family members who were addicted to religious delusion – and there were many of them – murdered the first-born in their families.

...

Billy:

... So this is the next question, which refers to the red water of the Nile and the sea; was it really only due to the blood of humans, animals, water creatures, 'dead water' and algae?

Ptaah:

38. Not quite; on the one hand many killed animals and humans as well as algae blooms played a role, but also a gigantic red ash cloud from Thera, which drifted to Egypt and settled on the water and land and thus helped to colour the Nile red.

39. This also led to innumerable frogs fleeing to the land and 'flooding' it, but then also dying and decaying in masses.

40. Also the plants were destroyed by the sulphur rain, whereby also the animals died from it, particularly goats, sheep, cattle, camels and horses, if they used the sulphur poisoned grass as food.

Billy:

What attracted insects of all kinds, such as mosquitoes, flies and other vermin, I suppose, and these critters have also attacked humans and infected them with diseases.

Ptaah:

41. This was indeed the case, and many people died from infectious diseases transmitted by vermin, as well as from severe sulphur rain burns.

Billy:

I can well imagine, because I have experienced for myself what it is like when swarms of biting flies, mosquitoes, sand fleas and other fleas as well as other vermin fall on you and make you sick. Also a locust plague was at that time with the plagues in Egypt, which is also terrible, as I know from own experience, whereby I do not want to forget also the rats, which 'marched' over my body in the night, if I wanted to sleep. But if I think even further about the plagues, there were probably also thunderstorms and animal epidemics, right?

Ptaah:

42. That is correct, because these plagues also caused epidemics, such as bluetongue in various animals, but also the horse sickness.

43. In addition, at the time of the plagues there were also two enormous hailstorms, as well as epidemics, in which many animals and also many animals, many amphibians, fish, birds and reptiles bled to death miserably, died and spread diseases through vermin.

https://www.futureofmankind.co.uk/Billy_Meier/Contact_Report_758

Ptaah:

... but I have one question concerning Pinchas ben Eleazar – who and what was this man? I know nothing about this man.

Billy:

He was a biblical figure, as I have already said, or the grandson of Aaron, who, along with Moses, was one of the central figures during the Exodus from Egypt. Of course, his story and Moses' story as well as the story of the Exodus from Egypt cannot be taken at face value, especially not the fairy tale that the Red Sea parted because of Moses' call for God's help and that the fleeing Hebrew people were able to flee dry-footed through the sea. The whole thing really only corresponds to a biblical fairy tale, for in truth the Hebrew people fled on a solid strip of land of the marshy area between the Mediterranean and the Red Sea, with Herod's army then drowning in pursuit of the refugees.

https://www.futureofmankind.co.uk/Billy_Meier/Contact_Report_770

Billy:

According to the belief of the theistic god-delusional peoples, they are all chosen and commissioned to spread the faith in god in relation to the one single god throughout the Earth. For this purpose, he is said to have made a covenant with Abram the African, the father of the early Hebrew people, at a very early time. He then revealed his insane teachings – which he had obviously made up out of his fingers – to the Hebrew people of that time, who recognised the imaginary god and allowed him to 'lead' them over the millennia, before the temple leader Moses came to the fore and seized power, proclaiming himself as leader and claiming that he had also made a covenant with god on Mount Sinai.

https://www.futureofmankind.co.uk/Billy_Meier/Contact_Report_791

Billy:

... Every society needs its order, and for that it needs rules, because without them everything goes haywire. The 10 Commandments, which Moses devised and introduced, served this purpose – not an alleged or imaginary God the Father. ...

Moses was a human being who saw further and thought further than the tip of his nose and knew that humans formed their Wesen of character from the ground up themselves and then lived their lives accordingly. So he did a great thing when he created the 10 Commandments, which I respected and followed all my life because I knew that they were correct, which is why I can still mention them today, although Moses devised and presented them to the people differently than they are listed in the Bible. In word and truth, unfortunately, what he said was not understood, consequently everything was misinterpreted, falsified and written down for a long time – after he was murdered. The truth of the commandments were in fact those, as I can no longer reproduce them in order and word for word, as Moses said.

1. I myself am lord over myself, and never shall there be a god beside me or above me.
2. Never shall you take your name in vain by lying or by making a fool of yourself.
3. Thou shalt always strive to do what is right and good.
4. Do not lust after the goods of your neighbour.
5. Thou shalt do the duties of thy daily life without grumbling.
6. Thou shalt not bear false witness against thy neighbour.
7. Thou shalt honour thy parents according to their worth.
8. Thou shalt never kill willingly, in anger, as punishment, blood vengeance, revenge, in greed or war.
9. You shall not steal your neighbour's goods.
10. Thou shalt not break thy bond of companionship.

Mother Teresa

https://www.futureofmankind.co.uk/Billy_Meier/Contact_Report_275

Billy:

... Perhaps you know that so-called "Mother Theresa" is soon to be canonised, in a high-speed process. But you yourself said to me, in regard to this woman, that she is a criminal who, under the cover of faith and religion, commits, respectively committed – because in the meantime she has died – grave wrongdoings. As I know from you and from various terrestrial sources, she was a child-robber who stole children from many Indian mothers and sold them for a lot of money to childless foreigners. In cooperation with other sisters of her order she told the mothers, from whom she stole the children, that the children entrusted to her had died, and so forth. Furthermore she also raked in dollars by the millions by means of donations which were entrusted to her for the purpose of alleviating the need of those who were suffering and to build hospitals and nursing homes, and so forth. But all the many dollars, which, not very long ago, you indicated to me was 3.5 billion (3,500,000,000) – and which, in large part, Mother Theresa got through begging and underhanded means from the Federal heads and finance bosses, and so forth - was never utilised for the purposes indicated by her. Only a few dollars actually flowed out for the named purposes while most of the remainder, namely more than 1.7 billion (1,700,000,000) – if I correctly recall your statements – were carried to Rome by the deceiver in order to fill the papal coffers. ...

Mother Teresa or religious madness in all its Cruelty

{article by} Brigitt Keller, Switzerland

Ptaah:

2. What Brigitt has written is of good quality in every respect and corresponds to reality in all respects.

3. The article is very suitable for publication in a bulletin.

4. Since the Bulletin is distributed worldwide on the Internet and is read by many Earth-humans, it is possible to create a great enlightenment regarding the real facts about this reprehensible woman 'Mother Teresa'.

Billy:

... Why did this she-devil woman have her hair cut off the hair of those she had already tormented and doomed to die?

Ptaah:

5. She made a lot of money with it in a criminal way, because she sold it with a big profit especially in Europe and in the USA to manufacturers of spare hair parts.

Billy:

You mean wigs and toupees.

Ptaah:

6. That is the meaning of my statement.

...

8. All in all, this degenerate personality obtained 3.5 billion (3,500,000,000) US dollars from rich and poor people all over the world, 1.7 billion (1,700,000,000) of which she passed on to the Popes in the Vatican in Rome.

9. She began her real career on the 10th of September 1937 in Darjeeling in India, where she spent years trying to realise her plans, which she had made very early on, by every means possible.

10. The real start came in 1949, when she opened her first school in a slum in Calcutta and managed to sneak in with Pope Pius XII, who worked from 1939 to 1958 and supported the false missionary with all possible means. As Superior General she also gave her permission to form a 'Community of Missionaries of Charity', which she presided over until the end of her life.

11. His successor then, John XXIII also fell in love with the woman in every way and also supported her, and when he died in 1963, the same legacy passed to Pope Paul VI and continued until 1978.

12. Then, however, came Pope John Paul I, who distanced himself from the woman's reprehensibilities as well as from all sorts of machinations and intrigues in the Vatican, but which cost him his life because he was murdered.

13. As you know, he only held office for 33 days, after which he was found dead on 29 September 1978.

14. Pope John Paul II was immediately elected in his place, continuing the legacy of the other previous Popes regarding the machinations and the connection with Anjezë Gonxhe Bojaxhiu, as the correct name of this reprehensible woman really was.
15. It was also this pope who promised her in an audience that he would beatify her.
16. And it is to be explained in addition that she had already begun to creep in with large donations of money during the time of Pope Pius XII, which has been preserved until close to her death.
17. She and her sisters pledged never to work for money or for the wealthy, but this pledge was a mockery, because in reality they were only concerned with their own profit and welfare in the slums, especially the Superior General who ridiculously called herself 'Mother Teresa'.
18. Infants and children who were abandoned or taken away from their mothers were sold all over the world for horrendous sums of money; the sick, hungry and dying were miserably maltreated and exposed to great pain – even to the point of dying and dying in misery.
19. In 1952 the Christian hypocrite and degenerate opened the house 'Nirmal Hriday', which means something like 'pure heart'.
20. In truth, it was a house for the sick and dying, in which thousands of helpless and suffering human beings vegetated under inhuman conditions and finally died in evil misery.

Mothman

<https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Mothman>

https://www.futureofmankind.co.uk/Billy_Meier/Contact_Report_328

Billy:

... I had an inquiry from America, which caused a misunderstanding, but which only became clear when I phoned Christian Frehner. It was about a figure who is called Indrid-Cold in the USA and who allegedly comes from a planet called Lanulos, as Andrew Cossette explained to me when he called. He also said that in America there is a story going around that this figure is probably of extraterrestrial origin. It is said to be headless, to have glowing red eyes and wings and to have flown through the air and so on and so forth. In general, it has been reported that the figure Indrid-Cold was or is called 'Mothman', which can mean both 'moth man' and 'moth man'. This figure is said to have been particularly popular in 1967/68 in the village or town of Point Pleasant in West Virginia, and many UFOs have appeared, not only in West Virginia, but even worldwide. There are said to be hundreds of witnesses to all of these incidents, including many police officers. Since I had no knowledge of all this and had obviously misinterpreted the name 'Mothman' as 'Maitreya', I asked Michael Hesemann for advice. Of course he did not find the Indrid Cold story resp. the 'Mothman' story. Now the question about what to really think of this story, if you know anything about it at all, and if yes, if you are allowed to talk about it? For my part I think it would be very interesting and important to learn something about it and to hear some facts of the enlightenment.

Ptaah:

97. It's not worth thinking about it, because on the one hand it's an invented mischievous story about the 'Mothman', just an 'owl's mirroring', as you once called this kind of activity.
98. On the other hand, at that time a real hysteria arose regarding UFOs, according to which many people at that time saw many unreal things that really did not exist.
99. So through hysteria they fell into hallucinations, self-generated real visions and strong imaginations.
100. This hysteria was not limited to the United States of America but spread all over the world.
101. In fact, however, at that time some flying objects appeared which were unidentifiable for the terrestrial people, whereby of all of them only two were really of extraterrestrial origin, which belonged to our Federation and which could be observed several times.

102. All other observations were undoubtedly due to terrestrial flying objects of partly secret form or to any natural terrestrial phenomena, or they were based on illusions and self-deceptions etc., whereby the self-deceptions were usually based on wishful thinking, which was aimed at seeing extraterrestrial flying objects, as it is still the case today in the vast majority of cases of 'UFO-observations'.

That is quite simple: I see something in this, that it must be more than just a simple seaquake. The way I understand it, this seaquake must only be the actual origin for something very much worse. I imagine that I understand something of prophecies; thus, I am able to recognise certain things from them, which remain hidden to the laypersons.

Semjase:

287. I know that this is so, and you have also supposed correctly.

Billy:

Good, then first of all, tell me where this seaquake will take place and what will come after that. This quake is only a precursor, right?

Semjase:

288. Unfortunately yes, and it will be in the ocean west of America.

Billy:

Aha, now I already understand a little more. Am I right in accepting that this quake-precursor is associated with the Andreas fault?

Semjase:

289. Yes.

Billy:

Aha, then this can also mean that somewhere in America, a volcano will suddenly go off, right?

Semjase:

290. You are very perceptive.

291. Yes, it is so; a volcano lying dormant for many decades will suddenly break out, in order to bring death and destruction over the vast country.

292. It will be Mount St. Helens, which will destroy very much life and bury much land under itself.

293. The seaquake arising around the time of Tito's death will not be very strong, so it will not move the human beings of the Earth.

294. But this quake will be a bad omen for the imminent outbreak of the St. Helens volcano, which stands in connection with the Andreas fault, which itself extends from the high north of western America until deep into the south of the country.

295. The scientists will first make no connection at all with the small seaquake to the volcanic eruption.

296. They will also suppose after the first time that the volcano will soon come to rest again.

297. But they will be mistaken in this because they will not be looking for a direct connection from it to the Andreas fault.

298. Already about ten days after the outbreak, however, some scientists will think about the events and recognise that the Andreas fault plays a significant role in these events.

299. At this time, it will, however, already be the case that in the area of San Francisco, severe earthquakes occur.

300. And these will first bring the scientists to the fact that the Andreas fault is in play.

165. The severe quake around Vesuvius will only be the beginning of a great number of similar disasters in Italy, but it should also be the starting point for further coming eruptions of the volcano, which will create more destruction in the future.

166. The threatening eruptions of the volcano, however, will indicate that another world war comes within easy reach and that its destructive work will begin and be carried out, without it being able to be prevented, if the political and religious unreasonableness of the Earth-humans should continue.

...

172. And the Earth-human should also think about why in ancient times Italy – the most negative place – was ever unconsciously chosen for the creation of the Vatican and why just from there, like many times before, the mark of death is set for the world, when the Vesuvius volcano ejects its lava and thereby spreads great disaster.

173. These are the facts, and it would be worthwhile for the Earth-humans to think about them.

174. Just as before and just as ever, however, there will be know-it-alls and cult-religious believers who will say that the Vesuvius volcano is not in or near Rome but rather is in the vicinity of Naples.

175. These know-it-alls, however, do not know the conditions of the interior of the Earth, much like even the responsible scientists.

176. Thus, they do not know that the main activity of the volcano does not lie directly under it but lies directly and very deeply beneath the city of Rome, so in addition, those areas which will be shaken at the end of November will be caused partly by the magma eruption, water, and gas chambers and be caused partly by tectonic shifts.

103. The eruption of Vesuvius produced six pyroclastic flows, respectively clouds, which raced at a tremendous speed down the mountain and across the country and which suffocated all life beneath them.

104. In particular, it was the fourth pyroclastic flow that wiped out so many human lives, while the fifth and sixth just did the remaining.

Billy:

18,976 human beings. – Monstrosity. Was that the whole population?

Quetzal:

105. No, at that time, 25,411 human beings lived in those areas that were destroyed by the volcanic eruption.

Billy:

Then there were still about four fifths who lost their lives.

Quetzal:

106. That is of correctness.

Billy:

What is a pyroclastic flow?

Quetzal:

107. It is a rapidly spreading cloud of hot ash, dust, and air.

Wolfgang Amadeus Mozart death & burial

Ptaah:

38. First of all, it must be said that Wolfgang Amadeus Mozart died in Vienna on the 5th of December 1791, but he was not buried in Vienna.

39. Mozart himself did not want to be buried in Vienna, but far outside the city on the edge of a forest, where he often spent many hours pondering, of which only his pupil Franz Xaver Süssmayr secretly knew.

40. He then instructed him that he wanted to be buried in that beautiful place after his death.

41. It was his wish that this would remain secret for all time.

42. And when Mozart died, his pupil fulfilled his wish and only 12 years later, on 17.9.1803, took his secret with him to his grave.

43. After Mozart's death, Süssmayr was able, with a little money, to buy a corpse from a gravedigger, which he placed in a coffin, which he immediately closed and which was then buried nameless as a poor coffin, without the followers of Mozart suspecting anything of it.

44. The real cause of Mozart's death was pulmonary tuberculosis, which combined with many years of medication poisoning, to which was added Lyme disease caused by ticks with which he came into contact at the edge of the forest already described.

48. Mozart was very seriously affected by this disease and also had to suffer very heavily from it.

3) Wolfgang Amadeus Mozart, whose full first names were actually ' Joannes Chrysostomus Wolfgang Theophilus' one day after his birth, was a musician and composer of the Viennese classical period. His task was – as with other composers – to shape musical culture in a progressive way and to spread it to the world and the future.

With regard to Wolfgang Amadeus Mozart and Felix Mendelssohn Bartholdy, their entire evolutionary or progressive work relates to the general and very important influences of music on human beings, whereby the musical stimulation, impact and the scope of the effectiveness of the influence of music on human beings in relation to their forms of morality, ethos, ethics and manners and thus, of course, on their behaviour, their lives, their shaping of life and their conduct of life are of immense importance.

120. At our fifth contact I finished the history of humankind at the time when 50,000 years ago according to earthly calendar our homeworlds found freedom and peace.

121. Before that time, 70,000 human beings fled under the leadership of the scientist Pelegon.

122. With spaceships, which they had seized, they fled through the space out of another configuration of space and time into the one of the Milky Way of the DERN universe and settled on the Earth.

123. Under Pelegon's leadership, there were 200 sub-leaders; scientists who were each responsible for a specific field of knowledge.

124. Pelegon was unanimously recognised and respected by them and all others as king of essence of wisdom (JHWH/God).

125. In the course of the millennia they built large cities and inhabited all continents of the Earth.

126. Unfortunately, this only went well for barely 10,000 years before lust for might regained the upper hand and a deadly war raged over the world.

127. Everything without residue was destroyed, and only a few thousand human beings were able to survive, while others fled again into the outer space and into the old space-time configuration and settled on distant worlds.

128. For the next 7,000 years the Earth was no longer flown to, during which time those who stayed behind became completely wild and degenerated.

129. After that the descendants of those who had settled on distant worlds returned.
130. Again they were led by an JHWH.
131. Under such a kind of JHWH command, the distant descendants later built Atlantis and Mu.
132. Two huge cities on two different continents.
133. For thousands of years, they lived in complete friendship and in peace, until some scientists again succumbed to the greed for might and wanted to seize the rule.
134. However, having become tired of the constant wars, the peoples rose against them, hence they seized spacecrafts and fled into the outer space; according to earthly calendar about 15,000 years ago.
135. For two millennia they and their descendants lived in a neighbouring solar system.
136. Two millennia during which they had become very evil and were only able to uphold a certain regulation under the strictest discipline.
137. Through mutations and researches they achieved a very long life span, which amounted to more than three thousand years.
138. Obsessed with imperiousness, they left their world about 13,500 Earth-years ago and came back to the Earth.
139. Their supreme leader was the scientist ARUS, who was also called "The Barbarian."
140. As already JHWH Pelegon nearly 190,000 years ago, he also had 200 leaders or subleaders, who were each responsible for a specific field of knowledge.
141. They settled in two parts in the far north and in today's America (Florida), whereby they constantly forged ahead to Atlantis and Mu, in order to invade them with war.
142. And only a few millennia after their renewed requisitioning of the Earth, they succeeded in completely destroying Mu and Atlantis.

193. Great-Atlantis was destroyed and sank into the sea through war feuds with the inhabitants of Mu, which lay in the Chinese Gobi desert.
194. But Mu was also destroyed and ceased to exist, leaving only the underground city of Agharta.
- ...
203. Mu had been a land, and likewise, the capital.
204. Mu was a country like any other.
205. However, the city on the surface and the underground city of Agharta, each ruled by a man and a woman, were created by extraterrestrials.
206. Neither the country nor the cities were of special importance, except that they had been built and inhabited by extraterrestrials from the Lyra system and also destroyed again.

https://www.futureofmankind.co.uk/Billy_Meier/Contact_Report_060

Semjase:

11. As I already explained at an earlier point in time, Atlantis and Mu destroyed one another.
- ...
28. The return of the descendants of the former fugitives happened again under the leadership of a god, under whose rule Mu as well as Greater Atlantis and Lesser Atlantis were built.
29. At that time Greater Atlantis and Mu were the two most gigantic cities which had ever been built on the Earth, and for the sake of peace they were built on two different continents.
30. Again a high culture was built up and everything began to blossom.
- ...
51. However, the form in which Greater Atlantis and Mu were destroyed was of such intrigues and full of horror that, in the history of the human beings of the Earth, it will probably never be paralleled:

52. The intriguers stirred up malicious machinations between the Atlantians and the citizens of Mu, which led to mutual actions of war.

53. Between both arose malicious hatred and the will to destroy.

54. Mu, which was in the Gobi desert, feuded with Greater Atlantis, which was built in the great island kingdom between present day Africa and America, before it sank in the Atlantic due to the greatest earthly war-catastrophe of all past and probably also future times, leaving behind only a few small islands, which today you call the Azores.

55. At their time, the war powers of Mu and Atlantis were of horrendous might and size and equipped with the highest technological achievements.

56. So, Greater Atlantis alone had at its disposal an army of 4.83 million (4,830,000) men, which was equipped with small-combat-beamships.

60. To this tremendous might Mu was inferior, which however did not make it less dangerous for the Greater Atlantians, because the Mu scientists had likewise developed very dangerous weapons, which in many ways were even more dangerous and more destructive than everything of the Atlantians altogether.

61. The scientists of Mu had in fact discovered powers, which made it possible for them to convert entire small planets into all-destroying space bombs, by pulling them out of their orbit of millions of years and with extreme precision steering them onto a carefully determined target of another planet and letting them crash down with devastating force and explode above the target, and it was exactly this frightful weapon they used when Greater Atlantis commenced the full-scale attack against Mu.

62. The best and the most suitable scientists of Mu were charged with finding a suitable planetoid which could be used as a deadly and annihilating missile against Atlantis.

63. Thus they flew with their ships out into space and found in the asteroid belt, outside of the Mars orbit, an object suitable for their purpose.

64. It was a planetoid of several kilometres diameter, however we are not able to analyse its exact size anymore.

65. By means of atomic and electro-energetic energies it was thrown out of its orbit and brought onto course towards Earth.

66. After that the planetoid's own rotation was slowed down and brought to a standstill, whereupon on the side turned away from the Earth, a drive unit of gigantic size was installed for the purpose of a tremendous acceleration of the small planet, which was supposed to be directed to its destination with breakneck speed.

67. Only less than half a day before the full-scale attack of Atlantis against Mu, the deadly space bomb was completed, a death-messenger of human insanity and of tremendous consequence.

68. When Atlantis undertook the attack, the producers of the death missile were informed within a few seconds, by means of hyperwave-impulses, about the oncoming events and were charged with allowing the death missile to take off.

69. A few seconds after receiving the command, on the side of the planetoid facing away from the Earth, a thousand suns appeared to race into the dark space and with gigantic force the monster started moving.

70. Very quickly the speed of the messenger of death increased, steered by scientists controlling the monster, who were sitting on the planetoid completing their task and thereby were doomed to die.

71. In the meantime on the Earth the Atlantians eliminated the city of Mu and levelled it.

72. Whoever had not fled into the satellite cities thousands of metres deep underground or into space, perished in the totally eliminating rays of the Atlantians and nothing bore witness anymore to their former existence.

73. The victorious Atlantians however returned to their gigantic island kingdom and celebrated their victory achieved over Mu in a true delirium of joy.

74. However, their joy did not last long because they had barely begun their festivities when messages came thick and fast in regard to the danger rushing towards them through space.

75. Only a few high government officials and scientists were still able to clear out and flee with their spaceships into space before the catastrophe was unleashed over Atlantis and made it sink into the sea.

...

93. This is how the event with Atlantis and Mu unfolded about 9,500 years before today's calendar.

Billy:

Fantastic. But from where do you have this knowledge?

110. For 700 years the Earth was simply avoided, before the descendants of the fugitives set out again to populate the beautiful blue world again.

21. These new arrivals, or the distant descendants of those who had left the Earth earlier, were on the one hand not Titans, but human beings of smaller dimensions, but they too were not exactly of a peaceful nature, but nevertheless no longer as warlike as their ancestors.

111. This was 133,000 Earth years ago, according to your current chronology.

112. The returnees were led by an Jschwisch with the name Atlant, married to an Jschrish named Karyatide.

113. In the latest episode, under the leadership of Atlant, the continent of Atlantis, which had been headed for again and again, and used for millennia, was expanded and made habitable, while under the command of his wife Karyatide, Lesser Atlantis came into existence, as at the same time her cousin Muras built the gigantic city of Mu, which, like Atlantis, also found its origin in very early times.

132. Named after Arus the Second, the India of today was at that time called Arien, which, however, split off from Hyperborea after a few centuries, after 210 years, to be exact, and joined with the inhabitants of Mu and Agharta, while from Hyperborea, Arus the First constantly troubled Mu and Greater Atlantis by wicked war activities, in order to become their ruler.

133. During around half a millennia, or said very precisely, during 502 years, those war machinations continued, until Arus the First, who in the meanwhile had become old and weak, succeeded in infiltrating wicked elements of his hater humans into the leading controlling ranks of Atlantis and Mu, who secretly stirred up violence and hate for so long, as also did their descendants over several centuries, until, through boundless intrigues, Mu and Atlantis were able to be completely destroyed some centuries later, while the only few survivors were beaten into servitude.

Being circumcised does not mean immunity, but only a minimal risk of infection. Circumcision does not protect genital herpes, gonorrhoea, syphilis or other venereal diseases. However, it can be very useful where a lack of penis hygiene leads to all kinds of penile diseases, fungal infections, eczema, rot, etc. This was the order of the day in southern Arabia, especially at the time of the Prophet Mohammed, which is why he decreed the order of circumcision and the associated daily cleansing. He took over circumcision from the old Jews, who for the same reason had the same principle as a rule, tracing it back to Moses, who introduced the law of circumcision, because already then the genital impurity gave rise to enormous sexually transmitted diseases and degenerations. Shame hair was also introduced for the same reason, also for women. To my knowledge, however, these facts are no longer known – or they are deliberately concealed, for whatever reason. As far as I know, the real justification was never recorded in writing, but declared to be God's demand, because the relevant laws were only followed because they were allegedly ordered by a God. Either way, however, the relevant laws have taken hold and brought physical cleanliness to the Jewish and Arab tribes and peoples, and fortunately everything has survived to this day. Yes, today it is even the case that even many Christians, as well as people of no religion and other faiths, as Muslims get rid of their pubic hair and therefore go along with it more cleanly than many others who are not so fond of general body hygiene.

Billy:

... it has to be said that jihad is completely misunderstood, because by this Mohammed meant something completely different, than to wage war by force of arms. His real teaching, namely, was to the effect, that by the jihad he understood the individual struggle of the human being against himself/herself, in order to become a good, positive, virtuous and true, dignified and honourable human being. Thus, Mohammed's teaching of jihad is fundamentally to the effect, that the human being shall not wage the 'holy war' with deadly weapons and not against other human beings, but against himself/herself, in order to gain self-cognition and truth, so that he/she can truly live in humanity as a human being and fulfil the creational laws and recommendations. But this teaching of Mohammed has been thoroughly falsified as well as wrongly interpreted, and indeed up to the present day. This has also been done with the teaching, that the human being shall live rightly, well, positively and virtuously as well as law-fulfillingly and recommendation-fulfillingly, in order to be an example in an instructive wise to the children and adolescents as well as to adults of all ages, just as all the prophets taught, even if it was presented by them with other words. The fact that these parts of Mohammed's teaching, along with many others, were falsified, led to the fact that many aspects of his teaching also led to false explanations and to evil consequences, as this unfortunately still continues to have an effect today, in particular by the radical, terroristic Islamism of those confusingly-led, who pass themselves off as Muslim men and Muslim women, but neither understand nor live the teaching of Islam. True Muslim males and Muslim females see and live Islam in a different and peaceful kind and wise, thus not in war and terror against those who believe differently of their own Islamic religion or other religions. True Muslim males and Muslim females are not extremist Islamists and therefore not terrorists, for they are in truth striving to be peaceful and true human beings in self-cognition and also to live in peace and humaneness with those who are of another religion.

Ptaah:

39. Those are good words.

Billy:

There is, however, something more to say about this, namely, that it corresponds to a widespread misunderstanding that each Islamic war was a war of religion and that it had always been the Ziel/purpose of the war to forcibly and inevitably convert the defeated peoples to Islam with the sword. Of course, there were such wars of religion, but this only applies to the early fightings of Mohammed, in which he had to raise the sword perforce against Jewish and Meccan opponents of the Madinese community, otherwise he would have been murdered with his followers. Surah 9:5 solely refers to this, in which the following was taught in the real original form by Mohammed:

"And when the forbidden months have passed, then resist your adversaries who serve tin gods, where you meet them, seize them, and besiege them, and lie in wait for them in their own ambush, to put them in captivity. But only deprive them of their lives when self-defence requires it. But if they repent, then put mercy before justice, let them pay the Zakat (tax for the poor) and give them the freedom that they can go their way.”

But since the falsification of this aphorism has found its entrance into Islam, it has been taught and also translated in the following form:

“And when the forbidden months have passed, then kill the servants of tin gods where you meet them, and seize them and besiege them, and lie in wait for them in every ambush. But if they repent and if they do the prayer and pay the Zakat (tax for the poor), then grant them their way. Truly, Allah is all-forgiving, benevolent.”

or another translation version:

“... Slay the servants of tin gods where you find them ... But if they repent and do the prayer and pay the poor tax, then let them go their way.”

The truth is that neither in this nor in other teaching verses has Mohammed spoken thereof, that enemies should simply be beaten to death and killed, but he spoke about the fact that this may be the case only in actual self-defence. As at all times, when Mohammed's effective and true teaching was falsified, it is then further falsified by wannabe-knowing scribblers, in which case insults of the prophets and untrue ragbag stories become the norm. In fact, it would be necessary, as with the Talmud Jmmanuel, that Mohammed's teaching be post-written in accordance with how he actually brought his teaching. ...

... Of course, there have been fanatics since the year one and also since every beginning – as with Christianity and all religions; except Buddhism – in Islam, who used Mohammed's teaching in a wrong and falsified wise for their claims for might and actually tried to spread Islam with the sword, which is why this has also spread as knowledge worldwide and unfortunately is not to be denied. But those acted in such a wise, were not real Muslims, but perverted fanatics who utilized falsified teaching-parts for their own benefit. So, if also I speak/talk or write about it, such as in the book 'Ein offenes Wort' (An Open Word, in German only), that facts are to be quoted in the teaching of Islam, which are connected with war, the sword, murder and manslaughter, etc., then it exclusively concerns facts that have arisen due to the falsification of the Koran and which have nothing to do with the effective truth and reality, because Mohammed had not brought a teaching of war and murder, but a teaching of love, of truth, freedom, harmony and of peace for all human beings on the Earth, and indeed irrespective whatsoever of what race, religion, other belief-orientations or which people and which social status they belong to. He did so in the same wise as all the prophets of his line before him and after him.

21. He made contact with Muhammad when he was 3 years old, on the 6th of May 574 A.D.

23. The name Allah was given to Gospod simply because it is the Arabic meaning for God.

Billy:

With regard to circumcision and the circumcision ceremony in Islam, the following is to be said: According to the information of the Plejaren, the prophet Mohammed was born with a normal foreskin and not without it, as an invented story would like to portray it differently. ...

... In the Islamic religious book Koran alone, there is nothing to be found that calls for circumcision, because the true prophet Mohammed never ordered such nonsense. Objectively speaking, therefore, the Koran does not allow for the circumcision of women or men, girls or boys, but this is of course of no interest to those who advocate this bloody trade, and therefore irrelevant. It is a fact that certain Islamic 'clergy' who are fanatical about circumcision in various regions and countries are of the opinion that Allah has allegedly demanded this 'purification' and that the Prophet has also made this known, which is, however, in truth absolute nonsense. Muhammad, in fact, never spoke out in favor of male or female genital mutilation, but against it, because he knew it was wrong and that it was carried out among the Jews and even further outside his sphere of influence, as well as among his people themselves who had adopted the circumcision tradition from Judaism. ...

The Koran, however, is not based on the effective message of the Prophet Mohammed, but largely on Earth human falsifications of doctrine, points of view and false laws, etc., which were gathered together and cobbled together long after Mohammed's death and which have very little or nothing to do with Mohammed's doctrine, which unfortunately is not generally known to Islam believers. In fact, they do not know that what Muhammad taught is 'the teaching of truth, the teaching of the Spirit, the teaching of life'. ...

Billy:

... Jmmanuel, as well as Muhammad, did not preach punishment or war, let alone wage it, as is claimed, for example, with regard to Muhammad, whose entire life story was falsified many times more than that of Jmmanuel. With Mohammed there was no Sharia, no compulsory headscarf, no child marriage, no covering of the face and many other things, as was invented long after his death and books of lies were written from it. The teaching of Jmmanuel and Muhammad was the one and only 'teaching of the prophets', the spirit teaching, which was given as 'teaching of truth, teaching of the spirit, teaching of life' and which also exists today in a whole series of books, whereby the 2 works 'OM' and 'Cup of Truth' were both taught by Jmmanuel and Muhammad, but were neither understood nor lived by the people of those times. On the contrary, the entire teachings were profoundly falsified and so straightened out that murderous delusions arose, which could not be reconciled with the teachings, or only in small parts, and caused enormous suffering, hardship, misery, wars, persecutions, deaths, murders and destruction. One only has to think of the early and later persecutions and murders of Christians as well as war campaigns etc., as well as the Inquisition and other murderous events in the name of Christianity, and equally of the tremendous atrocities that were carried out unlawfully, mendaciously and criminally in the name of Mohammed and his teachings. And this happened and still happens today, although neither Jmmanuel nor Muhammad ever taught in this way, but – like all prophets before them – consistently adhered honourably and worthily to the 'teaching of truth, teaching of the spirit, teaching of life' and did not misteach anything about domination, lust for power, inhuman punishment or capital punishment, child marriage, mummery, war, conquest, torture, human trafficking and the like or other nonsense, imbecility and other time-honoured inhumanities.

https://www.futureofmankind.co.uk/Billy_Meier/Contact_Report_703

Billy:

... But now I would like to talk a little bit in detail and openly about how basically the so-called 'holy' books came into being with regard to Christianity and Islam, because the truth is that neither Jmmanuel alias Jesus, nor Muhammad themselves made any written records of the 'teachings of the prophets'. Only Jmmanuel's disciple Judas Ischkerioth – not Judas Iskarioth or Ischarioth or Isharioth – knew the Scriptures, while all the other disciples, contrary to all the conventional lies and claims, were just as ignorant of the Scriptures as the followers around Mohammed. ...

... And just as the Torah, the Bible and the New Testament came about, so it was also with the Koran, which was never written after the teachings of Muhammad, but very long after his death by human beings who had neither seen the Prophet himself, nor heard his teachings, nor known him themselves. Also with Muhammad it was in truth the case that no written records of his life and teachings were made during his lifetime, but such records only came into being long decades after his death, with tremendous mendacious claims, tall tales and false doctrines being set up which in no way corresponded to the truth regarding the reality of Muhammad's teachings and life. Everything about his personality, his behaviour and the 'doctrine of the prophets' that he brought and taught was so thoroughly falsified and made into a religion that brings death and destruction to this day. The entire life story concerning Muhammad and his work has been so maliciously falsified that hardly a word corresponds to the effective reality. Muhammad neither taught nor waged wars, and those that were carried out in his name were against his will and the work of war-obsessed delusional believers who, on the one hand, misunderstood the teachings, reinterpreted them themselves and thus falsified them. On the other hand, they used their doctrine-distorting and doctrine-ballooning for them useful, doctrine-twisting and doctrine-manipulating, deliberately falottish interpretations to further their war-mongering and to be able to attribute the whole thing to the teaching and meaning of Muhammad. So they used their doctrine-distorting interpretations for their war-mongering favours and advantages, completely contrary to the teachings of Muhammad, who taught neither hatred, capital punishment and child marriage, nor Sharia and such nonsense, nonsense, hostilities to life and inhumanities. Lying and deceitful, as it has always been since time immemorial, and the whole thing has been preserved up to the present day, it was also easy for all those who invented his life story and devalued, disfigured, distorted and twisted it in such a way in relation to Mohammed to falsify everything in a slanderous way, that only a short time later it was no longer possible to verify anything – and today it is no longer possible at all. Because the effective truth about the person of Muhammad, his way of life, his teachings and his behaviour in terms of morals, ethics and customs as well as his worldly conduct can no longer be verified today, precisely because of the old mendacious records and false chronological annals, the delusion of lies and slander surrounding his personality, teachings and behaviour etc. can no longer be eradicated. On the contrary, with regard to all the stories of lies and slander around Muhammad and his teachings, everything has become so ingrained in the Islamophobes and also in the Islam believers themselves that the effective truth is no longer accepted, but is reviled as lies and conspiracy theories. So it is also not accepted that the 'teaching of the prophets' or the 'teaching of truth, teaching of the spirit, teaching of life' – as it was already brought by Jmmanuel and all 4 other prophets or heralds Enoch, Elijah, Isaiah and Jeremiah – which is now also taught today for the last time and spread by the FIGU, is a teaching of the creative-natural laws. A teaching that teaches the human being to live with all fellow human beings and all peoples in peace, freedom and justice, in humanity and love. And this ancient teaching, whose origins can be traced back to Nokodemion, the universal herald who existed 9 billion years ago, also teaches that self-knowledge, consciousness-self-development, good self-esteem, empathy and healthy self-respect, etc. are of the greatest importance for the individual human being, as well as connectedness with the existence of the entire environment. The fact is, however, that with regard to Mohammed and his 'teachings of the prophets', unfortunately, all evil was included in the once created falsifications by delusionists, those who were greedy for power, murder and war and other delusional elements, starting with murder and manslaughter, human trafficking, child abuse, war, exploitation, torture and capital punishment, up to and including many other evils and human degradations. And out of this came religious wars and conquests in the name of faith and the ruler of heaven, etc. Child abuse was also commonplace long before the time of Muhammad the Annunciator, as was also the case with the ancient Hebrews, about which, however, silence is deliberately kept. Muhammad had denounced this through his teachings, but never succeeded in having his request for a ban on child marriage respected, even to this day. On the contrary, this part of his teaching was also falsified and denied ad infinitum and it was even maliciously imputed to him that he himself had at least entered into a child marriage, which was later allegedly confirmed by his wife in this regard, but which was never actually the case. In truth, this child-marriage lie was already rampant very early on in the first slanderous oral and then also in the first written traditions, which then also found its way into the invented and falsified life story of the Prophet or Annunciation and has been preserved up to the present day. ...

... But the whole life story of Muhammad and the 'teachings of the prophets' he brought were thoroughly distorted beyond recognition and turned into a false doctrine for hatred, war, death, subjugation, ruin and destruction. Muhammad and Jmmanuel, however, were in reality humble human beings of love, peace, freedom, justice, equality and humanity, as were also the other, earlier and predetermined prophets Enoch, Elijah, Isaiah, Jeremiah from the same prophetic line before them. And, as I said, the old 4 prophets were predestined from time immemorial, as were Jmmanuel and Mohammed, because they were prophets born of earth mothers from the nations and therefore not 'sons of God', not 'chosen' by a God and not 'servants of God' or such nonsense as was attributed to them in the course of time by crazy and delusional people. Enoch, Elia, Isaiah, Jeremiah, Jmmanuel and Mohammed were pre-determined prophets or heralds of the 'Doctrine of the Prophets' or the 'Doctrine of Truth, Doctrine of the Spirit, Doctrine of Life', which was created ages ago by the ever first prophet or herald Nokodemion according to the creative-natural laws and carried on in his spiritual lineage reincarnating over all times. ...

... In the time of the Prophet Mohammed, women wore headscarves, and many still do today, and this was also the case for many Christian women in Europe, particularly among the working-class population, well into the mid-20th century. Some passages in the Koran refer to the headscarf requirement, for example in verse 24:31. However, not all Muslim women see wearing a headscarf as a requirement of their religion. ...

Ptaah:

58. Muhammad born 19th February 571–632 after Jmmanuel (AD)

74. In the case of Muhammad, for example, it was more than 100 years after his death before the first words were written about him, and his teaching was completely disregarded and rewritten and replaced by a completely re-invented one.

75. Hence, the true teaching that Muhammad brought, the 'teaching of the prophets' i.e. 'teaching of the truth, teaching of the spirit, teaching of the life' was not simply falsified beyond recognition, but it was, as was already the case with the same teaching of Jmmanuel, completely denied and replaced by a new truth-falsified religious history that was fantasized together from the ground up and directed towards a godhead and spread.

76. In addition, over the course of centuries, new rules, rituals, prayer-, behaviour- and other regulations as well as religious laws etc. were invented over and over again, which were consciencelessly fantasised into the irrationally- and confusingly-invented senseless religious teaching and were mendaciously ascribed to the proclaimers Jmmanuel and Muhammad.

231. After Jmmanuel's flight from Jerusalem, his entire life history from birth up to his death was spread and later also written down with monstrous falsifications, lies, assertions and calumnies, thus the same happened with Mohammed, whose real name indeed was Abdul Kasim Muhammad Ibn Abdallah. ...

237. If one has a close look at the life history of Mohammed, then it must also be said concerning this, that there is hardly a true word in all that which is supposedly 'handed down' about him, for just as with Jmmanuel, all around no one was knowledgeable in writing and written language, except his first wife, the widow Chadidscha.

238. She was a member of the highly respected Quraish tribe and heiress of a caravanserai and a trading business in Mecca.

239. At first, under her matriarchy, Mohammed did various works for her, before they got together and married, after which she appointed him as a business partner.

240. The woman was connected to Mohammed by sincere love and was also able to connect with his teaching, which she held in high regard, although she did not record a single word of his teaching or of his life in writing.

241. The incredibly infamous calumny that Mohammed is said to have fathered several children with this woman corresponds to a lie beyond compare, because the woman was incapable of conception and therefore could not be impregnated by Mohammed.

242. However, since Chadidscha wanted to have children, it was decided in agreement between her and Mohammed, to adopt several orphans and to secretly pretend that they were their own.

243. After his wife died, he married Sauda bint Zama as his second wife, with whom, however, he also did not father any descendants, nor with Aischa bint Abi Bakr, who was his third wife and who, contrary to the slanderous 'traditions', was neither 6 nor 7 or 9 years old at the time of marriage, but 19 years of age.

244. And the malicious story of slander against her, which is said to have arisen during the campaign against the Banū l-Mustaliq in the year 627, is just as much a malicious lie as is the story of the twelve 'mothers of the believers', which was built up on nothing more than lies and deception.

245. This applies equally to the many lies that Mohammed, in addition to his regular marriage, married a greater number of women and had slaves as concubines, for in fact it was only the three wives Chadidscha, Sauda bint Zama and Aischa bint Abi Bakr, whom he had married after the death of Chadidscha, and also these marital bonds remained childless, because even with these two women, he was not of the sense to procreate offspring.

246. All the larger numbers of other women who were around him, were in no way in any marital connection with him, nor in any kind of relationship of a slavish or concubine-like nature, rather they were all well protected in his care and friendship.

247. So, long after his death, other women were imputed to him by lies and calumnies of alleged relatives and chroniclers and so forth and had no truth content whatsoever.

248. This also applies to the veiling of women, as well as to completely different senselessnesses.

249. Maliciously minded ones who were against the spreading of the early wrong Christianity that had emerged centuries earlier, through which the true teaching of the proclaimer Jmmanuel was completely falsified, saw in it an opportunity to falsify the teaching of Mohammed as well.

250. So, in his time, they seized the opportunity to falsify his teaching, which was indeed the same as that of Jmmanuel, and to spread rules and regulations, just as it was with regard to the teaching of Jmmanuel.

251. Just as Jmmanuel was not able to defend himself against it, so it also happened with Mohammed, because when both had gone their last way, their ever-identical teaching was abysmally falsified and new religions were created from it.

252. As a consequence, the believers turned to the new teachings, to which Mohammed and Jmmanuel could no longer oppose because of their departure, hence Christianity with the 'new testament' and Islam with the 'recitation', i.e. the 'Koran', completely suppressed the truthful 'teaching of the truth, teaching of the spirit, teaching of the life'.

253. Ancient Palestine was occupied by the Romans at the time of Jmmanuel and had experienced some increase in prosperity under them, even though the native population was directed by a harsh Jewish and religious-oriented rule, which is why it was opportune for the emerging Christians to devise a story of lies of a resurrection of the crucified Jmmanuel and to call him Jesus.

254. This, while southern Arabia was a very backward area at the time of Mohammed, far away from all the cultural and economic centres of the world at that time, where the human beings who were poor, suffered great hardship and were only too happy to believe in and fall prey to a new religion of salvation.

255. If the old scrolls/writings are examined, which are supposed to come from disciples, direct followers and the like as well as from direct or indirect descendants, relatives or from family members of the two proclaimers, then all such alleged written proofs correspond altogether to only sneaky and disingenuous falsifications, wrong memories (only partly true) and wrong renditions as well as very fallible interpretations by the scribes.

256. Truthly, there is not a single such ancient document which would be directly or semi-directly related to a person who had been in direct or indirect contact with Jmmanuel or Mohammed.

257. Claims to the contrary and so-called 'written documentary evidence/proofs' correspond to nothing other than falsifications and lies, because in the case of both Jmmanuel as well as

Mohammed, the first written records were made only years later, after their departure, i.e. after their death.

258. And this happened according to very inadequate or erroneous memories, but also through conscious false claims and lies, etc., as a result of which glorifications and fairy tales regarding Jmmanuel and Mohammed also came about.

259. In addition, various direct and indirect followers were fraudulently/lyingly attributed to the two proclaimers, who in truth, however, had nothing to do with them.

260. Even disciples, followers and relatives as well as friends, etc., versed in writing, were attributed to the two proclaimers Jmmanuel and Mohammed at all times, but out of all those mentioned, not a single one was knowledgeable of the script and writing.

261. Judas Ischkerioth was the only one amongst all, who correctly and truthly mastered the script and who was well versed in writing and a disciple close to Jmmanuel.

262. Later he was slandered by falsifiers of writings and by hangers-on, just as the name of Jesus was then also imputed to Jmmanuel. ...

264. This, while all other records concerning the teaching of Jmmanuel and Mohammed were in no way made by any of their disciples or direct or indirect descendants, etc., but by strangers, namely even only a long time after their death.

265. Truthly, however, in relation to the two of them and their teaching, which on both sides was the 'teaching of the truth, teaching of the spirit, teaching of the life', everything was abysmally misunderstood and boundlessly falsified beyond recognition.

266. This also applies to various other ancient and newly discovered old writings, which likewise do not lead back to any disciples during the lifetime of Jmmanuel or to direct followers or relatives and so forth of Mohammed.

Billy:

... Through Christianity and its missionary work, which is still carried out worldwide today, millions of human beings were murdered, just as even today Christian missionary work continues to claim victims among the missionaries and missionaries in the 'name of the Lord'. The same happened with Islam, as well as with all other religions, sects and religious communities, whereby nowadays especially the completely degenerated Islamism commits murder of people of other faiths and also of people of the same faith, as it is also done by cross-criminal Islamic laws, e.g. in Persia, Saudi Arabia and Egypt, etc. This, whereby these murderous lies are still being practised today worldwide in the name of the Lord. This, whereas these murderous lying and punishing laws and all the murders, floggings, tortures, blindings, mutilations and death sentences etc. resulting from them are justified by the Sharia and derive from it or from the 'totality of all religious and (religious) beliefs'. the 'totality of all religious and (un)legal norms, mechanisms for (un)norm-finding and (false mis)interpretation regulations of Islam', and which are mendaciously and slanderously attributed to Muhammad because he is supposed to have taught them, which, however, corresponds to an impudent, disgraceful and malicious lie-slander of conscienceless crime-like scribblers. ...

... The 'Holy Book' of Islam is the 'Koran', which is said to contain revelations that Mohammed received from God and Allah respectively in 22 years from 610 and 632 AD. As has been customary from time immemorial, these statements were only written down decades and even more after more than 100 years and more – as with the Bible and other 'Holy Scriptures' – after Mohammed's death as 'traditions' and repeated reinterpretations, ultimately with x-times more additions – which Mohammed neither said nor misinterpreted – and written in 114 chapters or suras. ...

... In the course of time, however, these traditions were more and more frequently embellished with what had supposedly happened and phantasties were also invented, which were additionally embellished by constantly new additions to fairy tales and persons were also beamed up to saintly figures, so that in the end the whole thing corresponded only to complete unreality. This is also what happened in the form of signs, stone writings, stone pictures, sculptures and writings, and, and, and, which today is taken at face value by scientists and is no longer questioned, which not infrequently leads to scientifically 'proven' assertions that do not correspond to real reality and truth, such as the lies, deceptions and slander regarding the alleged and never made statements and teachings of Jmmanuel (Jesus) and Mohammed. ...

... This is exactly the same as is the case with Jmmanuel (Chr.) and Mohammed, whose teachings and work etc. have been abysmally falsified in the course of time and already during their lifetime as well as especially long after their death and statements have been denied, fantasised, attributed to them in their mouths and 'holy books' have been made out of them, which are so full of ashen lies and slander that they cannot be surpassed by the greatest efforts.

... The greater part of all alleged 'traditions' correspond in truth to unparalleled untruths, which, as Siddharta himself expressed, correspond to an 'unpardonable shamefulness', just as Jmmanuel (Chr.) and Mohammed expressed themselves in a similar way about all that has been fabricated from their teachings by lies, falsifications, fraud, malice, misunderstanding and fanaticism, etc., and has led to a delusional religion of God. ...

... In the end, it must also be said that I do not attack any old true prophet, teacher or herald, such as Jmmanuel, Buddha, Abram, Confucius or Mohammed, etc., nor any founder of a religion or sect, either as a human being or in his honour and dignity, or as a person or in his personality. If I raise my voice attacking the founders of religions or sects, it is not directed against the human beings, their person or personality, but only against their wrong actions, deeds and false teachings and the spreading of their faith. Real prophets, teachers or heralds, such as Jmmanuel (lyingly called Jesus), Buddha, Abram and Mohammed, whose true teachings have unfortunately been maliciously and slanderously falsified and re-fabricated into cult religions, are taboo and unassailable for me, just as I have also not attacked these true prophets, teachers or heralds, because all honour and dignity is due to them. ...

Bermunda:

... This also remained the case when Islam and its faith arose later, which was actually a continuation of Christianity and was also supposed to lead back to the truth. However, this failed thoroughly because the human beings misunderstood the teachings from the very beginning and, contrary to Muhammad's teachings, adopted, worshipped and began to worship the new God of the Christians, just as the Christians had been doing for several centuries, only in Islam he was called Allah. The Prophet fought against this throughout his life, but all his efforts were unsuccessful. When he passed away, scribblers took up the pen and falsified the doctrine from the ground up in such a way that it became a religious misconception just like Christianity. Unfortunately, this created a boundless hatred against the Jewish believers for the reason that the Jewish priesthood had Jmmanuel (Billy: alias Jesus Christ) crucified with the permission and assistance of the Romans. Jmmanuel was regarded by the new religious doctrine of Islam as Muhammad's preceding prophet, and as such he was practically untouchable. Unfortunately, Muhammad's doctrinal efforts were a complete failure, for the doctrine of effective reality and its truth, as with Christianity, became a confusion of beliefs and misconceptions among human beings, whereby the whole thing lost all rational control, which has remained so to this day.

Thus, the Islam religion not only became a might, but a delusion was created, through which bloody wars arose, as well as special rites of worship of Allah, whereby special features were also included in the prayers. This belief inevitably led to torture and murder, as well as the rape of women and children, as has been the case with Christianity from the very beginning and has been preserved, especially in Catholicism, up to the present day. ...

But Muhammad did not say these 'Allah's laws' and never brought them, for he spoke of true love, but never of killing and of torture and murder, as he also tried to prevent wars shamefully instigated and waged in his name, etc., with which he never had anything to do, but which are slanderously attributed to him.

... What was also done in this way with regard to the ancient statue, as Berke writes, is not only a desecration of the statue, but a falsification of it and of antiquity, and this is also the case and no excuse me if everything was done for misguided religious reasons. Religion and religious belief also do not justify such an action, because in the case of this statue, it was created around 10 millennia earlier, before the religion of Islam came into being, whose beliefs were then used, among other things, to circumcise or mutilate the penis on the statue {from Göbekli Tepe}. This is probably in addition to other things that falsely crept into the false religious doctrine and that Mohammed never ordered, just as many other false and fabricated things came about in Christianity. Not to mention the fact that Jmmanuel was falsely called Jesus, something he would never have also dared to dream of. Both were only absolutely upright in their attitude and orientated towards reality and truth, honesty, goodness, humanity, peace, freedom and honesty etc., but never in any altered wise towards what was falsely attributed to them and made out of their 'teaching of truth' in terms of religion and blatant belief. Jmmanuel's and Muhammad's teaching – which already brought all the bringers of truth back to the time of Nokodemion – neither demanded nor demanded worship of the heralds of truth, nor any prostrate worship of them, an imaginary god or saints, as well as no 'holy acts', rites, things, movements, crucifixions, ablutions or incense etc.. The preachers also never demanded any nonsensical frippery in the form of crosses, prayer stones, rosaries and places of prayer, houses of prayer and the like, nor did they demand a 'religious blessing' or 'religious baptism', etc. Their 'teaching of truth' was solely focussed on the fact that human beings must be free in their very own thinking, and must decide and act according to their own ability and right about right and wrong. Their teaching therefore included that human beings should recognise the positive and the negative, and that they should also think for themselves in logic, understanding and reason, independently of any belief, and therefore make correct and just decisions and act in accordance with them. ...

... As a result of various other researches, I am aware that there were forgeries of books in ancient times, and this continues, again and again, right up to the present day. As a result of the falsification of oral traditions, works of falsification have been produced since time immemorial, which today form the basis of religions, for example.

Billy:

I know that; mainly and indeed in the Christian religion it is the Bible and in Islam the Koran, as Mrs ... writes. However, these forgeries do not in any wise constitute an education or a formation of consciousness, but rather an effective stultification of consciousness and a delusion of faith that suppresses and stifles all normal, healthy and logical thinking. I would like to say a few more things about this, namely that neither specialised education, school education, vocational training, higher education, mathematics education nor religious education, nor any other kind of education in the sciences or other fields of knowledge etc. contributes to the formation of true logic, understanding and reason and to the development of a true ability to think. A human being is only able to create an effectively original, correct and also irreproachable faculty of thought in his/her consciousness by building up a real, good and righteous life experience in himself/herself through his/her direct, living work and experience. Fantasy writings, forged books and other forgeries cannot contribute to this, especially not the Bible and the Koran.

Ptaah:

These are based on fanciful, truth-twisted oral traditions that were first written down in small parts well over 160 years after Jmmanuel had died long before in Srinagar. We explored this last year by travelling back, whereby we were able to find out in detail and establish that the Koran was also initially based on oral poetic traditions, which were conceived and composed and recorded in writing 116 years after his normal demise in Mecca. The truth is that neither Jmmanuel's nor Muhammad's work and teachings were recorded in writing during their time of work and life, which you are well aware of.

... especially the scientists have strange ideas about parallel worlds and parallel universes. Sfath, however, has never said anything to me about such a thing, which is supposed to be a mirror universe – or several – and which is supposed to be such that it would be a mirror image of our universe. Of course, scientists are not simply thinking of our present dimension, but of a differently dimensioned universe that is mirrored and aligned with our present, so that, for example, if I could go into such a parallel universe, I could meet myself there in a double version or as a mirrored person and talk to myself, whereby my double and I would always make the same physical movements, carry out the same actions and thus also make the same gestures, as well as speak the same words, etc. As I said, however, your father Sfath never said or taught me anything in this regard, but only spoke of completely different dimensions or space-time structures or of universes, which I was also able to visit with him and experience and also learn a lot there, as a result of which I assume that Sfath was either unaware of such mirror or parallel universes or that they do not exist, which is why I want to ask you about the correctness.

Ptaah:

23. Parallel universes and parallel worlds, as you describe them, are unknown to us, as they are also unknown to the Sonaern, if you should also ask about their findings and knowledge in this regard, as I assume, because you always want to know everything very precisely when you bring up questions.

Billy:

Yes, I wanted to, because the Sonaer are still far ahead with their technology compared to yours. Since you, like the Sonaer, are much more highly educated compared to the knowledge of earthly scientists and are tremendously advanced in terms of the entire earthly technology and therefore should also have knowledge of parallel worlds, which is not the case according to your words, I think that the whole mirror universe issue is based on pure fantasy. This also explains to me why Sfath never said anything about parallel worlds and parallel universes in that sense and also did not explain how such mirror worlds etc. are accepted by earthly scientists.

Billy:

... the great mass of earthly humanity is so wickedly inclined in its deepest character that it is brutally uncontrolled in its self-preservation behaviour to kill immediately as soon as a situation arises that requires self-defence. In the majority of Earth-humans, the perception of responsibility for life and the development of their character is anchored in such a way that they immediately resort to violence and killing as soon as a situation of self-defence arises. As a rule, unfortunately, through the upbringing of the legal guardians and as a result of the lack of self-education, life-appropriate learning is not learned at all or only in a half-value way, or even less, as a result of which the character is not formed rightly. Thus all of the character's life-importance lies completely unworked, is given over to bad moods, uncontrolled and wrong thoughts, as well as the bad feelings that arise from them and the bad and evil emotions that also result from them, which in turn give rise to bad feelings. This also means that we do not learn to honour and protect foreign life in the correct way, but only our own, and that through thoughtless and conscienceless killing and murder. In doing so, however, many kinds of justifications and appearances come into play, but all of them are null and void, for there is never an acceptable reason for killing resp. murdering a human being. Thus, all killing-murdering methods fall away, be it the death penalty, killing and murdering in wars, killing and murdering in the heat of the moment, out of advantage, desire for wealth, jealousy, lust, fear or joy, as well as out of self-defence, revenge, retaliation or pity etc. etc.. But this is precisely what human beings do not learn through the education they receive or through their self-education, that they should never kill and murder under any circumstances, because everything and anything should always and normally be regulated in life-affirming logic, with a clear mind and the highest reason. But only a vanishingly small minority of the Earth's human beings do this, true human beings who really deserve this designation with regard to true human beinghood, as well as human beings who are consciously on the path to true human beinghood and seriously strive to become true human beings and not to kill and not to murder, but to protect life.

Billy:

... Do you also know music, literature and art and do you have appropriate schools?

Semjase:

109. Sure, these things are common to all human life-forms in the universe.

110. We also have appropriate schools for these things, but they can only be attended by really talented people who will later work in these things for the benefit of all.

111. The interested parties are judged according to the presence of talent and admitted to the schools, so only real talents are admitted.

112. There are therefore no such things as are customary on Earth, namely that performers appear in public who make ear-hurting sounds.

113. I often find that very horrible when I listen to earthly music.

Billy:

It is just barbarian music; some manslaughter, some blood, some death cry, squeaking, hysterical nagging and some nonsense of supposed love and mouldy romance. That's what the Earthworm thinks. You must understand.

Semjase:

114. It is terrible, but all the more I am happy about the really good and harmonic earthly music, which has nothing to do with these sounds, which are often bad and unmusical.

Billy:

You are right, but how does your music sound, and what kind of instruments do you have?

Semjase:

115. I cannot describe the music to you, because it would sound completely strange to you.

116. Likewise, the instruments would be alien to you.

https://www.futureofmankind.co.uk/Billy_Meier/Contact_Report_114

Quetzal:

92. A close study of the psyche of the individual group members has let me recognise that for the promotion of the meditation, and also in daily life and at meetings, a melodious background music would be of much value.

93. This brought me to the idea to give you, in accordance with our model, the advice that especially for the meditation exercises and for the meetings of an internal form, you should bring a musical accompaniment into application, and I will strive for the suitable pieces of the earthly music area, according to which you can then procure these music pieces for yourselves.

https://www.futureofmankind.co.uk/Billy_Meier/Contact_Report_155

Billy:

... Man, sometimes the Earth appears to me as the most bizarre madhouse. Even the joy of singing goes away in the process.

Quetzal:

92. That is understandable, but it would be a great pity if you would destroy this joy of yours.

93. Already often, I have heard you sing, and one can really take pleasure in your singing.

94. In fact, you would be competition for some professional singers.

https://www.futureofmankind.co.uk/Billy_Meier/Contact_Report_169

Quetzal:

78. Talking is purely a communicative device, a means for understanding, so this should only be used for this purpose.

Billy:

Yes, Sfath even said this, explaining that language serves only for communication, and the communication contains only everything that is of a harmonious nature, which is why there are human races that only communicate with each other in song/musical form.

Quetzal:

79. That is of correctness.

80. Language is actually harmonious in itself, and so, such a thing should also be expressed.

81. In your ranks, you should at least consider being active at times in this form, namely with singing.

82. This should be a duty with you, and you should introduce this, under all circumstances, as soon as possible.

Billy:

You laugh, but I have already spoken about this several times at meetings and such, but so far, it has not borne any fruit yet.

Quetzal:

83. It should be made a duty by an ordinal rule because without this harmony, what is required will never be reached.

Billy:

That is what I have often said in a similar manner, but it has been unsuccessful. There are simply group members who think that this is sectarian or unworthy for them or even childish.

Quetzal:

84. Such words and thoughts are very sad because even we and still more highly developed humans cannot help but be harmoniously active in this form, by which means also our feelings and thoughts, etc. become more peaceful, calmer, and also more affectionate.

Billy:

This, I can vividly imagine, especially since I have previously heard you singing rather often – together with several others, as well as alone.

https://www.futureofmankind.co.uk/Billy_Meier/Contact_Report_208

Billy:

For my part, Sfath taught me that there are various forms of human intelligence and, thus, not just one type. Thus, he explained that there is an emotional intelligence, a thought-feeling intelligence, and a creative intelligence, along with a musical intelligence, an intellectual intelligence, an individual intelligence, and a general intelligence. Further, he also mentioned idea intelligence, fantasy intelligence, and character intelligence, as well as consciousness intelligence, but these are not all of the manifestations. All forms of intelligence taken together, namely in their full value, result in the actual intelligence quotient. The higher the quotient is, the more intense and the higher the speed of thought is, with the maximum speed of thought being the speed of light. And the higher the person's speed of thought and combination is, the higher his/her intelligence should be. This all seems clear and also logical to me, in complete contrast to the so-called IQ tests, which are made by pompous earthly psychologists, etc.

https://www.futureofmankind.co.uk/Billy_Meier/Contact_Report_223

Billy:

You, as well as Ptaah and Semjase, once played the strange humming sounds of the Earth to me through your apparatuses, which I cannot perceive in nature, unfortunately, because my hearing senses are not so sensitive that I could hear these sounds, which should very well be possible for other people, however, as you have explained. The sources of these sounds are very diverse, as your cognition yields, and these or similar sounds should, according to your information, also appear on other worlds as well as on asteroids, comets, meteors, suns, and dark clouds, as well as with cosmic nebulae and even in every black hole, etc., so not only on the Earth. All electromagnetic waves, as well as the northern lights and solar winds, etc., belong to these sound sources. You named the sounds 'Symphony of the Earth' or 'Symphony of the Planets' as well as 'Symphony of Space', which is also entirely incorporated into these sounds, like also the atmospheres of planets and suns and even all material and immaterial things of every kind, concerning which you have spoken of a 'Symphony of the Spheres'. This symphony, i.e. these sounds, are, so far, still unknown to the earthly scientists in particular and to the people in general, other than just the exceptions to the rule, even those people who perceive these humming sounds, i.e. 'Symphony of the Earth', and who are of the opinion that something is not right in their heads, and thus, not that real things are going to and fro. Can you once again officially explain what it actually concerns with these humming sounds, if it should not remain a secret?

Quetzal:

3. It does not have to remain a secret because in about 10 to 15 years, a portion of the earthly sciences should also encounter these things.
4. Moreover, it concerns the fact that every planet, every comet, every larger asteroid, meteor, and every sun, as well as the nebulae and clouds in space and space itself, as well as every black hole and all material and immaterial things existing at all produce certain tones and sounds, which we, as you said, actually call Symphony.
5. Within the entire realm of the Creation or of the Universe, nothing exists that would not be incorporated into these symphonies, so therefore, all material and immaterial things generate certain tones and sounds and even symphonies in a swinging-wave based form, which usually cannot be perceived by the human ear because these move in too low or too high frequencies for this.
6. Only through abnormal, degenerative, physiological changes can these sounds or symphonies be perceived by human life-forms, whereby these then become effective in an extremely consciousness-impairing, nerve-racking, and psyche-damaging manner.
7. The frequencies of these symphonies or sounds reach into all levels, so thus, the lowest sounds, like humming sounds, as you say, are given as well as the highest whirring sounds and shimmering sounds, etc.
8. As the frequencies are virtually countless in their number, these are also the sources of the sound symphonies, for these relate to all that exists of the material and immaterial.
9. Thus, if one starts from the Earth, then these sound sources are, for example, the waters, in terms of the deep sea movements as well as the movements of the waters of the lakes, rivers, streams, creeks, and springs.
10. Even the roar of the waves, the small and mighty storms, the tectonic movements of the Earth's interior, the bubbling of magma in the Earth, and the eruptions of the volcanoes belong to these, as well as the rain, hail, and the various layers of the atmosphere, which rub against each other, as well as the winds against the trees, grasses, flowers, houses, mountains, sand dunes and deserts, steppes, icebergs, glaciers, and surfaces of ice, as well as against windmills, wind turbines, ships, aircraft, rockets, missiles, and vehicles of all types, against land surfaces and everything else that materially exists.
11. Also to be noted are the voices and sounds of humans and animals, insects, birds, and fish and any other water creatures.
12. All sounds together form the actual 'Symphony of the Planet', as we call it.
13. And as this happens in the purely material realm, so this also happens in any immaterial sphere in the entire Universe, each of which also produces its own symphony, like also fog flowing on the Earth or nebulae existing in space and all other formations that are absolutely impossible to cite in their number because everything is so immeasurable that it could neither be grasped by purely human understanding nor by technological possibilities of any kind.

Quetzal:

66. We maintain our teeth by sound waves ...

Billy:

... From the inner and outer belts, in which our visible universe is enclosed, as Ptaah explained, if I understood him correctly, a so-called background radiation proceeds, which can also be designated as background noise, etc. ...

https://www.futureofmankind.co.uk/Billy_Meier/Contact_Report_228

Billy:

We know, after all, that the total universe does not expand forever, but only expands until the time of 155.5 trillion years, and then succumbs to contraction. During the expansion process of the entire universe, the visible material universe also becomes larger and larger, if I look at the whole thing correctly. And since this must be the case, there must also be different temperatures in our universe, because I assume that heat and cold must be generated by the constant change movement. Am I correct in my assumption?

Quetzal:

91. That is of correctness.

92. Although the temperature fluctuations are universe-wide and very minimal, they occur mainly in those parts of our material universe where the uninterrupted change through the outer, immaterial belts takes place.

93. This is what we call the transitionless open change zone.

Billy:

This transformation zone does produce a rushing sound, as Ptaah taught me on the Great Journey {see Contact Report 31}. I was also allowed to hear it through the technical devices in the giant spacecraft. It was simply gigantic. Ptaah explained to me that the earthlings call this phenomenon cosmic background radiation and assume that the big bang took place there in that zone and that the universe also ended there.

Quetzal:

94. Which does not correspond to correctness, as you know.

Billy:

Of course, because that is where the actual total universe begins with its other six immeasurable belts. Ptaah also said that the differences in temperature are actually very small and therefore only subject to tiny fluctuations caused by differences in density in all regions of our material universe.

https://www.futureofmankind.co.uk/Billy_Meier/Contact_Report_230

Billy:

... Tell me, what do you think of the bad music that is evidently starting to gain a foothold on Earth?

Quetzal:

435. This is an extremely deplorable matter, because now comes the time, as I know from a view of the future, in which many evils will appear.

436. Worldwide more and more parents are deteriorating, who sexually abuse their children, push them into prostitution, rent them out for this purpose and sell them for child pornography, etc., whereby they are, however, also subjected to terrible torments and they are even murdered.

437. Apart from this, more and more children will commit suicide over time, with the suicide rate rising unstoppably.

438. In the future, the harmonic music will be largely substituted by unbelievably disharmonic noise, which is called modern music style.

439. This results in a total disharmony that seizes countless individuals: namely young, adolescents and adults.

440. Tremendously large disharmonic noise events of this kind will take place in the future, whereby in many cases all decency and self-esteem will be trampled underfoot.

441. Many will become criminals in order to indulge in this dignityless activity, and the addiction to drugs and the criminality associated with it will also increase to an immeasurable extent worldwide, as will the unemployment and prostitution, which will be shamelessly publicly advertised in the press and on television.

https://www.futureofmankind.co.uk/Billy_Meier/Contact_Report_236

Billy:

... in my office, interestingly enough, my CD device was running and was playing a musical piece of Julio Iglesias in a rather loud manner. Naturally, I rushed off immediately in order to investigate. And indeed: my CD device was turned on and was loudly playing the eighth piece of a Julio Iglesias disk. ...

Ptaah:

...

9. I must also confess to you that the music pieces heard by Eva and Silvano, which you had not interrupted then, were not the first ones.

10. Before those, I listened to the sounds of the Prisoners' Chorus from the classical piece 'Nabucco', but the Bolero and two country melodies left me no peace.

Billy:

You seem to be quite versatile in the matters of music.

Ptaah:

11. You are not the only one who can enjoy and be refreshed by the most diverse styles of music.

12. Even as you love classical music, rock, country, truck songs, folk songs, pop, marching music, rap, soul, spirituals, gospel, and our music, as well as Oriental, Middle Eastern, and Far Eastern music and rhythms of the natives, I, too, am just as versatile and have no fixed boundaries in reference to the style and direction of this very pleasing, loosening, and profound muse.

Billy:

I am surprised there, however, because I had often thought that I was a little crazy, for I have such diverse music directions. No matter what style and direction it always is, I can take pleasure in any harmonious music. Only with disharmonious things can I do nothing, such as with nonsense pop, which is so discordant that it threatens to tear up not only the psyche but also the physique painfully. The most foolish thing here is that human beings have already become so confused that they designate better music – which is truly harmonious, like also pop – as the idiocy of disharmony.

Ptaah:

13. This is because the human beings of the Earth are already so false-perceiving and false-feeling that to them, disharmony appears as a purpose in life.

14. The more the person succumbs to confusion and aberration, the more his/her innermost self aligns itself toward disharmony, which is particularly expressed in the sense that they become a stranger to true harmony and perceive disharmony as invigorating.

15. This has now already been the case with the Earth-humans for many years, specifically with the young generations, who strive for an alienation from reality, which must necessarily end in misery.

16. Therefore, it has also been the case for many years that only very seldom is such valuable music composed and played.

17. Disharmony has already won such supremacy among the Earth-humans that it is regarded as and also perceived as harmony.

https://www.futureofmankind.co.uk/Billy_Meier/Contact_Report_239

Ptaah:

131. This music that you are playing there, it has a lot of resemblance with our music.

Billy:

It is the 'Chorus of the Hebrew Slaves' from 'Nabucco', by Giuseppe Verdi.

Ptaah:

132. It is well-known to me, like also many other melodies that you are playing.

https://www.futureofmankind.co.uk/Billy_Meier/Contact_Report_241

Ptaah:

302. Every planet and every star has its own resonance, its own sound frequency, which is called planetary harmony or planetary melody, echo or echo.

303. The sound frequency is fundamentally different from planet to planet or from star to star, so practically no celestial body has the same resonance and sound frequency as another.

304. Swinging wave is to be defined as sound, which in turn is built up on a certain frequency, which is determined by the magnetism of the celestial body.

305. If these two factors now work together, as is the case with the celestial bodies, then the resonance, the planetary melody and planetary harmony is created.

306. When I explain that the swinging wave is to be defined as sound, I mean the natural swinging wave of the planet.

307. So this unique swinging wave results in the sound, which is called resonance, echo, etc., just as the planet's own melody.

308. The frequency of this sound now produces vibrations in the Earth, which reach far into the atmosphere and stratosphere and even far into the world space and produce certain effects.

309. Depending on whether the sound waves vibrate out into the atmosphere through earth or rock, through ice masses or through water masses, different impulses are generated which produce different effects, e.g. the northern lights are created together with solar particles or the glacial lights, which are also known to you.

310. The earthquake lights are also based on the same causes, only that they are created because the planetary sound changes when underground and aboveground volcanic activities occur actively, when underground gas chambers explode or water infiltration take place in magma masses, or when tectonic earth plate shifts or other events of an earth-internal nature occur, of which there are many forms.

311. The actual process of luminous phenomena, for example, has different forms in its genesis, which can vary from molecular changes and molecular cleavages to pure electromagnetic swinging waves and pure gas formation or electricity agglomerations.

Billy:

You also think in a very extensive form about Will-o'-the-wisps and ball flashes, if I understand you correctly?

Ptaah:

312. That is true, but really only in a very long-distance form, because such phenomena belong only very remotely to the Earth's magnetism and earth resonance phenomena, although it is not to be denied that there is a connection, even if only in a very distant form.

313. Explaining these connections, however, would go far too far, and it would fill books with explanations and formulas, etc.

https://www.futureofmankind.co.uk/Billy_Meier/Contact_Report_246

Billy:

... For some time there has been talk that radio telephones are dangerous for humans because of the radio waves. Is this really the case, or is it once again an attempt by certain elements to ruin the lives of radio telephone owners? I also have one in my car, as you know, which is why I want to be sure if it can damage my health.

Ptaah:

135. Radio waves are indeed harmful to human health, as is the case with animals and plants.
136. Strong radio wave transmitters can damage life-forms of all kinds over very long distances, including mature trees and elephants as well as whales, if they are hit by the radio waves.
137. In addition to the pollution of the environment of known species, a certain radio wave interference plays a part in the so-called tree death, which is partly to blame, especially where the radio waves occur more frequently or in a concentrated manner, such as at locations or within the range of strong radio wave transmitters, etc.
138. In particular, the antennas of such transmitters or receivers are the most important factors in this respect, because they are the source of destructive and damaging forces.

141. Antennas for radio waves can, depending on the strength of the transmission or reception range, spread their damaging or even destructive effect hundreds of metres or even a few kilometres away, through the swinging waves that transport the dangerous forces within themselves.

142. When life-forms, and especially humans, are hit by these forces, they react just as much as animals and plants of all kinds.

143. Among many other health-damaging manifestations, the consequences of being struck by these forces are tumours, such as cancer, abortions, cardiac arrhythmia, immunodeficiency symptoms, psycho- and circulatory disturbances, damage to vision and hearing as well as brain damage.

144. This applies wherever strong forces are transmitted to life-forms by the electromagnetic swinging waves, including in the case of radiotelephones, where the transmission of forces via the antenna is not very far-reaching, so in the case of smaller devices it is sufficient to keep the antenna approx. 16 centimetres away from the head in order not to be hit directly by the damaging forces.

145. If antennas of radio telephones or radios as well as TV sets, etc. are brought into the direct area of the head, the head and brain organs warm up because the antenna forces, penetrating from outside, produce a heat generation which is not beneficial to the head and brain organs but very harmful.

https://www.futureofmankind.co.uk/Billy_Meier/Contact_Report_248

Billy:

When I observe the humans and hear the music that they listen to, I constantly determine that the humans so much resemble the music that they take in.

Ptaah:

21. This has been a well-known fact to us for tens of thousands of years:

22. People always arrange music according to their evolutionary insight and cognition, as well as according to the corresponding feelings and thoughts, ethics and consciousness, and thus according to the imprint of the personality.

23. In addition, it is to be frighteningly noted with the human beings of the Earth that they make so-called music that truly has nothing at all to do with music and that influences the psyche and the consciousness so destructively that the worst disharmony arises.

24. But this so-called music is the reflected likeness of those who produce or listen to it, whose psyche is agitated and destroyed and whose evolution is frighteningly stagnated, in that these people are hostile to life and incapable of sustaining their own lives, and they stroll along the path of massive destruction.

25. This music, which is nothing more than a screaming disharmony, emits the worst destruction, contempt for humankind, contempt for the Creation, the will for destruction, and the disregard for human rights and the rights of life.

26. This, in contrast to truly harmonious music, which develops the psyche and evolution, which is affirmed in a life of respect for human beings and respect for other life-forms, in compliance with the life-promoting laws and recommendations.

Some sensible people, however, are able to neutralise the threat, which is not least once again promoted by the invention of new, powerful weapons, which will be a realisation of the weapons from science fiction novels, namely in the field of deadly light emitters, ray cannons, ray rifles and ray pistols, etc., in the field of the invention of new, powerful weapons. All this is linked to three scientists who will create an incredibly cheap source of energy. However, this will not be the only new source of energy, because another one will also be found based on sound vibrations. But this will also lead to the development of new deadly weapons. ...

Billy:

Another question: Animals, as more rarely humans, are often misled by magnetic disturbances, both on land and in water and in the air. We have talked about this before. But afterwards you said that the animals would also be affected by another very dangerous factor. Unfortunately, you explained this outside of the contact conversation, which is why none of it was written down. If I understood correctly, then you explained that the animals would also be affected by the so-called noise pollution to the point of fatal form if they were harassed by low or high tones inaudible to humans, which affect their own low or high tones, which they need for navigation. All other human-made sounds and noises of any kind are also capable of disturbing the animals in their navigation, because these sounds and noises, etc., superimpose those low or high sounds which are emitted for navigation or communication purposes. If, however, these navigation sounds are superimposed by noise, as is the case with human noise, e.g. ship engines and propellers, aircraft engines and jet engines, or other engines of all kinds, explosions and engine noise of all kinds, and other various sources of noise that produce certain disturbing sound waves, then the animal navigation system is disturbed to such an extent that e.g. marine animals are stranded or land animals plunge over cliffs, etc. in droves. Such murderous sources of noise also include bomb tests of all kinds as well as bomb droppings and gunfire, etc. For certain animal species, however, in addition to noise pollution, radio waves are also harmful or even fatal, just as radio waves are also harmful for humans, as are strong electromagnetic waves emanating from high-voltage power lines and transformer stations, etc. However, the so-called normal electro smog should also be mentioned in this context. ...

When about half of the pregnancy has passed, the mother feels her baby's first romping in her stomach, which has now reached a height of almost 30 centimetres. This is also the time when the baby reacts to noises with movements and kicks that are well perceived by the mother. The fact is that, for example, loud, disharmonic pop, rock and new jazz music etc. – i.e. more spectacle than something harmonious – causes the child in the womb to move and kick much more strongly than quiet classical or other harmonious sounds. It seems as if the unborn child wants to defend itself against the disharmony it is hit by.

84. However, water is also extremely sensitive to electromagnetic oscillations, which are extremely diverse.

85. Radio and television radiation, for example, change the water just as negatively as bad pop, jazz, folk, pop and classical music, etc., and disharmonic noises etc., so also disharmonies, which are classified as good and harmonic by Earth-humans due to their defective sense of harmony.

86. The voice of humans and animals can also negatively influence and change water, but spoken words can also be taken for granted.

91. Of course, the water also reacts in the opposite form when there are harmonious swinging waves that positively influence it.

https://www.futureofmankind.co.uk/Billy_Meier/Contact_Report_301

Billy:

... Already at the beginning of our contacts in 1975 you explained to me that everything in the whole universe emits swinging waves and tones, so also the smallest parts, thus also quarks, positrons, neutrons, electrons and thus also the whole level of the atoms. These tonal swinging waves, I remember your explanations, form the so-called harmonic cosmic music.

Ptaah:

39. That is correct.

40. The whole universe and everything that exists in it in every form in the coarse and fine material realms is classified into swinging waves and tones, which appear in certain sound sequences and produce what you call cosmic music.

Billy:

So this also applies to the spiritual energies, right?

Ptaah:

41. Certainly.

30. You used to sing a lot back in the day.

31. You have a very good voice for that.

32. However, it is a very long time since I last heard you in this way.

33. Don't you care about the singing anymore?

34. For my part, I still have recordings of this form, with instrumental accompaniment, which you have added to your respective songs on records.

Billy:

Well, times change, so do habits and pleasures and so forth. Singing has simply passed me by with all the vicious attacks and precipitations that have been coming at me from my better half for decades. There are probably still some group members who have heard me singing, also from the tape recorder, but that time is really over. I am completely out of practice. The tapes have also disappeared or been destroyed, so nothing remains from that time. It is probably just as well, because life does not stand still and changes, just like man.

Ptaah:

35. Certainly, that is correct.

36. I could give you ...

Billy:

No, please do not. Those days are over and they will not come back, even if you play me the pieces.

Ptaah:

37. That is right.

https://www.futureofmankind.co.uk/Billy_Meier/Contact_Report_386

Billy:

The electromagnetic vibrations from electronic devices as well as strong Earth-magnetic vibrations are indeed really not harmless, because hallucinations, aggression, depression, low morale and discord – indeed also the phenomena of "ghostly apparitions" – can even be provoked which have no connection with acute or stored mental vibrations, respectively fluidal powers, rather, are based, as a rule, on fantasies and imaginations which are normally simply caused by states of angst. The basis for this can really be very strong electromagnetism, for example, by way of electronic devices, and so forth, or it can simply arise as a result of a strong magnetic field of the Earth. Extremely low-pitched sounds from electronic devices and other things as well as from nature, which cannot be perceived by the human ear – so-called infrasound – can cause strong vibrations, in the case of objects and with the human body and all its organs, such as, for instance, also in the eyes. The consequences of that are hallucinations and panic attacks as well as depression, discord and negative moral states, because the thoughts and feelings as well as the consciousness succumb to confusion as a result of the vibrations. In the said form, there is a connection among infra-sound, electromagnetism, and ghostly apparitions. Infrasound and electromagnetism can trigger the internal attack-and-escape mechanism of the human being as well as panic attacks and hallucinations, and so forth, and it is especially the case if one is in a spooky or weird-looking place, in a depressed mood or in a mystical situation, and so forth. That which is decisive in this regard is that the sense of the human beings is under great tension, whereby he perceives the environment and his situation, and so forth, as a threat. In this state, then "ghostly apparitions" can be seen or strange, ghostly sounds can be heard, or unreal touches can be felt, and so forth. Strong electromagnetic fields have effects on the human body and its organs, which therefore also includes the brain and consciousness as well as the thoughts, emotions and the psyche, which lead to hallucinations, whereby the human being sees, hears and feels things which are not real. Electromagnetism and infrasound produce an effect on the human brain in such a way, that, for example, the feeling is created that someone strange is present – a ghost, and so forth, because he cannot be seen, or can be dimly seen as a result of the imagination. Faces and figures can also be seen and sounds as well as unreal breathing, and so forth can be heard, or, in the same way, unreal touches can be felt. Thereby the human being can become increasingly insecure and anxious, because the activity of fantasy and the imagination increases and everything is considered absolutely real, as for example in a similar manner to the way human beings appear who believe that they have been abducted and examined or impregnated by extraterrestrials and later have their foetuses stolen, which, in regard to pregnancy, naturally, only applies to women. With all of these human beings, fantasy and the imagination – so to speak – go mad, whereby everything is of such a strong nature that the fantasy images and the imagination appear absolutely real – all caused by infrasound, or by strong electromagnetic fields. And human beings who succumb to this, consider everything to be real, and believe that it is truthful reality, in such a way that, consequently, even polygraphs and interviews under hypnosis can be withstood.

Ptaah:

38. It should be noted, however, that the frequencies do not have their own form of memory, such as water, all liquids and living materials and life-forms of all kinds.

39. The water memory form is only designed to store dynamic and thus electromagnetic impulses, which are aimed at preserving the nature and purity of water.

40. As a liquid, water is of course also conductive for electricity and therefore electromagnetic oscillations and sound waves etc., so for example the high-frequency oscillations and sound waves of the water creatures, such as the whales, can be transmitted over hundreds and even thousands of kilometres, whereby these oscillations and sound waves ebb and flow again and dissolve, just like material substances, when they dilute in such a way that no molecule is present anymore.

41. If this were not so, then so many vibrations would accumulate in the waters, in rivers, lakes and seas in their memory that a hopeless chaos would arise and the water life-forms would no longer communicate with each other and among themselves and could no longer find each other, and consequently they would die out – or would have died out before they could actually come to life.

Billy:

I am pleased with your explanation, even though the whole thing is a sad case and also arouses sadness about his {Michael Jackson's} death. A lot of human beings will honestly mourn for him, I can imagine, because his music and his singing were good, even if it was pop. This in contrast to other forms of pop, which have been around for years and are truly nothing more than a tremendously disharmonic shrieking, howling and whining, in contrast to which the howling of wolves sounds directly harmonious.

Ptaah:

34. You said that very well, because what is nowadays usually called music and singing by the young Earth-humans, and to which the adolescents are frenetically attached, no longer contains any harmony at all.

35. As you say, it is nothing more than screaming, howling and whining, which no longer contains any harmony whatsoever, but only aggression, to which the adolescents become addicted and dangerously antisocial.

36. As a result, certain young people become angry destroyers of human achievements and degenerates who are unscrupulous and full of hatred, and out of sheer lust and wantonness, etc. They endanger the life and limb of their fellow human beings or even seriously injure them, beat them to a pulp or kill them.

37. In fact, a very large part of this lies in the forms of what is called singing and music, whereby the dissonant pop and the like fundamentally promote aggression, antisociality, irresponsibility, virtuelessness and hatred etc. in adolescents.

38. Through these forms of howling, shrieking and whining, as you say, which today are called singing and music, Earth-humans, especially children and youth, are increasingly losing respect for the norms of society, the virtues and the righteous.

39. Mainly many adolescents who have not had an adequate education and are therefore prone to antisocial behaviour, are transformed into evil and bad people, which leads to contempt for human beings, law and order.

40. Factors from which racism, extremism, radicalism and terrorism also arise.

41. On the other hand, however, the alleged music and the unmelodic screeching mentioned above also gives rise to the opposite, namely that the young people are misled by the rapture of religion and other sectarians to believe in religion and God, and consequently they become believers in God, as you aptly call it in your new book.

42. Very little truly harmonious singing and harmonious music will be created, and if they are, then only by older human beings and interpreters who are still fond of the truly harmonious sounds and who also have a corresponding way of life.

61. Zafenatpaneach explained again that on the Earth a religious-sectarian organisation works together with a certain secret service to manipulate the humans via the television, computers and the Internet as they wish.

74. Also disharmonious as well as religious-sectarian music is steered in this manner and through vibration impulses leads to mass hysteria etc.

76. Very many people are to such a degree no longer capable of their own decision-making, which they do not notice however, that therefore they do things and maintain thoughts that are given to them subconsciously by vibration impulses.

Billy:

And probably hardly anyone can defend himself against it, because everyone assumes that he acts according to his own will.

Ptaah:

77. This is right, because everything happens within the subconsciousness.

Billy:

It should nevertheless be possible however that the human being can defend against it, I assume, or?

Ptaah:

78. That is correct, but a clear consciousness is required which does not allow itself to be affected by vibration impulses of any kind.

79. This includes open advertising and advertisements of all kinds, that are designed to entice people into doing certain things, actions, deeds and purchases etc.

...

Billy:

... Consequently, it is also no wonder that disastrous riots are ever more prevalent, since for about 2.5 decades a purported music has reached people worldwide that is entirely disharmonious by which these people become more active in Gewalt, unscrupulous, conscienceless and indifferent to each other. And if everything continues in the framework mentioned, then an uncontrollable anarchy and roaring chaos will ultimately develop.

Billy:

... Already your father Sfath taught me in my childhood that all animals and all creatures, from the largest to the smallest, have their own means of communication, ranging from simple sounds, movements, vibrations and their own physical behaviour etc. to certain effective phonetic understandings. You cannot say 'spoken language' because there is no 'phonetic language'. Sfath said that this way of expression corresponds to a misunderstanding and chaotic judgement, because phonetic is only the orthography, not a language, because it is only done with words that are formed and expressed by the articulation organs larynx, mouth and tongue etc. as certain articulation sounds. In this way of letter or syllable articulation, language is known only to the human being, whereas Sfath simply spoke of the sounds that are peculiar to the animals, such as the dog's barking, the rooster's crowing, the goat's grumbling, the birds' whistling and chirping, the howler monkey's roar, the cricket's chirping, etc. etc. In addition, he taught me that all animals and creatures – depending on their genus or species – have a whole repertoire of different sounds, each representing a particular image, symbol or even a particular syllable, so that mutual understanding is possible. Moreover, these sounds vary from region to region, so that one can speak of different sound dialects. But this is only possible because animals and creatures, depending on their genus or species, have a world of thought and instinctive intelligence appropriate to them, and even some higher mammals have an instinctive, semi-conscious world of thought and a corresponding intelligence.

Billy:

... Can you tell me in short and simple words, how stress and physical inactivity as well as various types of music affects the life itself, the quality of life and the life-period of the human being? ...

Ptaah:

...

19. And now, concerning the different types of music, it must be said that good and positive music elevates the feelings of life and the health as well as the whole physical and mental state and accordingly, promotes a good and righteous life-attitude and corresponding positive behaviour.

20. However, such kinds of music can be found only in harmonious sounds and tones which on the earth are given only in classical music as well as in harmonious swinging pop music.

21. What otherwise relates, however, with regard to all discordant sounds and tones, which correspond to nothing other than outrageous and droning noise discharges, as well as the voices concerning only a roaring, jangling, cawing, screaming, howling and yowling, and so forth, corresponds to a disharmony beyond compare.

22. Naturally, this also yields its malicious and negative effects, which therein reside in the fact that genuine interpersonal relationships no longer come about, clear order no longer prevails and the human beings who adhere to this kind of noise-making, become indifferent towards their fellow human beings and all life in general.

23. Their senses dull, therefore they also no longer perceive the reality and also can no longer realize thoughts of belonging-together.

24. In addition to that and the many other arising damages, the human being drifts off – mostly teenagers and "grown-up" un-grownups – and falls victim to the asocialness.

25. Thus the life and limb of the fellow human being will also no longer be respected, consequently they are brutally confronted and they are beaten with blows and kicks, and indeed not seldom up to the permanent disability or to the death.

26. There is no more sense seen in the life, instead it is senselessly lived only for the day and in pursuit of pleasure, and the thoughts and feelings become cold, mentally incompetent and ill, because the whole thing likewise corresponds to a health-damaging stress, out of which also emerges all the same factors that I initially mentioned with regard to a stressful mode of life.

27. The effects in many cases are also the same, and even up to the suicide.

Billy:

Behind the whole thing I still see very much more: the tremendous noise of the present day is arranged with dreadful disharmonic crashing and bellowing, which is crazily referred to as music, has insanely stupid forms, driving right through one's marrow and bones, and unhinges compulsive depression and dissatisfaction, etc. However, not only young but even people of the older generations are not able to understand this, those who are quite thrilled about the abominable as well as nerve-wracking instrumental and vocal discordance and no longer have any clue about what sounds really harmonious. The whole thing had begun in the mid-1980s, as even the false emphasizing of words and sentences sprang up and has spread across the world like wildfire. Up to this time, with regard to music, there was only very little that was disharmonious and could not be referred to as music and singing, but then, precisely in the mid-1980s, had that terribleness then suddenly struck. With the instrumental noise, racket and roaring of alleged music as well as with the bellowing, howling, and yowling of the equally alleged singing – e.g. with the false emphasizing of the phrases and words – similarly a worldwide phase of the disharmony appeared, which will probably only die down again, when the way is found back to the right intonation and to really harmonious sounds and tones and therefore also to the really harmony-filled music and to singing of the same kind. But that, I think, will take a long time still, because when I think of what Jmmanuel had said, that in the current time and even still into the future, the people will stand up against their authorities, as is also only just happening in the Ukraine and in Crimea and continues to happen, then there is still much evil to be expected. ...

Billy:

... Last night together with Eva I watched a music program on TV, 'Melodies for Millions', in which good old music was brought from the last century up to 1985, which was really harmonious and psychically touching and gave me an exceptionally good well-feeling. In addition, I received a letter from an esteemed and dear friend who subsequently asked how I myself am towards music and how you Plejaren perform this. If it is possible for you to say something about this, then I would personally also be very interested in what explanations you can give in relation to the music.

Ptaah:

...

20. The music corresponds to a very wide-ranging might, and indeed both in the positive as well as in the negative.

21. It characterises the human being already from birth and touches him/her in the depths of his/her self-created inner nature, which he/she also shows to the outside world and this has nothing to do with the innermost creational-natural nature.

22. The might of music acts therewith on the human being in accordance with the wise, as his/her inner nature is formed in the evil or good, that is to say, negatively or positively, such as rebellious, malicious, disharmonious, spiteful, mean, sneaky, infamous, chickenhearted, envious, psychopathic, deadly, immodest, unfree, unfair, unhappy, unsatisfied, embittered, pernicious or angry, etc., or equalised, merciful, modest, free, friendly, peaceful, patient, pleasant, kind, good-natured, harmonious, helpful, calm, restrained, reliable, warm-hearted and courteous, etc.

23. Thus the music has depending on its positive i.e. harmonious or negative i.e. disharmonious form in itself, that it effectuates that which is good and positive or negative and bad in the human being.

24. Therefore, in the negative case, the might of the music can drive the human being into a psychical misery, into a moral decline and into a general malignant downfall, just as however lead him/her in a positive wise to the psychical elation and to high performance, etc.

25. Good music creates high cultures and through bad music high cultures are destroyed again, and thus since time immemorial it happened and is happening also on the earth.

26. In a good, positive phase, with regard to the music, times always prevailed in each case, which were peaceful, good and progressive.

27. If, however, phases of negative, bad music arose, then the times were bad.

28. With bad music, irresponsible rulers and other elements often seized the political and military might and instigated fights, wars and upheavals, like e.g. the world wars on the earth in the last century, therefore which were from 1914–1918 and 1939–1945, as well as the Vietnam and Korean wars, and in the last 25 years war actions which broke out in Iraq and Afghanistan, as well as the current criminal machinations of the 'Islamic state', as you correctly call this murderer- and criminal-organization.

29. Since time immemorial, harmonious forms of music prevailed before and after such events, through which earth humans and peoples were attuned peacefully.

30. Observed and considered with respect to the earth, the good and positive music which sprang up after the last wars changed again in recent times, that is to say, in the 1980s, into the negative and bad and even into the evil, as you yourself have said many times since then.

31. So prevailing on the earth since the 1980s, the might of a very negative music from which the humankind, the politics and economy, the armies and religions are maliciously-negatively influenced and controlled, through which very much mischief, hardship and misery as well as destruction is wrought, as this is also proven by the many hotbeds of war, uprisings and criminal machinations in many corners of the world.

32. Not only with us Plejaren, but also with the human beings of Earth, the might of the music has been known since ancient times, this with terrestrial peoples particularly in the ancient high cultures, who knew that the might of good, positive music helped civilizations to improve, while negative, bad music, in turn sealed their downfall.

33. Primarily, great philosophers knew about the might of the music and its influence on the societal decision, this both in relation to the upswing as well as the decline of civilizations.

34. However, they also knew of the might of harmonious, good and positive music, through which promoted the intelligence and the psyche could be refined, or that through disharmonious-negative-bad music much terribleness had been wrought, to which entire advanced civilizations fell victim.

35. They had however also known that under certain circumstances music gives rise to similar frequencies as hypnosis in the brain of the human being, and indeed both in the good and positive, as well as in the evil and negative.

36. The human beings of the ancient high cultures were clearly aware, that through good, harmonious and positive music, the human ability to learn increased enormously and also the character as well as the good and positive modes of behaviour become refined.

37. Music is for the human being one of the most important factors of life with regard to the formation of his/her thoughts, feelings and the psyche, because it imparts to him/her a value-consciousness, but unfortunately, not only in that which is good and positive, but also in the evil, negative and bad.

38. If the value and the might of the harmonious music is highly estimated, then the human being also feels uplifted and feels impulsions of the equalisedness, the love, the peace and freedom in themselves, whereby in the same wise also his/her morals and behaviour are equally influenced.

39. However, if the music is disharmonious, of inferior value to completely valueless, then the human becomes weighed down by aggressiveness and unequalisedness and finds no access to real love, to true peace and open freedom, as well as not to a valuable moral state and to corresponding modes of behaviour.

40. And on the earth today, exactly these evil, negative and bad forms prevail among countless human beings of earth of all ages, because they are caught by the might of this malicious and disharmonious music, which since the 1980s prevailed as 'fashionable' and in its spell transfixes all those human beings of Earth, who in themselves are even malicious, aggressive, unequalised, unhappy, unorderly, abusive, negative, unsatisfied, often conscienceless, rebellious, and irrational ones.

41. The human being of earth should themselves therefore follow the example of a child, because as long as they are not influenced in a bad wise by evil, disharmonious, negative and bad music, they are open for good, harmonious and positive music.

42. Thus, if the child is observed and considered, then it is to be said regarding this, that they, at least as long as they come in contact with normal, good, harmonious and positive music, are better able to perceive distinct nuanced tones in the communication, and indeed fully independent of whether they can enjoy any good musical instruction or not.

43. This indicates that through the music, they can learn to pursue their own thoughts, feelings and emotions and are able to sense the voice-tones of other human beings, as to whether something is right or not with them.

44. However, the world of music and its tones enables not only the child, but also the adult human being to better understand his/her surroundings and to communicate themselves to the fellow human beings.

45. Among us Plejaren, for millennia it has no longer been a secret how much the music promotes, in many areas of the development of the human being, also cognitive, mental, emotional and social capabilities.

46. The musical intelligence corresponds to one of the most important parts of the intelligence of the human being.

47. Music allows the connections between the nerve cells of both hemispheres of the brain to grow in a better wise, whereby also the concentration and communication is promoted.

48. Therefore it will also be well understood that it is particularly important that the human being should be musically active themselves, such as by he/she singing or playing a musical instrument.

49. At the very least, it is necessary that while listening to music and singing, it is 'jointly-lived' in a thought-feeling-psyche-based-wise, because a purely passive listening to music brings only little or nothing at all, which could increase any values in the human being.

50. Already in childhood and even already in infancy, the human being should be continuously confronted with good, harmonious and more positive-valueful music because this improves the performance of the intelligence and especially the capabilities of the spatial imagination.

51. Sprinkled with harmoniously good and positive music, not only the child, but also the adult human being is more receptive, socially competent, self-confident, equalized, peaceful, free and behaviour-wise more humane than a human who is unmusical or kills his/her time with disharmonious music.

52. Although no better humans can be created with good, more harmonious and positive music, nevertheless, already created talents and good characteristics certainly deepen, because fundamentally the education has an effect in all the things of the behaviour, with which the human being is formed on the one hand and he/she forms themselves on the other hand.

53. Music, however, can make the human being especially happy, this is an undisputable fact, because gladly heard, harmoniously good and positive music stimulates specific regions of the brain which are responsible for ensuring that positive and peaceful as well as free thoughts are nourished, from which pleasant feelings originate.

54. Good, harmonious music is always an incentive, creating calming and good memories that are always connected with revitalizing thoughts and feelings, by which often many problems can be solved, also with regard to interpersonal relationships.

55. On the other hand, exactly the opposite emerges with disharmonious, negative, ungood and bad music.

56. In the brain, distinct areas are addressed, and indeed both with disharmonious as well as with harmonious music, although the forms of behaviour in human beings are accordingly different.

57. With harmonious music arises decisiveness, excitation, joy, being inspired and upbuilding feelings of elation as well as interest, whereas in fact in the negative case with disharmonious, bad music even oppressive, negative, unequalised thoughts and feelings as well as corresponding actions and behaviours arise.

58. Really harmonious music is a pleasure and in addition work for the thoughts, out of which proceed corresponding feelings.

59. In the brain, the entire musical tones are once again newly put together, through which the brain is formed.

60. And when it is frequently exposed to these challenges, then it changes itself, and namely in accordance with the wise, just as the tones of the music are formed, simply negatively or positively.

61. The brain adjusts itself to the tones of the music, negatively or positively, simply in accordance with the disharmoniousness or harmoniousness.

62. The music effectuates in the cerebral cortex, that the nerve cells there enlarge themselves and link themselves up better.

63. In human beings, the musical ear is trained from a young age as a consequence of what is given to him/her to hear.

64. Therefore, this also means that music e.g. sounds wonderful for one human being or cultural circle, whereas compared to another it can come across rather repulsively or strange, which effectively has to do with the personal understanding of music.

65. But that has nothing to do with disharmonious, negative, ungood and bad music, as this has prevailed far and wide on the Earth since the 1980s and which equals more of a yowling, screeching, whining and a misuse of the sounds and tones, than real music and real singing.

66. Such can sound only malicious, disharmonious and bad for a musical ear, while for abysmally disharmonious human beings it promotes their aggression, aggressiveness, naivety, unequalisedness, unhappiness and dissatisfaction as well as unreliability and so forth.

67. However, music still has other effects, because it creates a great influence with respect to the management of time in the brain, the thoughts and feelings as well as the psyche and the self-perception.

68. Music has an effect on all levels of the brain, and it has direct access to the thoughts, feelings, the emotions and to the psyche, and since time immemorial, it is anchored deeply in the history of the human being.

69. Music makes use of ancient mechanisms of the human psyche and the human motivations, and human beings can even profit from it, if they hear sad music, especially then if they have grief or are in sorrow as well as if nostalgia is presented, which often consists of a mixture of joy and sorrow.

70. Music is an expression of creational-natural laws, that can also be explained as cosmic laws of nature, even though it is also a specific expression of the human thoughts, feelings and inventions.

71. From this it also can be recognized that among the countless noises occurring in nature, many sounds and tones appear, which sound harmonious and fundamentally already embody a structure of music.

Billy:

Thanks, your explanations tell very much. Today, the human beings of Earth often carry the music around by schlepping around headphones in the ear and the MP3-players in the jacket pockets. The danger is particularly on the streets in traffic, because they no longer hear any outside sounds, consequently there are many fatal accidents because of that. In the past, the humans carried around portable radios and let these play at full volume, which created a lot of trouble. And as you have said, it's the howling and yowling as well as the instrumental noise and racket – which on the whole has become referred to as music since the 1980's and which makes the human being psychopathic and crazy – besides being equipped to wreak much calamity, and indeed in addition to the fact that those human beings whose music sense is directed towards good, harmonious and positive music are semi driven into madness. From this I gather that according to your words, as a result of this catastrophic musical style prevailing since the 1980s – precisely that which is falsely called music – a very unpleasant future is to be expected. This also therefore, simply because the human beings who indulge in this wailing and racket, which they call music, have no true sense of life, as well as no thoughts and feelings of a healthy self-worth, let alone because any sense to follow the creational-natural laws and recommendations, through which to them the true love, freedom, harmony and peace would be their own and these high values would come to life and would be represented. As I see the matter, the whole thing is running once again towards another catastrophe and beyond ...

Ptaah:

72. That regarding music is in line with the meaning of what I said, and what you further allude to is absolutely within the realm of possibility and would again be, among other things, a downfall consequence through the power of the malignant, negative, bad and unpleasant 'music' that has once again dominated the world since the 1980s.

Billy:

Since this roaring, howling, yelping and howling as well as the instrumental noise and racket have arisen since the 1980s, which is called music, but which only corresponds to a wretchedness, the human beings of the Earth have generally changed in all things very detrimentally and even to the point of malignancy. If, on the other hand, I look at the general behaviour etc. of the human beings before the 1980s, before the catastrophe-radio-howl-music arose, then everything was still much more peaceful, free and even loving and harmonious in certain relationships, and that in spite of the idiotic politics and the threats of the Cold War. Since the 1980s, everything worldwide has become very threatening, bad and degenerated into evil, as is also evident in the rising hatred of foreigners, foreigners, races and religions, as well as in all the trouble spots and uprisings around the world ...

Ptaah:

15. Universe-wide, a creative-natural movement vibrates, which spreads artistic impulses in many forms, for example, predominantly in relation to geometric and symmetrical forms, which are important in the production of crop circles, because the Earth-humans who produce these pictograms absorb these vibrations and transform them into works of art according to their meaning, as in pictograms, which they then press into crop fields by treading down the stalks of grain.

16. Apart from geometrical and symmetrical forms, the extraterrestrial or cosmic energetic impulses of art also impart many other forms of art, such as painting, carving, sculpture, drawing and music, etc.

17. I have explained various things to you in earlier private conversations, such as that these creative-natural artistic impulses are of a universal-energetic vibrational nature and are also contained in the cosmic-electromagnetic life energy and stimulate the consciousness of human beings through their subconsciousness in order to become artistically active and to represent and create all kinds of art forms, be it drawing, sculpting or in any other artistic way.

18. Human beings in particular – as well as other life-forms – who are sensitive enough to pick up these vibrations contained in the cosmic-electromagnetic life-energy, can also translate them into many different forms.

19. This is especially true of human beings who have artistic abilities and interests, so that they are especially predisposed or talented to absorb these vibrations.

20. This creative-natural art-mediating vibration also affects all other living beings, such as animals, birds, insects, reptiles, aquatic creatures and amphibians, for which the universal art vibrations are important for nest-building or for mate-making and the play instinct, etc.

21. The same also happens with regard to minerals, which are solids and have a defined chemical composition and also a defined physical crystalline structure.

22. Many of them form themselves into geometrical and symmetrical figures, which consistently arise as universal art from the corresponding creative-natural artistic vibrations.

23. So this art arises not only in Earth-humans, but also throughout the universe in all of nature, in which geometric and symmetrical forms of all kinds are formed through the extraterrestrial or creative-natural art vibrations, such as e.g. Galaxies, circles, crosses, rings, cubes and many other geometrical and symmetrical forms, whereby for Earth-humans the best known in this respect are the crystal forms which arise in minerals of all kinds, but also in snowflakes in infinite variations and in ice formations, etc.

26. The Earth-humans who made or continue to make such crop circle pictograms thus find their ideas for them in the extraterrestrial or creative-natural universal artistic vibrations through which all life-forms and all minerals and plants derive benefit.

27. Plants of all kinds use this extraterrestrial art-vibration to form their shapes, just as Earth-humans use it to be artistically active, in whatever way, while other life-forms use this creative-natural art-vibration in various other ways according to their species and kind.

28. And because this art vibration does not emanate from Earth, but moves creatively-naturally universe-wide, we call it extraterrestrial and universal.

Billy:

This is once clearly explained, consequently no more misunderstandings can occur. Your explanation also says that the art forms are very diverse, which are spread universally by the universal-energetic vibrations. Thus, with regard to geometrical and symmetrical forms, I am thinking of trapezoids, parallelograms, squares, cubes, cuboids, pyramids, cones, spheres, cylinders, triangles, quadrilaterals, pentagons, hexagons, rectangles, polygons, right-angled, isosceles and equilateral shapes, as well as prisms, rhombuses, tetrahedrons, icosahedrons, dodecahedrons, octahedrons, cuboctahedrons, ellipsoids, paraboloids, pentagrams and polygons, etc. , as they come to my mind at the moment.

Ptaah:

29. Everything you name is correct, of course.

Billy:

The art-mediating cosmic-energetic resp. universal-energetic vibrations also appear in other ways, such as with regard to sounds and tones, which are also received and converted by human beings, namely in the form of music. ...

...

Billy:

... Then we can speak two or three words today that refer to the sounds, tones and music in nature, precisely that it is the case that all other living beings are also affected by it and even all gross and subtle matter as well as all subtle matter in all universal expanse. All plants and all life-forms in general, as well as all atoms and all even tinier substances, as well as all planets, suns, comets, meteors, nebulae and asteroids, etc., move through these sound and tone vibrations, whereby they each produce a kind of music in their own way, which I would like to call a total-universal musical hissing and humming, whereby a certain healing power is also emanated in many respects. So every life-form, no matter what species or kind, is also struck by these universal-energetic musical vibrations together with the cosmic-electromagnetic life-energy and emits harmonious or disharmonious sounds and tones according to its own individuality, which I will therefore call a kind of music. Even your father Sfath explained all this to me in this way.

Ptaah:

30. There are many types of music, such as aggressive, frightening, provocative, buoyant, malicious, exciting, humiliating, gloomy, delightful, dangerous, violent, horrifying, harmonious, humorous, jubilant, combative, warlike, boring, lovely, loving, murderous, coercing, unconscious, paranoid, psychopathic, riotous, revolting, creeping, longing, sensual, falling in love, destroying, destructive and compelling forms, among various other species.

31. The power of music, in all the variations mentioned, has an effect on human emotions and makes them vibrate.

32. And this is because every kind of music has an effect on the body, the thoughts and feelings and thus also on the psyche, as well as on the consciousness and the whole mental block, and on the subconscious, and on the behaviour and action.

33. The situation-related, personality-specific and music-immanent influencing factors (Billy: Immanent in relation to music = inherent in the music, or contained in the music) must be taken into account.

34. Music does not only shape the human being from birth, but already in the prenatal or prenatal state, because it touches already in the mother's womb the becoming human being in the deep inside of his developing inner being.

35. When a person is born, music can inspire him, even as a young child, as well as in adolescence and adulthood, to composing, as well as to physical, action- and thought-emotional-psychological, as well as mental and thus intellectual and rational peak performances, and can also have a healing and thus restorative effect with regard to the same factors.

36. So music certainly has a stimulating, as well as an energy-creating and therapeutic power.

37. The power and sounds of music can thus be used by doctors, therapists and educators, e.g. to relieve pain, but also to evoke memories or to overcome psychological barriers.

38. Music can be used therapeutically, neuroscientifically, psychologically, psychiatrically and evolutively, as well as to facilitate interpersonal communication.

39. Music also promotes in man the function of behavioural development; consequently, certain sounds, melodies and harmonies touch him peacefully and in a very special way, while others leave him completely untouched, while others again excite him, excite him and even degenerate him maliciously to murderously and destructively, according to the forms as they were called in the introduction.

40. Music of any kind, no matter whether it is good and pleasing, or whether it can be described as alien to music and harmony and must be called evil, bad, miserable or dangerous, murderous and destructive – as has been the case, for example, since the mid-1980s with bad pop and other unmusical, malicious, malicious sounding noises, with blare and roar etc. – affects all levels of the brain.

41. As a result, everything related to really good music and harmony, which includes everything from classical to pop and folk music – as well as everything unmusical and disharmonic of any kind – has a direct access to thoughts, feelings and emotions.

42. This means that every human being is shaped in his character, personality, thoughts, feelings and psyche in such a way that he acts and lives out his behaviour as his senses are shaped in a musical-harmonic or unmusical-disharmonic direction.

43. The whole thing has been deeply anchored in the human brain since time immemorial, whereby it has evolved along with the general evolution and helps the human being to reconcile himself with ancient mental-emotional-psychological as well as emotional needs in a world primarily characterized by language, mind and reason.

44. Really harmonic sounds, called music, have nothing to do with unmusical, malicious, disharmonic, discordant noises, booming blasts and wild roaring etc., which is called 'music' and misunderstood by earth-men who are disturbed by sound vibrations.

45. Harmonic sounds or music are the expression of universal-musical-harmonic laws of nature, whereby the whole universe and everything that exists in it makes music in its own way, be it a star, a planet, the sound of the universe, a way of life, the water, the air or whatever.

46. Musical sounds are universally contained in everything and absolutely common in everything, as is the case with humans, but the forms of harmony or disharmony determine the important role of their behaviour, both positive and negative.

47. Many of the universal sounds are not audible to the human ear because the sound vibrations cannot be perceived, even with equipment.

48. Also crystals of all kinds, precious stones, metals of all kinds, rocks and everything and everyone has sound vibrations, so everything that exists in the universe, therefore there is nothing that does not connect sound vibrationally with everything and everyone in a universal way

49. The sound vibrations of all existences form the universal connection of all things resp. of everything and everyone that exists in the universe, whereby it is also given that all universally existences have knowledge of each other.

50. In this way, the tiniest in the universe has knowledge of the most powerful, like the most powerful has knowledge of the tiniest, starting from the most powerful hypergalaxy to the tiniest spirit-energetic particle, which Earthly physicists will not be aware of for a long time yet and which will still provide them with much research work.

51. But how it is that people in all cultures and other life-forms on all inhabited worlds in the universe have been creating complicated patterns of sound waves and sound vibrations since the beginning of their existence and history, which produce energies and forces as music, melodies and rhythms in all life-forms, corresponds to a specific law of the universe.

52. Basically, the universe itself is harmonically sound determined, which can also be called music determined, therefore music is not a pure human invention, because truthfully man has taken the musical from the universe and worked out and expanded it according to his needs and wishes etc..

53. Of all the many natural sounds that already constitute a basic structure of music, man perceives only a few sounds and tones that are produced when things like membranes or strings start to vibrate, but these produce only a few frequencies that are audible to man, which are in a simple and clearly structured relationship to each other.

54. In these few frequencies, however, there is the entire vibrational energy, from which clear and widely audible signals emerge, although the human usually consciously perceives only the lowest frequency.

55. The other frequencies always resonate as overtones and determine the timbre, resulting in the difference between different vocal parts and various musical instruments.

56. If the first overtone is used, it is always twice the frequency of the fundamental.

57. If man hears a second tone, the fundamental of which vibrates at this double frequency, then they sound at a distance of one octave, and these two tones are considered by humans to be extremely similar.

58. Harmonious sounds or tones, which become music for humans, are created by the brain performing an enormous amount of analysis, namely by effortlessly assigning a complicated mixture of harmonic sound waves or sound oscillations to individual instruments and voices and recognizing musical motifs and phrases in them.

59. The different areas of the entire brain work together, so that a specific 'music centre' is not responsible for the relevant performance.

60. However, the whole thing does not only result after the birth, because effectively this happens already very early in the womb, namely already from the 21st day after the conception, if the embryo is begeistet by the intruding or reincarnating spirit form.

61. Already as an embryo, the growing brain of a child in the womb can classify music – as well as other sounds, tones and noises – from the outside as well as from the inside, whereby it can even create musical tones itself.

62. Consequently, it is completely normal for a child to start humming harmoniously shortly after birth, even in the form of melodies which it has already absorbed from the outside into its brain and memory as an embryo, as a fetus or as an infant growing up effectively in the womb.

63. Which music will predominate in the child or in adolescence or adulthood depends on the one hand on what was imparted to him by the mother in the womb, but on the other hand also on many other factors, such as education, the environment, the thought-feel-psych-mental-consciousness world, the circle of acquaintances and friends, the direction of work, training, the form of society and membership in groups and organisations, a religion or sect.

64. The intuition for music is shared by all people – except those who suffer from rare neurological diseases – and therefore every human being is basically musical.

65. However, it should be noted that those people who have a neurologically disturbed relationship to the harmony of music, and as a result, because brain physiological damage factors are present, cannot evaluate harmonic sounds and tones as such.

66. They are subsequently attached to disharmony and followers of disharmonious noises, wild roaring, howling, howling – which they consider to be singing -, banging, nerve-racking discord and harmonic discrepancy, etc.

67. Music has a very big influence on the human brain, therefore e.g. cheerful pieces of music, a concert or a dance style reduce the concentration of the stress hormone cortisol in the blood.

68. The use of music as medicine can have very good effects, e.g. after a stroke or brain trauma

69. Through music, movements can be coordinated again, and with tinnitus, specially processed music can make the noises in the ears disappear again.

70. Aggression, Alzheimer's or other dementias as well as behavioural disorders can be alleviated by special harmonic music and singing together, but relevant music can also bring back memories.

71. Harmonic music of all kinds can give life an emotional hold again, make life easier or bearable.

72. And when people are constantly sprinkled with harmonious music, such as at work, this contributes to a much greater willingness to work, stamina and performance.

73. So man is closely interwoven with harmonic music because it gives him an emotional core that remains in him even when certain parts of his personality are already damaged and his memories become weaker.

74. The fact is that harmonic music, which can be classical, pop or folk, etc. – but never disharmonic according to unmusical noises and dissonances, etc. – has a shaping effect on brain structures.

75. Harmonic music even creates a promotion of intelligence, contrary to the stupid and false assertion of terrestrial psychology that intelligence is not changeable and not expandable.

76. With harmonic music man can improve his mental-emotional-psychological world as well as other functions, whereby he only has to choose the right music and devote himself to it.

77. In this way, everyone can do a certain amount of self-treatment if they allow themselves to be sprinkled with the harmonious music that is right for them during the course of the day, at work and in their leisure time.

78. But this only works effectively with good harmonic music, which can be classical, pop or folk, as well as harmonic pop, metal sound and jazz etc., but not with the already mentioned disharmony of negative noises, banging, howling and roaring etc.

79. Music affects the hypothalamus via the auditory nerves, influences vegetative functions and causes a complete exchange with cognitive levels of the brain, because listening to music causes vegetative changes.

80. Basically, listening to music can be based on eight different aspects, with the following effects occurring:

81. 1) Associative listening to music: The activity of consciousness is more intense.

82. 2) Sentimental listening to music: memories, triggering thought-feeling-emotions.

83. 3) Compensatory listening to music: controlling the mood.

84. 4) Motor listening to music: triggers body movements.

85. 5) Vegetative listening to music: Conceptual thinking hardly plays a role, but the music is reduced to pure physicality = dull stomach feeling, goose bumps, shivers, etc.

86. 6) Emotional listening to music: body excitation is perceived semantically, specifically as fear, joy, grief, etc.

87. 7) Distancing or structural listening to music: Consciously following the music through; distancing, contemplative; submerging music.

88. 8) Diffuse listening to music: Distance from the music; music is perceived as disturbing.

89. Music can trigger many different forms of behaviour, as was explained at the beginning of this article, and can therefore trigger a wide variety of positive or negative actions and behaviour depending on the type of harmonic music or disharmonic sound.

90. In a very positive way, harmonic music can have an extremely mood-lifting effect on the psychic world of thoughts and feelings and thus even as a means of systematically treating and remedying depressions, if the right music is chosen that appeals to the person.

91. Similar to a painkiller, Mozart music, for example, can work against headaches, while another composition, which makes one day painless or happy, causes pain or sadness the next day – depending on the moral condition.

92. Music can also help well with severe psychosomatic symptoms as well as in psychiatry, because the mental, emotional and emotional effects of music are particularly useful for suffering people.

93. Furthermore, good, harmonic music is a strong means to challenge people emotionally in a variety of ways, because through it the inner defense becomes permeable, which is basically more or less given to every person for various things.

94. Through good, harmonious music of any kind, unpleasant or pleasant thoughts and feelings as well as emotions can be perceived, dissolved and switched off, built up and permitted.

95. Through good harmonic music – and it is really only good and harmonic music that is meant – not only thoughts, feelings and emotions can be conveyed to people, but also a comprehensive communication can be achieved without words and actions.

96. And this is possible both among people who cannot speak, but who are also not able to communicate linguistically because they speak another language.

97. The same is true, if such therapies are carried out, with regard to music therapies for sufferings and diseases as well as for dementia and even for people in a vegetative state.

98. A lack of communication can be extended by good music and can help in the physical, psychological and conscious development of people, both young children and adolescents and adults.

99. Also, through good and harmonious sounds, deficits of many thought-feel-psych-mental-moderate forms can be compensated, as well as in disorders of mother-child relationships something is stimulated, which was neglected early in the development of the child and normally already from the pregnancy, but latest after the birth by the mother should be carried out.

...

103. The fact is, however, that music has always strengthened people's thoughts and feelings of togetherness, and continues to do so in the future.

104. Already very early hominids made music together, by rough singing and by rhythmic knocking on hollow fruits, pieces of wood, bones and stones etc., even if this is not known by earthly researchers and scientists, like paleontologists etc.

105. They also performed dances, which made them happy and strengthened their social structures and also led to a dopamine release in the brain.

Billy:

What today's youth and even many adults 'afford' today as 'music' is catastrophic and has nothing to do with good, harmonic and music at all anymore. It is no more than an explosive that numbs the ears and poisons the consciousness as well as the thought-feeling-psycho-world and even makes the body ill. And if the whole thing is seen from a clear point of view, then there is the evil intention behind it, not only to bring about the end of good, harmonious and valuable music, but also to destroy the entire traditional occidental culture, such as the valuable interpersonal relationships and the general social context of the people of the western world.

The western man is downright stultified and made extremely aggressive by – as you said – unmusical, missounding and disease-causing noises, by howling, whining and smashing, which is madly called and understood as 'music'. It's not only ghastly pop and catastrophically bad heavy metal music, lousy hits, but also new jazz etc. etc., which makes the good, harmonic music sink into the sidelines, like good classical music, hits, good pop, rock and good metal as well as folk music etc.. And not only humans suffer from all that is unmusical, but also animals, animals and birds, etc., which become ill and disturbed by the unmusical noises, the roaring, howling and roaring, etc.. Like humans, they react accordingly to the nerve-killing and health-damaging riots and the discord of unmusic, which, in relation to humans, have a very damaging effect on their intelligence, thoughts, feelings and psyche, as well as a negative effect on their consciousness and a destructive effect on their social behaviour. In addition, hard, aggressive unmusic not only weakens the learning ability of humans, animals and mammals, but it also slowly and continuously disturbs and destroys social behaviour in every respect, especially in relation to those people who are not particularly blessed with intelligence. And these are exactly those who do not understand that the riot and racket that thunders out into the country from the abused instruments, like the verbal garbage that swells from the mouths of the roaring, howling, yelling and screaming un-musicians, drives fellow men and the world of all forms of fauna life to madness. This is completely in contrast to good, harmonic and valuable music of any kind, which delights those people's senses and psyche, who are significantly more developed and sensitive beings and who have progressed further in their lives in intelligence and social terms than the unmusicians and unmusicians of any kind. The unmusicians are stupid and drive people into dullness through their disharmonic unmusic and make them submissive to foreign influences. ...

... The knowledge of the might of the music is very old and was already described early on in various writings, and so the good and harmonious might of the music had already influenced the antique advanced civilisations, brought their civilisations to a rise, however, also sealed again their decline and their extinction as well as their disappearance from the scene, when the might of the discords of the unmusical unmusic arose and brought wars as well as depravity of the human beings and destruction etc. It is also written in the Bible that in biblical times the Israelites are said to have brought down the walls of Jericho by the sound of trumpets, which, however, only corresponds to a religious fable, but proves that music has been ascribed power in various areas since time immemorial. Much older, however, are the writings of the Indian Vedas, which deal with the power and effect of music on human beings, as described by the philosophers and physicians of ancient Greece, and which have already used certain sounds, keys and music to combat psychological disorders. Also diverse old philosophers, like e.g. Confucius, have talked, taught and also said about the power of music and its manifold influence on people in general and on society in particular, why the various forms of good and harmonic music have had different effects on people's intelligence since time immemorial, promote it and refine and evolutionise the thoughts, feelings, psyche and consciousness, or that in the case of unmusic and missing as well as their sounding noise, buttering, howling and howling, everything degenerates to the contrary in a malicious and damaging way. Contrary to healing through good, harmonic music – as your father Sfath has already explained to me, which I still remember well – even educated people can be transformed into almost mindless stupid people through dull, disharmonic music. And this would be the case in the years to come when, from the 1970s and 1980s onwards, such unmusic would emerge and spread within a few years and as a result many people would become unworldly, socially poor and in a vicious form completely unrelated to all values relating to their fellow human beings and humanity as well as helpfulness, living together and life itself, which would even lead to the value of one's own life being disregarded and trampled underfoot. But your father also said at that time that the structure and norms of society would break apart as a result of the emerging unmusic, as well as that mammon and money would take absolutely uncontrollable forms with regard to people's greed and would cause an enormous amount of disaster in the form of bankruptcies, corporate collapses, wars, family destruction, terrorism and sectarianism, disputes, murders and innumerable other forms of degeneration. ...

... I want to say what Sfath has explained to me further, such as that certain unmusic in the brain and body as well as in the psyche and consciousness of humans causes serious damage to health, which also affects blood pressure and pulse and the heart, which can even cause a heart attack. The rhythm of the drums alone, your father explained, can damage or at least weaken the organism, not only in humans, but also in animals, all animals, birds, amphibians, reptiles, etc. Even a very specific rhythm of very extremely bad unmusic, which would be used frequently in the future from the 1970s and 1980s onwards, would cause special degenerating behaviour patterns and health damage in people. The whole thing of miserable unmusic demolishes the mental-emotional-psychological world of all those people who are manipulated and thus have a direct influence on society and change it in an abysmally negative way. And that more and more crime and crimes are emerging from everything, up to increased murder and suicide rates, increased sex crimes and family tragedies, acts of terrorism and war, etc., as Sfath said, that actually proves itself with everything that is happening today. But what I would like to say in relation to music: Music also settles informatively in the water, as the Japanese researcher Masaru Emoto proved, who played distilled water with different music in the order of Mozart's Symphony No. 40, Bach's Goldberg Variations as well as Japanese pop songs and heavy metal music, then let it freeze and then photographed the beautiful water crystals created by the musical vibrations. So water and music have a much closer relationship than people generally know. Also that low forms of life are musical, such as jellyfish, is usually not included in human general knowledge, nor is it the case that whales are singing creatures and do a lot for Earth with their singing that swings far through the oceans. There is a lot more to be said about how good, harmonious and therefore right musical sounds stimulate and stimulate plants and promote their growth, but how unpleasant, disharmonic music has a very negative effect on plants, amphibians, animals, animals, reptiles and birds and how they are also damaged physically and psychologically by general disharmony in their environment.

Ptaah:

36. You can say that, but on the other hand there were also genetically manipulated refugees from the Sirius regions among the immigrants from the Nokodemion descendants, as well as fallible resp. delinquents of the home planets, who preferred – instead of being sent into exile, which was applied in the most drastic and severe manner – to emigrate with such emigration powers and at liberty to teach early humans in the manufacture of various kinds of products, such as tools and hunting weapons, clothing and food containers, etc.

37. Primitive art, music and all kinds of knowledge were also taught to early man by these immigrants, as well as knowledge concerning the heavenly bodies, medicine concerning medicinal plants, etc., and the use of fire, etc.

...

Billy:

So the whole thing was not easy, but therefore the actual creators of all progressive inventions of the early humans were to be led back to the immigrants of the Nokodemion descendants peoples. And this was the only reason why the humanity of today, which emerged from the early humans, could develop so drastically fast and as far as is the case today, with regard to electronics, inventions, craftsmanship, art, medicine, music and technology, etc. and so on. In principle it would not have been possible without the direct immigrants from the Nokodemion peoples and without their distant descendants and all their teachings, as well as also without your apparatus-impulse hypnotic influence of the descendants of the extraterrestrial immigrants that earthly mankind could develop so rapidly and to a large extent up to the today's conditions.

140. From the end of the 1970s onwards, the drug problem will become more and more prevalent, as will the addiction to constant pleasure, which will be exacerbated by the emergence of destructive and disharmonious sounds, which will be mistaken for music, but which will badly affect the thoughts, feelings and psyche, and cause diseases to decay.

Sfath {1948}:

267. This will take place especially from the 1980s, when the new sounds of so-called music will fall completely out of kind and will no longer have anything to do with harmony and music, because at this time, a change to complete disharmony occurs in the consciousness of human beings, which will also impair and damage the nerves as well as the entire cognition.

268. In many human beings, these sounds will ruin the behavioural control system and call forth a negative transformation of information, which seriously damages the whole of the behaviour in all who succumb to these disharmonious sounds.

269. Everything will lead to the fact that many will be unable to cope with life and become aggressive, unconcerned and out of touch with reality, which will extend to abandoning any sense of self-esteem and self-worth, because the sense of life will be seen only in the disharmony of the sounds which work destructively on the consciousness.

270. In many respects, this then leads to hardship and misery, as well as to the fellow human beings no longer being respected and only being met with highly unworthy unconcernedness and not being given any assistance when they are in distress and need help.

271. To the contrary, everything will lead to the human beings – according to the disharmonic sounds – becoming disharmonious within themselves and, owing to the complete unsatisfaction in regard to themselves, becoming self-destructive and stunted in themselves.

272. And this will also affect their behaviour towards fellow human beings, with the relations with them breaking and their well-being being completely disregarded as a result of indifference

273. This will result in the emergence of a radical malignancy which will be based in thoughtlessness, recklessness, neglect, lack of concern, unheedfulness, carelessness, unconsiderateness, lovelessness, uncarefulness, imprudence, irresponsibility and inattentiveness through which, in increasing wantonness, many fellow human beings will also be harmed, brutally maltreated, hit, robbed and even beaten to death.

... According to neurological and psychological studies, the duration of the present is explained in such a way that the brain processes the present in units of about 2.7 seconds, whereby the everyday language term 'moment' represents exactly this fact. Furthermore, studies suggest that 3-second units are also important in poetry and music, for example when it comes to recognising rhyme and rhythm.

https://www.futureofmankind.co.uk/Billy_Meier/Contact_Report_704

{Billy:}

With regard to Wolfgang Amadeus Mozart and Felix Mendelssohn Bartholdy, their entire evolutionary or progressive work relates to the general and very important influences of music on human beings, whereby the musical stimulation, impact and the scope of the effectiveness of the influence of music on human beings in relation to their forms of morality, ethos, ethics and manners and thus, of course, on their behaviour, their lives, their shaping of life and their conduct of life are of immense importance.

What Spath taught with regard to the importance of music was that the might of sound or music and its effect on human beings affects their whole life and is therefore also of great importance for their general development and education. Music has a very special effect on human beings, for the might of its tones sends out an invisible, vibratory energy and great power, which – among other effects – makes human beings who are even somewhat balanced elated, happy, peaceful, joyful, psychically comfortable, but also melancholy, sad, thoughtful and inventive, etc., which they are also able to do. Music is able to make people feel happy, peaceful, cheerful, psychically comfortable, but also melancholic, sad, thoughtful and inventive, etc., which they also consciously perceive and which also influences their consciousness-thoughts-feelings-psyche world accordingly. Furthermore, music also creates harmonious connections with fellow human beings, with nature, its fauna and flora, just as a harmonious state with creation, universal consciousness or with the universe itself normally results. Human beings, however, who are averse to music and their own harmonious singing, feel very little, if anything, of all these harmonious values – which also promote personal inner peace and harmony. As a rule, such human beings are either pathologically disturbed and pitiable persons, or crassly selfish, misanthropic, petty, delusionally self-centred and self-important, indecent, self-important individuals who think big and are hostile to correctness.

If the origin of music is sought, then it is to be found in the creation of universal consciousness or in the universe itself, which emits an intrinsic sound event from the ground up, which is based on swinging waves that have existed fundamentally since the origin of the universe, emanate from it and can even be scientifically proven and measured in terms of sound, etc. These swinging waves emanate from the universe or from the universe itself. These basic tones arising from the universe or from the creation of universal consciousness itself are the actual origin of all forms that have arisen in the course of time in nature, which appear as tones and can be described as 'nature music'. Very early on, human beings began to imitate many of these tones and made primitive songs out of them, just as they gradually made musical instruments out of the most primitive means, first of all in order to produce some kind of rhythmic sounds, as in the form of clapping their hands, but also by tapping stones, bones and pieces of wood, etc., against each other. So it is no wonder or coincidence that music is an inseparable part of being human, like eating or sleeping. Music has existed since prehistoric times, ever since the universe, or rather creation, has had universal consciousness and emitted its own sound event. And it is also a fact that the Stone Age human ancestors made music with the help of the simplest instruments, as well as that music played an important role in every epoch of human history.

Already through the human ancestors, a beat or basic beat or basic pulse was created in relation to music, which was already the case with the primeval songs and the music of the still primitive first human beings and which led to continuous, uniform musical impulses, from which harmonious rhythms developed in the course of time. The more balanced the human being is in terms of consciousness-thought-feeling-psyche-mind-reason in relation to the constitution and positivity of morality, ethos, ethics and custom, the more harmonious the musical rhythm must be for him. This is because in human beings who are negative and unbalanced in terms of the constitution of morals, ethics, ethics and morality, disharmonious tones and sounds have detrimental, inhibiting effects, I have found that everything about morality, ethics, ethics and morality has a highly pejorative effect on the values of interpersonal relationships, general self-responsibility, external responsibility and behaviour. This, while everything that is good, positive and correct in life is rotting in the abyss of indifference and oblivion.

From the harmonious music – which unfortunately since about the 1980s has been polluted by an ever-increasing disharmonious ruckus, making human beings more and more indifferent, negative and unbalanced in terms of consciousness-feeling-psyche-mind-reason and with regard to a healthy constitution of morals, ethos, ethics and morality – also result, in principle, the creative-natural laws and commandments. These connect the human being with the universe itself – which is, after all, the actual creative power and precisely the creation of universal consciousness and thus the creation of all fine- and coarse-matter things and of all life – in a particularly consciousness-thought-feeling-psychological way. Effectively harmonious music also promotes social cohesion and is able to charge the human consciousness and thus also the thought-feeling-psychic world with a valuable energy and power. Therefore, for every human being who is receptive to musical harmony, a life without music is simply unthinkable and detrimental to health, while on the other hand it is recognisable as a fact that those human beings who are addicted to disharmonic ruckus – which is confusedly and erroneously called music – are damaged in terms of consciousness-thought-feeling-psyche-reason and show tremendous deficiencies with regard to a healthy constitution of morals, ethos, ethics and morality.

... It is an undeniable fact that in the majority of human beings on Earth an urge, an impulse and a drive for violence, vengefulness, a desire for revenge and the desire to kill are smouldering deep underground, which can break out at any time when the opportunity presents itself, whereby even a small uncontrolled thought-emotional impulse can be reason enough for this. In the external sphere, it is other things that appear as triggers, such as alcohol, an order, drugs, jealousy, enmity, money, possessions, an unkind word, wealth, religious faith, other delusions of faith, music, hatred, envy, greed, sports enthusiasm, quarrels, bad moods and much more.

97. Even today, the death rune symbol is still popular as a false peace symbol, as well as a symbol in the music and fashion industry, although this symbol also causes great unrest there, especially since the mid-1980s, because since then the music, which until then had been mostly harmonious in many directions, has become completely disharmonious and even completely unmelodic, discordant, impure, dissonant, unclear and thus completely cacophonous up to the present day.

98. And this is the case – as you once said – with regard to the shouting, howling, howling and screeching of the so-called 'singers', as well as with regard to the instrumental clatter, droning, noise and deafening spectacle, if I may use your terminology once again.

Sfath {1947}:

21. The main new direction will be one of protest against the renewed agitation by the USA against the Soviet Union, which will be a lurking threat of war for the next 40 years.

22. This is because the USA, in accordance with its traditional desire for world domination, wants to stage a war to defeat the USSR and bring it under its rule.

23. However, this will be counteracted mainly by protest actions of the juveniles and young adults, from which a music protest will develop, which will be oriented towards completely new-harmonic popular music or light music of different styles and will be spread by mass media, such as Schlager, song, musical and folklore, etc.

24. And this musical protest will have a calming effect on the whole world population and prevent the warmongering of the state leaders of the USA from taking hold, as well as that those in power in the Soviet Union will not allow themselves to be seduced into the will and desire of the USA.

...

29. The admonishing protests and the harmonious protest music of the juveniles and young adults will lose their power after the beginning of the 1980s and will quickly give way to disharmonious noise that will sound badly together and beat the human beings into a bondage of disharmony without their being able to recognise and understand this.

...

82. Everything will degenerate especially if the harmonious protest music of the juveniles and early adults, as well as of the older people who musically emulate them, is displaced by disharmonious and destructive discordant noise and nonsensical sham singing, whereby the factor of the breath of emotional life will be mentally disastrously impaired and the behaviour of human beings will be directed accordingly.

Billy:

But the fact that Earth's humanity is also dominated by digital technology in an already catastrophic form and is in bondage is not noticed by its stupidity, just as it is not noticed that it is not yet capable enough or evolutionised enough in relation to the use of this technology. This is because through digitalism – which is not mastered because it arose far too early – the earthlings have long since ceased to learn anything, but only 'fumble around' on their apps etc. and consequently no longer make an effort to make something better of themselves. On the contrary, they are sinking into digitalism, which offers them disharmonious noise, which is called music, but also all kinds of other nonsense and dumbed-down sham entertainment, but especially also religious-sectarian aberrations that correspond neither to reality nor truth.

Bermunda:

23. Music and song of a harmonious manner mobilise the consciousness of the human being as well as the instinctual consciousness of mammals, animals and all living beings in general, which unfortunately is not known to the majority of Earth-humans.

24. Music and song of a harmonious manner – as you know, since you have been instructed in this respect – produce in the human being beneficial hormones which have an effect on a half-way good or effectively good as well as on the best developed character traits of the human being.

25. In a certain larger mass of Earth-humans, these character traits are usually to be measured with a half-way value, which means that these human beings are capable of and accessible to a thought-feeling-psyche mood of peace, harmony, joy and love, consequently they lead their thoughts, feelings and psyche in a certain balance.

26. This is because the consciousness of these human beings processes the harmonious sounds of music and song in a predominantly, well-structured and equally calming way, as it also does unconsciously with the noises, sounds and all the voices of nature.

27. If, however, something disturbing breaks into this mood, it dissolves very quickly and lets the only half-baked good character traits surge up and break through everything negative.

...

Billy:

...

What you have said shows that in human beings – which I must now repeat – who have effectively worked out and developed good or best developed character traits in themselves, harmonious music and singing produce good hormones.

This produces in them movements of thought, feeling and psychology which lead to a certain equilibrium.

These human beings, as you explain, as a rule exhibit a half-way value of character, which – if I understand and interpret it correctly – corresponds to a halfway good value of character, which in my opinion is inherent in a large part, even the majority, of human beings, regardless of whether the human beings fall prey to a completely erroneous and confused belief in God, or whether they are devoted to the clear mind, sound reason and constructive intellect.

... The reason for this – that no conscious and lasting control can be exercised over the half-value of the very deficient character traits, but immediately freaks out and violence, hatred, revenge and all evil degenerations occur when something arises that does not fit into the personal thought-feeling-psyche pattern – is that there is only a half-value of good character traits and no control over them.

If the human being rejoices in music and song and all kinds of harmonious things and allows emotions such as love, peace and equilibrium etc. to arise in him, but does not have the strength to retain and control everything when some mood-disturbing repugnance or aggressiveness arises, then inevitably the other and still negative, evil half-way-value character side breaks through and creates evil outbursts, quarrels, hatred, revenge and violence etc., because the good parts of the character are only half-heartedly and, as you say, Bermunda, only half-way developed, consequently they can be dominated by the other still unprocessed and evil parts of the character and be overpowered, ignored, abused or simply ended, as is also the case with the half-way values of the character traits.

It is inherent in all these human beings that they are accessible to a thought-feeling-psyche mood of peace, love, joy and harmony and are also able to feel these values, to express the whole and to live it, also in daily life and in dealing with fellow human beings, nature and their life-forms.

And this results because the consciousness of these human beings absorbs the harmonious sounds of music and song in a predominantly, well-structured and equally calming way, and through their swinging waves of their thoughts and feelings they raise them to a state of psychological well-being.

And they do this as long as they also do it in an unconscious manner with the noises, sounds and all the voices of nature.

In human beings, their half-way-value character is good and right so far, but only until something disturbing breaks into the harmonious mood, for if there is even a slight disturbance or hindrance to the whole of love, peace, joy, harmony, open-mindedness and equilibrium, etc., then the half-way-value character fades away very quickly, crashes and makes the very hard-won and only half-way-value good character traits surge up angrily or wrathfully.

...

Bermunda:

42. So you have also explained what I still wanted to explain, that music and singing of a disharmonious manner, discordant tones, discordant sounds, discordant singing and generally discrepant tones, sounds and noises cause chaotic states in the consciousness as well as in the thoughts, feelings and in the psyche of human beings, which have an uncontrollable and fanatical effect on the whole discrepancy and produce an inner disharmony.

43. The whole thing has a damaging effect on the poorly developed character traits of human beings, whereby discord, unkindness, hatred, retaliation and vengefulness, as well as lack of compassion, hostility and dissatisfaction, and loss of harmony, etc., emerge as inevitable consequences.

44. The whole of disharmony and its negative effects does not only apply to human beings, for the whole discrepancy of disharmonious manner of discords, discords and discords, such as all-round discrepant tones, sounds and noises, etc., also have a general effect on animals, creatures and all living beings.

45. And when these are directly affected by such dissonant noise and ruckus, they consequently fall into forms of misbehaviour and evil aggression, even become viciously degenerate, as is the case with those human beings who have made insufficient progress in their evolution of path values, like the majority of Earth's human beings, as you have explained.

47. When music and song are more profoundly defined, they present a great challenge to the consciousness, for the harmonious sequences of notes not only build up harmonious effects of a loving, free, peaceful, balancing and righteous form, but they can also produce a training effect for memory.

48. But, as you have explained very well, any harmony created in this way by music and song leads in human beings – if they are afflicted with only a half-way evaluation of their character traits and behaviour – very quickly to fanaticism on the one hand, and to malignant effects on the other.

49. And this results immediately when any real or apparent negative outside influences uncontrollably quickly disturb the harmony that has been brought about, and consequently everything that has arisen in harmony suddenly collapses, whereby degeneracy, malignity and violence break loose and mischief is wrought.

50. The fact that music and song have a soothing, morale-building and creative effect in a melodic-harmonic manner is due, among other things, to the fact that a great deal of information for building up ethics and morals is simultaneously presented from the entire abundance of harmony.

51. Ethical prerequisites for the evaluative human thought-feeling-psyche-structure as well as for relevant decisions and actions emerge.

52. Consequently, this also promotes methodical reflection with regard to morality, which results in specifically moral thinking, morally correct feelings, decisions and actions at the Centre of ethics, especially with regard to its justifiability and reflection.

53. Consciousness must recognise the different melodies and pitches and parallelise them with each other, but at the same time it must also grasp the temporal sequence of the tones, from which rhythms and the bars also result, but at the same time the emerging tones must also be broken down into chords.

54. The source of the sound and its type is also important, as is its position, because when music or singing is heard as a direct performance, attentive and interested listeners should know if and where a particular musical instrument is being played and where it is located in the room.

55. All this, when really listening to harmonic music, is equally important for the consciousness, so that it can judge the whole abundance of harmony, tones and sounds by measurement and comparison, and ascertain them in their harmonic value.

56. This corresponds to a task of the consciousness which must first be done – especially in the case of persons who make music themselves – in order to orient the understanding of harmony towards it, although it must also be understood that certain parts of the brain are occupied in the process, because various of these tasks require the right hemisphere of the brain for processing on the one hand, while others, however, can only be processed by the left hemisphere.

57. However, this often results in the opposite for persons who are very strictly involved with music, which is

...

Billy:

Excuse me, what do you mean by "persons who are very strictly involved with music"? Do you mean professional musicians, such as we have on Earth, who earn their living with music?

If so, then the question: do you also have such musicians?

Bermunda:

58. You probably call these persons like this. –

59. Yes, that is the meaning of my statement.

60. And yes, we also cultivate music in this manner and conduct studies of musical doctrine.

61. And that I can explain everything to you for your understanding, I am able to do that because through my musical education I am just as well versed in the basics and forms of music as well as in the theory of composition, and also in the measures and time and notation through my studies, as also in the naming of tones, rhythm, the keys and tone levels etc.

65. In persons – which I mentioned earlier – who are very strictly involved with music, the left and right hemispheres of the brain often work in the opposite way to persons who are not very involved with music themselves or who are only listeners.

...

80. However, as far as the working forms and working methods of the left and right parts of the brain are concerned, I do not want to consider any particular elaboration in this respect, but only to return to the subject I have begun, namely music.

81. If I may say so, musicians' brains differ from the brains of non-musical human beings.

82. In persons with musical brains, their areas are strongly developed in terms of analysis and lead to special connections between the hands and hearing.

83. In musician brains, the areas that link the activities of the hands with those of hearing and analysing are particularly strongly developed.

84. On the one hand, this results in various activities when playing music, which create permanent changes when listening to music. Music also creates new connections between the nerve cells, which are stored and maintained in the musician's brain as a whole.

85. For a musician's brain, music is a great challenge, despite its ability to store music harmonies, but it does have an effect on music and harmony memory, in a constantly training manner, so that it continues to develop and does not fade away.

86. This comes about because music in its abundance is made up of pure musical information, which the musical brain recognises as pitches and melodies and compares and orders them.

87. In addition, the music brain is also able to classify emerging tones and chords at the same time, whereby the position and the type and location of the sound source in the musical space is also determined through an abundance of measurements and comparisons.

88. The temporal sequence of the tones is also recorded and likewise classified, whereby the bars and rhythms are also logically structured.

89. The musical brain naturally has first and foremost the important task of dividing the left and right hemispheres of the brain, although passionate musicians often have this division explicitly the other way round than non-musicians, just as musical brains also differ in other ways from the brains of musical human beings.

90. Music-making and music-listening activities change the brain, and in a manner that is permanently permanent.

91. As a result, it is perfectly natural that any new circuitry created by music in the brain, and likewise by the nerve cells, will remain with the human beings for life.

92. Furthermore, harmonious music changes the heartbeat, blood pressure, breathing rate and muscle tension of human beings in a positive manner, as well as influencing the hormonal balance and the sounds also have a positive effect on the adrenal glands and pituitary gland.

93. Depending on the type of harmonic music, different hormones are also released, such as adrenaline in the case of fast and aggressive music, while norepinephrine is released in the case of soft and calm sounds, which, for example, leads to a reduction in stress hormones, which also leads to a strong increase in betaendorphins in the body, which have a pain-controlling effect.

94. Classical and other harmonic forms of music can therefore effectively alleviate pain, which means that every good harmony can also be used in music-medicine therapy.

95. And this is especially true with regard to effective pain treatments, as well as successfully with regard to psychological and psychic problems, as well as with regard to any harmonious relationship between human beings, as you know and as you always strive for, as I know.

96. For the melodically minded human being, harmonious music or making music oneself is very restful, peace-promoting, morale-balancing, calming and love-promoting, as well as rehabilitating with regard to geriatric or geriatric medical problems concerning physical as well as social and consciousness-related aspects and the care of acute and chronic illnesses, especially in the early rehabilitation and prevention of old persons.

...

Billy:

...

If I understand correctly, your explanation means, in other words, that you mean a special music-medicine discipline for older human beings.

And if I also understand your further explanation correctly, then the whole thing is directed from harmonic music effects to physical, social and consciousness aspects, and in such a way that everything is directed as precaution and care for early rehabilitation and prevention in relation to acute and chronic given or possibly emerging illnesses – precisely directed to human beings standing at a higher age.

Bermunda:

98. Yes, that is correct, and it is amazing how precise and better you explain it than I did – but I am not surprised.

99. What remains to be explained, however, is the following:

100. Harmonious music acts on the consciousness of human beings like a fountain of youth, namely as well-formed and healthy swinging waves, which have a love-effect as well as a peace-promoting, balancing and exhilarating effect on the consciousness and the bioresonance, whereby new nerve circuits are formed.

101. This, then, in a positive manner, whereas poorly formed, disharmonious sounds correspond to a changeable, inconsistent mixture of banging waves, which, as lovelessness, peacefulness and balancing disturbance, burden and demolish the psyche deeply underground, which, however, is not perceived by the human beings.

102. This is because, as a result of their pathologically consciousness-conditioned and psychologically limited as well as very deformed, selfish, barren and extremely excessively abnormal disharmony perception, they are unable to grasp any effective harmony as such.

103. Human beings addicted to any form of disharmonic perception lack the faculty of sensual perception of effective harmony in every respect, that is, not only in relation to music, but in general in every respect.

104. Consequently, they are accompanied in their existence by noises of disharmony, which they pathologically imagine to be harmony, thereby falling into pathological-false enthusiasm, illusory joy and rapture, without being able to consciously grasp, identify, Without being able to consciously grasp, identify, understand and perceive that they are not enjoying effective musical harmony, but rather are enjoying a self-deceived illusory joy and illusory enthusiasm for disharmonious sounds that damage the psyche and the consciousness.

105. According to our research, since the mid-1970s, but especially since the mid-1980s, such blatant 'musical' disharmonies have arisen on Earth, to which mostly young and middle-aged human beings have become addicted and have been able to maintain and spread until today.

106. And as our research proves, this will also continue for a long time into the future, as a result of which these harmful and morale-destroying noises will increasingly and dangerously spread to the majority of earthly humanity.

107. This, however, has for some time been leading to discontent in various strata of the population, as well as to discord and anarchy, which is already unmistakably spreading and having just as destructive an effect on the ethics and morals of human beings as the false 'peace symbol', the death rune, as you have been trying to make this fact known for years ...

108. I wanted to say something in a similar sense, but also that the completely disharmonic noise pollution releases low-frequency sound immissions, especially through infrasound resp. frequencies that are below the human hearing limit.

109. These frequencies put a total strain on the human brain and thus inevitably also damage the consciousness, as a result of which Intelligendum, understanding and reason are impaired and hindered in their function.

Billy:

Yes, indeed, Sfath has already explained this to me in detail and taught me that the human being is exposed to low-frequency sound immissions every day, whereby many factors play devastating roles and burden the human being.

The most evil forms in this respect result from consciousness burdens that arise from religious and sectarian faith of human beings, namely on the one hand through a conscious or unconscious perception, seeing, looking at, hearing, feeling or sensing of any religious things, signs, pieces of jewellery, books, buildings or noises – such as the sound of church bells, music, prayers, speeches and sermons etc. etc.

All these factors, and many others in addition, lead in human beings to the unconscious switching off of intellect, understanding and reason, and thus also of the clear thinking faculty, which leads to the building up and breaking through of a faith, which also brings the controlling faculty to a standstill and replaces it with many kinds of uncontrollable emotions of negative, malignant as well as positive, benign forms.

This results in thought-feeling-psyche excitations which uncontrollably expand from overflow of love, affection, harmony, attachment and peace etc., but to strife, discord, strife, disharmony, hatred, violence, slander, war, terror and murder and otherwise to all that is evil, base and degenerate.

Bermunda:

...

113. It is also to be noted that in all earthly technology of any kind there are as yet no instruments and apparatuses etc. – which will remain so for a long time to come – with which these low-frequency sounds, which work underground in human consciousness and cause many kinds of discomfort, could be perceived and registered.

114. As a rule, the profound noises are also accompanied by further low-frequency secondary sound vibrations, imperceptible to the human senses, from the most diverse noises, which are capable of exerting harmful effects on the consciousness of human beings, which they are unable to control as a result of their ignorance and inability to perceive as well as their lack of self-control, as a result of which they behave to the point of degeneracy.

Billy:

Exactly, and these degenerations correspond to bad behaviour and unsightly conduct, bad and evil habits, malice, insults, falsehoods, as well as lying, deceit and slander.

In addition to all these excesses, however, there are also immoralities, further unpleasant misbehaviour and impertinences as lasting consequences, such as hatred, quarrelsomeness, disgracefulness, weaknesses, violence, malignant character excesses of various kinds, as well as vice, insolence, mischief, vices and immoralities.

Also to be mentioned are naughtiness, shameful naughtiness, boorishness, aggressiveness, religious-sectarian delusion of God, delusion of God and its degenerations, political delusion, addiction to power, dictatorship, despotism, criminality and crime, ultimately also murder and manslaughter, torture, rape, paedophilia, slavery, prostitution, genocide, hatred of nations, persecution of faith, war and terror, etc.

Bermunda:

115. The noise pollution resulting from low-frequency sound emissions, especially infrasound, is increasingly causing the majority of Earth-humans – as we have established through our long-term and very extensive research in this regard – widespread damage in relation to all conceivably possible wrong behaviour, in which human beings are increasingly falling into many kinds of degrading degenerations, as a result of which their anarchistic unworthiness is also increasing, as are constantly new nonsensical, arbitrary, thoughtless and stupid state laws, regulations and ordinances, which are being devised and enacted in particular by power-obsessed and, moreover, faith-religiously biased people in positions of state leadership, and which are being devised and enacted for the restriction of freedom, strict control and chastisement of the populations.

...

Billy:

...

So we should stick to our topic and perhaps explain for those human beings who do not know what infrasound is all about, that it is a matter of airborne sound waves which are to be placed below the human hearing range and therefore cannot be perceived by the ears, but which unconsciously affect the human being positively or negatively through the consciousness and consequently also unconsciously, subconsciously and in various forms, ways and manner.

And these influences are not controlled by the human being, as a result of which he also does nothing against them if they subconsciously deform his character and he is thereby also impaired with regard to his intellect, his understanding and his reason as well as with regard to his behaviour and his perception of effective reality and its truth.

This is also one of the various reasons why he becomes a believer who is alienated from the world or even alienated from reality – as a rule, then, in particular, religious-sectarian as a believer in delusions of God.

Bermunda:

...

121. But now I should comment on what you said concerning the disharmonic noises that are called music and singing and are frenetically cheered by many devotees, although there is no question of harmonious tones and sounds and real singing, but only of terrible disharmony and

...

Billy:

Which runs through one's marrow and leg and corresponds to nothing other than a demoralising yowling, howling and roaring, rustling, banging, crashing, hissing, crackling, howling, splashing, crunching, wheeling, clamouring, sonic chaos, tumult, hellish noise, shrieking, screaming and spectacle as well as everything that nips any joy, peace, balance and harmony in the bud.

The whole of this catastrophic disharmonic noise, which is falsely called modern music, as well as the disharmonic yowling, which is considered modern singing and which mainly inspires and freaks out countless adolescents and middle-aged people, all this, in my estimation, shows how demolished in terms of consciousness and psychology these human beings are.

All the discordant noise, which they believe to be music and song in their noise delusion, causes them to atrophy in their character – also in connection with their God delusion – as well as in their dignity, honour, ethics and morals.

Consequently, at every suitable and unsuitable opportunity, they suddenly snap viciously, become abusive, abusive, mean and violent, whereby revenge, retribution, strife and hatred break loose in them, just as suddenly, at every suitable and unsuitable opportunity, lie, deceit and slander break loose from them, whereby unhesitatingly, murder and manslaughter as well as war and terror are also part of their whole metier.

Bermunda:

...

123. But these human beings – who indulge in all the above-mentioned degenerate noises, which they falsely believe to be music and song, indulge in them and falsely estimate all their disharmonies as harmony, as well as degenerate in the manner, as you have just explained – are addicted to serious psychological disorders.

124. From this also arise in them serious disturbances of character formation, which ultimately take the form of degenerating and violent character traits, which cannot be controlled and consequently lead to evil mischief.

125. In the final analysis, these and those disturbances in the life processes in organs or in the whole body organism result in the course of time, with the consequences of subjectively felt and/or objectively ascertainable physical changes or changes affecting the consciousness and thus also the thoughts, feelings and the psyche, from which not only a life behaviour alien to reality can result, but ultimately also suicide.

126. What is still to be explained in relation to all that I have been talking about with regard to music is that harmonic tones and sounds etc. are effective forms of harmonics. are effective forms of harmony, in contrast to all disharmonic noises – such as those which you very aptly formulate as howls, howls and shrieks and which, against all reality, are claimed to be singing -, as that which has been called 'modern' music on Earth for some time now, which in reality does not correspond to music, but only to an instrumental disharmonic ruckus and wheeling spectacle, as well as a discordant female and male shrieking, wailing, wailing, wailing and clamouring.

130. Contrary to today's terrible modern unmusical disharmony riot, what is called instrumental music on Earth, as well as the wailing and shrieking arias, which is supposed to be singing, it is to be said that neither the one nor the other corresponds to any harmony.

131. A harmony, on the other hand, corresponds to an order of sounding together of several harmonically structured tones – in the case of a tone it is a matter of uniform and unified oscillations, in the case of a sound, on the other hand, several tones sound simultaneously, which overlap – which can be perceived as a vertical resp. temporal component of balance and equilibrium and precisely as music, in contrast to the horizontal resp. temporal components of melody and rhythm, which are perceived as recognisably swinging and perceptible in terms of vibrations.

132. The actual teaching of harmony, however, is to be defined as the systematic comprehension of a chordal structure in relation to a tonal sound space, whereby methodical instructions in tonal composition require a unifying and, as far as possible, error-free handling of the sound combinations in the sense of the traditional specification of music within the corresponding tonal epoch.

133. In addition to all this, the actual subject of harmony is that, in addition to the structure of the chords, the sound connections in particular are formed into musically logical sequences.

134. When considering the harmony of a piece of music, the whole of the leading triads of a scale must be considered and defined, as well as the main and secondary triads and the cadence.

135. Only then is it possible to recognise which chords belong to the corresponding piece of music.

136. If musical harmony is observed and analysed in human beings in everyday life, then a positive effect can be recognised in them when they react to harmony, whereby the harmony of music creates a harmonious relationship in them through individual chords to each other.

137. The superordinate term 'harmonics' stands for the harmony of tones, for the so-called vertical component of music.

138. The chords consist of major triads as main triads, whereby the 2nd, 3rd and 6th degree are composed of root, minor third and fifth and thus correspond to minor triads resp. secondary triads, such as ...

Billy:

Excuse me, Bermunda, I do not think it is necessary to explain all this, because it would be going too far, and what you have explained so far should be enough.

Besides, I know this much, that music and harmony actually also have a fundamental pedagogical significance, even though many other things, subjects and values in daily life are given priority in the curricula, because human beings consider them more important than consciously integrating music and harmony into daily existence.

...

And the fact is that music and harmony have helped me a lot in my life and it was only thanks to them that I survived a nasty mental breakdown in my marriage when all the terror had gone over my head, with Semjase saving me from the worst at the last moment.

At the same time, I practised singing, as I have always done in my life, and also let my musical vein be heard on the radio once in Baghdad, but it was actually in my life that my social skills increased to such an extent that I was able to create a calm, aggression-free climate within myself.

This has made me free and open, without fault or quarrel with everything and everyone and with human beings, my work, nature and its fauna and flora, so that I have learned to deal with all situations that arise in such a way that I do not have to blame myself and can also perceive my fellow human beings, all life around me and in the great outdoors, etc., with alert attention, as it effectively is.

This also enables me to constantly train my motivation and concentration in relation to my work, as well as my ageing memory, which is not as sharp as it used to be.

But I would like to say that music and harmony are still an immediately rewarding experience for me when everything sounds correct and is also beautiful – if you can call music and 'harmony' beautiful.

I still remember that Sfath said that real music and harmony prevent the degradation of nerve cells in the brain as human beings grow older and even form them more strongly, whereas, on the contrary, disharmonious instrumental noise as well as human howling and howling etc. would already cause a degradation of nerve cells in the brain in current life and cause damage to consciousness and even lead to addictive behaviour.

Bermunda:

139. I can confirm that, because all parts of the brain that are aligned in relation to hearing and forming sounds are explicitly stimulated by true harmonics of music and singing and are thereby also moved and trained as well as actively maintained, whereby especially the harmonic acoustic subtleties powerfully influence and stimulate the memory, whereby in this respect especially harmonic singing is of enormous effectiveness.

https://www.futureofmankind.co.uk/Billy_Meier/Contact_Report_836

Billy:

Therefore he/she {“the earthling, the human being”} also does not know that actually the all-embracing being depends on swinging waves, as also on sounds resulting from them. The sun, as the authoritative celestial body of the system, orders the distance of planets away from it in its system area by means of swinging waves and sounds. ...

...

But unfortunately it is so that today everything is forgotten concerning the swinging waves and sounds, only in Asia the whole thing is still cultivated to some extent, unfortunately religiously in the form of OM and mandalas, etc. The actual value, however, is no longer known. The actual value, however, is no longer known, consequently the whole thing has probably spread worldwide, but the knowledge of the value of the sounds has been lost. The fact that everything is actually nothing other than what I call cosmic music, which also corresponds to human beings and influences and shapes them in terms of their attitudes, behaviour and character, is perhaps known to only a few of the scientists who deal with it accordingly. However, 2600 years ago Pythagoras again recognised the value of sounds, but not in the sense of what is actually behind them, but today some clever scientists may be thinking about it. The swinging waves and sounds of music are much more for human beings than just entertainment, etc., because they can also be used, for example, for certain work purposes of which human beings may have assumptions but no knowledge. But the swinging waves and sounds of music also determine the equalisedness, balance, unbalancedness, life positivity and evenness as well as life affirmation, etc. of the human being, as on the other hand, however, also his/her character and manner of acting with regard to all the unvalues of life, depending on the harmony or disharmony of the sounds. With regard to the favourable or unfavourable swinging waves and sounds resp. the harmony or disharmony of the music, which the human being perceives as good or bad, the whole forms his/her manner of thinking and attitude and the course of their behaviour, activity and character, as well as their corresponding life. Consequently, the swinging waves and sounds of music also reveal who and what the human beings truly are.

considered – which was already practised in very ancient times through singing and the most primitive 'musical objects' etc. -, especially from the Middle Ages, which is to be calculated approximately from the 9th to the 14th century with Minstrel singing and Gregorian chant, then the Renaissance from the 15th to the 16th century, and from this then approximately 150 years later with the Renaissance. If you look at the period from the 15th century to the 16th century, then about 150 years of the Baroque period, followed by about 80 years of the Classical period, which was then followed by the period of the so-called Romantic period, which lasted about 70 years and was then replaced by the Modern period, which began around 1900, from which 'Modern Music', 'Schlager', 'Contemporary Music' etc. emerged, just as 'Contemporary Music' is commonplace all over the world today, then it all adds up to something very astonishing. Little by little, since the second half of the last century, 'types' of music have developed which are so bursting with disharmony and are cheered frenetically, intoxicated and fascinated by masses of listeners of both sexes, although this 'music' has nothing to do with harmony and real music. It is frightening to realise and perceive how the human beings who adhere to this disharmony – usually younger and young – live in their own emotional disharmony. How they are also in their behaviour, character traits, life interests, their humanity, in their lack of responsibility and education, and so on. And these human beings, despite their inexperience and stupidity, are to lead Earth's humanity into the future, possibly even as rulers. Already many crooked elements from the generations born before these fanatics of disharmonious swinging waves and sounds, the so-called modern 'music', and who are now in the governments, prove that they have become completely unfit in every respect. They are incapable of managing their own lives correctly, let alone leading the peoples and creating peace and freedom instead of war, misery and injustice. ...

Well, it took until the 20th century for the era of good music to dominate the senses of human beings. In total, however, there are about 1400 existing types of music, which are fundamentally different from each other, but from which the genre resp. the essence resp. the character can all be crystallised. Swinging waves and sounds resp. music – that is what I am talking about – with regard to human-made music, is actually a means that produces the most diverse emotional effects, ranging from elation to destruction and murder. All this has come about more and more in the course of time and development, mainly due to the strong and uncontrolled emergence of military armies and of religions, which should be abolished as soon as possible, because if these would finally disappear, then the first step would be taken towards finally striving for peace and freedom. The run-up to this did not begin with Christianity, for military hordes and religions already existed earlier, but with the advent of Christianity everything became much worse, which then turned into degenerations of all kinds. Then came also the continuation of the same through Islam, consequently the religious delusions and rites, etc. expressed themselves, still changing, into another religion.

(Note Billy: On 9th May 1964, I wrote the poem in 'Mir Javeh'/Persia: "For Nadja, whom I loved, I built a house by the river, but nature won and erased everything. The river swept away the shore, took all my possessions; love and dreams, they sank in the flood. By a deadly rain the stream became a grave; for Nadja's short life a wet coffin." When my book of poems '61 Years of Poems ...' was printed in 2003, the error 'quake' unfortunately crept into the poem instead of 'rain'.

I sent this poem to a man I met in Quetta/West Pakistan in Germany, and a song was made out of it without my knowledge [entitled] 'Manuela, Whom I Loved ...', which was then warbled by Freddy Quinn).

But that, he said, was not understood by the Earthlings at that time, which is why he said 'music'. ... All the planets in the vastness of the universe also had their own 'music', precisely frequency, he taught the people we were visiting. He also said that ... and ... would. Furthermore, I then saw, together with him of course, what mischief would ensue in the future anyway, if the Earthlings, of their own ingenuity of invention, were to stumble upon it and make it all. In the last 5 decades in particular, we have seen a bad foretaste of what will happen in the future. Sports fanaticism alone, in the form of mere spectatorship rather than self-motivation and frenetic cheering, is a nerve-wracking experience for the average person. Music, too, has fallen into the degeneracy of discordant tones and an instrumental ruckus that no longer has anything to do with harmonious sounds, but only with shattering noise, disharmonious noise, terror, war and enmity, etc., while harmonious singing has disappeared. This, while harmonious singing has disappeared, countered by such disharmonious and frenetically crazy roaring, howling and hooting that it could even freeze the waters of the seas if it were to react. Nevertheless, none of this is stopped, and it clearly proves and testifies to the fact that the 'musicians' and 'singing' resp. howling performers and listeners of both sexes are far removed from reality and all its actualities in terms of righteousness and balance and high character and true humanity and behaviour.

{Guido Moosbrugger:}

For us earth people, music of the Errans would sound very strange but, on the other hand, it would be so harmonious and enrapturing that we would not be able to withstand it very long. The yearning for this harmonious state would grow to overwhelming proportions within us. For this reason, Billy was not permitted to bring back any music from planet Erra when he stayed there once on a visit. He did explain to us that we have three musical pieces on earth that are somewhat similar in harmony to the Pleiadian music. These pieces are the Bolero by Maurice Ravel, the Valkyrie-ride from The Valkyrie (an opera by Richard Wagner), and the chorus of prisoners from the opera Nabucco by Giuseppe Verdi. Other than that, their composers use completely different instruments from ours.

76. The expression-factor of the spirit that exists in the Earth human being are his/her consciousness and his/her psyche which they erroneously designate as the soul.

77. Through them, all creational activity and workings become recognisable in the material realm of the human beings.

78. This was known at all times by the founders of religions and their subsequent representatives, which is why they have from time immemorial also endeavoured to address – in their cultish and delusional-leading activities, actions, utterances and deeds – the consciousness and the psyche of the Earth human being him/herself because solely through them can the Earth human being be influenced towards anxiety and horror.

79. A perfect means of help for this influencing was and is since time immemorial the utilisation of the music, one of the noblest works of colourful and formative art which is known to the Earth human being.

80. It uplifts both thoughts and speeches, sayings and instructional or delusional-leading words in an interaction in euphoric, depressing or even in high values.

81. In particular, however, the organ music, etc. brought to use by the Christian religion creates very edifying effects of the joy and the love which, however, in religious connection leads to malicious dependency, submissiveness as well as to fanaticism and euphoric delusional guidance.

It was mentioned that some higher flora-lives are driven by impulse-instinct spirit forms, while general/lower evolved or elementary plants are driven by cosmic-electromagnetic life-energy. If lower evolved plants such as vegetables and flowers are driven by cosmic-electromagnetic life-energy without spirit forms, is there any reason that some good music or good will can lead to fruitful results on vegetables and flowers?

{Billy:}

Higher flora-lives are those plants that are developing/evolving to animal forms. Everything can be influenced by music, towards good or bad effects (depending on the music); the best effect on plants by good classic music.

{Billy:}

No, it would not be out of line. However, the Plejaren won't deliver a new sound recording. Well, anyone with a healthy psyche can detect (for) himself whether or not a sound (music) is discordant.

There is a 14 year old boy living on the East Coast of the US named Jay Greenberg who is considered a musical prodigy. He started writing music notation when he was only 3 years old.

Since then he has written 5 symphonies. He has mentioned that he hears sometimes 2-3 pieces of music in his mind at the same time. He states he never needs to make corrections when composing his music because it seems to come to him as a finished piece.

Is he receiving these musical pieces/compositions from impulses from the Akashic Records or is it something else?

He must have been able to tap into a certain frequency in the storage banks (not Akashic Records!).

As a young child sometimes I had strange experiences. When i was lying calm in bed or when i was hearing beautiful music, sometimes something strange happened in my body. It felt like something started moving in my body in the region of my solar plexus up-and down and for a moment I felt like I was drunk. But that sensation usually lasted only for a short time, before a new sensation appeared. And this sensation was always incredible for me. It feels like my consciousness suddenly appears in every piece of my entire body. In this state I could feel very strongly every piece of my body and this was always very pleasant and deep sensation. That happened sometimes to me when I was a child. But now I am adult and have discovered that I can trigger this sensation when I am very calm and focus my attention in the region o my solar plexus . Can you help me to understand what am I doing? Is there something wrong with me?

No, there is nothing wrong with you. What you are experiencing is „harmony“, and what you felt in your solar plexus region is/was your psyche. It is beneficial to continue with your exercises. (Concentration is meditation.)

I would like to ask you about so called "gifts" or "talents". If a young child possess at a very young age extraordinary skills in music, art, science, math etc.then religious people claim that these are "holly spirit gifts" or "god gifts".On the other hand, our scientists claim that this is nothing more than genetic mixture inherited from intelligent parents. So i would like to ask you, if these "gifts" are really genetic based or is it perhaps a knowledge from previous lives? in other words ,if i learn very hard in my lifetime for example math, does it mean that this knowledge will somehow come back to me in my next incarnations?

{Billy:}

Several influences may be responsible for such skills: genetic reasons, but also impulses from the storage banks. Another influence can be a sickness, like e.g. autism, or even schizophrenia.

I would like to know what is more important to determine if some music has a positive or negative effect on a person, the music itself (sounds) or the lyrics (words)? For example we have Mozart's requiem mass, the music is good but the lyrics are just religious bullshit, and the same with Gregorian chants and many other kinds of music.

{Billy:}

What really matters is the overall impression, the harmony, the voices and the sound. The words are not as important.

FIGU Special Bulletin 38

{Billy:}

The human brain also has still other noteworthy important factors at its disposal besides the pineal gland, as, for example, the "early warning system", which is situated near the frontal lobes, in the "anterior cingulate cortex" region of the brain, named ACC for short.

It is this region of the brain which then becomes active when, for example, there is a difficult decision to make, as when, among other things, a decision must be made between two contradictory alternatives.

However, ACC also warns the human of threatening or emerging dangers which are only perceived with the sense of perception and consequently do not penetrate into the consciousness as a direct warning factor.

A further factor is that which relates to the awareness - by means of the sense of perception - of sounds which do not emerge as coarse-material effects and can also not be observed as coarse-matter, rather as infrasound, as is emitted, for example, by large animals or earthquakes, and so forth.

Infrasound is actually also the origin for some unexplainable "phantoms" which, for example, come about as a result of the wind whistling through holes, through rock crannies, through chimneys or cracks, and so forth, and producing extremely deep tones which cannot be registered by the human's hearing, however which vibrations effect the human's body and naturally also the pineal gland and release certain effects in a fine material form which are observed through the sense of perception.

Names (given name / first name)

Billy:

49. But we were talking about gods and demigods earlier, now it makes me wonder how the names are chosen for them, can you tell me anything about that?

50. Last weekend I was informed about something very interesting in connection with your name.

51. It became clear to me that your name corresponds exactly to your level of knowledge and therefore to your spiritual and consciousness-based evolution.

Semjase:

78. Throughout the universe, names for all life-forms are selected exactly according to the respective evolutionary state of the life form in question, whereby the human being on the Earth unconsciously does not adhere very much to this rule of order, and particularly, humans are given completely inappropriate names.

79. The name given to a human being must correspond to the state of his/her knowledge and ability and thus also to the corresponding level of evolution in fulfilment of the relevant rule of order, otherwise a disharmony arises in the material and consciousness-based area of life and causes confusion and wrong influences as well as lets the human being go astray in their development.

90. The kind of degenerations which appear when a person is given a false name is very easy for you to recognise with your friend Jacob.

91. You see, his actions and thoughts will be overburdened by dangerous things, which are not his own, but which were caused by the wrong naming in him.

92. But also the central star (influence of the galaxy central sun) and the planets play an important role for him, which these influences still promote when they approach him, which unfortunately is the case.

https://www.futureofmankind.co.uk/Billy_Meier/Contact_Report_125

{Note: This Contact Report contains a lengthy list of ancient first names known by the Plejaren. See also the FIGU book 12012 altherkömmliche Vornamen in ihrer Urform und deren Bedeutung [12012 traditional first names in their original form and their meaning].}

Semjase:

183. Listed in accordance with our alphabet letters, I selected 21 male and 21 female names for you, as these were common on Earth about 14,000 years ago and were brought at that time by our direct ancestors.

184. The names handed over to you come from two languages, the original Lyran and Vegan languages, but at the same time, different dialects were united by those living together on the Earth.

185. Unfortunately, due to all the cataclysms in the course of thousands of years, only very few of these names were preserved or preserved in similarity.

186. In the main, they only exist in old languages, which have already become historic languages on your planet and are only spoken very seldom.

187. In many cases, however, they have also fallen to rather bad changes and distortions in these languages, so they are often hardly recognisable therein.

188. Most values are still contained in the so-called Ancient Greek, but this language itself already represents a distortion, for truly, this concerns the latest Minoan.

189. Thus, that language which was spoken by the people of the Minoans and which, by these, was taught to the ancient Hellenes (Greeks), together with many things of their culture at that time, until the Santorini volcano exploded about 3,500 years ago and the Minoans had to flee to the mainland.

191. For my part, I would be very glad if through the given list of names, these old names, which are also still current with us, would find use again on Earth, for they are truly value-containing.

https://www.futureofmankind.co.uk/Billy_Meier/Contact_Report_159

Quetzal:

65. The names transmitted to you are exclusively those which have been in use among our peoples for ages and which are still commonly used among our peoples today in a modified form.

66. These names are first names, according to an earthly sense, and each one has a certain meaning.

67. The rule is that for a person who exercises some specific activity, this activity is then added as an explanation to the name.

68. For example: if someone had worn TRJJDON as a name and had pulled ships along the channels, then this human being was named "TRJJDON, who pulls the ships" or "Trjjdon, the ship-puller."

69. That's how the determinations of the names have arisen.

Billy:

There are, however, still quite certain emphases of letters.

Quetzal:

70. That is of correctness and very important, for only the emphasis of certain syllables results in the correct pronunciation of the name.

...

Billy:

I have also noticed that various names are still common on the Earth today, sometimes in well-preserved or partially preserved form.

Quetzal:

72. That corresponds to the actual occurrences.

73. Many of the names are still common on the Earth today, some in exact, some in modified forms.

74. Thus, on the one hand, the names were received in their entire value, whereby usually only the emphasis changed, but on the other hand, names were changed by newly-developed languages or simply by arbitrary willfulness.

75. When these names were introduced on the Earth, these were given in eight different languages, which were, nevertheless, all of Lyran origin.

76. From this, new languages developed on the Earth over the course of millennia, from which then, primarily, the oldest languages known on Earth arose, but these strongly flowed through from the original languages introduced.
77. The best-known languages that arose from it are Sumerian, Aramaic, Hebrew, Minoan, Celtic, etc.
78. From the Celtic, for example, there arose many other languages, from which, ultimately, today's German language, the Flemish, and also other languages arose.
79. From the Minoans, Ancient Greek arose and so on and so forth.
80. And in all these languages, of course, the anciently introduced names were common, which have been received or modified in the course of time.
81. What is still most commonly available today in names is found in those areas of languages that run in the Minoan direction and which have been incorporated into the later Ancient Greek, by which means they have been preserved to a large part up to this day, though often modified.
82. Then, to all this, there still came names that were invented by the Earth-humans themselves, whereby any objects, actions, and work areas, etc. were used for the formation of names.
83. But there were also names that came from the so-called original languages, which means that even then, names arose for human beings on the Earth when the human beings of the Earth first learned to speak.
84. As a rule, these were very simple terms, from which, in the course of time, additional terms arose, which then ultimately led to a language.
85. But this was only so in a few cases, because the main part of the introduction of language on the Earth happened when the first cosmonauts resided on this world, who mixed themselves with the earthly human life-forms, who still were not strong in their own language.
86. Nevertheless, this goes back a few million years.

... Then I have a question about Napoleon I. Here, read this note, which was published in 'Der Landbote' on the 2nd of June 2001. You once told me that Napoleon Bonaparte had been poisoned and taken to the afterlife. Here, please ...

Ptaah:

21. ... In addition I can only repeat that my data given to you correspond to the correctness.
22. Napoleon I was treacherously murdered with the poison arsenic over a longer period of time.
23. The poison was not administered in a single dose, but was added to his food and drink, making him more and more susceptible and sickly.
24. However, he still suffered from stomach cancer.
25. The dose of poison was administered so drastically on the day of his death that he died of it.
26. And because the poison had not yet been administered in life-threatening, small doses, it could also settle in his hair.
27. Even the theory of hair preservation is not tenable and ridiculous.
28. All the reports here that deny the arsenic murder do not correspond to the truth, because this is that Napoleon was actually poisoned with arsenic.
29. The fact that no arsenic residues were found during the autopsy is due to the fact that Napoleon was administered emetics shortly before his death, which washed out the poison.

https://www.futureofmankind.co.uk/Billy_Meier/Contact_Report_840

Billy:

This murderous organisation, which is called the world's 'protecting power', is supposed to protect its member states.

In reality, however, it is an international army of murderers, made up of military officers, adventurers and professional murderers from various countries. This NATO was founded by America in 1949, with the then US President Harry S. Truman as the originator of the idea. As Sfath found out at the time when he was present at the founding – without being noticed, of course – was that it was all for the purpose of gradually securing world domination for America. Truman's idea, according to Sfath's statement, was – as it had also been openly revealed at the founding, but then put down in writing in a completely different and falsified form, as well as the whole thing being concealed from the public and the world – that by founding NATO with this murderous organisation, in time America was to dominate the countries of the world under the guise of 'creating security' and 'war security assistance' in wars. The world domination, which had been aspired to for a long time, was to be realised in the course of time, whereby it was decided that the countries of the world should gradually be secretly harassed, but also as a result of manipulation by rulers who were and who continue to be of a mind to create enmity with neighbouring countries and between their own people, and thus to cause states of war, for which reason the murderous organisation NATO could then be called in to help or simply invade the country in a warlike 'security-creating' manner. For this reason, it was also decided to form and fraudulently expand NATO – which is really a world conquering organisation – in such a wise that countries foreign to America were to be – and were – included and become members. So this was pushed through and happened, as a result of which 30 countries have so far joined America's now world-conquering murderous organisation as NATO members, with all the various dumb-lowly intelligent rulers of the world still not having grasped what game is actually being played with regard to NATO. ...

NATO is – contrary to all claims to the contrary – under America's secret patronage and is also, in truth, nothing other than truly a worldwide, legitimised multi-genocidal organisation to which 30 countries currently belong, but which Finland and Sweden also want to join. ...

https://www.futureofmankind.co.uk/Billy_Meier/Contact_Report_852

Billy:

... In fact, an army, like NATO, is in and of itself a murderer's organisation, forcing to murder those human beings who by law must involuntarily join it, just as all those who voluntarily join the army or NATO, or who hire themselves out as mercenaries, are murderers. ...

https://www.futureofmankind.co.uk/Billy_Meier/Contact_Report_860

Quetzal:

This is unfortunately the case, and it is usually because the leaders of many countries and their supporters from the nations, in their stupidity, do not realise that America's leaders and shadow leaders, as well as the part of the population that supports everything, are riddled with criminal machinations. However, if America is closely examined and judged in terms of its leaders and their supporters from the people, then it can be seen without a doubt that America is a state of degenerated extremes, of injustice, of hegemony and of all crime. And this is beginning in the leadership of the state itself, as well as in that section of the people who are infested with the like of governance and shadow governance. Equally, this is true of NATO, which is truly helpless without America's leadership and is led by America's powerful.

Billy:

This is not to be denied, although unrealistic pseudo-thinkers do not see this and also deny it, such as this one, namely ... from Japan, who exalts the murderous organisation NATO to the heavens and is of the mistaken belief that it fights for the achievement of peace. In his belief in NATO, he does not see and does not recognise the truth, just as the rulers and parts of the populations of various states, such as Germany in particular and the other European states, which unfortunately also include Switzerland.

https://www.futureofmankind.co.uk/Billy_Meier/Contact_Report_861

Billy:

It is also to be said that practically all the countries of Earth have militaries ready to commit murder, armies ready to commit murder – as well as the organised murderous organisation NATO – which is supported by all conscienceless men and women ready to commit murder. Very many of the majority of humanity resp. the huge overpopulation do not know that this is an organised murder system, which was brought into being by the former US President Harry S Truman in order to be able to intervene in all countries of the Earth in order to be able to fulfil America's delusion of hegemony resp. world domination faster and more efficiently. In this respect, NATO is only a means to an end, because when it intervenes in a country, it establishes itself in the corresponding state and directs everything according to the American sense and system, dominating the state and making it America's satellite. And it must be said that the NATO army consists of human beings who are not and never will be able to cultivate genuine original thoughts, but can only indulge in illusory thoughts because they are religiously or worldly indoctrinated believers as well as incapable of thinking for themselves.

The whole thing is a pack of lies, one of the frauds perpetrated on Earth's humanity, which neither the indoctrinated US populace nor the pro-America people of the world are aware of – which is why all the lowly intelligent, the fake-thinkers, who cheer America and the murderous

Billy:

... This is actually also the purpose of the war, because at least those who think clearly on this matter, namely the human beings living in Ukraine, who recognise what NATO really is, namely nothing other than a murderous organisation focused on killing and destruction, mainly at America's mercy, do not want Ukraine to also belong to this murderous society. If everything is assessed correctly and seen clearly, then it will be recognised that all the individual members, from the least soldier to the absolute highest commander of this gang of murderers resp. murderous organisation, consist only of depraved elements whose mindset is without any doubt directed only towards murder and destruction. None of these humanly more than depraved, completely degenerate, murderous, miserable, dog-wretched elements is worth more than the last useless and useless iota of nothing.

Semjase:

29. Atlantis was destroyed by Mu scientists, as I explained to you recently.

30. This was 9,498 years ago B.C., as you yourself have just correctly noticed.

31. This was the first major catastrophe of the last 10,000 Earth years BC.

32. 84,283 years before another great catastrophe occurred, which was of cosmic origin.

33. Exactly 10,215 years ago a planetoid of enormous size raced towards the Earth from the world space and smashed down with tremendous force.

34. It divided the waters of the Atlantic exactly there, where 84,000 years before an asteroid fragment crashed and destroyed many things worldwide, but we do not know whether this smallest planet hastened from the wide space or whether it came from the asteroid belt.

35. After these events about 10,000 years ago it took only about 135 years, before the Earth was again afflicted by a catastrophe, bigger and more gigantic than the two before, but in today's eastern area of the Earth ball, which was flooded by enormous masses of water, when the giant comet 'Destroyer' passed the Earth in dangerous proximity, 10,080 years from now calculated back.

36. This led to worldwide catastrophes, which, however, for reasons beyond our understanding, were never recorded by the earthly chroniclers and only found their expression in writings much later, when another flood, again caused by the Destroyer, afflicted the Earth, namely 7,957 years ago.

37. For about 1,000 years the Earth was spared from major catastrophes, until the year 6906 [before 1976], when the Destroyer once again caused enormous devastation on the Earth and destroyed many things.

38. After that, the Earth ball became very quiet and it took until the year 3453 before another catastrophe broke out, which was again the fault of the giant comet Destroyer, which drove Venus into its present orbit and triggered the Santorini catastrophe with its massive pulling forces.

39. In and of itself many things and events were chronologically recorded by the Earth-humans, but unfortunately, not all of them and also not always logically and not correctly.

40. Many events of this kind were often written down centuries or even millennia later, falsified and unreal and often under the guise of a chronicle, which caused enormous disservice to the earthly archaeologists and inevitably caused them errors in their calculations.

https://www.futureofmankind.co.uk/Billy_Meier/Contact_Report_131

Billy:

... our weather disasters and natural disasters are not all as natural as they usually look. I know that they are mostly caused by the human beings themselves.

Semjase:

30. That is of correctness, even if the terrestrial scientists and other responsible persons and know-it-alls deny this fact.

31. The human being of the Earth is to blame for about 50% of all severe weather and natural disasters on the Earth at the present time.

Billy:

I know. In the main and in the first place, the atom bombs are to blame for this, then in second place is chemistry with all of its products, exhaust gases and wastes, then in third place are the aircraft and, therefore, the airlines and the armies, then automobiles and industries as well as the whole of humankind with all environmentally destructive evils.

Semjase:

32. So stands the sequence in the approximate, yes.

33. But as it also always is, the fact is today that through the fault of the whole of terrestrial humankind, much of the mainland will slowly but surely become a water-infested marsh and swamp, in which disease and death will reign.

Billy:

You mean because of the rain?

Semjase:

34. Not only because of this rain, no, but because the natural climate has been destroyed through the fault of the human beings of Earth, and the Earth has already been over-saturated with rain for decades, as will also happen, however, in the coming time in even worse measures.

Billy:

You mean that the Earth will drown in the water or in the rain?

Semjase:

35. So it will come approximately, through the fault of the human being of Earth themselves.

Billy:

And nothing can be done against it, I know, because the human beings of this world neither let themselves be taught, nor do they want to change.

Semjase:

36. That is right.

Billy:

So they now also bear, so to speak, a share of the blame for the fact that it rains so much that one might think that a new deluge would come.

Semjase:

37. That is also right.

Alexei Navalny

https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Alexei_Navalny

https://www.futureofmankind.co.uk/Billy_Meier/Contact_Report_749

Billy:

... I am currently thinking of Russia, where Russian citizens are probably being incited by the US secret services to demonstrate against Putin, to rant against him and to undermine him politically. Particularly bad people are being chosen for this, such as oppositional lunatics à la Nawalny, who has been making a stink against Putin for some time now and about whom you said that you had examined this guy very closely and found that he is a power-obsessed guy from whom nothing good could be expected if he were to come to power.

Ptaah:

16. We have indeed come to this conclusion through our detailed investigations.

17. But what this power-obsessed man will do in the future and what evil he can bring about, that will only become clear if he could in some way find like-minded people in the government who would be of the same mind as him, although we have not yet investigated anything in this respect.

18. What we have clearly explored, however, is that his deep-seated ambitions for power are characterised by violence and hatred and are geared towards eliminating, disposing of and rendering harmless adversaries without hesitation or conscience.

Billy:

So you mean that if he should come to power, he will then eliminate, dispose of and 'dispose of' all those whom he already hates today and whom he might also hate later if he succeeds in attaining the helm of power.

Ptaah:

19. That is the meaning of my words, for his really profound power-mindedness of his character is malicious, falsely deceitful and infamous, and so cunning, disgraceful and life-damaging to all persons who are not of his mind.

Billy:

But then that means that, like Stalin, he would have his opponents killed. However, we do not need to talk about that now, because I only came to this man in the heat of my speech. ...

https://www.futureofmankind.co.uk/Billy_Meier/Contact_Report_750

Billy:

... But look at this newspaper note: Alexei Anatolyevich Nawalny, who we talked about the other day, was apparently really poisoned. He is a Russian lawyer and opposition dissident and politician who calls himself a democrat. Since about 2009, he has been making a name for himself, but in my opinion not in a democratic way, but as a radical who is bent on Gewalt.

Ptaah:

104. I am aware of that and what you say is true because this man is devious, vicious and bent on Gewalt and pathologically bent on power, as I have noted.

105. If he were to come to power, then only the exercise of power could be expected of him, as is the case with all those obsessed with power in state leaderships, organisations, families, militaries, workplaces and everywhere else where they can act out their lust for power with the help of their simple-minded intelligence-impaired supporters.

...

Billy:

... But what I want to say, coming back to Nawalny, concerning this man, is that I have now seen his likeness in newspapers and on TV programmes enough times and have gained a very bad and even the impression that this man is completely conscienceless-vicious and capable of everything that lies with the devil and the Beelzebuben on the cart. His physiognomy expresses something very vicious and devious that gives rise to thoughts that, in order to find Putin guilty and finish him off, he might have arranged everything himself and miscalculated a bit. But this is effectively only a possibility, as is the possibility that he could have been driven to his private war against Putin by one of the US secret services and paid for it, while on the other hand there is also the possibility that he was actually heckled by some Russian people, such as Putin enemies, separatists or other crooked characters with 'some' Novichok. However, I dare to doubt that Putin is behind this for various reasons, as well as because his intelligentum is to be rated much higher than that of Nawalny, who seems to me to be a crazy snot boy who is obviously driven by stupidity, hatred, lust for publicity and power.

Most of those in power lust for power and misrule, while good people are demonised by violent oppositionists, like this very Nawalny, who attacks Putin and wants to push him out of office. Such earthlings want to take the helm themselves in order to create disorder in the country and to demolish everything good, which is obviously also what Nawalny intends to do, who wants to change and demolish everything that Putin has built up in Russia and also created order in the country. ...

https://www.futureofmankind.co.uk/Billy_Meier/Contact_Report_754

Billy:

... Then I have further a question concerning Putin, who does not defend himself in any way against the attacks of the vicious Nawalny. I also find it strange that this Navalny is not stopped with his hate speech in the West.

Ptaah:

251. For the entire West, as you say, the hate speeches he is making against Putin and the Russian government in general are extremely convenient, whereby especially the German incompetent Chancellor Merkel, her supporters, as well as the entire EU dictatorship, as you call this European disaster, as well as the United States of America, are under the delusion that they can profit from this and bring Putin as well as Russia under their dictatorship delusion.

252. For the entire Western states, Nawalny, as a self-proclaimed enemy of Putin and enemy of Russia's government, is a welcome object to profit from his hate speech.

253. The lust for power of Navalny, who hopes to fulfil his own greed for power in the West through his hate speeches against Putin and to move into Moscow as Russian head of state, is limitless.

Billy:

The fact that he disguises his true malignant character and pretends to be different from what he really is corresponds to what has been characteristic of all like-minded people since time immemorial who have managed to gain state power in order to then bring thousands and millions of disasters upon their peoples or the entire world. Unfortunately, however, it is as it has always been, namely that such power-hungry elements, such as this Nawalny, through their lies, slander and promises of lies, etc., find a lot of support from completely clueless, stupid and judgment-incompetent followers or supporters, and as I often say, stupid people, turncoats, yes-men and opportunists, who always align their opinions as a weather vane flutters according to the direction of the wind. There is nothing more to be said about this, except perhaps that the true malignant nature of this man Nawalny is openly written on his face, which, however, is not seen and not recognised by all those earthlings who do not strive for the ability to recognise character in physiognomy and consequently cannot recognise or read out character traits.

...

If, under certain circumstances, Nawalny were to actually come to government power in Russia, then mischief would be spread over time, as was the case with Stalin, Hitler and many other despots. When such elements actually come to power in government, they first play themselves to the peoples as good and people-oriented rulers, and then, when they have become comfortable in the saddle of government, they slowly turn into dictators and slowly bully the peoples and spread mischief.

Ptaah:

254. What you say is indeed so true, and as for Vladimir Putin, who is misjudged by all his enemies and his composure and calmness misinterpreted, will in the near future at least bring himself to demand proof that Nawalny was indeed poisoned with the nerve agent Novichok.

255. In fact, there is no evidence whatsoever that traces of Novichok were found on Nawalny, because, on the one hand, no Novichok residues were found on Nawalny during the first immediate and very thorough examinations after his hospitalisation in the Siberian city of Tomsk, when you asked us to determine whether something with Novichok had actually been involved there.

256. In fact, there was no evidence of any crime against Alexei Navalny, as we checked later when our interest was aroused.

257. We also looked in his bedroom, but we could not find any traces of the poison, nor on any dozens of objects belonging to him, foreigners or the hostel.

258. What we find extremely strange and suspicious is the fact that after his collapse, which also seems very strange to us, Nawalny was so quickly and easily flown out to the West to Germany and admitted to the Berlin University Hospital, where numerous tests and examinations were carried out on Nawalny, but the true results of which are being kept secret.

259. And these oddities continued to arise when suddenly Novichok was said to have been detected, which was not the case in precise examinations in Tomsk, but was then said to have been the case several times in Germany in renewed examinations, which, however, after our first clarifications in Tomsk, we no longer cared about in depth, but only superficially, until today.

260. What we do know, however, corresponds to extremely unpleasant inconsistencies which relate to background machinations which should not be mentioned openly, namely ...

261. Also the German government withholds various information and insists on secrecy about the affair of Alexei Nawalny, who is vehemently and viciously mired in deep hatred as a critic of Putin and the Kremlin, and who leaves no underhandedness out of consideration in order to make Putin impossible, and thereby gain state power himself.

262. However, the German leaders, above all Chancellor Merkel, are now keeping the results of the diagnosis of Alexei Nawalny secret.

263. And this also vis-à-vis Russia, although the Russian prosecution has requested legal assistance and the release of the results of the investigation in order to be able to conduct its own investigations.

264. But this is what the German state leadership wants to prevent, above all Chancellor Merkel.

Billy:

So what?

Ptaah:

265. We do not concern ourselves with it any further, because on the one hand it is a matter in which we are in no way interested, because according to our directives we are not allowed to interfere in such matters, and on the other hand we only sought some information at short notice because you asked us as a result of ... that.

https://www.futureofmankind.co.uk/Billy_Meier/Contact_Report_764

Billy:

But regardless of this fact, the Western states in particular claim other states, especially Russia, for their actions, etc., and interfere in things that do not concern them at all, thereby also creating enmity and bad blood, as is being done again, for example, with regard to the criminal Nawalny, who has returned to Moscow from Germany and is serving a month's sentence because he violated a conditional prison sentence.

And in this respect it will also come, as I know, that the West, especially those rulers of Germany and France, the EU dictatorship headquarters in Brussels, and the USA, who are foolish and impudent enough to also harass Putin with regard to the Nawalny demonstrations and to interfere in the Russian governmental, security and judicial decisions and above all to attack Putin, although Germany, France, the EU dictatorship and the USA are not involved in the matter, will nevertheless provoke an involvement as a result of their stupidity with their foolish actions.

And when I look at the man Nawalny and try to analyse him on the basis of his physiognomy and his statements, then a frightening character picture emerges that is devilishly similar to that of the ex-US president clumsy-tramp Trump.

His whole demeanour is practically the same as Trump's, and his facial expressions and also what is not visible to untrained outsiders reveal a profound malice and falseness, which he uses to incite – as clumsy-tramp Trump has done and still seeks to do – the masses of the stupid sections of the population attached to him against Putin.

As a result of his greed for power, he wants to overthrow Putin and take the helm in Russia himself.

And the incitement of his stupid followers is also done from prison, where he is in jail, but how he is able to do that I cannot understand, because usually prison inmates cannot simply influence certain parts of the population in this manner.

The fact is that, as a rule, it is always Western states that interfere in the interests of Eastern states and make demands on them, whereby Russia, in particular, has been the most popular and most denounced and attacked country for Western states since time immemorial, and has also been harassed with sanctions.

And it is precisely in this respect, with regard to the sanctions imposed on Russia by the USA, the EU dictatorship and Germany in particular, that I find Putin's actions good, namely that he does not react at all to these attacking ridicule, just as he does with regard to the lies of Nawalny that the giant palace in the south of the country belongs to Putin, but which is in fact the property of a Russian oligarch.

But, of course, it is as usual that the stupidly insolent followers of Navalny blindly believe his indoctrinating lies and do not question them.

Billy:

This in order to free the effective criminal, Nawalny, a man whom all the stupid people of the world adore and do not realise what kind of malicious, foul-playing and power-obsessed as well as devious nature this man actually is, just like in America clumsy-tramp Trump and certain former and also present despotic types.

https://www.futureofmankind.co.uk/Billy_Meier/Contact_Report_766

Ptaah:

94. This is because certain sections of the population as well as state leaders are addicted to a pathologically insane hostility towards Russia and for them the case of Nawalny is extremely convenient in order to insult and humiliate Russia in an unseemly manner, and on the surface especially Putin.

95. This, while the man Nawalny puts on a halo – as you sometimes like to say – and pretends to be harmless, as I can judge for myself, because I personally made an effort for this man when you asked me about this.

Billy:

Yes, I wanted to know what this man really is as a personality and also character-wise.

As I told you a long time ago, I assess this Nawalny as a wolf in sheep's clothing.

Far be it from me to condemn him as a human being, but I can probably point out his personality and character, which does not make for a good assessment.

His entire appearance, his physiognomy, his speech, his hand and arm movements, his entire posture and facial expressions, as well as his finger movements and gait, his eye movements and gaze, etc., reveal evil character flaws such as deceitfulness, greed for power, lack of conscience and malice, deviousness, violence and some other unpleasantness.

That is why I also followed the whole thing when he was already sentenced to 5 years in prison in 2013 with his criminal machinations of money embezzlement, after which this very well justified sentence was then suspended by an intervention of the European Court of Human Rights.

For his fraud and money laundering, which also fell into his criminal metier, he did not 'get the cash', although he was quite active in this regard, as I learned 3 weeks ago from a person of integrity who knows Nawalny personally.

As far as Russian politics are concerned, in which Germany is interfering with the case of Nawalny, whereby hatred is very much being stirred up and the whole thing can also cause mischief or at least great damage in several respects, that is not only stupid but idiotic, as is also the case with regard to the evil insulting attacks on Putin.

...

And as far as the man Nawalny is concerned, I am also not insulting him, because what I said in relation to him were only psychological facts and findings in relation to his analytically recognised and established personality and character traits.

Such clarifying facts never correspond to an insult, nor do they have anything to do with hatred or revenge, but they only openly describe the values and unvalues of the personality and character as well as the behaviour of a human being, without insulting or attacking him in any manner.

https://www.futureofmankind.co.uk/Billy_Meier/Contact_Report_768

Billy:

It's actually 3 questions, and the 1st one is about what you found out in Russia about this guy Nawalny, who you said you would personally look into, as well as that he was a serious criminal who would try by any means possible not to have to serve his just sentence and also to overthrow Putin and come to power.

Have you been able to look around for that in the meantime?

Ptaah:

239. Yes. –

240. I have been able to look into this matter and find that our assessment regarding this man was correct.

241. In his endeavours he not only displays a marked criminal energy, but also a pronounced malicious and deceitful tendency of a deceptive manner of behaviour towards the human beings surrounding him or widely prejudiced against him, which he uses by his artificial-deceptive manner in order to be able to win over for himself all those psychologically unsophisticated and thus incapable of judgement human beings.

242. Basically, this man Nawalny is betting his false game on the fact that all those incapable of thinking as well as of psychologically assessing his personality, his lies and deceitfulness and uneducated followers will not be able to recognise his true intentions as well as his ambitions with regard to his striving for power and his devious machinations and behaviour in order to achieve his goals, whereby he himself does not shy away from endangering his life and challenging the whole thing to the brink of death in order to achieve and realise his desire for power.

243. This will also prove to be the case in the near future when he – which is already his decision and which he will also enforce – will begin a long-term refusal of food intake in 3 weeks' time in order to incite the leaders of Europe and the USA against Putin and the Russian government.

244. Thanks to the stupidity of all the leaders of Europe and the USA, as well as many of the stupid ones of their populations, he will also succeed in this, so they will make demands for release and medical treatment for Nawalny in front of Putin and the Russian government, because their stupidity does not allow them to recognise the man's malicious and underhanded machinations, which he aims at with his criminal energy and his actions in the hope that one day he will be able to come to power.

245. So, on the one hand, because on the other hand, he cherishes the thought that by denying food, which he has already decided on – and precisely with the help of stupid politicians and population groups of foreign states, who will react to his malicious, dangerous and devious game and consequently attack Putin as well as the Russian government with accusations and demands – he can force his release and, as a strong man in opposition, he can penetrate the Russian state leadership and start and carry out his mischief game.

246. These, Eduard, are my findings that have emerged in the clarifications of all things with this man Nawalny.

https://www.futureofmankind.co.uk/Billy_Meier/Contact_Report_807

Bermunda:

4. First I want to address what you asked Ptaah to find out a long time ago, what actually is the truth regarding the poison attack on the Russian Nawalny.

5. We were able to find out only two days ago.

6. Consequently, it is to be said that the poison presentation came from within the man's own ranks, and that

Billy:

Aha, otherwise, in my opinion, he would have simply been shot if ...

Bermunda:

7. That is to be assumed, because that would have been more efficient and moreover ...

8. But this is not so important that we have to talk about it more ...

https://www.futureofmankind.co.uk/Billy_Meier/Contact_Report_878

Billy:

... As a result of their low intelligence and simple-mindedness, they are unable to think to the extent that their idiotic attitudes have not only started to create enmity on all sides, like the Russian Navalny, who does not realise in prison that he is surrounded by enemies and is no longer playing with his life as long as he has done so far and which is already not worth a damn and will soon come to an end. ...

https://www.futureofmankind.co.uk/Billy_Meier/Contact_Report_879

Ptaah:

... On the other hand, we were also able to find out what is really happening around Navalny, which is what you wanted to know. He is glorified by his supporters, but they do not know who and what this man really was, and I say was because he has now gone the last way of his life, through his own fault, because he created a lot of enmity for himself where he was interned with his unworthy manner of thinking and behaviour, which made him very unpopular with his fellow prisoners. This man was a notorious liar and deceiver, who shamefully deceived his followers in a fanatical lust for power and was and lived in such a self-centred way. The fact that he had, in truth, orientated himself towards falsehood, deceit, thievery and racism and lived accordingly, is to be described as distinctly criminal, as is also the fact that he used all his followers without hesitation to stand up for him and his quest for power. He was an unrivalled fraudulent psychopath who also suffered in prison because he was denied alcohol, to which he was addicted. In addition to this, however, he was addicted to various drugs that were obtained for him without authorisation. As he was facing many years in prison due to the very stressful conditions and the length of his sentence, he decided to escape from them by secretly hoarding the drugs until they were sufficient for a severe overdose and he ingested them, which of course inevitably led to his death, allowing him to escape his responsibility. His followers, who had been deceived and misled by him, are now using this to refuse to accept the truth and illegally hold the Russian government responsible for his death, falsely accusing it of murdering this man.

https://www.futureofmankind.co.uk/Billy_Meier/Contact_Report_880

Billy:

... In addition to those of the misguided rulers, there are other 'false fugitives' from the people who lead them by the fool's rope, make a stink and also only do the wrong and wrong things for the sake of their own greatness, as the Russian Navalny has been doing for years, who cowardly killed himself when he was sentenced to a long sentence and his supporters now want to hold the government liable for this and accuse it of having murdered Navalny. But in this regard, who, how and what this man really has been uncovered, as the following article points out, which coincides with what you Plejaren have explored, which you explained recently: {reproduction of an article from Weltwoche}

Ptaah:

Yes, that corresponds to what we have fathomed regarding this man Navalny.

Billy:

Exactly, but what the lowly intelligent hangers-on do not want to accept and make stink and accusations of murder against the government, especially Navalny's wife, who – as I noted myself – does not even mourn and apparently wants to play the 1st role in the Navalny movement. These are the observations I can make, but I stay out of the whole thing and have no opinion of my own, so I only state facts and remain neutral.

https://www.futureofmankind.co.uk/Billy_Meier/Contact_Report_069

Semjase:

9. The Earth-human is misguided if he/she wants to make the concerns of Easter Island an isolated concern.

10. The events of earlier times on this island are in direct connection with the country, which you still call Tiahuanaco today, as it was called already at earliest time, in spite of past repeated changes.
11. Easter Island and Tiahuanaco are more than 5,000 kilometres apart, and yet they are directly related to each other.
12. However, the history of the connection goes back to very early times and ended only 2,548 years ago, calculated back from today [1976 = 572 before Jmmanuel].
13. As I once explained to you, the last decisive settlement of the Earth by extraterrestrial intelligences took place about 13,500 Earth years ago.
14. As you know, several of the immigrant horde became renegades, including a man in the rank of a half-Ischwish called Viracocoha, who was already very old and extremely power-hungry.
15. His name is still handed down on the Earth today, but with a small change, because for a long time now he has only been called Viracocha and also as Jschwisch, although he was only in half the rank of such a person.
16. Under his patronage and his cruel leadership, the highlands of Tiahuanaco at an altitude of about 4,000 metres were conquered, as was the Delta Island, which you call Easter Island.
17. After this conquest Viracocoha settled with a special bodyguard of cherubim on the small island Mot, which is situated in front of Easter Island and which you call Motunui or similar to my knowledge today.
18. At that time it was called Mot because the cherubim were animal-human life forms, in this case they were all birdlike.
19. Mot means bird in our original language, so the island was called the Mot island, or also the island of the bird people, as it is still called today.
20. So Viracocoha or Viracocha resided there.
21. He and his followers, escaped Lyrans like many others, who came to the Earth, were of gigantic physique, by earthly measure about eleven meters tall.
22. They were the ones who taught the dwarfish, normal-growing inhabitants of Tiahuanaco and Easter Island – who were procreations between earthlings and previously immigrated intelligences from the vastness of the universe – in many things, providing them with their own highly developed technology and teaching them how to operate the devices and machines.
23. Thus they also taught the natives of Tiahuanaco and Easter Island the work of stonemasonry, and they let themselves be celebrated as gods.
24. With the help of the giants and their machines and other equipment, the natives worked many meters large head formations out of the lava stone, placed these, also with the help of machines, randomly around the island.
25. Similar events took place in the areas you call Pisco, Nazca and Sacsayhuaman, because the same giants had settled there.
26. Thus many statues and other structures were created, whereby also the shape of the spaceships on Easter Island were reproduced from rocks of the lava walls, which have survived to this day, namely oval-shaped stones, because the spaceships had this shape.
27. After several centuries, the exact time is also veiled to us, the giants were attacked by a sudden epidemic that was unknown to them and cost the lives of many of them.
28. Finding no cure for the epidemic, they fled Earth in their spaceships, set off into space and have since disappeared.
29. Despite the most eager investigations of our scientists, no trace of them has been found to this day.
30. There is therefore the possibility that, despite their flight from Earth, they were attacked and killed by the mysterious plague in their space ships, while their ships shot aimlessly through space, were attracted by some star and smashed to pieces.
31. Our probability calculations very much favour this.

https://www.futureofmankind.co.uk/Billy_Meier/Contact_Report_119

Billy:

Okay, and what does it really concern with the alleged air landing signs or airfields, etc.?

Semjase:

39. The productions represent an astrological calendar as well as an astrological garden.

40. At an earlier time, when these grounds were still operating and were used astrologically, the enormous signs were surrounded by gardens, out of which the astrological signs protruded like parkways, etc.

41. They were made by human beings of Earth, and indeed, without any influence from extraterrestrial intelligences.

https://www.futureofmankind.co.uk/Billy_Meier/Contact_Report_216

Billy:

Then once again, I have a question regarding the pre-Columbian Nazca Indian culture, i.e. the Nazca Indians, who resided in the valleys and areas of Nazca, Ica and Pisco and who made gigantic geoglyphs in the desert plain, which have remained up to this day. I asked about these once before, and I was told that these pictures concern astrology gardens. But in addition to this, I mean to this explanation, it was then later noted that the real purpose of this huge layout of geoglyphs didn't just serve for astrology. But then, unfortunately, no further explanation was given to this because I didn't continue to ask about it. I would like to do that now with this: What, now, is the actual purpose of these giant pictures?

Quetzal:

141. The Nazca geoglyphs, as you call them, at the time of the Nazca culture, formed a large ritual site in their entirety; therefore, one can speak of a ritual garden, of an astrology-ritual garden, or of a ritual area or rather a ritual landscape.

142. The rituals carried out there corresponded to faith-related, cultic actions and, thus, religious actions.

143. The types of rituals served several purposes, but fertility rituals were the most common forms that were carried out at these cult sites or ritual sites.

144. However, just like the Stonehenge structures - i.e. the megaliths, located to the north of Salisbury, Wiltshire in southern England - the Nazca layouts also served as general meeting places as well as judgment sites and sites of execution.

Billy:

So all of the various allegations are rubbish, such as the ones that the geoglyphs would mark or indicate underground rivers or that these are prehistoric airfields of or for extraterrestrials, as this, along with other things, is fantasized by Erich von Daniken. These geoglyphs in the desert plains of southern Peru show enormous geometric figures, animals, plants, and humans, which are only recognizable in their entire forms from a certain height. For this reason, one might get the idea that the pictures could have somehow been made by specific instructions from a certain height.

Quetzal:

145. That is of correctness.

146. The actual meaning of the Nazca geoglyphs is based in the explanations that I gave you.

147. All other explanation attempts by any ignorant ones, profiteers, or people given to fantasies or imaginations correspond to wild fantasies, confused assertions, or deliberate deceptions.

148. What you say in regards to the fact that the geoglyphs are only recognizable in their full forms from a certain height, as this is the case with respect to other similar pictures in other parts of the world, I must say that this is actually so.

149. However, the production of the pictures isn't actually based on the fact that from a certain height, instructions would have been given for it.

150. In truth, all measurements, etc. were made in an extremely accurate manner on the ground alone, even though this may seem unbelievable to today's Earth-humans because they can't make any such images themselves.

151. Unfortunately, the people on the Earth always tend to search for impossible explanations for things that they don't know and don't understand.

152. And wherever or for whatever they find no explanations, then it must be aliens, ghosts, or demons, and even when that is no longer possible, then it's simply taken to be a miracle, even though there are no miracles within the entire creative realm and, thus, also in the entire universe and in all dimensions.

153. In fact, everything that is seen can be explained; it's just that the necessary insights and knowledge are also necessary for this, and precisely in these, the Earth-humans are still lacking in very many respects.

154. Their cognition and understanding as well as their knowledge and their wisdom still aren't so comprehensive that they could understand and explain all things and concerns, etc., which is why, in their ignorance, they call everything that is still unexplainable to them "miracles" or search for solutions and explanations that fall into the realms of fantasy and error.

155. Although the Earth person only learns slowly, in time, he will find the solutions to the things that are still unknown and mysterious to him.

Quetzal:

3. Each one of the scrape pictures was portrayed by a non-interrupted, continuing line.

4. For their construction drawing patterns were used which were transferred and enlarged onto the ground, until the desired size was reached.

5. The Nazcans were perfectly mastering the necessary mathematical calculating.

6. With ropes that were attached to standing poles – that were held by humans – with revolving straps, an improvised circle was built which served to scrape the spots, that had already been marked, with tools.

7. The light sediment layer under the desert's surface was uncovered, and in this way the figures and lines were created.

8. The gigantic scrape figures – desert ground that was scraped away – were symbolizing gods that were revered by the Nazcans in those times.

9. At the same time, the scrape pictures were also an astronomical calendar and a huge astronomical garden, because the figures represented portrayals of the gods who, according to the Nazca people's belief, were seen in the star pictures.

10. For the interpretations of the Nazca star pictures, animals and birds known to the people, and also geometric figures were used which were believed to be seen in the star constellations.

11. On the holy god day that was set at that day when day and night were of equal length, the entire people were walking in long marches over the scrape pictures and honouring the gods, and they performed rituals and ceremonies to the honour of their great and powerful gods.

12. In order to make their gods peaceful, "lower" human beings, like slaves, enemies and "unwanted people" etc. were sacrificed and killed in such a way that they were bound onto special altars, and a heavy wooden thorn or stone thorn was driven into the forehead and the skull, and a cactus thorn was driven through the lips, to shut up their mouth for all times and to silence them.

13. Those ceremonies were executed by the priests, who were "holy" men and who led a prosperous life.

14. The priests were also responsible for the performance of the "holy" rituals and ceremonies on the scrape pictures, that were permitted to walk on not only on the holy god day, but at any other time and was permitted. to be used for private cultic actions.

15. As a rule, the Nazcans were people with high skulls, which means that their skulls showed an exceptional long skull form, which was not of original origin.
16. This skull-form was artificially produced; as long as the skull was still formable, it was restricted and bound with grinded metallic, stony and wooden plates, forcibly leading to a skull of long form and resulting in an oblong deformation.
17. This procedure was even started with newborns when they were one week old.
18. Everything was not an ideal of beauty, but a tribute to the gods, to give them obsequious reverence.
19. Only those Nazcans were permitted to have and wear the oblong-skull-form who were of higher class, i.e. about 85 percent of the population.
20. The remaining 15 percent were "lower people" who had to perform slave duty and similar tasks, and who were looked upon as social misfits etc., and whose well-being or non-well-being and, therefore, their life was laying in the hands and will of the "higher ones" and especially of the priests.

Billy:

We have often talked about Nazca and the structures on the so-called Nazca plain, which were made by the former inhabitants. But now I was asked why the Nazca culture had perished. I answered the question by saying that over the years torrential rainfall had caused enormous mudslides that buried everything underneath and finally wiped out the Nazca culture. So Sfath once taught me in the forties. He also said then that the Nazcans had migrated to the sea to fish and collect seafood. They dried the fish etc. to bring them back to their home towns as welcome food.

Ptaah:

126. ... what my father reported to you corresponds to what actually happened in early times with regard to the Nazca culture.

... just as in the last world war the NAZI army wanted to Germanise everything in the Eastern countries and therefore even tried to exterminate the native animals of the Eastern countries – which fortunately did not succeed completely – in order to 'replace' them with 'German animals' resp. species and types that were native to Germany.

I saw this myself when I was there together with Sfath, how the German NAZI military shot down wild animals en masse, but also domestic animals and farm animals en masse, whereby I could hear together with Sfath from overheard speeches that the whole thing was ordered from 'above' and that the native animals were to be exterminated and 'replaced' by ones from Germany.

This is an effective fact that was concealed from the world public and is probably still being concealed today.

Near-Death Experience

https://www.futureofmankind.co.uk/Billy_Meier/Contact_Report_246

Billy:

... My next question relates to the freezing or shock freezing of all kinds of life-forms: If, for example, a person is shock frozen for any reason, perhaps to overcome time, etc., then I assume that this person is in a kind of apparent death. This means, however, that the spiritual form does not leave the body, but remains in it until the time when the body is revived. Am I right in my assumption? To my knowledge you yourself have used such methods in the past, have you not?

Ptaah:

129. That is correct, as is your explanation.

130. If the body of a material form of life would die through shock freezing, etc. or simply be abandoned by the spiritual form, then this spiritual form would not return to the corresponding body again, but would enter the afterlife realm, from where it would then enter an absolutely new body again for the purpose of reincarnation.

131. Once a spirit form has left a body, it never returns to the body it has left, but without exception selects only the new body destined for the next life.

Billy:

This also clarifies the stupid assertions of all those who say that they themselves or others have been clinically dead, seen the afterlife, etc., and yet have returned to the deceased body and revived it again.

Ptaah:

132. This is nonsense if it is assumed that clinical death can be equated with actual death.

133. The truth for such assertions is truthfully that the supposedly 'deceased' were only in the state of a false death, in which the spiritual form remains in the body, while the material consciousness works underground, generating dreams, visions, etc.

134. Apparent deaths are usually declared clinically dead by Earthly physicians, but the whole body truthfully lives on only in a tremendously slowed-down functional state, which Earthly physicians are not yet able to determine.

https://www.futureofmankind.co.uk/Billy_Meier/Contact_Report_250

Billy:

Whereby the so-called supernatural of course does not exist in any way, because everything and everything is always naturally explainable and also naturally given. The supernatural exists only in the ignorance and the incomprehension of man, because he has no knowledge about all those things which he cannot understand and cannot explain himself. Truthfully everything so-called supernatural is absolutely natural and thus also classified according to the corresponding laws of spirit or matter, which are able to give an explanation for everything and everyone, whereby something supernatural becomes a fact of non-existence. Everything that can be grasped and perceived, everything that can be seen and heard and everything that can be felt, recognized, experienced and experienced, etc., is always real, real and natural in every case, regardless of whether it takes place on a spiritual or material level or on a medium level between spirit and matter, which is so often called the level of the supernatural or the supernatural by parapsychologists and esoterics who do not understand it.

Ptaah:

181. A true word.

https://www.futureofmankind.co.uk/Billy_Meier/Contact_Report_279

Billy:

Then we can master another question that comes up again and again. It's the problem of the light tunnel that's created when people die. So why do people who are close to death see a light tunnel? Again and again one hears or reads that dying people lying in agony see a shining light tunnel – what is the reason for this? You, who, in addition to almost three dozen other professions, also learned the profession of a doctor, will certainly have an explanation for this, I think.

Ptaah:

129. The answer can be found in the brain itself.

130. If the brain is no longer sufficiently supplied with oxygen – and this is the case with agony – the nerve cells that guarantee vision begin to react uncontrollably.

131. This produces the appearance of light rays or radiant light.

132. Since more nerve cells are located in the centre of the human field of vision than at the edges, the faked light appears much stronger in the centre of the eye.

133. This creates the actual tunnel effect, which we also call agony light and agony tunnel.

Billy:

How is it then that in such moments any figures, people and relatives etc. are seen? In any case, this is repeatedly reported by people who were already in agony. Can it be that these people, who erroneously say that they were already dead and came back from the realm of the dead, vision these figures or people and relatives etc. into the agony tunnel or light tunnel solely by their faith and their desires as well as by their imagination? That is what my reason tells me.

Ptaah:

134. Which does not deceive you, for in fact it behaves as you have just expressed it.

Billy:

Well, then I would just like to say that, according to my intellectual knowledge, it is impossible that when a person really dies, that he can then come back to life. This is precisely the case when the spirit form has actually left the material body, for a spirit form that has once escaped the body never returns to the dead body. Consequently, all statements and assertions of those who were supposedly dead and began to live again are false. I see the matter in such a way that all these people only lingered in a state of deep stagnation and thus had not yet crossed the threshold to death. They only stood at the threshold of death and fought for the survival of life and against death, as the term agony also says – agony.

Ptaah:

135. There is no need for further explanations, for you have called the facts as they correspond to reality.

{answer to question from Door_knocker}

Experiences during a near-death situation have nothing in common with real death and the following existence in the other world (Jenseits). Such people have not more knowledge than before the accident etc., but they are deeply impressed by the effects they have experienced during their near-death state. Falsely assuming that they had been on the other side of death, they lose their angst of death, and this fundamentally changes their view of life.

Discussionboard of FIGU – The Mission – “Billy” Eduard Albert Meier – Your Questions to Billy Meier—Answered – Archive through July 28, 2012

<http://forum.figu.org/us/messages/12/12282.html?1343521600#POST61314>

{answer to question from Door_knocker}

Either a person is dead, or not. You cannot place a person into a temporary state of physical death. Therefore, reports from near-death experiences (NDE) are always reports about the individuals' thoughts, fantasies etc. When the brain is lacking oxygen, seeing a tunnel of light etc. is a normal effect. And when people, who experienced a NDE, are seeing a situation from above, this has to do with an increased activity of the consciousness-powers as it is the case in the agony phase of a dying person.

FIGU Special Bulletin 38

https://www.futureofmankind.co.uk/Billy_Meier/FIGU_Special_Bulletin_038

Fine-matter also plays a very important role in regard to the near-death experience because, when the purely rational reason is shut out through the dying process, and the seventh sense - the capability of perception - is put into its appropriate place, the perception-capacity, which is usually repressed in the current life by the condition of rational reason, expands in regard to the fine-matter realm.

Thereby a border opens, for the human, to a window into that fine-material world which extends very far above all that which can be perceived with the purely coarse-material senses - with the eyes, the touch, the smell, the hearing and tasting

Through these heightened abilities of perception - through the sense of perception in regard to fine-matter - clairvoyance, for example, emerges as a near death experience, in such a way that the dying human views himself from a higher vantage point (over his own body, or floating through the room) and can also see what happens around him, what is being discussed and what objects people carry or are present in the room in which the person is dying or in adjoining rooms, and so forth.

The near-death experience is also a key to the reading of thoughts whereby the thoughts of the people standing around, or of those who are far removed, are perceived on a fine-material basis.

That happens especially in the deepest stages of dying, which correlates to a state of the least brain activity.

This status is that of the entrance into death and in this state the brain opens up to the human his concealed capabilities which are repressed in his current life.

Every brain - therefore that of the human, as well as of all creatures - can be compared with technical transmission and receiving devices, because every organic brain is a transmitter and receiver for fine-material energies and their forces as well as their effects.

...

Now, when a human dies, then, on the brink of death, he loses the connection to rational understanding whereby that which pertains to the fine-material realm gains power and produces electromagnetic energetic loads which result from fine-material thoughts and feelings which radiate explosively and can be perceived by other humans even at a great distance.

As a rule there are humans present who are closely mentally connected to the dying person.

The persons concerned receive the dying human's units of information through fluidal, respectively, fine-material electromagnetic vibrations, which are strong, fine-material energy loads and which conceal the information in themselves as force.

Naturally the wave-frequencies of the fine-material vibrations thereby play a decisive role, whereby not every human can therefore receive the same wave-frequencies and not everyone can tune his fine-material senses to the same degree onto near, or very distant, impulses and information, which are directed at him.

Therefore, through the mental connection, there must be a certain similarity to the wave frequencies so that messages from dying ones or otherwise from fellow humans can be received, whether it is sounds, thoughts and feelings or visionary images, and so forth.

Interviews on the Topics of Spiritual Teaching and Mission (German-language booklet)

There are people who claim they died and saw the Beyond. Is it true that this really happens?

Not in this sense. The people you speak of were not really dead. They may have been clinically dead, which means they no longer had discernible heart or brain activity. But, as I said, this is only a clinical death, at which time the spirit form has not yet left the body, but still remains in it for awhile. This means the comprehensive consciousness also stays in the physical body, although all vital signs may appear to be shut down. The comprehensive consciousness and the spirit form continue to remain with the body for a certain period which may last for seconds, minutes or hours; indeed, under certain circumstances even years or decades. The latter, for instance, is the case for the survival of bodies that have been frozen instantly through cryology, during which time the consciousness continues to function. Such a condition, however, only occurs while the body is in its death throes; and for this reason the brain's activity is no longer detectable, even though it continues to function. At this time images appear that are consistent with the individual's normal thinking and imagination patterns, but the images are as well imprinted by the comprehensive collective of the terrestrial human entities. While in this condition of profound death-agony, these people are often capable also of emitting their consciousness whereby they can suddenly view themselves from the outside, while hovering above their own bodies and so forth. Light, darkness, and beloved people also frequently play a major role in this scenario, and the person in this stage of a death throe feels him- or herself being led through dark channels and such into a light, from where they do not ever want to leave again.

... Look here, this little article with the picture was sent to me. Unfortunately, the information was missing, from which magazine the article came from. Anyway, I was asked if I knew what origin the bronze disc with the cosmic representation or the Pleiades was from. Do you know anything about it?

Ptaah:

70. We have two similar sky discs in our possession.

71. One comes from ancient Greece and the other from the Sumerians.

72. The object pictured here is probably from ancient Greece.

73. I myself am unfamiliar with the object, but it is identical in appearance to our specimen from ancient Greece.

Billy:

Then this is probably not a Celtic product, but an ancient Greek one.

Ptaah:

74. This will certainly be the case, because the Nordic races of former times had a considerable trade with the southern countries, so also with ancient Greece, but also with the Sumerians and Babylonians, the Egyptians, the Medes and Iranians etc.

75. But even before that, the northerners were already trading with the southerners, and trade was even going on as far as the Far East.

Billy:

Then I have a question in reference to Queen Nofretete, who was the wife of Pharaoh Amenhotep IV, who was also known as Akhenaten and who, to my knowledge, reigned in the 14th Century B.C., from 1364 to 1347. Where was Nofretete actually buried? Her real name, so I think, was Nefertiti, right?

Quetzal:

64. That is of correctness.

65. Nevertheless, a tomb of Nefertiti does not exist but rather only one of her double, who was the concubine of Amenhotep IV/Akhenaten, but this was kept secret and, thus, also was not handed down in any records.

66. The name of Nefertiti's double was Chepris, which meant "the powerful one," while Nefertiti's name meant "the beautiful one has come."

67. Nefertiti and Chepris were neither twin sisters nor in any way connected to each other in kinship, yet they were hardly able to be distinguished by those who were initiated.

68. Thus, both of them alternately appeared before the people, who remained unaware of the fact that these were two different women who, moreover, hated one another until death.

69. In consequence of this, then, it came to the murder of Chepris, who was killed by Nefertiti with snake venom.

70. Both were boundlessly jealous of each other, even though Amenhotep IV, respectively Akhenaten, treated both of them equally.

71. After the murder, Nefertiti naturally feared the revenge and punishment of Akhenaten, so she disguised herself and fled from the palace undetected, in order to board a ship with accomplices, which should have taken them to foreign lands.

72. After several hours on the Mediterranean Sea, however, they were surprised by a heavy storm, by which the small ship was shattered and sank, together with Nefertiti and the whole crew, into the wild waters.

73. That was the actual end of Nefertiti.

74. After the murder of Chepris, Akhenaten let her be secretly buried and took as his wife her twin sister, who resembled her to the hair, and this was the one who henceforth lived at the side of Amenhotep IV as Nefertiti and as an Egyptian queen and who entered into history.

Billy:

And the model bust made of painted limestone, which was found in Amarna during excavations, now represents the real Nefertiti?

Quetzal:

75. In addition to the bust mentioned by you, several unfinished ones still exist.

76. But all of them do not represent Nefertiti but represent Chepris' identical twin sister, Nephthe, as her name was.

Asket:

10. But it still has to be explained that the erroneous assumptions, of all of the Earth scientists, about the time of the ark-deluge are just as very wrong - by umpteen thousands of years - as are the erroneous calculations, to which they have succumbed, about the times of various kings and emperors who lived thousands of years ago.

11. The actual time, which was handed down to you [Earthlings], of the deluge of the ark, is also greatly falsified, because it occurred nearly 100,000 years ago and therefore must be calculated to be very much earlier than the lifetime of King SAHLUK who had taken over an important role in regard to the pyramids.

https://www.futureofmankind.co.uk/Billy_Meier/Contact_Report_005

Semjase:

33. Many researchers of the Earth have been trying since ever to calculate the exact time of the Flood known to you through the Bible, but so far without any noteworthy success.

34. Indeed, according to today's Christian calendar, the Flood took place exactly 10,079 years ago.

35. It was triggered by a worldwide catastrophe of cosmic origin, when a gigantic comet threw the Earth out of its orbit and changed its period and direction of rotation.

36. At that time, one Earth day amounted to more than 40 hours, and the Sun didn't rise in the east like it does today.

37. Such changes in rotation time and direction of rotation have afflicted the Earth two more times after the Flood, but they have not brought such devastating catastrophes as with the mentioned Flood.

38. The last radical change of this kind took place 3,500 years ago, of which however I will still speak later.

39. The Flood 10,079 years ago (related to the year 1975) was caused by a gigantic comet, which has already caused a lot of damage and has been traversing the universe since time immemorial.

40. We call it the "Destroyer", and we know that it has already been racing through outer space for millions of years.

...

43. 10,079 years ago, this giant comet, which had originated from a natural cosmic catastrophe, got very close to the realm of the Earth and almost destroyed it.

44. Only the knowledge and ability of our ancestors, who had settled on the Earth and had begotten their descendants here, prevented the terrible end.

https://www.futureofmankind.co.uk/Billy_Meier/Contact_Report_039

Billy:

... Then these {Mount Shasta interior inhabitants} would, indeed, be the descendants or distant descendants of those {Hyperboreans} who, 180,000 or 190,000 years ago, carried out the actual decolonisation in the form that can be regarded, then, as the early history of the current human race, at least for the white race. Among them, then, must have also been the JHWH who gave Henoah great wisdom. Methusalem went to this one in a later incarnation of Henoah, and Noah was later commissioned by this one's guardian angels to build that ark, with which he actually landed, then, on Ararat.

Semjase:

273. Sure, except that the event – with the building of the ark, which Noah himself did not build, and with his family and with the animals and everything else – became so falsified that no current information agrees with the truth any more.

274. The events with the ark did truly take place, but at another time, 90,000 years later.

Billy:

I know that very well, and in these falsified assertions, the boundless stupidity and lack of education of the scribes inevitably comes to full expression, for how else could they have written in their fantasy story that Ararat is the highest mountain in the world, and on the other hand, how, for example, could elephants as well as mammoths, which were still there at that time, rhinoceroses and all other 4-legged animals, etc. have climbed down from Ararat? I happen to know the mountain very well and know that even a good mountain climber has lots of distress and trouble when wanting to conquer the mountain.

https://www.futureofmankind.co.uk/Billy_Meier/Contact_Report_061

Billy:

... Can you tell me when the last Great Flood took place, because there were several of them, so I am not talking about the one pertaining to Noah or Noah's Flood?

Semjase:

6. As you wish – it is now about 10,080 years since then.

Billy:

... This deluge, was it the only one in those 10,080 years?

Semjase:

11. No, there were not only those which you mistakenly call the Great Biblical Flood, which truly took place about 100,000 years ago, because two other somewhat smaller floods came later, once in 7957 and another time in 6906.

12. However, none of them have anything to do with the Noah's Flood, as you call it, although in this respect it is also falsely claimed that it was the Biblical Flood, especially the one to be dated 7957.

13. Between the time of 7000 and 8000 there were also huge floods in the Near East and Asia, in Turkey and Persia, etc., and these floods, of which there were two, were equal to small floods.

14. There were also great floods about 96,000 and 100,000 years ago.

20. The biblical flood did not take place 10,080 years ago, but took place much earlier and was triggered by the Destroyer.

21. By extremely coarse inaccuracies and corrections for the bible, etc. these events were distorted and falsified by the old chroniclers and thus, bible researchers and antiquity researchers chronologically set them much later and extremely erroneously.

35. After these events about 10,000 years ago it took only about 135 years, before the Earth was again afflicted by a catastrophe, bigger and more gigantic than the two before, but in today's eastern area of the Earth ball, which was flooded by enormous masses of water, when the giant comet 'Destroyer' passed the Earth in dangerous proximity, 10,080 years from now calculated back.

36. This led to worldwide catastrophes, which, however, for reasons beyond our understanding, were never recorded by the earthly chroniclers and only found their expression in writings much later, when another flood, again caused by the Destroyer, afflicted the Earth, namely 7,957 years ago.

37. For about 1,000 years the Earth was spared from major catastrophes, until the year 6906 [before 1976], when the Destroyer once again caused enormous devastation on the Earth and destroyed many things.

Billy:

28. Well, then is it also correct that Noah was around 3.10 metres tall, while Adam actually measured around 5 metres?

Semjase:

62. Sure, only Adam was less than 5 metres tall, he was still a little more than a metre shorter than that measure.

https://www.futureofmankind.co.uk/Billy_Meier/Contact_Report_248

Billy:

... Now, I once again have something concerning the Bible and, specifically, with regard to the so-called Noah's Ark, which was actually built at one time, however, at a completely different time than what is claimed in the Bible. The Biblical Flood did not happen at the time claimed by the Bible but in the year 4613 B.C. and was brought about by the Destroyer. Quetzal made the following statement:

4,613 B.C. – Destroyer falls into the Earth's orbit, which disturbs the Earth in its rotation and in its revolution around the Sun, triggering immense earthquakes, volcanic eruptions, and elementary storms, and from the whole event, the Biblical Flood arises. The rotation of the Earth is changed and a polar shift takes place.

The Biblical Flood, therefore, conforms with reality, even though it has been placed in another time by chroniclers, as this also applies to the fabrication and the events surrounding Noah's Ark. This was actually built around 98,400 years earlier and, hence, around 100,000 years ago, calculated back from today. Is that true?

Ptaah:

116. That is right, but from what source does your knowledge stem?

Billy:

From Quetzal, of course. At one time, I was together with him on Mount Ararat in eastern Turkey, respectively on the Russian-Turkish-Iranian border and, indeed, because I was interested in the history of the Ark. There, he explained to me these very things. The Ark landed around 100,000 years ago and not on the peak of the 5,165 meter high Ararat but around 30 kilometres away and not at the height of a summit. The size of the ark also corresponds to the one given in the Bible. With this, the many animals and only a few human beings had really survived an earlier flood that, like the Biblical Flood, was brought about by a pole shift.

Ptaah:

117. That is not correct, for it was a colossal tidal wave that was caused by a large comet that nearly collided with the Earth and caused enormous catastrophes, including the gigantic tidal wave, through which the Ark was lifted high onto Mount Ararat.

Billy:

Pardon me, then I probably mixed up the two events.

Ptaah:

118. That must be so.

Billy:

Thanks for your correction. Now – Noah did not live at the time of the events with the Ark and neither did his family. Nevertheless, the event happened amazingly close to what the Bible reports; it's just that the builder was a man named Noahkadnosser (= Man of Peace), and he maintained contact with an extraterrestrial named Zebalon (= He who Brings the Hosts of the Universe), who explained the approaching danger of the comet to him and advised him to build the Ark, which he then did in collaboration with his family and, hence, survived the immense flood – along with his family and with many domestic and land animals. These factual events have been handed down since approximately 98,000 years ago by word-of-mouth again and again, whereby the name Noahkadnosser was gradually altered and fell into oblivion and finally ended in the name of Noah, while the extraterrestrial, who was in contact with Noahkadnosser, was renamed and became elevated to a god. After the Biblical Flood, the actual Bible-Ark-Noah history was then created, whereby the true origin of the events ultimately became lost.

Ptaah:

119. That is what is also recorded in our chronicle with regard to the important events on the Earth.

120. Your explanation is, therefore, correct.

Billy:

It is simply astonishing, so I think, that in spite of the later biblical falsification, the history of the Ark has been so well-preserved for more than about 100,000 years, when one just considers that during that time, very few people lived on the whole Earth. Do you, perhaps, know the number of people who lived at the time of the comet catastrophe and the number of people who died?

Ptaah:

121. There exists with us no precise data about this but only estimates.

122. These say that prior to the massive tidal wave, approximately 870,000 people lived on that part of the Earth, but as a result of the catastrophe, about 650,000 lost their lives.

123. Out of the surviving 220,000, about 140 people lived on the Ark, who, after the time of the flood, then settled the land again in the Middle East, where many foreigners then also immigrated.

124. This total of about 220,000 people had it very hard because for many thousands of years, they were decimated again and again by epidemics and all sorts of other disasters; therefore, they could only multiply very slowly at first and only reached a total population of 11 million people about 10,000 years ago – distributed across the whole Earth, of course.

https://www.futureofmankind.co.uk/Billy_Meier/Contact_Report_249

Billy:

Now a question about the Noandakan, known to us as Noah. During our last conversation we also talked about him, but under the name Noankadnosser. Are they two different people or are they one and the same person? If so, why do you use two different names?

Ptaah:

89. It is the same man who is called Noah on earth.

90. But Noah is only the short name of Noandakan or Noankadnosser.

91. Noandakan is a name that goes back to the ancient Lyric language and was used by the ancient Lyrans on earth, while the name Noankadnosser was coined and used by the earth people.

92. So when we talk about Noah or Noandakan and Noankadnosser in this way, we are always talking about the same name, which by the way means 'man of rest'.

Billy:

From which earthly language then does the name Noankadnosser originate?

Ptaah:

93. The language died out about 80,000 years ago.

94. The name for it was Sentalin.

https://www.futureofmankind.co.uk/Billy_Meier/Contact_Report_492

Billy:

... Earlier, when it was, I do not remember, I was told that the ship known as 'Noah's Ark' was roughly equivalent to the masses, as written in the Bible, for example. Could you perhaps tell me a little more precisely what the ark looked like? A ship at that time ...

Ptaah:

58. You must not make a comparison between the forms of ships in use today and the ark, because the ark had no similarity with the forms in use today and also in ancient times.

59. The information given in the Bible is wrong, which mentions 300 cubits length and 50 cubits width and 30 cubits height.
60. The ark was a large round structure, in the middle of which there was a building structure which took up about 1/6 of the total length respectively the diameter of the ship.
61. The width of the ship is therefore wrongly handed down, because the diameter of the ship was uniform, because it was round, while the wrongly handed down measurements of the width concerned the building amidships.
62. The ship was surrounded all around by a high wall, which is handed down as height.
63. In the area where the ark was built, there were large forests at that time. ...
65. What has been put into the Bible regarding the ark legend, goes back to old Mesopotamian and Sumerian legends, which date back to a Flood that happened about 100,000 years ago and tell the story of a man named Noankadnosser and his family, who was in contact with extraterrestrials and survived the Flood with his family and a small number of animals in an ark.
66. So the legend has not in any way anything to do with the biblical story, because the legend is based on a looted property that goes back to the ancient peoples of Mesopotamia and Sumeria and their ancient sagas and legends.

Billy:

Yeah, I remember what you told me about that. Somewhere there was the Four Stream Land with the so-called Garden of Eden, which was also stolen from the Mesopotamian and Sumerian legends and put into the Bible. The Four Stream Country was so called because the Euphrates, the Tigris and the rivers Pirou and Gihon, or whatever they were called, flowed through it. The four rivers flowed there somewhere into a delta, but today the Persian Gulf respectively the Arabian Gulf, as it is also called, exists there, but as of today – in the year 2010 – it was first created about 8,000 years ago by a tremendous natural catastrophe, in which, as in the case of the various other floods, 'tremendous wild waters' surged for thousands of years, thousands of years and even for more than 100,000 years. The term 'Sint' has nothing to do with 'sin', as this was reinterpreted by the influence of the church, but was reinterpreted again in the 20th century. You once explained to me that 'Sint' in an old pre-Germanic language meant as much as 'mighty', whereby in connection with the old term 'Vluot' respectively 'Flood', 'Sintfluot' respectively 'Sintflut', a 'mighty flood', had been created.

https://www.futureofmankind.co.uk/Billy_Meier/Contact_Report_799

Billy:

... lies spread in religions, such as in the 3 of Judaism, Christianity and Islam in the so-called religious books Torah, Bible and Koran, which could not be more hair-raising and lead back to Babylonian origins. For example, the so-called Flood was nothing more than a 'wild water' or a flood or high water as a result of a storm. This had an easy time in Babylonia at that time, because the 'water architects' had large watercourses built by the cities, whereby the rising wild waters could quickly burst their banks and cause floods. The Babylonians called such floods 'deluge', which the Jewish peoples had simply adopted in the same way when they were brought into captivity to Babylon by Nebuchadnezzar and established the term 'deluge' with world flood and the like. There they had also heard of the fantasy story of the Flood and the fable of Noah's Ark, which was also written down in cuneiform by a scribe in Ur, although the name of the alleged Ark builder was renamed, as moreover the necessary material for the construction did not actually grow in Ur – today's Basra – but in the south of India. Moreover, it must also be said that ancient cuneiform writings dating from the early primeval times of Babylonia state that this 'ark' was supposed to be around 70 metres in diameter, which at that time was an impossibility to build such a thing and to seal it with bitumen in such a way that it would have been waterproof. Not to mention how it would have been possible with a round boat – which, by the way, are still in use today in certain areas of Iraq and measure about 1.5 to 3 metres – which, according to an ancient cuneiform inscription, would have had a diameter of just about 70 metres, to take a pair of each animal species on board, since there are known to be millions of different species of animals, creatures and other living beings. At that time many more than today, because in the meantime the human beings have already exterminated many of them. Nevertheless, all these Babylonian stories were taken over by the Jewish peoples, who were very strongly influenced by the Babylonian beliefs and integrated much into their own religion, which was later also adopted in the Torah, the Bible and the Koran. ...

Ptaah:

... the so-called Flood, which did not come about from a primordial rain, but had its original cause in the melting of huge glacial areas and parts of the North Pole, which caused the waters of the seas and certain lakes to rise and caused floods of the rivers Tigris and Euphrates and the Black Sea etc. at that time.

Billy:

The Black Sea was actually a huge freshwater lake, but this slowly began to change about 10,000 years ago, before the giant lake, the Black Sea, became salty due to the intrusion of sea water. Today, however, the Black Sea is called the Sea because of its size. Actually, this sea was already as big 18,000 years ago as it still is today, but it consisted of fresh water, which then swelled as a result of the melting of the glaciers and drove the rivers Tigris and Euphrates etc. to such wild waters that everything was flooded and destroyed, from which the story of the Flood was then concocted. That is actually what really happened, and in a slightly different way than one has to tell it so that it is also understood. This also regarding the ark and the animals and so on.

Ptaah:

That is indeed the case, and besides, the event took place much earlier and completely differently than is generally claimed and written about in the Bible, etc. Already all the cuneiform writings and the like correspond to false representations of the origin and the events. As I have seen for myself, the ark, for example, was a very large and round water vessel, which bore no resemblance whatsoever to known ship forms, as these were formed much later and as these are still in use today. The animals and birds etc. that were housed in the very large and round ark were only those that were needed on their own land to be worked, as well as much fodder and food, as well as enough water for all the livestock and for the human beings had to be stored in the ark.

Billy:

I know all that because Sfath, your father, let me see it all. The so-called ark was about 70 metres tall, 68 metres to be exact, if I remember correctly. For those days it was truly a huge thing, which moreover not only took several months to build, but was also built by Noah because he was warned that floods were coming, namely by the waters in the Black Sea rising and in the near future overflowing the rivers and tremendous floods would inundate the whole country very high. Moreover, the man who built the so-called ark with the help of all his family and friends was not called Noah, but Noandakan.

Ptaah:

I am aware of that because I met the man.

Quetzal:

32. As always, all evil is done to you because as of old, you are the most unwanted and unusually hated person on the Earth because you should bring the truth, the teaching, and peace.

33. And in truth, it is also the case that I have to say once that even we were not always correct toward you, even though you are, in every respect, our example.

34. But often, my friend, we simply felt confused by your Earth humanity and regarded you as an original Earth-human.

35. We have often misled ourselves in this and have seen you in such a manner, how you mimic the perfect Earth-human, even though we know that your spirit-form is far superior to ours, even if it has to be throttled in its power on the Earth up to 27%.

36. It would be good if even the group members would reflect once on that, then they could, perhaps, learn to understand that you are the loneliest person on the Earth.

37. Thus, for once, I would like to give them a nut to crack and tell them that already for a long time, you have truly no longer been a person but rather a pure spirit-form, who has allowed himself, out of the deepest love, to be pressed and forced into a human body again for 7 billion (7,000,000,000) years in order to help.

38. Yet how these do give you this agony – even those who should be your allies?

39. It is truly a disgrace, like with the Wisest of the Wise, referring to Nokodemion, whom one calls, in the level of the Arahath Athersata, the perfection of love and fulfilment.

40. All of those human beings who are gathered around you should think of that at least once.

Billy:

You should not talk like that, Quetzal.

...

One will call me even more than a crackpot and a lunatic, therefore, I would be glad if we could regard all these words as being unspoken.

...

Quetzal:

44. I just hope that you will not realise your ideas that you had yesterday in your misery.

45. Nevertheless, you know that if you do it, then the whole mission collapses, and moreover, you would hurl yourself back into your level, so you could not become human again.

Billy:

Yes, I know, that is why I also laid the thing out of the hand again.

Quetzal:

46. With that, you have rid us of an evil fright, for we know very well that you are not afraid of that and that you stipulated such a solution, without the appearance of guilt and the consequences of guilt, before you committed yourself, in your spirit-form at that time, to renewed humanhood, so that in an emergency, if you were no longer able, you could put an end to everything and immediately re-enter your true level.

Billy:

You really should not talk about these things.

... But I have another question about the discovery of the North Pole. There were two Americans, Robert Edwin Peary and Frederick Albert Cook, who first went on some expeditions etc. together, but then became enemies, especially when it came to first entering the North Pole. Both started their own expeditions in this regard, after which each declared that he had reached his goal. However, this could never be proven to either of them in any way and therefore could not be proven by corresponding facts. Cook claimed to have been on the Pole before Peary, which led to him being severely defamed by the selfish Peary and made impossible for the rest of the world. To this day, however, to my knowledge, there is no proof as to which of the two was first on the North Pole. Do you know anything about this?

Ptaah:

53. In this respect, I can actually tell you a few things, because from our side there has always been an interest in such undertakings, as there still is today.

54. Consequently, such undertakings were and are observed by us, which is why I can tell you that neither of them had ever reached the North Pole, neither Peary nor Cook.

55. The really first Earth-human who set foot on the North Pole for the first time was a man named Walter William Herbert, an Englishman.

56. He was the first to reach the Pole on the 6th of April 1969 but was also followed by his expedition companions.

Quetzal:

94. If you please, I want to take you out into space, in order to make the planetary alignment clear to you, which causes so much incomprehensible excitement among the Earth-humans.

Billy:

... I have tried to bring some reason among the human beings in this regard, but the newspapers and magazines, etc. have neither noted nor published my articles. They just cannot make any money with the truth, which is why they only set forth senseless and false prophetic nonsense of pseudo astrologers, pseudo clairvoyants, and other charlatans and conjurers, whereby they also still mistakenly involve Nostradamus among and with these and maintain that he already prophesied the same nonsense even then, even though not a word of this is true and his gloomy prophecies that include planetary phenomena relate to completely different events, which still lie far in the future. But over and over again, these twits and would-be experts of Nostradamus' prophecies appear, who then claim that they have found the key to unraveling his prophecies, particularly because certain events of the world are repeated again and again, and so then, these lunatics are misled to accept that a prophecy had been devised for such an event. This is best seen with the events of Napoleon's time, with the events of the First and Second World War, and with the running time since then. Nevertheless, every possible and impossible prophecy of Nostradamus is actually pressed into these events, even though they do not describe these incidents at all and these are to be found in other centuries. But the cunning fraudsters make millions with this and become stinking rich through this. It really is a shame, and indeed, a rather damned one.

https://www.futureofmankind.co.uk/Billy_Meier/Contact_Report_214

Billy:

And in sectarian circles, this will probably again be an occasion to make a doomsday scenario, as this will certainly also be the case with the solar eclipse appearing in Europe on the 11th of August, 1999, about which even Nostradamus has written, but which is misunderstood, unfortunately.

https://www.futureofmankind.co.uk/Billy_Meier/Contact_Report_241

Ptaah:

484. This fact is ridiculed just as you are ridiculed around the globe, as Nostradamus prophesied about you when he said that you would be mocked at the time when the great earthquake in California was near and when the wall of the GDR fell.

https://www.futureofmankind.co.uk/Billy_Meier/Contact_Report_250

Billy:

During the last time I have dealt a little more thoroughly with Nostradamus as well as with his so-called prophecies. I never had any reason to do so before. Recently someone asked me about Michel Nostradamus and other visionaries. So I tried to do these things. My knowledge was this: Nostradamus was indeed a seer who foresaw many things. But many of his statements are not actual prophecies, as it is generally so gladly seen, because often they are so to speak prophylactic warnings, if I may say so. With this insight I have also found out that so far in fact none of those persons have found the key to the Nostradamus statements who claim that of themselves. Moreover, the realization of the Nostradamus statements depends on the fact that in world politics no improving situations are created which would change the course of world events etc. for the better, as this must be the case with prophecies if they are to be fulfilled. This fact also applies to statements of other visionaries etc., which appear in large numbers. ...

... The religious fanatics and all kinds of religious sectarians are now in high season again. But these are also mainly the ones who transform purely prophylactic warnings of seers and real prophets into enormous threats and blasphemous assertions, as well as the statements of Michel Nostradamus, who was actually Medicus, healer, astrologer and alchemist of his sign. Truthfully not many of his prophecies have arrived yet, but only just 14%, which is why one has to be extremely careful with the term 'seer'. What will come out in terms of his prophylactic statements for the future will be proven in the time to come. According to his statements, if all his warnings and also the prophecies are true, a great deal will be changed in this world. With a review of Nostradamus' way of working I also found out that only after the 1st of March 2055 the actual great events should occur, whereby this should also be the point in time from which the key for his statements should possibly be found and fathomed. Somehow, it seems to me, Michel Nostradamus also wanted to set a monument to himself with his works, because he wanted to remain in people's memories. Nevertheless, a seer and prophet tum cannot be denied him to a certain degree, as is the case with the most diverse other seers, whose statements I have examined and clarified.

...

Billy:

... We already talked about Nostradamus. About him certain people say that some of his warnings and prophecies are tendentious Jewish-Arab.

Ptaah:

202. There are indeed some things true, but this is not surprising when you know that his parents were of Jewish faith and that he was also taught in the Jewish religion as well as in Islam.

203. Nonetheless, Nostradamus was strongly attached to the Christian faith and was quite unobjective and misguided in this regard.

https://www.futureofmankind.co.uk/Billy_Meier/Contact_Report_275

Billy:

Actually, I did not want to talk about tomorrow, the 11th of August 1999, but a question was put to me about that day. You know that many false prophets who deal with astrology and Nostradamus predicted a lot of disaster tomorrow, even the beginning of the Third World War and the end of the world, which is of course all nonsense. The starting point for all these gloomy false assertions and prophecies is Michel Notre-Dame alias Michel Nostradamus and his prophecies respectively, whereby in particular Centuria X (10/72) is used, which explains the following, as I read here:

"L'an mil neuf cent nonante neuf-sept mois,
You ciel viendra an grand roy d'effrayeur:
Résusciter le grand Roy d'Angolmois,
Avant et après Mars régner par bonheur."

Translated into German, it means something like:

"In the year nineteen hundred and ninety nine
A great king of horrors comes from heaven;
Angolmois' great king resurrected
Before, after Mars, the kingdom shall be happy."

Another translation:

"In 1999, the seventh month,
A great king of horrors will appear in the sky:
He will awaken the great king of Angolmois from the dead,
Before and after, Mars will rule at a good time."

As you hear, some things emerge from these two translations that do not exactly coincide, and the more you read such translations of the Nostradamus verses, the more you encounter inconsistencies. Also with regard to the interpretations or interpretations of the prophetic verses, a great salad prevails, for there are attributed to events that have taken place some Nostradamus verses, which in reality have completely different reasons and took place at different times than the 'deciphers' and 'unravelers' of the Nostradamus prophecies claim. So far, in truth, only a few prophetic verses written by Michel Nostradamus have really been deciphered, such as the part of centuria X/72 that refers to the eclipse of the sun of the 11th of August 1999. But all the nonsense of the false prophets, who refer to their astrological 'abilities' and to the centurion X/72 of Nostradamus, has absolutely nothing to do with his prophecies. Also that tomorrow's eclipse of the sun is supposed to cause some disaster in the short or long term, or that a 'spiritual' change of the world results from it, or even the Third World War or the end of the world, this corresponds not only to a nonsensical assertion, but also to an effective nonsense, and that no matter by which false prophets the idiotic statements and assertions are made. Solar eclipses, both partial and total, have existed for millions of years, for as long as Earth, moon and sun have existed. And never did a solar eclipse have any influence on earthly world events or on the changes of consciousness of man. The only influences that appeared were those of faith and delusion, although these were not triggered by the eclipse itself, but solely by the fear and delusion of the people themselves, who always saw something dangerous, terrifying, disastrous and frightening behind an eclipse event. And although Nostradamus was somewhat more knowledgeable and enlightened than his contemporaries, he also saw in an eclipse of the sun all those horrors which the other mad believers of his time also saw and as there are many such still today; first of all the false prophets and prophetesses of astrological and Nostradamian as well as similar nature. I just wanted to have said that. But now to the question that I actually wanted to address to you: How did Michel Notre-Dame or Nostradamus actually come to his prophetic verses? Was he clairvoyant or did he have inspirations? Was everything based on astrological calculations or did he have visions? For my part I cannot answer this question exactly, why I need your help. I am also interested in myself, which is why I think that you can certainly help me by answering the questions correctly. Since my interest has also been aroused, it is not exclusively a question from other people. What do you mean?

Ptaah:

1. First of all I would like to agree with all what you have explained concerning Nostradamus and the false prophets, and I think that this was good, because surely you will write down and publish our present conversation as a contact report, whereby also all interested persons in this relationship receive the correct information.
2. Secondly, I think that it is correct that I can answer your questions, as the interest in this is mainly with you.
3. So it has to be explained that Nostradamus compiled his prophetic verses in different ways, namely by performing astrological and astronomical calculations, but also by having visions and clairvoyant abilities.
4. But he mixed all this with so-called means of expanding consciousness, because he was addicted to drugs and opium.
5. However, this did not prevent him from grasping real prophetic moments and dressing them in verses.
6. More cannot actually be explained, because you yourself have brought up the further necessary issues.

Asket {4th February 1953}:

6. For if a life-form were to attain great knowledge and wisdom at too early a stage in its own development, then an inevitable and unstoppable catastrophe would be the effect and consequence, as it is threatening at present also on the Earth, because through the unconscionability of the malevolent extraterrestrial intelligences already mentioned several times, these imparted to some Earth's human beings, so-called scientists, a knowledge of which they were not yet able to cope:
7. Namely, the knowledge of the secret of the foundation stones of life – the atom, through which the atomic bomb could be created by revealing this secret.
8. Once in possession of this dangerous weapon of destruction, it was only a short step to its use and a repetition of the earlier events in Sodom and Gomorrah.
9. On the 6th of August 1945, the first of these deadly weapons was detonated, and three days later the second.
10. As a result, the earthly atmosphere was impregnated with clouds of death, which at that time affected the whole of nature, caused climatic changes and disturbed weather patterns.
11. The effects of these explosions, which will continue to occur again and again, will manifest themselves in many forms in the coming decades, including in human life.
12. Many lives of fauna and flora will mutate, and also the human life-form will suffer malignant mutations and cruel diseases.
13. This evil misery has already begun with the explosions and will continue to spread in the times to come.
14. Earthly science is fully aware of this, but the scientists and others in charge make no effort whatsoever to change the consequences of their madness or to protect themselves from new offences.
15. On the contrary, they will continue to work in the same form of destruction, detonating atomic bombs again for test purposes as well as commercially, thus driving the Earth into even greater danger.

https://www.futureofmankind.co.uk/Billy_Meier/Contact_Report_031

Ptaah:

933. After the explosions of the atomic bombs in Hiroshima and Nagasaki, the atomic radiation spread very quickly and soon covered the whole Earth.

934. The far greater danger, however, was posed by certain elementary radiations released by the explosions, which still pose great puzzles to Earth scientists and which they have not yet mastered, because they have not yet grasped their types and forms.

935. In particular, three main values of the earthly resistance to life are influenced and damaged by the release of these elementary radiations.

936. This catastrophic process after an atomic explosion on the scale of the Hiroshima bomb lasts for several centuries and influences all life-support potencies in a negative form.

937. In the purely atmospheric layers of the Earth, an atomic explosion affects the OZONE balance in a quite catastrophic form, primarily through the release of elementary radiation.

938. Through the release of atomic energy, electrical energies of tremendous values are generated by the elementary radiations already mentioned.

939. This happens in a very high frequency range, which is still unknown to earthly science.

940. These energies are not the normal electrical energy that you are familiar with, but an electrical radiation energy that moves in the ultraviolet radiation range.

941. Inevitably, this radiant energy mixes with the oxygen in the air and produces gigantic amounts of the highest quality OZONE.

942. If normally only 1 part of ozone is detectable in 500,000 parts of air according to terrestrial conditions, the ozone value increases to 34 values for a short time after an explosion, which corresponds to a value of 28 parts.

943. These dangerous levels then destroy all micro-organisms in the wider environment, which are of enormous importance for the preservation of all terrestrial life.

944. Shortly after the explosion, the ozone levels drop again very quickly and flatten out.

945. Certain elemental values, however, penetrate all matter and accumulate there for hundreds of years, destroying over and over again all micro-organisms that come into their vicinity.

946. This is the one factor related to ozone.

...

Billy:

But what about atomic radiation, which I calculate must have surrounded the Earth at very high altitudes?

Ptaah:

959. Your calculations are probably correct, but it is not actual atomic radiation.

960. As I said, very special elementary radiations as well as particles are produced by the explosion.

961. These are what reach very high altitudes and spread around the globe and affect different layers.

962. In your terms, these layers are named very differently, including one of the layers that is also at risk, which you call the Van Allen belt.

963. This belt consists in particular of electrons and protons captured by the terrestrial magnetic field, which have a vital function for terrestrial life.

964. However, I am not allowed to give more details about this, because from these explanations very many values could be drawn for your scientists for their researches and would give them means in their hands of which they could not yet become powerful.

...

965. The Van Allen belt is at an average altitude of 1,000 kilometres.

966. The charged particles are in constant motion, following spiral paths from pole to pole.

https://www.futureofmankind.co.uk/Billy_Meier/Contact_Report_150

Quetzal:

135. But practically all of the countries of the Earth will be shaken by lesser and greater quakes, whereby in different places, also volcanic eruptions will thereby come to light, which, as well, are partly due to the crazy human effort of destroying the Earth, but especially in recent years, the atomic bomb tests, etc. have contributed a large part to the release of these events.

Nuclear Power

https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Nuclear_power

https://www.futureofmankind.co.uk/Billy_Meier/Contact_Report_150

Billy:

... Is there really no way to use nuclear energy without causing great danger to human beings, animals, plants, etc.?

Quetzal:

80. This possibility exists, and we are also using it.

81. Earth-humans, however, are not yet able to do this.

82. Nevertheless, he works negligently and completely irresponsibly with nuclear energy, thereby deliberately creating deadly dangers for all life-forms.

83. Atomic energy may only be used by human beings in every respect when all the substances and waste materials produced can be used and processed without any danger whatsoever to such an extent that absolutely radiation-free matter is produced.

84. This, however, is only possible through a transformation process that converts the radioactive radiation back into the original matter, which in turn creates the original matter.

85. But if human beings work with or use radioactive materials before they are capable of the transformation process back to the original matter, then they are acting criminally and in violation of natural law in every form.

Billy:

But then how are the energy problems to be solved?

Quetzal:

86. Every planet always supplies its life-forms with sufficient natural energy, which is not dangerous in any way.

87. However, this requires that the planet has the normal population and does not fall prey to overpopulation.

88. The Earth is now overpopulated with about 4 billion (4,000,000,000) humans (1981) and has become completely disordered through the lust for power, profit and luxury of the Earth-humans.

89. If Earth-humans would be sensible and introduce an expedient birth stop, then a reduction of earthly humanity, back to the normal level of 529 million, could be carried out in a short time.

90. This would solve the energy problem naturally, as well as the problem of food procurement.

91. However, the stupidity of Earth-humans in this respect is boundless, for without any responsibility they violate all the laws of nature, whereby they are also unresponsive to the ending of this problem, to which must be added the false humanity that still protects and promotes this crime of overpopulation, as well as the problem of famine, etc.

92. The re-establishment of the normal population of earthly humanity alone would be the correct and only solution in the matter of solving the energy and food problems.

93. Everything else is always just illogical partial solutions, representing illogical effects from illogical origins.

Billy:

But after what is just today, surely there should be a solution to solve these problems.

Quetzal:

94. That is of correctness, but these solutions can only be time-conditioned, because the problems continue to grow due to the increasing overpopulation and thus due to the unreasonableness and greed of Earth-humans.

95. It would therefore be quite wrong for me to state and explain those possibilities which actually exist for thoroughly solving these problems of energy and food.

96. We can only get involved in the naming of such possibilities when Earth-humans make an effort to drastically reduce and naturally decimate planetary humanity to normal levels.

97. Only then would we be able to point out possibilities of problem solving so that these problems would actually be solved during the reduction.

Numerology

<https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Numerology>

https://www.futureofmankind.co.uk/Billy_Meier/Contact_Report_127

Billy:

... Anyway, I have occupied myself with these calculations for almost 40 years, but I always have to make these in a somewhat time-consuming manner because I have to put the letters of the Latin alphabet, which are common and familiar to me, back into the original letters of the Old-Lyran alphabet, in order to obtain the correct numerical values. Back then, however, Sfath and Asket taught me about the fact that this basically is not necessary because I can also work out and use the numerical values from the Latin alphabet. At that time, the numerical values for this alphabet were also mentioned to me, but I have forgotten these in the meantime because since then, I have only used the formula taught to me at that time. But now, I am also well aware that many Earth-twins have likewise dealt with kabbalism for many centuries and millennia and have compiled a great deal about this calculation technique, but in old times, the true numerical values were lost in part through destruction by fire or other loss. Years ago, however, I found a book by an old count, who called himself Cheiro and who wrote the 'Book of Numbers'. One also explained to me once, I believe it was Quetzal or you yourself, that these numbers are sometimes correct but, nevertheless, sometimes also incorrect. As I recall, it was also said that through these Cheiro numbers, interestingly enough, also various calculations could be produced nearly correctly, although crude miscalculations would come about. A phenomenon that one could not explain. Here, I have written down these Cheiro numbers on this slip of paper. I will read them out to you quickly:

A = 1 G = 3 M = 4 S = 3 Y = 1

B = 2 H = 5 N = 5 T = 4 Z = 7

C = 3 I = 1 O = 7 U = 6

D = 4 J = 1 P = 8 V = 6

E = 5 K = 2 Q = 1 W = 6

F = 8 L = 3 R = 2 X = 5

Now, as one explained to me once, the denominator nine is missing in this number assessment, but also at least two-thirds of the numbers are supposed to have incorrect values for the letters, which then even leads to inaccurate results and values. Also, various calculation forms and calculation formulas are not right, from which fundamentally incorrect end data and values arise, as I have found with different calculations. For example, it is well-known to me that the name falsely ascribed to Jmmanuel, JESUS CHRIST, must yield the addition-number 18 in both words, while according to Cheiro's calculations, however, the value 18 arises for JESUS and the number 24 represents CHRIST. I have also noticed such errors in other assessments. In the case of the effective number for the name JESUS CHRIST, Cheiro comes to the threefold value 888, although this would have to be the effective number 666, as this would also have to be the case for the designations Pope, Church, and God, etc. Also, Cheiro writes nothing of the fact that the calculation of this effective number must be calculated in consequence, that the addition-number must be divided by 3, and then the corresponding resultant number must be strung together, in order to yield the effective number. So for example, if 18 is taken and is divided by 3, then the result 6 arises. Now, 6 is located in the addition-result 3 times; consequently, these three sixes have to be strung together as a sequence number, so therefore as 666, which then embodies the effective number. But now, if the same values result in two successive names, words, or designations, then these become the absolute certainty that is fulfilled in effect, which is why this number is then also referred to as the certainty number or as the catastrophe number, if it is in the negative aspect, but which in this form, in the catastrophic, is only the case with the effective number 666, which expresses itself twice, however, because it appears in two different names at the same time and, thus, becomes the certain catastrophe number, the number of death, elimination, and destruction. But no indication of this is found in Cheiro's book; on the contrary, it is rejected due to incorrect calculations. I can only imagine that Cheiro, although he gave numerical values that come very close to the truth, had bad religious tendencies, which is why he just created or even falsified everything accordingly. In my opinion, only about ½ of his numbers mentioned are likely to be right, in truth.

Semjase:

13. Your thoughts and assumptions, even in this case, are based in a logical construction.

14. In the first months of our acquaintance, you brought me a copy of this book, which is why we talked about these issues once, during which I also explained to you that this man, Cheiro, in all forms of his collected kabbalistic assessments, lies very close to the truth, but that very many errors are still contained therein, but surprisingly, and in a way that is inexplicable to us, these sometimes generated results that are rather close to the truth.

...

17. But now, I will gladly give you the right numerical values, for they are familiar to me.

18. This is the list of all the values in detail:

19.

A = 2	G = 9	M = 4	S = 3	Y = 1
B = 9	H = 1	N = 5	T = 1	Z = 7
C = 1	I = 1	O = 7	U = 6
D = 5	J = 1	P = 6	V = 6
E = 5	K = 8	Q = 8	W = 6
F = 8	L = 5	R = 2	X = 5

20. These are the true numerical values for your alphabet.

21. You recognise that Cheiro actually gathered quite a lot of numerical values correctly when you consider the total number and, in addition, the great effort and work that he had, in order to find these numerical values.

22. Of all the numbers, only 10 of these are incorrect, which means a lot when one considers how Cheiro had to strive to ascertain all these data or to fathom them.

23. 16 numerical values correspond to the correctness, as you know now, and these are basically the ones that, during calculations, often lead to results that are close to the truth when they are used.

24. But these correctness-calculations with Cheiro's numerical values truly need to be tackled very carefully, because the remaining 10 incorrect ones still bring about bad errors.

25. Also, Cheiro's calculation formulas and ways of calculating do not always correspond to the correctness, but they can be used to about 50%.

26. Nevertheless, planetary calculations concerning horoscopic evaluations must be handled extremely carefully if the wrong calendrical support prevailing on the Earth is taken for assistance, because this incorrect timetable is divided into only 12 months of 30, 31, and 28 or 29 days.

...

Billy:

... As far as I know, however, our entire calendar is not right, because in truth, there should be 13 months per year.

Semjase:

28. Sure, that is right ...

https://www.futureofmankind.co.uk/Billy_Meier/Contact_Report_128

Semjase:

7. But I wanted you to recognise for yourself how illogical your question was regarding the numeric values, when you asked for the values of the letters of the Latin alphabet.

Billy:

Then it is really true that the numbers specified by you exclusively apply directly to the German alphabet and that fundamentally different values apply to each individual language?

Semjase:

8. Sure.

...

12. But if you now agree, then I will gladly mention the numeric values for the German language to you, because you basically wanted to get to know these from me in our last conversation.

Billy:

That is right, girl, but I have endeavoured myself around this and, at the same time, have also found out that the method of calculating various things with these numeric values cannot be calculated uniformly. So for example, for the destroyer number, 666, there arises a calculation procedure that runs completely counter to the calculation formulas, as they were stated by me in our last contact. I also found that there is only a numeric value difference from the Latin alphabet's numeric value of about one-fifth, which is, nevertheless, of tremendous significance. If you do not mind, I would like to lay these things before you, for which I have brought along six handwritten sheets of paper. I have worked for not less than four days and four nights, in order to find these results. Now, I would be curious to see to what extent my calculations are correct.

...

Numeric Values for the German Language

A	=	2
B	=	9
C	=	1
D	=	5
E	=	5
F	=	8
G	=	9
H	=	1
I	=	1
J	=	1
K	=	9
L	=	5
M	=	4
N	=	5
O	=	7
P	=	6
Q	=	8
R	=	2
T	=	1
U	=	6
V	=	6
W	=	6
X	=	6
Z	=	5

From these numeric values for the individual letters of the German language, it was found that different words and terms of this language yield and have received – contrary to their actual, original terms – completely new values, and that because the human being has worked cult-symbolic unvalues into them. Now, the question for this: To what extent are my present calculations correct?

...

Semjase:

16. Despite your unusually extensive knowledge of many things and despite your very great knowledge capacity, yet another time, you draw out my admiration and astonishment.

...

Billy:

You are making a fuss, as if I have suddenly become something very special. You seem to have gone a bit crazy all of a sudden, my child. You apparently forget that I received all of the values of the Latin alphabet from you, which served as the bases of calculation for me.

Semjase:

26. I forget that in no way, but you could not know that these values have only partial validity for the German language.

27. Furthermore, the numeric value differences existing between the German language and the Latin alphabet cannot be found simply through primitive mathematical calculations but solely through calculation forms that are still unknown to the human beings of Earth up to now and that even you do not know.

Billy:

You are just a little bit mistaken in that, my child.

Semjase:

28. With that, you surely do not want to say that the cosmic calculation forms are known to you?

Billy:

Yes, my child. You really should have already realised that long ago, because already several times, I have presented you results that I calculated by means of mathematical forms other than those of Earth. Only, I can very well make all sorts of calculations with these cosmic calculation forms and can thereby find the right results, but afterwards, I can then no longer remember, even with the best intention, how I actually calculated them.

Semjase:

29. That is understandable to me.

30. On the one hand, this apparent forgetfulness indicates that you actually use cosmic calculation forms, because this apparent forgetfulness represents the typical symptom of these calculation forms.

...

53. Have you used the cosmic storage block, in order to find your way into the cosmic calculation and mathematical forms?

Billy:

Why do you think that! I still remember very well how I have been urged to withdraw data from there always only if it would be impossible for me to calculate the necessary results or data myself. So far, I have always held myself to that and will also continue to do so. I have never had and will never have a reason to make use of the storage block unrightfully or otherwise unlawfully. There is just one thing with this that I do not understand entirely: The cosmic calculation and mathematical forms have become familiar to me, but they do not remain in my memory even with the best efforts. They simply disappear again after use, and all the formulas fall into oblivion. With these processes, however, more and more familiarities arise for me, which appear to me in such a manner as if the entire system of formulas, in my thoughts and calculations, would be steered in each case directly by the cosmic storage block, just as if this would be accountable and responsible for all these formulas. Can you explain to me what this is all about?

Semjase:

54. It is not necessary for me to still give an explanation about this, because you have already recognised the facts yourself.

...

Billy:

... So, for the effective numbers, during their calculations I came across the base value of 1, out of which the value 37 has arisen, which through multiplication forms a 3-digit value in a triple sequence, so thus an effective number which consists of three equal numeric values in a strung together sequence. So the following resulted:

$$\begin{aligned}
37 \times 3 &= 111 = 3 = 3 \\
37 \times 6 &= 222 = 6 = 6 \\
37 \times 9 &= 333 = 9 = 9 \\
37 \times 12 &= 444 = 12 = 3 \\
37 \times 15 &= 555 = 15 = 6 \\
37 \times 18 &= 666 = 18 = 9 \\
37 \times 21 &= 777 = 21 = 3 \\
37 \times 24 &= 888 = 24 = 6 \\
37 \times 27 &= 999 = 27 = 9
\end{aligned}$$

The numeric values of the effect-odd numbers also become laid out as separate assessments, but only in their added base number, so thus in the values of the effect-three-odd numbers:

1, 2, 4, 5, 7, 8

The effect-odd numbers themselves are:

$$\begin{aligned}
37 \times 1 &= (1) = 37 = 1 \\
37 \times 2 &= (2) = 74 = 2 \\
37 \times 4 &= (4) = 148 = 4 \\
37 \times 5 &= (5) = 185 = 5 \\
37 \times 7 &= (7) = 259 = 7 \\
37 \times 8 &= (8) = 296 = 8 \\
37 \times 10 &= (1) = 370 = 1 \\
37 \times 11 &= (2) = 407 = 2 \\
37 \times 13 &= (4) = 481 = 4 \\
37 \times 14 &= (5) = 518 = 5 \\
37 \times 16 &= (7) = 592 = 7 \\
37 \times 17 &= (8) = 629 = 8 \\
37 \times 19 &= (1) = 703 = 1 \\
37 \times 20 &= (2) = 740 = 2 \\
37 \times 22 &= (4) = 814 = 4 \\
37 \times 23 &= (5) = 851 = 5 \\
37 \times 25 &= (7) = 925 = 7 \\
37 \times 26 &= (8) = 962 = 8 \\
37 \times 28 &= (1) = 1036 = 1 \\
37 \times 29 &= (2) = 1073 = 2 \\
37 \times 30 &= (3) = 1110 = 3
\end{aligned}$$

Then I have here the effective numeric values of those over the 3-value number 27 as well as the odd ones below the 3-value number 27:

- 1) In these calculation cases, the resulting addition numbers must be calculated back and reduced to the base number.
- 2) With the resulting remaining numbers, which in every single calculation case can always only be the value 1 or 2, the following rule applies:

a) 1 = With the remaining number of 1, it must be rounded down to the next lower 3-value number. If a valid 3-value number is reached through the base number calculation, then this number counts as a basis number.

Then, as a further calculation basis, one is to proceed from this basis number as a base value number.

b) 2 = With the remaining number of 2, it must be rounded up to the next higher 3-value number. If a valid 3-value number is reached through the base number calculation, then this number counts as a basis number.

Then, as a further calculation basis, one is to proceed from this basis number as a base value number.

3) With resulting base number values below the value number of 3, the result is multiplied by the number 7, from which then again the base value number is calculated, with the possibly necessary rounding up or rounding down by the possibly resulting remaining value of 1 or 2. Now the question for this: Here in my calculations, have any errors crept in yet, and if so, where are they?

Semjase:

61. Your calculation remarks correspond to the correctness so much that a comment on them is unnecessary.

...

Billy:

... Then I will now come to the effective numeric values:

The Effective Numeric Values in Their Origination

The effective numbers are calculated by the connecting and multiplication number 37 arising out of the number 1, where for these calculations, solely the number 37 applies as a multiplication number for the final calculated triple base value number (e.g. = base number calculated with the value $9 = 37 \times 9 = 333$).

The triple addition numbers in the triple value from 3 to 27 are valid as basis base numbers for the effective number calculation and, hence, as source and end base numbers in the block of the effective number calculation.

Thus, these are the base numbers

12

15

18

21

24

27

The numeric values lying between these 3-value numbers as well as the ones lying over these 3-value numbers are converted as I have explained.

Thus, I already come to the effective number of degeneracy, of death in degeneracy, of elimination and destruction

To the number 666

The effective number of this form and this value can always only be calculated in the sequence of a threefold union-value of three connecting-creating words or terms, each with the addition base number of 18 for each word or each term in a simple base number calculation without remaining values and in the first computation power.

The three words or terms, in the self-addition value, as I already explained, each have to yield the base addition number 18, where they also have to exhibit an absolute connecting value, as for example:

Krieg (War)
Tode (Death)
Mord (Murder)

The self-addition number of these three terms in their self-addition amounts in each case to the numeric value 18, but where the base number value of the term KRIEG is calculated differently than with the words "Tode" and "Mord," on which I will come to speak, but a little later.

The calculation for the base number calculation, for this example, is as follows:

K r i e g
9 2 1 5 9
18

1 7 5 5
18

4 7 2 5

The terms Krieg, Tode, and Mord have a direct sense of alliance or even a direct connection to each other, because Krieg [war], as is well known, is marked by many Toden [deaths] and by Mord [murder]. Therefore, in this connection, as a result of each individual word value, the threefold addition base number assessment is given as a starting point for the effective number calculation. The words connected with one another in their meanings create, on the one hand, a belonging together connection, but at the same time, each also exhibits the base number 18, which, added from all three words, results in the number 54, which divided by 3, in turn, leads to the result 18. And exactly this number 18 is now of importance, namely as an end result of the entire calculation.

After this final base number calculation, the continuation and, therefore, the effective number calculation arises with the multiplication number 37, which is now being brought in. So the calculation, then, is:

From this, it follows that the circle closes itself if the effective number is added again and the starting value 18 arises as an end base number again.

Now I come to the effective number calculation in another form, with the denominator 18 as an addition value number, with word beginnings and word endings.

In this form of base number calculations of addition, the first letter and the last letter of a word or term have to result in the base number value 18. This number then counts as a basis point for the effective number calculation. In this form, the first letter and the last letter of a word or term can each only exhibit the numeric value 9, which adds up to the number 18, so the starting number for the calculation of the effective number: $37 \times 18 = 666 = 18$.

Examples of words and terms with assessments of the first and last letters:

and so on and so forth

So these are some words and terms with the beginning and end numbers of 9, which together add up to 18 in each case and which also have corresponding connection values among themselves or with other words and values of the same character, so for example with words and assessments, etc. as they are listed following this and which, in each case, in the primary calculation, also result in the base number 18 as an addition value and which also have a direct sense of connection among themselves and are thereby joined in a threefold form to the absolutely degenerate, delusive, destructive, exterminating, and deadly value:

So, with that I am finished for the time being with my explanations about my calculations. It would now be interesting to know whether these are also correct now or whether there are errors now in these?

Semjase:

64. Also for this, it is superfluous to add a comment.

65. Everything is error-free.

Barack Obama

https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Barack_Obama

https://www.futureofmankind.co.uk/Billy_Meier/Contact_Report_871

Quetzal:

... The next US president to be elected was the lawyer Barack Hussein Obama from Honolulu, Hawaii, a US politician of colour who was a Democrat and whose father had immigrated from Kenya/Africa. Obama's election as president was characterised by scandals and there were 10 opposing candidates waiting in the wings. Obama is a supporter of the death penalty and thus a wolf in sheep's clothing, because this advocacy contradicts everything he otherwise claimed to be against human discrimination.

Billy:

In the next few years and decades, comets will pass through the sky more frequently again, also such comets as Halley's Comet, which can practically be observed in broad daylight in the sky. Now my question: When you took me on the Great Journey {see Contact Report 31} in 1975, I saw outside our solar and planetary system the enormous belt of materials made of frozen acids, rocks, Adonids and lifeless planets, some of which were quite large. Similar to the asteroid belt outside the orbit of Mars, this belt also moves around the Sun, but very far outside the orbit of Pluto. At that time you explained to me that celestial bodies of all kinds passing by this belt, such as dark stars and other space bodies, from time to time tear smaller or larger bodies out of this belt and bring them into a different orbit to the Sun, which can then be observed and thus seen from Earth, partly as comets. If I remember correctly, you told me at that time that the extent of this belt was still largely unknown to Earth-humans, but that more would soon be discovered, which apparently has not yet been the case, because I have not yet seen, heard or read anything about it. Furthermore, you have explained that this material belt consists of residues from the formation of the solar system and of immigrant materials from outer space, etc. Now I wonder what percentage of comets is occurring in our solar system that originates from this material belt outside the Pluto orbit. (See 'Existent Life in the Universe' by Billy, Wassermanzeit Publishing).

Quetzal:

239. It has probably escaped your attention, but this belt was in the meantime discovered and actually by a Dutch astronomer named Oort.

240. In accordance with his discovery, the discovered belt will be called the Oort Cloud in Earth's scientific circles, but that is about it, because the connections of this belt to the comets of the SOL-system are still, to my knowledge, foreign and unknown to the Earth scientists.

241. The truth is, however, that around 97% of the SOL-system comets originate from this belt, just as planetary bodies passing by this belt, by their gravitational pull, upset the trajectory of the materials, so that they then suddenly swirl around and from them, isolated larger and smaller objects detach themselves, to be forced into a new orbit around the sun system, where they then appear as comets, while others fly far away from the sun into free space to disappear somewhere in the vastness of space, often also as dark wandering planets, which are sometimes also caught again by larger stars as satellites and then orbit them far away from the new parent stars.

242. Others, however, rush uncontrollably through space as dark wandering objects.

Billy:

So then only about 3% of all comets in the SOL-system originate from outside and from somewhere in space.

Quetzal:

243. That is of correctness.

Quetzal:

86. Every planet always supplies its life-forms with sufficient natural energy, which is not dangerous in any way.

87. However, this requires that the planet has the normal population and does not fall prey to overpopulation.

88. The Earth is now overpopulated with about 4 billion (4,000,000,000) humans (1981) and has become completely disordered through the lust for power, profit and luxury of the Earth-humans.

89. If Earth-humans would be sensible and introduce an expedient birth stop, then a reduction of earthly humanity, back to the normal level of 529 million, could be carried out in a short time.

90. This would solve the energy problem naturally, as well as the problem of food procurement.

91. However, the stupidity of Earth-humans in this respect is boundless, for without any responsibility they violate all the laws of nature, whereby they are also unresponsive to the ending of this problem, to which must be added the false humanity that still protects and promotes this crime of overpopulation, as well as the problem of famine, etc.

92. The re-establishment of the normal population of earthly humanity alone would be the correct and only solution in the matter of solving the energy and food problems.

93. Everything else is always just illogical partial solutions, representing illogical effects from illogical origins.

Billy:

But after what is just today, surely there should be a solution to solve these problems.

Quetzal:

94. That is of correctness, but these solutions can only be time-conditioned, because the problems continue to grow due to the increasing overpopulation and thus due to the unreasonableness and greed of Earth-humans.

95. It would therefore be quite wrong for me to state and explain those possibilities which actually exist for thoroughly solving these problems of energy and food.

96. We can only get involved in the naming of such possibilities when Earth-humans make an effort to drastically reduce and naturally decimate planetary humanity to normal levels.

97. Only then would we be able to point out possibilities of problem solving so that these problems would actually be solved during the reduction.

{Note: Please see the full Contact Report for the context of this entry.}

Billy:

... But the danger of the disturbance or even the destruction of destiny-swinging waves is presently very large, due to the wrong lifestyles and the wrong environmental influences associated with them and so on, but above all, due to the fact that the lack of knowledge of the human beings – in relation to the teaching and its impact, as well as to the causes and effects of thinking, of material consciousness, as well as of the workings of the subconscious and the determinations and the power of the psyche – usually lets the human beings act wrongfully, whereby they ignore their determinations and even destroy them in many cases. This usually leads to the fact that descendants who were not determined are produced, who must grow up in one case without a father or in another case with a wrong father and a wrong mother, when an already false and not determined marriage is entered, or when, through another false and not determined marriage, they are brought up by a just as wrong foster father. This, then, is often the reason why such children are abused by their forced parents and are even killed, but in the very least cases, they simply find disdain or expulsion. The human beings of the Earth then simply call such parents cruel parents. But through the overall disregard of the provision for marriage, it also happens that many wrong and not determined marriages are entered, from which also many descendants originate who also are not determined. These descendants then largely find no connection in their families, as well as not in the environment and in the society of their civilisation. As I know, you designate these non-determined descendants as descendants of overpopulation. These are human beings who are produced thoughtlessly and through falsehood and who become placed into the world and who, therefore, cannot find their way in the world within a natural framework. These, then, are those who operate illegally, who become terrorists and anarchists and who want to turn the world and the social order upside down with murder, mayhem and violence, or with sectarianism and fanaticism. And the more the human beings of the Earth produce such not determined or unconsidered offspring and bring them into the world, the greater the number of human beings of overpopulation and, with it, the number of those who cry for murder, war, mayhem, revenge, hatred, sectarianism, fanaticism, terrorism, and anarchism and who also manage it all. From this, it follows that with the number of the overpopulation – containing not determined as well as irresponsibly produced descendants – murder, mayhem, crime, and sectarianism, etc. continue to grow steadily and tremendously and cannot be contained. But these non-determined, as well as irresponsibly produced descendants, also include those flipped-out ones who are abnormal or have fallen to euphoria, etc.

https://www.futureofmankind.co.uk/Billy_Meier/Contact_Report_166

Billy:

You are asking for a lot there, just as if you would require that the human beings of Earth should stop their population explosion. Even lust, greed, obsession, and irrationality are too greatly and deeply rooted in human beings for words of reason to be able to resolve this. That is why the problems also do not become smaller, even though new solutions are always sought and found, whether it concerns the area of rising crime, the threat of war, and the wars and revolutions, or whether it concerns famine, the energy problem, diseases, and so on and so forth. If all of us would think logically and rationally about all this, then we would all know damn well that none of these problems of the Earth-humans can be satisfactorily resolved or corrected because all solutions are only self-deceptive solutions, for every solution to a problem only solves it momentarily – for a period of several months at the most. Thus, all solutions toward resolving the problems are only apparent solutions that represent a catastrophic self-deception, for, in truth, the problems do not become solved at all. Any self-deceptive solution of the human beings of Earth, namely whether it concerns the construction of a new nuclear power plant or the new surveying of oil sources or grain productions, etc., only leads to the fact that earthly humanity always continues to rise sharply, by which means the solution becomes self-deception, for through this, the apparently solved problem inflates to a new farce. Thus, if the human being of Earth truly wants to solve his/her already catastrophically degenerated problems of hunger, energy shortage, illnesses, criminal activity, and wars and revolutions, etc., then for this, there is only one way which exhibits no mercy, namely an absolute, legally arranged birth stop across the whole world. At the same time, this birth stop would have to be monitored in such a manner that, for the preservation of humanity and new blood, a certain number of descendants may only be generated every seven years, and then again, seven years of the birth stop would have to be the rule. This would then have to be carried out until Earth humanity would be reduced to an acceptable and natural measure, through the naturally occurring deaths of the excess population. There is simply no other way to solve the problem because every other way violates the natural laws and, therefore, represents a self-deception.

Quetzal:

48. Of clearer correctness, you could not have explained these matters.

49. Indeed, all problems of the Earth-humans can only be solved in this kind and wise.

50. Obviously, you have made profound thoughts about this, through which you have encountered the seven-year cycle, as we have also acquired this as a true solution, and even the High Council and Arahath Athersata have only found this advice for the Earth-humans as the true solution to the problem.

Billy:

... if the people of the Earth would let themselves be led and taught, then a lot of the evil of this world could lie in overpopulation.

Quetzal:

530. That is of absolute correctness.

531. The majority of all vile things, machinations, and catastrophes must be searched for in overpopulation.

https://www.futureofmankind.co.uk/Billy_Meier/Contact_Report_867

Billy:

... This on the one hand, on the other hand nothing is being done – such as authoritative information and enlightenment etc., which would have to be announced worldwide – so that the constant run on births finally decreases and the overpopulation, which has been overflowing for a long time, is stopped decisively by a proclaimed, controlled stop to births. For it is still not understood by the rulers and the world population that all the evils and catastrophes of the world, from the smallest to the greatest, have come about and are now rampant worldwide through the irresponsible machinations and sole guilt of the overpopulation and its immeasurable consequences. This has destroyed not only the climate, but very large parts of the planet itself, through the exploitation of resources, as well as a frighteningly large part of nature, its waters, the seas, as well as the deserts, glaciers, forests, mountains, floodplains and corridors, as well as the 'eternal' ice of the Arctic and Antarctic, as well as countless thousands of animals, creatures and other forms of natural life, as well as plants of various genera and species, which have been completely and forever wiped out. The massive fires of the forest fires alone – Ptaah, in a private conversation about 2 years ago or so, spoke of a pyrocene and so of an age of fire – are destroying so much that it is indeed frightening, with countless life-forms also being killed and their habitats destroyed. At present, some 160 genera and species are being completely and definitively wiped out day by day, thus destroying the biodiversity necessary for all life. ...

...

And everything continues in this wise, because the majority of the rulers and the peoples, in their ignorance, prefer to turn to partisan wars instead of doing the wise thing, so that peace can finally be made among the peoples on Earth and all destruction, annihilation and extermination can be ended, so that the planet and the entire ecosystems, and thus nature in its entirety, can live again and, in the course of centuries, recover to some extent. The majority of all rulers of the world, as well as the majority of all peoples of the Earth, are a brainless mass consisting of stupid puppet masters and puppet wives who are absolutely incapable of recognising where the shoe pinches on the Earth and that everything is being destroyed, namely all life on the planet and everything that is alive on it. This is not all, however, because crime and criminality, which are becoming more and more rampant worldwide and can no longer be controlled by all security organs, can also only be contained and brought under control again by drastically reducing humanity rapidly through a worldwide and controlled birth stop lasting several years. When one thinks of the crime rate and the millions of criminals of the family clans that prevail in Germany, as well as the Mafia in the most diverse states and all the criminal organisations around the world, then it is truly time that this criminal system not only has its wings clipped, but that they are completely removed. And if there is further talk of reducing the catastrophic overpopulation that is destroying, destroying and exterminating the whole world and nature and totally everything, then it is the case that in the wise of all human beings only about 500 million human beings should ultimately populate the Earth. This is what the Earth is also designed for in its size, in order to feed and keep alive correctly and without problems all the life existing in every species and kind on this earth. However, since this is disregarded by the majority of all rulers all over the world, as well as by the majority of all peoples worldwide, and overpopulation is further promoted – according to the idiotic heresy 'go and multiply' – everything is inexorably getting worse and going on. All the destruction, annihilation and extermination of all kinds are bringing more and more misery, hardship and stultification and lack of space for the human beings, as a result of which not only the wild creatures of all genera and species are being exterminated, because these creatures living in the wild can no longer find room to live due to the spread of the ever increasing overpopulation.

Quetzal:

I can only judge and confirm all this as correct, because in fact everything is as you mention. ...

https://www.futureofmankind.co.uk/Billy_Meier/Contact_Report_871

Billy:

... Overpopulation brought about early on that everything on and around the planet, the whole of nature and its fauna and flora, began to change adversely as a result. When earlier eras brought about natural changes, resulting in climate changes and the extinction of many genera and species of animals, creatures and other life-forms everywhere on and in the Earth, as well as aquatic creatures in the seas, lakes and rivers, bogs and marshes, and also life-forms flying in the air, then these were really evolutionary processes that occurred as a result of the development of the planet and its nature. This is the opposite of what the Earthling, the human being of Earth, has started since his crazy breeding from the year 1700, when the Earthling population was just 536 million and just over 700 thousand human beings. Within just 100 years, however, this had increased to 892 million and around 330 thousand, and again in the course of 100 years to 1 billion, 660 million and 990 thousand. In 1950 it was already 2 billion and 600 million, which then steadily increased until 12 months ago to 9 billion and 339 million, so that by the end of this year 2023, when the human population is counted, another 130 million or so will be added, contrary to the incorrect count of the world growth clock, which will show much less because it is not correct.

Well, what has now happened and is still happening with regard to climate change, this time it is not due to planetary evolution and is therefore abnormal, brought about by human overpopulation. The origin of the change has already begun with the exceeding of the number of human beings that the planet Earth was able to bear, feed and cope with in any form without any problems. But with the wild boundless increase in overpopulation from 536.7 million human beings to 9 billion and 339 million in just 3 centuries and 23 years, it was enough to destroy and penalise planet Earth, its nature and its fauna and flora to such an extent and force very nasty changes that a climate upheaval was inevitable. This violent climate upheaval, caused solely by the fault of overpopulation, which is trivialised and only called climate change, was provoked solely by the Earthlings and their destructive, uncontrolled, absolutely and completely irresponsible machinations. However, the uncontrolled and in the future even more uncontrollable rapid development of technology also played a decisive role – which, moreover, can no longer be controlled in the future and will bring great disaster, as I have seen together with Sfath.

From the year 2020 onwards – according to future forecasts made on the spot – around 60,000 life-forms of all genera and species will disappear worldwide every year, starting with insects of all the tens of thousands of genera and species, e.g. moths, beetles, spiders, moths, beetles and spiders: Moths, beetles, spiders, scorpions, worms; animals = exclusively mammals, such as platypuses, sea otters, manatees, dolphins, seals, whales, bats, flying foxes, etc.; the amphibians = newts, toads, frogs, birds, fish, lizards, reptiles, creepers; the animals = crawling creatures, turtles. But it also includes all genera and species of plants, from simple mosses to grasses of all kinds, flowers, shrubs, herbaceous perennials and trees, and so on. And when science talks about 'species extinction', this is fundamentally wrong, because it is not only species but also genera that are 'disappearing' from nature and from the planet. Many are dying out because the climatic conditions that are vital for these creatures are disappearing, regardless of whether they live on or in the Earth, in the oceans, lakes and rivers, streams or other bodies of water, in bogs or swamps, etc. or in the air and atmosphere. Climate change also changes the soil inside and outside, the condition of all bodies of water and even the state of the atmosphere resp. the air. This means that living organisms can die out naturally in a wise way if their vital living environment changes and simply becomes hostile to life. However, many living creatures in nature are ruthlessly wiped out by human beings through poisons, killing, displacement, overbuilding of meadows, fields, farmland, mountainous areas and floodplains, etc. Waters, lakes, streams, rivers, seas and other bodies of water are contaminated with rubbish, plastic, poisons and plastics, which not only change the content of the water, but also kill aquatic life-forms and cause them to die miserably. And when I talk about miserable death through the fault of human beings, I am referring to the unstoppable, constant, limitless and irresponsibly rampant increase in overpopulation. Its very sinister machinations extend throughout the whole world, even into the jungle areas resp. into the primeval forests, where much unique life can be found that is not even known to the loud-mouthed scientists who pretend to be 'knowledgeable' and in truth know very little. ...

https://www.futureofmankind.co.uk/Billy_Meier/Contact_Report_872

Billy:

... The measures against the catastrophic pollution are neither recognised and implemented by human beings nor by the political loudmouths in the manner that would be effectively necessary, namely, first and foremost, the most important thing is to drastically reduce overpopulation. This is the main reason for all the destruction, annihilation and extinction of fauna and flora, which affects around 60,000 genera and species every year, which simply disappear forever and ever from all areas of life on Earth.

Hundreds of millions of taxpayers' money have already been invested in environmental protection, but without solving the problems that have arisen, because if you take a closer look, those responsible have acted like 'gobshites', i.e. snotty brats, and senselessly squandered the money they took from taxpayers. And the imbecile rulers are also acting in the same manner now, completely headless and with idiotic measures that are tantamount to terror and do nothing to bring about any improvement. This is because they do not realise that the only true and only solution is a controlled global stop to births and that this should be implemented. But the fact that this should be done is also not understood by those who – just for the sake of the money they receive from millionaires – demonstrate and cling to the streets.

The consequences of this senseless behaviour are borne by no one other than nature, its forests and the entire flora and fauna. All of the world's ice glaciers, the Antarctic and the Arctic are melting, the atmosphere is also becoming increasingly poisoned, the climate has changed for the worse and is now causing natural disasters, landslides and flooding as a result of tremendous rainfall. Air pollution, as well as environmental pollution and all the destruction, annihilation and extinction are getting worse and also more catastrophic, because the unreasonable and unstoppable, constantly growing and irresponsibly increasing overpopulation continues to grow faster and faster and unstoppably, inevitably creating more and more pollution and environmental destruction and causing the extinction of fauna and flora. All ecosystems are being destroyed and otherwise impaired in their natural course to such an extent that they cannot regenerate.

Overpopulation is to be stopped and drastically reduced to only 500 million through a worldwide official decree of a worldwide and controlled birth stop, as adopted in America by ... and recorded in the Georgia Guidestone, but blown up and destroyed by order and as a result of the fanatical faith of ... so that reality and its truth regarding the lies and deception of religious faith cannot penetrate.

... And truly, all the evil of all the destruction, annihilation and extinction of the world's fauna and flora is and remains solely the fault of the massive overpopulation, which must be drastically reduced worldwide to a figure of just 500,000,000. And this must be achieved through logic, clear reason, authoritative rationality and all-encompassing responsibility, i.e. not through any form of violence, such as murder, manslaughter, war, terror, capital punishment, euthanasia or suicide. Only logic, a clear mind, reason and responsibility for the existence of the planet, all ecosystems, nature, fauna and flora, which also includes human beings on Earth, are necessary and truly righteous in order to bring everything about to such an extent that everything is normalised in the best wise manner. However, this requires all-round responsible global leadership and enlightenment with regard to humanity, which can only be achieved by persons who are aware of their responsibilities and who are committed to absolute, honest, capable, good and correct leadership of the people. This, as they are not concerned with selfishness and personal wealth, and also not with other advantages, so they are thoughtful rulers and know what has to be done. Only true logic, common sense and clear reason, as well as responsibility, can bring about the correct thing, which lies solely in a worldwide and controlled birth stop, which must be implemented over many years and adhered to until the population level of only 500,000,000 human beings is reached as a result of the reduction. After that, it is important to ensure that this population remains constant for all time and never again brings destruction, annihilation and extinction due to overpopulation.

Billy:

I know that, and that will be unalterable, for that is so, but unfortunately it is also not understood by those who believe that they could let everything continue to exist by looking for a new Earth. They do not see that everything is illusory unless overpopulation is quickly reduced through a truly global multi-year as well as strictly controlled birth freeze. However, every word is spoken into the wind, I realise that, and consequently it may be thought about when it is too late.

https://www.futureofmankind.co.uk/Billy_Meier/Contact_Report_875

Billy:

... The truth is not in demand, and anyone who speaks and spreads it openly is no longer sure of their reputation or even their life, because those who tell the truth are simply 'put out of the way' without pardon. This also happens to those human beings who stand up for the truth about overpopulation, who tell the truth against all the claims of those who rely on the false lies of the world population census based on fraud and allow themselves to be misled by it. It is also a lie that only about 50,000 or 54,000 genera and species of animals, creatures, other self-propelled life-forms and small and large plants die out every year, but that there are about 60,000 per year is – perhaps erroneously – not said. It is also not said that overpopulation is entirely to blame for this, because nature is being robbed of its land and mountain areas and built up with houses, apartment blocks, roads, sports grounds and factories, etc. Forests are also being cleared and deforested. Forests are also being cleared and robbed, namely around 22,000 hectares per year, which I calculate to be 220 million square metres. Through the fault of human beings, this not only destroys the habitats of wildlife, but also wipes out many genera and species of wild animals, wild creatures and other self-perpetuating life-forms, as well as the smallest and largest plants. And human beings are also so irresponsible that they are also drastically reducing wildlife through hunting. Not only are many wolves killed, which logically prey on sheep and goats, which are kept in oversized herds due to the demand for meat as a result of ever-increasing overpopulation and are also driven across the countryside and meadows, but also roe deer, stags, chamois and lynx, badgers, wild sows, hares, marmots, weasels, raccoon dogs, raccoons, wild birds and foxes, etc. All this is done just for the sake of it. And all this is only done for the sake of the hobby of being able to shoot and kill living creatures, but not – as is mendaciously claimed – to regulate the game population, but to adapt it to the overpopulation, which began to increase in 1701 and has rapidly and violently exceeded the limits of what the Earth is capable of supporting, feeding and enduring. By 1945 at the latest, after Hitler's World War, there should have been a worldwide and strictly controlled stop of births in order to reduce the overpopulation of 2.55 billion back to the normal level of around 500 million, which is the maximum that can and may be calculated for planet Earth in terms of its size and the fertile land for the cultivation of natural food for Earth's humanity. ...

https://www.futureofmankind.co.uk/Billy_Meier/Contact_Report_876

{Billy:}

Overpopulation

The human being lives in the excess of his overpopulation as if he owned the Earth, but he is only an iota of the great whole and a guest and is, if it is taken exactly, absolutely dispensable for the planet and its nature and all its ecosystems, because these get along absolutely without the Earth's humanity, whereas the human being cannot live without the whole of nature, which he and all its ecosystems and even the planet itself criminally destroys with all evil machinations and means. There is truly no other living being on Earth that does this irrevocably and sustainably, only the human being alone, who destroys not only his own habitat, but also the habitat of all living beings. And so it happens for all habitats, namely for human beings themselves, for all animals, creatures and all self-propelled life-forms, as well as for all the largest and smallest plants worldwide on Earth, in its fields, meadows, meadows and forests, in caves and other cavities in the Earth's interior, in the mountains, seas, lakes, rivers, streams, puddles and rivulets, as well as in the moors, swamps and reeds. And every day, around 160 life-forms of all genera and species are wiped out through the fault of human beings, as a result of their destruction and devastation of all these important ecological areas, and in some cases also through their direct actions in the form of shooting, poisoning or other forms of killing. However, despite all this monstrosity, it does not occur to the Earthling to drastically reduce its overpopulation in the completely normal way of a controlled birth stop and necessarily over a period of years in order to bring Earth's humanity to a normal population level, which is to be calculated at around 500 million human beings for the entire Earth planet. However, at 9.44 billion in 2024, this measure has been exceeded 18-fold, whereby this overpopulation was created in just 300 years, namely from the year 1701, when 536 million, 718 thousand and 004 human beings still populated the Earth.

Since ancient times, when the earthlings did not grow as old in years, they have become more capable of increasing their life expectancy through all other kinds of life-prolonging drugs and nutritional supplements, etc. Thus, the life expectancy of the human beings – at least in rich industrialised countries – has risen to around 75 years, in Japan to over 80 years, while in southern and underdeveloped countries the life expectancy is 50 to 60 years. The population growth in the industrialised countries is currently not as very grave as in countries where there are no or only small industrial companies – from where countless economic refugees are also seeking their way to the European industrialised countries, or to America and Canada, in which case many fall victim to death on the journey. However, this should not obscure the fact that more and more descendants are also increasing the population in the rich industrialised countries and thus countless new residential buildings, highrise ghettos, factories, roads, airport expansions, sports fields and paths etc. have to be built, wherethrough the fertile land is destroyed, just as there is a need for more nourishment, medicines, consumer goods, luxury items as well as means of transport etc., etc., just as also more and more of the whole environment is polluted, the same also as all nature and every habitat for wildlife and the world of plants is destructed and destroyed.

The increase in populations on Earth is mainly and primarily taking place in the countries of India – which is expected to overtake the most populous country on Earth to date, China, in a few years – Egypt, Indonesia, Tanzania, Nigeria, Pakistan, the USA, the Democratic Republic of Congo and also Ethiopia, and so on. If the rampant overpopulation growth is not finally counteracted with a very strictly controlled, multi-year, global birth rate freeze, the entire world population will become so exuberant that it may rise to over 14 billion and everything will degenerate into a very nasty catastrophe. Environmental protection is already a farce, a lot of money is being spent on nonsensical and ineffective things because they will be outdated and worthless in a short space of time, because overpopulation has once again outstripped and cancelled everything out. If everything is not changed for the better very quickly and the already long-lived affluent human society is drastically reduced through a global and controlled birth stop, then nature will be further plundered and poisoned, contaminated and effectively 'eaten dry', the planet will be robbed of its remaining resources and then for the Earthlings its continued existence is indeed 'Matthew at the last'. Everything will then be completely destroyed, irrevocably and much faster than human beings can imagine. But until it really gets to that point, it will become increasingly uncomfortable on the planet, because CO₂ emissions are getting worse and worse and are poisoning the atmosphere – along with other toxins – more and more, making it increasingly difficult and precarious and deadly for human beings – and all living things in general – to breathe. Many people are already dying of respiratory distress because breath-hardening toxins are being inhaled instead of pure oxygen, with the toxic gas CO₂ in particular making up the largest proportion that hinders breathing. The production of food – food and drink – for human beings alone currently generates 1/3 of total CO₂ emissions, and this amount will increase in relation to the further growth of humanity. As mentioned above, this figure may reach 14 billion (14,000,000,000) if it is not finally recognised and understood that only a worldwide and officially controlled stop to the birth rate can save us from extinction. All the nonsense that is being fabricated elsewhere, such as the attempt at failing and completely pointless as well as crazy, misguided environmental protection measures that cost millions and millions of dollars, will achieve nothing at all. This is because the only solution to saving planet Earth, all ecosystems, nature, its fauna and flora and human beings is to drastically and rapidly reduce overpopulation by stopping the birth rate worldwide and in a controlled manner. There is no other solution, so all other and completely thoughtless 'efforts' and 'attempts' etc. are completely pointless, but this does not occur to the environmental demonstrators, the 'experts' and loudmouths of environmental protection and the other 'greats' of those 'specialists' who know everything better and are not even capable of calculating and imagining what the future holds. They are also just as blind-sighted and mendacious as the parts of governments that lie to the people and conceal the real truth from them, thereby making money for their own pockets, as they have done and are still doing, for example, with the Corona pandemic resp. with the ineffective vaccinations against the Corona rampantly spreading disease, which according to earthly experts has cost over 17 million human lives, but to which the Plejaren declare that it was over 22 million. ...

Unfortunately, people also lie and cheat about overpopulation and claim that it is much lower than it really is. The world population count clock supplies earthly humanity with false figures and deceives them, because at present it counts a world population of just 8 billion and around 155 million human beings, whereas in reality, according to Plejaren counts and data, 9 billion and 440 million human beings populate planet Earth, which corresponds to around 1 billion and 300 million more. And these figures are accurate and prove the world population clock to be a lie and a fraud, but this is not recognised by the 'clever' and loud-mouthed know-it-alls of the Earthlings, who supposedly deal 'accurately' with overpopulation and its horrendous mass and growth. For the future, these 'experts' claim that only in the year 2100 will there be between 9.4

and 12 billion human beings on Earth – whereby there is no mention of overpopulation at all. The following is all that is written:

Quote:

"However, this estimate is subject to uncertainty. Global migration is rapidly changing the populations of individual countries, as both birth rates and mortality rates may also change unexpectedly over the next 80 years. And that could lead to problems.

Over the millennia, more than 198 billion human beings have been born on Earth. By mid-2019, the current world population had risen to 7.7 billion human beings (according to Plejaren data, however, it was around 9.100 billion). This means that we, who are currently alive, make up about 7 per cent (wrong earthly figures) of all human beings who have ever lived on Earth. And there will be more. Even more. The world's population is growing rapidly. 'It has been growing by around 80 million per year for four decades' (wrong: according to Plejaren's exact count, it averages 105 million per year), says Dr Reiner Klingholz, Director of the Berlin Institute for Population and Development."

End of quote.

The exponential world population will probably come to an end at some point, because the destructive damage caused by overpopulation to the planet, to all ecosystems and thus to all nature and its fauna and flora, as well as the destruction and extinction, will take its revenge. On the one hand, the growth of overpopulation will continue to collapse because poverty and diseases and rampantly spreading diseases will become more and more rampant as evil epidemics and pandemics, just as wars will also cause a reduction in humanity worldwide. Climate change and the resulting catastrophes and the poisoning of the atmosphere will also take so many lives that the world's population will decline, but this will not be enough to reduce overpopulation to such an extent that everyone can live a reasonably good and healthy life again and all existence on Earth can recover, normalise and function properly and correctly. The very fact that human beings are getting older and older and therefore living much longer, as well as the poisoning of the atmosphere, drug addiction and rising crime and crimes relating to human trafficking, murder and manslaughter will become more and more widespread in the future, just as overpopulation – contrary to false and mendacious claims and 'clarifications' to the contrary – is being irresponsibly and senselessly driven up, will cause more and more very unpleasant and evil things in the future, also with regard to the health of human beings, whose immunity in this regard is suffering damage. That is what I have to say this time regarding overpopulation.

https://www.futureofmankind.co.uk/Billy_Meier/Contact_Report_878

Billy:

... The planet Earth is designed for around 500 million human beings, not for a crazy and all-destructive overpopulation that has so far exceeded 500 million 18 times over. It is idiotic, especially on the part of Putin and Germany etc., to call on the peoples to produce many more offspring. This is despite the fact that humanity has already insanely done everything it can to overpopulate planet Earth 18 times beyond its tolerable level of 500 million human beings, and that within just 300 years. This is despite the fact that in the last 73 years alone, no less than 6 billion 846 million 171 thousand and 12 human beings have been born, exceeding the measure of all things. And there is no mention of the fact that this overpopulation resp. its completely irresponsible machinations have exploited almost all of the planet's resources. The fact that as a result of human overpopulation resp. their machinations not only the planet and all ecosystems and thus the whole of nature and its fauna and flora have been impaired and huge parts destroyed and continue to be destroyed is of no concern to the majority of Earthlings, especially those who make money by exploiting the Earth's resources. The fact that the atmosphere is being polluted and poisoned, especially with petroleum in the form of petrol and diesel oil, is only of concern to an absolute minority of human beings on Earth. The great mass of humanity and especially the majority of loud-mouthed rulers are indifferent to this, so only their minority – as with the peoples – are concerned about the continued existence of all life and planet Earth. The fact that this indifference is also accompanied by the extinction of hundreds of thousands of life-forms – animals, creatures and all self-propelled life-forms of many genera and species, including all genera and species of plants, starting with the lowest known flowering plant, the 'dwarf duckweed', up to the largest tree, the 'Sequoiadendron giganteum' – is of little or no concern to the religious or worldly believing majority of Earth's humanity. The majority of Earth's humanity do not have their own original thoughts, because they only follow idiotic, believing illusory thoughts, so they also do not grasp the real truth and are unable to think logically, intellectually or rationally.

This is the case and will unfortunately remain so, because idiotic political calls for more offspring to be produced have exactly the opposite effect, as like-minded illusory thinkers are unfortunately in the majority. ...

Ozone Layer

https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Ozone_layer

https://www.futureofmankind.co.uk/Billy_Meier/Contact_Report_007

Semjase:

18. For many decades we have been examining all spheres of your world, its steady increase of its changes and the dangerous effects of propellants and other dangerous pollutants released by the human being of Earth.

19. For some years now, we have noticed that in the stratosphere, a steadily increasing dangerous change becomes noticeable, which can have fatal consequences for all earthly life:

20. To an increasing extent, the ozone belt of the stratosphere is changing due to irresponsible influences of human achievements

21. Various ozone-depleting chemicals rise as gas substances into the stratosphere and damage the ozone belt.

22. In particular, it concerns chlorofluorocarbons and bromine gases, which smell very bad and, in contrast to the term of the human beings of Earth, are designated with us and in our language as poison gases and not as chlorofluorocarbons.

23. It is dangerous that these poison gases reach into the ozone layer of Earth and slowly decompose it. (CFC gases are called Bromos among the Pleiades.)

24. It is already damaged and destroyed at an average extent of 6.38%.

25. A percentage that is already starting to be harmful and dangerous to all life-forms and that is able to cause mutative changes.

26. This is a percentage that has been reached in as little as 60 years.

27. In particular, it is the chlorofluorocarbon gases and the bromine gas substances that, along with many other pollutants, are slowly destroying the ozone belt, as I have already mentioned earlier.

28. As a result, more ultraviolet radiation from the Sun is able to penetrate into the atmosphere, which can damage all life-forms.

29. Above different areas this ozone belt has already been dangerously impaired and has become varying in its protection.

30. At three different points there is already the danger that it will be broken through within a few decades and completely annihilated, if the release of destructive factors is not restricted.

31. Failure to do so would mean that holes would be torn in the protective shield and ultraviolet solar radiation would penetrate unhindered, which would entail an agonising death of all life-forms.

32. Anything that accidentally gets into the area of the dangerous radiation penetrating through the hole is ultimately exposed to salvageless annihilation.

33. Destructive chemical substances, gases and radiations are also mainly released by explosive motors and further material-destroying processes of other kinds, such as for example nuclear fission and forms similar to it, which have subjected the entire course of the world and all life-forms to a bad change on a large scale since 1945.

34. However, destructive chemical gases and so forth are also released by things of everyday life, as each spray can also releases other chemicals besides CFCs, which rise up to the stratosphere and slowly but systematically destroy it.

35. Recently, researchers and scientists of various countries have become that much more knowledgeable and advanced in their cognitions, that they have recognised the destructive effect on the ozone belt caused by various chemicals and in particular CFCs and now want to assess this in their irresponsible delusion for power for purposes of war technology.

36. They have already developed fundamental ideas for building missile bodies, whose destructive and deadly factors are supposed to be chlorofluorocarbons and also bromine substances.

37. If they were shot up into the stratosphere and caused to explode there, the consequence would be that enormous holes would be torn into the ozone belt and all ultraviolet radiation from the Sun would penetrate uninhibitably.

38. Such a hole, however, can only close itself again very slowly, whereby the process may take centuries, provided that no further destructive substances penetrate.

39. In addition, the factor that the ozone belt is subject to a certain movement and roams comes into effect.

40. Hence, a hole in it would not only destroy a very specific area, but it would roam almost uncontrollably and also destroy other wide areas.

41. A fact that is not yet known to your scientists.

42. Moreover, all these are also facts that have hitherto been concealed from the general public.

43. My message is in the sense that the group that you are to form is to dedicate itself to tasks that serve the prevention of, and counteract the abuse of, such achievements of insanity.

44. Therefore, reach out to governments and scientists and draw their attention to their wrong deeds and actions.

45. It is in the interest of the entire humankind and of all life on Earth to have a banning treaty between all countries of your world in order to stop this deadly insanity.

46. Therefore, turn also to Mr Michael McElroy at Harvard University in the United States, as he is already an authoritative researcher in this field.

https://www.futureofmankind.co.uk/Billy_Meier/Contact_Report_031

Ptaah:

937. In the purely atmospheric layers of the Earth, an atomic explosion affects the OZONE balance in a quite catastrophic form, primarily through the release of elementary radiation.

938. Through the release of atomic energy, electrical energies of tremendous values are generated by the elementary radiations already mentioned.

939. This happens in a very high frequency range, which is still unknown to earthly science.

940. These energies are not the normal electrical energy that you are familiar with, but an electrical radiation energy that moves in the ultraviolet radiation range.

941. Inevitably, this radiant energy mixes with the oxygen in the air and produces gigantic amounts of the highest quality OZONE.

942. If normally only 1 part of ozone is detectable in 500,000 parts of air according to terrestrial conditions, the ozone value increases to 34 values for a short time after an explosion, which corresponds to a value of 28 parts.

943. These dangerous levels then destroy all micro-organisms in the wider environment, which are of enormous importance for the preservation of all terrestrial life.

944. Shortly after the explosion, the ozone levels drop again very quickly and flatten out.

945. Certain elemental values, however, penetrate all matter and accumulate there for hundreds of years, destroying over and over again all micro-organisms that come into their vicinity.

946. This is the one factor related to ozone.

947. Another factor is formed by the OZONE belt, which is damaged in manifold ways by gases rising and produced by such explosions, and is no longer able to absorb the ultraviolet radiation of the sun.

Billy:

This is clear to me, Semjase has already spoken of this once in connection with gases from spray cans, etc. But one thing is not quite clear to me: OZONE is also formed by natural lightning phenomena, so why doesn't it destroy microorganisms?

Ptaah:

948. Nature works exactly according to the laws given to it.

949. The normal ozone balance on a world is created by various factors, so also by thunderstorms with lightning.

950. On the one hand, ozone produced in this manner cleanses the air of life-hostile pollutants, and on the other hand, large quantities of ozone gas drift upwards and collect at an altitude of about 18 to 27 kilometres to form a belt or mantle that extends around the planet.

951. This ozone belt or mantle then performs the function of a natural shield to protect life-forms living on Earth from the very strong ultraviolet radiation of the sun.

952. The direct irradiation of life-forms by the ultraviolet radiation of the sun and other similar radiation from other parts of space would inevitably cause the death of all life-forms.

953. But in order for this not to happen, the ozone belt is needed.

954. This absorbs a large part of the radiation and converts it into usable values and elementary radiation.

955. Nature itself always produces exactly as much ozone as is necessary to ensure life.

956. Whether this happens through lightning phenomena or through the action of ultraviolet radiation itself or through other natural events, it always remains the same:

957. Nature never produces more ozone than it needs.

958. Exceptions only occur when catastrophes strike, which are usually of cosmic or planetary origin.

... it would also interest me very much, whether the Shah of Persia will really be overthrown after the New Year and be expelled from Iran, as I had calculated. ...

...

... What still interests me and which I no longer know exactly: in Iran, another civil war of short duration is still to break out shortly before the overthrow of the Shah. Do you know when this will be?

Semjase:

67. Sure, on the 9th, 10th, and 11th of February, 1979.

Billy:

The whole absurdity will, indeed, cost many human lives, if I am right. Even so, around one thousand death sentences are then to be carried out afterwards under the auspices of the murderer Khomeini. The whole thing is, in truth, not just purely political from Khomeini's and the Shah's side; rather, it will happen because Khomeini wants to take revenge on the Shah because the Shah's father {Reza Shah Pahlavi} let Khomeini's father {Mostafa Hindi} be murdered long ago. Is that right?

Semjase:

68. Sure, that is correct.

...

Billy:

What I still wanted to ask: to where, then, will the Shah-in-Shah and his Shah-ban disappear?

Semjase:

277. President Carter of America will commit the inexcusable mistake, that he grants the fugitives temporary asylum, which will also contribute to the effects in the embassy in Tehran.

Billy:

You speak of a temporary asylum; where will the guy then go after that, this super-murderous knave?

Semjase:

278. If I would tell you everything, then this would take too long.

279. But this much I will explain, that Pahlavi [Mohammad Reza Pahlavi, overthrown Shah of Iran] has already been suffering from cancer for quite some time and, therefore, will be treated in America.

280. After that, his next place of refuge will be Panama, and then Egypt, where he will undergo further medical treatments.

Billy:

His end, in any case, will be inglorious.

Semjase:

281. His end will be very agonising, but let that be enough with these explanations for this case.

Semjase:

245. Oh, I see.

246. You call that 'spirit-music'?

Billy:

That's what certain people call it. But what's it all about?

Peace-Combat Force

https://www.futureofmankind.co.uk/Billy_Meier/Contact_Report_150

Billy:

And those who do it anyway, they are a thousand times worse than ordinary murderers. For such creatures there is not even a name in any language. Nor also for those murderous henchmen who simply carry out death sentences passed by judges. These on command killers are also much worse than any killer executed by them.

Quetzal:

320. You speak a very true word.

Billy:

I wish I could change all this madness, there must be a possibility.

Quetzal:

321. Unfortunately, there is not, at least not in the sense that a sudden end could be set for these murders and other inhumane atrocities.

322. There would be only one solution in the long run, and that would be through a transnational party, therefore an international peace combat force and a union with enough members in every country of the Earth, which would have ascendance over every other party.

323. This peace-keeping force and party, however, I use this term for better understanding, should be apolitical in every form and relation and be uniformly aimed, through spiritual leadership and fight for peace, to steer the population of each country into the life-correct courses and into the necessary knowledge.

324. In truth, such a peace-combat force and party would have to be a uniformly oriented 'Free Peace Combat Community', whereby the framework of the UNO and NATO in this modified sense would be exactly the correct one.

325. But it cannot be avoided that these organisations and the community would have a top spiritual leadership with sub-leaderships well-informed in the spiritual teaching, after which everything could be truly steered in a creationally-given form through these leading forces.

326. There should therefore arise no political machinations in the sense as they are common on Earth and which lead to war, murder and manslaughter and revolutions.

327. Terrorism and anarchism, criminality, riots and demonstrations, etc., would also have to be prevented by this, in that all Earth-humans would have to be treated uniformly and placed under a uniform order and legislation.

Billy:

That is easily said because again and again crazy extremists of terroristic character appear in the smallest groups, who organise kidnappings, storm and occupy embassies and schools and state buildings, murder human beings, and then collect millions in extorted money for it, so that they can then make a joyful and pleasant life for themselves with it. And the responsible ones of the countries even help this riff-raff in that they, on the one hand, yield to the blackmailing, and on the other hand, even carry out similar actions, whereby it is still given to them that they have and exercise the damned power to provoke wars, whereby, in this regard, they can even engage the damned religions in this, in particular the Christian churches, who themselves really do not want to have peace, but by all means seek and advocate that the countries of the Earth produce war armies and war material, accumulate and stockpile these, in order to be able to wage war, always under the guise of the strange and crazy shouting that, indeed, peace according to God's order, and additionally, love must prevail on Earth. If one then addresses these idiots and power mongers about this fact, then they say as a response that each country needs an army with adequate weapons in order to be able to ward off an invading enemy. This is an idiocy beyond compare, because if all states have uniformly peaceful intentions and act accordingly, then no country needs armies and weapons of war. A regular security army with corresponding weapons would then suffice to be prepared for contingencies, e.g. if inhumane life-forms from outer space were to attempt conquest, etc. Nevertheless, I must say that your idea of a worldwide 'Free Peace Combat Community' would be very good within the framework mentioned and indeed, should also be striven for, but which alone would not be enough in today's world. All the crazy warmongers and terrorists, anarchists and demonstrators, etc. could not, for the time being, be subdued and brought to their senses with words and the spiritual teaching. It would require, in this case, a special armed army that would have to comprise millions of men and which would intervene immediately in every single country and create peace and order where any rebellions, terrorist acts, and wars, etc. begin to threaten or erupt. Also this army would then have to be responsible for immediately and mercilessly segregating for life all participants in such acts of hostility to peace, within the framework of how you have done it for millennia, that the wrongdoers are taken to special guarded and lonely islands, etc., male and female separated, from where they could never return to society.

Quetzal:

328. That is of correctness.

329. I would have given you this explanation in addition with the reference to the peacekeeping force.

...

346. It was not mentioned what exact kind of highest leadership such a community would have to correspond to.

347. I think that it is important to say a few words about it.

348. It would thus have to be taken into consideration that such a leader would be free from material ambitions, but also from self-righteousness, selfishness, unlogic and all other faulty concerns which could lead to greed for power, arrogance, inequality and favouritism of one or the other, or to other occurrences and manifestations of a negative form, as is, unfortunately, the case today on Earth with all rulers without exception.

349. Furthermore, with regard to a necessary army, it is still to be explained that it would very well have to hold a position of power, that, however, in logical Gewalt, which means that a gewaltsame Gewaltlosigkeit would have to prevail, in accordance with the creational laws.

Billy:

Yes, I understand, but this is probably a subject that, apart from our group members, no outsider human beings will grasp so quickly, because outsiders have no idea of what gewaltsame Gewaltlosigkeit or logical Gewalt means and how it works.

101. Certainly.

102. The Earth, which by the way is completely wrongly calculated and estimated by the earthly scientists by weight, possesses an earth oil deposit of estimated 844 billion (844,000,000,000) tons, of which 65 billion (65,000,000,000) tons have already been exploited or destroyed by the stupidity of the Earth-humans.

103. The destruction was caused by underground nuclear bomb explosions.

104. The quantity of oil destroyed is about 20 billion (20,000,000,000) tons, almost half of what humankind has stolen from the Earth, which can currently be calculated with a quantity of about 45 billion (45,000,000,000) tons.

105. A planet like Earth produces petroleum in the course of one billion (1,000,000,000) years in a quantity of approximately 381.5 billion (381,500,000,000) tons.

106. So if the planet is enriched with petroleum for an estimated 3 billion (3,000,000,000) years, then it produced about 844 billion (844,000,000,000) tons of petroleum inside it.

107. In less than a century, the Earth-human has already exploited a quantity of this quantum, the production of which took the Earth billions of years.

108. If the planet wants to regenerate this quantum again after the robbing of all ores, gases and oil, etc. that has taken place so far, it will need many millions of years again after today's loss of the Earth's resources, and according to today's planetary conditions almost twice or three times the normal production time.

109. The reason for this is that the irrationality of its inhabitants means that Earth today lacks many elements that it needs for production, because humankind has stolen them from it.

Petrozavodsk phenomenon

Pleija:

19. You are surely still able to remember that in autumn of last year, a flying object unknown to us appeared, which responded to none of our calls.

20. To this day, we still have not been able to get a hold of it either, even though it still moves in the earthly space.

21. So far, if we tried to get a hold of this object, it regularly escaped by retreating into a dimension unknown to us.

22. This same object, in the course of last autumn, has now done some things that are incomprehensible to us, and we expect that the same or similar events will happen again.

23. Thus, this flying object, with which it undoubtedly concerns a small spaceship, caused some devastation in Russia last autumn.

24. Thus, this approximately 100-meter wide ship ventured in broad daylight over the Russian city of Petrozavodsk and shot down on the Earth with already well-developed laser cannons, whereby some damage was caused.

25. Of course, the inhabitants of the city were moved into fear and fright through this, and everything did not exactly serve to produce a friendly disposition toward all those who come from outside of the Earth to this planet.

26. It was on Tuesday, on the 20th of September, 1977, at 4:07 PM.

27. The object – no doubt a small spaceship, as I already said – came over the city of Petrozavodsk at Lake Onega, shot out of the clouds, paused for more than 11 minutes over the port area, and then, suddenly and for inexplicable reasons, set its laser cannons in function.

Semjase:

25. Sure.

Billy:

26. Okay, can you tell me how or where they came from?

Semjase:

26. Sure.
27. – The symbols were already coined about 12,000 years ago by our ancestors.
28. However, they were changed several times in the course of time and were even lost.
29. Again and again, however, they were found and then re-incorporated into their original form.
30. So they have been preserved until today, so they also exist again in their original form.
31. Each individual symbol contains very particular and special values which are peculiar to the planet in question, but which are also transmitted to all forms of life in terms of vibration, according to which they align themselves in their characters and exhibit corresponding characteristics which are expressed in the physical, psychical and consciousness-based realms.

...

Billy:

37. ... the question whether you also have a certain symbol for Erra and that you draw it?

Semjase:

45. Sure, we have a symbol for Erra, like for all the other planets and the stars.

48. Sure – now look here –, – so –, you see –, – – so, this is the symbol for Erra.

...

Billy:

41. But tell me, I find this sign quite strange, it has so much in common with those symbol signs we have for our planets and the sun.

42. How is that possible?

43. And above all, what does this sign mean?

Semjase:

50. I already explained to you that your planetary and celestial symbols trace back to our ancestors, who made them according to the vibration and radiation values of the individual planets and the relevant celestial bodies.

51. In other words, this means that the signs were made according to the individual celestial and planetary state of evolution, so that each individual sign records the state of evolution or the level of evolution of the respective celestial body and planet.

52. This is also true for Erra, my home planet, whose signs are composed of various ancient symbols of our ancestors, i.e. the same signs that were used for the stars, the galaxy central sun and your sun, as well as for the planets of the SOL-system, and are now common again with you, except for the symbol of the galactic central sun.

53. The lying form of our symbol now represents the middle between above and below, the balanced.

54. Compare therefore the symbols of the sun and the planets of the SOL-system, because that which is equalised does not come to the fore, but always the dominating in the negative or in the positive.

Quetzal:

94. If you please, I want to take you out into space, in order to make the planetary alignment clear to you, which causes so much incomprehensible excitement among the Earth-humans.

Billy:

Oh, I see; yes, I did not think of that. I have tried to bring some reason among the human beings in this regard, but the newspapers and magazines, etc. have neither noted nor published my articles. They just cannot make any money with the truth, which is why they only set forth senseless and false prophetic nonsense of pseudo astrologers, pseudo clairvoyants, and other charlatans and conjurers, whereby they also still mistakenly involve Nostradamus among and with these and maintain that he already prophesied the same nonsense even then, even though not a word of this is true and his gloomy prophecies that include planetary phenomena relate to completely different events, which still lie far in the future. But over and over again, these twits and would-be experts of Nostradamus' prophecies appear, who then claim that they have found the key to unraveling his prophecies, particularly because certain events of the world are repeated again and again, and so then, these lunatics are misled to accept that a prophecy had been devised for such an event. This is best seen with the events of Napoleon's time, with the events of the First and Second World War, and with the running time since then. Nevertheless, every possible and impossible prophecy of Nostradamus is actually pressed into these events, even though they do not describe these incidents at all and these are to be found in other centuries. But the cunning fraudsters make millions with this and become stinking rich through this. It really is a shame, and indeed, a rather damned one.

Billy:

I could not sleep anyway, so let us go and see this funny planetary alignment at once.

...

Aha – there, the Sun is already rising terrifically fast. Where do we actually have to go, in order to be able to see all the planets together?

Quetzal:

3. If you are standing on the Earth and have the Sun centred in front of you and then see this as left and right, then we must keep to the left and, in addition, fly out into space a great distance.
4. Only from there is it possible that all the planets in the alignment can be seen together.

Billy:

I know that, yes; I just did not know where that point is.

Quetzal:

5. Mercury, Venus, Earth, and Mars are the closest together, at least visibly, because they are truly separated by millions of kilometres.

Billy:

You mean hundreds of millions of kilometres.

Quetzal:

6. That is of correctness, and here we are already, my friend.
7. You can make your observations from here.

Billy:

Thank you – aha – interesting, but one cannot really see everything by one's eyes. Even from here, in free space, the planets are too small.

Quetzal:

8. Here, we are even further away from the planets than if you were to observe them from the Earth.
9. You can see them better if you observe them through this magnification device.

...

Billy:

... but tell me, you explained to me that about every 180 years, all these planets are united on one side of the Sun. But now, everywhere with us, it is maintained that this is only the case every 510 years. Moreover, it is also maintained that yesterday was the day when the planets would have stood in closest formation to each other, whereas you have explained to me that this would not be the case until the 14th.

Quetzal:

25. My data are of correctness, which you can recalculate yourself.

26. The SOL planets are on one side of the Sun approximately every 180 years, but it should be taken into account that they, in each case with these groupings, are spread throughout the whole space on the side of the Sun, while here, now, that grouping occurs, which really only repeats itself approximately every 500 years, namely when the planets move in only about a quarter of the space enclosing the Sun.

27. If, now, the scientists of the Earth claim that on Wednesday, the distance of the planets to each other was the smallest, then this information does not correspond to the truth because this only concerns an apparent nearest or closest distance.

28. This apparent distance only arises from the viewing perspective of the Earth because seen from there, all the planets are the closest to each other according to sight.

29. Nevertheless, the effective closest distance of all the planets to each other will not be reached until the 14th of March, for then, they will actually be the closest to each other according to distance.

30. The Earth scientists are still mistaken in very many things, so also in astronomy.

31. This will already prove itself again in a short time, when once again, the Earth scientists gain new insights in reference to new and revolutionary discoveries in space, so also in reference to the Sun and all SOL planets, but also in reference to the reality of the Earth's orbit around the Sun, which, in part, runs a little differently than what the scientists accept up to now.

32. Hence, they will recognise and have to admit that also in reference to the four seasons, the revolution of the Earth around the Sun behaves a little differently than what has been taught.

33. This will be a shocking realisation, as well as the realisation and finding that will be made in about 15 years, that the determined distances to the stars and galaxies, etc. are not correct.

Billy:

They are, indeed, used to the fact that they have to admit their crap again in each case – even if this is often very difficult for them.

https://www.futureofmankind.co.uk/Billy_Meier/Contact_Report_168

Billy:

... This evening, I watched a show on television that mentioned the fact that in about one week, with the recent launch of the space shuttle, a plant experiment is supposed to be made. It is to be tested whether earthly plants adjust or further develop their lignin production in weightlessness. Lignin, so the scientists say, exists only in plants that grow outside the surface of water, while pure aquatic plants would not have this material which, besides, they presumably call the skeleton of the plant. Now in addition, it would be interesting for us to know whether the non-water borne plants also develop this carrying substance, lignin, in weightlessness or not. I say 'carrying substance' because I see things in such a manner that this lignin carries out a function in the plants such that this substance gives the plants the actual strength for them to be firm entities that can stand up above the water level independently towards the Sun and, thus, towards the light, without collapsing into themselves as those pure aquatic plants do if they are removed from their element.

Quetzal:

53. Your supposition is correct because the lignin substance is not a skeletal material but rather a pure substance of carrying capacity that supplies the actual plant skeleton with that power which strengthens the skeleton so that it is sustainable, as it is also the case with humans and animals.

54. Depending on the type of plant, whether it is an aquatic plant or an air plant, respectively – a pure earth plant, this develops the carrying capacity substance mentioned by you, or else it does not develop this because it is not needed.

55. No pure aquatic plant is in need of the carrying capacity substance because they could not raise themselves without this carrying substance.

56. For this reason, all of their programming is geared toward straining against the light, in order to develop the aforementioned carrying capacity substance – even in the so-called weightlessness.

57. Why I say so-called 'weightlessness' is because of the fact that this only seems to exist for the Earth-humans in their spacecraft because they are not in a position to measure that these flying apparatuses also have a small attraction, but this cannot be measured yet by the primitive instrumentation of the Earth-humans.

58. And even if only a very small attraction exists, then plants that are dependent upon the carrying capacity substance actually also develop the necessary carrying capacity substance, and it can happen, then, that the carrying capacity substance diminishes itself, but always only to the extent that is allowed by the attraction.

59. However, the light itself also plays a very important role, which is authoritatively involved in the production of the carrying capacity substance.

60. Artificial light, for example, is able to disadvantage the development of the carrying capacity substance, by which means this is developed more weakly than it is in natural sunlight, which delivers specific saturation materials to those plants, as well as the development of pigment, in reference to the colours.

61. On the other hand, it is good to keep in mind that some plants are so-called half carriers of the carrying capacity substance, which adapt themselves very quickly into a new habitat, which means that some plants adjust or very strongly diminish their production of carrying capacity substance within a few hours if they are placed into an environment where this substance in the plants is no longer needed.

62. Thus, the proposed test cannot apply to all plants in general, for there are too many different types that are also varied in their production of carrying capacity substance.

63. Nevertheless, the rule is that non-aquatic plants of the Earth continue their production of carrying capacity substance in large weightlessness, with which your question might actually be answered.

https://www.futureofmankind.co.uk/Billy_Meier/Contact_Report_849

Quetzal:

... I have been instructed to explain to the experts of Europe's forest and tree and plant experts, mixed forests with trees and bushes, as well as plants and herbs of all kinds, are to be established in the future. It goes without saying that both native species, such as particularly suitable tree species, shrubs and bushes, and thus also plants of foreign origin, i.e. neophytes that already thrive in the European climate, as well as future neophytes are to be planted, which are to find a good place in Europe's nature. Excluded from this are very, very few plants that have a proliferative characteristic and should be avoided. In this respect, however, many of the lists I am most familiar with, which are kept in stupid simplicity and falsehood, are incompatible with the truth and reality. This is because the many plants named as 'invasive neophytes' are in fact not invasive – meaning 'invading' – in the process that they can usually be misconstrued as 'rampant'. The lists of these 'invasive neophytes' in this misunderstanding are falsely kept by the nature conservation associations and their members as 'rampant' as well as 'foreign invaders' and not 'native', consequently they have no idea whatsoever that all plants of any kind that effectively grow and thrive are 'native'. This is because it grew and flourished here in much earlier times, before it was wiped out by an icy climate change and consequently did not grow again, but grows and flourishes again when it is now replanted in the temperate climate that has prevailed for thousands of years. The members of the nature conservation associations are not aware of this fact and are sometimes even fanatical representatives of their ignorance, which is why they often also fall prey to the radicalism of complete eradication with regard to neophytic plants that were once native here in Europe, for example, and can now regain a foothold in the prevailing climate and be reintroduced.

https://www.futureofmankind.co.uk/Billy_Meier/Contact_Report_881

Billy:

... Lowly intelligent and simple-minded, alleged 'conservationists' and other supposed 'guardians of nature' are banning and destroying foreign plants of all genera and species, even though they thrive magnificently in our climate and enrich nature, were once native to our climate or will be again in the future. They are nonsensically labelled as invasive plants, although they are not in any wise – real invasive plants can be contained – and enrich the plant world. The delusion of combating neophytes, the alien plants that were introduced to Europe after 1500 in particular, which are said to be invasive, aggressive, fast-growing and difficult to stop spreading, corresponds to an unparalleled lie and deception, which is why the so-called 'Release Ordinance' prevents the handling of neophytes. Neophytes (Greek: 'new plants') are plants that were introduced or introduced into Europe, and therefore also into Switzerland, after the discovery of America – the date falsely given for this is 1492 – and have become native here or have gone wild. In Switzerland alone, there are probably around 1200 genera and species of plants that have become native here within around 500 years and enrich nature and are demonstrably very valuable and important for the world of animals, creatures and many other living creatures, but this is neither understood nor accepted by the 'fanatics of the fight against neophytes' in their low intelligence. The very few neophytes that are effective invasive plants, aggressive and fast-spreading, displacing and even eradicating other plants, can be contained and prevented from growing at any time by the logic, reason and common sense of human beings. Consequently, it is not a problem to control the very few proliferating neophytes, which are so few in number of genera and species that they can be resisted if they do not become a measure of overgrowth of non-proliferating plants. Only the logic, intellect and reason of human beings is required to manage everything and anything also in the wild correctly. But it is precisely this that the crazy neophyte fighters, in their low intelligence, neither want to understand nor comprehend, because they want to be smarter and cleverer than nature itself, which for millions and billions of years has regulated everything correctly and in accordance with the climatic conditions and the possible living conditions, allowing everything to grow and flourish where this is possible according to the natural conditions. The enemies of neophytes should think hard about this and free themselves from their megalomania of wanting to be smarter and more clever than nature itself, which has been regulating everything for millions of years, allowing it to thrive and grow, while human beings – who can only call a few decades of life their own – want to be cleverer than Creation itself and its nature with all its laws and possibilities.

It should also be explained that 'fanatics of the fight against neophytes' have no wise understanding of nature and its way of life and mode of action, so they only proceed from misguided opinions and a justifiable belief as to how things might have been in earlier times with these and those genera and species of plants – from the smallest to the largest. ...

Neophytes in more recent times are not necessarily plants that in ancient times only occurred in a certain natural and climatic area, but which have only occurred in certain countries over the last 1-3000 years, usually only because climate-related conditions and in the soil etc. prevail. This is usually only because climate-related conditions and soil etc. prevail that guarantee the plants' basis of life. So if alien plants thrive and grow in the wild in Europe, then the climatic and soil conditions are so ideal that neophytes also have a right to exist there, as is also the case for neozoans that immigrate, colonise or breed independently and become stable and established. It is therefore absurd and absolutely inappropriate for human beings to have the audacity to interfere, to want to be smarter than nature and its laws and to destroy more than should be done correctly.

Well, I know that plants that used to occur in Europe but have died out will return naturally, but for the lunatics who want to know everything better than nature itself, these are currently neophytes, resp. plants that human beings have transported from foreign countries and introduced into Europe – and therefore also into Switzerland.

Many of these neophytes – of which you Plejaren have found around 12,872 in Europe, as Quetzal said recently, although the crazy neophyte-haters only have around 750 – were brought here by the wind in very early times or deliberately introduced by human beings as useful or ornamental plants, many of which have died out completely in their countries of origin for various reasons – also through the fault of human beings – but have managed to survive in Europe. A very large number of them have reproduced on their own and have become practically native to Europe – something the lowly intelligent neophyte-haters know nothing about – while a few of them are no longer able to reproduce even today. The fanatics ignore the fact that potatoes, maize and tomatoes etc. are also basically neophytes, as are, according to Quetzal, around 14,000 neozoan life-forms of all genera and species.

Well, many plants have been unintentionally introduced into Europe through contamination in seeds and seedlings, animal feed and other transport goods, and many of these plants have been able to establish themselves successfully in European soils and in nature and can continue to do so, especially now that climate change is inexorably altering the entire natural world, something that the pathologically hostile to neophytes are clearly unable to consider because they lack all logic, reason and the necessary common sense.

Neophytes pose no danger to nature or human beings if they are dealt with sensibly, including invasive resp. invasive plants. The scaremongering of those who are hostile to neophytes, the 'fanatics of the fight against neophytes' with their idiotic 'Release Ordinance' do more harm than good, especially because – according to your Plejaren data – 60,000 genera and species of small and large plants are already being introduced every year, animals, creatures and other life-forms are already disappearing and being wiped out every year because the new environmental conditions mean that they can no longer compete with nature, which has been destroyed by human beings, or because they are simply unable to reproduce and are no longer viable due to an atmosphere and nature poisoned by human beings.

There is generally no danger of an uncontrolled spread of neophytes, just as there is also no danger with neozoa, because such a 'view of the future' is only based on fear-mongering by the idiotically morbidly intelligent, fearful and unrealistic. Without the neophytes, humanity would have no chance of survival in the coming period of anthropogenic climate change, and also not if reason does not finally prevail and overpopulation is drastically and quickly 'reduced' through a global and controlled birth rate freeze.

There is absolutely no danger for the native fauna and flora that any genera and species of neophytes and neozoa could destroy the important habitats of everything useful and the natural living conditions or even destroy the living conditions of human beings and render the entire vegetation unviable, because that is what human beings alone do through their overpopulation and their other all-encompassing destructive and devastating and completely irresponsible machinations. The truth is that there are no 'problematic species of invasive neophytes and neozoans', and if any invasive species threatens to spread as a result of wind-borne seeds or the irrationality of human beings, then it can basically be contained and rendered null and void by taking corresponding early countermeasures, without harmless neophytes and neozoans being stupidly banned and demonised simply because idiotic 'fanatics of the fight against neophytes and neozoans' are scared and cowardly.

Only genera and species of invasive plants introduced by the wind or carelessly or deliberately or unknowingly spread by human beings are capable of spreading strongly and aggressively, displacing other plants and reducing the biodiversity of vegetation and endangering entire habitats, as well as in some cases humans or animals, creatures and other life-forms. However, human beings can keep them under control and, if necessary, contain them so that they cannot cause damage anywhere. The human being can also learn not to touch certain plants if, for example, they contain toxins and cause burns on the skin, such as the giant hogweed, which is completely harmless if left alone.

It should also be said that invasive and poisonous neophytes and neozoa have existed on every continent on Earth for thousands of years, and if I were to list the plants that are poisonous in Europe, the following come to mind, from the smallest poisonous mushroom, spotted hemlock, lily of the valley, cyclamen, daphne, aconite, oleander, blue verbena, belladonna, then the autumn crocus, which is often mistaken for wild garlic by the uninformed and can cause death by respiratory paralysis. Then there is also parsley, which is particularly dangerous in June/July when this herb is in flower, then angel's trumpet, ivy, snowdrops, red foxglove, bitter almonds, thuja, holly, green beans etc.

These are among many other plants that grow in Europe and also here in Switzerland and are a completely normal and inconspicuous part of the vegetation. They can pose just as serious a threat as poisonous neophytes from foreign countries if they are planted here in Europe. However, all of these are just as absolutely harmless as the aforementioned poisonous plants – of which there are many more genera and species – if they are treated with sufficient care, respect and caution. And if this is observed, then there is absolutely no danger, so despite the toxicity of the plants, human beings are as safe as in 'Abraham's bosom', as the saying goes.

Quetzal:

109. Until the 29th of November, nothing of great importance will happen in the world, if we disregard the unnecessary shouting about Poland.

...

112. After that, there is again not much of significance, until finally in Poland the point is reached that brings things to a head.

113. A General Jaruzelski will impose martial law on the country in order to put an end to the years of destructive activity of large masses of the population and the politically-subversive trade union, whose leader is one Lech Walesa.

114. As usual, Earth-humans also fail to see the truth here, which is why they take sides with the trade union and cry out in favour of false humanity.

entire country and the entire population into hardship and misery, into hunger and into financial ruin.

116. So it will come as it must come, which unfortunately will cost many human lives.

117. But in Poland, the existing violence of a large part of the people and the trade union Solidarity can only be broken again by Gewalt.

118. Unfortunately, in the false humanitarianism of the Western world, unjustified sides are also taken for Poland, whereby especially the Polish army leadership and the leadership of the USSR are once more being illegally sanctioned another time.

119. The sense of true humanity has unfortunately long since been lost among Earth-humans, which is why here, too, a completely wrong policy will be pursued another time, whereby the truth will be completely misjudged and those who are wrong will be placed in an unjustified and unjustifiably good light, namely the Solidarity trade union and its adherents, the work-shy, who know no bounds in their greed for money and might.

120. The Western countries and peoples, however, do not want to see this truth, which is why, in misconceived humanity, they will seek to blame the rulers of Poland and Russia, who, however, in this case are truly not to blame for anything.

121. Not last but foremost of this false humanitarianism and anti-propaganda against Poland's and Russia's governments will be the blame of American President Reagan, who will behave like a little boy in office and impose dangerous sanctions against Russia and Poland.

124. His final exit will be as inglorious as also the lifting of the sanctions he imposed and the settlement of the Polish crisis.

Billy:

Then the environment strikes back once again, which is hard pressed and destroyed by humankind. But for this, I just have a question, namely in relation to the decline of nature, particularly the trees. Surely, you can tell me what the main factor actually is, which causes nature to be dying.

Quetzal:

481. Do you primarily address the decline of forests?

Billy:

Yes, and I am also interested in how high the percentage will be in Europe in the autumn of 1984.

Quetzal:

482. You speak of the percentage of the affected forest area?

Billy:

Excuse me if I expressed myself unclearly. Yes, I speak of this.

Quetzal:

483. As our calculations yield, already by the autumn of 1984, 54% of the supply of trees in Europe will be damaged due to illness.

484. This is the average of our calculations.

Billy:

And what is the principal and most toxic substance that will allow nature to die?

Quetzal:

485. For this, as we can presently determine, the chief fault lies with the electromagnetic radiation and the lead gasoline, which are used for a variety of means of transportation and commercial machines.

486. The gasoline contains Tetraethyl lead, which passes through the exhaust pipes and into the open air.

487. But there, it changes under the solar radiation into triethyl lead.

488. This is a highly toxic substance that causes cancerous diseases and which is also taken up by the trees and plants, etc.

Billy:

And how long does it take, then, until the trees, for example, get sick?

Quetzal:

489. It depends on the circumstances.

490. It is certain that the poison has a very large, long-term effect.

491. Thus, in already poisoned trees, the diseases often only appear years later.

492. The needle-leaf trees are primarily endangered by this because as a rule, they take in 12 times more toxins than normal-leaf trees.

Billy:

That is also why the conifers become sick first.

Quetzal:

493. Where the leaf-trees, however, do not become spared, it is just that they will get sick later since they absorb fewer toxins.

Billy:

But all other toxins are also decisive, right?

Quetzal:

494. That is of correctness.

495. Lead gasoline, along with the electromagnetic radiation, is just another main factor in the chain of natural death.

496. Only a complete ban on these substances could provide quick and effective relief.

Billy:

Humans are not so clever and life-loving, however.

Quetzal:

497. If nature dies, then life also dies, especially since the trees, after plankton, are the other main suppliers of oxygen.

Billy:

That is right, and if the trees are gone, then life starts to die in general because the oxygen becomes more and more scarce.

Quetzal:

498. That is of correctness.

499. The electromagnetic radiation must be curbed immediately and the diesel and lead gasoline engines should be banned as soon as possible because they are really large culprits in the health of nature and humans.

Billy:

However, if we take a closer look and think about it, we realise that, in addition to agriculture and pig fattening, a wide range of industries – factories, corporations, workshops, craftsmen, etc. – also illegally discharge wastewater, some of it very toxic, into public land and waters. This is in contrast to other industries, which are required by law to officially dispose of all their waste or liquid hazardous waste or toxins etc. in sewage treatment plants, where they can also only be 'cleaned' to a certain extent and then returned to the normal cycle. On top of all this, however, there are also households that create an enormous amount of waste and also flush large quantities of chemical substances into the wastewater, namely shower and bath products, soaps, dishwashing detergents, clothes detergents and other detergents of all kinds, such as for cars, windows, motorbikes, toys and tools, etc. There are also soil cleaning agents and many other products that chemically pollute water bodies, cause algae growth and kill or even exterminate aquatic and terrestrial organisms. There are also countless individual human beings who thoughtlessly, senselessly and irresponsibly simply 'dispose' of their rubbish in the great outdoors, just as others carelessly throw away plastic packaging, plastic goods, paper packaging or simply paper and many other things that are useless to them. This is how environmental pollution is carelessly and unscrupulously and criminally practised, whereby the world, its nature, fauna and flora are impaired in their existence and life, destroyed, annihilated and wiped out. ...

https://www.futureofmankind.co.uk/Billy_Meier/Contact_Report_875

Ptaah:

... And what I have to say is that our latest investigations into the state of the Earth's atmosphere have shown that it has become very precarious, which has already led to inevitable deaths among human beings, animals, creatures and other living beings due to respiratory failure. The earthly atmosphere is so poisoned as a result of chemical gas poisons of all kinds that all life-forms are actually impaired in their breathing, from human beings to animals, creatures and all life-forms in general, to plants of all genera and species, right down to the lowest forms. You should not only retrieve this and write it down, but make it known worldwide, because the facts as to why this is happening are being completely concealed from all peoples.

https://www.futureofmankind.co.uk/Billy_Meier/Contact_Report_876

Billy:

... However, in order to allow all that which is valuable to thrive and grow again, it is necessary that the chemical poisons that are spread in fields, forests, meadows and pastures, i.e. chemical fertilisers and manure poisoned with chemicals, etc., disappear. ...

The fields, meadows, floodplains and forests, as well as the moors and rivers, streams, rivers, lakes and puddling waters and also the seas must be restored. All usable and fertile soils, fields, meadows and floodplains are to be optimised from an agro-ecological point of view, forests are to be ecologically restored, maintained and managed, not cut down for the sake of profit and clear-cutting. This is especially not the case as every tree and every shrub, like every plant large or small, is vital to life, absorbing these toxins, such as CO₂, from the negligently poisoned atmosphere, but also producing vital oxygen, which is completely disregarded. The irresponsible cutting down of trees and the destruction of plants of all genera and species in general is already having the evil effect of killing human beings – as well as animals, creatures, other self-propelled life-forms on and also in the Earth, and even the largest and smallest plants – because they can no longer breathe correctly or at all as a result of the poisoned atmosphere. Many human beings are already suffering from respiratory problems as a result of this evil, which weakens their immunity and makes them no longer resistant to diseases and the environment.

There is an urgent need to get away from chemicals and create biodiversity, and everything must be returned to real nature. And nothing should be 'treated' with chemicals any more, because pesticides etc. not only destroy, but also eradicate everything. If we consider that around 60,000 genera and species of animals, creatures and other self-propelled life-forms are wiped out every year, as well as terrestrial life-forms and plants of all genera and species, from the smallest to the largest tree, then we should finally realise how precarious the situation is for all life-forms on Earth. This also includes the planet itself, because it has become weaker through all the exploitation of it and is beginning to defend itself, just as nature is also doing, against the atmosphere poisoned by the Earthling, the waters of all kinds, the normal climate destroyed by human beings and, and, and.

Pope John Paul I murder

Billy:

It is on account of the new Pope in Rome: when will this twit be elected, who will he be, and how long will he remain in his office, etc.?

Quetzal:

...

103. ... the new Pope will not exercise his office very long.

104. The new Pope will be determined by means of a very short voting period and by only 111 cardinals, who will appoint a cardinal by the name of Luciani as the new Pope by the conclave on Saturday, the 26th of August.

105. His new name will be Pope John Paul I.

106. As brief as the time for his appointment will be, so brief will his term of office also be.

107. After the mentioning of his name in the conclave, it will then take exactly 33 minutes before he is appointed as the new Pope by the conclave.

108. This 33-minute consultation time will also be exactly the number of days, during which he will exercise his office as Pope, then to finish his life on the 28th of September, 1978, at exactly 11:07 PM, without anyone being with him; therefore, he will part from this world alone.

109. His death, however, will not be a natural one but a forced one, which will in turn be caused by a poison that stops heart activity, which then gives the impression of a heart attack.

110. The new Pope will be assassinated because he will shock the aristocratic rule of the Vatican and even horrify it by his behaviour and his lifestyle.

111. But so will he also make deadly enemies among the cardinals and many others, for he will break the tradition of the Pope's coronation with a papal crown and only allow a fairly simple ceremony.

112. But the new Pope will be too people-friendly in the eyes and thoughts of many authoritative Vatican officials, which is not good for the Vatican because it would lose power through this.

113. So already a few hours after his appointment, a conspiracy will be forged, which will have the goal of removing this Pope John Paul I very quickly from his office, and to be sure, by an assassination of the same.

Billy:

Man, that is some piece of news. But how is it then, will it be just like with Pope John XXIII, or whatever he was called, will this murder also remain undiscovered and unpunished?

Of course, this was vehemently denied by the Vatican in October, after the Polish Cardinal Karol Wojtyla was elected Pope, who called himself John Paul II in accordance with his direct predecessor. ...

Quetzal:

121. It concerns the successor of the coming Pope John Paul I.

122. His successor will be, after long centuries, a non-Italian, so he will thereby initiate the time and circumstances for that fateful papal election, which will be responsible for the fulfilment of the ancient prophecies.

123. This third to last Pope coming in October will, faithful to the evil determination, stand in the same star sign as his predecessor who will still assume his office this month, Pope John Paul I, the "Moon Face."

124. The Pope coming in the month of October will be a native of Poland, John Paul II, the "Sun Face;" nevertheless, his face will gradually resemble more of a vicious crater landscape than the Sun.

125. This John Paul II, who is called by the true name of Karol Wojtyla, will – as the third to last Pope before the great turning point of the Earth world – act as the 264th Pope and Vatican ruler, while malicious intrigues are built on his back, and he himself will build up the guilt for the fact that Israel can enter into an alliance with the Vatican.

126. After his death – which will already be in the near future, but I may not mention the date of death and its circumstances, etc. officially but may only tell you alone, so namely on the 13th of May, 1981, if nothing changes, which is possible.

(On the 13th of May, 1981, Pope John Paul II was to have departed from life by an assassination attack of a Turk by the name of Aga Acsa. The attack did, indeed, take place; nevertheless, the Pope remained alive by certain unforeseen circumstances. The effects of the circumstances yielded that the assassin shooter was pushed when firing, and therefore, the shot was not fatal. Thus, a slight nudge influenced the course of all world events. 341. But the members of these political and criminal organisations will fatally prove to be strictly devout Catholics, and on the 13th of May 1981, a low blow will be dealt to them which will give them something to think about.

342. Namely when their alleged 'spiritual' head becomes seriously injured by an assassination attempt of a sought after Turkish assassin.

...

Billy:

Do you mean that the pope will be shot by an already known assassin?

Semjase:

344. He will be dangerously injured by the assassination attempt, but I will tell you more about this later ...

...

Semjase:

370. Pope John Paul II will be severely injured by an assassination attempt, which will likewise lead to the uncertainty that has already been addressed as to whether he will carry out his trip to Switzerland or not.

371. Health-wise, this trip would, indeed, be quite possible for him after the assassination attempt, but the calculations do not show whether or not the responsible persons for the trip will approve of a trip to Switzerland at this time.

372. The likelihood is that the trip will be canceled and rescheduled.

373. A repeated murderer of Turkish nationality, by the name of Ahmed Ali Agca, will have to bear the responsibility for the assassination attempt on the pope, who will make several shots at the Pope and severely injure him.

374. Although the injury will be severe, the pope will survive the attack and the quick surgery that will follow.

375. According to our calculations, this will happen during the period from the 12th to 14th of May, where the 13th of May of 1981, around the time of 17:17 hrs, is the greatest probability.

376. The Pope, and this is entirely certain, will survive, but only a week later, the Pope's bosom friend, Cardinal Wyszynski of Poland, will end his life, who, until then, will have driven his sectarian regime there for many years.

https://www.futureofmankind.co.uk/Billy_Meier/Contact_Report_150

Quetzal:

173. Towards the end of April or the beginning of May, the Pope of Rome will again squander the money of his faithful, for once again he will embark on an extremely costly journey to various countries, which will cost many millions of dollars.

174. Thus, he will also visit Portugal, where he will hypocritically let it be announced that the Madonna of Fatima had protected him, helping him survive the assassination attempt that had been perpetrated on his life.

175. However, with this consciously mendacious and fraudulent allegation to his believers, he will encourage the hatred of a Catholic priest of a different faith, who will want to kill him and will attack him with a dagger, but this will be thwarted by security personnel before the priest arrives in the direct vicinity of the Pope.

176. After his stay in Portugal, the Pope will proceed to England, which will be considered a sensation because no Pope has made such an effort to reach out to the English Church since the secession of the English-Anglican Church from Rome.

177. The Pope's whole trip to England, however, is truthfully not for Christian-bonding relations and the renewed fraternisation of the Roman and English Churches, as the Pope will mendaciously announce, because, firstly, he is only concerned with his personal image, which he wants to consolidate and build-up, and, secondly, he is also concerned with bringing the English Church back under the sovereignty of the Roman Papal See through intriguing machinations.

Billy:

I find that the present Pope is disgust-inciting, mendacious, hypocritical, one who deliberately misleads the human beings and is a toadying pulpit creep, who only wants to lead a nice life and make a name for himself. When I think of other popes, then I must say that different ones among them at least still believed in what they said and did, while this Pope is only acting, although, he is a damn bad actor.

Quetzal:

178. Your words are of appropriate correctness, but this pope will not be able to pursue his evil deeds for much longer.

179. He has also already predetermined his end through his criminal actions, but I do not want to make any statements about that at the moment.

180. It is more appropriate that I tell you that this deceitful man is now scheming to visiting your home country, Switzerland, where he wants to appear in Geneva and continue his acting.

181. In addition, he will also endeavour to get to Argentina, in order to break in on the population there, and with his dishonest manner, concerning the war between Argentina and England.

...

424. With the months of October and November {1982} comes the time when the Italian, Swiss, Turkish, French, and German security and police forces finally recognise that the Pope's assassin was not a loner and did not just work for himself but that he belonged to a conspiracy and had accomplices.

Billy:

I thought, according to your information, that he was working alone?

Quetzal:

425. Then you misunderstood me, because my statements only referred to the facts of the event in the sense of what will be known to the earthly authorities and security forces at the time of the event and for some time afterwards.

426. It may well be that my explanations gave the strong impression that the assassin was a lone handler.

Quetzal:

393. Do you still remember the assassination attempt on the Pope?

Billy:

How could I not?

Quetzal:

394. Very well, indeed, it was just a question because the consequences will continue for a long time.

Billy:

You mean that the relevant things are not concluded yet and that even further impacts will arise from this?

Quetzal:

395. That is correct because in the middle of the year 1983, further consequences will arise in this connection.

...

396. The assassin is to be set free as a result of extortionate kidnapping.

397. Therefore, a younger girl will be kidnapped {Emanuela Orlandi}, so that the Italian government will be forced by extortion to release the murderer and assassin Ali Agca.

Billy:

And, will this succeed – and also, how will the dishonest Pope express himself? Yet he is too cowardly to put in a word for the fact that the assassin be set free because he fears too much for his miserable life.

Quetzal:

398. I will talk about the success or failure later.

399. Yes, you are right about the Pope:

400. He is a coward, which is why he will not advocate, at least the first time, with a word for the release of the murderer and assassin and, thus, for the preservation of the life of the girl.

401. He will only do it when he can be sure of his life in good measure.

402. But he does not care about the life of the girl in any wise.

403. In every case, he is only concerned about his own advantage and only acts if it strengthens his image.

Billy:

Presumably, he will only speak a word when the child is beyond help. As I estimate the guy, it cannot be otherwise.

Quetzal:

404. Unfortunately, you hit the truth ...

https://www.futureofmankind.co.uk/Billy_Meier/Contact_Report_723

... To this end, today, on the 13th of May 1949, I have the prediction to say, as a partly experienced foresight, that in 32 years to the day, and thus on the 13th day in the month of May, a Slavic Pope, who at that time will be leading his ferula in the Vatican, is to be assassinated, but that he will survive the attempt on his life, seriously injured. The assassination attempt, however, will not be made public in terms of the reason, but will be concealed by the Vatican and dealt with internally, as such things and many others have been handled in this way since time immemorial. Basically, however, everything will be directly related to the fact, as other popes have done in the same way since ancient times, and even worse, that this pope will also engage in massive state politics as a bishop in his homeland. He will do this while secretly building up a political organisation in the background, but will then put a special leader in front of it. Even at this early stage, he will unlawfully pour large financial donations entrusted to him into this organisation in order to strengthen it and one day be able to overrule the state system that does not suit him. But if he is then elected Pope, he will on the one hand deal with the laundering of drug money together with the 'Vatican Bank', but will be urged by the organisation in his home country to continue to support it with money from the Vatican Bank. But then he will not do so, which in the course of time will have serious consequences and ultimately claim the lives of a young woman {possibly Emanuela Orlandi} and a man nicknamed the 'Banker of God' {Roberto Calvi}. ...

166. The 'Holy Office' in Rome too will be affected by the worldwide religious and political intrigues.

167. Just as with Stalin, the same very rapidly volatilising from the body poison will be used to murder Pope John the Twenty-third in the year 1963, who will hold his office for only a very short number of years.

https://www.futureofmankind.co.uk/Billy_Meier/Contact_Report_055

Billy:

Asket once said that Pope Paul VI would be poisoned shortly after he took office. In contrast to other statements that have always been confirmed, this statement of hers did not come true.

Can you tell me why not?

Semjase:

74. It has occurred, and two years after his appointment as chief pastor.

Billy:

You speak in riddles. How am I supposed to understand that? Pope Paul VI is still alive, and yet he has been poisoned and is therefore dead? So this really goes beyond my 'spiritual' horizon.

Semjase:

75. I want to explain it to you, but you cannot make it public yet.

...

79. ... Two years after his appointment, Pope Paul VI was recognised by a Vatican Council decision of the Catholic bishops and cardinals as being opposed to their purposes on secret matters, which meant that he was not suitable for their dishonest might-seeking purposes, which is why it was recognised in a secret ballot that the chief pastor should be brought to death by the hand of assassins and replaced by a doppelganger faithfully devoted to the bishops and cardinals.

80. So Pope Paul was murdered by poison and replaced by a cardinal of striking resemblance.

https://www.futureofmankind.co.uk/Billy_Meier/Contact_Report_056

Semjase:

4. Through the Vatican Council, a Cardinal named Pietro Pavese was appointed the new Supreme Pontiff of the Catholic Church, who, however, was not willing and unaccommodating to the plans of a certain few bishops and cardinals.

5. By this decision he, Cardinal Pietro Pavese, was given the name Pope Paul VI.

6. But by intriguing machinations of said few Bishops and Cardinals, his appointment as Supreme Pontiff was revoked still in the same hour in a secret circle and in his place a Cardinal with the name Giovanni Battista Montini, who looked deceptively similar to him in appearance, was then officially proclaimed Pope Paul VI, because he was submissive to the will and desires of the few, but very powerful and radical-conservative Bishops and Cardinals.

7. But the real Pope Paul VI Pietro Pavese, who was fundamentally innovative and revolutionary in his convictions and wanted to modernise the Catholic Church in accordance with the times and bring it into line with the current state of modern knowledge, was deprived of his freedom because of the danger that he would make the Council's intrigue known, and was imprisoned in the Vatican for two years, up until the last degrees of his familial ties, etc. of Pietro Pavese's were known, through further ecclesiastical intrigues.

8. Of course, everything was researched in secret, as is characteristic of the Catholic Church.

9. After the most exact knowledge of all kinship-factors, all the relatives of the imprisoned were murdered abruptly by hired assassins, in fact by different methods.

10. Then, when the certainty reigned that no relatives, etc. were among the living, Pope Paul VI was also murdered, by poison.

11. And to be absolutely sure that this enormous intrigue and series of murders would never become known, the ecclesiastical power of the Catholic office erased all records in the birth registers, etc., so that today nothing points to the former existence of the real Pope Paul VI and his relatives, etc.

https://www.futureofmankind.co.uk/Billy_Meier/Contact_Report_057

Billy:

... Then now a somewhat unusual question: Does the dear Pille-Päuli (Pope Paul VI) circulate in homophilic groups, or is this only a disparaging assertion of certain scribes?

Semjase:

55. This is a very unusual question, but it is based on certain rumours that have been spread recently?

Billy:

You are right about that. Can you answer the question for me?

Semjase:

...

57. Yes, the rumors are true.

58. This was the case even before he assumed his deviously obtained office.

https://www.futureofmankind.co.uk/Billy_Meier/Contact_Report_108

Billy:

3. ... it concerns Pope Paul VI.

4. Last year, my probability calculations yielded that he would have to die this year.

5. Now, this calculation has simply bothered me recently, which is why I tried to get more exact and more precise data, and through this, I encountered a very specific date and a very specific time.

6. Now, I just wonder if my calculation does not have any mistakes and if everything is actually right.

Ptaah:

3. Then give me the data.

Billy:

7. Okay, see here, I wrote it down there:

8. The day of death is the 6th of August, 1978.

9. I have calculated the time, with the result of 20:40 hrs and 13 seconds.

10. The death, according to my calculations, should occur by a heart attack, in which case the body will give up its function as a result of an oxygen deficiency.

Ptaah:

4. You were very thorough in your calculations because you gave me the same data that we ourselves already fathomed years ago through an apparatus-based analysis.

5. But do you also know the place where the spirit of the man will leave the body?

Billy:

11. If my calculations are right, then, and if I describe the place correctly, then it must be the Pope's summer residence, Castel Gandolfo.

Ptaah:

6. That is also of absolute correctness ...

https://www.futureofmankind.co.uk/Billy_Meier/Contact_Report_113

Quetzal:

134. Now, I still have a question, namely in accordance with your interjection of 20:00 hrs, etc.

Billy:

Oh, yes, it was exactly 20:00 hrs, 40 minutes, and 13 seconds when I had interrupted you. With this, I meant that the Pope in Rome, this alleged Paul VI, departed this life at exactly that time.

Quetzal:

135. That is of correctness ...

Pope Pius XII

https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Pope_Pius_XII

https://www.futureofmankind.co.uk/Billy_Meier/Contact_Report_134

Billy:

The first question refers to Adolf Hitler, i.e the Nazi regime and the Vatican. You told me once that the so-called "Holy See," i.e. the Vatican, the Pope, had somehow cooperated with Hitler. Can you tell me anything more about this?

Ptaah:

160. There were two popes who got their hands dirty in the game with the Nazi regime.

161. These were the Popes Pius XI, from 1922 to 1939, and Pius XII, who held his office from 1939 to 1958.

162. Both men have actively and consistently caused immense damage to the Jews through their machinations with Adolf Hitler and his henchmen, and both men completely and consciously accepted the murder, by the Nazi regime, of more than 4.5 million Jews and nearly 3 million criminals and people who were sick in psyche and consciousness.

163. Both popes have criminally cooperated with Adolf Hitler and have, absolutely and indifferently, accepted the Holocaust.

164. Quite deliberately, they have irresponsibly tolerated the persecution and murder of the Jews and the so-called Final Solution, whereby both popes still undertook incredible steps to promote antisemitism.

165. Thus, the 'Holy See' i.e. the Vatican and the two popes, were in common cause with Adolf Hitler and his regime.

166. On the 30th of June 1933, Pope Pius XI and his cardinals and bishops even gave a resolution in writing that the 'Holy See' would not undertake anything against Hitler or the whole Nazi regime, whereby the text of this resolution stated that "as long as Hitler does not declare war against the Holy See and the dignitaries in Germany, the Holy See and the Catholic dignitaries in Germany should refuse to condemn Hitler's party".

167. However, both popes also cooperated with Joseph Stalin of the Soviet Union in a criminal manner.

168. Already in the '20s, Pope Pius XI came to the dictator and forged criminal plans with him against Judaism, as did also Pope Pius XII equally when he reached church power.

169. Naturally, all of the cardinals were also involved in it without exception.

170. The whole thing ended only with Stalin's death on the 5th of March, 1953.

https://www.futureofmankind.co.uk/Billy_Meier/Contact_Report_829

Billy:

Then I have a request, namely if you could talk straight about Pope Pius XII, if you could explain what role he actually played in the last world war.

You said that this Pope was a fanatical right-wing extremist and NAZI beyond compare, but that you still had to clarify a few things.

Ptaah:

70. What you say is correct...

71. It is to be said, however, that from 1939 to 1958 the Vatican was led by Pope Pius XII, who was a fanatical right-wing extremist, an effective NAZI and Jew-hater, who was also in complete agreement with the murderous machinations of Adolf Hitler.

72. The Pope was Italian and was actually called Eugenio Maria Giuseppe Giovanni Pacelli.

73. He was a dithyrambic (note exuberant, enthusiastic; but secret) supporter of the extermination of Jews during the NAZI World War.

74. So Pius XII not only collaborated with the Nazis, but as a fanatical Jew-hater, he was also secretly a planned collaborator in the extermination of the Jews.

75. He also secretly planned the extermination of the Jews by the NAZIs, which he had been striving to do with the NAZIs even before he took office as Pope, but he refrained from publicly speaking out in favour of it, consequently he also never publicly criticised the NAZI regime.

76. Contrary to his hatred of Jews, he 'protected' Jews from persecution in Rome for appearances' sake, but only because he was recognised and suspected of being a Jew-hater by various people.

77. What role he really played he knew how to cover up with fictitious and diffuse letters, consequently the real truth will probably never come to light and he may one day be unjustly rehabilitated.

78. The Roman Catholic Church, however, will do everything lying and deceitful to make the farce come true one day that Pope Pius XII will be beatified, although he secretly did everything to make the Holocaust a reality.

79. But the evil, the bad and the degenerate applies in its entirety in this and that form to almost all popes, especially with regard to the abuse of women – which also applied to Pope Pius XII – who ever resided in Rome, for only very few exceptions could be mentioned, among others a woman who gained admission to high office in the Vatican.

https://www.futureofmankind.co.uk/Billy_Meier/Contact_Report_830

Billy:

The Catholic Church simply passes over this in silence, as was already the case with Pope Pius XII, who was an unparalleled Jew-hater.

https://www.futureofmankind.co.uk/Billy_Meier/Asket%27s_Explanations_%E2%80%93_Part_1

Asket {3rd February 1953}:

157. So now, heed my words precisely and note the specific important dates so you can follow the coming events according to my statements and thereby gain verification about the truth of my prophecies.

158. This is of significant importance for you {Billy}.

159. The ineluctable events of the future will be played out with such absolute exactness, as did also the events of the past, to which I want to explain to you that the events of the future will already begin in a short time, and indeed with the murder by poison of Joseph Stalin on the 5th of March 1953 in Russia and indeed on the order of inner-party elements.

160. The reason for the murder by poison will be Stalin's only little known Zionist-friendly stance which will now, during the following decades, be turned to world-wide Zionist-animosity also through neo-Nazi elements.

161. For these reasons, Nikita Sergejevich Khrushchev, the next grandee of Russia to follow, will be forcefully removed in the year 1964, in order to set the last framework for the in-no-way-justified Zionist-animosity.

162. At the time of Khrushchev, a new president will be nominated in America, by the name of John Fitzgerald Kennedy, however, to be murdered in the year 1963, according to secret orders of different groups, and with the American security service, the CIA, having warning information.

163. The day of his death will be on the 22nd of November 1963 in Dallas, Texas.

164. A second political murder will follow this first one only barely 5 years later, because by the same ordering parties a new candidate for the presidency will likewise be killed.

165. His death will take place on the 6th of June 1968 in Los Angeles, and his name will be Robert Kennedy – a brother of the president, who will be murdered in the year 1963.

166. The 'Holy Office' in Rome too will be affected by the worldwide religious and political intrigues.

167. Just as with Stalin, the same very rapidly volatilising from the body poison will be used to murder Pope John the Twenty-third in the year 1963, who will hold his office for only a very short number of years.

168. But also his successor, Pope Paul the Sixth, will be eliminated in the same manner, through machinations of the cardinals, in collaboration with extremists hostile towards Zionists and Jews, who have already forged their murderous intrigues at the present time and are already putting the things to come on track.

169. Greece also has already been selected for a murder of a head of state, because the future reveals that King Paul the First will die the same death by poison on March 6th, 1964, like all those already named.

170. His successor will be called Konstantinos, [Constantine] who however, already three years later, will be ousted for all times by a revolutionary military regime, as a result of his childish inability as head of state and his exploitation of the people.

171. Also Egypt will not be spared, because in the middle of the seventies, a dictatorial statesman, named Gamal Adbel Nasser will be robbed of his life through poison, just like his friend, the Emir of Kuwait, the year before, who will die the death by poison during the year of 1965, through the hand of his own relatives.

172. In the year 1975, also the king of Saudi Arabia, King Faisal, will be shot to death through the hand of his own relatives.

173. These are the most important dates of the coming events of the next decades.

174. Guard them very carefully and do not speak about these until I give permission.

175. You will recognize from my predictions that very different powers play into one another and that the coming events are not only of political, but also of religio-political nature.

176. Consider, with these things, that we have not come to interfere in the religious and political matters of Earth or to lead the Earth-humans in these things.

222. The last sign of the banishment of the threatening catastrophe will be the murder of the king of Saudi Arabia, the point of time of which we have still not been able to precisely determine.

{Note: For an explanation of the "threatening catastrophe", see Asket's Explanations Part 1:96-127,222-223. "97. The Earth human has become capable of destroying his world in an atomic explosion, which would bring very dangerous consequences for the entire system."}

{Billy:}

The human is still not capable of coping with, and fully understanding, the truth.

And he is not yet mature enough to know his future and to approach it correctly.

For that reason the truth must be rewritten prophetically for him, as in equations, in order to make him think independently, whereby he slowly finds and recognises the truth himself.

For that reason the human must be spoken to in prophecies and parables and also, for that reason, the events of the future must be explained to him in veiled form. Everything must be explained and be presented in a rewritten form, whereby the human is stirred to thought and begins to search.

Only through his research does he find possibilities of an interpretation and, in that way, slowly recognises the truth.

Were he not spoken to in parables and prophecies, and the explanations of the future not presented in circumscribed and somehow mysterious form, then he would make no effort to do his own thinking and he would also want to change the future because, if it were all presented in open, un-paraphrased form, he would indeed know all of this in every detail, with which he truly could not cope.

https://www.futureofmankind.co.uk/Billy_Meier/Contact_Report_031

Asket:

140. However, in order to be able to meet all the duties, from time to time and through the existence of the creational laws, in cooperation with and with the help of higher developed Universes, each world brings forth, according to each of the corresponding states of the respective human evolution, one or more life-forms of extraordinary spiritual and consciousness-based development standing, with which in turn many more higher-standing intelligences may come in conjunction, so as to be able to transmit certain facts about consciousness-based and spiritual evolution.

141. These extremely highly developed life-forms have been called prophets on Earth, who unfortunately in their time were without exception always attacked and persecuted, a fact which has still not changed up to the present time.

142. Even today, on the Earth the prophets are cursed and blasphemed, and they are accused of fraud, of charlatanism, and of telling lies and fantasies.

143. This is so because the Earth-human does not hear the voice of truth and does not want to let go of his/her false realism and materialism.

...

161. In each cosmic age a world brings forth only very few of such highly developed in spirit and consciousness-based life-forms, if the average form is still on a very low level of evolution, as it is the case with the Earth-humans.

162. On the other hand, these highly developed life-forms of such worlds, the prophets, also appear only at certain times, when they are necessary.

163. And on the Earth, this is the first time that such a case has occurred since nearly 2000 years.

...

Ptaah:

528. But there are still the high spiritual planes, the purely spiritual spheres and dimensions.

529. These, however, are no longer material in any form known to you, but are purely spiritual.

530. This means, then, that in these spheres and dimensions there live only beings who are released from the material body and vibrate towards the goal of relative perfection.

531. These are partly the beings which already in the highest planes begin to direct the destinies of the universe in harmony with the Creation and are capable of creation.

532. But these entities also do not make contact with Earth-humans.

533. This only happens in certain exceptional cases, which are very rarely repeated in millennia of time, when lower beings capable of communication are addressed by higher purely spiritual life-forms and made aware of certain happenings.

534. Without exception, however, this only occurs in connection with the appearance of a life-form at some place in a sphere and dimension, which has a mission to fulfil as a prophet, etc.

535. And such prophets exist in all spheres and dimensions, that is, not only on Earth.

536. These are life-forms who are to further develop the great masses concerned of their own kind and who have to show them the way of the whole evolution.

537. Such prophets, however, are without exception brought forth by destiny of their own or are chosen by much more highly developed life-forms and prepared for their mission from birth.

538. If they are then sufficiently developed, then contact is made with the higher and purely spiritual plane Arahata by a Grand Council decision, which already consists of semi-spiritual life-forms.

539. From this plane the prophets are then further instructed in spiritual knowledge, and the teaching of the spirit is also transmitted to them for propagation.

...

Ptaah:

706. Earth-humans unfortunately do not understand and recognise the meaning of these laws, therefore they indulge in a false humanism and in a false execution of sentences.

707. That this is so, you will experience again in the month of September, when on your homeworld innumerable human beings will revolt in false humanism, however correctly, against several death sentences passed.

708. The condemned will be innocent of the charges against them and from this point of view will have to suffer death innocently.

709. But they are guilty on many other counts, and are also guilty of murder, consequently, either way, elimination by banishment would be justified.

710. But the death penalty will be carried out and ordered by powers who are also in need of elimination, for they are guilty of a thousandfold murder.

...

716. ... the event will take place in that country you call Spain.

Billy:

So the arch crook and political murderer Generalissimo Francesco Franco?

Ptaah:

717. He has killed or had killed a number of human beings himself for political-military reasons and is as guilty as those whom he will have condemned to death.

{Note: This contact discussion took place on July 17, 1975. This event occurred over 2 months later on September 27, 1975; details.}

...

Billy:

... I am interested in the further belt that is supposed to exist far outside our Earth and outside the Pluto orbit besides the Oort cloud, as Semjase recently told me in confidence.

...

Ptaah:

967. The other belt you mentioned is actually still unknown and will be discovered in the near future and then called the Kuiper belt.

968. Iron, rock and ice chunks accumulate in it, from which comets and meteors, among other things, are formed, which then reach the inner SOL system from there, along with comets and meteors originating from the Oort cloud.

969. The belt that you will see is actually outside the Pluto orbit, as my daughter has explained to you

970. It was already important at the time of the SOL system formation for the emergence of the planets and life on them, so also for the overall development for flora and fauna.

{Note: This contact discussion took place on July 17, 1975. According to Wikipedia, "It was only in 1992 that the first direct evidence for [the Kuiper belt's] existence was found.}

Semjase:

130. But his subconscious already knows what is to come and is now working in this direction.

131. And as you can see, we are able to record these facts through our analysers and read them.

134. So I did not look to the future, but only used our analysers for these things and monitored the subconscious of different persons in your group.

...

Billy:

... These pictures mean that the subconscious of this dictator Franco knows exactly that he will die. ...

Legendary, then his subconscious knows that he will be dead in a short time. Wait a minute, the date is ...

Semjase:

151. Stop, you cannot call that.

...

152. We must not interfere with particular events and influence the course of events by providing data at an early stage, which would result in violent changes.

153. It must be enough for you that you now know his date of death, but you must not name it before it has occurred.

154. You must remain silent about this and it must be enough for everyone else to know that dictator Francesco Franco of Spain will soon be departing this world.

{Note: This contact discussion took place on October 20, 1975. Franco died 1 month later on November 20, 1975.}

Addendum from Contact Report 38:

Semjase:

202. Sure, but now I have something to explain to you:

203. It is to do with your findings about the Spanish dictator Franco.

204. You analysed his date of death, and I told you not to mention it.

205. As usual, however, Hans Jacob has put you under pressure to write down the date.

206. I found that out during a check-up inside him.

207. I also know his reasons for saying that this is proof of the accuracy of our predictive power.

208. I can understand that when I consider the constant mistrust of Earth-humans.

209. But it is in nowise of significance and importance if we know upcoming events in advance and whether we make them known or not.

210. In many cases, such announcements would even have catastrophic consequences, which is why we must refrain from making them.

211. But anyone who wants to accept the facts can do so and act accordingly.

212. Well, despite my admonition, you wrote the date of Francesco Franco's death in a letter and brought it to the post office in a place called Arosa, addressed to Mr. Hans Jacob.

213. It was well-intentioned by you, but we must not allow this negligence to happen, because there are many possibilities with which the letter could have been opened too early despite your precautions.

214. So I had to intervene and stop your letter from the day of posting on November 5th.

215. It is not lost, but only ensured by being deposited in a safe place, from where it will be transported only when the date of Franco's death mentioned in the letter has become present.

https://www.futureofmankind.co.uk/Billy_Meier/Contact_Report_038

Billy:

... I have received explanations from you regarding the comet, the ozone belt and many other things. A few weeks or months later there were always articles in the newspapers that referred to this information and practically confirmed it. ...

Semjase:

...

68. All information given to you in this regard is based on analyses or experiences, etc., which we have developed ourselves.

69. Often these also coincide with statements made or to be made by Earth-humans at the same time.

...

76. But from our side we are able to judge these things better, so that we can transmit certain information at the appropriate times before they are announced by human beings.

77. These times vary, however, only slightly, so we can often name certain things only a few days, weeks or months before the Earth-human announcements.

https://www.futureofmankind.co.uk/Billy_Meier/Contact_Report_040

Semjase:

39. The spiritual teaching will now be transmitted to you anew; a little earlier than planned.

Billy:

It is just the basic teaching. I am to write the interpretations myself.

Semjase:

40. Sure, it is always like that.

41. The detailed explanations are the respective work of the prophet, who is after all knowledgeable taught.

42. His task is to write the explanations and deliberations in an understandable language.

43. That is why prophets are instructed in great knowledge and wisdom.

https://www.futureofmankind.co.uk/Billy_Meier/Contact_Report_043

Semjase:

112. It is no longer as it was in former times, when the proclaimers and heralds transmitted the teaching from place to place and orally in prophetic form, because the Earth-humans could only be addressed in this form, since they were not yet literate.

113. Today, however, when writing and literacy are very widespread on the Earth, everything should be put down in writing in order to be preserved and not to fall victim to any falsifications.

114. As a transmitter you have the task of recording everything that happens in a good writing for all the time to come, while others take on the task of spreading it and strive for this task in every form.

https://www.futureofmankind.co.uk/Billy_Meier/Contact_Report_053

Semjase:

48. The different levels are also recognisable from the representation, if my earlier explanations are called in to help, whereby it can also be recognised that the Earth-human is to be classified into the sixth step of the second level of development {see Contact Report 006:63}, which corresponds to a still lower state and says that these life-forms only slowly advance to the frontiers of the recognisable truth and only attain the most minimal realisations of spiritual values.

49. But this level also reveals that the Earth-human is currently living in an evil dichotomy between lies and truth and dismisses everything that corresponds to the truth.

50. They believe themselves to be very logical and infallible and blaspheme the truth by denying it through unreasonable and unreal explanations and assertions.

51. This is also the level at which the greatest errors of spiritual and consciousness-based concerns are committed, because the life form is torn back and forth between the will to know and research and not yet understanding the truth, unfortunately often misled by elements of megalomania, who are still incapable of any logical understanding and thinking and want to distinguish themselves precisely because they seem to be much more than they are in truth.

52. But under no circumstances should theirs [their understanding] be respected, for they are the false prophets of the new age who do not accept truth, accuse it of being a lie, and make lying assertions that they have attained their knowledge by mental transmissions from higher levels.

53. And these kind of prophets are unfortunately many, especially at the present time when they are making a bad impression, even wanting to force contacts from other levels and lyingly deceive their masses of followers, consciously trying to kill every truth by malicious lies and slander, as well as certain elements of the lowest form trying to undermine and destroy our task by accusing us of lies and falsehood.

54. They go so far as to falsely claim that they have received this through telepathic information from higher life-forms as truth, although they themselves are not capable of any form of telepathy and do not possess the least knowledge of spiritual and consciousness-based concerns and their modes of action, such as the two forms [humans] Bertossi and {Michael} Arends, which boast untrue telepathic abilities and a spiritual knowledge, but which truthfully only consciously use them for charlatanry and deception.

https://www.futureofmankind.co.uk/Billy_Meier/Contact_Report_057

53. Thus it was determined by the decision of the old venerable ones in foreseeing of the coming events that at the time of the Aquarian era a new prophet should appear, who already would have been so in former times as other personalities had who walked the Earth and patiently fulfilled his very heavy duty, true to his mission.

54. So it had been foretold by the venerable ones that at a certain time the same prophet would come again incarnated in a new personality, begotten by predestination and born by earthly parents, as was the case in former times, but begotten at that time by the seed of a son of the heavens.

77. In and of itself these concerns would not be a mystery if the return of the prophet had not already made his appearance.

78. It is this fact, however, that must be concealed and kept secret for certain circles at the present time, because if it were known at the present time, a catastrophe could not be avoided, especially for the sake of religion in the Christian sense, which in its irrationality would use the worst means of violence to destroy the mission of the returning prophet and rob him of his life.

Billy:

A huge thing, I think. But may one know where this prophet now lives, what his name is and where he had already appeared as a prophet before, and under what name?

Quetzal:

79. You know him very well because you embody this person, and we suspect that you know that better than we do.

80. But who you used to be in other personalities and where you stayed would be too premature to say, although there are already assumptions in your group about this.

...

Semjase:

205. It would be better for you to take an interest in certain aspects of your past lives and their personalities, because this would make many things easier for you, even in terms of revealing your secret, which we cannot simply deal with.

...

207. Unfortunately, there is nothing else to be done, and please take your time to deal with the personalities of your earliest past, the personalities of your previous lives, because you cannot conceal the truth in yourself over the longterm, although I am increasingly of the opinion that you know more about it than we do and that for reasons unknown to us you playing at something through which you want to withhold something from us.

208. But even if you have been resisting the given facts for years, if that really should be the case, which I doubt, the things of the past in reference to your old personalities correspond to the truth, for which you have enough evidence, as we know in the meantime.

211. Now you must finally deal with these given things and acknowledge the truth that we know something about you that you want to conceal, for which we have had enough evidence in certain individual things for three decades.

212. We have often explained to you, however, that your modesty is far too great, which was also the case with the personalities in your previous lives, which is why you do not want to acknowledge the facts now, or rather not call them into the open, despite the fact that they correspond to the full truth and cannot be eliminated by denial and dispute.

213. You know very well that at that time you spoke with a person very well known to yourself, with an important person in the past, who also lives in a new personality today and thus at your current time, only you repress this fact in your head.

214. Now finally think about it rationally and stand by this irrefutable truth, for there is nothing more for you to do in this important factor.

Billy:

48. Well, it would also be interesting to know how many dead and wounded there were in the earthquakes in China.

49. Officially, only unclear and rather lying statements are made.

50. The prophecies of Petale, which were passed on to me, spoke of about a million dead.

Semjase:

...

203. But now I would like to answer the other questions, which, however, also goes beyond the year 1977:

204. The Earth will not come to rest, because many more major quakes will shake the Earth in the future, much more than has been the case in recent years.

205. Except that these quakes are not all expected this year, but are expected to continue into the future.

206. However, they will be of such terrible violence that countries and islands will sink or rise by inches.

207. Unusually severe droughts will also sweep across the world in the future, only to be followed by avalanche disasters and floods of unusually large proportions, with Europe also affected in all respects.

208. Air transportation will suffer heavy, even very heavy, losses due to terror and technical and human failure and with many deaths.

209. Also many events will affect the water navigation.

210. Violence and crime as well as racial hatred and neo-Nazism and extreme right-wing and left-wing extremism will rise to dizzying heights everywhere, and sectarian, violent causes of death will become rampant among the human beings of all races.

211. It will all be much worse than ever before.

Billy:

51. Okay, that is enough, but what is the basis of your data?

Semjase:

212. These are probability calculations and forecasts.

...

215. Elsewhere, however, not from our side, the Earth-humans will be in for some surprises when certain things appear through races foreign to Earth, as I have already predicted to you with confidence and only for you alone.

https://www.futureofmankind.co.uk/Billy_Meier/Contact_Report_071

Semjase:

1. During the course of our conversation on the 6th of January, at our last contact, you asked me about various future matters, which I answered only poorly for you.

2. This occurred, as I was not, or not yet, informed about what and how much of the coming events of the Earth year 1977, as well as the subsequent decades and the third millennium, can be publicly revealed to the humans of the Earth.

3. In this respect I consulted with Quetzal, who gave me the exact values, so I may now in this way provide further details to you.

4. With this it is to be understood that my information is partly on a prophetic basis and is partly recorded in the programme of our probability calculations and foresights.
5. Now listen to the values, which are of unfortunate hardship, worse than all the years before, and which you should quote according to numbers:
6. 1) Severest earthquakes, worse in their extent than anything since 900 years before, will shake the Earth from 1977 till far into the future and far into the third millennium and change the surface of the planet and its climate.
7. The number of dead will be much higher than in the last 50 years up to 1976.
8. Due to undersea volcanoes, new islands will be formed, whereby our analysis reveals that the first island of this type will emerge near Japan.
9. Existing islands and small parts of the mainland will sink several centimetres in the floods of the oceans, or get pushed up several centimetres, while on the mainland smaller and larger shifts of land will occur.
10. In 1977 all those countries that were already shaken by quakes in 1976 are particularly vulnerable to earthquakes.
11. Becoming noticeable this year is also the great fault from San Francisco to Alaska, as well as areas in Austria, in Switzerland and Germany, which will be affected by various quakes.
12. Then also in this year the African continent and island nations in Oceania will be shaken by quakes, as also Russia, etc.
13. 2) Several volcanoes around the globe, during the coming decades, will spew out red hot earth in sudden and unexpected eruptions and destroy many thousands of human lives.
14. The beginning of these coming events will already take place within the next few days, when several thousand people on the African continent will be eliminated by a severe volcanic eruption in the nation of Zaire.
15. 3) At the beginning of the year 1977, snowfalls will rise to exceptionally high levels and claim many victims.
16. Even large areas, which otherwise have no snowfall, will be covered by great snow masses and be in distress, by which enormous temperature drops will lead to very many deaths from exposure in many nations, not only in nations used to snow, but also in areas not used to snow and cold.
17. Due to the unusual heavy snowfalls, beginning already tomorrow, many nations around the Earth will be affected and it will claim uncountable victims, which will also be the case to an unusual extent in the coming decades and into the next millennium.
18. Smaller and larger villages will be cut off from the outside world, and even air travel routes of entire nations will need to be temporarily discontinued.
19. The end of the snowfalls and sudden falls in temperature/climate brings minor and major catastrophes, because in the entire world, avalanches will follow, which will bring much suffering and distress to the humans of the Earth
20. In addition to many human and animal victims, large areas of landscape will also be affected, when they will be destroyed by falling avalanches, along with roads, railway lines and buildings of the humans.
21. 4) In the course of the coming decades and far into the third millennium, tremendous snowfalls all over the world will lead to very bad seasonal summers for many, many countries, for great droughts will occur and destroy seed and harvest, thus however also enormous storms and thunderstorms will cause havoc and damage worldwide, whereby also the whole of Europe will not be spared, not from huge floods either.
22. 5) Due to the coming drought periods until well into the third millennium, unusually large land and forest areas throughout the world will be destroyed by wild fire, and to a great extent especially around the time of the changing millennium.

23. 6) When in some places, due to drought, need and misery reigns, many countries in Europe, Asia and other parts of the world will be flooded by mighty waters, claiming victims, both human and animal, and destroying much of the land and man-made things.
24. Also storm surges will roll across the oceans, breaking onto islands and mainlands and claiming their deadly tribute.
25. 7) The world's shipping will be cruelly hurt by oil catastrophes, as well as by shipwrecks of all kinds, and claim many victims.
26. Whole series of shipping catastrophes will occur and cost mankind sums in the range of thousands of millions.
27. Especially the oil transport shipping is in the year 1977 and till far into the third millennium seriously endangered, by technical failures etc. of the transport vessels, as well as by natural forces, which rebel against humans' exploitation of Earth's petroleum, the interrelations of which the human of the Earth, however, is not able to understand and grasp, well, not even knowing them or not accepting them.
28. But the Earth is now ablaze in rage and defends itself, by which it again removes the deprived matter from the human beings, and in so doing, pollutes and destroys those areas, which are very important factors for humans' continued existence, also for the nourishment, namely the oceans.
29. The powers of nature, defending itself, have declared war against the human beings and hit them hardest, where their pulse of life beats.
30. Namely, when this is destroyed, then no living creature will be able to exist anymore on the Earth.
31. Due to tanker catastrophes, large quantities of oil are to be set free, which swim as mighty and all-destroying carpets on the water, contaminate the water, kill life-forms, and finally sink as a deadly and many-years lasting slick to the seabed and cover the shores underneath with a tough deadly mass and destroy them.
32. So the powers of nature defend themselves against the insanity of the human being of the Earth, in order to destroy him/her, for when the human disappears from the Earth's surface, only then will Earth be able to regenerate itself, which then however, may take thousands of millions of years and may put it back to its primal state.
33. But as this does not need to happen, the human being still has a small chance, if he/she rapidly discontinues all exploitation and thus does not exploit the Earth any further in the current manner.
34. But this means that an immediate stop of all exploitation must be worked out and implemented and at the same time a worldwide strict birth control and a minimum seven-year birth stop is enforced.
35. There is still time for the human of the Earth to save himself/herself, but the time for doing so has become very scarce, for no more than four hundred or five hundred years remain, to save himself/herself and to align with the laws and recommendations of nature.
36. He/she needs therefore in the course of this time to become rational and to learn how to handle everything, so that there will be no regress but an intentional progress.
37. 8) The year 1977 and all the times of the upcoming decades until well into the third millennium will bring a great deal of suffering through warfare for the human of the Earth.
38. The abuses of the terrorists, anarchists, neo-Nazis and all extremist trends as well as power-addicted ones will also rise sharply and encroach upon new means for murdering, by which many humans will die an evil death.
39. The main causes of this are the second-world war concern in relation to the persecution of the Jews and the hatred against Jews, as well as the nation of Israel, created after the war, and the nations sympathetic with it.

40. All those who are not cooperative with Israel and seek their satisfaction in the related hatred of race, foreigners, as well as those of other beliefs carry the blame in regard to the coming and senseless shedding of blood.
41. Already, in the north-east of the Middle East, the concept of a worldwide swell of a pummelling war at the Persian Gulf threatens, stirred up by the plottings of a mad and power-hungry Iraqi, who will become head of state in 1979.
42. The day is no longer distant, when the concept becomes a reality and a worldwide multinational combat troop comes into play, when the destructive war breaks out, which already glimmers in the basic thoughts of the upcoming ruler.
43. This evil threatening event can only be prevented if the nations of the Earth agree with each other, and in unity dissolve the evil machinations of the upcoming head of state at their very foundation, thereafter all borders of all neighbouring nations shall be opened and a united government for the entire territory is formed over there and takes up its function.
44. This alone guarantees to achieve the long sought true peace in that territory, and to also maintain it, whereby however one must principally explain, that a united government must not be formed and applied in a dictatorial manner, but in a form of leading the folk.
45. 9) The year 1977 will basically be a year of murder, at the grand as well as the small level.
46. No country on the Earth will be spared, because many places will experience quite evil massacres which will break out and claim countless humans as victims.
47. Switzerland, too, will not be spared, even in other forms and to a lesser degree.
48. Murders and other killings of hatred, despair and revenge, etc. will rapidly increase in number, as well as murders in a purely criminal and sectarian form, which will also spread to the later decades.
49. Entire families, especially in the coming time period and beyond the turn of the millennium, will fall victim to the bloodthirstiness of the most various elements, whereby spouses will kill each other, as well as many parents will kill their children.
50. Trivialities will appear as justification for the bloodshed, and the murdering elements will even feel that they are in the right.
51. The judging bailiffs will be overburdened with all these coming events, and in their irrational naivety they will grant these murderous elements all kinds of extenuating circumstances, concessions and in doing so will promote the continuation of the series of murders.
52. 10) The year 1977 brings to scientists of all branches a great many new discoveries, which well applied could bring the human beings of the Earth a lot of positive progress, which, however, following the old pattern, are converted into negative values, bringing the humans death and destruction.
53. In the medical science, unimagined discoveries are made and great successes recorded, but also in astronomy, chemistry, physics, and technology, which in its entirety will continue during all the coming decades until far into the third millennium, that starts on 1.1.2001, which will unfortunately be contested by misguided persons, because they want to choose the last year of the 20th century, so thus the year 2000 as the beginning of the third millennium.
54. 11) During the year 1977, the scientists of one nation develop an extremely dangerous and deadly weapon, namely the neutron bomb, by which the respective nation will win the greatest power. {Note: This is clarified by Semjase in Contact Report 79:S42, "the events about the latest terrible weapon of destruction of the Americans".}
55. 12) During the third millennium several dangers from space are threatening, which however, I am not allowed to describe any further.
56. 13) From the next decade onward several new and so far unknown to the human diseases will appear, which have partly originated in Africa and from monkeys, however also from the unintellect and the incredibility, that all sorts of dead and sick animals and even human extremities are processed into meat, which is then fed to both carnivorous and vegetarian animals, which ingest the pathogens contained in the meat, as also the human, when he/she consumes the meat of these then slaughtered animals as food afterwards.

57. 14) Air travel will suffer an unusually high amount of damage and will claim many victims, indeed also in the coming decades.

58. These are the most important predictions for the year 1977 and for the coming decades, as well as for a longer period of the third millennium, in part based on probability calculations and on forecasts, as well as in a small part on prophetic statements.

Semjase:

9. You should absolutely avoid this long-stretching zone here, because this, like nearly all flat land in the north of Switzerland, will be destroyed by possible later atomic fire during war actions, if the ancient prophecies should be fulfilled, which however is to hope that this does not happen.

https://www.futureofmankind.co.uk/Billy_Meier/Contact_Report_079

Semjase:

21. It would have been correct if you had drawn the attention of the group members to this and had informed them that little more than two thirds of the yearly predictions for the year 1977 {see Contact Report 71:S1-58} came from your foresight and probability calculations and that only the minimal remainder in this respect as well as the statements for the further future arose from my own work.

...

39. But be aware that the next predictions are to be given entirely from your side.

Billy:

...

21. I just wonder what percent of the predictions to be made correspond to reality and what benefits they bring.

22. It worries me a bit, because if I miss too much, then I look ridiculous and they will call me a charlatan.

...

Semjase:

42. Think only once of the most basic things, since your calculations fully coincide with the current and past events, which are mainly the unusual climate changes, the unusual snowfalls and rainfalls, the oil catastrophes and oil tanker ruptures, then also the events about the latest terrible weapon of destruction of the Americans as well as the prediction about the various volcanic eruptions, the rapid prevalence of criminality, family murders and many other things, which you have called, partly by probability calculations and partly by foresight, in the form of future vision with absolute correctness.

Billy:

23. Still, girl, I just have concerns.

Semjase:

43. Even if you are wanting in certain things, this does not justify a distrust of you or even an accusation of charlatantry.

Billy:

24. It is easy for you to talk, because you do not have to live directly with us earthlings, who very often try to twist a rope for vain reasons.

25. Especially I stand thereby almost like an exhibit whereby alone already the contact with you and yours gives extremely much cause for it.

26. What will it be like when I suddenly make yearly predictions in my name?

27. Surely they will accuse me of clairvoyance, and that means that I will appear even more implausible than it is already the case in would-be claustrophobic circles.

28. These would-be intelligence beasts will then be the first to shout out terseness and murder, which is certainly not absolutely necessary, is it not?

Semjase:

44. You are mistaken, because such action from these sides only serves our cause, because the greater and more vicious the anti-propaganda against you and your group and your contacts with us becomes, the greater are the positive successes, which you should know from your own experience.

...

47. As other personalities, you have already gathered countless experiences with this in earlier millennia and have never faltered as a different person.

Predictions for the Year 1978

Created in order by Semjase and written by Billy

1. Already the turn of the year 1977/1978 will be marked for mankind of the planet Terra. Evil events of human Ausartung [to get very badly out of the good human nature] will appear, such as bloodshed, enormous numbers of accidents, criminal acts of a special kind and the beginnings of evil anarchistic acts of terror. But also nature will claim its victims, because enormous cold spells and hurricane-like storms from the north and the south will cost many human lives. All kinds of human buildings will be destroyed and demolished, and all kinds of animal and floristic life will also perish.

2. The transition period to spring will not be as usual and as it has been for years because in 1978 it will be connected with many uncontrollable natural events of immense proportions. Just as the winter will be hard and cold, the death due to the cold will grip the people of the Earth and let them sink into the hard frozen ground.

3. A hot storm will blow from the south many times a year, announcing and pulling with it disaster and death, as it never has before. But storms also bite from the north, bringing chilling cold and repeated destruction. Thus it is given for the course of some months of the year 1978.

4. Given are the destruction of seeds and harvests in several countries of the Earth for the year 1978, whereby also some states get into financial distress over food purchases abroad.

5. Next go the earthquakes of the Earth, which will roll rampantly over the Earth. Well-known earthquake areas will be shaken again in 1978, sometimes much worse than before. The trench of San Francisco will also tremble heavily, as will large areas in China, Japan and the Middle East. But also Europe, Asia, America, Australia, New Zealand and the whole areas of Oceania will not be spared, because even the heaviest storms and floods will claim bad damage and human lives.

6. Several heavy and medium volcanic eruptions are foreseeable, including a respectable new formation of a volcano.

7. Several oil catastrophes will be a topic of discussion in 1978, as will the fact that several more oil tankers will again pour their contents into the waters of the oceans, spoiling them. Also, it is given that a large oil haulier goes on fire and causes much misery.

8. In the world of politics, fear and terror will begin to rule, because, through terrorism and anarchism which the state itself is to blame for in many parts, fatalities will be sought and found among politicians. Not only will several assassinations of politicians be successful, but two state leaders will be killed by upheavals, as will religious figures whose hour is already in a violent end.

9. Israel rises together with Arabia at the barricades in order to create an even more unsolvable problem between themselves, independently of each other and yet together in their goals, while the leadership of Israel combines semi-officially with the leadership of the Vatican in order to thereby prepare the beginning of terror without recognisable end, although the life of the Israeli President is already hovering on the brink of death.

10. If America announced the creation of a terrifying weapon in 1977, Russia is already creating much more disastrous things, which will be completed in 1978. A weapon that will be even more dangerous than that of the Americans, who were only able to come up with a neutron bomb.

11. As in 1977, in 1978 world aviation will be hit very hard, more than ever before, partly by failure of technical equipment and apparatus, partly by human failure and natural influences and partly by anarchistic acts of terror, in which especially large aircraft are destroyed and which cost many human lives.

12. A very serious underground political blow is being prepared against Germany, which the German government will hardly be able to control, but which will be the fault of the government itself if the evil event occurs.

13. In 1978, the Swiss Army and Air Force will be marked by many accidents and losses, but also by several deaths, all of which will be paid into the accounts of the above military leaders, although the blame will usually be passed on to the subordinates.

14. This will also be the case with several espionage cases discovered in 1978 in Switzerland, about which the Swiss government will make partial cover-up attempts, as well as an outbreak of scandal in the government administration, since several changes of position of leading heads will take place.

15. For the police all over the world, including Switzerland, the time of total hardship will begin and they will be more than ever stunned by criminality. Bestial murders, unprecedented in police history, will school the police officers in horror. Their state-controlled inadequacy will often condemn them to incompetence in the fight against crime.

16. Not only evil happens in 1978, for it balances itself with the good, as is the case on every planet in the course of evolution. Thus, for example, the science of technology, electronics, medicine and surgery creates many new methods and possibilities for the better health of the human being, but also for the liberation from organic and physical evils. A renowned scientist finally discovers very important basic elements in the fight of the hostage of cancer, but also to prevent it. It will also become known fundamentally worldwide that different methods of the, up to now, conventional cancer detection promoted this itself or even caused it itself, which is why these past and very dangerous methods will be refrained from in the future.

17. A new comet will appear in 1978, which will head from the vastness of space towards the SOL system, but which will not become dangerous for the Earth.

18. In 1978, the science of astronomy will make a completely new discovery, which will give it new perspectives and ways of knowing the structure of the universe and all its celestial bodies. So also in chemistry, physics and technology as well as in electronics, unexpected new knowledge will appear through discoveries, which will slowly but surely change the whole world view in the future.

19. In addition to many governmental and political crises, the financial and industrial sectors will also suffer heavy losses, which means that new paths of government management, financial management and industrial management will have to be sought. Rome is in first place and in 1978 is at the last end of bankruptcy.

20. The religious-sectarian fuss will increase strongly, whereby murder and blood crimes will also appear out of religious-sectarian fanaticism. It is also becoming apparent that religious-sectarian fanaticism will lead to the use of armed force.

21. Evil warlike and revolutionary riots in different countries will lead to political crises in 1978.

22. As in the years 1976 and 1977, Africa will make noise in the world, also in the year 1978, because there the atrocities will increase still more and shake the world.

23. The number of suicides rises rapidly in 1978, as do mental illnesses, while various epidemics affect people's lives.

These are the most important general predictions for the year 1978, calculated in combinatorial probability calculations, which have nothing to do with the so-called clairvoyance or a future view. As is the case with prophecy, it is also the case here that events of future form are subject to a change if the human beings come to their senses and thereby changes what is foreseeable. As a rule, however, Earth-humans do not strive for the best changes in a large part of their humanity, according to which the rule proves that the predictions must arrive in the form of combinatorial probability calculations. Further, other things are evolutionary, as well as universe-related, according to which they cannot be changed but can be redirected by some earthly or cosmic influence. The human being should always bear this in mind when thinking about the foremade predictions, which are only part of what 1978 will bring. Many more events are still in the offing, but to talk about them would probably be a waste of time because the Earth-human will not pay attention to them to a good extent. So it will also leave him/her cold [indifferent] that public transport, such as railways and bus companies etc., along with shipping and aviation, are very endangered and will claim many human lives, and even the malicious will of criminals will be instrumental in this. And a great many people will be completely left out in the cold as to the fact that in 1978 a veritable wave of kidnappings will break out all over the world, which will also claim many victims. The clever ones will say that this would probably have been the case. Of course, it was and is foreseeable, but only if one makes an effort to do these things. But this is how these clever know-it-alls sink back into the sea of anonymity, because they do not make their claims because they have actually foreseen the coming events, but only because they have read the predictions or because they have been orientated to the occurrence of events. This kind of person only talks about predictions if they have usually already been put down in writing or if they have already happened in reality. Only then do they have a big mouth and claim that they have already known all this in advance. In truth, however, they know nothing and wait until they have so-called evidence at their feet before talking about it, because they are too cowardly to be called fantasists and always fear for their good reputation. On the other hand, it is also much easier to say after an event has occurred that one had known this in advance than to announce the events to come long before. Many super-wise people rely on the stars and claim that they will bring this and that to the human beings of the Earth in the current or coming year. But how can the human being decipher these coming events from the stars if he/she has long since lost the necessary knowledge about them?

Knowing the fears and horrors of the Earth-human, I cannot grant myself permission to give more details in the predictions, or even names, countries and places, if the events to be expected are of a devastating, destructive nature, or in the form that human sacrifices will have to be mourned. Under no circumstances will I answer questions about this, for I know too well the fears and horrors of the human being and what could result from them.

Quetzal:

69. It is not appropriate and also not possible to mention positive aspects when clarifying faulty concerns, because thereby the negative would be trivialised, which is why the positive must be omitted as with a prophecy.

Quetzal:

49. The value of a spiritual leadership, however, lies in the fact that only teaching and advice-giving occurs in one's performance of duty, without any ambition toward commands, thus exercised and given in authoritative modesty.

Semjase:

85. Thus, it will be that Japanese television will make a good film in your Centre about our interests, after which then soon, in the month of September or October, 1979, also the first book will be completed and sold {UFO...Contact From The Pleiades, Volume 1 by Lee Elders and Wendelle Stevens, printed September 1979}.

...

Billy:

... and of the death of the Yugoslavian dictator Tito, who shall pass away in the next three years, when Saturn shines its light on the Earth, and of the invasion of the Soviet-Russian army into Afghanistan at the end of the year 1979, as well as of the re-election of Indira Ghandi as Prime Minister in India and her then following death, which will shake the entire Indian nation, as well as of the alliance of the Americans with various Middle East and Far East countries, to which still the alliance of the Pakistanis with the Chinese comes, along with many other events to be expected.

Semjase:

99. Sure, I speak of that, but no prophecies were transmitted to you in such detail because those details were not mentioned in them; those come from your own calculations.

100. At any rate, you have not received them from us.

Billy:

I am sorry, I have, in fact, somewhat calculated the events to be expected.

...

Semjase:

104. Have you calculated any other details?

Billy:

I have, namely some political machinations, which must lead to the fact that the ways are actually paved for the fulfilment of the prophecies.

Semjase:

105. What possibilities have you calculated?

Billy:

For example, I have discovered, as I already said, that the Pakistanis, and to be sure, the West Pakistanis, will make a military and politico-economic alliance with the Chinese, so these can find unhindered inlet into Pakistan. This must lead then, according to Adam Riese {possibly the 16th century German mathematician}, to the fact that the Chinese will then possibly settle in Pakistan and open the way and appropriate up to the western part of the Indian Ocean, by what means the exit and access road from and to Arabia is then already opened for them, should they want to advance one day – if the prophecy should fulfil itself – into the Middle East, in order to fulfil the prophecy there. In addition, my calculations yielded that the Americans could get involved with the Pakistanis and the Chinese because they have to fear an advance of the Russians from Afghanistan to the Indian Ocean, through which the whole situation becomes even more muddled and through which the Russians are forced to further steps, which could produce rather bad consequences, and this would be the beginning for the fact that the Bear then breaks out, as this is written in the prophecy. Moreover, it also arose from my calculations that the Scorpion, even Indira Ghandi, in her nature of instability and intrigue-strength, can suddenly take a catastrophe-wielding political step in the direction of Russia, which could mean a renewed threat to overall world peace, for then the Russians would also gain a foothold there, namely in India, and thus would again have a free way to the Indian Ocean, like if they would penetrate through Persia or Pakistan, whose rulers are so childish and inadequate and ignorant that the possibility must also be given to them, that they will pave and open the ways for the Russian army. All the calculations show that the situation could become so very muddled that the right action resulting from it can only be recognised with difficulty. To this still comes the confusions of various non-aligned and other countries up to Europe as well as the instability and lack of directionality of the leaders of these countries, who are worse than teenage children in their decision making power and illogic, so also from there, further malicious political threats, intrigues and unconscious destructive factors are still lurking, which could contribute their part to the beginning of the downfall, even though at the time of the first world-shaking crisis, after the invasion of the Soviet army into Afghanistan, some super clever, special politicians, etc. will claim that a Third World War cannot threaten anymore. However, these super clever ones and know-it-alls do not bear in mind that the Third World War will not break out all of a sudden as such but that, as the beginning already proves and as it will soon prove itself again after the invasion of the Russian army into Afghanistan, several individual countries will first get together in the wool and allow acts of war to break out from this, before the larger unions of various countries are found, which could then lead to the World War. The UN and NATO will then no longer have anything at all to report about this, and to be sure, already then when the Russians march into Afghanistan, which, incidentally, they have to do at the end of 1979, for they are obligated to do so by a contract; therefore, they will properly march in there and not make an incident of war, as it will be maintained. The UN and NATO, however, will become jumping jack organizations after this incident because they have never been so developed in their sphere of influence, as this would have had to be the case. Those responsible of these two organizations, and those involved in them in other ways, were and are, in truth, never capable of developing these organizations into what they basically should have become. Thus, they will not be able to receive enough power and respect for themselves at the given point in time to change or even just authoritatively influence the threatening world-political situation, in order to attain a change to the positive. But at the same time, these leaders are not capable of this, so even they, with their two organizations, cannot change anything in the impending fulfilment of the prophecies if, within a period of one year, the beginning of the one day possible bitter end in the third millennium begins to develop itself.

Billy:

... And what about, for example, the Queen of Holland, who should resign, according to my calculations, in the spring of 1980? Do I also have to be silent about that?

Semjase:

114. If it concerns such harmless things, like the resignation of this queen, then the disclosure of your knowledge plays no major role, for this queen is not in a world political situation that could provoke the important changes through an early disclosure of the fact that she wants to leave her office.

...

Semjase:

127. The Olympic Games have, unfortunately, already been caught in the wheels of the politics of the earthly governments for many decades, and this will be openly expressed to the world for the first time in the year 1980.

Billy:

That is just unreal! Is it because of the fact that the invasion of the Russian army will take place at the end of 1979?

Semjase:

...

129. Sure, that will be the reason.

Billy:

Then I can already imagine what will come. First, the Americans will cry out and will try to undermine or boycott the Olympic Games in Russia. Then soon, a wide variety of America-friendly countries will unanimously join in in this wolf-howling and will enforce a worldwide Olympic boycott, and with certainty, also approximately at least 50% of the Swiss population will be involved in this indelicate dance because most Swiss, in truth, never behave neutrally and pursue the dirtiest politics, of which they do not have the slightest notion, however. ...

...

Billy:

... I have only calculated that a lot will happen in Switzerland as well. In Berne, there will be murder and mayhem, because there, an embassy will be stormed. Also Geneva and Zurich will not remain spared from terror and anarchy enterprises. In addition, criminal activity will horribly take the upper hand, and in Zurich, one morning shortly after the turn of the year 1980, it will come to a major bank robbery attempt, during which two gangsters and a policeman will be shot. Furthermore, starting from 1980, Switzerland will be littered in its entire area by rampant murders, and political difficulties will enter into appearance, which are of a nature that was previously unknown in Switzerland. Nuclear power plants will be attacked by radical groups, whereby severe destruction of the same are also calculable. In the Bundesrat [Federal Council] itself, in the upcoming time starting from 1980, there will arise internal difficulties and differences, which will lead to dubious instances of maladministration and will evoke certain changes in the government itself. And, which I would have nearly forgotten: in the month of April, 1980, Switzerland will, for the first time, receive an official State visit from England by a royal couple. Elizabeth and Philip will visit Switzerland.

...

Semjase:

301. At the same time, think of the prophecy that was given to you on the 2nd of February, 1976.

302. There is talk in this of the fact that San Francisco will be destroyed.

303. With the outbreak of the St. Helens volcano, the time becomes complete, in which the beginning of the end assumes its actual beginning.

304. About this, it stands word-for-word in the prophecy brought into verse form by you: "... and the city at the fault becomes totally buried..."

Billy:

I know, but I have not learned the prophecy by heart.

Semjase:

305. Of course not, but for that, I can recite it to you by heart.

Billy:

Really? Then do that at once.

Semjase:

306. As you wish:

307.

Under smoking, greyish black, conical mountains, very many hellfires become fatally smouldering;
they liquefy sand and earth and rock, deep in the Earth, within and without sunshine.
Deep in the Earth's interior, hot magma masses bubble, greedily reaching upward and onto the Earth.
Exploding, they hurl their fire upwards, through the throat of the mountain, the gate of fire.
Crashing, they spew out their glowing masses, destroying humans, animals, plants – oh horror.
And even the seas become churned deep down,
the Earth has already felt this for so very long.
Angry volcanic fires tear up the image of the world, and all over, great cries of horror shrill.
But it's still not enough when it burns, for the earthquake rushes ahead and behind;

destroying, roaring, it destroys everything, and no one is able to soothe the calamity.
The volcanic fires race and the Earth quakes, all around, unwaveringly, destroying life after life.
It lets new islands arise in the seas, while humans on sinking lands plead.
The time of the first destruction is already there, in the south of the land of the old native inhabitants of America.
This land is badly affected in the coming time, as well as the land where black humans hope.
Also Europe does not remain spared from the evil, for also there, under the land, lives hell.
From the land of the boot, one will speak very sadly, and also from the lands with the boon of Earth-gold.
Also the land with the cherry blossom becomes shaken, and the city at the fault becomes totally buried.
Also the people and land of the lion sword suffer, and the star in the half-moon does not become avoided, also the land of the gods becomes maliciously affected, the lands of the dragon and of the hope of peace,
when the fires of the volcanoes infernally blaze,
and earthquakes tear up everything in many lands.
So it already happens in the coming days, beginning with very many thousands of lamentations of death, announcing the time of terror through those dying, in the south of Latin American country grounds, there first, the earthquakes claim very many lives,
and then volcanic fires unexpectedly blaze.
The coming times, they bring great sorrow,
and over the Earth then lies a shroud of death.
So I now hereby write it down solidly, it is coming, Earth-human – right now.

Billy:

Fantastic. You can actually do it by heart.

Semjase:

308. Sure, also every other prophecy, which you have written in solid form.

...

Billy:

That is dear of you, but the prophecy just repeated by you refers not only to the coming events but also to other ones, which already arrived years ago. It is a rather far-reaching series, which reaches until far into the future.

Semjase:

310. Sure, I also only mentioned it because it even mentions the coming events.

311. It has already had validity since the year 1976, whereby various things mentioned in it have already happened.

312. But at the point in time of Tito's death, the events begin to fulfil themselves in an increased measure, which the humanity of Earth will have to ascertain with fright.

313. Maybe then the most diverse human beings will remember your prophecies and realise that very much more is hidden in them than what they wanted to admit before.

314. Then also will many human beings realise that your mission is not of lying and fraud, as it wants to be and will be slanderously denied.

...

Ptaah:

23. These, therefore, are the values of the future, but you may let these be reported publicly – as explained – always only when the individual events have already arrived.

24. Only the group may be informed, like usual with predictions.

Billy:

I know from Quetzal that the volcanoes Vesuvius, Etna, and Stromboli should become very active in the coming time, and Vesuvius should erupt when the Third World War comes. Is that still valid?

Semjase:

177. The situation concerning the eruption of Vesuvius has changed, but the danger will exist furthermore.

178. The things of world events have already shifted time-wise, and certain prophecies will thereby change, be cancelled, or come true at a later point in time.

179. The Etna volcano and Stromboli, however, will become very active, particularly starting in the late nineties, and will carry the risk of exploding in themselves.

180. Similarly, this applies to an Atlantic volcano of the Spanish Archipelagos.

Billy:

... I am sure you know that since your grandfather Sfath's time, I have been occupying myself with kabbalism and always add up or calculate all sorts of things ...

Semjase:

10. With admirable accuracy, as I must admit to you once.

Billy:

Or with huge blunders and ...

Semjase:

11. As a rule, those are only small and do not arise because you would make wrong calculations.

12. The falsities therein are always only the temporarily unpredictable, rapidly changing circumstances, which even cause us the greatest difficulties in our probability calculations.

https://www.futureofmankind.co.uk/Billy_Meier/Contact_Report_136

{Note: This Contact Report contains numerous news articles to document the fulfillment of the many future events mentioned.}

Semjase:

147. So I will likewise tell of the next upcoming events, which will become well-known worldwide when they fulfil themselves.

148. The first concerns the ballot for the new American president.

149. It will be expressed worldwide that the lesser of two evils must be chosen; therefore, the current President Carter will not hold his position any longer.

150. For this reason, the next great man of the United States of America will be President Ronald Reagan.

151. A man who will cause everything to align through his upcoming actions, allowing the old prophecies to be fulfilled, from which it will slowly yet surely result that everything will begin to expand on the Earth for the preparation of a worldwide war.

152. The new president will be aggressive and eager to solve all problems through the use of military force and new armaments.

153. This in contrast to his predecessor, who is likewise unsuitable, however, in his present position, as the new president will also be, who already exhibits some radical and extreme characteristics.

154. Contrary to the erroneous opinion of the U.S. and the worldwide population, Reagan does not represent the lesser evil but rather the larger, as the Earth-humans will find out.

...

161. After the presidential election in America, the next world-changing event will be that in Italy, the next major earthquake after Al Asnam will occur, to which 4,000 Earth-humans will fall victim.

162. This quake will occur in the areas of the southwest, south, and southeast, as well as east of the Vesuvius volcano, causing immense damage to the buildings.

163. The first major quake, having great destructive power and causing thousands of deaths, will result towards the end of the month of November of this year, after which then, over long periods of time, new tremblings of the Earth will drive the populations into fear, as this will also be the case in Al Asnam, where for the first time, the Earth will no longer come completely to rest, and 50 to 80 earthquakes will roll daily through the ground.

164. In Al Asnam, the number of deaths will, indeed, be a thousand times higher than what will happen in Italy, but a greater danger awaits this in the boot country.

165. The severe quake around Vesuvius will only be the beginning of a great number of similar disasters in Italy, but it should also be the starting point for further coming eruptions of the volcano, which will create more destruction in the future.

166. The threatening eruptions of the volcano, however, will indicate that another world war comes within easy reach and that its destructive work will begin and be carried out, without it being able to be prevented, if the political and religious unreasonableness of the Earth-humans should continue.

...

177. This is to be said of the coming quakes in Italy, which find their beginning at the end of November of this year and which will not end for a long time.

178. But I must now depart from identifying in chronological order the events that are coming and return to this later.

179. Before other major earthquakes follow in Italy, still several other things that are serious or simply important and moving for Earth humanity will occur around the world.

180. Thus, the earthquake disaster in Italy will still be on the lips of the Earth-humans when the next event occurs, which will deeply move millions of humans.

181. In New York, it will happen that in the second week of December of this year, a man who is well-known by the name of John Lennon will be murdered by a firearm.

182. His character is that he is a musician, and he was formerly a member of the Beatles group.

183. He will be murdered by a religiously misguided one named Chapman, who, moreover, suffers from delusional ideas caused by erroneous religious teachings, as this will appear more and more in the extreme with those who have succumbed to the delusional religious cults and sects in the United States of America.

184. Another event goes into action with the coming climate, which will already be at hand in October and which especially concerns the northern hemisphere of the Earth.

185. I already explained to you earlier that in the specific case, the whole Earth will slowly become a flood-prone area.

186. However, the climate will also continue to change in such a manner that icy cold weather will fall over the regions of the Earth because a new cooling time inevitably approaches, whereby the overall view of the Earth will change once again.

187. In the north, completely domesticated birds already begin annually to draw to the warmer south for the winter, and already in a hundred years, these feathered animals will no longer have a home in the north.

188. Today, many animals still living in the northern areas migrate, on the other hand, to the south, or they already begin to change themselves in their entire anatomy, etc., in order to adapt themselves to the new and approaching cold climate.

189. Many kinds will begin to change themselves into other forms, which can be determined soon by the earthly scientists, whereby they are able to then exist in the new climate.

190. Thus, the picture of the animal world will, at other times, change itself, and new forms of faunal life will revive the soil, while the Earth-human must also take upon himself/herself many changes and cannot avoid the renewed change.

191. The signs of the times will increase continuously, whereby these signs are always, unfortunately, of a negative form.

192. There are signs, which have been called for since ages ago in the prophecies, but the Earth-human did not pay any attention to these.

193. They would have been very much able to prevent these dreadful events from happening if the prophecies would have been attentively followed and if he/she would have taken good heed of them.

194. They always ignored them, however, and they disturbed the entire planet itself, as well as all of its life-forms.

195. But now they will receive their wages for this, which will be very bitter.

196. The time has now come, in which all things increase negatively and the prophecies literally begin to fulfil themselves.

197. The culprits, in particular, have been called to account and have been eliminated, but only until they arrange greater havoc.

198. There are also those who will not be spared from their destruction, who have slandered extraterrestrials and, through their lies that they have created about us, live in material glory.

199. All those who have accumulated greedy profits from our existence and created false cult-religious sects, associations, and organisations built on lies, saying that they would stand in contact with us or other extraterrestrial life-forms and that we would advocate the cult religions, will have an evil end and die by their own believers or at least be ostracised by them.

200. In particular, those frauds are called to account by their believers, who steal your material and try to evaluate this in their favour.

202. And now, further chronological predictions concerning the coming months and years are as follows:

203. Around the time of the 19th of January 1981, Japan will be shaken by an earthquake, which we have calculated at about a strength of 8 on the Richter scale known to you.

204. This quake, which will occur without causing major catastrophes, despite its strength, will be deemed as a sign of the completion of the Iranian-American hostage affair.

205. On the same day at 21:30 hrs, the American hostages are to be released, but this will be prevented by the power of the Ayatollah Khomeini because he will want to meet with the departing American President Jimmy Carter and, therefore, will not grant him the victory.

206. For this reason, at the last moment, he will prevent the release of the prisoners so that this release will not occur until the next day, the 20th of January 1981, at around 18:23 hrs.

207. For the time being, this will end the largest criminal extortion on the face of the Earth, which will, however, have very serious consequences for the Iranian people and their government at a later time.

208. The first time, the Iranians will be of the wrong opinion that they have achieved a victory by the criminal extortion and subsequent release of the prisoners, but they will soon recognise all sorts of the inconvenience and ruin that they bargained for.

209. But their remorse and insight into their crazy direction and into their fanaticism will come too late.

210. In particular, the new U.S. president, Ronald Reagan, will emphasise his power in order to retaliate against Iran.

211. And that this will be so, like also many other very senseless and terrible things that lead to murder and war, is ensured by a man who works closely with President Reagan, namely a war and intrigue fanatic, like Reagan himself, a man named Haig, who has already caused much political mischief.

212. In particular, Reagan will become unforgiving towards Iran when he is informed more precisely about the fact that the U.S. hostages in Tehran had to suffer under torture and still have more to suffer.

213. The next events in chronological sequence are that Indonesia will be shaken by an earthquake, which will kill several hundred people, while on the same day, namely on the 24th of January 1981, China will also be afflicted by another major earthquake in the territory of the province of Sichuan.

214. There will be many deaths to lament over, which will be calculated in the thousands.

215. As usual, however, the Chinese authorities will indicate a much smaller number of victims than what corresponds to the truth.

216. In addition to such serious and tragic events, other things will happen in the world, such as in the field of crime.

217. To make any predictions about this in a graduated form would be pointless because the entire level of crime in all countries is heavily rising.

218. Thus, it is only worthwhile to say something about such issues in chronological order, and only then if it is of interest for the whole or a large part of the world's population.

219. With our calculations, we have not only discovered serious criminal matters but also innumerable insignificant issues that would only interest a few human beings.

220. Under these insignificant criminal incidents, events will also enter again and again, which I personally find to be amusing, in spite of the criminal background.

221. Thus, I have noted two events that will happen at about the time of the earthquake in China and which I do not want to withhold from you because I just find them to be amusing and because the events will be so illogical that I cannot gain any sense from them:

222. In St. Gallen, after a lengthy tour of Switzerland, an American singer and song-writer, Percy Sledge, will be betrayed by his manager, who will steal not only the singer's wages and escape therewith but also his bus and all of his musical instruments.

223. The theft of money makes some sense, but I think it is amusing that the vehicle and the musical instruments will also be stolen, which the manager cannot begin to do anything with.

224. Just as incomprehensible and amusing, I think, is that in the zoological park of Copenhagen, a young elephant will be stolen, also at around the same time.

...

227. Thus, it is to be said that after the earthquakes that were mentioned to occur in Indonesia and China, in South Africa, severe floods will afflict the country, while in Iceland, it will follow that a volcano will erupt, discharging immense masses of glowing lava.

228. This volcano, however, is located far away from inhabited areas, which is why no human lives will be taken and no damage will have to be lamented.

229. Then follows the first major political impact of the U.S. President Reagan, who will flip the world on its head with terroristic measures.

230. The first of his great acts will already become known at the end of the month of January 1981 and at the beginning of the month of February 1981, which is that he will reach out to murderous dictatorships and regimes of small countries and clear the way for them for the enslavement, oppression, and murder of their populations.

231. The military aid, which he will award to these countries, will produce very weighty and negative consequences.

232. Even with Russia, the new president will be speaking quarreling and angry words, which will bring the Russian government up in arms.

233. But this senselessness of the American president will not yet be enough because such actions only mean the beginning of his evil reign, during which he will destroy much hope for peace which had been laboriously developed a great deal since the end of the Second World War.

234. Thus, as the next blow of terror to Earth humanity, Reagan will bring the neutron bomb that was secured by the preceding President Carter into play, as he will want to let this weapon of terror be stationed in Europe.

235. This will have the consequence that Russia will advance its secret upgrades even more and will then bring an even more terrible weapon into play.

236. Reagan will provoke a lot of evil not only for the whole world but also for the people of the American States.

237. One of these evils is that he will undermine the security of the consumers of national goods.

238. A large consumer safety group will be attacked by Reagan, whereby the security of the consumers in America will soon begin to suffer, which will have as a consequence that the death rates caused by accidents will rise again because by Reagan's machinations, the security of the consumer goods in its structure, etc., will be neglected.

Billy:

You told me years ago that Reagan will be the actual author of the hitherto largest world arms race.

Semjase:

239. Sure, he will be the man who will initiate the basic things that can then possibly lead to a Third World War in the distant future.

Billy:

That will, however, not be carried out under the scepter of Reagan, or will it?

Semjase:

240. No, and this represents good fortune for Earth humanity.

241. If he were to be the decisive word in such a war, then the entire Earth would be destroyed.

Billy:

Which would probably correspond to an atomisation?

Semjase:

242. Yes.

Billy:

Then hopefully, there will also be humans who will recognise these things early.

Semjase:

243. That will be the case, and his very inglorious end is already certain, as also that of the murderous Ayatollah Khomeini, whose end begins to be at hand in the first days of February 1981, when he is struck with an illness that he cannot be healed from, which will also happen to Reagan in a later time when he is struck by Alzheimer's disease and will have a tragic end.

...

Semjase:

247. Ayatollah Khomeini and his allies will, in the first months of 1981, play around with the idea that the Ayatollah should allow himself to be treated by notable physicians in Switzerland.

248. The realisation of this attempt, however, is still presently questionable because no clear picture can be determined yet.

249. The Khomeini's brain functions are damaged, which is why with him, arbitrary actions and resolutions often go into action, which cannot be predicted in their final form very often.

250. For this reason, this occurrence in Switzerland cannot be predicted with any certainty and neither can the trip of the Pope to Switzerland, who is occupied with the thought of visiting your mother country in the middle of the year 1981.

251. Certain factors of uncertainty are also present with the Pope which could, at the least, postpone his trip.

252. On the whole, the entire year of 1981 holds a great deal of uncertain factors, which is why very precise numerical data can only be made on rare occasions, just as in other cases, which do not allow themselves to have absolute certainty as to whether a particular event will arrive now or not.

253. This, however, exclusively applies to events which have direct reference to persons.

254. This is so only because in particular, the year 1981, in reference to the actions of persons, will be dominated by such persons whose material consciousness and brains exhibit damage, which will lead to arbitrary, hot-tempered, and unpredictable actions.

255. This will also be the case with Prince Charles of England, who will become engaged to a certain Diana Francis Spencer, which will then lead to a marriage in the first half of the year if these plans are not wavered again by the instability of this man.

256. On the other hand, it would be very beneficial if Prince Charles would not marry this girl because when this marriage is actually realised, it will not run a happy course, especially not for Diana, who will have to suffer with difficulty under the imperiousness, adultery, intemperance, capriciousness, and other emotional outbursts of the Prince, which will try to be concealed for a long time by the royal house by all means, until everything becomes official and a divorce takes place on the 28th of August 1996, according to which one year later, Diana will suffer a fatal accident in Paris.

257. Also uncertain in Spain is the matter which is very insecure in its outcome, where attempts will be made to overthrow the government.

258. Approximately in the month of February, 1981, so our calculations show, the military will, in turn, try to seize the power for itself in that country.

259. According to our calculations, however, this coup attempt will have to fail because the best friend of King Juan Carlos cannot obtain his assistance.

260. But here, human beings also play a very important role, whose material consciousnesses are not fully functional and who have some damage to their brains.

261. For this reason, an accurate prediction in this case also cannot be ensured.

262. However, those events that are to be released naturally are to be determined very precisely, even when they often arise, in certain parts, at the fault of the Earth-humans.

263. It is certain that shortly after the 20th of February 1981, the southern part of Greece will be shaken by a moderately severe earthquake.

264. The human losses, however, will not be high and will be limited to a maximum of a quarter of a hundred.

265. This earthquake, however, will truly only represent a continuation of those earthquakes that have their origin in Agadir and that will move on to Italy, where the real big quakes will truly begin and by what means the chain of earthquakes will no longer break off for a long time.

266. As explained, Greece will be the next country after Italy to be shaken, whereby in that place, as in Italy, an end to the quakes will not be found for a long time.

267. From Greece, the quakes will then move on to Japan, and in addition, Yugoslavia, South America, Russia, all the Balkan States, and also Europe will not be spared in the end.

268. Thus, Italy will be the actual starting point of that large chain of weak to most severe earthquakes, which will shake the Earth from the end of 1980 and into the beginning of 1981 throughout many years until far into the third millennium and bring death and destruction over the human beings, whereby the Earth-human has contributed a lot to this and will further serve to encourage these quakes.

269. The beginning of this time of severe earthquakes is also connected with a large climatic-overthrow, whereby this will already become apparent at the end of the year 1980 through a very harsh winter that will bring an unusually large amount of snow and will reach down into the areas of the desert of Sinai and the Sahara, whereby far areas of Africa will also have to suffer under this winter.

270. After that, over many decades, wild waters will appear all over the world, causing large areas of many countries to suffer from floods that bring death, destruction, and annihilation.

271. Another fact that will not bring any more joy to the Earth-human is that the earthly astronomers will unexpectedly admit that they were mistaken about the total size and expansion of the Universe and that they have discovered new galaxies in the Universe of gigantic size and at great distances, of which they will suppose, until then, that the end of the Universe would be there.

Billy:

Aha, so some will have to admit their mistakes once again, but that is nothing more than what is right. But can you explain to me why you said that the tragic end of the American president is already certain through the incurable Alzheimer's disease?

Semjase:

272. I will tell you details about that later.

273. For now, I would like to address your question only so far that I tell you that this man's life is very endangered and that already shortly after his assumption of office, enigmatic enemies will be deployed who will want to assassinate him.

274. It is still too early to talk about this now because this does not fit into our chronological order of the list of coming events at this time.

275. At present, I stand with my explanations only in the initial months of the year 1981.

276. However, up to the middle of the year 1981, there are still many things to explain, which will happen on Earth within a great part of the framework and which will come into play.

...

289. Even during the outflow of the harsh winter season of 1980/1981, it will happen with complete certainty that in Italy, the Etna volcano will begin its unusual activity again, which was no longer the case for several decades, while at the same and following time, an unusually high amount of aircraft hijackings will be carried out in many different countries.

290. It will also be a time in which the aircraft hijackings will cause many deaths to be lamented over, as it will also be the case with the young people, who will revolt as terrorists and anarchists in many countries and occupy the buildings.

291. This will increase far into the future, as will also neo-Nazism in many countries, whereby the governing forces of the Earth bear the guilt for the development of these occurrences.

292. They will allow a false humanitarianism and an unwarranted, light forbearance to be made toward the youngsters, terrorists and anarchists, building occupiers, and revolters.

293. In the case of neo-Nazism, it will behave similarly, for through the unreasonableness of the governments, even though the machinations of the last World War should have finally been placed into oblivion, it will be handled oppositely, however, and neo-Nazism will rise again with great force.

294. The governments, filmmakers, and television producers will commit more madness in the coming time, showing the horrible atrocities of the last World War in films, movie theatres, and on television and make these accessible to the humans of the Earth.

295. Through this, the minds of all of those humans, who are not in agreement with their governments and social orders, will become excited, and thus, they will take the atrocious films and reports as a model and form and establish new movements of destruction.

296. This will already happen in an increased measure in the next year, so thus in 1981, while the following decades will bring the continuation of such.

297. The relevant governmental bodies are sufficiently deluded not to realise that these machinations of constant and renewed representations of the last World War would have to be prohibited by all means and also that the public orienting of youth revolts would have to remain omitted, while the law enforcement agencies would have to crack down.

Billy:

Then we can expect a great deal in the next year and in the next decades. Only one thing still does not click for me with regards to your explanations. While you were talking, I thought of something in regards to your words which you said earlier, when you said that by mid-year of 1981, still many things will happen, which you would still have to explain to me before you can make further remarks about the American president. I have, indeed, been thinking about this man. I discovered in my calculations that what you said 10 minutes ago must still arrive before mid-1981, which is that the new U.S. president is to be killed.

Semjase:

298. Sure, that is correct.

299. The date and time of this incident are already certain and unavoidable, but I explained to you that I want to give the coming events in chronological order.

300. But, if you are so impatient, then I would be glad to omit several upcoming events, which will still occur before the assassination attempt is committed against Ronald Reagan.

Billy:

Are they of such great importance? What are they?

Semjase:

301. They are to be classified into the earthquakes that are only of incidental importance, primarily the continuous quakes that will occur in Italy and Greece.

302. Besides this, there are some greater criminal and felonious facts to be mentioned, particularly a large series of murders in America, which will cause outrage all over the world because by the middle of 1981, about 30 black children will be killed there, and this number will only be the official claim.

303. The truth about the number of victims will be even more terrible, however.

304. This case will move the whole world, whereby different other homogenous or similar cases will only find marginal interest, including one of a similar nature that will occur in England.

...

307. Good, then I will give you the necessary information about the president of America.

308. It will be on the 30th of March at the time of 21:45 hrs, in front of the Hilton Hotel in the city of his speech, where the president will be shot down by a student named John Hinckley.

309. Ronald Reagan will suffer a shot to the wall of his lung; however, he will be healed surgically.

310. His injury will not bring direct mortal danger for him, while some of his companions, however, will be brought into direct mortal danger, including a security officer and Reagan's press spokesman, among other ones.

Billy:

Aha, and what time do you mean with 21:45 hrs? Is this according to American time or our time?

Semjase:

311. The time corresponds to Central European time, and to be sure, the statement applies to the amended time.

Billy:

I do not understand that?

Semjase:

312. You know, nevertheless, that the so-called daylight-savings time plays a large role in the countries of Europe.

Billy:

Of course, but Switzerland has wisely kept itself from this for about 40 years.

Semjase:

313. Sure, but in the year 1981, it will be reintroduced.

...

Billy:

Of course, because I still do not understand some things. You said, nevertheless, that Reagan, shortly after his assumption of office, will encounter profound enemies who will make themselves available against him in order to assassinate him. But now, you said that he will only be shot down by a single man, a student. Therefore, the danger for the president has not yet passed, and above all, it is also not clear to me as to whether or not he will still die after the surgery on his injury. You did not express yourself over this clearly because you only mentioned the fact that the shot wound would not be directly fatal.

Semjase:

316. As always, you are very keen.

317. I actually only spoke of the direct shot wound, which the American President Ronald Reagan will have to suffer, who can be healed again, however, by a surgical intervention lasting several hours.

320. Still, during his recovery time, the security bodies will discover that the assassin was, indeed, an outsider, but one who maintains contacts with other elements that are determined to kill the president.

321. In this connection, the arrests of certain suspects will then be made, which will not help the security bodies, however.

322. For this reason, the man will be further endangered because other elements will still stand against him before his election to the presidency and will be concerned with the thought of killing him, which is why he runs the risk of falling victim to another assassination attempt.

Billy:

Then the possibility still exists that he will still be killed and depart from this life?

Semjase:

323. This danger is quite great, but after the assassination attempt, security precautions will be so drastically tightened that he will escape the danger.

324. However, I want to explain to you the most important data about this at a later time.

325. For now, it is such that this President Reagan will be the empowered one who will bring the doubtful world peace that will only be laboriously preserved until then into wavering, for as a power-hungry person, he has been of the crazy acceptance for a long time that he can solve all problems through force, intrigues, and compulsion.

329. In accordance with his crazy actions, everything in the world will line up very quickly even more toward terror and anarchism, for misguided ones believe to recognise, in his hunger for power and in his tyranny, a means by which they could reach their confused and unrealistic goals.

330. Even on the so-called normal citizens, everything will have its effects, which will especially be terribly expressed in Switzerland, in that crime will dramatically increase at a very alarming rate, according to which, in the month of April 1981 alone, in your homeland, so many murders of people will be committed as what will be the case throughout the whole year of 1980.

Billy:

Huh? Do you mean that in April of 1981, in Switzerland, there will be as many murders committed as altogether in the whole year of 1980?

Semjase:

331. That is what I said.

...

332. These are only the other following signs of the coming and slowly approaching global decline.

333. But the signs will pile up very rapidly after the recovery of the U.S. president because soon after this, criminal elements in captivity will try to obtain a political status.

334. Irish Republican Army prisoners, murderers, and other serious criminals will try, with difficulty and through hunger strikes, to extort the British government in order to be able to be considered as political prisoners.

335. The Englishmen, however, will remain unyielding, according to which, in the first days of May, 1981, the first criminal hunger strike will die out, as it will already happen weeks before in Germany, where the same method of anarchist criminals will be used to extort the government.

336. But the hunger strike will also lead one criminal to his death, which will occur with the criminal Bobby Sands, who will be the first of the Irish Republican Army criminals to die of hunger, and then in a few days, the next striker will follow him to death.

337. But all this is only the beginning of the labour pains, starting in the year 1981, of the oncoming worldwide disaster, degenerated terrorism, and destruction, as well as various wars that will be released and waged worldwide by the U.S.A., which will, for the time being, lead to the fact that the Earth will be afflicted by a very malignant, huge arms race.

338. But this has already been inexorably set in motion; thus, it can hardly be prevented anymore.

339. We will, indeed, do everything permissible to alleviate an impending catastrophe, but we cannot prevent it by force, as we are not authorised to intervene directly in the crazy machinations of the Earth-humans and their governments.

340. For this reason, we also cannot prevent or alleviate the assassination attempts on the so-called high-ranking personalities, to whom presidents and ministers, etc., will fall victim, and concerning these facts, Italy, as always, will hold a leading role through the criminal organisation 'Red Brigades' and the Mafia.

341. But the members of these political and criminal organisations will fatally prove to be strictly devout Catholics, and on the 13th of May 1981, a low blow will be dealt to them which will give them something to think about.

342. Namely when their alleged 'spiritual' head becomes seriously injured by an assassination attempt of a sought after Turkish assassin.

...

Billy:

Do you mean that the pope will be shot by an already known assassin?

Semjase:

344. He will be dangerously injured by the assassination attempt, but I will tell you more about this later because before this happens, there will still be some other things that will occur that should at least cause the human beings in Europe to pause for thought.

345. Thus, it will happen that at the end of the month of April, 1981 and in early May of 1981, in Austria, namely in Vienna, a head of the city will be shot, while afterwards, in Germany, a minister will also be robbed of his life by shots.

350. Due to Reagan's insane politics, Israel, which indeed wants to gain control of the country of Palestine by all means, will thereby allow itself to be misguided to reveal its true face.

351. Especially the criminal and national president, Begin, will betray his true German-hostile attitude and will try to compromise the German politicians with lies and intrigues, and indeed he will do this already before the assassination attempt on the Pope will occur, and before, in France, the new national president named Mitterrand will be elected, who then likewise pursues a policy which leads toward the destruction of the nation and the Earth, as will be the case with the American president, Reagan.

352. Only, the new French President will handle these matters differently than Reagan.

Billy:

You mean, therefore, that they, during the year 1981, will let the cat out of the bag?

Semjase:

353. Sure, and indeed with absolute certainty.

354. But up to this point in time, the Germans will not realise that their reparation attempts, up to that hour, have been totally wrong and that with Begin they have nourished a deadly brood of vipers at their bosom.

355. A brood of vipers of a quite especially poisonous kind, which constantly just aimed to forcefully pull everything into its possession, whatever it could get its hands on, with lies, deceit and intrigues, which has been the case for a long time with this man.

356. Perhaps those responsible ones in Germany, and in the other countries of the Earth, will also finally recognise the truth, that namely the original forefathers of the Israelis pursued this murderous method, to make drunk in pretended friendship those to be exploited, in order to butcher and eliminate them in their drunken stupor.

...

359. Perhaps the machinations of Begin in the year 1981 will finally bring about a change.

Billy:

This is therefore not yet certain?

I mean, that this change will come?

Semjase:

360. No, unfortunately not, and even if this should be the case, Israel will still gain the upper hand.

361. This also is the sign that the Pope in Rome will soon begin to make common cause with, the government of the land of Israel, which essentially belongs to Arabia, by which the Pope would be stupid enough not to recognise, that he also is only exploited by Israel's power mongers as a means to an end for their dark and opaque plans.

362. And just here I must briefly preempt the chronology of events, because something will be planned, particularly in connection with Begin's defamation of the German politicians, which will express the true face and the true attitude of the Israeli power mongers even more blatantly than the insult against the Germans:

363. It will already be after the assassination attempt on the Pope, when the Israeli state powers will commit a further crime of world-provoking nature.

364. When, namely, Begin will insult the German politicians, he will only do so based on the calculation that he would be seen as a strong man who can afford to act in his criminal manner.

365. It will indeed be due to his behaviour that various reprimanding voices will be raised in various nations, but they truly are not meant seriously.

366. Secretly, Menachem Begin will be, namely, admired and supported by those reprimanding him, whereby he will feel strong enough, to drive his insults against the Germans to the utmost in order to win votes from his people.

367. These insults, of course, are based only on malicious lies, but they will be well thought out and aimed toward one purpose, to keep secret the next and, at that point in time, already planned crime; namely, to lead a war-like offensive blow under the pretense of defense, against the nation of Iraq, whereby somewhere during the time between June 7th and 9th, 1981, the nation of Iraq will be criminally attacked and bombarded by the Israeli Air Force, whereby their target of destruction will be an atomic power plant under construction.

...

370. Pope John Paul II will be severely injured by an assassination attempt, which will likewise lead to the uncertainty that has already been addressed as to whether he will carry out his trip to Switzerland or not.

371. Health-wise, this trip would, indeed, be quite possible for him after the assassination attempt, but the calculations do not show whether or not the responsible persons for the trip will approve of a trip to Switzerland at this time.

372. The likelihood is that the trip will be canceled and rescheduled.

373. A repeated murderer of Turkish nationality, by the name of Ahmed Ali Agca, will have to bear the responsibility for the assassination attempt on the pope, who will make several shots at the Pope and severely injure him.

374. Although the injury will be severe, the pope will survive the attack and the quick surgery that will follow.

375. According to our calculations, this will happen during the period from the 12th to 14th of May, where the 13th of May of 1981, around the time of 17:17 hrs, is the greatest probability.

376. The Pope, and this is entirely certain, will survive, but only a week later, the Pope's bosom friend, Cardinal Wyszynski of Poland, will end his life, who, until then, will have driven his sectarian regime there for many years.

377. The cardinal's death will take place around the same time when President Reagan's assassin will make a failing suicide attempt with medicines.

...

379. Only a few days after these incidents will the government again turn to the country of Iran, in order to excite the interest of the world public again.

Billy:

Aha, it will probably start again as a result of this Khomeini?

Semjase:

380. It will be something like that because some other time, he will incite the Iranian people against the leadership, this time against the president Bani Sadr, who will take over this role as a politically moderate person in Iran.

381. This means that he will not pursue the murderous lines of the insane Ayatollah and will, thus, slowly fall into disgrace with this and with the people.

382. His fall will take place in the time between the 10th and the 15th of June 1981, whereby he will then be forced to flee.

383. The Iranian people and a Blood judgement will rise up against him and demand his death.

...

385. This event in Iran will not be the only one at this time because only hours after the attack on President Bani Sadr, in the south of the same country, a severe earthquake will take the lives of 7,000 people.

...

386. According to our calculations, in the area around Kerman, in a region, thus, that you know very well.

...

388. But now, continue to listen, because there is still a third event that will follow these two that were mentioned, but this will happen in England.

389. This event will be a sign of the fact that the prophecies of Petale, which you have written down concerning England, will begin to fulfil themselves in the first phases.

Billy:

Then it probably just concerns the assassination attempt on the Queen, which you mentioned to me once as that sign of the times which should be the basic beginning of the beginnings of fulfilment of the prophecies.

Semjase:

...

391. Yes, only a short time after the devastating earthquake in Iran, the Queen of England will be attacked by a not-yet-20-year-old adolescent, but the queen will not receive any injuries and will escape with fright.

392. This is because the firearm of the youth will only be loaded with deceptive ammunition.

Billy:

Do you mean that the assassination weapon will only contain blank bullets?

Semjase:

393. Sure.

...

395. Around the 18th to 19th of June, 1981, the Israeli president will be able to achieve his first success with regard to his insidious attack on the nuclear power plant in Iraq because the illusory reproaches of various countries will lead to the result that no sanctions will be taken against Begin and Israel, which will entice him to charge the German politicians as being criminals and as the ones responsible for the anti-Semitic machinations in the last world war, and this time, he will even go so far as to make the entire German people responsible for this.

...

397. The month of June, 1981 calls for a severe earthquake in Iran, in the region of Kerman, causing around 1,300 deaths; following this, on the 23rd of June, a bomb assassination attempt will take place on the Iranian cabinet in Tehran.

398. The result will be that approximately 70 people will die, whereby one of Khomeini's horrible mass murderers will also be killed, the blood judge Khalkali.

399. Only a month later, on the 28th of July, Iran will once again be shaken by a major quake, again in the region of Kerman, but this time, it will demand 7,200 deaths, while several cities and villages will fall to the ground.

400. Only shortly after the assassination attempt in Tehran, another severe earthquake will shake the Philippines.

401. The earthquake will be connected with a volcanic eruption, and about 130 humans will fall victim to this.

Billy:

Then all sorts of things will occur in this time alone. There is probably also the madman of Ghom, Khomeini, who will begin his mass executions again, after all that you said in reference to Iran.

Semjase:

402. That will, unfortunately, be the case because many hundreds will soon fall victim to the insanity of this man.

...

405. I already told you about the severe quake in China, which can be expected, in particular, in the area around Sichuan.

406. After the events that you mentioned earlier, this Chinese seismic zone will suffer from severe floods, resulting in deaths that will amount to about 4,700.

407. It will also be the time during which the murderous and criminal Israeli President of the State, Menachem Begin, will again be confirmed into his office, according to which he will immediately command and carry out new murderous attacks on the neighbouring countries.

408. This time, bomb attacks on the Lebanese capital will be part of the plan, which will cause hundreds of deaths to be lamented over as a result of several attacks by the Israeli Air Force.

409. This will be a result of the greed-driven madness of Begin and will be further proof that the people of Begin all around the Earth can practically allow themselves to do anything under the protection of his powerful, allied, large and small countries because the leaders of these countries are blind to the true plans of Israel.

...

411. Up to and by the end of June, 1981, two facts will arise in your homeland, Switzerland, which are worth mentioning.

412. In the first half of the year 1981, it will result in Switzerland similarly as with the murder cases, in that the number of drug-related deaths will rise so high in the first six months of the year that at the end of June, it will be as high as it was in the entire year of 1980.

413. Then, beginning in the middle of July, Switzerland will be inflicted by terrorists, who will move the population into fear and fright through a whole number of bomb attacks in different cities and places, whereby, unfortunately, many humans will be injured, quite apart from the millions worth of property damages.

418. Concerning Iran, the end of Khomeini is well-known to you, which begins to be at hand with the fall of Bani Sadr.

419. The arising bomb assassination attempts, which I already explained to you and which will cause many close friends of the insane dictator to depart from this life, will actually constitute only the beginning of the irrevocable downfall.

420. After the first attack in Tehran, in which the blood judge of Persia and many governing bodies will find death, there will soon follow a second, in which the lives of the president and one of his ministers will be taken away.

Billy:

Ah, I have calculated once before that this man will be called President Ratsaj or something similar. Is that right?

Semjase:

421. Your calculation was inaccurate, though not completely.

422. Anyhow, he will find death through another bomb attack.

423. The political forms will change again through this, and new mass executions will reveal Persia's bloody way that will be dictated by the insane dictator Khomeini.

424. The ensuing mass executions in Iran will no longer move into the first part of a thousand; rather, they will move into the thousands, and children will no longer be spared but will be shot on the open roads by the captors, who call themselves revolutionary guards.

425. But this, in turn, will mean that already at this time, an underlying civil and fratricidal war will be broken out, which will find its origin and stirring up with Bani Sadr, who will call into being a resistance movement in France against Khomeini.

Billy:

Crazy, because Bani Sadr, as you said, is designated by Khomeini himself as an ally and, with this, has also been in exile in France for the past few years.

Semjase:

426. That is correct, only this time, Bani Sadr will no longer be for Khomeini but against him, whereby he will initiate everything in order to have him be murdered.

...

Billy:

Sorry. Of course. I have confused things. But on whom is the third assassination attempt committed then?

...

Semjase:

430. This assassination attempt will be committed on the President of Egypt, during a military parade, if the conditions for it do not change.

431. Sadat will be attacked and even killed on Tuesday, the 6th of October 1981 on the VIP platform of the Cairo military square of Abassija, by members of the army itself.

432. There will be 10 to 12 deaths as a result of the attack to lament over; in addition, some assassins will die by the defense forces.

433. Several diplomats and a church dignitary, who will likewise be on the very unsatisfactorily secured VIP platform, will not escape the attack and will be affected.

434. The attack will be implemented by Egyptian soldiers who are members of the "Army for the Freedom of Egypt" movement and the Muslim Brotherhood, who will also stand in the pay of the Libyan and mad ruler Gaddafi.

435. The actual origin of all of this, however, comes from Begin.

436. The mighty one of Israel, Menachem Begin, will be the actual manipulator behind the assassination of Sadat, who will believe unto death that the powerful and insidious murderer is actually a good friend, but Begin truly is not such.

437. Sadat is already too focused now on honest peace for Begin and also is not unrelenting enough for Begin's sense, so this one will have him assassinated by secret agents whom he has bought, who can work towards this undetected in the ranks of Ghaddafi as well as of the Muslim Brotherhood and the Freedom Army.

438. Ghadaffi, who is stupid, and the Muslim Brotherhood and the Freedom Army are by no means clever enough to know that secret agents purchased by Begin already exist now and have already existed for a long time in their own ranks and carry out their mischief directed by Begin.

439. Begin, who is a man full of meanness, falsehood, lies, intrigue, and murderous thoughts, must have the Egyptian president be assassinated because this one does not fit into his criminal country-domination plans.

440. Sadat, however, is still very focused and unrelenting in his blind confidence, so Begin hopes that a non-goal-oriented man will become Sadat's successor when he allows his assassination.

...

Billy:

I will write a letter to Sadat to warn him. I just hope, then, that he also receives it.

Semjase:

445. For that, I will endeavour myself and ask Quetzal for his help because from next spring, I will be absent for some time.

446. Your visit to Sadat, however, should not take place any earlier than what is good for your safety.

447. The 28th of July 1981 would be suitable for this purpose, and your visit could be carried out unhindered.

448. I calculated this date in foresight because I know your reactions very well and wanted to present this proposal to you anyways.

449. You can then talk to the president for some time, so you do not need a letter.

450. Quetzal will be responsible for the fact that you can talk to the President for about 20 minutes undisturbed and unseen.

451. Be aware, however, that your visit to Sadat can have major consequences, for he will try to stop the unstoppable by carrying out a large-scale wave of arrests among his reachable enemies.

452. This will occur as a result of your explanations that you will give him.

Billy:

That would be very good; the assassins would then be captured before they could strike.

Semjase:

453. You are illogical because what has to happen will happen.

454. With the coming events, nothing is to change.

459. Toward the latter part of 1983 or spring of 1984, we are planning to introduce an effective peace meditation to benefit Earth, its inhabitants, and events that will occur there. Included in this effort will be everyone on Erra and many members from our federation, who total will comprise more than 3.5 billion (3,500,000,000) humans.

460. This will produce an extremely powerful energy force through which the terrestrials and their actions, hence their occurrences, should be influenced and political confusion resolved. These efforts will also lead to freeing Russia and other countries from their current dictatorship status.

461. The procedures have been instituted and mandated by the High Council, who have found a permissible method to intervene using a particular cosmic clause that could be used to influence terrestrial affairs.

462. As part of the result brought about by these peace efforts, the inhumane wall will fall, which currently divides Germany into two separate countries, thus the two sectors will be reunited into one.

...

467. Success will follow as long as we conscientiously and systematically perform the peace meditation. Beginning with 1987, many other things will change, for the positive that is.

468. However, the first tangible and substantial successes will only become evident in 1988, and within a very brief time afterward, they will begin to solidify to the point where the first major uprisings will begin in 1989, and terrestrials will experience their temporary apex in 1990.

https://www.futureofmankind.co.uk/Billy_Meier/Contact_Report_146

Billy:

... The coming world events and the continual fulfilment of the prophecies ever depress me to such an extent that I often become damn furious when I think about the fact that the Earth-humans simply cannot be taught and run unreasonably in their misery. I often heave because of a burning rage and a roaring misery. Is there not a possibility to suppress these outbursts? I myself find no possibility for this.

Quetzal:

61. That does not just happen with you but also with us.

62. Like us, you are too connected with everything and you love the Earth-humans too much to be able to be indifferent to what is coming.

63. We all know that you have to bear an almost inhuman burden through your knowledge and through some very cruel knowledge of the future, but unfortunately, in fulfilling your mission, neither you nor we can remain spared from this.

64. Like us, you also have to live with the knowledge that the prophecies will fulfil themselves and that they are nearly unchangeable, for only very few human beings can be instructed by the truth.

65. Only after the course of many centuries will your teaching of the truth be considered, only then, when a lot of harm, distress, and misery have rolled over the Earth.

66. However, you also know that in your time on Earth, you must suffer very hard in various relations, as Jmmanuel already explained about 2,000 years ago, when he said that the prophet of the modern times would be hated and pursued not only by a nation alone but from all over the world and by all earthly nations.

67. And this time, in which these words come true, has now begun.

68. Now, the time has come, in which you should be destroyed, in order to newly prevent the truth thereby.

69. Traitors from your own former ranks have begun this, and know-it-all, wannabe greats, sectarians, misguided ones, and sham scientists continue the intrigues and destruction business against you and the truth.

70. And now, this will no longer be limited to your native country but will assume global proportions; thus, the prophecy of Jmmanuel fulfils itself, which says that you will be hated and persecuted as a prophet of the modern times by the peoples of the whole world.

Billy:

This does not disturb me too much. What bothers me even more is my anger at the irrationality of the Earth-humans and the fact that they run with this irrationality to their doom.

https://www.futureofmankind.co.uk/Billy_Meier/Contact_Report_150

Quetzal:

65. Exactly, but now I want to explain to you the next predictions for the next years.

66. The last predictions {see Contact Report 136} were mainly only for one year, until October 1981, because Semjase had to return early from her contact with you, although it was planned to give you predictions that were calculated over several years.

Billy:

On the one hand that is of interest, but on the other hand I very often wonder whether these predictions have any meaning at all.

Quetzal:

67. Sooner or later successes will come out of it.

Billy:

You mean after the occurrence of the events?

Quetzal:

68. Yes, and much later.

69. But let me begin now:

70. Semjase's statements ended with the assassination of Sadat, who was still warned by you and with my help when I brought you to him on the 28th of July.

71. The next event, which will take place very soon, concerns the Israeli political murderer Moshe Dayan, who will die of natural causes in a few days from today.

72. In the following, earthquakes will again be registered in various places on Earth, which will be classified in the run-up to the great earthquake catastrophe, which, however, is not yet to be discussed.

73. The next sensational event will occur on the 28th of October, in Sweden.

74. It will be that a submarine of the USSR will have to be arrested in Swedish waters by the Swedish Navy, because the boat will be engaged in espionage in their waters.

75. Due to a carelessness of the navigational forces the submarine gets into distress, after which it is towed free by the Swedish Navy.

76. This in itself would be a political trifle, but the fact that the submarine will carry nuclear weapons will become known, causing all sorts of political turmoil.

77. Only the 6th of November will put a temporary end to this event, when the USSR submarine will be taken out of Swedish territorial waters again.

78. On the 31st of October, Switzerland will be in turmoil because a demonstration involving 20,000 people will take place in Kaiseraugst, which is large by Swiss standards.

79. This demonstration will be directed against the construction of the nuclear power plant, which will be approved for construction by the Swiss Federal Council despite all citizen protests, which must be equated to a crime against the people, the country, the culture, the fauna and the flora, like any other construction of such plants, which never find arguments for justification.

...

109. Until the 29th of November, nothing of great importance will happen in the world, if we disregard the unnecessary shouting about Poland.

110. The 29th of November, however, will then bring another event that will be widely broadcasted by the channels of publication of human beings, although it is a quite natural event.

111. On this day in America, the actress Natalie Wood will be retrieved dead from the sea, in which she will drown after a marital quarrel and in a drunken state.

112. After that, there is again not much of significance, until finally in Poland the point is reached that brings things to a head.

113. A General Jaruzelski will impose martial law on the country in order to put an end to the years of destructive activity of large masses of the population and the politically-subversive trade union, whose leader is one Lech Walesa.

114. As usual, Earth-humans also fail to see the truth here, which is why they take sides with the trade union and cry out in favour of false humanity.

115. No one wants to see and recognise that these agitators truly want to seize power in the country, that they are work-shy and that for years, through evil compulsion, they have driven the entire country and the entire population into hardship and misery, into hunger and into financial ruin.

116. So it will come as it must come, which unfortunately will cost many human lives.

117. But in Poland, the existing violence of a large part of the people and the trade union Solidarity can only be broken again by Gewalt.

118. Unfortunately, in the false humanitarianism of the Western world, unjustified sides are also taken for Poland, whereby especially the Polish army leadership and the leadership of the USSR are once more being illegally sanctioned another time.

119. The sense of true humanity has unfortunately long since been lost among Earth-humans, which is why here, too, a completely wrong policy will be pursued another time, whereby the truth will be completely misjudged and those who are wrong will be placed in an unjustified and unjustifiably good light, namely the Solidarity trade union and its adherents, the work-shy, who know no bounds in their greed for money and might.

120. The Western countries and peoples, however, do not want to see this truth, which is why, in misconceived humanity, they will seek to blame the rulers of Poland and Russia, who, however, in this case are truly not to blame for anything.

121. Not last but foremost of this false humanitarianism and anti-propaganda against Poland's and Russia's governments will be the blame of American President Reagan, who will behave like a little boy in office and impose dangerous sanctions against Russia and Poland.

124. His final exit will be as inglorious as also the lifting of the sanctions he imposed and the settlement of the Polish crisis.

Billy:

That will indeed be inevitable. But please say, how it will look for the whole world this winter, which would be something of greater interest than stupid and primitive politics.

Quetzal:

125. There is a lot brewing:

126. The whole of Europe and very large parts of America will be flooded by enormous masses of water, causing billions of dollars worth of material damage and also claiming many human lives.

127. Especially, Switzerland, Germany, England, France, and America will suffer from enormous water masses which will bury and destroy many things, but which constitutes only a small part of everything that this winter brings with itself.

128. Besides tremendously large snowfalls, the clouds will open their sluices for very large amounts of rain freezing into ice which also points to the anticipation of unusual cold spells, as such the human beings of these affected areas only very rarely experience, when nature calls forth natural changes.

129. But all the events of this winter, as the preceding and the ones still to follow, are not just attributable to natural events alone, but also to the outrageous unreasonableness of the Earth-human against nature, etc.

130. Temperatures will drop to 60 and more degrees below zero in certain areas and everything will freeze over.

131. The average degree of coldness, however, will be from 30 to 40 degrees below zero in various areas in Europe and America, which means the death and destruction of many human lives and animals, as well as crops, etc.

132. And these cold spells will also not stop at the more southern regions, with the American vacation paradise of Florida, etc., in particular, being extremely badly affected by the destruction and cold.

133. However, Australia will also have to suffer, especially from a great drought, but also from great water ingresses.

134. However, all this does will not yet mean the end or the contentment of this winter because partly quite vicious earthquakes will also occur around the world at this time, whereby especially America will be the land where most quakes will appear, next to North Africa, Italy, Oceania, and Japan, as well as China and Russia.

135. But practically all of the countries of the Earth will be shaken by lesser and greater quakes, whereby in different places, also volcanic eruptions will thereby come to light, which, as well, are partly due to the crazy human effort of destroying the Earth, but especially in recent years, the atomic bomb tests, etc. have contributed a large part to the release of these events.

136. The end of winter, which will bring with it many other evil events, will also once again claim many human lives and material values, for the snowmelt will not only cause enormous avalanches to fall and destroy a great deal, but there will also be floods due to enormous meltwaters, as well as landslides and rockslides, which will destroy a great deal, from which Switzerland will not remain spared.

137. Such events, however, already set themselves in, even before the middle of winter is reached, and they will continue well into the third millennium and will bring death, destruction, and annihilation.

154. But listen now further to what I still have to report to you about the future:

155. Namely, a great deal will occur, but no influences will arise from the SOL line-up of celestial bodies in the month of March 1982 since all SOL celestial bodies are on an Earth-lateral course and are, thus, in a short angle on one side of the Sun.

156. All stars are far too distant from the Earth to have even the slightest direct influence on the Earth and its life-forms.

157. And as you know, only change phenomena of the central sun swinging waves and central sun radiations occur, but these only have a pure astrological value, which means that they, as purely neutral central sun forces, exhibit only a variable value for the life-forms which use these in negative or positive form.

...

168. The time following after the last-mentioned events will bring a brief respite from great or greater events.

169. Even natural disasters will hold themselves within a small frame because, besides some earthquakes and floods, not much will happen related to this, other than in China, Japan, and also Mexico, where a larger quake will make itself noticeable with human losses.

170. In the month of May, Europe will be the next in line in this regard, whereby especially Germany will be the central point, but without major damage.

171. On the other hand, winter will break in again briefly in various European areas, when it will be assumed by the humans that it is already over.

172. Until about 10 May snow will fall again in Switzerland, Germany and other European countries, after spring has already let its flowers bloom, but this will not cause any serious damage.

173. Towards the end of April or the beginning of May, the Pope of Rome will again squander the money of his faithful, for once again he will embark on an extremely costly journey to various countries, which will cost many millions of dollars.

174. Thus, he will also visit Portugal, where he will hypocritically let it be announced that the Madonna of Fatima had protected him, helping him survive the assassination attempt that had been perpetrated on his life.

175. However, with this consciously mendacious and fraudulent allegation to his believers, he will encourage the hatred of a Catholic priest of a different faith, who will want to kill him and will attack him with a dagger, but this will be thwarted by security personnel before the priest arrives in the direct vicinity of the Pope.

176. After his stay in Portugal, the Pope will proceed to England, which will be considered a sensation because no Pope has made such an effort to reach out to the English Church since the secession of the English-Anglican Church from Rome.

177. The Pope's whole trip to England, however, is truthfully not for Christian-bonding relations and the renewed fraternisation of the Roman and English Churches, as the Pope will mendaciously announce, because, firstly, he is only concerned with his personal image, which he wants to consolidate and build-up, and, secondly, he is also concerned with bringing the English Church back under the sovereignty of the Roman Papal See through intriguing machinations.

Billy:

I find that the present Pope is disgust-inciting, mendacious, hypocritical, one who deliberately misleads the human beings and is a toadying pulpit creep, who only wants to lead a nice life and make a name for himself. When I think of other popes, then I must say that different ones among them at least still believed in what they said and did, while this Pope is only acting, although, he is a damn bad actor.

Quetzal:

178. Your words are of appropriate correctness, but this pope will not be able to pursue his evil deeds for much longer.

179. He has also already predetermined his end through his criminal actions, but I do not want to make any statements about that at the moment.

180. It is more appropriate that I tell you that this deceitful man is now scheming to visit your home country, Switzerland, where he wants to appear in Geneva and continue his acting.

181. In addition, he will also endeavour to get to Argentina, in order to break in on the population there, and with his dishonest manner, concerning the war between Argentina and England.

182. Namely, in the month of April 1982, the Argentines will militarily seize the Falkland Islands, which are under the English colony, whereupon England will send out a war fleet, which will then lead to a real small-scale war between the two states, which will claim many human lives and war material.

183. This war, however, will be a sign of a third world conflagration threatening in the third millennium.

184. Moreover, this will also be the actual fundamental point for the fact that in this world war, if it cannot be prevented, England will be attacked from the East with great might.

185. This, however, is still in the far future, and when the time comes, no one will look for the justification for the attack on England in this forthcoming Falklands conflict which will break out in the month of April 1982, although, truthfully, the origin will lie there.

...

203. ... in regard to world events of the coming time there is still much to explain, for example, that in the middle of the year 1982 the time will be reached among the peoples of the Earth which will decisively form the guidelines of that which will make the destiny of human beings almost unalterable.

204. However, despite the fact that these guidelines will appear, the eyes of Earth-humans will remain closed and blind, as also will their sense of truth.

205. In the main, it concerns the criminal concerns of the would-be statesman Begin, who will commit another monstrous crime under the eyes of the world public, without the rest of the world intervening to stop the terrible killing.

206. In the middle of 1982, Begin will demonstrate his true character when he allows an attack on the capital Beirut in Lebanon by war-Gewalt and destroys most of it, whereby many thousands of innocent human beings, women, men and children will find death.

207. The murderous Ausgeartete, Menachem Begin, will bring excuses that will attract attention in the UN and in the rest of the world, although behind Begin's actions lies nothing other than the insane greed for the shedding of human blood and the greed for unlimited power over the whole country and all its ethnic groups.

...

224. Good then, yes, in the month of July the Iranians, under the high command of the mad Ayatollah Khomeini, will again drive the war forward, which by then has been going on for some two years, towards a high point, with many thousands of human beings dying again on both sides, among the Iranians as well as the Iraqis.

...

Billy:

Yes, but how is it actually with the disasters around the middle of the year 1982, which are evoked by the weather and climate, etc.?

Quetzal:

226. At least in the month of July very bad things happen in this respect.

227. Also your homeland, Switzerland, will be afflicted by the most severe storms, especially the areas of the Jura.

228. Concerning this, bad things will also happen around your Centre, whereby you yourselves will get away with minor damage at this time.

229. Heavy hailstorms will hit Switzerland and France in particular, but very wild waters will also occur, destroying crops, buildings, roads, fields, forests and meadows, among many other things, as a result of heavy storms.

230. This will happen, after bright sunshine will have appeared for only a few weeks.

231. What falls in various places as too much water to the Earth will lack in other places, but then afterwards, heavy thunderstorms and floods and destruction will also occur there.

232. In Japan alone, storms and floods will occur in the Nagasaki area which will cost many hundreds of human lives.

233. Thousands of houses will be destroyed, as will also be the case in various other countries, along with immeasurable further damage to cultures, animal life-forms and everything that human beings have created.

...

235. Also, new diseases will appear among Earth-humans, and even epidemics will break out in some countries at various times.

236. But this still will not be enough, because at this point in time, only the first half of the year 1982 will have passed.

253. Quite particularly from the month of July 1982, the most severe storms will occur which will cause great damage in the European area.

254. Switzerland will be affected thereof, as well, as also Germany and Austria and various other European states.

255. Destruction of houses and other buildings, roads, fields, vineyards, crops, railways and vehicles, etc. will occur, with flooding also triggered by torrential thundershowers.

256. In many parts of Switzerland, enormous damage will be caused by the storms, particularly in the Jura region, as well as in the area of Andelfingen.

257. Unfortunately, human lives will also be lamented, both from lightning strikes and indirect causes of the flood storms.

...

264. Approximately on the 15th of August 1982, southern Italy will again be struck by an earthquake, for this part of Italy will not rest for some time.

265. But Switzerland and Germany will also have to endure a lot of unrest in this special case, but in a different area.

266. Like an epidemic, especially in these two countries, all kinds of unrest and suffering are being spread by sex offenders, as well as by the foolish behaviour and degeneracy of young girls.

267. The year 1982 will be for Switzerland and for Germany a year during which, particularly from about the middle of the year, many of the schoolgirls and teenage girls, through lust for adventure and without the knowledge of the parents, go away from home to travel like gypsies through the land and countries, while many others will be seduced by sexual offenders, will be raped and beaten, and will be brought to death.

268. Thus, in this respect, the year 1982 will be a very bad time for Switzerland and Germany, as well as for new mass murders, whereby particularly family mass murders will appear.

269. Elsewhere, a new and dangerous epidemic also appears, triggered by the shamelessness and sexual greed and degeneracy of Earth-humans, who have already lost themselves in the unbridled and animalistic gratification of sexual desires and their degenerate urges.

270. In this respect, animals are in truth decidedly more highly developed than Earth-humans, for animals naturally have their mating season, while Earth-humans in this respect suffer from abnormal and thought-generated sexual greed and also live and act accordingly.

271. This, however, will have its consequences, for such offences against the laws of nature always bring evil consequences.

272. Thus it will be that a new epidemic-like venereal disease, which is already rampant in the USA, will be introduced and spread to Europe.

273. This is a very malignant form of immunodeficiency which cannot be combated for the time being and which will therefore be incurable and claim many human lives, for decades to come.

299. I explained to you that Israel is going to play a very nasty game of a political character, in terms of Palestinian concerns as well as in terms of landlord ambitions.

300. Thus, after the Israeli expulsion of the Palestinians from Beirut, the next step will be that Israel, for the first time, officially stand against the demands and orders of those who until then have given all decisive help to this state, so that Israel, under the leadership of Begin, can carry out its criminal and murderous activities all over the world in general until the time of the expulsion of the Palestinians from Beirut.

301. Thus, after the expulsion of Palestinians, Israel will set itself against the Americans in an open form because, by then, the Begin leadership will recognise that they will have, in the meantime, already safeguarded their murderous political power on the Earth to the extent that this step can be dared.

302. When this event occurs, it will be a matter of demands by the American President Reagan on Israel, which will be gloatingly thrown to the winds by Israel, because its murderous political might will indeed have reached a point which will allow its actions in this regard to be justified to the blindly unknowledgeable ones.

303. But America and the rest of the world will nevertheless continue to stand by Israel, still not recognising what evil game of murderous plans for territorial reign Israel actually harbours.

330. However, you also spoke of terrorism in your remarks, and it is precisely on this topic that I would like to give you a prediction that relates to your home country, Switzerland.

331. Namely, in Berne, so my calculations showed, in the year 1982, the Polish Embassy will be taken by terrorists, whereby a smaller number of hostages will fall into their hands.

332. This event will take place around the 6th of September 1982, whereby this terrorist game will not cause any damage to human lives and will already on the 9th of September in the course of the 10th to the 11th hour of the morning, it will find its end.

333. Through a smaller detonation of an explosive by the police forces of a Bernese special command, which is carried out under the name 'Stern' ['Star], the police forces gain entrance into the embassy and, first of all, the four extremists, the terrorists, will be taken into custody, after which then, in the second place, also the hostages will be released.

334. Since these events concern an incident in the capital of your home country, I made an effort, using a time bypass, to monitor closely the upcoming events, whereby I have made a very deplorable observation, which refers to the acting and thinking of the responsible and enforcing personnel.

335. The Swiss Federal Councillor Kurt Furgler will form a crisis committee, which he himself will chair.

336. Now on the one hand I determined that this responsible person is severely religiously entangled, and on the other hand, all of his actions paradoxically come from great insecurity, while another factor relating to this is that he is driven by an unusually strong craving for recognition in his actions and words.

337. At the time of the event, this peculiar combination will lead to the fact that at first there will be great perplexity in combating the terrorist act, after which a solution will only appear much too late.

338. If this person in charge were capable of logical thinking, then the whole event could be brought to an end barely one and a half hours after the hostage-taking and occupation, by the same process that will only be carried out on the 9th of September.

339. Furthermore, this Kurt Furgler is also very quickly afflicted with anxiety, also in this coming affair, which is why he is not exactly well placed in his post, if only for this reason.

340. Regarding the policemen that will be deployed, similar negative characteristics are to be criticised because all parties involved only act because the commands are given to them, while fear blazes within them, combined with a peculiar urge for exercising power and violence.

341. In my observations, their movements and actions also testified to their fear and arrogance at the same time.

...

353. It will be the 12th of September 1982, exactly at 14:57 hrs, when a large passenger transportation vehicle from Germany with about 40 passengers from a seniors' association from Sindelfingen is hit by a train coming into Pfäffikon from Fehraltorf because the safety barriers have not been closed, and is torn to shreds like a rotten wooden box.

354. The sad result of this accident will be around 39 deaths, which are to be blamed on those responsible, money-grubbing and oblivious people who are responsible for railway road crossings.

362. Unfortunately, this will not be the case, also not for the car drivers themselves, who usually, like the driver of the Autocar, travel the roads at excessive speed without being in control of their vehicle.

363. If this circumstance were not also decisive on the 12th of September 1982, then the accident could be avoided just like the one in Monaco, in which, however, only a passenger car holding a few persons is thrown out of the lane in a hairpin bend, in which the Princess of Monaco then finds herself, namely the former film actress Grace Kelly, who suffers serious injuries as a result of the accident, so that she has to be taken to a clinic for care etc., where she then dies, however.

...

375. Good, then I can now continue to report on the coming events, whereby I have to mention Israel, which will not rest after the expulsion of the Palestinians from Beirut, but already begins with new acts of war shortly afterwards, but this time against the Syrians stationed in Lebanon, whereby Syrian missile positions are destroyed by bombing, after which these bombings then expand again to the city of Beirut; and as always, the attacks are naturally triggered by Israel.

376. This criminal act constitutes only the prelude to another crime, which will be planned by Menachem Begin, the Israeli head of state.

377. Similarly like the case of the assassination of the Egyptian President Sadat, he will set up the same intrigue another time and bring it to fruition.

378. Also in this case his criminal and murderous intrigue will be crowned with success, as in the case of the assassination of Sadat.

379. Namely, through Begin's intrigue, and through treacherous, hired assassins, an approximately 200 kg heavy and portable bomb will be produced in order to deposit it in a house and cause an explosion, during which time the new head of state to-be, Beshir Gemayal, will be there.

380. Apart from this man, still another approximately 30 human beings will find death through these intrigues and murder attacks of Begin's.

381. The cause of this, to be anticipated, criminal act on around the 14th of September 1982 will be that this criminal to humankind and mass murderer will come up with the idea that he can, through this machination, let his army forces march into Lebanon officially as an alleged peace-maintaining troop and a security troop, which he will actually succeed in doing because no leader of the Earth and no citizen will come to the thought that this assassination, like with Sadat, will, solely through Begin's initiative and will and in cooperation with treacherous, Arab-Lebanese elements come to materialisation.

382. Officially, as with Sadat's assassination, on Begin's behalf, the treasonous forces will not be recognised as the tools of Begin because the performers act in the belief that they would only serve their organisation alone, without knowing that their high-level personnel are in common cause with Begin in traitorous and intrigue-like manner.

383. This is how Menachem Begin will succeed in taking another step in relation to his plans of country conquest, without the leaders of the world, and the nations throughout it, having even the slightest idea of what truthly is being played out.

Billy:

This Begin is probably the vilest son of a bitch walking this globe at present and for some time to come.

Quetzal:

384. That is of correctness, because the next ones to equal Begin are not yet in office, whereas in later times the worst people's criminal and murderer will be Ariel Sharon, whose swearing-in as Prime Minister will take place on the 6th of February 2001.

...

Billy:

Good, then I have another question that does not relate to this wannabe leader and criminal number one. You talked about the death of Grace Kelly, but you did not give any specific dates.

Quetzal:

388. I omitted that, yes.

389. Her death occurs in the evening hours of the 14th of September 1982, although the accident will have happened the day before.

390. The reason for her death will be that there is damage to the brain which leads to a haemorrhage which is recognised too late.

391. This will become the main factor in her death, although two other life-threatening factors will come into play as a result of the accident.

Billy:

So it is a failure of the doctors, so to speak.

Quetzal:

392. Not directly, but only indirectly.

Billy:

What am I supposed to understand by that?

Quetzal:

393. The Princess will be hooked up to a life support machine, but it will soon be put out of action because the doctors come to the realisation after some time that Grace Grimaldi's life functions will be purely mechanical.

Billy:

Quetzal:

394. That is of correctness, but we should not dwell on that, because it is not of importance.

395. More important are other events that are taking place only one day after the death of the princess.

396. It will come to he...

Billy:

I have another question about this: You said the name Grace Grimaldi. Is that the family name of Prince Rainier of Monaco?

Quetzal:

397. That is of correctness, but now listen to what follows next:

398. Before the burial of the princess can take place, the insane Ayatollah Khomeiny in Iran will have his best friend and long-time comrade-in-arms, Sadeg Ghotbzadeh, executed by a firing squad of revolutionary troops, thus eliminating what was probably Khomeiny's most devout and obedient follower of the preceding period.

399. His fate in this regard will result from his realising far too late that Khomeiny is addicted to madness and suffers from a pathological bloodlust and murderousness, coupled with cowardly fear, so that he unhesitatingly has everyone punished by death whom he considers dangerous to himself.

400. However, this criminal event is already overshadowed by a much worse event in Beirut on the 17th and 18th of September 1982.

401. Another time, in fact, Begin's intrigues orchestrate a mass murder that is intended to be and will be useful to his plans.

402. In further consequence, forces controlled by him undertake something which again will not be recognised by anyone as the work of the Israeli mass murderer and criminal of the state.

403. Through the state traitors loyal to Begin, the leaders of the Christian militias in Beirut will be caused to let their armed militia forces invade the refugee camps of the Palestinians in order to wreak an indescribable bloodbath and massacre among the Palestinians, seizing women, men, and children, and this will not find anything equal to it so quickly.

404. And all this will happen under the protection and supervision of Israel, which with its military forces in Beirut will even ensure that the murderous Christian militias of the Lebanese can march into the refugee camps, after which the massacre will claim more than six thousand human lives.

405. Only after the massacre is over will Israel officially intervene and pretend to stop this killing.

406. Truthly, however, the intervention will only occur to cover up Begin's criminal actions and, thus, wash his hands before the world public in innocence.

407. The fact will be that this massacre and the entry of Begin's troops into Beirut will only serve the purpose of further expanding Begin's land domination plans in the first place, while the second reason will be to make this massacre possible.

408. The murder of Beshir Gemayal orchestrated by Begin will make it easy for this murderous criminal to win over the Lebanese Christian militias for himself and his plans, namely to murder and exterminate the Palestinians remaining in Lebanon.

409. The leaders of the Christian militias will go along with Begin's plans if he promises them that he will have the Israeli army enter Beirut for their protection for the massacre enterprise, which he will promise and have carried out.

410. Once this murderous enterprise is over, however, Begin will have his army withdraw from Beirut again because, after all, he will see his aims in this matter realised.

Billy:

An unparalleled murder and intrigue racket. Who and what is this murderer actually?

Quetzal:

411. He is the product of a marital disgrace and, moreover, a brother-in-arms of the criminal SHARON, who, in the most important army position, puts Begin's orders into practise.

412. Sharon is the real army leader, and this man standing as Begin's fighting brother, is in no wise inferior to Begin himself.

413. The fact of the reason of Begin's and Sharon's fighting brotherhood is, however, unknown everywhere else except to their parents, for only the parents of these two criminal and murderous elements know the secret of the ... relations of the two with each other as well as their tendencies, which they often also do together, which is, however, publicly unknown.

414. But enough of this, for these concerns are not of much importance, for what the future brings is more significant.

415. At the end of October or the beginning of November 1982, Begin and Sharon will be recognised as the perpetrators of the Beirut massacres, but unfortunately they will hardly be held accountable, even if many righteous Israelis intervene against the two criminals, thus, everything remains the same for the time being.

416. Around the 5th of November 1982, Switzerland, France, Andorra and Spain are hit by unusually large and severe foehn storms [warm, dry winds that blow down from the mountains].

417. Many human lives, animals and buildings, as well as nature itself, will suffer greatly and sustain damage amounting to billions of Swiss francs.

418. Many deaths will also have to be lamented, and not only in the countries mentioned.

419. America and the Hawaiian Islands will also suffer heavy damage and human lives will be lost in large numbers, whereby California, in particular, is to be mentioned, but this will be caused by violent high sea storms which will race over the land.

420. Smaller and medium-sized villages will be destroyed as if they had been razed to the ground by explosive bombs.

421. On the 10th of November 1982, Russia will fall into a state of national mourning, for on this day at 4:16 hrs the leader Leonid Brezhnev will end his life, but unlike others, he will meet his end peacefully in his sleep.

422. His successor will be a certain Yuri Andropov.

423. At about the same time in the Federal Republic of Germany, the vicious and murderous power of the RAF will break, for at that time the leading heads of this criminal organisation will fall into the hands of the police; first and foremost it concerns the gang members Adelheid Schultz and Brigitte Mohnhaupt, after which on the 16th of November the actual supreme head of the gang, Christian Klar, will also fall into a police trap and be arrested.

424. With the months of October and November comes the time when the Italian, Swiss, Turkish, French, and German security and police forces finally recognise that the Pope's assassin was not a loner and did not just work for himself but that he belonged to a conspiracy and had accomplices.

Billy:

I thought, according to your information, that he was working alone?

Quetzal:

425. Then you misunderstood me, because my statements only referred to the facts of the event in the sense of what will be known to the earthly authorities and security forces at the time of the event and for some time afterwards.

426. It may well be that my explanations gave the strong impression that the assassin was a lone handler.

429. The month of November and the month of December will put the Earth in a dangerous position and again into danger of nuclear war, to which we do not yet know whether we are allowed to take any countermeasures to avert this danger.

430. The reason for this danger, how could it be otherwise, will be provided by the American President Ronald Reagan, who is crazy enough as a warmonger to want to station new nuclear missiles in Europe, which will displease the Russians and drive them to station similar weapons of death on European territory themselves, should Reagan stick to his insane plan.

Billy:

The guy is out of his mind.

Quetzal:

431. He is a very dangerous paranoiac, and with this also psychopathically heavily burdened.

432. Ronald Reagan is a great danger for the whole earthly humanity, because he is not only a very vicious and unpredictable warmonger, but the actual most important man for the rash point of a third threatening world conflagration, as I have already explained to you several times.

433. He actually embodies this origin, because through his warmongering he creates insane ideas in many earthly human heads, which could one day lead to the Third World conflagration, even if the wheel of death should no longer be set in motion by Ronald Reagan himself.

434. His malicious actions could thus create future waves that could become deadly breakers.

435. There have been still other like-minded people at work in this regard before him, as there are now and will be in his time, and their machinations are also significant in terms of an impending Third World conflagration, but never to the extent of Ronald Reagan's, except later with the Bushes {George H.W. Bush, George W. Bush}.

436. As you well know, they are of the seven anti-logos who will stand guilty for the impending world conflagration, and Ronald Reagan is indeed one of them.

437. However, the anti-logos who will possibly still let loose the conflagration will only reach his great might in the coming time, which will enable him to carry out this work of destruction.

438. However, there should be no talk of this now, for the time until then still lasts, and the naming of the actualities of these facts is also not useful, for Earth-humans will not listen to the warnings.

439. For this reason, we can deal with matters of the future which are of some importance to Earth-humans and from which they may learn that we do know the future and are entitled to make prophetic statements, even if Earth-humans have not yet listened to us.

Billy:

Unfortunately, I know. You are also probably right that it is useless to talk about these things that may come now. I also assume that the human beings on this planet will not change their minds even when they realise the truth of the prophecies and predictions. So go ahead with those things you wanted to mention.

Quetzal:

440. I ended with my predictive explanations at the month of December, and for this month, I still have to give further explanations that relate to the weather and the disasters resulting from it.

441. As Europe will be without snow in this coming time, there will also be a privation of snow in many places in America, as a result of unusually warm air influences, and there will even be famine due to unemployment.

442. Other countries will be afflicted by the most severe storms and will not be spared from natural disasters.

443. Such natural storms will move around the Earth in the month of December 1982, spreading distress, misery and death.

444. To mention them all in detail or to enumerate the countries that will be damaged by them would be going too far, which is why I am only giving these details in a general form.

445. The turn of the year 1982/1983 itself does not bring much of importance, but it should be interesting for you to know that shortly after the turn of the year on the Hawaiian Islands a great natural spectacle will be imminent, because a volcano there will erupt again, and that in several and long-lasting eruptions.

446. Damage will not be great from this coming volcanic activity because human settlements are laid out at a sufficient distance so that they will not be affected.

Billy:

It might be interesting to know where and what is happening in some cases, like e.g., the famine in America, which sounds a bit unbelievable.

Quetzal:

447. It will be fact, because this famine will happen in DETROIT.

448. In the country of Yemen, near Sanaa, in Dhamar, there will be a moderate earthquake, but it will cause many human lives and more than half a million homeless.

449. Another example for December 1982 is also an expected large landslide due to torrential rains in ANCONA, causing immense damage.

450. At this time of December, however, something pleasant will also happen for a change, as Spain will reopen the border to the blockaded Gibraltar, which had been closed by Franco's might.

451. Is this information enough for you?

Billy:

It is, because it offers something concrete. What or what will be the talk in people's mouths when the volcano in Hawaii has erupted?

Quetzal:

452. It will be different things, especially politics, in relation to disarmament, which is not serious, because everybody wants to take advantage of each other.

453. At the same time, Earth-humans, startled by official reports, will once again become more frightened because at this time another Russian nuclear spy satellite will crash and move across the sky like a small comet.

...

523. I shall be glad to answer further questions of the present form which interest you at a later date, but for today I should devote myself to the predictions, which I can only give you up to March 1983 anyway.

524. After that time I shall then endeavour, if you deem it necessary, to give you further predictions of the future.

Billy:

On the one hand, I think they are good, on the other hand, I always wonder whether they serve any purpose at all because often I have to realise that they are of no avail.

Quetzal:

525. Unfortunately, the sense of Earth-humans is still not oriented towards it and so far developed that they would be able to grasp the entire scope of such predictions even on a larger scale.

526. To begin with, only a few are capable of it.

527. In the month of February 1983, once again things begin to arouse the world's attention that find their origin in massacres.

528. For what will happen in Lebanon, through the fault of Sharon and Begin, will also happen in India, in the province of Assam, where the natives will carry out massacres among the Bengali immigrants, in which about 5,300 Bengali men, women and children will die horrible deaths {Khoirabari massacre, Nellie massacre, Silapathar massacre}.

529. However, this will not be the end of these massacres, the origin of which will be to be sought in new elections, because the fanatical locals will also murder Muslims living in Assam, whose number will be around 1,800, so that the total number of dead from the massacres will be over 7,000, a large part of whom will be buried and not found.

530. While these massacres are still being carried out to the highest degree, a similar event is taking place in Africa, in Zimbabwe, where there will also be very large numbers of dead, namely around 2,700, a part of which will also remain buried and untraced.

531. In Assam in particular, the massacres will not be confined to the month of February, for they will also continue to some extent in the month of March, while according to our calculations there will be peace in Zimbabwe, at least as far as the massacres are concerned.

532. After these events there will only be complaints worldwide about severe natural disasters, especially in Australia, where in southern parts of the country enormous and destructive forest fires will destroy much and also claim human lives, after which, when the fires have gone out, there will still be no calm, but new disasters will befall the country, this time through enormous masses of water which will fall from the sky as flash floods and inundate the country, causing further enormous destruction.

533. The same will also follow in America, in Los Angeles, where through storms and floods millions in damage arise and human lives will be lamented.

534. Only then will there be some calm again, before another natural event on the Hawaiian Islands will make itself known, namely when a volcano there erupts another time within a short period of time.

535. These, my friend, are the indications I have to give of coming events up to the month of March 1983.

https://www.futureofmankind.co.uk/Billy_Meier/Contact_Report_182

Quetzal:

244. When I explained the last predictions to you, we dealt with the thought as to whether such predictions will finally be useful or not.

245. Since then, I have striven to make various analyses over this, which have shown that with a small percentage of Earth-humans, such predictions fall on rather fertile ground, whereby the majority of terrestrial humankind probably takes note of them, however, no consideration is given to these, so no success of a deliberate change to the better is to be expected with the majority.

246. But the smaller percentage, which does take on the predictions and generates some form of positive change within themselves, might be of value, so we will continue to deliver such predictions.

...

256. So I ended with the predictions in the month of March, 1983.

257. If I now continue on from there with the explanations, then I must mention some events that will happen in Israel.

258. There, the mass murderer Begin will finally be restricted in his power because a new prime minister, a bad opponent of Begin, will take power.

259. Thus, Begin finally falls behind and loses much of his power.

260. Afterward, then, first comes the appearance of natural phenomena again, which will be talked about world-wide, and which, unfortunately, must be lamented over with the loss of human lives.

261. Around the turning point of March/April, so in less than a month, the Mount Etna volcano in Sicily will again eject large quantities of its red-hot interior and will cause much damage, after which then, only a few days later, an earthquake is expected in the country of Colombia, which will demand up to a thousand human lives and at least the total destruction of half of the city of Papayan.

304. Regarding natural disasters and major political events, there is nothing to report, at least until the middle of the year 1983.

305. Earthquakes will likely occur in different countries, such as in California, where particularly San Francisco will be bereaved.

306. Floods and droughts will also become a talking point, but they are largely not worth mentioning, just like the unusual great activity of the volcano Etna in Sicily, whose lava flows are to be rerouted by human hands.

307. Also, two large storm floods in America and elsewhere are hardly worth mentioning.

308. But what is worth mentioning is the AIDS disease, which will very quickly spread itself starting from 1983 and will demand many victims.

332. Unfortunately, these are not the only diseases and epidemics because in foreseeable times, still other and much worse ones will follow.

333. On the one hand, the new diseases and epidemics to be expected come from human beings and through their own fault in a direct form, on the other hand, indirect consequences will also appear, namely through nature destroyed by human beings as well as through animals, and furthermore, new pathogens of diseases and epidemics will also be brought in from space through the space capsules etc., as well as through the flight of peoples, old epidemics and diseases will be carried and spread anew in the future when human beings flee to foreign countries as a result of war turmoil and persecution, which will become more and more prevalent in the coming time because millions of human beings will flee from their home countries.

...

Quetzal:

386. And it is also fundamentally important to note here that after contact with animals, the person should immediately and thoroughly cleanse the affected areas of their body, as they should also never caress the animals' mouths, etc., as is morbidly and wrongly done on the Earth very frequently.

387. But if human beings do this anyway, then they must absolutely ensure that, at least, no intimate touching and the like take place, such as kissing, for such people are undoubtedly infected by pathogens that were transmitted by animals and which exhibit periods of outbreak up to 7 or even 50 years, such as with the next upcoming epidemic, 'Bovine Spongiform Encephalopathy', or BSE for short, also called mad cow disease, which will become dangerous for the person in form of the Creutzfeldt-Jakob syndrome, about which you must remain publicly silent, however, until the year 1990.

Billy:

With the periods of outbreak, do you mean the incubation time, during which the body develops the disease or epidemic and breaks out if the pathogens are not completely neutralised or eliminated by the body's self-defence system?

Quetzal:

388. That is of correctness.

...

Quetzal:

393. Do you still remember the assassination attempt on the Pope?

Billy:

How could I not?

Quetzal:

394. Very well, indeed, it was just a question because the consequences will continue for a long time.

Billy:

You mean that the relevant things are not concluded yet and that even further impacts will arise from this?

Quetzal:

395. That is correct because in the middle of the year 1983, further consequences will arise in this connection.

...

396. The assassin is to be set free as a result of extortionate kidnapping.

397. Therefore, a younger girl will be kidnapped {Emanuela Orlandi}, so that the Italian government will be forced by extortion to release the murderer and assassin Ali Agca.

Billy:

And, will this succeed – and also, how will the dishonest Pope express himself? Yet he is too cowardly to put in a word for the fact that the assassin be set free because he fears too much for his miserable life.

Quetzal:

398. I will talk about the success or failure later.

399. Yes, you are right about the Pope:

400. He is a coward, which is why he will not advocate, at least the first time, with a word for the release of the murderer and assassin and, thus, for the preservation of the life of the girl.

401. He will only do it when he can be sure of his life in good measure.

402. But he does not care about the life of the girl in any wise.

403. In every case, he is only concerned about his own advantage and only acts if it strengthens his image.

Billy:

Presumably, he will only speak a word when the child is beyond help. As I estimate the guy, it cannot be otherwise.

Quetzal:

404. Unfortunately, you hit the truth, but continue to listen because accordingly, there are still more things that will be of importance for the human beings of the Earth, even though it will only be so because everything will be hyped.

405. The next such event will take place around the month of September, but the date remains unclear.

406. At this coming time, a Korean passenger jet will be shot down by the Russian air defense, to which approximately 270 humans will fall victim.

407. And it will happen that the whole world will grumble against the Russians and, at other times, will do more injustice to this nation, despite the fact that Israel, for example, has already done the same and that the airspace damage of the Korean airplane will be steered by secret American forces.

408. This will be for provocation and in connection with disarmament negotiations between Russia and America, which will take place at that time in Geneva.

409. Of course, what happens over time in the interests of the Earthlings will flatten out again but will reach the Americans, and in particular, president Reagan, marked by deceit and war addiction, will be the reason why the Russians will fall into the crossfire of a worldwide protest, which will be accepting to Reagan's plans.

...

411. But at least in Lebanon, they will pay dearly because as a future review showed, the American peacekeeping forces will suffer heavy losses by an Arab suicide mission around the 20th of October 1983, when Palestinian forces load a truck with explosives and drive into the headquarters of the Americans in order to detonate the load there, as this will also be the case in the headquarters of the French troops in Lebanon.

412. Unfortunately, things are not yet recognised quite clearly in this respect, but there will likely be 250 to 300 deaths.

413. But for this, the Americans are expected to prepare an evil retaliatory strike because the vindictiveness and war-addiction of President Reagan knows no boundaries.

414. In addition, he will already allow a new act of war to be carried out just days after the attack and will let American troops invade the island of Grenada, which again will result in many deaths.

Billy:

And of course, Reagan will again find a justification for this, which is apart from himself.

Quetzal:

415. Unfortunately, that will again be so, for the Earth-humans are blind and deaf to the truth, even in other things, as represented by the military.

416. It is especially like this in reference to earthquakes because it simply does not want to be recognised that many of the earthquakes are only triggered by the human causes, as this will also be the case with the quake that will take place around the turn of October and November in northeast Turkey, to which approximately 2,150 people will fall victim.

Billy:

So this would have to be in Kars or Erzurum again, right?

Quetzal:

417. That is of correctness, because the district Erzurum will be the part that will mainly be affected the most.

...

419. However, this will not be the only earthquake at this time because still another area that is well-known to you will be shaken by a heavy quake only about ten days later, so namely Liège and the closer and wider environment, but mainly only property damage will result, fortunately with only a few deaths, which will hardly be three.

420. But otherwise, a larger disaster will occur again only a few days later, when the Americans will irresponsibly bring new combat missiles into Europe, namely into England for the time being, even though the disarmament negotiations in Geneva will not yet have prospered so far that even just a prospect for a solution would be evident.

Billy:

Aha, at the same time, I remember the prophecies that speak of the fact that the Great Bear will break in over the North Sea coming into England. When I consider this in such a manner, the missiles could very well be a reason, perhaps, why an attack on England takes place in the distant future.

Quetzal:

421. Your reasoning is not wrong because the reasons very well lie therein, but the missiles are not the direct, pivotal point.

422. They are, however, an unmistakable sign of the time of the fulfilment of the prophecies, as will also be the enormous peace demonstrations that will find their implementation in many European countries and primarily in Germany, only a few days earlier, before the Americans bring their combat missiles into England.

Billy:

I understand, it means that somewhere, the call for peace in a hundred thousand-fold form speaks of that time when the world events cannot be delayed any more, thus, the prophecies must be fulfilled, and the Third World War will come soon. "And truly only a miracle can still save the world and the people, who summon in unison the death and destruction, even though their cry is for peace and rest." That is what one says, if I am not mistaken.

Quetzal:

423. You are not mistaken, and your words are correct and accurate, as they are given by this prophecy.

424. This prophecy, however, is not given to Earth humanity, rather, it comes from the stock of prophecies that are given to the prophets alone and where the data of events is contained and about which, silence must be preserved, in order not to provoke something that can still be prevented by sufficient reason, nevertheless.

Billy:

Of course, that is true, and I also comply with this provision. Never have I mentioned the contents of these prophecies in such a manner that accurate data could be taken from it. Moreover, everything can first be prevented.

...

It just momentarily escaped me, in what connection I know these prophecies. My head and my memory have often given me difficulties since my accident and the serious concussion.

...

Alright, but you know that sometimes, I just have rather large difficulties with my memory, so now I currently dig around in notes in order to reacquaint myself with everything that has escaped me, as for example the note that I have here regarding information that Semjase once gave to me. It says here: "Vega forms a new planetary system", and here, "the dust rings around the SOL-system", and here, "the two other planets in the SOL-system". With regard to these notes, I would like to know from you what it is all about, for I do not exactly remember.

Quetzal:

427. About that, nothing should officially become known to the Earth-humans yet, for first toward the end of the year 1983 might the time be ripe for that.

...

429. Concerning Vega, your note refers to the fact that in the area of Vega and Lyra, a cosmic process takes place, which produces new stars.

430. This is a fact that is still unknown to the Earth scientists, but it will be grasped in the near future.

...

433. That is understandable and good, but hear, now, what the note means with regard to the two other planets in the SOL-system.

434. It probably involves the explanation of Semjase that the Sun is orbited by two dwarf planets, which have remained hidden to the terrestrial scientists until now and which orbit very far beyond Pluto's orbit around the Sol-system.

Billy:

Oh, I see, then it concerns the explanations pertaining to the yet undiscovered minor planets Elin and Anar, as you call them, although, in certain Earth circles, there are, indeed, speculations among Earthlings over the existence of other planets, and in addition, one of the two unknowns is called UNI or Trans-Pluto.

{Note: This may be referring to the dwarf planets known as Eris and Haumea.}

Quetzal:

435. That is of correctness.

...

444. Next, I have to report from the months of November and December, during which a great deal of new and malevolent acts of war will arise in Lebanon, where the Americans will officially intervene in the fighting but under the guise of self-defense.

Billy:

This, of course, is only a pretext.

Quetzal:

445. That is of correctness.

...

462. Around the 9th of February 1984, a change will arise in the world-political scene again because the Russian ruler Juri Andropov will depart from this life and be replaced by a man named Chernenko.

463. What will emerge from this cannot accurately be predicted yet because things are still unclear for them to be calculated.

...

465. About a month after these events, something new is expected to happen because once again, an ancient prophecy will start to become fulfilled.

466. Surely, you can remember that in reference to the prophecies, one spoke of the fact that in Egypt, a village would be exposed in the desert, which would be a sign of the times?

...

467. About a month after Andropov's death, a sandstorm at that place will expose a building, which will then ultimately lead to the discovery of the ancient village in the vicinity of the Nile, as it was prophesied.

468. This will result because the relative archaeological work and nature will work more intensively after the new discovery.

Billy:

It is good that you speak of this: I once received a prophecy, according to which at a certain time, the Vesuvius volcano should erupt.

Quetzal:

469. You have become forgetful, my friend, because the two of us have also spoken together about this, but I will tell you again that this eruption of the volcano should actually take place if inconsistencies do not arise in the whole situation.

470. And the eruption should be one of the last signs of the fact that a Third World War can no longer be prevented under any circumstances and will come thereafter in the foreseeable future, but always to the extent that the prophecy would be fulfilled and that it would not become null and void as a result of reasonable changes.

...

477. What is moving, perhaps, is that in the middle of the year, the Pope will now visit Switzerland.

478. This will, at least, interest the Catholic world.

479. Then, in late July and into August, severe thunderstorms will afflict many countries, whereby also Switzerland will be hit hard, as well as Germany, Russia, India, Australia, Korea, and Mexico.

480. Moreover, in the Philippines, there will be more than 200 people killed by a hurricane.

500. But the Earth-humans will discover this for themselves, shortly before that prophecy is fulfilled, which you received from Petale on the 30th of January 1976.

Billy:

At the moment, I cannot remember what prophecy this concerns.

Quetzal:

501. It is that one which speaks of the Scorpion.

Billy:

Ah, now I remember. It says in that prophecy that shortly before the monsoon season, in the country of the Elephant and the Peacock, the reigning Scorpion will die. In addition, if I have understood this prophecy correctly, then the death of the Scorpion should result through force.

Quetzal:

502. That is correct, but talk of a forcible death of the Scorpion only appears in the prophecy in a hidden form.

Billy:

Yes, I remember. Then Indira Gandhi in India will be murdered because she holds the office of Prime Minister at the time.

Quetzal:

503. That is of correctness.

Billy:

Her astrological sign is Scorpio.

Quetzal:

504. And also in the month of Scorpio, she will be murdered, namely on the 31st of October, 1984.

Billy:

And who will commit the crime?

Quetzal:

505. It will be her own people, so namely men of her bodyguard.

Billy:

And who will take over the office of Prime Minister for her? Is that already certain?

Quetzal:

506. That is, likewise, already determined.

507. Indira Gandhi's son, Rajiv, will assume office.

Billy:

And, will one catch the assassin?

Quetzal:

508. There will be several, at least three.

509. As our preview showed, one will be shot, one will be critically injured, and a third will be arrested.

Billy:

Yes, and how will Indira Gandhi be killed, then?

Quetzal:

510. By shots – she will be hit by ten of them.

Billy:

A true slaughter – and one cannot do anything about this again, right?

Quetzal:

511. You should know that such an endeavour would be futile because things that are determined in such a wise are the equivalent of an unchangeable programming, so they are unstoppable.

Billy:

And what is the reason for the murder?

Quetzal:

512. Indira Gandhi will make the Sikhs mortal enemies to herself in the course of the year 1984, and these will then have her be murdered out of revenge.

513. But with the assassination, there is still an element of uncertainty in the sense that it is not quite clear whether the third assassin is of the party of the one who is to be wounded.

514. Thus, it could be that three as well as only two bodyguards will be involved in the assassination attempt.

515. What is still to be mentioned in this case is that the death of the prime minister will trigger a campaign of revenge throughout India against the religious members of the bodyguard, who will fall victim to 2,700 people.

Billy:

Then a great deal will happen there in India.

Quetzal:

516. That will be a fact.

Billy:

But this also is not likely to change.

Quetzal:

517. No, but the events will not occupy the world public for too long because the choice of the American president will outplay this event a few days later.

Billy:

And who will be the new president?

Quetzal:

518. As things develop until then, Ronald Reagan will be re-elected.

...

521. Perhaps it would be worth mentioning that Ethiopia will once again suffer from a massive famine, but this will already be at hand much earlier than the assassination attempt in India.

Billy:

Do you mean, nevertheless, that the largest effects will appear around the time of the assassination attempt?

Quetzal:

522. No, for the effects will already be very devastating much earlier.

523. What I want to say is that in the course of that time, the world public will first be made properly aware of this catastrophe, thus, the famine will then become a world interest.

Billy:

Oh, I see, and the problem can be solved, then?

Quetzal:

524. No, of course not, for there will not be enough assistance.

Billy:

As this is always so in such cases. Moreover, I think that such assistance only enlarges the problem.

Quetzal:

525. That is of correctness because each assistance provided in such concerns magnifies a problem.

526. Each assistance is not used where it would have to be used.

527. The rule with the Earth-humans is that they always only consider assistance in the face of hunger.

Billy:

Whereby they then overlook the main evils and problems, and they neither fight against these nor resolve them in any wise.

Quetzal:

528. That is of correctness, my friend.

529. You have recognised things correctly.

...

540. On Monday, November 19, 1984, a great gas-catastrophe will occur in Mexico City, and about 450 people will die.

541. However, this disaster will only be the beginning of a whole number of smaller gas-catastrophes all over the world.

542. But only a short time after Mexico City, so we have calculated, an even more enormous gas-catastrophe will break out in India, in Bhopal, which will demand 2,562 human lives, while tens of thousands of other people will suffer from poisoning and long-term damage.

543. Like in many other cases of catastrophes on the Earth, however, the actual number of victims will not be mentioned and will be understated, which will naturally result in a false picture.

544. Then, after the catastrophe in Bhopal, nothing really will appear, which would be worth mentioning since it will not be world-moving.

545. First with the date of the 10th of March 1985 does an event then follow, which will move the world public, namely when the Russian leader, Chernenko, dies and a new man arrives at the head of the government, who will be called Mikhail Gorbachev.

551. The new man of Moscow, Mikhail Gorbachev, will be the great reformer, by whose will and works a lot will change all over the world, even though he and the course of his reform will soon take in a lot of setbacks, about which I will explain different things to you later.

552. But to a large extent, Semjase already reported to you in the month of October, 1980 about the reforms of Mikhail Gorbachev and their global consequences, so there is really no need for further explanations.

554. But she told you nothing about the adverse events and the dangers to the good course of Gorbachev, which will happen through the evil machinations of power-hungry individuals and extremists and radicals in different Russian countries, such as Azerbaijan, Lithuania, Latvia, and Estonia, etc. and which will jeopardise the entire work of Gorbachev, and she also told you nothing about the war that will go down in the annals of world history, starting from 1991, as the Gulf War.

555. Saddam Hussein – the dictator of Iraq, whom you personally know so well and of whom you always said that he would be the worst butcher of humans if he would only find the opportunity to carry out his murderous plans – will have a military invasion of Kuwait on the 2nd of August 1990 and will, thus, trigger a multinational punitive action, which will be headed by the Americans.

556. From this, a battle will develop, which will be unequalled until now.

557. For about a month, multinational troops will bomb Iraq in unprecedented consequence, before the real battle begins on the ground.

558. The criminal, unscrupulous, malicious, uncompromising, murderous Saddam Hussein will avenge himself and will allow billions of litres of earth petroleum to be pumped into the waters of the Gulf, whereby he will very soon receive the infamous title 'Criminal against Humanity'.

Billy:

Thus, a military alliance will emerge, which will take up arms against the creep. Man, this can become cheerful, for Saddam Hussein will not be the one to give way. I know him well enough from my stay there, when I was in Iraq. At that time, about 25 years ago, he was still young, about the same age as me. His views, which he explained to me, were so extreme, as he himself is in his whole character. A serious criminal from an early age, he ran into conflict again and again with the police, also because of extreme political machinations at around the age of 15 or 16 years. Even murder was a part of his daily existence, but he was never caught. When he came to power around the turning point of the eighties, he even murdered his opponents and enemies by his own hand. The guy told me at that time that he would also 'shit' on all of Islam. He literally said that to me because he thought of the Islamic faith just as little as he thought of any other faith. Religion, so he told me at that time, was only useful for him, in any case, in order to make the idiotic people docile and subservient to a political or military leader. With a shit-faith, one can always get the humans of low intelligence to make him a master and a leader, and then, these would be subservient in order for him safely to shed blood. If he would take to the helm and, thus, would come to power, so he told me, then he would know how to take the idiotic people and make them be enslaved to himself. He would simply play the part of a good Muslim and, if necessary, would fall on his knees towards Mecca in public and would hypocritically pray; thus, the stupid people would certainly run after him and would congratulate him, cheer, and make him the absolute ruler. Thus, he would become master and emperor over all Arab countries, and soon, it would then also be attainable to him to take over the world and become a world-dominating great emperor. He strives to achieve this goal, and every means is good enough for him, even if hundreds of millions of people would die as a result. The guy is not just a megalomaniac and a limitless fanatic of the most bloodthirsty violence and destruction, but he is crazy and insane and is a danger to the entire Earth. He would subjugate the entire Earth to himself with blood and would subdue it, if only he could. The only way to stop his power-hungry plans is a multinational logical act of force against him. But certainly, idiotic peace-criers all over the world will try to prevent this through demonstrations and the like, and also in various crazy Arab camps, there will be a pro-Hussein cry. But these poor lunatics will not know what they try to arrange through this because if Saddam Hussein would win, should it actually come to this conflict mentioned by you, then this would not only mean the subjugation and possibly the death of the pro-criers or peace-criers but also the ever bloodiest enslavement and torment of all of Earth humanity. Man oh man, I know this guy Saddam Hussein and I know what he is capable of. If everything actually arrives as you say, and I do not doubt your words, then one should send all the idiotic peace-criers and pro-Hussein criers into the desert.

Quetzal:

559. Your statements correspond to all correctness.

560. But unfortunately, there will be other culprits to be named when the war breaks out in the Gulf in January of 1991 because Saddam Hussein will react to any attempts toward peace just as negatively as to an ultimatum, after which the allied bombardment against Iraq will begin in the first hours of the morning on about the 16th of January.

561. Also to be named as culpable in this war will be all those who build bunkers and chemical factories, as well as many other war-technical plants, for Saddam Hussein.

562. Even weapons suppliers and weapons system-improving engineers, etc. are also included.

563. Last but not least to be mentioned is Ronald Reagan, who laid the foundation-stone for his war policy in general, so that these machinations of a serious and world-threatening nature could and can appear.

564. But to explain the individual points would take too long.

Billy:

That is understood, but tell me, will many businesses and companies not fall into trouble and even bankruptcy as a result of this Gulf War?

Quetzal:

565. Unfortunately, that will be the case, also in Switzerland.

Billy:

He is a merciless killer and destroyer of global proportions. He disregards everything the world holds in honour. He will also not shy away from calling up fanatical terrorists all over the world to carry out their murderous attacks of all kinds and everywhere, causing immense damage and destroying human lives. Thus, this war will have worldwide consequences and cause worldwide damage and criminal terrorist attacks that could make one afraid. It is fortunate that this is not the Third World War, which may still be preventable, as Semjase said.

Quetzal:

566. Nevertheless, this coming war in the Gulf will be waged worldwide, even though it actually is not the Third World War, which is mentioned in the prophecies and which can, perhaps, be averted after all.

Billy:

Good, let's leave this. We should not get too deeply involved in these war interests with ifs and buts.

Quetzal:

567. That is correct, but it should, perhaps, still be mentioned that this upcoming Gulf War shall be more of a punitive action than an actual war, even though the whole thing will have serious and global consequences.

...

Billy:

Is there anything else special in relation to the planets and such? Are there, perhaps, cosmic events that are worth knowing?

Quetzal:

574. Certainly, but the event will first report itself in the year 1991.

575. From the depths of interstellar space, a dense and immense cloud of fine matter will approach, which will have penetrated so far into the SOL-system by about the middle of the month of February that it will then be located halfway between the planets Saturn and Uranus.

576. A fact that actually would not be noticed by the earthly astronomers if they were not pursuing the path of Halley's Comet, which will be located in the northern part of the constellation Hydra at that time.

577. These observations will most likely lead to the fact that a tremendous change in the fluorescent ratio of the comet will appear because it will penetrate into this cloud of interstellar dust and then cross it, which will naturally have as a consequence that powerful frictional forces will develop, which will allow the comet to light up 346 times more strongly than what is the case in its normal state.

Billy:

Then this will certainly also remain no secret to the Earth citizens, for certainly the newspapers will report about this, but probably again with incredible explanations that are not true.

Quetzal:

578. That might correspond to the truth.

Billy:

Thus, the usual. – But now, I have yet another question regarding what you said about Saddam Hussein and Kuwait, etc. You have not revealed how the Gulf crisis or even the punitive action against Iraq will turn out; and what specific things are thereby yet to be expected?

Quetzal:

579. As I told you, there will be an enormous bombardment of multinational troops on Iraq and Kuwait, which will last for about a month and which has no parallels on Earth to date and will not have any up to that time.

580. More precisely, this bombardment will last a month and a week and will decimate and demoralise the Iraqi army units to such an extent that, after the ground offensive begins, they will surrender by the tens of thousands, starved, wounded, sick, demoralised and, in some cases, psychologically at the end of their tether.

581. After the ground attack, a hundred-hour battle will take place, during which the entire Iraqi army and also Saddam Hussein's elite units, the Republican Guards, will be beaten, after which the U.S. President Bush will then order a ceasefire, namely for the time around 8 or 9 o'clock, Iraqi time, on the 28th of February, 1991.

Billy:

Then at this time, Kuwait might also become free again.

Quetzal:

582. That will already be the case on the 27th of February.

583. Nevertheless, Kuwait will be destroyed to a very great extent, and before the ceasefire, the fleeing Iraqis will still kidnap many Kuwaitis as hostages, taking them before, but even at the beginning of, the cruel massacre of the population under occupation, to which women, children, adolescents, and men of every age will fall victim.

584. Women and children will be raped and abused, in order to violate them after that, so that intimate body parts can be cut from their bodies, which will then be swung by the assassins' hands in triumph and be hung up as trophies everywhere.

585. Nevertheless, for a long time, this still will not be enough with the atrocities of the inhuman Iraqi soldiers, for before they flee or surrender to the Allies, they will still set on fire Kuwait's sources of oil and will make the ecological disaster, which was caused by the earth petroleum that was led into the Gulf, even larger.

586. From the oil fires, thick black soot clouds of smoke will arise, which will not only cause wide-area black rain precipitation in several countries, but they will also be very toxic and will destroy much biological life.

587. For a long time, the Sun will also be darkened by the black smoke, and all kinds of life will be destroyed.

Billy:

If immature and ones of low intelligentum achieve power and weapons, then they will cause incredible destruction with them and release worldwide catastrophes. In addition to immaturity and low intelligentum, still religious fanaticism and subservience come together for the degenerated, overbearing jerks, who are so clever, however, that they are able to beat the people into bondage. But how will things continue, then, after the ceasefire?

Quetzal:

588. Subsequently there will be a genocidal attempt on the Kurds, which Saddam Husain will pursue after a civil war is murderously put down by his troops.

589. But in everything, the Americans will not bear the least guilt because the American President Bush will request the Iraqi army to direct opposition against the dictator Hussein and to his overthrow, whereby he will indirectly animate the Kurds to this as well.

590. However, if the Iraqi people actually rise up against their dictator, then Bush will simply withdraw himself and then leave the Iraqi people to their misery and to the clutches of their murderous tormentor and murderer, as is customary with many Americans in their attitude and conduct.

591. Nevertheless, America is not only controlled by such inhumane and false elements, since truthly also human beings living there, and just these will be the ones who will compel the Bush administration to take action, while still giving support to the Kurds, who make use of the army stationed in Iraq to help and benefit them, but this cannot prevent the fact that during the worst time, more than 1,000 Kurdish refugees will die daily in the inhospitable and wintry mountains of Kurdistan, which you know from your own experience, and you know how life-hostile they are.

592. Deprivation, hardships, exhaustion, and diseases will be the causes of death of the refugees, just as also the military and inhumane acts of violence of the Iraqi army, which will also carry over there into the third millennium, which will lead to the second Iraqi war via the Americans, under the patronage of Bush's son, George Walker, who will then be U.S. President, who will lie to the people about alleged weapons of mass destruction in Iraq and will fail miserably in Iraq with the army.

593. In addition, terrorism will act further, whereby a complete conflagration will be released from Arabia, at least in the Middle East.

Billy:

And Saddam Hussein, what happens to him?

Quetzal:

594. His end will come much later, but about this, I will report to you some other time if it will still be permitted to me, for I should not deal with these things any further.

Billy:

Well, will other things and events still arise that are connected to the murder of Saddam Hussein?

Quetzal:

595. Certainly:

596. The chief event of the Iraqi troops in Kuwait will be a time from which a wide-ranging cholera epidemic must be counted on, which will demand thousands of lives, particularly in Latin America but also in several other countries around the world.

Billy:

So once again, a time of a large cholera epidemic. But what happens if Saddam Hussein is not knocked off of his throne?

Quetzal:

597. Then over the course of the next decades, it would have to be counted on that the Middle East and even the entire world could be threatened by a new war.

598. He is power-hungry, autocratic, and dangerous, like a pit full of irritated, venomous snakes.

599. However, the overthrow of the dictator should not occur by foreign powers but only by his own people, otherwise, more harm than good will result and a wildfire could arise, as I already explained.

Quetzal:

2. Already in a month, namely on the 28th of December of this year, 1984, a Soviet warship will operate in the Barents Sea and, as a result of a mistake, will fire a cruise missile, which will crash over northern Finland and also violate the Swedish airspace.

3. But then, the remains of the projectile will first be found at the end of January, lying on the ice of Lake Inari.

4. Then, on the 4th of January, 1985, it will be that for the first time, a child is born, who emerges from a replacement pregnancy by a so-called surrogate mother.

5. Then, in mid-January of 1985, it will be decided by the German Federal Government to participate in the project of a permanently manned space station, nevertheless, the Americans will call the shots, entirely according to their nature of always holding the power in their hands.

6. From this, a project of an international space station will develop, which will be tackled around the turn of the millennium.

7. But before this, in February of 1986, the start of a Russian space station with the name Mir (peace) will take place, as a replacement of the Salyut-7.

8. However, in 1999, this new space station will have had its day, after which it will fall down to the Earth and most of it will burn up, while the remaining part will sink into the sea, without causing damage.

9. But the crash will only take place in the year 2000.

10. The new international space station will be named the ISS, which means 'International Space Station' in the English language.

11. This station, which will originally be named the ISSA and, thus, International Space Station Alpha, will weigh about 500 tons when it is completed in approximately the year 2005.

12. The first preliminary work in Earth's orbit will begin when everything is all right, starting in November of 1998, and the measurements of the station will be about 110 x 80 metres.

13. The German Federal Government will also participate in the so-called Ariane project, respectively in the further development of the European booster rocket, which will be launched into Earth's orbit from Kourou.

14. Kourou is a city on the coast of French Guyana, where the seat of the French Space Research Centre has been since 1967, to which a rocket launching base is also attached.

...

16. In the month of January, 1985, the U.S. President Ronald Reagan in Washington will swear his oath for a second term of office.

17. By the end of January, it will happen further that for the first time after the Second World War, a Jewish world congress will take place, namely in Austria, in the capital Vienna, and there will be demands for a reinforced battle against fascism, anti-Semitism, and Nazism, in accordance with a main topic.

18. At the same time, it will be that Pope John Paul II will undertake his 25th trip to foreign locations and will visit the States of Ecuador, Peru, Venezuela, and Trinidad & Tobago.

Billy:

And what about the Soviet Union? Semjase once said, nevertheless, that this would still collapse before the turn of the new millennium because a man would come to power, who lays the groundwork for the end of the Soviet Union and the GDR [East Germany]. Even you have spoken of this and already told a few things.

Quetzal:

19. That is correct.

20. It will happen in the first 10 days of the month of March, 1985 that the State and party chief Konstantin Chernenko will die, after which a decision will be issued only a day later, which will not be unanimous, however, that a man named Mikhail Gorbachev has to assume the office of the Secretary-General.

21. However, already more than a month before, the Soviet party newspaper will have published this, whose attitude is also already preprogrammed that the State and party chief, Konstantin U. Chernenko, is thrown down by a very serious illness.

Billy:

The party newspaper is, nevertheless, the 'Pravda'?

Quetzal:

22. That is correct.

23. It will further occur in February of 1985 that Hafez al-Assad, who has been officiating in Syria since 1971, will be elected as president for another seven years, as a result of compulsion and election fraud, as well as by the fact that he will be the only candidate.

24. During the same period, Israel will reject the participation of the PLO in a planned international Middle East peace conference.

Billy:

PLO, that is the Palestine Liberation Organisation.

Quetzal:

25. That is correct.

26. King Husain II of Jordan, whom you know personally very well, will reach an agreement with Yasser Arafat in Amman for a new Middle East peace initiative, which will be boycotted, nevertheless, by the Israelis.

29. Around the 20th of February, 1985, in the vicinity of Bilbao, a Boeing of the Spanish airline Iberia will crash, which will cost 148 human lives.

30. In Austria, around the 20th of February, the nuclear-armed Soviet Union will be made subject to the control of the IAEA, the International Atomic Energy Agency.

31. The contract will be signed in Vienna.

32. Only a few days later, there will be a worldwide sensation in Australia, when for the first time, twins will be born to a mother who was impregnated by the implantation of so-called frozen embryos.

33. Toward the end of the month of February, 1985, an airplane of the German Lufthansa will be kidnapped from Frankfurt on Main to the Vienna International Airport in Schwechat, after which both Syrian-born kidnappers will be arrested.

34. These are some events that will happen in the next few months, apart from the things that relate to the Russian and the International Space Station and to the choice of the new Russian State and party leaders.

35. Everything else will happen by the end of the month of February.

31. I still have just a brief explanation to deliver, with regard to what was presented, in reference to the incarnation, respectively the animation of the fetus by the spirit-form:

32. As revealed from a future review, the absurd and erroneous claim – that from the moment of conception, respectively from conception to human life, the fetus would be a reason-gifted life-form and, thus, an individual – will recently be reaffirmed, maintained, and taught, again by an ignorant layman, with respect to the rebirth of the spirit-form and its animation of the fetus.

33. This new irrational teaching is again generated and developed by a misguided religionist, namely by a certain Cardinal Lehmann, who will express himself in this form on the 10th of June, 1991.

https://www.futureofmankind.co.uk/Billy_Meier/Contact_Report_703

Billy:

Prophecy has absolutely nothing to do with the unnatural or supernatural and in no way with fortune-telling ...

Fortune-telling and clairvoyance are absolutely nonsensical and have nothing to do with prophecy or effective prediction, for a truthful prediction is fulfilled with 100 per cent certainty, but only comes about through a vision of the future according to a high-percentage probability calculation or through a real vision or technically founded time travel into the future. ...

...

... early 'prophecies' and 'divinations' allegedly brought by prophets and heralds were not revealed and brought by effectively real and true prophets and heralds, but by soothsayers. These alleged and effectively false 'prophecies' or 'divinations' were slanderously put into the mouths of the real and true prophets and heralds, consequently all the lies have been handed down religiously and sectarianly throughout the ages until today as naked lies. These are future-related false and lie-laden assertions for which a direct 'divine' inspiration has been claimed by their obedient and unsophisticated believers since the existence of the religions and sects and is still believed by today's believers. The former true prophets and prophetesses listed by the religions and sects are, on the one hand, being falsely traded and misused as 'God's messengers', and on the other hand, they are being attributed with ancient prophecies of various kinds which they never revealed. And if true prophetic or prophesying unveilings have been handed down, they have usually been so misleadingly falsified that the actual meaning of the revelation can hardly or no longer be defined. On the other hand, a prophet and herald – also of a female nature – was and still is understood and worshipped as a commissioned herald of a divine plan and will by the obedient, thoughtless blind believers who are incapable of making their own decisions. It should also be explained that prophecies or divinations by true prophets are directed towards the fate of a nation or the fate of several nations or even the fate of the whole of humanity.

...

Prophecy must also not be confused with so-called occult or demonic fortune-telling, nor with any religious-sectarian, threatening 'prophecies', which without exception belong to the realm of fantasy. Unfortunately, however, false prophets and prophetesses have appeared time and again since time immemorial – and still appear today – whereby their 'revelations' were and are very often or even without exception of a religious-sectarian nature.

Billy:

... the very great danger in the middle of the 2030s, when the whole Earth will be threatened. I know this because he let me see what will happen then, as well as what will ultimately be the evil consequence of this, if the Earth's petroleum, iron and coal, gases and metals of various kinds etc. continue to be robbed from the Earth.

...

Billy:

... A prophecy is generally but from time immemorial misunderstood by human beings. This is because a prophecy is actually a threat and not a prediction, but also a reminder that people should not continue to muddle along in the same bad manner as they have done up to now, because otherwise a negative result will result. It is to be said that a prophecy is something that predicts what can happen, especially when everything is done and acted in the same manner as it is done at present and also in the future, so that the result is what the prophecy warns. If, however, the whole course of action changes for the better and everything is henceforth done in accordance with correctness, then a prophecy referring to it will not be fulfilled, for then what was prophesied will not be fulfilled and everything will change into something better, then everything will be good. Now, as far as a prediction is concerned, it is based on an effective certainty of a thing or an event etc. that is unchangeable and will be true and come true or happen with 100% certainty if everything has been done resp. done correctly. On the other hand, a prediction inevitably comes true and cannot be influenced, changed or stopped with the best words, efforts, actions and thus with the greatest efforts or with the highest attainable willpower of thought or otherwise. A prediction is based on something that will come to pass and thus happen under all circumstances, and this also when everything possible speaks against its fulfilment. This should be said and explained once, so that human beings may correctly understand the difference between prophecy and prediction.

https://www.futureofmankind.co.uk/Billy_Meier/Contact_Report_864

... If the path to reality and its truth were to be opened and followed, then only little would change for the better, because in the second millennium human beings will already have degenerated to such an extent that they will listen even less to prophecies that announce the evil that is to come, but if all the threatening evils that are announced for the future are not counteracted, then it will also not be possible to avoid through reason and rationality that everything will happen in the way that is just prophesied.

https://www.futureofmankind.co.uk/Billy_Meier/Contact_Report_869

Billy:

... It is completely idiotic, but the fact is that every word that is spoken in warning is spoken into the wind and goes unheard as if in the vastness of the deserts, and the majority of Earthlings are so lowly intelligent and therefore incapable of thinking correctly and calculating the future – mainly the majority of those in power – that all talking and warning is pointless.

https://www.futureofmankind.co.uk/Billy_Meier/Contact_Report_870

Billy:

... I think it is necessary to state that I do not involve myself in clairvoyance and I am not a so-called clairvoyant, therefore I cannot invent anything clairvoyant for the future. My predictions, which I have given and mentioned since I was a boy, are based on the fact that, together with Sfath, I have seen and experienced certain events and happenings in the future and therefore know that they will inevitably happen and therefore come true. I already made such predictions when I was a boy and thus only said what Sfath and I experienced in the future. I have also mentioned various things that threaten to happen but can be changed and avoided if behaviour is changed for the better. ...

https://www.futureofmankind.co.uk/Billy_Meier/Contact_Report_880

Billy:

... This, just like a prophecy, which is nothing more than a warning or a piece of advice, that something certain will result from it, something good or bad, if work, action or thought continues in the wise way, framework or style etc. that has been done up to now. ...

...

Now, if the whole thing had been a prediction instead of my prophecies, then that would have meant that something was said or predicted that would have happened with absolute certainty and was inevitable. In contrast to prophecy, which corresponds to a warning, is the prediction, which announces something that will inevitably happen and will therefore inevitably occur and be fulfilled with absolute certainty.

This is in contrast to prophecy, which warns, for example, that a war, a nuclear war or something else will occur by such and such a time if people continue to think and act wrongly.

https://www.futureofmankind.co.uk/Billy_Meier/Contact_Report_031

Ptaah:

732. But bestiality still prevails in Earth-humans, and his/her humanism is only an evil false show.

733. Outwardly and in public he/she cries out for humanity, but in his/her innermost being they are still barbarous and very immature.

734. The Earth human being deceives himself/herself and cries out in offence for vindication when he/she is reproached for their merely feigned humanism, which they often display publicly through demonstrations.

735. This humanism, however, is nothing but a sham, a lie and a deception.

736. The Earth human being cries out indignantly when accused of this lie and deception of merely feigned humanism, for they don't want to acknowledge or see the truth.

737. He/she speaks of peace and love and doesn't know what it is all about, just as he/she doesn't know what humanism is all about.

738. He/she speaks great words and believes himself/herself justified by them, but they kill without hesitation when they believe themselves to be in danger, or they kill without hesitation on an order.

739. And once he/she has killed, all his/her good intentions quickly vanish and the slumbering bestiality within him/her breaks through with tremendous violence.

740. Earth-humans have experienced this again and again up to the present day, just think of the wars and revolutions of modern times.

741. Where can real humanism still be found?

742. Or does he/she perhaps think that terror and criminal acts of violence, bombings, religious wars such as in Ireland and Palestine, assassinations and many other horrible things are humane?

743. Or does he/she perhaps think of humanity when he/she goes out into the streets and demonstrates, even if this may be done 'peacefully' and without murder and manslaughter?

744. Nowhere is humanity to be found – also not in a peaceful demonstration.

745. Everything is only lies and deceit, malicious deception and self-importance with the sense of wanting to make oneself better than the human beings of the Earth really are.

746. But this is only because he/she has not yet perceived himself/herself and consequently still lies to himself/herself.

747. If he/she really wanted to practise self-knowledge and act in humanity, he/she would take hold of the spiritual teaching in order to finally find the truth and try to act accordingly.

748. The consequence of this would be that the peoples would depose their governments and replace them with spiritual leaders.

749. Through Earth-humans, then, who would know, rule and honour the truth and the natural and creational laws, whereby they would govern the Earth and all human beings unselfishly and in correct form.

https://www.futureofmankind.co.uk/Billy_Meier/Contact_Report_844

Billy:

... What would be important is that the peoples would not be so lax and only make their fist in the sack, but remove unfit and autocratic rulers from their offices. To demonstrate and shout about in a stupid way and to believe in a stupid way and to delude oneself that the wrong-governing rulers of both sexes will be impressed by this is more than just stupid stupidity and cowardice. ...

...

Billy:

... The idiotic demonstrations of the 'Last Generation' and other 'environmentalists' who do more harm than good are sick in the head and achieve exactly the opposite of what should be done.

...

https://www.futureofmankind.co.uk/Billy_Meier/Contact_Report_846

Billy:

... But I am interested to know if you know what's going on with the 'Last Generation' demonstration clique, which, as Ptaah already told me a year ago, is controlled by a rotten, unrighteous and criminal part of America, and that for the purpose of ... But what is actually intended by these idiotic demonstrations – which I do not want to say openly because Ptaah said that other like-minded people would take up the banner and do the same because they are just as stupid as those who thoughtlessly take part in the criminal demonstrations without knowing what is actually intended – is hare-brained. However, I would be surprised if the German secret service is so stupid and dumb that they really do not realise behind it all, namely that it is all arranged and controlled from America for the hand stickers on streets and car tyres, and they also cause enormous damage with paints and sprays. All this, as Ptaah said, is the work of ...

Quetzal:

... I can mention the following about that: What unfortunately happens is that many persons allow themselves to be thoughtlessly provoked and create personal as well as public damage, as they also affect many fellow human beings and get paid for it. Furthermore, it is to be said that the demonstrators and quite a lot of damage-causing persons of the 'Last Generation' are a sectarian-criminal organisation organised and directed by America {possibly Climate Emergency Fund}, in which another pathologically thinking and financially very rich person {possibly Aileen Getty} participates. In Germany, among other countries, the organisation also obtains taxpayers' money, with which criminal and highly damaging demonstration actions are financed, and the authors also enrich themselves, as well as the demonstrators unthinkingly damage order and economic and private achievements through all their actions.

Billy:

... But I think that we should now talk about what is really happening, as well as about the fact that behind the 'Last Generation' there is an American crazy and rich woman who supports and finances all the crazy machinations of the likewise crazy hand-ticklers, of which even the ignorant and idiotic demonstrators are probably unaware, because they are as stupid as beans.

https://www.futureofmankind.co.uk/Billy_Meier/Contact_Report_855

Billy:

It is of no use anyway if something is said that corresponds to the full truth and in this respect, because then it is not only vehemently opposed and reacted to with stupid and ill-considered demonstrations that possibly cause damage, but everything – wrong or correct – is sometimes even championed with rage, fanaticism, beatings and destruction and even with murder and manslaughter. This is also proven by the radical, sick and crazy 'environmentalist apostles', as also demonstrated by the demonstrators around Greta Thunberg and the fanatical and criminal 'Last Generation' financed by a billionaire {possibly Aileen Getty}, who do more harm than good and cause more harm than good. All the idiots and uneducated, stupid and hypocritical supporters and followers of both sexes, who vehemently and unthinkingly participate in the machinations of these criminal environmentalist demonstrators, or simply support their demonstrations, do not understand the truth. Namely, that overpopulation is to blame for everything and is the greatest evil of all.

https://www.futureofmankind.co.uk/Billy_Meier/Contact_Report_856

Billy:

... And with the idiotic demonstrations for the alleged protection of the environment, more and more damage has been and is being done than they bring benefit. In particular, the emerging damage is caused by the fact that, as a result of the demonstrations, the stupid and dimwitted governments pass new laws, regulations and directives that not only cause more harm than good, but also endanger all order, the safety of peoples, game, animals and the whole of nature, as well as nature itself, the atmosphere and the climate, and the human beings resp. the whole of humanity, and even endanger their lives and existence, and even drive humanity to the brink of extinction. ...

Billy:

... But if you should think that the Earthlings will consciously take note of this and do something about it, then you hope in vain, for they are so stubborn, indifferent and stupid that they do not even think about what you have said. And this idiotic action has been practised by the majority of earthly humanity for a very, very long time, ever since religions and the mad and confused belief in them have existed, which has been the case for thousands of years. But the Earthlings do not allow themselves to be taught reality and its truth, consequently they are moving more and more rapidly towards their downfall, driving the Earth more and more towards total destruction, as well as making a pig of all ecosystems and thus of the whole of nature and its fauna and flora. Especially the brain-damaged environmental protesters are involved, who cause more harm than good, especially organisations that make a big ruckus on the streets and cause destruction, as well as those who stick themselves everywhere and smear valuable things with paint, etc., such as, for example The 'Last Generation', an extremely criminal and radical activist organisation, which is controlled by '... ..', which is financed by rich persons with their money, who also have a bad conscience and a business sense, because the 'donors' of the ... earn a lot of money through the destruction and damage, as well as through the means for repairing the damage. Thus, the 'Last Generation' demonstrators are a ready-made meal for these rich people, who have all those work-shy idiots of all ages crawling up their throats, who are so stupid and dumb that they, as sham thinkers, are not even able to think up to the tip of their noses. As a result, the rich, the businessmen involved and the donors of the 'Last Generation' are creating a veritable climate hysteria out of the otherwise already existing environmental pollution. As a result, the rich rake in a lot of money through the machinations and damage devices of the work-shy idiotic stupid elements. Those sticking to their guns everywhere bill for it and – as it was revealed – are paid for it. This, among others, also by an American billionaire heiress who praises these cross-dumb and idiotic glue activists, but who do not realise that they are being cheated by clever businessmen. These work-shy glue elements of all ages are so idiotically stupid that they cannot realise, see or comprehend in any process the dimension of their exploitation by unscrupulous rich people, because apart from the capacity of logic, they also lack the intellect, as well as reason, to think at all. It is also worth mentioning that, according to a reliable source, a full-time member of the 'Last Generation' receives around 1300 francs/euros per month 'salary'.

Well, the demonstrators of the 'Friday for Future' are not much better off, and also quite a few of them are elements who are only sham thinkers and fabricate destruction at the expense of the general public.

Billy:

... Others, on the other hand, who have formed their character in a completely wrong and evil way, so that their senses are such that defence also includes the murder of fellow human beings – which excludes unintentional killing in self-defence – are unfortunately in the vast majority of Earth's humanity. Due to their religious or worldly beliefs, as well as their self-importance, their stupidity and thus their non-thinking, egoism, self-will and self-interest, their selfishness and egomania, they are as a rule unteachable, consequently quarrelling, hatred, murder, manslaughter, war and destruction etc. are commonplace among them. This is also the case with the so-called 'environmentalists', especially the 'last generation', who will strike again in the very near future, as we 2 found out when we ... The fanatical and richly paid 'demonstrators', who are really paid criminals, do not store any sense of environmental protection in the background of their illusory thinking and their character, but criminal urge against any order, which they want to break with violence and insane acts of violence – paid for this by elements, who irresponsibly secretly wait for the whole of the alleged environmental protection demonstrations to soon degenerate further to such an extent that, apart from destruction, there will also be deaths to mourn.

https://www.futureofmankind.co.uk/Billy_Meier/Contact_Report_864

... Lowly intelligent and brazen demonstrations are held against environmental pollution etc., but all the stupid and senseless demonstrators will not realise that rampant overpopulation is to blame for the fact that everything is being destroyed all around and consequently humanity must be drastically reduced. And this can humanely only be done by implementing a controlled birth stop, until Earth's humanity is only about 500 million, which is also what the Earth is designed for, which can easily feed and sustain this number of human beings. ...

https://www.futureofmankind.co.uk/Billy_Meier/Contact_Report_872

Billy:

... So-called environmentalists demonstrate violently, but only allegedly, against this, but in order to do good, on the contrary, only immense damage is done, e.g. by idiotically smearing or spraying paint on walls, buildings, monuments and posters or other human achievements, but also stupidly and erroneously erecting roadblocks and impairing road traffic and bringing it to a standstill. For example, the so-called 'Last Generation' was idiotically founded in December 2021 by Henning Jeschke, Lea Bonasera and Melanie Guttman, whereby Jeschke and Bonasera had previously taken part in actions by 'Extinction Rebellion' and the 'Hunger Strike of the Last Generation'. As far as I know, the activists of the 'Last Generation' are financed by the very rich, to the tune of around 1,000 euros per month, as well as by persons who promote air pollution, atmospheric poisoning and environmental pollution with their insane and stupid actions. ...

The apparently work-shy climate activists are paid by the wealthy with donations that also keep the organisation alive. As far as I know, the main sponsor of the 'Last Generation' is America – how could it be otherwise – with the US organisation 'Climate Emergency Fund' and the rich pulling the strings and financing everything. This is particularly because they stick to roads with glue that emits poison gas, which escapes into the atmosphere, poisoning it and also causing cancer. In addition, toxic gases are also released by acetone, which is used by the police and others together with a mixture of cooking oil to loosen the idiotically stuck people. The gases released may cause human beings to develop incurable cancer, as the Plejaren have clearly discovered in their investigations into the whole thing. The climate activists of the 'Last Generation' thus promote air pollution and environmental pollution all the more, just as the dangerous gases emitted by the glue – which are obviously once again unknown to earthly science or cannot be detected – can cause many human beings to develop cancer, who may then die miserably. Another climate activist organisation, which is no better than the 'Last Generation', namely 'Fridays for Future', which works with strikes, protests etc. and drives that part of humanity crazy – just like the 'Last Generation' – which is only a believer and is not able to think for itself and is therefore nothing more than an obedient slave – like the climate activists themselves – of all the donating heavy rich, who can increase their wealth through their 'donations', which they give for a specific purpose. It makes you wonder how stupid many human beings are that they do not realise this and also do not understand that with every donation to the climate organisation, they are helping to ensure that destruction, annihilation and extinction can spread all the more.

The idea for 'Fridays for Future' actually came from Swedish schoolgirl Greta Thunberg, who, at the age of 15, decided in August 2018 to skip school for three weeks and sit in front of the Swedish parliament with a 'School Strike for the Climate' sign.

With her school strikes, she wanted to ensure that Sweden honoured the climate agreement that was reached in Paris. When she became a representative of the international climate protection movement in 2019, she was honoured with the Right Livelihood Award and became the youngest person ever to be named Person of the Year by US magazine Time. Since then, she has become financially sound and, according to 'Vermögen-Magazin', has a fortune of around 1 million euros. This clearly shows what is really behind climate activism and its demonstrations, namely that it is all about 'earning' money and not about improving climate protection.

As for climate activist Greta Thunberg, she is out of the picture because she shared a post on Instagram from a pro-Palestinian organisation that has in the past disseminated a statement that can be understood as a call to wipe out Israel. Swedish climate activist Greta Thunberg not only shared a post on Instagram from a pro-Palestinian organisation calling for a global strike against the 'genocide in Gaza'. She thus endorsed the content of the corresponding page and Instagram's story feature of 'Palestine Speaks'. The whole thing was addressed to 'all workers, students, pupils, all businesses and citizens worldwide', with the call criticising 'the state terror of many Western states is repressive' and is directed against all those who show solidarity with the human beings in the Palestinian territories. That is why Greta Thunberg is now practically a member of the climate activists 'Fridays for Future' and also an 'outlaw' in other respects.

Protocols of the Elders of Zion https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/The_Protocols_of_the_Elders_of_Zion

https://www.futureofmankind.co.uk/Billy_Meier/Contact_Report_280

Billy:

Since 1903, anti-Semitic neo-Nazi groups, organizations, individual fanatics and other anti-Jewish circles have officially been working around with the so-called 'Protocols of the Wise Men of Zion', which are ascribed to Jewish-Zionist circles or wise men. Since then they have given and continue to give rise to persecution and hatred of the Jews. But what really corresponds to the truth with regard to these 'protocols'? In a few words – as the Plejadier/Plejaren explain – it is a tremendous work of lies, an incredibly bad forgery or plagiarism, which originated from earlier novels, which were written after the middle of the 19th century. According to the Plejadisch-Plejarischen data the highest boss of the Russian secret service in Paris, Pyotr Ratschkowski, created from it in the years 1897/98 the final version of the slanderous work, which was published then for the first time in the year 1903 in Russia in the magazine 'Znamia' (The Banner) – with the lying claim that the 'protocol' is genuine. The actual dissemination of the protocol, however, did not take place until 1919, quite explosively as the work of Russian opponents of the 1917 revolution. The intention was undoubtedly to turn anti-Semitism into a weapon against Bolshevism by publishing the alleged protocols. In NSDAP Germany, the 'Protocols' were then adopted – brought here and introduced by a Ukrainian officer and fighter against the Russian Revolution, named Fjodr Winberg, living in exile in Germany.

The slanderous work is still in circulation today and continues to cause racist damage, claiming that the Jews created a secret world government and hoarded all the gold; the 'Wise Men of Zion' and the Jewish people are to blame for wars and political and economic crises, etc. Such slanderous allegations exist in many variations of 'protocols', which of course is a found food for anti-Semitic Nazi and other right-wing extremist racist circles. ...

Today, the anti-Semitic neo-Nazi and other racist and right-wing extremist circles are using all governments and high-ranking government figures as well as all banks and their bosses – first and foremost the Rothschilds and the business magnates, etc. – in the slanderous machinations of the 'Protocols' in order to stir up hatred especially against the Jewish world and its alleged world government.

During the Nazi era, the anti-Semitic inflammatory writing 'Protokolle der Weisen von Zion' (Protocols of the Wise Men of Zion) was spread by the Nazis with proclamations and cheers, not only in Germany, but also wherever Nazis were active in other countries. In Switzerland, these were the Fröntler who circulated the Lie Protocols when Adolf Hitler finally seized power in Germany in the spring of 1933. This led the Jewish organizations in Switzerland to take legal action against the defamatory protocols at the Bern District Court. The trial attracted worldwide attention, and it was made clear that the alleged protocols were a forgery or a work of lies. Unfortunately, a few years later, the verdict was trivialised and, so to speak, overturned again by the Supreme Court, which meant that the lies and slander against the Jews were once again outlawed.

The 'Protocols of the Wise Men of Zion' are nothing other than lies, deception and deception in truly international criminal form. They are a tremendously slanderous work of irresponsible, criminal anti-Semites; an evil work of genocide and insult to the people, with which Adolf Hitler and his henchmen also functioned and which contributed immensely to the fact that in Hitler's Nazi Empire millions of innocent Jews and also of people of other races and of other faiths – men, women and children – were tortured, tortured and handed over terrible deaths.

https://www.futureofmankind.co.uk/Billy_Meier/Contact_Report_445

Billy:

... Book works and writings such as the so-called 'Protocols of the Wise Men of Zion' are the worst slanderous works. They are invented conspiracies for the purpose of slandering, persecuting and destroying the people of the Jewish faith. Virtually all writings and books of this kind bear witness to a confused Nazi, political, extreme right-wing and religious fanaticism of the most degenerate kind, generally aimed at denigrating the Jewish faithful and fomenting hatred for Jews and the destruction of Israel. ...

The 'Protocols of the Wise Men of Zion' are based on a malicious forgery, which is the basis of modern anti-Semitism. This forgery circulates under various names, but the 'Protocols of the Elders of Zion' is the best known and most enduring document of modern international anti-Semitism. The term 'forgery' must be used with the utmost caution, however, because it is in no way appropriate for this case, because there is no genuine original, because, in the sense of the 'Protocols of the Elders of Zion', it was not a Jewish 'wise man' who produced such a document. But a forgery would be that a genuine document would have had to be fraudulently reproduced as closely as possible to the original in order to pass it off as genuine. With regard to the 'Protocols of the Elders of Zion', however, there has never been a real original that could have been copied, but it was from the very beginning a pure and smooth invention or a freely found fiction without any truth content. If we dispense with a few half- or incomprehensible allusions to French or Russian politics at the turn of the century, the protocol fiction lacks any reference to reality.

In fact, it should be possible to think that every reasonable and unprejudiced person should have noticed the absurd, frivolous and fantastic nature of the text of the 'Protocols of the Wise Men of Zion' from the very beginning, because the whole thing is extremely badly written and full of extremely tiring repetitions, with no recognizable and logical structure, except for a rough three-theme sequence in relation to liberalism. This is supposed to correspond to the intention of Judaism to seize world domination and create a utopian empire under an absolutist Jewish monarchy. Otherwise, the discourse is lost in contemporary historical jugglery and economic whims. The tiresome repetitions are to be seen purely from a psychological point of view, because through constant repetition man learns, or rather 'drops fill the glass', because through the endless repetitions the whole thing hammers itself in, whereby man – just like when learning through constant repetition – memorizes everything. In the case of the 'Protocols of the Wise Men of Zion', however, everything is hammered in by the tiring repetitions in such a way that it evokes thoughts of fear and feelings of anxiety and thus involuntarily the delusion of a Jewish conspiracy to dominate the world and mankind. ...

Ptaah:

12. Already at the 280th contact conversation on the 3rd of March 2000 and at the 445th of the 8th of March 2007, we talked about the falsified 'Protocols of the Wise Men of Zion', which are based on malicious lies and slander and have conjured up dramatic events.

13. Basically, this work of lies and slander, created at the beginning of the 20th century, can be traced back to the Russian secret service.

14. Lying and slanderous, this book claims that a secret world conspiracy has been uncovered, which originated with Judaism and had the aim of achieving world domination.

15. This is to be achieved through capitalism and with the help of Freemasons and communism.

16. These alleged 'Protocols of the Wise Men of Zion' were processed into a book that sold like hot cakes and was considered to be the undeniable truth, and is also still considered to be the real truth by all conspiracy believers today.

17. This did not and does not leave the believers in this forgery in any doubt, although shortly after the book was published it could be proven beyond doubt that it was a common forgery, intended to malign and discredit the entire Jewish world and to incite an inflammatory hunt against the widespread Jewish people.

18. The evidence was of no use, however, because after the book had been sold it was too late to be able to satisfy the truth about the forger's file, which was the false 'Protocols of the Wise Men of Zion'.

19. The whole thing was printed and sold en masse in the 20th century as a lying and slanderous smear book in large editions, and Germany in particular was literally flooded with it, and also became a basic work for Adolf Hitler and for the Nazis, whose anti-Jewish propaganda was based on this slanderous work.

20. Hitler, who himself was partly of Jewish descent, took the false 'Protocols' and used them to fulfil his lust for power, for his criminal work and to trigger the Second World War.

21. With the help of the falsified 'Protocols of the Wise Men of Zion' he incited himself and the German population against the Jews, finding particularly diligent supporters for his anti-Jewish propaganda among those who glorified him and with whom he was able to build up the Nazi system.

22. And it is a fact that Adolf Hitler's plans for world conquest, which were criminal to humanity, were only discovered through the wrong 'protocols', with the old Thule Society supporting him in his mania for war and world domination.

23. Only through this it was also possible, against false 'chroniclers' and false 'factual experts' in the matter of Adolf Hitler etc., that this fanatical and insane criminal of humanity could lead the world into the Second World War and the Holocaust.

24. But fanatics and lunatics in the matter of Jew-hatred existed and exist in many countries on Earth, whereby nowadays especially the neo-Nazis in Germany, Russia and the USA have to be mentioned.

25. But even before the Second World War, the USA made a big name for itself in terms of hatred of Jews as a result of the book of the 'Protocols of the Wise Men of Zion', whereby the automobile giant Henry Ford stood out in particular, who had malicious and hateful inflammatory writings against Judaism printed in huge editions and spread them everywhere. ...

32. Osama bin Laden regarded the false 'protocols' as the truth and built his anti-Semitic hatred on them, which he then extended to the USA and the Christian world as well.

40. Protocols of the Wise Men of Zion: The protocols pretend to be secret documents of Jewish world conspirators.

138. FALSE

https://www.futureofmankind.co.uk/Billy_Meier/Contact_Report_827

Billy:

What do you think about the fact that I have been asked several times by different persons what I know about the 'Protocols of the Wise Men of Zion'?

Of course I know them, but these are really absolute nonsense, which I explain again and again, but there is no peace because of it.

These alleged 'Protocols', which are still circulating in the world today, resp. under other names, and which fuel the hatred of Jews resp. anti-Semitism again and again, are so idiotic that a human being who really thinks for himself would have to recognise all the nonsense that is contained in these alleged 'Protocols'.

It is true that they are widespread and tenacious all over the world, but despite the fact that they are really moronic, there are many lunatics who believe in them and therefore indulge in an anti-Semitism that is completely unfounded.

...

Well, the 'Protocols of the Wise Men of Zion' are not a forgery, but absolutely invented bullshit and calculated hate-mongering.

If it were a 'forgery', then there would have to be an original, but this never existed and consequently does not exist.

...

And this is not the case with the 'Protocols of the Wise Men of Zion', for these do not correspond in any way to a forgery, but are based on a pure invention and hate-mongering without equal, which could not be more imbecilic and which truly does not have an original that could have been forged.

The Protocols of the Elders of Zion are truly devoid of any reference to an alleged original, let alone to reality and its truth, for the whole of the defamatory Judaism and their alleged aspirations to world domination etc. are nothing but malicious and hateful lies and a fraud of the highest order in the form of a vile and disgraceful invention and fiction which have no true background whatsoever.

If the believers are considered, especially the anti-Semitic believers of the polytheism of Christianity, but also the anti-Semitic fanatics of Islam, then the phoney fantastic and dubious of 'The Protocols of the Wise Men of Zion' is like petrol poured on the fire.

This is because these anti-Semitic fanatics are stupid and dumb and thus incapable of thinking for themselves, consequently they are unable to realise that everything is a lie and corresponds to nothing but a structureless nonsense.

...

Billy:

Although he was not even German, but Austrian, the Germans listened to this guy like well-behaved obedient dogs, as a result of which millions of Jews were murdered and around 60 million human beings perished in general.

Hitler, however, apparently grabbed the word from 'The Protocols of the Elders of Zion' and made use of it, namely:

"The people's awe of might.

Our firmly established might will hold the reins of government tightly in its hand and not run after party leaders and orators who proclaim unrealisable reveries with great verbosity.

It will guarantee complete peace and order, which is the whole happiness of human beings.

The people will fall on their knees before the radiant wreath of our might and look up to it in shy reverence.

true might does not avail itself of a single right, not even the divine; no one will dare to tread too close to it and curtail its fullness of power even by a hair's breadth."

Now, the fact that Adolf Hitler made use of this from 'The Protocols of the Wise Men of Zion', but contrary to this in his book 'Mein Kampf' – you can see it here, e.g. on these pages 211 and 212 – cursed and executed about the Jews, this contradicts itself and proves that this guy was not in his right mind.

Moreover, at the same time he indulged in the delusion that the Aryans were the founders of culture on this Earth, as he notes on page 321 "... true founders of culture on this Earth, the Aryans themselves".

Ptaah:

40. Adolf Hitler was very badly damaged in terms of consciousness, and that from birth.

Billy:

...

But actually I just wanted to know what you think about the fact that I keep being asked about 'The Protocols of the Wise Men of Zion'.

For my part, I do not think I am telling the questioners anything more than that everything is a lie, a fabrication and absolute nonsense.

In my opinion, it would be completely wrong for me to go into more detail.

Ptaah:

41. You are correct in doing so, because if you were to explain too much to the questioners, then the anti-Semitism that is still widely held would come up all over again.

42. Earth-humans have a tendency to form an opinion and from it a belief immediately after what is presented to them.

43. So if you were to say too much of what is written in the alleged protocols, which clearly all corresponds to what you called bullshit, then there would be a danger that this would create in certain human beings exactly what is to be avoided.

https://www.futureofmankind.co.uk/Billy_Meier/Contact_Report_876

Billy:

In its actual origin, the invented forgeries of the 'Protocols of the Wise Men of Zion' are the reason for all world conspiracies against the Jews. For Hitler – who, paradoxically, was himself of Jewish descent – these conspiracy theories were the reason for his insane hatred of the Jews. This was even more the reason why anti-Semitism flared up again in the Arab world when Hitler ignited the world war and spread the persecution and extermination of the Jews. According to the world-spread lies of the 'Protocols of the Wise Men of Zion', powerful Jews from all over the world are supposed to meet in a secret place and decide on world domination and also on how to subjugate earthly humanity and control the entire financial world, all media and the entire cultures of the peoples, thus practically establishing a dictatorship over all humanity. This is, of course, an anti-Semitic lie and unparalleled nonsense, because no such or similar meeting has ever taken place in the past, nor will one ever take place, and neither will Jewish world domination.

As far as such an idea is concerned, this was a brief attempt by a small anti-social Zionist movement at a fanatical-religious 'world domination' that was attempted but also failed miserably. The whole undignified and sleazy, anti-Semitic pamphlet of lies is nothing other than a conspiracy directed against the believers in the Jews, which was already organised in 1862 by a Jew-hating 11-member American group of drama artists and 'legal scholars', an effective Jew-hating group, who wrote a rude 'World Enlightenment Pamphlet' called 'Coming Jewish World Order'. However, this pamphlet was then shelved and therefore not discussed further after the then American President Abraham Lincoln was confronted with it by one of the 'legal scholars' – a friend of Lincoln's – with the request that the 'pack of Jews' should be expelled from America. However, as a believer in God, Lincoln did not agree to this and threatened to have the showmen and 'legal scholars' 'wiped out' if they spread their pamphlet, which his friend was anxious to have shelved. But that was not the end of it, because some of the showmen and 'legal scholars' of the Jew-haters were bent on revenge, so it was decided to get rid of President Lincoln, which was also put into practice three years later and he was shot. The hatefully cobbled together 'Coming Jewish World Order' was not taken up again until the 1880s, but it was not until the 1890s that it was reworked by other Jew-haters and the pamphlet was given the title 'The Protocols of the Elders of Zion'.

Pyramids of Giza / Great Pyramid

https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Giza_pyramid_complex

https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Great_Pyramid_of_Giza

https://www.futureofmankind.co.uk/Billy_Meier/Asket%27s_Explanations_%E2%80%93_Part_5

Asket:

1. You wonder about the age of the pyramid.
2. In truth its history is somewhat confused, because its origins lead back to very early times.
3. Were I to tell them to you now, their meaning and the history of its origin would lead much too far.
4. So I will only tell you the required data, according to which you can form a picture for yourself.
5. This, and also a few other pyramids on the Earth, was constructed when the constellation of Lyra (Lyre - Explanation of September 4th, 1975) was positioned in the sign of Cancer.
6. That results in a time span of 2 x 36,650 years and therefore 73,300 years in total.
7. You must calculate 2 x 36,650 years back from the time of the Hegira in order for you to obtain the correct figure.
8. Until shortly before the great deluge, about 9,545 B.C., the pyramids here in this land remained abandoned to their fate and nobody bothered anymore about them.
9. But they acquired a significance again 300 years before the deluge, even if not in their original sense, which unfortunately, for many kinds of reasons, may not be named.
10. But it still has to be explained that the erroneous assumptions, of all of the Earth scientists, about the time of the ark-deluge are just as very wrong - by umpteen thousands of years - as are the erroneous calculations, to which they have succumbed, about the times of various kings and emperors who lived thousands of years ago.
11. The actual time, which was handed down to you [Earthlings], of the deluge of the ark, is also greatly falsified, because it occurred nearly 100,000 years ago and therefore must be calculated to be very much earlier than the lifetime of King SAHLUK who had taken over an important role in regard to the pyramids.
12. King Sahluk lived about 300 years before the great deluge.
13. He had a son named SAURID, who in large measure had the ability to see into the future.
14. In this way, in a dream, he saw a great comet which pulled along seven smaller comets behind it, which collided with the Earth with terrible roaring sounds, whereby darkness came upon the world.
15. Saurid saw countless humans die because of that, because they were killed by the seven impacting comets.
16. The few survivors did not know where they could save themselves in order to escape a hail of projectiles from outer space - which accompanied the catastrophe - as well as the resulting stinking and hot bodies of water.
17. Saurid reported his bad dream to his father who summoned all the astrologers and scientists in the land.
18. By means of difficult work and written records they found out that, in the course of three hundred years, a gigantic comet would fall to Earth, throwing it out of its orbit and turning it in its course.

19. In order to keep from having the survival of terrestrial humanity put into question by this expected catastrophe, King Sahluk ordered that the already existing pyramids be prepared as protection stations and survival stations for the humans of the still distant future.
20. He also directed that underground villages and stores of goods be established and non-perishable food be stowed in the pyramids and underground villages.
21. His descendents, as well as the later rulers of the land, also were faithful to these directions.
22. Over the following three hundred years the pyramids were maintained and also their outer sides were covered with very thick layers of lime in order to keep the water out.
23. In the writing of that time they also fabricated signs in the layer of lime which told of the coming events so that they would not be forgotten by anybody.
24. When the gigantic comet actually came - which penetrated this universe and the solar system from another space-time configuration, and is still today named The Destroyer by many life-forms - the humans made their way to the pyramids and underground villages and shut themselves into them.
25. The comet turned the Earth, flooded it with all the bodies of water and destroyed and annihilated everything which was at its mercy.
26. Only a few masses of humans and animals of all kinds survived without the constructions for their protection and once again Earth humanity had to find a new start after this catastrophe, as had already repeatedly been the case in earlier times.
27. Originally the pyramids and their construction lead back to the sons of heaven - those who travel among the stars - those who were actually the original settlers of this world.

607. On the world NEBER the reason is that two different human races from two different galaxies had established research bases on the planet and lived there during many years and explored this world.

Semjase:

52. When the pyramids were built, the astronomers at that time were already calculating the further fate of the Earth.
53. According to the data derived from that the measurements of the pyramids were worked out.
54. The calculations revealed that many thousands of years in the future a catastrophe would once again threaten the Earth from the cosmos, like at the time of the construction of the pyramids.
55. For indicating the impending catastrophe to the Earth's inhabitants of later millennia, the obtained measurement data of astronomical nature of the distant future was therefore built into the pyramids.
56. That means that they were constructed according to the data and measurements, which will precisely then match with the astronomical data, when the catastrophe from space begins to loom anew.
57. Astronomy was very capable in those days, and thus calculated the dates very precisely.
58. They even observed several world crashes in their calculations and were able to calculate the dates with extremely accurate precision in that manner.
59. As precalculated the Earth did then actually crash and proved the science of those days, meanwhile long gone, to be right.
60. And now the time is slowly fulfilling, since the astronomical measurement data which, as explained, served and were decisive for the construction of the pyramids, are gradually corresponding with the astronomical values of the present time, and announcing the thus more than 70,000 years ago prophesied happening.

61. And that occurrence will precisely be then, when the sunlight of a far away star passes through the tube-like opening of the revelation, which stretches from outside the Giza pyramid to the centre, in a straight uninterrupted line and illuminates a particular point.

62. I am not allowed to explain more about it. ...

Billy:

... But now how about certain secrets, claimed to have grown up around the pyramids, and how had they been built, perhaps with machines?

Semjase:

67. There are no actual secrets to be mentioned, besides these of the existence of the Giza intelligences, as well as the issues around the measurement data in the context of the looming danger and the issue of the starlight which will shine at the given time through the opening of the revelation.

68. The pyramids were not built by telekinetic 'spiritual forces', as certain earthly fantasists claim, but through tried and tested techniques, as you however already know, so I need no more to tell about it.

Billy:

... A long time ago, I once asked you for the total number of all elements in the universe. At that time, you told me that you would not be allowed to give any information about that, unless the exact number would be found out by the human beings of the Earth themselves. Now, again to the question about the number of elements and whether there is a star in the universe, where all these elements are found together?

Semjase:

57. There is no such star, because that would be contrary to the laws of Creation.

Billy:

Ah, good. Is it right that the total number of elements is 280?

Semjase:

58. How did you come across this result?

Billy:

It was not me, my child, but Guido. For my part, I have only calculated that this number must, indeed, correspond to the correctness because it has been found that this number, multiplied in a sevenfold form with the original height of the Giza Pyramid, results in the current speed of light to the tenths place exactly.

Semjase:

59. You are simply unbelievable.

60. The number of the elements is just as correct as also your calculation with the sevenfold multiplying of the original pyramid height.

61. The end result actually yields the exact number of the present light constant.

Billy:

How Guido actually came across the number 280, that I do not know exactly. He only wrote me a calculation formula. It is important there, however, that the base number 280 is right, with which I could calculate further and do some checks. So I simply applied the pyramid height number to this 280 and then multiplied the result in a unique sevenfold form, from which then the result of the speed of light arose.

Semjase:

62. You should not make these results known too much yet, however.

Billy:

You mean that I should remain silent about it?

Semjase:

63. Sure, at least about the numerical values of the real original pyramid height.

64. Up to now, this is still unknown to the terrestrial scientists of certain fields of knowledge, and it would not be good if they would get to know these already now.

65. In two to three years, however, to make this number known will not play a large role anymore.

66. Until then, however, you should be careful.

Billy:

So far, those who deal with these things reckon with completely incorrect data regarding the pyramid height, resulting in false conclusions and new, incorrect results.

Semjase:

67. Sure, but all these things are much more widely branching than you might imagine at the moment.

68. The data of the pyramid extend into physics and into many other sciences.

69. And these data provide basic formulas for very specific calculations, which lead to tremendous inventions of all kinds and to enormous progress.

70. But if these inventions and progress would already be initiated now by revealing the true data, then the determined path of evolution would be disturbed, by which means an even very much greater catastrophe would be triggered on Earth by the human beings of Earth than what might be the case in the coming future.

71. The mentioning of the true data would lead to calculations and insights that would point the terrestrial sciences to ways and possibilities, of which they are not yet master and which could, therefore, only end in a hopeless catastrophe.

... But tell me, what is actually going on now with what you told me about the building of the pyramids, namely that human powers, respectively human muscle power, had accomplished the building of the pyramids. Years ago, I was told that telekinetic forces had been in play, by which means the large cubes should have been moved through the air by thought, respectively consciousness powers, which are and have always been mistakenly referred to as mental powers. But now, you have said something else. How does that reconcile itself?

Quetzal:

295. My recently given explanation is just as correct as that which you were given a few years ago.

296. Both recently as well as before, you only asked for a certain explanation, but not for one that should be complete.

297. So now, however, I will explain to you that both human muscle power, which accomplished most of the work, as well as telekinetic powers were used in the building of the pyramids.

298. The human muscle power was used by the human beings of the Earth, who worked on the building, while the telekinetic powers were used by the foreigners from the star systems Orion and Leo, and of these foreigners, however, only a few had powerful telekinetic powers, thus, only small works were settled in this manner.

Billy:

Then I once again have a question regarding the Egyptian pyramids, as I was also asked about them. Unfortunately, I no longer remember exactly what Ptaah, Semjase, and Asket explained to me, but somehow, I think it was said to me that the first pyramids were built around 73,300 years ago or so, but later dismantled again because they fell to decay, namely through rotting in the interior as well as through the weather. In particular, this refers to the Pyramids of Giza but also to many other pyramids all over the world. Afterwards, everything was rebuilt, which should have happened around 10,800 or 11,000 years ago. At this time, about 300 years before the Great Flood, a certain king Sahluk was the person of power, who ordered the dismantling and alteration of the Great Pyramid of Giza and allowed this to be carried out. But again, everything moldered over the course of the following millennia and fell to decay, so about 4,500 years ago, an enormous pyramid work resulted once more, as everything that was moldering and decaying was torn away, removed, and replaced; thus, accordingly, new stone blocks were cut and then dragged and set up by human power. At the same time, the main pyramid completely lost its internal structure and organisation, and it was built anew under the strict power of Cheops and completely revamped. Therefore, one can very well say that the current pyramid of Giza can actually also be called the Pyramid of Cheops, even though its actual origin traces back to other and partly Earth-foreign builders from the constellation of Orion, and indeed, to a time of two stellar ages ago, one of which is reckoned as around 36,650 years, and thus, in a 2-times form, yields a time of 73,300 years, whereby this time must be set before the Islamic Hegira, however. And when we speak of the Pyramid of Giza, we always speak of the pyramid that must be seen as the original pyramid, even if today, the new production is addressed, which is, of course, already about 4,500 years old and is exposed to rotting and decay, and which also no longer exhibits its original measure of 152.5 metres in height but only 146 or 148 metres. This great pyramid, together with the others, is aligned in its formatting to the constellation of Orion, while the Khafre structure, I mean the Sphinx structure, was aligned to the constellation of Leo. The new pyramid, as well as all the others and the Sphinx structure, were built in more recent times, so about 4,500 years ago, solely by Earth-humans, by their own personnel. The builders were early Egyptians, like also the largest part of the workers, who were free people and artisans to a certain part, while many others, who came in small numbers as slaves from other countries, had to perform their hard work, together with a small number of domestic slaves. That majority of the workers, however, was based on free Egyptians. For the purpose of the nourishment of all workforces, a veritable industrial food-city was built near the pyramid, and also mass campsites were provided for resting and sleeping, as well as tombs for the many deceased, who were at work there. That is how I remember it being explained to me by you. Now, is this right, or did I fall into a fallacy?

Quetzal:

41. Everything is of correctness; so therefore, no further explanation is necessary.

https://www.futureofmankind.co.uk/Billy_Meier/Contact_Report_228

Quetzal:

121. Beyond Pluto's orbit there are also two different belts of comets and wandering planets, many of which enter the inner solar system at regular, periodic and also sporadic intervals. ...

123. The first belt, a zone, is measured from the sun to more than 150,000 astronomical units away.

124. One astronomical unit corresponds to the average distance from the Sun to the Earth, i.e. 149,597,870 kilometres.

125. In earlier times, when the pyramids of Giza were built, this distance was 152.5 million kilometres; a figure that is also of enormous importance in relation to the calculation of the total universal 280 elements.

https://www.futureofmankind.co.uk/Billy_Meier/Contact_Report_246

Billy:

You once explained to me that in the entire universe their 280 elements existed – after Guido came across them through calculations. I then calculated that the original pyramid height of the pyramid of Giza was 152.955347 metres, which you confirmed to me. You also said that today's height of about 136.8 metres was due to the fact that the ancient Egyptians etc. had removed so much material from the pyramid that it had shrunk so much. Well, Earthly scientists claim that the great pyramid of Giza originally had a height of 146.6 metres, but according to my calculations and your statements this does not correspond to the truth. The original height was actually 152.955347 metres, which was renamed in kilometres and corresponds exactly to the distance earth-sun and thus to an AE, an astronomical unit. A fact, which contradicts the inaccurate distance indication of earth-sun by Earth-astronomic science. Interesting is now the further computation, which I made at that time, namely that from the exact pyramid height and/or from the exact distance earth sun and with the number of the total elements of 280 the today's and very exact speed of light can be calculated, if one consults the multiplication factor 7. The calculation then reads as follows: $280 \times 7 = 1960 \times 152.955347 = 299\,792.48012$ So the end result is today's speed of light, which is 299 thousand and 792.48012 kilometres per second. At that time I was not allowed to publish this calculation, nor the exact number of elements. The question is now whether these calculations made by me must still be subject to secrecy or whether one may speak openly about it now?

Ptaah:

122. There are no more reasons for further secrecy.

https://www.futureofmankind.co.uk/Billy_Meier/Contact_Report_256

Billy:

... I would like to ask you something about the pyramids, which cannot only be found in Egypt, but around the world. Asket told me during her time, that these were originally created under the direction of extraterrestrials. She explained at that time, 1956, that the pyramids were built two times 36,650 years ago and therefore thus 73,300 years ago. Since then, 40 years have passed, so the time of origin of the pyramids must have been 73,340 years ago. But it is precisely in this respect that our scientists claim something else, because they set the time of construction as much later, that is just a few millennia before the birth of Jmmanuel.

Ptaah:

21. I am aware of this misrepresentation and miscalculation.

22. If you calculate from the present time, the pyramids were indeed built about 73,340 years ago, and actually not just those in Egypt, but all around the Earth, which at that time had a distance to the Sun of 152.5 million kilometres.
23. The pyramids were covered with a dense layer of limestone and lime mortar in the exterior form and were therefore also higher than they are today.
24. So the great Cheops pyramid measured 152.5 metres in height at that time, which corresponds to one metre per 1 million kilometres of Earth-Sun distance.
25. But these exterior layers were removed again in the course of the millennia, as well as parts of the pyramids themselves, and specifically by weathering on the one hand, and by the human beings who used the material to construct other buildings, etc., on the other hand.
26. The purpose of the pyramids also underwent changes from time to time, and in the end, they were used as gravesites as well as otherwise also as cultic temples.
27. Originally, the pyramid buildings, as well as the subterranean rooms that were often connected with them, were built under the direction of human beings who were of extraterrestrial origin and who at that time came from the regions of the constellation Orion, which is why the Egyptian pyramids were also formation-wise constructed as image of this constellation, while the Sphinx structure was aligned to the constellation Leo.
28. The found hieroglyphs and the use of the pyramid chambers as gravesites, etc., traces back to the more recent times before Jmmanuel, and specifically from around two thousand years ago to the past of slightly more than thirteen thousand years.
29. The subterranean chambers, which were part of all pyramids, reached considerable proportions and created subsurface villages of various sizes, which were used by the human beings to get themselves to safety in the face of dangers looming from Earth or outer space.

https://www.futureofmankind.co.uk/Billy_Meier/Contact_Report_319

Billy:

... Recently, I was working on an old contact report and I came across the pyramids, in terms of how they were made, the how. On the one hand there was talk about human muscle power and on the other hand there was talk about telekinetic powers playing a role

Ptaah:

11. Both are correct, but we actually gave you an enlightening answer about that at earlier times.
12. On the one hand about 200,000 human beings were involved in the construction work with their physical strength and efforts, but on the other hand there were also a few extraterrestrial humans from the constellations of Orion and Leo who had telekinetic powers and used them to a small extent in the construction of the pyramids.
13. However, this telekinetic involvement of the extraterrestrials was really only small, even if it is emphasized, but this is only for the reason that it was based on consciousness and not on muscle power.
14. The human beings who had to do the hardest physical work at the pyramid constructions were often prisoners and slaves, and many thousands died of complete exhaustion during the hard work.
15. However, the miserably deceased were replaced again and again by new prisoners and new slaves as well as by other laborers who had been brought in.
16. In total, 40,738 human beings died during the construction of the pyramids and in the partly underground quarries where the large stone blocks were chiselled out.

https://www.futureofmankind.co.uk/Billy_Meier/Contact_Report_413

Ptaah:

16. This is also interesting, but with time more things will surely be found in connection with the pyramid construction.

17. However, the finds will only move in more recent times, when the pyramids were partially renewed.

18. For the likewise large construction periods before, which took place about 12,000 and also about 70,000 years ago, no more evidence will be found.

https://www.futureofmankind.co.uk/Billy_Meier/Contact_Report_625

Ptaah:

84. Khafre resp. Chaefchufu or Chefren is the Greek name for Chafre or Chaefre, which means "Chaefre is big".

85. He was the fourth pharaoh of the 4th Dynasty in the Old Kingdom of Egypt.

86. Pharaoh Chephren was the half-brother of his predecessor Radjedef and the half-brother of Kawab, and he was buried in Giza, as was his father Pharaoh Cheops, who was actually called Chufu.

87. His reign lasted from 2567 to 2534 before Jmmanuel resp. before the Christian calendar.

88. He was also the originator and responsible for the construction of the temple and 12 statues, which showed the hours of daytime by sunlight.

89. In addition, he was also the originator and responsible for the construction of the second and second highest pyramid in Giza, as well as for numerous outstanding statues in the vicinity of the Sphinx, some of which have been preserved to this day.

90. With regard to the construction of the Giza pyramids, however, it should be noted that the first pyramids were built around 73,300 years ago, but were later demolished again, because they had deteriorated more and more due to the weather and the climatic influences.

91. 10,800 years ago they were then rebuilt, which was due to the initiative of a king resp. pharaoh Sahluk, who ordered the dismantling and modification of the Great Pyramid of Giza.

92. Once again the pyramids fell to decay, because the weather conditions and the depletion of the pyramidal material had become so rampant in the course of the next millennia that about 4500 years ago, when Cheops and Chephren dealt with the construction of the new pyramids, a complete rebuilding was necessary.

93. Everything had to be torn away, reassembled and thus rebuilt, whereby the large stone slabs were also carved out of the hard underground around the Sphinx and used to build the temple, the statues and the pyramid.

94. So new square stone blocks were cut and used to build the temple and the Pyramid of Khafre.

95. The Cheops Pyramid was, of course, created under the direction of Pharaoh Cheops, who had it completely rebuilt and remodeled, while 73,300 years ago it was traced back to partially non-terrestrial builders, when non-terrestrials from the constellation of Orion were present in ancient Egypt, participated in the construction of the first pyramids and set themselves up as gods.

96. The great pyramid was together with the others already in the early days and then also for the last recreation aligned on the Orion constellation, but the Sphinx according to the guidelines of Chephren on the Leo constellation.

97. 4,500 years ago, the pyramids and the Sphinx were built solely by human beings of the Earth, whereas in the first construction 73,300 years ago, non-terrestrials were also involved, partly using telekinetic powers.

Billy:

Yes, you already told me this in the 1980s, as well as that the actual Egyptians, who built the pyramids 4,500 years ago, were mostly free human beings and craftsmen, while only a small part of them had to work as slaves. The food for all the workers, who comprised a small army, was, so to speak, provided by a food-city not far from the pyramid, as well as facilities with dormitories were given for the workers.

Ptaah:

98. Yes, that had been so.

https://www.futureofmankind.co.uk/Billy_Meier/Contact_Report_710

Billy:

Now, in another large city than the one in the great valley of the Nile tributary, I could observe other 'long-headed' as well as 'normal-headed' people who were the actual rulers of the land of 'Kemet', to which Sfath explained to me that their early ancestors had been coming to Earth for millennia, probably for more than 75,000 years, when they also built the first great pyramids, which were then repeatedly dismantled and rebuilt in the course of time, which I could observe for myself through another journey into the past with Sfath. The last time this happened was around 5,000 years ago, but before that it was also 6,000 years ago and more than 12,500 years ago. This also happened with the peoples in South America and Asia, where the 'long-skulled', the Earth-foreigners and the other Earth-foreigners, who were physically 'Earth-foreign', 'normal-skulled' or small and 'big-headed' and 'big-eyed', but also giants, as for example in South America, were also involved and had a culturally completely different influence on the Earth-peoples on all continents. As a result, different buildings, villages, cities, cult objects and pyramids as well as sites with large menhirs were also created all over the world, such as Stonehenge in England, near Avesbury in Wiltshire, about 13 kilometres north of Salisbury, and in Armenia the Stonehenge or megalithic fields in Zorakarer, near the mighty mountain ranges of the Caucasus, whereby the techniques of the Earth-foreigners were used in transporting and erecting the megaliths, which weighed many tonnes. ...

Under the direction of the 'long-skulled', villages, cities and pyramids were also built in early Egypt, as were also a few areas in Europe, where there were still huge forests at that time, although the northern regions of the Earth were for the 'long-skulled' and the other Earth-foreigners, such as the small 'big-headed' and 'big-eyed' as well as for the 'normal-headed', because, on the one hand, they preferred warmer climates and were therefore dependent on fertile land in warmer areas, as well as on many human beings whose help they needed as labourers and whom they could also dominate and rule. ...

Billy:

... The huge area of Huetap alone and the great city of the same name, Huetap, which existed 3,500 years ago in what is now Honduras, was monstrous as far as I was concerned, whereby the long-skulled also worked there and had a pyramid built, just as the long-skulled did in Egypt, in the Balkans and in Asia, and so on. ...

https://www.futureofmankind.co.uk/Billy_Meier/Contact_Report_829

Billy:

So, I think I may now speak openly and say that beings from the depths of the space of this universe visited the Earth before there were Earthlings.

Since then, however, their descendants have come here again and again, creating many things for the human beings of the Earth in the last 390,000 years or so, which were often only achieved with hovering techniques.

Especially what concerned the moving, setting up and stacking of building elements weighing tons – such as 10, 20, 30, 50 tons or even heavier elements – was done by technology that made it possible to levitate the materials.

In very few cases, something was also moved telekinetically, but this was a real rarity.

The processing of the heavy elements was usually done by machine, if one may say so to what was just used.

The machining was done such that the elements were so accurate to the hundredth or even thousandth of a millimetre that everything fitted together in such a manner that practically not even a hair could be pushed in between. This is precisely something that the 'clever' earthlings of today, who deal with these things of the past in big words and 'knowing', cannot understand how everything really came about in this respect.

Their wild fantasies of how it was and how it all came about are truly hilariously daft.

Well, when the earthlings at a much later time – as a result of traditions, etc. – worked, hewed and chiselled stones, that was primitive again.

But the fact is that the earthlings at that time did not have heavy machinery with which they could have done everything, and especially not with human power, as many archaeologists etc. imaginatively spout about and think up the most impossible constructions with which the human beings of earlier civilisations are supposed to have made the impossible possible and managed it.

Also, with guidance and assistance, entire cities were built all over the Earth, some of which, however, sank in the seas or in large lakes in later times as a result of natural phenomena, were overgrown by primeval forests or others were covered by sand drifts.

https://www.futureofmankind.co.uk/Billy_Meier/Contact_Report_832

Billy:

Now, also the thousands of languages of Earth-humans, as well as the gods and their worship, and the religions and faiths arising from them, as well as the technologies by which many things were erected in ancient times which would have been impossible by human beings' powers, were therefore not created by Earth-humans alone, but by the knowledge and the energy and the capabilities which were from outside the Earth.

Ptaah:

24. But you should mention that we Plejaren and our very distant ancestors, who first came to Earth already 25 million years ago, were in no manner involved in these developments, just as we also never had anything to do with the foreigners, so they still today and never in the future will be able to contact us or fathom our presence.

https://www.futureofmankind.co.uk/Billy_Meier/Contact_Report_836

Billy:

Therefore he/she {“the earthling, the human being”} also does not know that actually the all-embracing being depends on swinging waves, as also on sounds resulting from them. The sun, as the authoritative celestial body of the system, orders the distance of planets away from it in its system area by means of swinging waves and sounds. Something that is obviously not yet known to the 'great' science of astronomy, because at least I have never heard of it. But it is the case, as I learned from Sfath and was able to sense and hear through his apparatus, that every system satellite actually orbits around the sun with a very specific swinging wave resp. vibration. This swinging wave also corresponds to a very specific wavelength as well as an impulse, which in turn produces a special sound. I could perceive resp. feel and hear all this through Sfath's equipment. And such swinging waves and sounds were also known and useful to the far-away travellers, who also used them in early times on Earth and produced monumental works with them. They were even able to move the heaviest things through the air with it, which I mentioned years ago when I mentioned something about the building of pyramids in Egypt. At that time I simply used the term 'telekinesis' to explain it, because it is possible through the powers of thought, which it actually was, but in this respect it was used to handle everything in the manner that certain swinging waves were used in connection with sounds. So basically I said at that time what is really true, but I did not explain that it was not a matter of mental teleportation in the actual sense, in order to 'transport' the heavy cuboid blocks for the building of the pyramids, but precisely through a teleportation that was based on swinging waves and sounds, in other words in a natural manner. If natural energy and power were used at that time to lift and levitate, then it was done in a different manner than through the actual application of thought power. And this was actually used at that time and even earlier for 'transport' by those who had travelled far and wide, also for the precise production of the huge cuboid blocks, which today could not be moved even with huge machines and could not be produced so skilfully with all modern tools.

Quetzal:

... Our ancestors were never involved in bringing any religions to Earth, just as no buildings etc. were created by them, as the earlier foreigners did on the other hand and elevated themselves above Earth's humanity.

https://www.futureofmankind.co.uk/Billy_Meier/Contact_Report_864

Billy:

... Perhaps they {Earth foreigners} know, however, that the pyramids are many thousands of years older than Earthlings claim, but that is not really important. The fact that they were built in a different way than, for example, elsewhere whole villages and cities were built with correct bricks – which are still produced and used today – as they were 12,000 years ago and so on, that is a peculiarity, as is also the case with the giant stones, which not only weighed many tonnes and some of which weighed well over 1,200 tonnes and were cut to size with such millimetre precision, that not even a hair could be poked between them when they were put together. This should actually give the archaeologists pause for thought, but it doesn't, because unfortunately they don't want to know the truth, but indulge in fantasies. ...

https://www.futureofmankind.co.uk/Billy_Meier/Contact_Report_879

Billy:

... If he now refers to the pyramids of Giza and their age, then the archaeologists' claim that they are only a few millennia old cannot be challenged, although their actual origin dates back to around 70,000 years ago, but were only 'renovated' a few thousand years ago. ...

https://www.futureofmankind.co.uk/Billy_Meier/Contact_Report_880

Billy:

... But the letter from Mrs ... goes even further, and she asks whether I know how high the Great Pyramid of Giza actually was. I have to say that if I remember correctly what Sfath said, the original height of the pyramid was 149 metres and about 50 or 70 centimetres or around 150 metres high. That was correct – was it not? That is what Sfath told me, so now I also told her.

Ptaah:

That is probably true, which I cannot judge for sure.

Pythagoras

https://www.futureofmankind.co.uk/Billy_Meier/Contact_Report_269

Billy:

The Greek philosopher Pythagoras, born in Samos around 570 B.C., probably died in Metapont around 500 B.C., founded in Kroton in Northern Italy, as I wrote there, a union with religious, scientific, political and ethical aims. This was the Pythagorean alliance. From Pythagoras comes the teaching that the essence of reality is the number, as well as the teaching of the so-called transmigration of souls. Mathematics, astronomy and acoustics owe important insights to the Pythagoreans. Pythagoreans were especially Eurytos, Archytas of Taranto, Hippasos of Metapont, Ekphantos and Hiketas. – The long explanation short question now is whether you know whether Pythagoras was a pure earth-born or an immigrant from the depths of the world space, by which of course I do not mean Pythagoras as a person, but his spiritual form?

Ptaah:

61. His spirit-form was of extraterrestrial origin and came from the Henok lineage, from the lineage of the ancient Lyrians.

https://www.futureofmankind.co.uk/Billy_Meier/Contact_Report_836

Billy:

However, 2600 years ago Pythagoras again recognised the value of sounds, but not in the sense of what is actually behind them, but today some clever scientists may be thinking about it.

https://www.futureofmankind.co.uk/Billy_Meier/Contact_Report_847

Billy:

... Sfath said that I should not speak openly about this when we were together at Pythagoras' and he told him these things at that time, taking the promise that the latter must not speak about it. Pythagoras was pissed off religiously – I remember that very well – which I did not think was good about him at the time. Later, Sfath thought so too, and also said that the man had been indoctrinated with this faith by his parents and his dealings with his acquaintances.

Nevertheless, Sfath explained many things to him, whereby I remember that he also told him – as he also told other 'greats' during our trips to the past – that all the planets in the solar system had their own music, to which he explained to me that he meant frequency. But that, he said, was not understood by the Earthlings at that time, which is why he said 'music'. ...

388. But now, continue to listen, because there is still a third event that will follow these two that were mentioned, but this will happen in England.

389. This event will be a sign of the fact that the prophecies of Petale, which you have written down concerning England, will begin to fulfil themselves in the first phases.

Billy:

Then it probably just concerns the assassination attempt on the Queen, which you mentioned to me once as that sign of the times which should be the basic beginning of the beginnings of fulfilment of the prophecies.

Semjase:

390. Your memory is as good as ever.

391. Yes, only a short time after the devastating earthquake in Iran, the Queen of England will be attacked by a not-yet-20-year-old adolescent {Christopher John Lewis}, but the queen will not receive any injuries and will escape with fright.

392. This is because the firearm of the youth will only be loaded with deceptive ammunition.

Billy:

Do you mean that the assassination weapon will only contain blank bullets?

Semjase:

393. Sure.

Billy:

I do not understand that.

... The question was asked, who was Quetzalcoatl? And is Quetzal identical to him?

Semjase:

181. I can answer the second question by "no", nor do any of Quetzal's forefathers belong to Quetzalcoatl.

182. Quetzalcoatl had been, in Earth terms, a very high officer or a high supervisor of an extraterrestrial group, which was active in the region you today call Egypt.

183. But he was very knowledgeable and wise, and thus was often assigned special missions, of which one brought him to South America, where he became venerated as a god by the Aztecs.

184. Since he owned a small ship this impression of the Aztec people was strengthened, but this was not his intention.

185. When he first met together with another commissioner, a certain Huitzilopochtli, he changed his conduct.

186. Huitzilopochtli was one of the leading Giza Intelligences, and he exercised a bloody sacrifice-based rulership over the Aztecs.

187. He was insatiable in this respect, and demanded human blood as sacrifice, while Quetzalcoatl was against such.

188. Thus an evil enmity rose between them, and each of them sought to gain leadership over the peoples.

189. By wicked deceit and deceptive machinations Huitzilopochtli succeeded in expelling Quetzalcoatl, in consequence of which he fled and returned to Egypt.

... I was digging around in the past with your father, for example in Teotihuacán, where human sacrifices were common.

There they mainly massacred and beheaded captured foreign human beings, but also local people.

First they had to work hard, often in tunnel construction etc., then their heads were chopped off or they were buried alive.

All this took place in honour of the 'Feathered Serpent' resp. the serpent god Quetzalcoatl, who was the creator god of the wind, the sky and the Earth, and he was also the ocean, and the largest pyramid ever seen in the world was built in his honour.

Railway Crossings

https://www.futureofmankind.co.uk/Billy_Meier/Contact_Report_150

Quetzal:

351. As an exception, I would like to talk about an event that is not of great importance to mention in and of itself, because too many such events are constantly occurring and cannot be stopped, because those responsible for them are not responsive to corresponding preventive measures, because their greed for money and irresponsibility is more pronounced and predominant than responsibility and the safety of their fellow human beings.

352. On the other hand, I would like to mention this event because it will take place where a core group member lives, so in Pfäffikon, where Hanna resides.

353. It will be the 12th of September 1982, exactly at 14:57 hrs, when a large passenger transportation vehicle from Germany with about 40 passengers from a seniors' association from Sindelfingen is hit by a train coming into Pfäffikon from Fehraltorf because the safety barriers have not been closed, and is torn to shreds like a rotten wooden box.

354. The sad result of this accident will be around 39 deaths, which are to be blamed on those responsible, money-grubbing and oblivious people who are responsible for railway road crossings.

355. But also responsible for this are all those who, as construction companies, accept and carry out contracts to create such railway-road crossings.

356. But also responsible for this are all those workers who are involved in the execution and construction of such projects, and also responsible for this are the architects who plan such railway-road crossings.

357. But also responsible are the engineers, planners, organisers and, first and foremost, those who, as those responsible for the railways, commission such life-threatening crossings for planning and execution.

358. For several decades now, and quite particularly at the present highly technical time, such railway road crossings in all forms and on all roads and paths have represented an unparalleled irresponsibility and a criminal machination, the likes of which cannot be found on Earth, if everything except warlike and similar acts are taken into consideration.

359. What those responsible for the railways and those in power do in this respect, and not only in Switzerland, corresponds to legalised murder, for which all those must be held responsible who have lifted or are lifting even one finger for such crossings, or who have put or are putting even one thought into power for them.

360. Already for decades, such crossings in small and large-scale should no longer exist, but ought to have been safeguarded by underpasses, by which no street or road would lead across a railroad track.

361. That this has not already been so for a long time, for this, no excuse can find validation.

Grigori Rasputin murder

https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Grigori_Rasputin

https://www.futureofmankind.co.uk/Billy_Meier/Contact_Report_487

Billy:

Rasputin did not lead a dissolute life as is attributed to him. This story is malicious slander, however it is true that his murder could barely have be surpassed in terms of its brutality when, in 1916, he was murdered with a .455 Webley pistol by a British agent by the name of Oswald Rayner. Although he was married and had a family, Rasputin was an itinerant monk, that is to say, an itinerant preacher, who, through suggestive influence, carried out "miraculous healings" which were truly self-healings of the sick. Thereby he also reached the court of the Tsars, where he had much influence as a friend to the Tsar's family, especially because, through a "miracle healing", he had saved the Tsar's son from death. That did not please many sectors of the Russian nobility, for which reason they became Rasputin's sworn enemies, sought to take his life and named him "Holy Devil". On the 17th of December, 1916, he was then actually also kidnapped and murdered whereby his murderer was, however, the aforementioned British agent who acted in the commission of the nobles and England. The reason for the murder was Rasputin's political objectives, which endangered the victory of Great Britain in the First World War, which raged at that time. But the murder of Rasputin still had other reasons, because, through the nefarious deed, the already long-planned Russian revolution could also gain ground and be carried out and the Tsar's family could be captured and murdered. Rasputin was the most important adviser to the court of the Russian Tsar's family. As already explained, he was kidnapped on the 17th of December, 1916, whereby the main role was played by a conspirator by the name of Felix Yusopov, who had a friendly relationship with the British agent, Oswald Rayner. Rasputin was dragged into a palace cellar in St. Petersburg, where he was tortured and also poisoned, whereby he was, however, able to counteract the poison, and therefore it did not have the desired effect and he survived the poison attack and was able to flee. But he did not get far because a revolver was taken and he was shot two times in the back from behind, which he, however, also survived. So the murderer took his weapon again and shot Rasputin in the forehead. Rasputin then died immediately. Therefore, he was first seriously injured by the British agent Oswald Rayner with several shots which, however, Rasputin survived because he simply did not want to die. Only the shot in the forehead really killed him. Consequently, therefore, in this way, a professional execution ultimately occurred. After that, the giant of a man was bound up by the noble conspirators and dragged to the icy Neva River, where they threw him in the icy water. Naturally, the assassins were quickly found, yet the Tsar stopped the police investigation. The conspirators asserted that they had murdered Rasputin because he had exercised too great an influence on the family of the Tsar. These statements from the assassins were, however, not the actual reason why the Tsar did not intervene in the matter of the murder and its investigation, rather it was the fact that it was not a Russian but a foreigner – the British agent, Oswald Rayner, to be exact – who was Rasputin's real murderer. The true reason for the murder was that Rasputin – peace-loving as he was – was active in pressing for an armistice, in order to thereby end the state of war between Russia and Germany and in order, additionally, to also avoid a defeat. And his chances of implementing his desire were, in this regard, very good, because the Tsar – due to Rasputin's enormous influence on the Tsar's family – was willing to bend to Rasputin's wishes and to declare an armistice. But the British, who saw their plans and the victory in the First World War endangered by Rasputin's peaceful political aims, did not like that. Consequently, they introduced into the plan, as murderer, an agent, who worked hand in hand with the conspirators, and whose murder plan fitted theirs exactly, because the nobility were also not keen on an armistice. Had this come about then the entire history of the world would have changed, because, namely, an end to the war with Russia would have enabled

Germany to transfer an army of 350,000 soldiers to the Western Front. It would have thereby been possible for the German Kaiser to position his armies against the armies of France, Great Britain and the USA and to overcome them and to be victorious. So, Rasputin's murderer, with his licence to kill, committed a cold-blooded murder in the commission of the British Crown, so that, in the First World War, the Allies could obtain victory over the German Empire.

https://www.futureofmankind.co.uk/Billy_Meier/Contact_Report_704

Billy:

5) Grigory Yefimovich Rasputin was a herbalist and in this form a healer, but also an itinerant preacher, who was wrongly called an itinerant preacher, which has survived to the present day. As a herbalist who was disregarded by the medical profession and the population of the time, Rasputin was summoned to the Tsar's court in the hope of stopping the bleeding of the Tsar's son and Tsarevich Alexei, who was suffering from haemophilia, by means of herbal mixtures, which, however, was falsely and misleadingly described by so-called contemporary witnesses as 'prayers', because in his treatment he taught the young Tsarevich Alexei the form of self-mastery and self-influence, through the self-prayer form of self-address:

1) Through the power of my consciousness, I alone, with my mind and with my reason, exercise omnipotence over my knowledge, truth, ability, love and truthfulness.

2) My might alone spreads within me, but no other, if I am always aware of my own thoughts and feelings and unfold and use my knowledge, my wisdom and my ability and thus lead everything to true love, freedom, harmony and peace within me.

3) The power of my consciousness is a determination for me, so I use it for my own good for my thoughts and feelings and psyche as well as for my body.

4) Daily I unfold and use my power of consciousness, so that it constantly works in me and lets me meet my ignorance, whereby I nourish my knowledge and wisdom with love, compassion as well as with understanding and reason.

5) Through the power of my consciousness I recognise my own mistakes and correct them, and avoid committing new ones, so that none can hinder me in my development and progress.

6) The power of my consciousness lets me recognise false teachings, wrong ways of thinking and all dangers of faith addiction as well as of harmful material and worldly things and avoid them.

7) Through my power of consciousness I am powerful even of my mind and reason, and through the omnipotence of my consciousness I am always aware of my power, ability, peace and knowledge, as well as my wisdom, love and harmony, and I control everything.

It was a fact that the successful work of Rasputin – whose task it was to instruct the people through his work as a herbalist, healer and herald – with the young Tsarevich Alexei was also confirmed by contemporary witnesses – as also confirmed by doctors and critics, among others – that Rasputin had an extraordinarily great influence on the Tsarevich at that time and that he also had an inexplicable positive effect on his life-threatening haemorrhages.

Ronald Reagan

https://www.futureofmankind.co.uk/Billy_Meier/Contact_Report_136

Semjase:

147. So I will likewise tell of the next upcoming events, which will become well-known worldwide when they fulfil themselves.

148. The first concerns the ballot for the new American president.

149. It will be expressed worldwide that the lesser of two evils must be chosen; therefore, the current President Carter will not hold his position any longer.

150. For this reason, the next great man of the United States of America will be President Ronald Reagan.

151. A man who will cause everything to align through his upcoming actions, allowing the old prophecies to be fulfilled, from which it will slowly yet surely result that everything will begin to expand on the Earth for the preparation of a worldwide war.

152. The new president will be aggressive and eager to solve all problems through the use of military force and new armaments.

153. This in contrast to his predecessor, who is likewise unsuitable, however, in his present position, as the new president will also be, who already exhibits some radical and extreme characteristics.

154. Contrary to the erroneous opinion of the U.S. and the worldwide population, Reagan does not represent the lesser evil but rather the larger, as the Earth-humans will find out.

...

Semjase:

229. Then follows the first major political impact of the U.S. President Reagan, who will flip the world on its head with terroristic measures.

230. The first of his great acts will already become known at the end of the month of January 1981 and at the beginning of the month of February 1981, which is that he will reach out to murderous dictatorships and regimes of small countries and clear the way for them for the enslavement, oppression, and murder of their populations.

231. The military aid, which he will award to these countries, will produce very weighty and negative consequences.

232. Even with Russia, the new president will be speaking quarreling and angry words, which will bring the Russian government up in arms.

233. But this senselessness of the American president will not yet be enough because such actions only mean the beginning of his evil reign, during which he will destroy much hope for peace which had been laboriously developed a great deal since the end of the Second World War.

234. Thus, as the next blow of terror to Earth humanity, Reagan will bring the neutron bomb that was secured by the preceding President Carter into play, as he will want to let this weapon of terror be stationed in Europe.

235. This will have the consequence that Russia will advance its secret upgrades even more and will then bring an even more terrible weapon into play.

236. Reagan will provoke a lot of evil not only for the whole world but also for the people of the American States.

237. One of these evils is that he will undermine the security of the consumers of national goods.

238. A large consumer safety group will be attacked by Reagan, whereby the security of the consumers in America will soon begin to suffer, which will have as a consequence that the death rates caused by accidents will rise again because by Reagan's machinations, the security of the consumer goods in its structure, etc., will be neglected.

Billy:

You told me years ago that Reagan will be the actual author of the hitherto largest world arms race.

Semjase:

239. Sure, he will be the man who will initiate the basic things that can then possibly lead to a Third World War in the distant future.

Billy:

That will, however, not be carried out under the scepter of Reagan, or will it?

Semjase:

240. No, and this represents good fortune for Earth humanity.

241. If he were to be the decisive word in such a war, then the entire Earth would be destroyed.

Billy:

Which would probably correspond to an atomisation?

Semjase:

242. Yes.

...

243. That will be the case, and his very inglorious end is already certain, as also that of the murderous Ayatollah Khomeini, whose end begins to be at hand in the first days of February 1981, when he is struck with an illness that he cannot be healed from, which will also happen to Reagan in a later time when he is struck by Alzheimer's disease and will have a tragic end.

...

Billy:

... But can you explain to me why you said that the tragic end of the American president is already certain through the incurable Alzheimer's disease?

Semjase:

272. I will tell you details about that later.

273. For now, I would like to address your question only so far that I tell you that this man's life is very endangered and that already shortly after his assumption of office, enigmatic enemies will be deployed who will want to assassinate him.

...

Billy:

... I have, indeed, been thinking about this man. I discovered in my calculations that what you said 10 minutes ago must still arrive before mid-1981, which is that the new U.S. president is to be killed.

Semjase:

298. Sure, that is correct.

299. The date and time of this incident are already certain and unavoidable ...

308. It will be on the 30th of March at the time of 21:45 hrs, in front of the Hilton Hotel in the city of his speech, where the president will be shot down by a student named John Hinckley.

309. Ronald Reagan will suffer a shot to the wall of his lung; however, he will be healed surgically.

310. His injury will not bring direct mortal danger for him, while some of his companions, however, will be brought into direct mortal danger, including a security officer and Reagan's press spokesman, among other ones.

Billy:

Aha, and what time do you mean with 21:45 hrs? Is this according to American time or our time?

Semjase:

311. The time corresponds to Central European time, and to be sure, the statement applies to the amended time {daylight-savings time}.

...

315. Should I now tell you more?

Billy:

Of course, because I still do not understand some things. You said, nevertheless, that Reagan, shortly after his assumption of office, will encounter profound enemies who will make themselves available against him in order to assassinate him. But now, you said that he will only be shot down by a single man, a student. Therefore, the danger for the president has not yet passed, and above all, it is also not clear to me as to whether or not he will still die after the surgery on his injury. You did not express yourself over this clearly because you only mentioned the fact that the shot wound would not be directly fatal.

Semjase:

316. As always, you are very keen.

317. I actually only spoke of the direct shot wound, which the American President Ronald Reagan will have to suffer, who can be healed again, however, by a surgical intervention lasting several hours.

320. Still, during his recovery time, the security bodies will discover that the assassin was, indeed, an outsider, but one who maintains contacts with other elements that are determined to kill the president.

321. In this connection, the arrests of certain suspects will then be made, which will not help the security bodies, however.

322. For this reason, the man will be further endangered because other elements will still stand against him before his election to the presidency and will be concerned with the thought of killing him, which is why he runs the risk of falling victim to another assassination attempt.

Billy:

Then the possibility still exists that he will still be killed and depart from this life?

Semjase:

323. This danger is quite great, but after the assassination attempt, security precautions will be so drastically tightened that he will escape the danger.

324. However, I want to explain to you the most important data about this at a later time.

325. For now, it is such that this President Reagan will be the empowered one who will bring the doubtful world peace that will only be laboriously preserved until then into wavering, for as a power-hungry person, he has been of the crazy acceptance for a long time that he can solve all problems through force, intrigues, and compulsion.

326. Already for a long time, he has lived with this delusional idea that America must become the most powerful, all-controlling, as well as worldwide military power; thus, after his assumption of office, he will try to realise this crazy notion, whereby he will use every harmful means available to realise his erroneous plans.

Billy:

You said during a previous explanation that Reagan could virtually be a sign of a possibly coming downfall.

Semjase:

327. Sure, because he will be that empowered one who brings the laboriously preserved and very doubtful world peace into wavering, for which several of his predecessors strove.

328. Thus, he is a bad sign for the beginning of the following armaments that will occur over the entire Earth, by which a Third World War can then be struck during any later period in the third millennium.

329. In accordance with his crazy actions, everything in the world will line up very quickly even more toward terror and anarchism, for misguided ones believe to recognise, in his hunger for power and in his tyranny, a means by which they could reach their confused and unrealistic goals.

377. The cardinal's death will take place around the same time when President Reagan's assassin will make a failing suicide attempt with medicines.

{Note: Newspaper accounts indicate Hinckley's first suicide attempt in 1981 was an attempt to hang himself. His second suicide attempt in 1983 was by overdose.}

118. Unfortunately, in the false humanitarianism of the Western world, unjustified sides are also taken for Poland, whereby especially the Polish army leadership and the leadership of the USSR are once more being illegally sanctioned another time.

119. The sense of true humanity has unfortunately long since been lost among Earth-humans, which is why here, too, a completely wrong policy will be pursued another time, whereby the truth will be completely misjudged and those who are wrong will be placed in an unjustified and unjustifiably good light, namely the Solidarity trade union and its adherents, the work-shy, who know no bounds in their greed for money and might.

120. The Western countries and peoples, however, do not want to see this truth, which is why, in misconceived humanity, they will seek to blame the rulers of Poland and Russia, who, however, in this case are truly not to blame for anything.

121. Not last but foremost of this false humanitarianism and anti-propaganda against Poland's and Russia's governments will be the blame of American President Reagan, who will behave like a little boy in office and impose dangerous sanctions against Russia and Poland.

Billy:

But there is nothing else to be expected, since you once declared that Reagan will be the real founder of the next world arms race.

Quetzal:

122. That is of correctness, because he will be the greatest warmonger and power-hungry man at the present time since the time of the last world war.

123. This, however, will cost him very badly, about which I will give you the necessary information at a later time.

124. His final exit will be as inglorious as also the lifting of the sanctions he imposed and the settlement of the Polish crisis.

429. The month of November and the month of December {1982} will put the Earth in a dangerous position and again into danger of nuclear war, to which we do not yet know whether we are allowed to take any countermeasures to avert this danger.

430. The reason for this danger, how could it be otherwise, will be provided by the American President Ronald Reagan, who is crazy enough as a warmonger to want to station new nuclear missiles in Europe, which will displease the Russians and drive them to station similar weapons of death on European territory themselves, should Reagan stick to his insane plan.

Billy:

The guy is out of his mind.

Quetzal:

431. He is a very dangerous paranoiac, and with this also psychopathically heavily burdened.

432. Ronald Reagan is a great danger for the whole earthly humanity, because he is not only a very vicious and unpredictable warmonger, but the actual most important man for the rash point of a third threatening world conflagration, as I have already explained to you several times.

433. He actually embodies this origin, because through his warmongering he creates insane ideas in many earthly human heads, which could one day lead to the Third World conflagration, even if the wheel of death should no longer be set in motion by Ronald Reagan himself.

434. His malicious actions could thus create future waves that could become deadly breakers.

435. There have been still other like-minded people at work in this regard before him, as there are now and will be in his time, and their machinations are also significant in terms of an impending Third World conflagration, but never to the extent of Ronald Reagan's, except later with the Bushes {George H.W. Bush, George W. Bush}.

436. As you well know, they are of the seven anti-logos who will stand guilty for the impending world conflagration, and Ronald Reagan is indeed one of them.

437. However, the anti-logos who will possibly still let loose the conflagration will only reach his great might in the coming time, which will enable him to carry out this work of destruction.

Quetzal:

404. Unfortunately, you hit the truth, but continue to listen because accordingly, there are still more things that will be of importance for the human beings of the Earth, even though it will only be so because everything will be hyped.

405. The next such event will take place around the month of September, but the date remains unclear.

406. At this coming time, a Korean passenger jet will be shot down by the Russian air defense, to which approximately 270 humans will fall victim.

407. And it will happen that the whole world will grumble against the Russians and, at other times, will do more injustice to this nation, despite the fact that Israel, for example, has already done the same and that the airspace damage of the Korean airplane will be steered by secret American forces.

408. This will be for provocation and in connection with disarmament negotiations between Russia and America, which will take place at that time in Geneva.

409. Of course, what happens over time in the interests of the Earthlings will flatten out again but will reach the Americans, and in particular, president Reagan, marked by deceit and war addiction, will be the reason why the Russians will fall into the crossfire of a worldwide protest, which will be accepting to Reagan's plans.

...

411. But at least in Lebanon, they will pay dearly because as a future review showed, the American peacekeeping forces will suffer heavy losses by an Arab suicide mission around the 20th of October 1983, when Palestinian forces load a truck with explosives and drive into the headquarters of the Americans in order to detonate the load there, as this will also be the case in the headquarters of the French troops in Lebanon.

412. Unfortunately, things are not yet recognised quite clearly in this respect, but there will likely be 250 to 300 deaths.

413. But for this, the Americans are expected to prepare an evil retaliatory strike because the vindictiveness and war-addiction of President Reagan knows no boundaries.

414. In addition, he will already allow a new act of war to be carried out just days after the attack and will let American troops invade the island of Grenada, which again will result in many deaths.

Billy:

And of course, Reagan will again find a justification for this, which is apart from himself.

Quetzal:

415. Unfortunately, that will again be so, for the Earth-humans are blind and deaf to the truth, even in other things, as represented by the military.

Real Visions

see also Teleprojection

https://www.futureofmankind.co.uk/Billy_Meier/Contact_Report_038

Billy:

Well, you have now mentioned a word several times which is completely unknown to me. I mean this 'realvision'. What's the meaning of this?

Semjase:

141. I understand, of course you cannot know that, because it's our own word composition for a certain form of guided vision.

...

144. A real vision describes a certain form of a guided vision.

145. It is a form of vision that is dominated by many intelligences, including the Giza intelligences.

146. By these arbitrarily provokable and steerable visions, different extraterrestrials – and also we – influence life forms, in order to obtain certain impressions for them in this way, which are instructive to them and which they are to make accessible by spreading also to others, in order to also purposefully affect the surroundings.

147. These steerable visions are so massively realistic that the influenced life form becomes convinced that it has experienced the vision as reality.

148. That's exactly why we call it realvision, because it seems so real.

149. Every experience experienced through this real vision lasts as long as it would take in reality.

150. Such real visions do not only last seconds or minutes, but they last as long, in time, as the real experiences would take.

Billy:

That's fantastic. This means that a human being can have an experience that is in reality not an experience at all, but arises only from a fictitious vision, but that he/she is not able to distinguish this vision from reality and thus regards the illusory experience as the truth of an experience.

Semjase:

151. Certainly, that's the exact description.

Billy:

But if a person now has an experience, is released from it and lives normally again, in order to be supplied later again with such a real vision, what happens then?

Semjase:

152. Nothing, because their real visions and reality are an interlocking sequence of events that cannot be distinguished from each other, at least not for the Earth-humans.

Billy:

That's more than fantastic. Man, oh, boy. So I could, for example, get a real vision missed by you and would assume in my consciousness that I had experienced the vision as reality. Then I would just live on and lead the normal life, and after some time I would again be marked by you with a real vision, the experiences of which I would again perceive as reality, without ever coming across the fact that in truth I only succumbed to one vision.

Semjase:

153. That's actually the case, only you set a bad example with yourself.

...

154. Because you can tell reality from a real vision.

Billy:

This is crazy, why should I be able to do this?

...

Gosh, girl, how did I get into your ship all of a sudden?

Semjase:

156. Do you see now?

Billy:

It doesn't make any sense to me – how do you do that? Just now I was in your beam ship and at the same time I sat here in front of the typewriter and wrote down my question why I was suddenly in your ship. Girl, you're kidding, you were just fooling me into believing something, even if I am itching to assume that I really was in the ship with you earlier. The urge to believe that is so damn strong, why?

Semjase:

157. Do you see now?

158. This was a real vision of only a few seconds duration.

159. But you have a block inside you that always lets you see reality.

160. Other life-forms, however, do not have this block and in a fraction of a second they succumb to the urge to accept what they have experienced as given truth.

161. Applied in this form, it is not a deception, for the process serves to expand the truth in the life form in question.

162. If Earth-humans are influenced in this manner, then this happens only for the reason that they are not capable of experiencing the visionary experiences given to them in reality.

Billy:

I accept that. But now you said that these real visions last exactly as long as the real experience takes in time. So a lot of time could flow by and many hours could pass?

Semjase:

163. Sure, even days, weeks or months.

Billy:

Man, poor creatures will starve to death.

Semjase:

164. You forget that the vision seems very massively real.

Billy:

You mean that the affected then feel their natural needs, like hunger and thirst or tiredness, etc.?

Semjase:

165. Certainly.

Billy:

But what do people eat and drink and – if they have long real visions outside the house – where do they sleep?

Semjase:

166. It's very simple:

167. In the state of real vision, they are master of many consciousness-based powers, which also slumber in their subconscious.

168. They then apply these subconsciously in such a form that they condense matter through the thirst and hunger feeling and solidify exactly those edible and drinkable things that they experience in their real visions.

169. That's how they eat.

170. It is the same process as it was demonstrated two thousand years ago by Jmmanuel when he fed 250 people on Earth (tradition of 5000 is wrong, there were only 250) with bread, which he multiplied in this manner.

171. The difference lies only in the fact that people with real visionary influence apply their abilities subconsciously, while Jmmanuel was able to generate them consciously.

Billy:

But that doesn't explain the things of sleep yet.

Semjase:

172. In this respect, the affected persons behave quite normally.

173. They take care of themselves in every respect, as they are used to, but sleep somewhere outdoors when they are away from home.

174. As a rule, however, in real visions it is set up in such a manner that the affected persons are directed to some trustworthy persons, where they can stay for the time of the vision and where they are naturally fed.

175. As a rule, these confidants are also influenced, but in a different form if they are taking care of the visionaries.

Billy:

That's interesting, but what do these people say?

Semjase:

176. They are so influenced that they have no memories of the visionaries entrusted to them.

https://www.futureofmankind.co.uk/Billy_Meier/Contact_Report_328

Ptaah:

98. On the other hand, at that time a real hysteria arose regarding UFOs, according to which many people at that time saw many unreal things that really did not exist.

99. So through hysteria they fell into hallucinations, self-generated real visions and strong imaginations.

100. This hysteria was not limited to the United States of America but spread all over the world.

101. In fact, however, at that time some flying objects appeared which were unidentifiable for the terrestrial people, whereby of all of them only two were really of extraterrestrial origin, which belonged to our Federation and which could be observed several times.

102. All other observations were undoubtedly due to terrestrial flying objects of partly secret form or to any natural terrestrial phenomena, or they were based on illusions and self-deceptions etc., whereby the self-deceptions were usually based on wishful thinking, which was aimed at seeing extraterrestrial flying objects, as it is still the case today in the vast majority of cases of 'UFO-observations'.

Red Meteor

https://www.futureofmankind.co.uk/Billy_Meier/Contact_Report_150

Billy:

... According to the prophecies I have received, there are other comets and also meteors of enormous size that will have an influence on the Earth and the life of this world. I am particularly interested in the 'red Meteor'. Is this now the Destroyer, or is it another comet that keeps passing through our solar system?

Quetzal:

492. Neither, my friend.

493. The meteor mentioned in the prophecies, which will have an enormous size and will cause very vicious destruction on Earth, and which besides climatic also threatens to bring tectonic and other changes, will also threaten to split the Earth's crust, from today's North Sea to the Black Sea, which however does not have to be true with certainty, because today certain factors speak against it.

494. It is coming towards the SOL-system from the depths of space and is, so to speak, an alien.

Billy:

You mean it is not a known comet that keeps making its orbit through our system?

Quetzal:

495. That is of correctness, because this meteor is flying on an orbit that will lead it to the SOL-system for the first time.

496. It has never been to this area of space in earlier times.

Billy:

And its journey is to end on Earth? Is there nothing you can do about it?

Quetzal:

497. You know very well that it will be so and that we must not stop this happening.

498. The cosmic forces themselves have pre-programmed this event, which could only be stopped or averted by the Earth-humans themselves.

499. In their materialistic and misleading disunity and in their megalomania, however, they disregard all warnings and prophecies, so that the event will probably inevitably come to pass, as a reminder and a punishment, if you want to see it in that manner.

500. And since this must be a warning and a rebuke, we must also not take any steps to avert the event.

501. Earth-humans should listen to your words and admonitions, but that is precisely what they do not do.

502. You are standing on a lost post, as a caller in the wilderness, and only a few are and will be willing to hear your words, to grasp them, to think about them and to learn to act correctly.

503. The non-hearing will find many deaths for this, when the meteor begins its work of death and creates a new part of the Earth, through a vast rift of the Earth from the North Sea to the Black Sea, out of which the glowing lava will pour, if the prophecy should be fully fulfilled, which, however, is not yet determined to the last consequence.

Billy:

You say that so dramatically and unscientifically. Incidentally, I would be interested to know where this rift in the Earth originates.

Quetzal:

504. It is our way to remain human also in scientific explanations, without scientific language.

...

509. Regarding the expected Earth rift, I already told you that it will divide the land between the North Sea and the Black Sea.

510. Glowing lava masses and earth gases, etc. will then additionally create a deadly sulphur wall from this, which will drift westwards over the land and thus create an additional death zone, if the prophecy should actually be fully fulfilled, if the Earth-humans do not undertake something about it together.

Billy:

Aha, that is also said in one of the prophecies. But is there really not the slightest possibility that you can still prevent something?

Quetzal:

511. Your question is very illogical, my friend, but on the other hand, we do try to be helpful to Earth-humans by making the coming horrors and events visible to many sensitives through visions, and we also include you in these visions.

Rembrandt van Rijn

<https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Rembrandt>

https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Saskia_van_Uylenburgh

https://www.futureofmankind.co.uk/Billy_Meier/Contact_Report_212

Billy:

Then a question about Rembrandt. It is said over and over again that not all of the paintings attributed to him come from him. Do you know anything about this, since you still concern yourself with the earthly art of painting?

Quetzal:

55. Around Rembrandt, whose real name was Rembrandt Harmensz van Rijn, different stories grew, even during his own lifetime.

56. He was born in Lieden on 7/15/1606, and he died in Amsterdam on 10/4/1669.

57. Already at the youthful age of 15, he took painting lessons with the well-known history painter at the time, Jacob van Swanenburg, after which he gained further inspiration from various other painters and, from this, developed his own painting direction and created various works in his typical fashion.

58. In 1634, he married Saskia van Uylenburgh, who already died, however, in 1642.

59. She was a woman who was extremely talented in the art of painting, but she did not appear publicly with her ability but only exercised it in secret, together with her husband, whose style fascinated her and whose style she adopted.

60. In this form, she created quite a number of very good works, which were indistinguishable from those of her husband and which also will not be distinguished for all times.

61. She also made etchings in this manner, for which Rembrandt gave his name, as well as for the paintings made by his wife.

62. So for example, the alleged self-portrait of Rembrandt, the related etching of 1639 {link}, was not sketched by himself, as also several others were not, but by his wife, Saskia, who mastered his style perfectly.

63. Also, concerning the double portrait with Saskia {link}, only half of this comes from his art, for only the portrait of his wife traces back to his hand, while his portrait beside her is the work of his wife.

64. In addition, there are various works that are imitations of Rembrandt's style on the part of several of his students.

65. Several have been recognised in modern times as such style-imitations of expertise, but some of the surviving imitations are so perfect that they cannot be recognised as such.

66. This especially applies to those works that trace back to Rembrandt's wife because she mastered his style and technique perfectly.

67. As an example, it is to be said that out of all existing Rembrandt etchings, only 178 of these trace back to his own art, while a further 111 must be attributed to his wife.

68. All the rest trace back to imitations of students and counterfeiters.

69. Concerning the alleged Rembrandt drawings, the number is still much higher.

70. Also, the most diverse painted works, so the paintings that are attributed to Rembrandt, do not truly trace back to him but, instead, to his wife, Saskia, who lived in deep humility in relation to her great skill and left all the fame to her husband.

71. Also, there are several imitations of his students, as well as obvious forgeries, but these are known as such.

https://www.futureofmankind.co.uk/Billy_Meier/Contact_Report_467

Billy:

... There is the well-known painting 'The Man with the Golden Helmet' {link}, which is attributed to Rembrandt, but of which your daughter Semjase already said that it was not the work of this man, who was born sometime in 1606 and turned just over 60 years old. He died in 1669, if I am not mistaken.

Ptaah:

59. That is true, and the painting you mention is in fact not the work of Rembrandt Harmenszoon van Rijn, but that of his student Willem van Kampen, who more than perfectly imitated Rembrandt's painting style and even made it his own.

60. His works, however, were selfishly signed by Rembrandt with his own name, just as he signed many other works of his other pupils, in order to pass them off as his own works and sell them fraudulently as his own works.

Billy:

And the man wearing the gold helmet in the painting, which is probably a portrait, do you know who he was?

Ptaah:

61. I know that, Yes.

62. The man was the father of the Rembrandt pupil Willem van Kampen and his name was Jacob van Kampen.

Billy:

Thank you, then this solves a mystery that has also been causing problems for art experts for some time now, who for years have been repeatedly recognising so-called Rembrandt paintings as not being produced by him, even though they bore his signature. Yes the paintings are real, only that they are not by Rembrandt, but by his students. The forgery is only the signature by which Rembrandt fraudulently used the works of his students to represent them as his own paintings.

Remote Viewing / Remote Sensing

https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Remote_viewing https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Remote_sensing

https://www.futureofmankind.co.uk/Billy_Meier/Contact_Report_256

Billy:

I still have a few questions, one of which concerns an alleged medium called Ingo Swann as well as a major of the US Army called E. D., who operate the so-called PSI-TECH, an alleged technical remote sensing, by which even the most secret things are supposed to be recognised and discovered from afar, as is claimed. At least such thing is claimed in "Magazin 2000", from page 81 onwards. It is thereby also clarified that one would be able to get to know the said E. D. in Germany who would over there provide a three-day seminar at an outrageous price of 1,800 German Mark. First, do you know anything of this story? Second, is this E. D. to be taken seriously? Thirdly, what about the Swann medium? Fourth, what to make of this remote sensing?

Ptaah:

36. The man E. D. is one of many who, with dishonest means, pull the money out of the pockets of the faithfully and stupidly believing human beings.

37. The long-distance perception training course he has initiated is an infamous fraud, just as the alleged long-distance perception corresponds to pure charlatanism.

38. It is true that the USA and the Soviet Union have carried out studies of the same kind and are still carrying them out today, but this has already for a long time been no secret anymore, because a lot of secret material has leaked to the outside via the so-called remote viewing.

39. The efforts of the secret research of the USA and the Soviet Union brought about certain, but no high value successes, which can however in no way be connected with the charlatanism of E. D. –

40. PSI-TECH, this is not the alleged remote perception, but a name of a company called that way.

41. With regard to Ingo Swann, it must be said that many things are with him too very dishonest and that things are being pushed onto him which do not correspond to the truth.
42. Everything is thus to be classified in charlatanism, lies and fraud, if the facts are really investigated.
43. Excluded from this are only certain secret attempts and secret successes of the USA and Soviet Union in terms of remote perception i.e. remote viewing, as the English term for it is.

<https://web.archive.org/web/20180423154540/http://avonretyi.com/>

https://www.futureofmankind.co.uk/Billy_Meier/Contact_Report_443

Billy:

... On the 17th of February 2005, Quetzal and I talked privately about the conspiracy books of various scribblers, such as Zacharia Sitchin, David Icke, Jan van Holey alias Jan van Helsing as well as Andreas von R tyi and others. ...

Ptaah:

5. All in all, these kinds of nonsensical writings are commercially oriented to make the ruble roll, as you say, so that the scribblers – if I want to use your expression – can fill their pockets with money.
6. The whole of all the conspiracy theories described in all the countless books are based on sheer nonsense, as are the writings in books containing supernaturalism and assertions about the alleged infiltration of earthly governments by extraterrestrials.
7. Conspiracy theories of all kinds, as well as supernatural, occult and esoteric nonsense, are in great demand among the believers in these drivel.
8. In fact, all the many books of this kind are based on silliness, senselessness, folly, as well as blooming and higher nonsense, as you always say so aptly.

Billy:

If you will allow me to interrupt, I have a few other terms for the whole thing, such as noble baloney, bullshit, hooley, stupidity and folly, torchlight, ridiculousness, simple-mindedness, gibberish, folly and folly, etc. I would also like to say that, with regard to all this nonsense, there are special bookstores which, for good money, bring the rubbish books among the people, from whom the roaring rubbish is eaten like hot cakes. With very many people on earth the unreal, untrue, fantastic, occult, esoteric, religious, sectarian, supposedly supernatural and supernatural is not only considered to be more than truth and reality, but effectively everything.

Ptaah:

9. These are all good terms I will remember.
10. And your explanation hits the truth.
11. Furthermore, these humans are sectarian and esoteric, as well as occult and supernatural, and move in their thoughts and feelings, as well as in their delusional beliefs, in illusory worlds and other unreal imaginings.
12. The entirety of this matter of faith and fantasies has developed into a delusion in them which already moves in schizophrenic forms, whereby they no longer perceive the truth and reality and consequently also can no longer recognise it.
13. And in this delusional form they infiltrate the humans with their absurdities which they imagine and also adopt them from other scribblers which you call 'abkupfern'. [copying?]
14. Thereby the readers of the entire nonsense are seduced to believingly accept the lies, slanders, the swindle and the fantasies of these irresponsible scribblers as truth while they assess the reality and the real truth as unrealistic, unreal and as untruth.

15. Belief is just very much simpler than investigating the effective truth through one's own seeking and one's own cognitive work.

16. Furthermore the fantastic and illusory will sooner be accepted by the Earth-humans than even the truth and reality which appears banal compared to the fantastic and illusory.

17. Therefore it is so that standing on the firm ground of the facts, truth and reality is proscribed while the untruthful, fantastic, and illusory and all the swindling, lies, deceit and slander which is bound with it – which, since time immemorial, have always been booming business – effect the Earth-humans like sweet balm which stills the delight and demand for that which is fantastic and illusory.

18. So lying, swindle, falsehoods, deceit and slander are means through which the human allows himself to be very easily beguiled, because everything is only swallowed and does not have to truthfully be contemplated, while the search for the effective truth and its processing is bound with very much effort and cognitive work as well as with a sense for the recognition of reality.

19. However the irresponsible scribblers – who invent the crazy and unreal as well as unrealistic conspiracy theories, copy the entire nonsense from each other and throw everything to their believers as fodder, and therewith earn much money – know exactly that.

20. That is also the case with the books of the hacks named by you who, without conscience, spread their horrendous nonsense of their dim-witted conspiracy theories and thereby lead their faithful readers into error, convey to them a completely wrong picture of the world and hound them into angst and terror.

22. Truthfully, from the complete contents there are no things at all to name which could be designated facts of truth and reality because basically it deals with nothing other than freely invented fantasies and illusions which are irresponsibly given a coating of truth in order to thereby take those Earth-humans into their power who believe the dim-witted nonsense and allow themselves to be taken prisoner by it.

23. From the entire exposition of all books of such a kind no letter may be considered as true because everything is only built on deception, lies, deceit, slander, fantasies and illusions ...

27. Yet in every regard believers do not, as a rule, let themselves be impressed by the truth, rather they faithfully remain in the prison which they themselves delusionally imagine because that is simpler than having to grapple with the real truth.

28. The truth is just simply and somehow banal, as you tend to say, for which reason it only addresses humans who consciously use their reason and understanding, while the others, who depend on the fantastic and illusory as well as that which pertains to belief, are not willing to free themselves from the nonsensical and the unreal as well as from their not making use of reason and understanding.

Rods

https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Rod_\(optical_phenomenon\))

https://www.futureofmankind.co.uk/Billy_Meier/Contact_Report_163

Billy:

Good, then I have a question regarding so-called UFOs, which are truly none at all. As I know from you, the so-called flying objects that are considered UFOs are often observed in the day as well as at night. At night, it is often observed that these so-called UFOs light up and are vibrant in their intensity and also variable in colour. On the one hand, you were able to make it understandable to me, with tangible evidence and through my personal observations, that these sometimes deal with bio-organic flying bodies that are truly other-dimensioned life forms that, as a rule, can be captured on infrared film and that penetrate from other dimensions into our dimension area, in order to romp around here somehow in earthly airspace for playful and whimsical reasons. You also explained to me that these bio-organisms are completely harmless and that they always return back to their dimension. But on the other hand, you have also spoken of the fact that similar phenomena appear in terrestrial airspace, but these are purely terrestrial in origin. At that time, you spoke of the fact that it can also concern huge swarms of insects that let themselves drift through the air at great heights. During the day, these insect swarms can be seen as dark and form-changing UFOs that often even glow. At night, the same can be observed, and these UFOs then glow from weak to very strong and often even pulsate. Those are the two forms of UFOs best-known to me, which are truly not extraterrestrial ships and which are composed of living forms. Although, you have explained that other such forms exist ...

https://www.futureofmankind.co.uk/Billy_Meier/Contact_Report_250

Ptaah:

81. In contrast, however, it is more common for bioorganic flying objects to appear in this space-time continuum, not only on Earth, but also on many other inhabited and uninhabitable world spheres.

82. So we can observe such bio-organisms, as we call them, also on our worlds, whereby we do not know however yet exactly which kind these life-forms are now.

83. The dimension changers, as we also call them, are larger and smaller airworthy, bioorganic life-forms, which are often fluorescent or very brightly radiating and located in a parallel space or parallel universe.

84. In their way they are absolutely harmless and even playful.

85. They often appear individually or in smaller groups, ranging in size from a few metres to several hundred metres in diameter.

86. They live in a parallel space that we have not yet been able to access, whose data we know well, but into which we have not yet been able to penetrate in form in order to establish communicative contact with these forms of life.

https://www.futureofmankind.co.uk/Billy_Meier/Contact_Report_251

Ptaah:

133. The film and photo material of UFOs made in all the years worldwide and especially in America and South America as well as in England etc. does not always show extraterrestrial flying objects, but also such strangely working flying machines, which are manufactured since several decades by terrestrial humans on earth, as well as flying bodies, which come from the terrestrial future or which are known as bioorganic flying bodies with us, which are the so-called dimension changers, life forms, which penetrate from another dimension into the terrestrial airspace.

https://www.futureofmankind.co.uk/Billy_Meier/Contact_Report_264

Billy:

... The bioorganic flying objects; can these life-forms take on human form and in this form, for example, come into contact with terrestrial humans?

Ptaah:

83. No, this possibility is not given to them.

84. Nor are they of any human-like nature, but pure energy bodies capable of transformation and dimensional change, which appear as floating forms of light energy in one or the other dimension, are able to change their light intensity, but do not have any form of conscious consciousness.

https://www.futureofmankind.co.uk/Billy_Meier/Contact_Report_359

Ptaah:

21. Nevertheless, I cannot exclude the possibility that they could have been bioorganic missiles of different dimensions, which, as you know, are harmless life forms from a neighbouring dimension and which can usually only be photographed by infrared cameras or recorded on infrared film.

https://www.futureofmankind.co.uk/Billy_Meier/Contact_Report_402

Billy:

... Apart from the differently dimensioned bio-organic missiles there are similar species on earth, which show the most different forms. Through your observation devices I have seen some that look like giant strange snakes or insects etc. and are flying through the atmosphere as fast as an arrow. In addition, there are innumerable disk-shaped and disc-shaped energy formations and bio-organisms of various sizes, which overshoot the boundaries of the atmosphere and also gather around space debris of the earthlings and often accompany them for a while. Also rockets are sometimes accompanied by these things and somehow 'examined'. Now the question whether these things are not seen by the men in the rockets or in the so-called space stations; you do not hear anything about it?

Ptaah:

35. The existence of these bio-organisms and energy entities is well known, but no public explanations are given about them, because the 'astronauts' and all those who are involved with them do not know what these forms are, which have a certain energy intelligence, but are completely harmless.

36. As I know, these bioorganisms and energy entities are called RODS by observers.

https://www.futureofmankind.co.uk/Billy_Meier/Contact_Report_457

Billy:

So: For about 10 or 15 years or so, there's been footage haunted by what are called rods. ...

...

These rods are bio-organic flying objects? In my opinion they should be, because the bio-organic flying objects I have seen on monitors in your ships look very much like the ones I have seen on TV lately.

Ptaah:

23. It is known to me that for some time now, Earth-humans have been filming rods, as they call them, which are actually bio-organic flying objects.

...

Billy:

... Once upon a time – it must have been years ago, if I am not mistaken – our Earthly would-be astronauts lost a long cable from their space station, which became independent and floated away, surrounded by dozens or hundreds of glowing objects of various sizes. Do you know anything about this?

Ptaah:

55. Yes.

56. What do you want to know about that?

Billy:

There was a movie about it on TV. In my opinion, these white glowing flying objects were nothing else but bioorganic flying objects or rods, as they have been called by the earthlings since they were able to film them.

Ptaah:

57. Your assumption is correct.

https://www.futureofmankind.co.uk/Billy_Meier/Contact_Report_478

Billy:

... Is the term Orb respectively Orbs familiar to you?

Ptaah:

81. Yes.

82. Why do you ask?

Billy:

They are luminous spheres that are seen and photographed all over the world, I have been told.

Ptaah:

83. That is true.

84. They are another form of RODS, i.e. bio-organisms of electromagnetic form, which are actual energy formations, possess an energy intelligence and which also react to human consciousness respectively to thoughts and feelings.

Billy:

... Does the American government have spaceships and alien corpses in their possession?

Semjase:

57. They are in possession of certain destroyed materials from spaceships as well as some dead bodies of dwarf alien human life-forms.

58. Intact spaceships and the like, however, are not in their possession.

59. The available materials are kept under strictest secrecy, and only a few insiders are informed and oriented about them.

Billy:

Is there not a danger that these things can be used to their advantage?

Semjase:

60. Everything is so destroyed and deformed that no significant findings can be derived from it – at least not yet.

61. It is very strange to them.

https://www.futureofmankind.co.uk/Billy_Meier/Contact_Report_057

Billy:

... Is it true that there are 10 to 16 glass coffins or glass shrines in the American Pentagon in which dead extraterrestrials are found and which are supposed to be about 120 cm tall? ...

Semjase:

70. It could be an assertion without any truth.

71. Nothing is known to us regarding such an incident that would suggest a crash of a spaceship of foreign origin, in which 16 extraterrestrial life-forms are to have been killed and stored in glass shrines in the Pentagon.

72. In another case however, something similar arises, with the deposit of extraterrestrial dead bodies, etc. which does not concern the Pentagon.

73. So in the Roswell case.

https://www.futureofmankind.co.uk/Billy_Meier/Contact_Report_060

Billy:

... Namely it is the case that the human beings of Earth are still unknowing in many things, whereby misunderstandings arise. So this happened, for example, through two questions from me in relation to the American government and the American Pentagon, with respect to materials and dead bodies of extraterrestrial origin. In regard to the government you have confirmed that it has some things of extraterrestrial origin in its possession, whilst you answered this with no in regard to the Pentagon. Well, it was not clear why for one thing you say yes and another no.

...

Semjase:

...

3. – America is being governed unofficially by various forms of government.
4. On the one hand the presidential government governs there, on the other hand, however, also the Pentagon as well as the military government and also the CIA, and so forth.
5. Officially all really belong together, however in truth all three forms, in their innermost, work only for themselves alone, so in a manner of speaking they make up their own form of government.
6. If therefore your questions are related to the official government on the one hand and the Pentagon on the other hand, then accordingly I have to give you also two different answers in relation to this, namely that one of these governments is in possession of certain materials, and so forth, of extraterrestrial origin, whilst it is not known to us that the Pentagon is supposedly in possession of a few dead bodies of extraterrestrial intelligences.
7. The possibility may indeed well exist, however, we have no knowledge about whether it is actually so.
8. In the meantime we have made an effort to clarify this question, however, we were not able to reach clear results.

https://www.futureofmankind.co.uk/Billy_Meier/Contact_Report_203

Quetzal:

13. That is also true, because in this case hardly a possibility exists that the secret activities will one day come to the light of truth and the humans will be enlightened over the actual truth.
14. Quite the opposite – the future will prove that the responsible ones in America will always invent new lies in order to shroud and deny the truth about the Roswell case.

https://www.futureofmankind.co.uk/Billy_Meier/Contact_Report_215

Billy:

Then now a question about the so-called Roswell Case. Did a UFO actually crash there? Even though you have already confirmed this once, there are still some things that remain unclear, even with regard to the UFO crew, concerning which you said that they were androids. So what were the occupants really, and from where did the aliens come?

Quetzal:

74. The Roswell Case is a reality because the UFO crash actually took place there, but this is denied up to the present day and will continue to be denied in the distant future by the American military and secret services, as well as by all government agencies, namely with flimsy, changing, stupid, and ridiculous excuses that will only surely testify to the fact that everything actually happened.
75. With the crashed object, it concerned a beamship from the Reticulum systems.

76. The crew did not consist of natural human life forms but of human androids of a bio-organic nature, which means that they were artificial human androids, which the US-Army also got a hold of, some living and some dead, and these were secretly kept in secret stations.

77. With the bioorganic androids, it concerned effective artificial life forms, so not robots or the like, but independently thinking beings, in every way self-capable of making decisions, made out of living material and living organs, bred in accordance with the human beings who are located in the Reticulum systems.

78. In Earth-human terms, these bioorganic androids bred by the Reticulum human beings are actual life-forms, and as such, they are respected by the Reticulum people and are also appreciated and treated, for the androids are, indeed, artificial human beings.

79. As such, they stand under the command of the real humans of the Reticulum systems, on whose behalf they also carry out excursions, etc. to foreign star systems and planetary systems.

80. And such artificial human forms were associated with the crash, as I already explained.

81. The intelligence of these android beings stems from a bio-organic consciousness of an artificial form, which is just as capable of development as the consciousness of the normal, natural person; therefore, it can also be creative and inventive.

82. The type of consciousness is designed uniformly and collectively in each android, which means that all of the androids have a uniform consciousness form, and so, they are collectively like-minded, and thus, they have a collective form of telepathic communication.

83. The form of consciousness of these artificial life forms is built on an artificial consciousness, which does not correspond to an actual personality but rather to an artificial form, which can think quite independently, act, and decide, as well as develop itself further, but which is not arranged into conscious evolution but only functions in a conscious-instinct based manner.

84. This means that there is, therefore, probably a capacity for the development of the consciousness form, whereby ideas are created and thought processes can take place, which are creative, inventive, and progressive and, thus, capable of being developed, but all of this just deals with conscious-instinct based matters, and has nothing to do with conscious evolution.

85. In any event, the form of consciousness of these bio-organic androids is an artificial-organic element, which has no inherent creational spirit-form.

86. The form of consciousness of the androids is formed in such a wise that it has a certain independence, in spite of the collectivity, whereby a degree of individuality is given, which cannot be compared, however, to an actual personality in a consciousness-based sense; nevertheless, it has its own individuality, which may seem like a contradiction to the Earth-person because they cannot understand these things in the tiniest part of their mind and still cannot make any conceptions of this.

87. He/she will only gain these conceptions and the understanding as well as the knowledge relating to such android beings in the distant future.

88. The bio-organic androids of the Reticulum human beings contain an authoritative programming in their artificial consciousness, which prevents that the artificial beings could ever rise over their designers, respectively their creators, but the time of their lives is limited to 300 years of devoted servitude to these.

89. Nevertheless, they are entirely free and can in every way decide as to what responsibilities they undertake, exercise, or decline and, thus, whether they want to focus on a task or not.

90. So they are in no way subject to compulsion by their creators.

91. In the kind and wise in which they are biologically created, they are incapable of performing sexual acts and also of reproducing themselves.

92. Their own and appropriate kind of consciousness is contained in their artificial brains, and as I already mentioned, the artificial-bio-organic consciousness does not contain a creational spirit-form, which would drive and animate this by its own energies.

93. Animation is provided by the artificial brain, which is constructed in such a form that it can absorb and use the cosmic-electromagnetic life-energies, so that the existence of life is guaranteed.

94. It is this cosmic energy, by which the artificial life forms are animated and also made alive.

95. All this, however, could not be recognised by all the doctors, surgeons, and pathologists, etc. in the American secret stations, where the crashed android beings were taken.

96. But how could they, since their knowledge relating to this was not in place yet?

97. In fact, it will still take many centuries and even several millennia before the terrestrial scientists arrive at the possibility of creating such beings like the bio-organic androids.

98. Therefore, these beings will remain an unsolvable mystery to them for a very long time, as it is also the case for them with regard to the crashed beings in Roswell.

Billy:

Now that was really detailed. Thank you for your explanations. But one thing still interests me: with you, I have also seen androids, so artificial life forms that can think and act independently. Are these the same as the android beings of Reticulum?

Quetzal:

99. On the whole, yes.

100. Only the appearance of our androids is different in nature, for they are created after our likenesses, while the Reticulum androids resemble their creators, who are, in spite of their high technology and various sciences, still very unknowing in terms of really spiritual and creational interests, yet still arranged into a high and liberal culture with expressed human rights.

101. Nevertheless, our directives forbid us from maintaining deliberate physical or telepathic contact with them.

https://www.futureofmankind.co.uk/Billy_Meier/Contact_Report_246

{Note: This may or may not refer to the Roswell UFO crash.}

Billy:

... Recently I was asked which genera or types of life forms would have a sexual life. This happened in connection with allegations that the US Americans had captured alien human life forms in a crash of a UFO or interplanetary missile, whereby these alien life forms had no sexual organs, no excrement outlets, no visible food intake, etc. ...

Ptaah:

155. Which of course is complete nonsense, for any material form of life, wherever it may be in the entire universe, requires a possibility of food intake, a possibility of the ejection of indigestible products, etc. and thus of excrement ejection.

156. But with all materially existing forms of life of a higher kind, and so especially with human forms of life, it is given that they have a sexual organ or a reproductive organ.

https://www.futureofmankind.co.uk/Billy_Meier/Contact_Report_251

Billy:

... Are you familiar with Area 51 and the Roswell-New Mexico incident in 1947, then a UFO crash in Aztek, New Mexico, similar to the one in Roswell, but a year later, then a third crash at the Mexican border in 1949 or 1950, and further that the Americans in Area 51 are supposed to hold various bodies of aliens as well as a living alien there?

Ptaah:

136. I have stated on several occasions that these things are covered by my duty of confidentiality because they fall under the jurisdiction of the government, the military and state security.

137. So I am not allowed to talk about this officially, but only in confidence with you - in private, as you like to say.

138. On the other hand, such knowledge would be dangerous for you - if you officially knew about it.

https://www.futureofmankind.co.uk/Billy_Meier/Contact_Report_257

Billy:

The darkening, slandering and obscuring machinations of many governments, militaries and secret services, etc., of different countries, began therefore already very early, and indeed much earlier than would be generally accepted by the real UFO researchers. According to the explanation of the Plejadian/Plejaren, however, especially the Americans were leading in this respect, whereby these were also those who held the proof of the existence of extraterrestrial flying objects tight in their hands already early, and indeed not first since the Roswell case. Truly, already earlier the Americans had parts of wreckage from crashed extraterrestrial flying devices fall into their hands, as well as mutilated extraterrestrial corpses, which, however, fell under the strictest nondisclosure and whereby, as the Plejadian/Plejaren explained, also undesired UFO crash and UFO recovery observers, as well as recovery workers were "erased" or forced into silence under the gravest threats. But that was not enough by far, because the longer the UFO appearances in the new age were observed, the more secretively these were dealt with, and indeed not the least on that account, because the arrival of the extraterrestrials, and the enslavement of the terrestrial humanity through the invaders was feared by the American government and their military as well as secret services. ...

https://www.futureofmankind.co.uk/Billy_Meier/Contact_Report_358

Ptaah:

33. ... the responsible authorities in the USA on the one hand deny the matter of the crash of an extraterrestrial flying object at Roswell and also elsewhere ...

https://www.futureofmankind.co.uk/Billy_Meier/Contact_Report_423

Ptaah:

64. What happened in 1947 in Roswell in the USA, as the investigations have clearly shown, was a special case, which was the result of an unpleasant coincidence.

65. A case which is vehemently denied by the US military and the government.

https://www.futureofmankind.co.uk/Billy_Meier/Contact_Report_424

Ptaah:

57. What has to be said concerning Roswell is that we and our federation and all beings foreign to Earth, and who were flying into Earth's space, and then joined our federation, did not have anything to do with this incident.

https://www.futureofmankind.co.uk/Billy_Meier/Contact_Report_511

Ptaah:

3. On the other hand, Florena asked me to watch a recording that she made according to your request, which was about the Roswell case, etc. ...

Billy:

... As I informed Florena, I had learned that a TV programme was to be broadcast late at night on 24th of December in relation to the Roswell case, etc. I asked her to record it for you to watch, so that you could also watch it and then tell me what you think. I also watched the TV programme myself, which was supposed to prove with old film footage of disc and bell-shaped and other futuristic flying apparatus and balloons of the USA, especially from Area 51, that there was no extraterrestrial but a secret futuristic American flying apparatus or balloon that crashed in Roswell. At least one American test pilot was allegedly seriously injured and taken away in an ambulance, and the debris from the flying apparatus was also taken away in a misused ambulance. In this context, several elderly men were interviewed who appeared as allegedly involved military witnesses, but who appeared to me to be rather suspicious and therefore did not exactly make a trustworthy impression on me. They all talked in such a way as if someone had rehearsed something and then reeled off what they had learned. ...

But let's get back to the TV show and the shown pictures of futuristic flying apparatuses and balloons. It is also possible that everything is just a concoction to prove something that is a lie, namely that not an extraterrestrial but a secret US military test flying apparatus crashed near Roswell. If that is the case, then it is clear to me that the military eyewitnesses are only bought elements that have rehearsed their lies. ...

Ptaah:

7. What I can say is that the black and white film sequences you mentioned really do correspond to original footage and show secret US flying apparatus that was further developed according to Nazi plans.

...

17. With regard to such flying apparatus, even today a secret further development is still underway, which is why the USA is also still trying to portray the Roswell case as an illusion and as an accident with a balloon apparatus.

18. This in order not to have to admit that they gained important technical knowledge from the crashed object, which they have been evaluating since then, in combination with the plan documents they have from the Nazi flying discs and Nazi flying bells they acquired in Germany at the end of the war.

20. And what more is to be said about the military eyewitnesses who appeared on the TV recording, you have seen their role correctly, because they were only alleged eyewitnesses who rehearsed and replayed their statements and had nothing to do with the Roswell case.

21. The whole recording, which actually includes original recordings of flying disks and bell-flying machines as well as balloons as US developments, serves only to take the Roswell case ad absurdum and make it appear as fantasy to those who are responsive to the US secrecy and cover-up lies and believe their nonsense.

Billy:

Will the truth about the Roswell case ever be cleared up by the USA?

Ptaah:

22. That is unlikely to be the case, because the whole thing is so secret that shortly after the Roswell incident such a blockade of information was set up that only a few insiders learned the truth, while those involved were silenced under death threats.

23. In addition, many written documents and statements recorded on audio carriers were destroyed, as well as much of the photographic and film material.

24. Furthermore, a large number of those involved in the Roswell case were put under a hypnotic compulsion to forget.

25. This means that their memories of what they had experienced were erased and replaced by unreal memories.

https://www.futureofmankind.co.uk/Billy_Meier/Contact_Report_522

Billy:

... Again and again there are articles and explanations etc. on television about the Roswell case and about Area 51, and it is always vehemently denied that there has ever been a Roswell case concerning an extraterrestrial flying object. Such broadcasts also include alleged 'eyewitnesses' of a military nature who deny and ridicule everything and always claim that it was a test balloon of a company called 'Mogul'. Most of the presenters of such TV programmes are singing the same tune. ...

Ptaah:

5. The Roswell case is based on true events, but you know that.
6. However, the flying apparatus that crashed at that time was not controlled by human life-forms, but by bioorganic androids.
7. However, the secret files created at the time about this incident were kept secret from the public and even from the entire government and were made to disappear by being kept in a very safe place to which only a few people have access.
8. So there is little chance that the real truth will ever really come out, and consequently there will probably never be any education of the USA government and the public, either in the USA or worldwide.
9. The truth is that the rulers in the USA were not informed about the real events, but everything remained with the military intelligence and the FBI as well as with other US intelligence services, such as the CIA.
10. The 'Mogul' lie stories about the Roswell case are also based on intelligence ...
11. And as far as the debris from the crash of the extraterrestrial flying apparatus near Roswell is concerned, it is to be said that all accessible debris was collected by members of the US Air Force and brought to Patterson and then to Area 51.
12. Despite thorough examination of all the debris, the technicians were not able to make much use of it because only a few things were understood and could be put to little use.
13. Nevertheless, it is a fact that top-secret flying apparatus is being created and tested in Area 51, not only in the area of that base, but also in other areas and even worldwide. ...
17. This is also a reason for the paradox that, especially in the USA, those in charge of military and air force intelligence and other intelligence agencies involved in the case are denying that an extraterrestrial flying apparatus has crashed, as happened in Roswell. ...
21. The fact is, as we informed you decades ago in silence, that the USA knew how to get hold of Soviet MIG fighters, the technology of which the aircraft designers at Area 51 had acquired and made great use of, but also how they could make use of certain small items from the crashed Roswell flying object, which in reality was of very little importance.

{Mr. H. letter with questions:}

11. what is true about the Roswell UFO case? Etc. ...

Billy:

Answer: The crash of a UFO was and is reality and had nothing to do with a weather balloon and Project Mogul. All military and scientific as well as secret service representations and claims that it was a weather balloon research enterprise and that the crashed object was a balloon, correspond to nothing more than a theater of lies and deceit, which is intended to cover up something that must not be made public for a very long time. And I am not allowed to talk about that either, so I have to keep quiet.

https://www.futureofmankind.co.uk/Billy_Meier/Contact_Report_822

Billy:

You are right about that, because I just wanted to ask you if you have read any notes in the annals of Sfath that refer to the military man Ramey. The man who was in Roswell. You know.

Ptaah:

There is not much to say really, because you know what transpired at that time. There is also nothing written in my father's annals other than that the man Ramey told him and you that he had no option but to lie to the press. But to you, he had to admit that everything published by the army and the state leadership was nothing but bare lies and that what was photographed was nothing but extra metal foil. This had been described as the remains of a balloon, but this corresponded to a fraud. Real materials from the very flat and plate-shaped object that had crashed over Tikaboo Peak and been severely damaged were not present as individual pieces, but it was still on site as a whole object, as Ramey explained to my father Sfath and you at the time. It was also transported away as a whole by the military, including the still living bodies of the object's crew. So everything was immediately secretly seized, removed and taken to Homey Airport (note Billy: Area 51) in the Nellis Air Force Barrier Area. Nonetheless, the news immediately got out to the press, following which the news of a crash by an extraterrestrial spaceship went around the world very quickly.

Billy:

Right, at that time I read in a newspaper myself that an extraterrestrial spaceship had crashed somewhere in the USA. I cannot remember which newspaper it was. I can still remember this military man Ramey, because he was scared as hell when Sfath and I suddenly materialised in front of him, about the same as Adamski when Asket and I suddenly stood in front of him, where he was giving his lying lecture in a big hall at Helvetiaplatz.

Sabra and Shatila Massacre (Lebanon 1982)

https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Sabra_and_Shatila_massacre

https://www.futureofmankind.co.uk/Billy_Meier/Contact_Report_150

Quetzal:

400. However, this criminal event is already overshadowed by a much worse event in Beirut on the 17th and 18th of September 1982.

401. Another time, in fact, Begin's intrigues orchestrate a mass murder that is intended to be and will be useful to his plans.

402. In further consequence, forces controlled by him undertake something which again will not be recognised by anyone as the work of the Israeli mass murderer and criminal of the state.

403. Through the state traitors loyal to Begin, the leaders of the Christian militias in Beirut will be caused to let their armed militia forces invade the refugee camps of the Palestinians in order to wreak an indescribable bloodbath and massacre among the Palestinians, seizing women, men, and children, and this will not find anything equal to it so quickly.

404. And all this will happen under the protection and supervision of Israel, which with its military forces in Beirut will even ensure that the murderous Christian militias of the Lebanese can march into the refugee camps, after which the massacre will claim more than six thousand human lives.

405. Only after the massacre is over will Israel officially intervene and pretend to stop this killing.

406. Truthly, however, the intervention will only occur to cover up Begin's criminal actions and, thus, wash his hands before the world public in innocence.

407. The fact will be that this massacre and the entry of Begin's troops into Beirut will only serve the purpose of further expanding Begin's land domination plans in the first place, while the second reason will be to make this massacre possible.

408. The murder of Beshir Gemayal orchestrated by Begin will make it easy for this murderous criminal to win over the Lebanese Christian militias for himself and his plans, namely to murder and exterminate the Palestinians remaining in Lebanon.

409. The leaders of the Christian militias will go along with Begin's plans if he promises them that he will have the Israeli army enter Beirut for their protection for the massacre enterprise, which he will promise and have carried out.

410. Once this murderous enterprise is over, however, Begin will have his army withdraw from Beirut again because, after all, he will see his aims in this matter realised.

Billy:

An unparalleled murder and intrigue racket. Who and what is this murderer actually?

Quetzal:

411. He is the product of a marital disgrace and, moreover, a brother-in-arms of the criminal SHARON, who, in the most important army position, puts Begin's orders into practise.

412. Sharon is the real army leader, and this man standing as Begin's fighting brother, is in no wise inferior to Begin himself.

413. The fact of the reason of Begin's and Sharon's fighting brotherhood is, however, unknown everywhere else except to their parents, for only the parents of these two criminal and murderous elements know the secret of the ... relations of the two with each other as well as their tendencies, which they often also do together, which is, however, publicly unknown.

414. But enough of this, for these concerns are not of much importance, for what the future brings is more significant.

415. At the end of October or the beginning of November 1982, Begin and Sharon will be recognised as the perpetrators of the Beirut massacres, but unfortunately they will hardly be held accountable, even if many righteous Israelis intervene against the two criminals, thus, everything remains the same for the time being.

Anwar Sadat

https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Assassination_of_Anwar_Sadat

https://www.futureofmankind.co.uk/Billy_Meier/Contact_Report_136

Semjase:

430. This assassination attempt will be committed on the President of Egypt, during a military parade, if the conditions for it do not change.

431. Sadat will be attacked and even killed on Tuesday, the 6th of October 1981 on the VIP platform of the Cairo military square of Abassija, by members of the army itself.

432. There will be 10 to 12 deaths as a result of the attack to lament over; in addition, some assassins will die by the defense forces.

433. Several diplomats and a church dignitary, who will likewise be on the very unsatisfactorily secured VIP platform, will not escape the attack and will be affected.

434. The attack will be implemented by Egyptian soldiers who are members of the "Army for the Freedom of Egypt" movement and the Muslim Brotherhood, who will also stand in the pay of the Libyan and mad ruler Gaddafi.

435. The actual origin of all of this, however, comes from Begin.

436. The mighty one of Israel, Menachem Begin, will be the actual manipulator behind the assassination of Sadat, who will believe unto death that the powerful and insidious murderer is actually a good friend, but Begin truly is not such.

437. Sadat is already too focused now on honest peace for Begin and also is not unrelenting enough for Begin's sense, so this one will have him assassinated by secret agents whom he has bought, who can work towards this undetected in the ranks of Ghaddafi as well as of the Muslim Brotherhood and the Freedom Army.

438. Ghadaffi, who is stupid, and the Muslim Brotherhood and the Freedom Army are by no means clever enough to know that secret agents purchased by Begin already exist now and have already existed for a long time in their own ranks and carry out their mischief directed by Begin.

439. Begin, who is a man full of meanness, falsehood, lies, intrigue, and murderous thoughts, must have the Egyptian president be assassinated because this one does not fit into his criminal country-domination plans.

440. Sadat, however, is still very focused and unrelenting in his blind confidence, so Begin hopes that a non-goal-oriented man will become Sadat's successor when he allows his assassination.

Billy:

Can also nothing be done to prevent all this?

Semjase:

441. An attempt with a visit would be exceptionally permitted to you if you want to do this.

442. However, you cannot change anything, so be aware of this.

443. It is always difficult for you to remain silent and to wait passively, I know.

444. But do not be disappointed.

Billy:

I will write a letter to Sadat to warn him. I just hope, then, that he also receives it.

Semjase:

445. For that, I will endeavour myself and ask Quetzal for his help because from next spring, I will be absent for some time.

446. Your visit to Sadat, however, should not take place any earlier than what is good for your safety.

447. The 28th of July 1981 would be suitable for this purpose, and your visit could be carried out unhindered.

448. I calculated this date in foresight because I know your reactions very well and wanted to present this proposal to you anyways.

449. You can then talk to the president for some time, so you do not need a letter.

450. Quetzal will be responsible for the fact that you can talk to the President for about 20 minutes undisturbed and unseen.

451. Be aware, however, that your visit to Sadat can have major consequences, for he will try to stop the unstoppable by carrying out a large-scale wave of arrests among his reachable enemies.

452. This will occur as a result of your explanations that you will give him.

Billy:

That would be very good; the assassins would then be captured before they could strike.

Semjase:

453. You are illogical because what has to happen will happen.

454. With the coming events, nothing is to change.

Billy:

Nevertheless, I would like to try this.

Semjase:

455. You know that this is impossible, but you actually must learn this yet another time, even though you know the unavoidable and unchangeable truth.

456. You are sometimes very strange in these things, even though you know much.

Billy:

I know, because for me, everything, indeed, goes too much to the kidneys. To know the future is damn hard, especially when one must remain silent about it. And besides this, damn it, I kind of like Sadat, and therefore, I feel quite windy and dishonest.

Semjase:

457. Sure, but there is nothing to change in this, unfortunately.

Billy:

I know, and that is probably how it will stay because the people on Earth will hardly change so quickly and accept the truth that changes could still be invoked, for the better, I mean.

SAETA Flight 232 plane crash

Billy:

... Ah yes, I still have a slip of paper with a question: It was on the 15th of August, 1976, an airplane disappeared in South America, which took off in a city by the name of Quito. Now, the rumour goes that the machine had been abducted by extraterrestrials, as one writes here. It is also written here, however, that there is speculation of a hijacking by a drug cartel. Do you know about what really happened with the airplane?

Quetzal:

52. Yes, the deplorable incident is well-known to us.

53. It neither concerns a hijacking of the flight apparatus by a drug cartel nor an abduction by extraterrestrials.

54. The flying apparatus crashed at nearly 6,000 metres of altitude into the volcanic mountain Chimborazo in the Andes in Ecuador.

55. There were about 60 human beings on board the flight machine, who all met death upon its crash.

Billy:

I myself thought that the abduction story is nonsense. This remains persistent, however. The proof for the crash of the airplane will probably take time, if clarity is ever created over it at all.

Quetzal:

56. That might actually be questionable because human beings will not go to the crash site of the aircraft so quickly, unless it would result by a special stroke of fate, by what means the debris would be found.

Billy:

I also think so. ...

Sahara

Ptaah:

When I think of what I read in my father's annals, that you 2 were far in the past in the times that made the Earth look different then than it is today, how my father explained to you in advance how everything would change, I am sure you remember a lot of what he explained to you.

Billy:

Of course. For example, when I compare the Sahara with what I saw with Sfath, there is no comparison to be made, because I remember what the vast area was like back then as something completely different. It was all overgrown with greenery, there was also a large primeval forest, as well as rivers and bodies of water. Back then, it looked similar to southern Africa today and was inhabited by all kinds of small and large and very large animals of many genera and species.

Semjase:

52. Only this name here is known to me, this Saint Germain; a quite malicious person, who did many things deceitfully, supposedly in order also to fulfil dangerous things for the Freemasons, through which they in turn allegedly could seize control of the world, if not, as would be falsely asserted, order had been troubled for from the other side.

53. Everything is naturally not correct, rather it is based on a pure invention of Freemason-unfriendly elements.

135. Saint Germain's real name is RAKOCZI, whereby he also assigned himself other names as, for example, Aymar or Marquis de Betmor, and so forth.

136. The name Saint Germain was only used by the adventurer in his self-appointed status as Count Saint Germain.

137. Born in the sign of Aries in the year 1711 in Collonia, you call it Cologne today, although a Portuguese origin was attributed to him.

138. He died in the year 1784 at the age of 73 years.

139. In his lifetime he was the greatest deceiver, charlatan, liar and spy, and indeed in the service and commission of a sect in Germany which was obsessed with world domination at that time.

140. He passed himself off as being a thousand years old, whereby however he was often got entangled in his own statements and so differences of up to 300 years age variation came about.

141. In and of himself he was of quite low intelligence, which he, however, through his enormous cleverness, cunning, manual skill and alchemistic knowledge, and so forth, could again offset, and even attained extraordinarily good results in slight of hand that [he] then passed off as magical powers.

142. He was subsequently named a wonder man and no one even suspected that he was the worst deceiver of his time.

143. Only a European Christian sect was oriented about this, because he was indeed a man who stood in their service and who also thereby endeavoured to take counts, princes and kings, as well as clergy and other dignitaries, into his power in order thereby to make them amenable to the sect, whose members sought, and thereby hoped, finally to realise their plans for world domination.

144. Therefore he also primarily concerned himself around the high-society of France which, in keeping with the plans of the sect, was to be the next land annexed by Germany through which already the greatest part of Europe at that time was to stand under the sect's control.

145. The initiates of the sect at the time quite consciously spun a fable-intertwined legend around Saint Germain in order to have him to appear in the light of an immortal and a master, although he did not belong as a member of the sect at all, which did not hinder him, Saint Germain, from portraying himself as master of the sect and therewith as an initiate.

146. He knew very well to expand the legend spun about him by the sect and to provide enormous fame for himself.

147. It was only thereby astonishing that the sect had actually included him in their plans, in this form, as an outsider.

148. A fact that we, from our side, also could not clarify.

149. He received quite personally, from King Frederick the Great, the awarded honorary title of an Immortal, after which Saint Germain implanted in him, [with] the power of his uncommonly high hypnotic capabilities, [the notion] that he, Saint Germain, was already 2004 years old.

150. Frederick the Great was himself not conscious of the employed hypnosis and was of the belief that he had obtained this knowledge about the age of Saint Germain through higher spirits, so also the knowledge thereby, that the 'Magican' had an immortal-making elixer at his disposal that Saint Germain also manufactured after a corresponding discussion with Frederick the Great.

151. In truth however the mixture was an evil broth (made) out of various hallucinogenic poisons and drugs, that called-forth deep euphoria.

152. Through the widespread sect he was also privy to European history from which he retained any 50 small details with his truly phenomenal memory, with which he astounded and quite terrified them that he was the best connoisseur of history and deluded them that he was, through this, all-knowing.

153. Through his uncommon shrewdness and cunning he reached also into the most intimate secrets of the various kings' families and of many other humans, that he then revealed again as 'secret knowledge' which often shifted the people into angst and terror, or allowed them to presume he had supernatural powers and capabilities.

154. Many times he obtained such intimate secrets through secret dealings with female servants, who he paid off with material things of value and with bodily love, which was not a burden for him because, on the one hand, he had at his disposal very enormous material wealth, and on the other hand, he was very sexually potent.

155. A favourite means of obtaining secrets was, however, his hypnotic capabilities that he especially brought into engagement with highly-positioned personalities, especially females, and thereby unlocked the ultimate and most intimate secrets that he then, at a later point in time, revealed to them again, after he had taken the memory of the hypnosis from them.

156. Thereby he appeared as a giant among all the magicians of the time.

157. So it was no wonder that he was raised to the position of a real master.

158. He occupied himself yet however, with many kinds of other things, so, for example, also with diamonds and with other kinds of precious stones and minerals, etc.

159. He could also produce fake gold, a chemical covering of metal that then behaved like gold.

160. And the deceived people believed, in their delusion and ignorance, that he could manufacture gold.

161. Also he knew how to purify 'contaminated' precious stones through his magic.

162. These, however, he regularly retained for a longer time because he was not able to work on them himself.

163. So he always brought them to a cousin in Holland who then 'purified' these precious stones for him, in that he ground off the cloudiness which existed in this material.

164. He asserted, or did, yet many other quite secretive things, so for example, also that he simply transmuted himself into invisibility, [which] was again, however, based on nothing other than his hypnotic powers, through which he let his observers live in the delusion that he had transmuted himself into invisibility.

165. Also he claimed to have often been in China.

166. Yet also that did not correspond to the truth, because he never left the European area.

167. When he explained again that he must now travel to China, then, in his journey, he went only to Berlin where he had to give an account of his deeds and works in the stronghold of the sects and where he then also received new orders.

168. Very astonishingly, the sect alchemists instructed him also, in these times, in alchemistic matters whereby they rejuvenated him many times, also through their best means and through small and fine facial operations, whereby he also always awoke the impression that he did not age, but rather was constantly about 40 years old.

169. This was brought about in Berlin in the stronghold of the sects of that time, but which no longer belonged to the actual mother sect, rather it was a splinter group that had established its seat there.

170. The high seat of the real mother sect was namely in Vienna, and Saint Germain also worked for that.

171. So he worked for four different masters at the same time, namely for France, for Friedrich the Great in Germany who was his best and most benevolent defender, for the splinter sect stronghold in Berlin, and for the actual mother sect stronghold in Vienna.

172. As Saint Germain died at the age of 73 his alleged immortality could only thereby be saved by the Berlin sect always again and again seeking suitable men who resembled the appearance of Saint Germain.

173. They performed fine face-alteration operations on them so that they were even more like the deceiver.

174. These (men) stepped into appearance then after his death, to appear personally as Saint Germain, after which they were instructed over long years by the sect members in all kinds of knowledge and abilities.

175. Out of these splinter sectarians then developed, in the course of time, a fanatical-religious sect that still today secretly drives its mischief and has also founded sister societies, and so forth.

176. But the founding sect has not, up to today, left off seeking out suitable men which they make compliant with horrendous amounts of money, and whose appearance resembles Saint Germain's, and that they then changed and made into "initiates" through engagement of operations on the facial characteristics and through alchemistic and magical teachings, who are, however, in truth, only better conjurers, who they then allow to present themselves as Saint Germain, and indeed until the current time.

121. ... Saint Germain, who in his present lifetime lives in Germany with a new personality as a simple fellow, although he bears the name Prince Roger de Polazki, who became his characteristic through his birth in Bohemia (Bohemia).

Jmmanuel:

118. I know, truly, that in your time the people live in the mistaken belief that I am the embodiment of Creation.

119. So then, in your time, they call me "the Anointed One" and they thereby wander far from every truth, through deep darkness engendered by belief.

...

Eduard:

But how is it now with yourself - I mean with your name?

It is indeed Jmmanuel, but in spite of that, in my time you are called "Jesus Christ". That is the way it is in the New Testament anyway.

Jmmanuel:

127. Truly, that is an evil vituperation, which is foreign to every truth.

128. Up until this point in time, in which I talk with you now, this name has never been uttered.

129. Only in a later time will it become coined by a human whose thinking will be confused.
